The South Side Times

Buy The Times—
Let's Keep The Cup

Vol. XXXVII—No. 1 | South Side High School, Fort Wayne, Indiana, Wednesday, September 3, 1958 | Price Ten Cents

Circulation Race Starts Today! Over 1200 Subscriptions Needed For First Day Of Campaign

South Fights To Keep Circulation Cup Held For Fifteen Semesters

Everybody's buying the Times!!!

This is echoing throughout the halls of South Side as school starts again.

The goal for the first day is 1,200 subscriptions. Merle Baldwin, circulation manager, says, "Everyone should subscribe to The Times the first day if possible. Then they can be sure of receiving all the issues."

Again this year South Side is racing against Central to cinch the circulation cup for the sixteenth consecutive semester. This campaign ends on September 26, and the school with the highest percentage according to their enrollment wins.

The race between The South Side Times and the North Side Northerner began in 1928 with the Central Spotlight entering in 1951. However, North Side's Northerner dropped out of the race last year.

Ellen McCarron, the outside circulation manager, is in charge of the alumni subscriptions which are $1.50 for the entire year and the other subscriptions outside the school which are $2 a year.

South Siders are able to secure subscriptions from any agent the first day for $1. After today, agents are to sell subscriptions only to their own homerooms and to outside subscribers. All homeroom agents are to meet on Wednesdays, September 10, 17, and 24, in the study hall at 3:30 p.m.

Any agent who attains the goal of a 100 per cent homeroom the first day receives extra candy bars for his homeroom. The agent who sells the greatest amount of subscriptions today receives an award of $1 and the second highest agent a reward of 50 cents. The pictures of the two highest agents and the agents who have 100 per cent homerooms on the first day will be in the second issue of the Times.

After the first day any 100 per cent homeroom will receive a candy bar for each member of the homeroom who has subscribed for the Times.

Each student will receive the first three issues of the Times without charge; however, he must subscribe for the paper by September 25 to obtain the remaining issues.

The homeroom agents are:

BUY THE TIMES NOW!—These are the words sent forth by the eager Times circulation staff. The young ladies are from left to right: Bessie Ferguson, Barb Frederick, Katie Rastetter, and Merle Baldwin, circulation manager. Merle is explaining the fundamentals of keeping their books in order. Susie Vesey, Sylvia Ehrman, Margo Dixon, Sally Gelow, and Marian McCallister were absent when the picture was taken. Music Festival Shows Draw Archer Talent

Many students and recent graduates from South Side spent much of their spare time this summer taking part in the Music Festival which was presented in the open air theater at Franke Park. "Show Boat," "Kiss Me Kate," and "Damn Yankees" were the three different shows which were presented during the season. Each production lasted two weekends and a closed performance was given the previous Thursday before each opening night.

Those who took part in "Show Boat," other than playing in the orchestra, are Molly and Margo Dixon, dancing, Sue Zollars, dancing, Ruth Ann Farlow, chorus, Dave Dunstone, stage crew, and Judy Schaefer, props.

Merle Baldwin and Gonda Rider sang in the chorus of "Kiss Me Kate," Marsha Steere and Sue Zollars danced, Kay Newell, Glenda Sharon, Sheila Sutton, and Rosie Tsintsaroff were on the painting crew, and Judy Schaefer helped with props. In the last production, "Damn Yankees," Judy Schaefer and Cheryl Habecker played minor roles, and Merle Baldwin sang in the chorus.

The following is a list of all the South Side students who played in the orchestra for one or more shows: Marylyn Sexton, Allen Steere, Gretchen Meister, Carolyn DeVore, Vicki Sheldon, Karen Good, Arnold Pierson, Dick Swager, Joyce Graue, Nancy Swaim, Geri Geller, Carol Purdy, Sheri DeYoung, Alice Houk, Linda Helms, Verene Andrews, Barbara Lewandowski, Nancy McCarron, Shelby Smith, Mary Lou Koehler, Becky Hostetler; Cindy Miller, Susan and Bethany Bond, Anne Sherbondy, Joan Motley, Mike Church, Judy Novitsky, Janice Ferber, Judy English, Sharon Sprunger, Merle Baldwin, Bonnie Riskas, Kay Keiffer, Nancy Burton, Carol Downhour, Linda Jones, Tom Cooper, Dave Dunstone, John Nagel, John Richardson, Mike Collins, Dave Seaman, Dave Dill, Dave Crapo, Mickey McClead, Judy Christman, accompanist, and Emily Bailey, dance accompanist.

Dwight Flowers, trombone, Judy Cook, flute, Nancy Zeiler, cello, and Stanley Green, bass, are recent graduates who also played in the orchestra.

Other students volunteered but for various reasons were unable to play because the shows did not call for their instruments, or their vacation schedules did not correspond with production or rehearsal dates.

Of all the city schools, South Side had the largest representation. Students from North Side, Central Catholic, and Central were also represented along with various colleges and universities.

New Frosh Invited To Times Meeting

A Times meeting is scheduled for 3:30 p.m. in the Times Room Friday, September 5, for those who are interested in newspaper work; a special invitation is extended to the new freshmen to attend this meeting.

New Books, Rental Prices Set, Listed

Pupils may either rent or buy books today. Books will be rented from teachers or may be purchased from Miss Charlene Elder in the bookstore at the south entrance to the gym.

Rental cards will be given to each student by his homeroom teacher. In turn, the student will present this card to each teacher renting him a book and require that teacher's signature on the card. These rental cards will be collected in the second homeroom period.

Below is a list of books, rental prices, and sale prices for this semester.

Florence Emshwiler

Alfred Hemmer

Laverne Harader

(Additional pictures will be on Page 7)

Education Backgrounds, New Aides, Experiences Present Much Variety

Fourteen new teachers have been added to South Side's faculty this fall. Three of the new teachers, Mr. Thomas Compton, Mr. George Davis, and Mr. Laverne Harader, are alumni of South Side. Mr. Harader and Mr. Louie Hull taught here previously.

Mr. Compton, Mr. Harader, Mrs. Florence Emshwiler, and Miss Ann Arber have joined the English Department; Mr. Alfred Hemmer and Miss Anita Schaeffer, the Social Studies Department; Mr. Davis, Mr. Nicholas Pipino, and Mr. Richard Sage, the Science and Mathematics Department; Mr. Leon Smith, the Art Department; Mrs. Anne Redmond, the Latin Department; Mr. Kenneth Yager, Industrial Arts; and Mr. Charles P. Holt, Physical Education.

THE SCHOOL is welcoming back Mr. Hull, who was a member of South Side's original faculty in 1922. He received his B.S. degree at Central College in Danville, Ind., and went on to receive an A.B. degree from Indiana University. In 1951 he retired from teaching, but now he is coming back to replace Mr. Richard Buzzard, who is studying on his master's degree at Washington University, St. Louis.

A man of varied interests, Mr. Hull enjoys many hobbies. Gardening and fishing are two of his summertime activities. During the winter Mr. and Mrs. Hull have traveled widely throughout this country, Canada, and Mexico.

He did some experiments with a cloud chamber and was asked to write an article about it for the Scientific American. The article brough several inquiries from interested students of science. Another article should be coming out soon pertaining to the new developments he has uncovered.

Mr. Hull was asked to take up Civil Defense work with 10 other people and enjoyed working out problems concerning atomic radiation and fallout. This gave him a chance to brush up on his calculus.

MR. NICHOLAS PIPINO, our new chemistry and general biology teacher, was graduated with high honors. In 1949, he received his A.B. and in 1956 his M.S. He taught school at Rome City, Rolling Prairie, Clinton Township, and the last two years at Churubusco, Ind.

In high school he worked on the school paper and was in the Senior Honor Society. In college he was a member of Kappa Delta Pi, the educational honorary, and Ceres, the agriculture honorary fraternity. His students at Churubusco won awards in agriculture in both the state and national contests. Mr. Pipino collects herbarium and entomology specimens as a hobby. During the depression he was in the Civilian Conservation Corps. After serving in Iwo Jima, he received a battle star from the Army.

MR. DAVIS, '52, will teach chemistry and math. He received his A.B. degree from Hanover College in 1956. Last year Mr. Davis had classes at both North and South Side.

By taking this position, Mr. Davis has become the third member of his family associated with South Side. His father, Ora Davis, is guidance director, and his younger sister Becky is a student in the sophomore class. He is interested in almost all types of music and has a wide and varied collection of over 100 long-playing records. Mr. Davis is affiliated with Gamma Sigma Pi honorary fraternity, and received several chemistry awards. At present he is completing work on his master's degree.

Mr. Sage was graduated from Goshen High School in 1949, and attended Rose Polytechnical Institute in Terre Haute until 1952. In 1958 he received his B.S. degree from Indiana State Teachers College. Mr. Sage was in the Navy during the Korean War and saw Japan, Europe, and South America.

His spare time is spent dabbling in hi-fi and electronics. At college he was assistant director of men's housing. This is Mr. Sage's first teaching position; however, he worked in the Research Development Lab at Farnsworth Electronics for one year.

MISS SCHAEFFER is an alumnus of Muncie Central High School and she received her A.B. degree in 1958 and was graduated with the highest average in her class. This past spring semester she spent in Washington, D.C., on an internship to study government. She worked with Congressman Harvey and attended congressional committee meetings. She met and saw many people and high government officials. A high point was attending the early debates on Alaskan statehood.

In high school Miss Schaeffer was a member of National Honor Society and had the honor of attending Girls' State. In college she belonged to Pi Gamma Mu, a social science honorary fraternity.

Program Given For First Day, Helpful Rules For Pupils Listed

1. The program for the day will be:

8:05- 8:35	Homeroom	9:55-10:15	4th
8:40- 9:00	1st	10:20-10:40	5th
9:05- 9:25	2nd	10:45-11:05	6th
9:30- 9:50	3rd	11:10-11:30	7th

11:35 ..... Second Homeroom Period

ALL PUPILS MUST ATTEND THE SECOND HOMEROOM PERIOD! Announcements of beginnings and ends of periods will be made by means of the P.A. System.

2. Program cards are to be taken to the rooms as indicated and are to be signed by the teacher in charge.
3. All program cards must be returned to the teacher in the second homeroom period.
4. a. During the lunch periods, pupils must go to the gymnasium and remain there.
   b. During the study periods, pupils must go to their seats in study hall.
   c. Gymnasium pupils must report to the physical education directors office to have their cards signed.
   d. The health teachers will be in the gymnasium during the gym periods. Pupils taking health will have their cards signed by both gym and health teachers.
5. NO PROGRAM WILL BE CHANGED UNLESS AN ERROR HAS BEEN MADE!!
6. During your homeroom period FILL ALL BLANKS ON THE PROGRAM CARD!!
7. Lockers will be issued during the second homeroom period in all homerooms. These should be secured the first day. None will be issued again until Friday evening of the first week. These will be issued at that time in Room 114 from 3:25-4:00.
8. Pupils who live outside the city limits, or whose parents live outside the city limits, must bring transfers. These should be in the office by Friday of this week.
9. Pupils who do not have glee club, orchestra, or band on their cards, and who want to take one or all of these subjects, should see the music department in Room 50. Periods for these subjects can be arranged only if the pupil has a vacant period at the proper time.
10. Attention of all pupils is called to the method of handling absence excuses. For absence excuses, pupils will report to the attendance office. A written excuse giving the date or dates of absence, and the reason, and signed by a parent or guardian, must be brought by a pupil after an absence. Admit slips will be issued on presentation of the excuses.
11. Arrangements can readily be made to secure books for those pupils who cannot secure their own at the present time. Students who want to help in securing their texts should take their lists to Room 104 between 1:00-2:00 today.
12. Students who want lockers furnished them are to get an approval in Room 104 the second day of the semester. Lockers will be issued in the office on presentation of this approval.

South Gets Girls' Gym, Cafeteria Conveniences

New cafeteria conveniences and a girls' gym will be two of the many features contained in the new addition, which is attached to the South Side building at the northeast corner.

Made of steel, cement, cement blocks, and brick, the addition will also house a mechanical drawing shop, varsity locker room and exercise room. The present shop wing has also been completely rebuilt during the summer in order to provide better facilities for students in which to work.

Started before the close of school, the shops and athletic section of the $500,000 structure are to be completed two weeks after school starts, and the girls' gymnasium and the cafeteria around the beginning of the year.

Another feature of the new addition, but one which is also included in the old building, is that of a new heating system which contains oil burning furnaces.

In talking about the new addition, Mr. Snider ended by saying, "The contractor has his work schedule well organized, and construction would have been farther along if the rain had not hindered working time.

"The girls' gymnasium will make it possible to have smaller classes instead of previous large ones, and the new cafeteria will take care of the needs of 600 people, while the old cafeteria could only accommodate a much smaller number."

General Science Offered This Year

General science is a new course which has been added to South Side's school curriculum. The class will be in Room 24 and is not a laboratory science.

The course can be taken by freshmen and sophomores who desire one year of science but feel they cannot fulfill the requirements of a laboratory science.

Glen Stebing New Head Of Physical Ed. Fraternity

Phi Epsilon Kappa, professional physical education fraternity for men, recently announced the election of Glen Stebing, South Side's driving instructor, as fraternity president.

Carpet Rolled Out To All Freshmen; Upperclassmen Advise Much Study

Freshmen seem to agree that the most impressive thing about South Side is that it is "pretty big." Evert Mol, a new freshman, born in Venlow, Holland, is one who agrees on this point and adds that all things in the United States seem large to him after living eight years in Holland.

"The curriculum at South Side is a considerable change from the schools in Holland," stated Evert, "since in Holland all public schools are run by the government, and most children attend private schools. There are few public schools, and the private ones are on the order of parochial schools in the United States, requiring a tuition fee."

The activities most intriguing to Evert seem to be Wranglers and sports writing for The Times. He is an eager sports fan and also enjoys Rock 'n' Roll. Oddly enough, he said Holland has the Rock 'n' Roll "bug," too.

He admitted that the thing he feared most at South was initiation. Unlike many freshmen, Evert does not need to worry about grades; but Susie Hoard, a junior, remainds one that, even though the work may not seem to be difficult at first, her advice to all freshmen is, "Study!"

Susie further cautions that "the work is just as hard as you make it." Besides school work, Susie is kept busy with many extra-curricular activities: 36 Workshop, Wranglers, The Times, and president of Junior Red Cross. "Even if you are under pressure," she says, "keep smiling and make the most of your four years in high school. They run out at a faster rate than you expect, and the shortest year is your first."

Bob Mann, a recognized senior, says that freshmen should join clubs and enter into activities but should not make them the main point. Clubs can be very useful by introducing you to many students with the same interests and abilities as yours. Bob is vice-president of Hi-Y and a member of Math-Science, 36 Workshop, and Intramural. He also was on the Junior Class Social Council.

Bob thinks the work at South Side is not hard, but, speaking from experience, he says, "All study periods should be used wisely."

WELCOME TO OUR SCHOOL—The very dubious young man at the far right is Evert Mol, 9B. The gentleman greeting him is Bob Mann, dressed as a senior should be. Rolling out the welcome mat is Marilyn Taylor, freshman of last year. Holding the door for the incoming freshman is Susie Hoard, junior.

Another ex-freshman, sophomore Marilyn Taylor, feels she remembers more vividly the joys and woes of a "green freshman" than any senior or junior. Her friendly advice is from the unpleasant part of her first confusing days in high school. "Learn the fundamentals the first day; don't wait till the second day because before you know it you'll be more than one day behind. Start studying and learning at the beginning rather than waiting till you think you are ready —keep it up constantly."

Besides working intently on homework, Marilyn spends a lot of time in Meterites and the Safety Council. Marilyn says, "I really want to do other extra work in different clubs so I can be with some other of my friends and meet some new ones, but I need to spend most of my time on studies."

To all freshmen we wish "good luck" and "have fun," but above all, be a citizen that South Side will be proud to claim.

Sunshine

All journalists who showed up at the first Times staff meeting.

The kids who attended record hops at Bledsoe's and Cold Springs.

Girls who wear chemises despite their boy friend's protests.

Archers who buy their Times subscriptions the first day.

Pupils who don't have to borrow pen and paper the first day.

Swimmers and lifeguards who participated in the City Swimming and Diving Meet at McMillen Park.

The new Ivy Shag sweaters.

Archers who went all summer without getting traffic tickets.

Showers

Archers (two in particular) who didn't get in their entry blanks for the swim meet on time.

Litterbugs.

Square dance attendants who didn't dance.

Those who got ornery at the numerous house parties this summer.

Loafers.

South Siders who get a police escort out of Hall's.

Summer school pupils who skipped and got off with just a dollar fine.

People who failed to get their correspondence finished before the postage increase.

Freshmen! Start Right, Aim Toward A Goal At Start Of Semester

A huge, imposing building, its halls lined with sly seniors eager to advise freshmen on any matter, and a never-ending corridor which seems to lead only in circles; these are the sights which greet you, the new freshman, entering South Side on that fateful first day.

Armed with a great deal of courage and a smattering of advice from those already in high school concerning subjects and teachers you enter with a look of timid joy to begin a new phase in your career of education. This phase can give you endless hours of joy and happiness and which can turn the next four years into the best years of your life.

As you prepare to embark on this exciting career, chart your course by first setting a goal and constantly striving to work toward it. By "Hitching your wagon to a star" and combining determination with confidence in yourself, you will be able to reach what you have set out to do.

A good education is the destination for which you are heading, and good study habits play an important part in reaching this goal. Daydreaming in class, putting daily assignments aside until the last possible moment, and working with complete dependence on someone else are habits which are wise to avoid. By diligent concentration in class and complete independence outside of class, any pupil can soon learn to be a student.

"All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy" and no one enjoys burying his nose in a book all the time. To avoid being a bookworm, participate in some of the many extra-curricular activities which South Side has to offer. Choose clubs which appeal to you the most and which will give you the most satisfaction. Avoid spreading yourself too thin by joining only one or two clubs. Devote your time and energy entirely to them and you will find that they will seem more worthwhile to you.

By developing enthusiasm for everything you attempt and by cooperating with those around you, your four years of high school will surely reward and give you a sound basis for the years after your graduation.

Help Win The Race; Buy The Times Today

What's black and white and read all over? The South Side Times, of course!

With summer ending it's time to get back into the swing of things at school . . . time to buy The Times, today.

Newcomers will appreciate this informative means of getting acquainted with their new surroundings.

If you don't have the least notion where Room 104 is or have circled the halls three times and still not located Room S, don't risk being guided by an upperclassman. Simply glance over the Times' pages and examine the school's floor plan, printed for your convenience.

Articles, concerning the various school clubs, which explain the purpose of and give a brief outline of activities are beneficial to any prospective member.

The calendar of coming events places a week's schedule in black and white for easy reference.

Veterans especially will welcome news and features about school chums they haven't seen since June.

Archers from freshmen through seniors will delight in the fads and jokes presented in The Times.

Be a spark in conversation of teen news and views, while supporting your school's chances for winning the circulation cup. Now is the time to buy The Times!

Don't Be A Litterbug

Presenting a slightly distorted face, Joe turned around and faced his buddies after taking a drink at the water fountain, his nose smeared with wads of chewing gum. This picture is, of course, exaggerated a wee bit, but the general outline is basic truth.

The fountains at South are being littered with gum, candy, wrappers and the like, and what are the students doing about it? Nothing! Halls are strewn with notebook paper discarded by "Junior", who doesn't want his doting parents to see his algebra grade.

If everyone would make it his duty to be a one-man clean-up committee, think of the drastic change which would overtake South Side. Students wouldn't be ashamed to take visitors around school and could point with pride to their halls.

The writer isn't saying that South Side is quite as bad as the aforementioned, but nothing but the best is good for South's ivy covered halls! So let's do something about it! Agreed!!

The Ninth Month

S—adly the students return to their usual routine of doing homework. The nights we sit up until midnight thinking of English sentences for the next day's assignment and the mornings we rush to school to write our themes that are due for the day, remind us of going back to school and the month of September.

E—nd of summer activities. All the lake parties and sports that we all enjoyed so much during the summer end in September. The days we hopped in a convertible and drove to the lake and those we decided to play nine holes of golf are the days that must end at the beginning of September.

P—eeling of summer sunburns. Oh, to think that the beautiful summer sun tan you wanted to come back to school with has peeled away. Oh well, maybe next year.

T—iring events of books and lockers for the experienced scholars. Sophomores, juniors, and seniors alike dislike the same routine of giving out books and lockers year after year, but for the freshmen this is something new and different.

E—rnest incoming freshmen excitedly await classes. They can't wait until their classes and club activities start. They are eager for sports and outside activities.

M—emories of summer picnics and swimming parties. Remember the smell of the roasted hot dogs and melted marshmallows we had on our picnics and how wonderful the water felt on that eighty degree day when we went to the lake.

B—ack to school. Going back to school isn't so bad, just think of the new clothes and shoes. September means football games and social events that we can participate in once again.

E—arly to rise. Oh! No more getting up at noon. Remember! Early to bed, early to rise, makes a man healthy, wealthy, and wise.

R—estless students await the football season. The cool nights in October bring to mind the football games. Don't forget the heavy coats and blankets we must haul back and forth in order to keep warm. The after-game dances we all look forward to.

Archer Traditions; To Help New Frosh

Here is a tip for all the freshmen about the traditions around South Side.

Many events have been carried on through the years. These traditions will be carried on by you and your fellow classmates for years to come.

This fall there will be big football games. Win or lose all of South Side should be there rooting our team on to victory.

Before class time most people meet in center hall to catch up on the latest news around school.

Then it is to the gym during the noon hour after you have had a snack at Miller's. Remember, there is no eating in the gym or around school, only in the cafeteria. Rough-housing is definitely not permitted in the gym.

Many Archers go to the Times Room at lunch time to check a story in or out. A caution is extended to all because Patsy, Miss Rowena Harvey's dog, doesn't let any loafers in the door.

If you want to get someplace fast at South Side just ask an upperclassman for an elevator ticket. They will be quite willing to sell you one.

The most supported and popular tradition of all is The Times. To be up on the latest news, the Times is the solution. The Times can boast that it is top in circulation out of all the city schools because it has won the circulation cup for many years.

Welcome To Frosh Extended By Senior With Helpful Hints

Dear Frosh,

Welcome to Archerland! These first few days may seem rather hectic, but you've no need to worry, for they're the worst. The rest is smooth sailing all the way. Yet during these first days you'd better heed to a few warnings. A famed tradition around South Side is that of little "greenies" being deposited upon the aqua puddles by the "almighty seniors." So if you want to be "hep" and make this week a dry one, steer clear of said aqua puddles.

It has even been fabled that a few adolescent Archers have been seen buying tickets to such things as the elevator and pep sessions . . . other shades of South Side seniors. Don't fear these upperclassmen too much though, for at heart they are only four-year-old freshmen. But it would be wise to pay them their due respect.

Enough of this "don't" jazz; on to the "do's." One of the best buys at South Side is the weekly newspaper, The Times, which incidentally has won many awards for outstanding publication and circulation. Another is the offer of season tickets which are all inclusive for sports activities. Then, too, South's yearbook, The Totem, is an invaluable purchase.

As far as study is concerned, the place to keep quiet and "get down to brass tacks" is study hall. I'm sure you'll find that if you keep up with your daily assignments, things will go much more easily.

You can get a lot of enjoyment from high school if you remember that you only get out of something that which you put in. And there you might say is the key to becoming a successful Archer. Good luck on your four-year venture. I only hope that you enjoy your four years as much as I have.

Yours truly,
A Senior

Letter To The Archers Tells Of Mates' Summer Enjoyments

South Side High School
September 3, 1958

Dear Archers,

Hi! Well, back to school again, carrying books and running ramps. Before I forget, let me tell you a few of the summer's happenings.

Some people sure have terrible luck. Dick Tipton broke his ankle while water skiing this summer. What a way to spend the summer . . . in a cast, but that'll be gone in a few weeks and he'll be back on the gridiron.

You should have seen the city swim meet. Boy, can some of our Archers ever swim! Janet Hicks, Gus Wade, Larry Brown, and Susie Rothert all set records. Speaking of Susie Rothert, I'd say she looks like a future Olympic diving star.

Molly Dixon is quite a swimming addict, in fact, she even went in swimming with all her clothes on while at church camp . . . with a little help from Hoy McConnell, of course!

THOSE CRAZY junior girls! Julie Carr, Barb Wallace, Judy Robinson, Kathy Sosinski, and Susie Carto were seen entering a theater in some pretty crazy outfits. Quite unhappy because they weren't allowed to wear burmudas to a movie, the girls put on terrible looking clothes to "show" that theater. Trust them!

Merle Baldwin and Sandra Yaggy are now great radio stars. Well not exactly, but they were on the radio. Merle and Sandra were in the orchestra for "Show Boat." One night they both showed up for the performance without their music, but after a quick call to Bonnie Riskas they located a copy of the music. Now comes the radio part. While the girls were waiting outside the stage door the WOWO roving reporter drove up and interviewed them. By this time the show began, minus the two flutists. It wasn't until an intermission that they discovered that their music was in the orchestra pit. It's a mystery as to how it got there!

MARIAN McCALLISTER really is determined to learn a one and one-half front flip off a high diving board, and she's got swollen, black and blue legs to prove it!

The knitting craze has really hit Fort Wayne. Many girls spent their hot summer days knitting wool sweaters. That's a switch!

Miss Rowena Harvey, Times adviser, had squirrel trouble this summer. Her apple, peach, and pear trees were all raided constantly by squirrels. These were quite particular squirrels, eating only the inside of the peaches and the seeds of the pears, but they did eat the whole apple!

A new flag replaced "Old Glory" at Indiana University during the High School Journalism Institute. Janet Hicks' pajamas were strung up! Quite a change there!

Sally Burton found Marshall Field's in Chicago rather large, in fact, she got lost there!

Other Archers occupied their time with golf, tennis or just worked, but now everyone is ready to hit the books.

Well, I really must go now . . . . Write soon!

Choosing Hall Of Education Is Challenge Offered To All Pupils

The yellow brick building on South Calhoun sat around all summer long just waiting for us to return this fall. Its doors are now open and inside is a challenge. Unlike this building, through which many seniors have passed, this challenge will not sit around and wait. This is not the characteristic of a challenge.

As we walk into the doors coming from a summer of leisure time and funfest, we see two halls. These two halls each seem to have a message. One of them says, "Come with me and walk down this hall. If you do I promise that you will be able to just get by in high school. You don't want to make good grades. You want to have fun. That is what high school is for. I will show you the way to gay times and parties. Anyone knows that a party is certainly more interesting than a stuffy school banquet. I will show you the way to really live."

NOW THE other hall seems to have a message also. Its tone is not so loud and not so easy to hear but it is saying something. Let's listen. "Please come with me. The way is not easy but it is the most rewarding. The work is hard but satisfying. I can not promise you gay times although you deserve some if you choose my hall. The rooms of my hall are rooms of self-discipline, wise counseling, and honesty. I can not give you your reward in parties and fun, but your reward will come. It will come in the satisfaction of knowing that you have done the best that you are able to do, that you have gained in knowledge and stature so you may better the world of today. I promise you that this will be satisfying if you come down my hall."

Naturally, if you are a teenager of today you will be drawn between these two decisions. Let us look at the situation closer. If you choose the first hall, you will have fun. Many people are selfish enough to enjoy self pleasure and merriment. They do not care about Tom, or Joe or Henry. They feel they couldn't make life better for themselves or anyone else so why try? They will also tell you not to set your standards high because someone else will come and knock them down. Don't listen to them. They are cowards whom you can help, but not by sticking with them. If you prove to them that they are wrong by getting out and disproving everything they said, then they will come to you for advice.

Contrary to the thought of many people the right to a college education is not included in the Declaration of Independence along with life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. It is a privilege that comes to you through hard work and self sacrifice. If you decide to walk down the hall of hard work sometimes you will feel that you are alone but don't stop. Each step will be a little easier. Soon the hall will be bright and there in self-sacrifice you will find fun, as you will then know that because you are working up to capacity you are making the way easier for others. Which hall will you walk down this fall?

Welcome To Frosh; Good Luck To All

This is the day when you freshmen come
To face the new life you are in,
This is the day when you pour in our doors,
Coming to conquer and win
A place for yourselves in old South Side High,
And whatever your interests or goals,
We want to welcome you
And hope you succeed in your roles.
We hope you'll be happy here with us,
But part of the task is yours, too;
Don't be discouraged, keep smiling,
And good luck to all of you.

Special Rules Given To Aid All Archers

The following suggestions will be helpful for all South Siders. It will be beneficial to all Archers if they review these rules:

You will want to buy our school paper, the South Side Times.

If you have a free period during fifth, the gym is open to all Archers who wish to visit their friends.

You will want to join some of the school's many clubs.

If you ride your bike to school, park it in the bicycle court.

No running is allowed in the halls.

If you are absent bring an excuse to Mrs. Stuart in the study hall.

If you want to leave school for dentist appointments, etc., arrange an out-pass with Miss Van Gorder.

If you wish to see the doctor you must get a pass from your second period class teacher. The doctor will be in Room 104.

Lost and found articles will be taken care of in Room 104.

No one may leave the building until lunch hour without permission from Miss Van Gorder.

If you have lunch during fourth period, you may not enter the building until the beginning of fifth period.

During fifth period you may enter or leave any time you wish.

There is a five-minute break in which you may get to your next class.

When the bell rings for the beginning of class you must be in your seat or you will be considered tardy. You will probably be given an eighth period if you are not in your seat.

Eighth periods usually last from 3:20 to 4 p.m.

If you want to make a change in your schedule, see Mr. Snider in the General Office.

Summer Ends; Schools Begins

School was out and we were glad,
It had been the best year we'd had;
But now it was time to take a rest,
To live again and gain some zest.

A summer swim, a moonlight ride,
A golden tan we took in pride;
We were happy, our hearts were high,
But soon the month of June passed by.

July and August went just as fast;
We found a love, our heart we cast,
But a summer love does not last long
For it is like a summer song.

The humid summer rolled around,
We knew that soon we'd be school bound;
But we thought of this with no regret
For with ourselves we'd made a bet.

That this year our goals we would set high,
And no matter how hard anyone would try;
We'd not let our goals be knocked down
For it was success for which we were bound.

I am no poet, I can not rhyme,
Don't ask me how I did these lines;
But all I wanted to point out,
Was that competition in any bout;
Before you fight please have a brand:
Fight fair and square and do the best you can!

Unusual Summer Changes Activities

Rain, rain go away,
Come again another day,
This poor Archer wants to play . . .

The rain and cool weather have made this summer an unusual one. Summer is usually thought of as a time of sunshine. This summer was certainly an exception.

The rain cancelled baseball games, golf, and tennis dates. There has not been a week that it has not rained. As a result of this weather the movie theaters certainly had an increase of ticket sales.

Usually, one needs only a sheet to keep warm in summer, but it has been necessary to use blankets because of the cold.

As a result of the rain the tristates are decked out in Archer green.

Well, maybe next summer the sun will shine and Archers may participate in more activities.

Archers Advise Incoming Frosh

Most teenagers don't go through four years of high school without learning something of a helpful nature. It may range from the useful to the ridiculous. These, then, are the comments offered by our own loyal Archers.

Marc Spealman: Don't fall in love with the underclassmen; save it for the seniors.

Jim Webb: Bring lipstick and shoe polish—always.

Gerry George: Stay home.

Don Mosure: Listen to all seniors and don't worry about a thing.

Nick Miller: Keep your hair short, your pants up, and your nose clean.

Danny Payne: Keep away from the elevator, and don't advertise those yellow cards.

Marilee Young: Be friendly with everyone and don't stick to one group.

Carole Fischer: One thing—go in the opposite direction the seniors tell you, when you ask your way.

Bill VanBuskirk (Continentals): Don't do what I did—change schools.

Jack Lehman: Stay out of trouble.

Ken Howe: Boost the teams.

Kathy Bricker: Be wise and study hard because it will pay during the last years.

Howard Berrier: Keep away from upperclassmen.

Win Moses: Be careful.

Suzi Carto: Stay away from those elevators.

Fran Hoffman: Watch those seniors and keep those yellow cards hidden.

Posy Weilmann and Pam Holtzberg: Be like us and be complete flops.

Cindy Hart: Be good and stay out of trouble.

Dianne Junk: Be sure to remember to put fresh, leafy vegetables in your lockers for the rats daily.

Teachers Attend Summer Classes

Who said teachers don't go to school? Students are not the only ones that go to school; teachers do, too. Some Archer teachers have furthered their schooling this summer by working on extra degrees.

There are many different kinds of degrees. Two of these degrees being the Master's and the Bachelor's. Several of the teachers at South Side have been working on their Masters' degrees. One of these teachers is Mr. Robert Storey. Mr. Storey has been working on his Master's degree in the field of speech. He attended Indiana University this summer for the long term session which lasted about three months.

Another teacher that has gone to school this summer is Mr. Raymond Quance. Mr. Quance received his Master's degree in the field of industrial arts. He attended Ball State Teachers' College for the first summer term which lasted five weeks.

Mr. Thomas Polite also worked on his Master's degree. He attended Ball State Teachers' College.

Mr. Richard Bussard is another teacher that worked on an extra degree during the summer.

Guidance Directors, Principal Welcome Frosh; Offer Suggestions For Successful Year

Miss Pauline VanGorder

Greetings to the freshmen and to other newcomers to the South Side High School.

To have the opportunity of attending a school like South Side is a privilege of which anyone should be proud. The school offers an excellent program of studies. It is staffed by competent teachers, and the student body is extremely friendly. What you as an individual get from South Side depends largely on what you put into it.

My best wishes to each of you for a happy and successful semester. If I can help you in any way, please come to my office, Room 104.

Pauline Van Gorder

R. Nelson Snider

South Side High School extends a hearty welcome to all new students and faculty members. Our enrollment and faculty are increasing at a rapid rate. Over 2,100 students and faculty members will work together in our building this year. By January we hope to have all our new buildings available for our program and activities. Until that time we may be inconvenienced because of slightly crowded conditions. If all members of our school will work co-operatively we can handle the situation satisfactorily. I hope everyone enjoys, and profits from, the many fine associations in our school.

R. Nelson Snider

Ora Davis

The Guidance Department wishes to welcome all new students. We want you to become acquainted with the services which we offer and are eager that you avail yourself of these services.

We are here to help you in any way we can. Feel free to come to the Guidance Office with any of your problems.

If you expect others to be friendly to you, you must be friendly yourself. If you expect the school to give you a richer life, you must in turn be loyal to its standards, rules, and traditions.

Ora M. Davis

School Board Explains Its Members' Duties

The Board of School Trustees for the Fort Wayne Community Schools is made up of seven members, five of whom are appointed by the mayor of Fort Wayne. These five include Mr. Willard Shambaugh, an attorney who is president of the board; Attorney Gordon Reeves, who is a vice-president and general counsel for Lincoln National Life Insurance Company; the board secretary, Mrs. W. C. Rastetter, Jr.; treasurer, Mr. W. E. Bodeker; and Mr. Charles E. Slater of General Electric, who was just recently appointed to the board.

The two remaining board members, Mr. Eugene Yergens and Mr. Mario Funari, are appointed by trustees and advisory boards of the townships which together with the city of Fort Wayne make up the Fort Wayne Community Schools. These townships are Washington, Wayne, and St. Joseph.

Although Mr. A. T. Lindley is not an actual member of the board, he is the principal administrative officer of the Fort Wayne Community Schools.

The School Board meets regularly on the second and fourth Tuesdays of each month in the Administration Building, which is opposite Central High School. Their meetings are always open to the public. Board members are appointed for four years in a rotating manner, and there is no limit to the number of times one may be reappointed.

The members of the board are actually officers of the state of Indiana because public education is the responsibility of the state and part of the money for support of schools in Fort Wayne comes from the state taxes. Therefore, the School Board is responsible to both the city of Fort Wayne and the state of Indiana.

The main responsibility of the board is to plan for the education of the school children of Fort Wayne. This includes hiring a superintendent, which is one of the most important functions of the board; planning and making contracts for the remodeling and building of schools; and preparing a budget which will provide sufficient money for operating a school system.

The Fort Wayne School Board is responsible for making decisions of policy; the administration, which consists of Mr. Lindley and his staff, is responsible for the actual running of the schools. This includes the hiring of teachers, the planning of classes, and the setting of school boundaries.

Library Rules Are Announced

Thursday, September 4, the library will be opened for the use of students, Miss Willodeen Price, librarian, has announced. Each morning the library will open at 7:50 and close at 4 p.m. Students may use the library during their study period if they remain there all period. The library is closed every fifth period.

Any sophomore, junior, or senior girl interested in working in the library should see Miss Price.

The following rules for use in the library have been set up and are to be followed by students in the library:

1. When a student comes to the library for a study period, he should obtain a slip from the librarian and find his table from the number stamped on the slip.
2. Students should remain in their seats until the bell rings and the slips are collected.
3. Pupils should carry their books so that they may be inspected at the door when leaving the library.
4. The name and homeroom should be given when having a book checked out.
5. Home reading books may be checked out any time during the day for two weeks; reference books may be taken out over night and are not checked out until after school.
6. Books may be reserved by leaving a request at the desk.
7. Library books not returned before 8:25 a.m. of the day they are stamped due, are charged with a five-cent fine.
8. If a book becomes overdue, a notice will be sent to the student the day after the book is due. Notices of unpaid fines are given out on Tuesday. These fines must be paid by Wednesday morning.
9. Pupils who wish to be excused from paying fines on overdue books because of absence, should show their absence slips when they return the book.
10. Students are not to come to the library unless they are going to use some of the books or reference material in the library.

Many Extra Activities Offered To All Interested Archers

South Side offers many clubs and activities for the freshmen besides for the upperclassmen.

The Times, headed by Miss Rowena Harvey, tells a weekly story of the "goings on" at South.

For students interested in speech, Wrangler is their answer. It meets on the first and third Monday of every month. Mr. Robert Story is the sponsor.

Service Club offers a chance for students to work for various teachers.

Junior Academy of Science is designed to maintain the interest of students in science and to provide guidance for them. It is divided into two sections—Math Section and Biology-Conservation. Mr. Don Weaver and Mr. Richard Bussard advise the Math Section. Mr. Robert Weber advises the Biology Section. Both sections combine for a meeting once a month.

Meterites is a junior literary club designed to help the girls use their own talents in poetry, plays, and short stories. It is advised by Miss Susan Peck.

U.S.A. is a Y-Teen Club to help girls be tolerant of other races and to grow spiritually. The club is advised by Mrs. Marcia Hays and Miss Lutie Young. It meets the second and fourth Thursdays.

Girls' and Boys' Rifle Club is designed to teach the members care and safety of firearms. Girls' Rifle Club meets every Tuesday and is sponsored by Mrs. Mildred Luse and Mr. Clarence Murray. Boys' Rifle Club meets every Monday and is sponsored by Mr. Stephen Berg and Mr. Robert Johnson.

The home economics club, Vesta, is designed to teach the members the finer points of homemaking. It meets on the second and fourth Wednesdays.

Under the guidance of Mr. Jack Weicker, the members of Know-Your-City learn new facts about our city. It meets on the second fourth Tuesdays.

36 Workshop is responsible for the fine assemblies at Thanksgiving, Christmas, and Easter. It meets every second and fourth Tuesday. The sponsors are Miss Lucy Osborne, Mr. William Applegate, and Mr. Marvey Knigge.

The purpose of Red Cross is to help people by learning the ways of kindness, by caring, sharing, and reaching out to others around the world. It is sponsored by Mr. John Arnold. It meets on the second and fourth Wednesdays.

The members of Visual Ed. Club operate the machines in their free periods. The club is supervised by Mr. Ernest Walker.

The Camera Club is designed to bring students who are interested in photography and let them exchange ideas. It meets on second and fourth Wednesdays and is advised by Mr. Walker.

The members of the Library Club, under the guidance of Miss Wilodeen Price, help to carry on work in the library.

South Side is one of the four high schools in the United States to undertake the building of a cyclotron. The Cyclotron Club meets every second and fourth Tuesday to work on it.

Art Club consists of students who are interested in the different medias of art. It is sponsored by Miss Ruth Fleck and meets on the second and fourth Wednesdays.

The Booster Club is a big part of the athletic events at South, for they are in charge of refreshments.

Archers Attend I.U. Music Clinic

Indiana University buzzed with activity from July 3-13, a normal week for the average person, but a special treat for those who attended the Music Clinic which was in session on the campus at Bloomington.

Among the many students hustling from one class to another were four South Side students, Anne Sherbondy, Carolyn DeVore, Vicki Sheldon, and Karen Good. Having as much fun as a "barrel of monkeys," the four girls all had scholarships which had enabled them to attend the clinic.

Anne had a full scholarship which is offered by a fine arts sorority, and Carolyn, Vicki, and Karen had half scholarships which they had received by being among the first 75 string players to apply to attend the clinic.

Two bands, an orchestra, and a choir were the musical groups from which the students were able to choose. The orchestra group, under the direction of Paul Schneider, Chicago, had sectional practice early in the morning which was followed by full orchestra which lasted until noon.

In the afternoon orchestra members had an hour and a half of sight reading, which, on the last three days, was followed by practicing in the big auditorium for the final concert which was given in front of an audience of parents.

The band, under the direction of Dr. Ronald Gregory from Bloomington, was divided into two groups, the cream and the crimson. Those in the crimson group were also in the choir and the persons in the cream group belonged to the orchestra. Conducting classes were a part of the agenda for the choir, followed by a full rehearsal in the afternoon. Eugene Bayless, head of the choral department at I.U., was choir director for the clinic.

Evenings were planned for the students and during this time they had a chance to hear many musical groups. The first two nights, mixer parties were sponsored. On following nights the students attended an operetta, "Roberta," heard the American Woodwind Quintet, and "sat through" a recital and a talent show by the students.

Thursday night a group of girls, South Side included, explored the dormitory where they were staying as the group which had been scheduled for that night missed their plane. Some of the boys in the group had their own dance band; consequently, a dance was held last night of the clinic.

Lights were supposed to be out by 11:30 every night, but when a group of students get together . . . well! A fairly lenient counselor is always an asset, of course, and the music teachers from public schools in Indiana were no exception. To sum it all up one girl mentioned, "We had a wonderful time, and I've never had so much fun in all my life."

Help Wanted; See Head Of Cafeteria

The cafeteria will be open only to teachers today. Tomorrow it will be available for the use of students. Girls wishing to obtain jobs are to contact Miss Lucy Mellen who is in charge of cafeteria operations, today.

Archers To Clash With Anderson On Friday In Opener

Squad Green But Eager, Says Coach

Gernand Has No Men Back From Last Year's First-String Starters

Next Friday an eager and aggressive Archer football squad will invade foreign territory as they meet an equally capable Anderson team at Anderson.

Both teams were hit hard by graduation as Anderson lost 10 starters and South Side lost all 11 of its first string.

Coach Gernand does not have a single starter back from last season; therefore, he will be doing plenty of pre-game experimenting in order to find a hard-working group of starters.

ALTHOUGH this year's line will be smaller than that of the previous season, it will be considerably faster. Coach Gernand hopes to use this speed to good advantage by teaching his linemen to get the jump on the opposition.

The new backfield will be larger than that of last year; and if Bill Meyer is able to play on a troublesome knee, it will also be amply fast.

Anderson, coached by Jim Carter, will most likely have a bigger line than the Archer team. However, South should be able to contain this heavier line by using their speed to beat them to the punch.

ONE PROBLEM Coach Gernand will probably be concerned with is a lack of reserve power. Anderson, on the other hand, begins football in the fifth grade, which gives that city ample time to develop a strong reserve force of players.

Coach Gernand, who has a fine group of juniors and sophomores to work with, is not only concentrating on this season but also on next year. Although he will be playing a lot of newcomers, he is still confident that South will have a winning season; and he feels that the Archers have a good chance of starting that winning season against Anderson.

Touch football and cross country will head the agenda for this year in the Intramurals program, which is supervised by Mr. Clair Motz. Cross country will start in about two weeks and touch football will begin as soon as enough teams are formed to begin competition.

ALL boys must fill out a parent's consent card in order to participate. In team sports, a team card must be filled out listing the team members. Both of these cards are now available in the intramural office.

Teams are formed in three weight divisions:

Lightweight—up to 125 pounds.
Middleweight—126-145.
Heavyweight—146 and up.

School letters are earned by boys participating in Intramurals. Points are based on both participation and place of finish in a sport.

Following is the list of awards that can be earned and the corresponding number of points required:

Award	Pts.
1st Letter	125
2nd Letter	250
3rd Letter	375
Name on Gold Plaque	500
Silver Medal	625
Gold Medal	875

As always, alumni back from college report that South Side's Intramural program was appreciated when they reached college. This is because of its similarity to college programs. They suggest that more boys should avail themselves of this wonderful opportunity.

Mr. Motz had this to say on behalf of his excellent Intramural program. "Welcome to South Side for another school year and to a fine Intramural program. This year runner-up points will be given to any boy or team that reaches the championship game and is defeated; however, I personally feel that if no awards were to be given, every able-bodied boy should still take part in some of his favorite sports while in high school. Friendships are formed; sportsmanship is learned; bodies are developed; and a lot of fun is had by those who compete. Let's have 75 per cent of our student body again turning in a parent's consent card and working for an Intramural letter."

At the end of the previous school year, the golf, softball, and track meets were held in the Intramural Department. Here are the results of those meets.

The spring Intramural Golf Tourney was held at the Foster Park Municipal Golf Course on May 16 and 17. The winners were as follows:

Lightweights
1. Vaughn Correll 89
2. Dave Schwalm 91
3. Dave Timms 102

Middleweights
1. Jack Harms 86
2. John Wilks 92
3. Jim Richardson 101

Heavyweights
1. Dick Rothberg 83
2. Wendell Rose 87
3. Steve Pohl 87

The spring Intramural Softball Tourney included 21 teams and 240 boys. The winners were:

Lightweight—Grimblers, Acie Eldridge, captain.

Middleweight—Sug-a-Teens, Max VanFossen, captain.

Heavyweight—Rat Hunters, Phil Carson, captain.

The annual Intramural Track and Field Meet was held on May 19 in the South Side Stadium. A total of 10 teams and 160 boys participated. The winners and times are listed below with the Lightweight Division listed first.

220-yard Dash—Chuck Putt, 27.4. Bob King, 27.2.

880-yard Run—Mike Albersmeyer, 2:24.1. Nicky Arnold, 2:21.7.

100-yard Low Hurdles—DeWayne Trim, 14.3. Carl Johnson, 13.7.

Pole Vault—Don Eisenocher, 8-6; Ron Hay, 8-6. Steve Feustel, 8-6.

Shot Put—Steve Longenberger, 40-3. Larry Stoner, 39-11.

Mile Relay—Hard Runners (Ed Tinkler, Gary Buts, Jim Zehender, Jim Porter) 4:47.7. Fleet Foots (Bob Griffiths, Steve Matthias, John Somers, George Bennett) 4:21.5.

The overall championships were won by Bob Griffiths' Fleet Foots in the Heavyweight Division and by Dave Cormany's Hotchies in the Lightweight Division.

George Collyer

Holt To Aid Gernand In Coaching Duties

New Coach To Help Freshman Basketball, Cross Country, Track

After losing track coach George Collyer to retirement last year, the school administration was faced with the extremely difficult task of selecting a man to fill the position of the then vacated position of cross country and assistant track coach. A coach was needed also for freshman basketball, and the physical education department wanted another instructor to handle the ever-growing load of pupils.

After looking over the prospective coaches, an amicable man by the name of Charles was selected. Mr. Charles Holt, 34, is young for a man who has already coached eight years and made as big a name for himself as a coach.

After graduating from college, he accepted the coaching job at Monmouth High School in Monmouth, Ind. It took the young college grad a few seasons to develop the 150-pupil school's athletic potential.

DURING HIS seven-year stay at Monmouth, he amassed a never-to-be-forgotten record in basketball by winning 104 games while losing only 52, which is quite a feat for a small country school. But his greatest achievement at Monmouth was that in his seven years of coaching there, he won a total of four consecutive sectional basketball champions, and a regional title in 1956.

In the 1956 regionals, as many will remember, he gave all South Side fans quite a scare when his Monmouth team, led by big Norm Witte, almost stole the regional crown from under the Archers' noses.

As well as compiling a fine record in basketball, Holt performed near miracles in the other sports he coached. Not only did Holt coach four sports, but he introduced three new sports to the school. Holt rounded up all of the school's talent and developed a crack track, golf, basketball, and baseball team from scratch.

His cross country team captured two district crowns. This record is encouraging to Archer cross country fans. Since Holt did so well from scratch, he will be expected to take the experienced Archer harriers a long way.

With seven years of experience in which Holt made Monmouth respected in sports, he compiled a 15-7 record in basketball at Winchester High. Bearing his record in mind, Archer fans welcome Holt and hope that he will continue his success as an Archer coach.

Collyer Completes 20 Years Training Harriers And Thinlies

With 19 attempts history, George Collyer tried for the twentieth time with the possibilities greater than ever before. Before the 1958 track season began, Archer track enthusiasts along with Collyer were hoping and expecting '58 to be the Archers' big year in track.

After the completion of a few meets, it seemed that Collyer's dreams were no longer possible of becoming a reality; but George's patience and knowledge of the cinder sport paid off. He developed his Archers into a powerhouse in just a few short months. His 19 years of experience were put to work as he continually juggled his runners until he finally had them where they belonged. When this was achieved the Archers clicked. A once weak mile relay team gradually became the fastest in the entire state.

His squad dethroned North Side from its sectional and regional crowns to advance with a strong representation to the state finals. Then came a surprise announcement. George Collyer to step down as track coach. Collyer could not have made a more dramatic exit from the coaching ranks.

AFTER 20 YEARS of trying, it would have been a great tribute to Mr. Collyer if he could coach a team to the state championship. Experts gave the Archers only an outside chance; but the Kelly thinlies had high hopes; and then the anchor man of the fabulous mile relay team, Joe Roth, became ill with the flu.

Although still sick, Joe ran the big race and helped the Archers gain fourth place. By placing in the relay the Green and White took third place in the meet. They easily outpointed favored Terre Haute Gerstmeyer; but with 19 points were three shy of the title. Had the Kelly mile squad placed two places higher, the '58 cinder cup would be in South's trophy case.

Collyer had three other boys participating in the state meet. Dan Howe placed in two events. He captured the low hurdles and was a close second in the high barriers. Jim VaChon, who established a new school shot-put record, failed to place in his event. Rich Miller, who also set a new school record, vaulted his way into a third-place tie to add points to the Archer cause in the big meet.

Thus Collyer ended his career after displaying the most powerful Archer aggregation in many years to Archer supporters. In addition to achieving great success as South's second track coach, Mr. Collyer did a commendable job as head football and cross country coach. Prior to coming to South in 1938, George held the coaching reins at Harrison Hill Junior High School. By stepping down, Mr. Collyer has left two coaching vacancies. Mr. Holt will replace Collyer as cross country coach and Mr. Gernand will become the first Archer coach in the '50's to hold two head coaching posts, as he will replace Collyer as track coach.

Past Football

Early Football Squads Had Great Records; Reason For Excellence Analyzed In First Of Series By Coach

(This is the first in a series of articles probing into the past football seasons at South Side High School beginning with the initial campaign in 1922. This series is being written with intent of exploring South Side's history in the pigskin sport in order to point out reasons of failure and success.)

In recent years the varsity members of our basketball, track, cross country, and tennis team have combined to engineer the Archers' squads to great laurels in local and state circles. Although Archer football coaches have produced excellent individual material in recent seasons, the Green and White has failed to field a strong gridiron eleven. At present, Coach Robert Gernand is working hard and diligently to rebuild the Kellys in this fall sport. He is operating at tremendous odds.

Number one, the response for tryouts is alarmingly low. If the boys, in school, capable of showing themselves in football do not wish to play, it's only natural that the teams will be weak. Practice attitude has slipped off considerably in recent years; as the school has grown, more activities are offered and more boys are lured away from participating in athletics.

The prime obstacle is the general attitude of the school towards football. When South began slipping in performances, the crowds slowly decreased. The past season, this attitude took a turn for the better, more loyal students attended football games last year than in many of the past years. If the entire student body and faculty would join behind the coaches and players with their support, South will rise again in football as they did last year in basketball and track.

IN ORDER to get a much better understanding of the past history of football, you will be taken back through the years and given a detailed account of football games at South Side since 1922. With a few facts it will be easy to understand what a great power the Archers once were and what a weak team they have developed into during the past decade.

In 36 years of active competition the Green and White have compiled a creditable 167-126-12 record. Archer teams produced 23 winning seasons, 11 losing years, and two .500 seasons, while winning 67 per cent of their games, an accomplishment that is not to be frowned upon by any means. On the other hand, in the last 10 years, South managed to win a scant 34 games, lost 47, and tied three. The past five years also were "lean" seasons. Since 1953 the Kelly gridmen won 11, lost 29, and tied one! In city play, South has recorded 59 victories, while dropping 48, and tying once.

It is often said, the opening game has an important effect on the outcome of the season; at South Side this belief has been a true omen only in winning campaigns. South copped 19 season openers over the years. Of the 19 they captured, winning seasons resulted 17 times.

LOSING the opener has not led to a poor season regularly as might be expected. Of the 16 unsuccessful debuts over the years only eight preceded losing campaigns; six introduced winning seasons; and twice in 1953 and 1956 the Kelly gridmen split even in eight games after blowing the initial contests. Recent campaigns have opposed the pattern, for in the past 10 seasons, the Kellys have been unable to post victories over the most troublesome foes, who occupy the upper half of the Green and White schedule.

Our examination of past South Side High School football teams takes us back to 1922 when South Side was officially opened. Although there were no plans for a football team at that time, Mr. Ward Gilbert was contracted as South's first of eight football coaches due to the popular request of many of the young boys in school.

The organization didn't begin until the school year was well under way; therefore, the Archer squad was behind other schools in practice.

IN THE beginning South Side supporters took the announcement of South's entry in football as an astonishing surprise, but expected the undermanned Kelly outfit to struggle through its first campaign because of all its obstacles. The boys' hopes met a little opposition at first, but all decisions were made and several teams were scheduled.

When Mr. Gilbert learned that it was agreed upon by all parties, he rushed an order to Indianapolis for jerseys. He was very fortunate to get the uniforms, though they were the most unusual squad jerseys any Archer team has displayed. There was not two jerseys alike; but this made little difference to the boys because they wanted nothing but to win and that they did. This group of the most determined athletes in South's long history went through the first season undefeated as they chalked up six straight triumphs.

Back in those days, South Side Stadium did not exist. The Archer football squad had to bike to Weisser Park, equipment and all, to practice. Mr. Gilbert said that the boys practiced many long hours and put in everything they had during the practice sessions. Even Mr. Gilbert, who still teaches chemistry at South Side, was amazed at the steady improvement his team made.

THE DAY finally arrived in mid-September for the first varsity game in the new school. The first game was scheduled with the Auburn Red Devils. Eleven resolved lads made the trip to Auburn in quest of South's first inter-school victory. Fort Wayne fans didn't take that milestone game too seriously; but when the reports of the score were heard, area fans took notice that that bunch of kids wearing those cockeyed jerseys meant business. The final of the game was South Side 26, Auburn 0! Al Formuth and Ed Aldrich paced the Archers to that first win with some spectacular play that enlightened Archer rooters. Aldrich displayed his art of drop-kicking in that first game several times to establish himself as one of the all-time Green and White football stars.

The Kellys continued to roll along by tromping over Kendallville by a 10-0 count at Kendallville and followed that with another win over the Huntington Vikings by a 34-6 score. The Archers went out on the road for the fourth time at Columbia City in search of win four in a row. The final in that one was the biggest eye-opener in South's history. South won the game by smothering the Columbia City foe, 50-0! Garrett fell to the Archers by 10-6 on Williams' long pass. The triumph earned the Green its first title, Northeastern Indiana Conference Champs.

BY THIS time the entire city stood up and took notice by commending the Archers' fine football team. There was much talk of a grudge battle between South and Central. Central claimed the city championship, but South quickly followed with a challenge to Central. The Tigers cockily accepted the Archers' bid. The two teams met and South came out on the long end with a 9-6 victory behind the steady foot of Ed Aldrich, who kicked the winning three points through the uprights, thus giving South claim to its first city title. The Archers closed their first season with a 6-0 record and their first city championship, although it was unofficial.

In the '23 season they went out to face Auburn again in their opener with Ward Gilbert and many of the 1922 stars back in action. The final verdict was South, 33-0, over the Red Devils. Sporting a seven-game win skein, the Green and White journeyed down south to take on a new foe, Peru. In this tilt the Kellys lost their first football game in the school's history by a score of 20-9. The rampaging Archers resumed their winning ways in the following two contests by tromping Kendallville, 45-0, and thumping Huntington, 27-14.

Indianapolis Tech derailed the high-flying Archers by an overwhelming score of 47-0; the Archers didn't stay down for long because they bounced right back to swamp Garrett, 29-0, and blanked city rival Central again, 20-0! They closed out the season with a win over Logansport, 13-12. Thus after two years of play and the end of Ward Gilbert's reign, South chalked up 13 victories while losing a scant two encounters. He guided South to two city titles, and two NEIC titles.

Mr. Gilbert's decision to step down from coaching the grid team was a strong blow to the Archers' football squad because of his splendid accomplishment as head mentor of the Archers' pigskin entry. His reason, of course, was valid. Mr. Gilbert, in addition to being football coach, was athletic director, baseball coach, and basketball coach.

IN A recent interview, Mr. Gilbert commented on the team in his coaching days and the present teams. Mr. Gilbert's opinion about the present football situation at South is that it is in a bad state, but can be improved if the students take enough initiative to become interested in the sport.

He believes that the two main reasons why South failed to come up with staunch teams in recent years are girls and cars. Mr. Gilbert said that the boys who were on his football teams never thought about driving to school, mainly because the boys didn't have access to automobiles. At that time South's boundaries reached far out to cover a large area and many of the boys had to walk as much as five or six miles to school, but thought nothing of taking the hike twice a day.

"Walking builds up the athletes much better than long practices and makes the boys more willing to do lots of running during workouts," said Mr. Gilbert.

GIRLS, HIS second reason, play an important part in distracting boys from devoting enough time to football. In earlier years if a boy was caught walking down the halls steadily with a girl, the coaches kept an eye on him; and if he was late for practice because of a short conversation with a girl, he could be expected to be booted off the team or placed on probation.

Mr. Gilbert remained on the South Side coaching staff by holding the reins on the baseball team for several years after he stepped out of football. Following his retirement from athletics at South, Mr. Gilbert headed some of the area officials as one of the top referees for many years, but quit after a disputed game that angered the attitude of many coaches towards him. Since then, he has kept close to the athletic scene at South by being an ardent supporter of Kelly squads.

Next week, football during the reign of Lundy Welborn. Be sure to read next week's installment about football under the most-talked-about Archer coach in the school's history.

Gernand Has Rebuilding Job This Year

Unbalanced T Being Taught For Offensive

Royertown With 25 Wins Straight Scheduled; New Haven, Cadets Dropped

Nineteen fifty-eight will be a complete rebuilding year for the South Side gridders. After losing all 11 starters, Coach Bob Gernand will have a complete revamping job ahead of him, not only in choosing for the varsity squad, but also in that he will have to educate all players to a new offensive style adopted this year. It will be centered around an unbalanced T formation which had been used very little, if at all, until this year.

The team in general this year will be lighter than usual with fair speed.

SENIORS BACK this year that have had varsity experience include Steve Smith, Tom Lerch, Dennis Payne, and Bill Sutter.

Among the juniors back who saw varsity action last year are Win Moses, Bob Duncan, and Dan Tritch. Other juniors who showed well on the reserve squad last year are George Griffiths, Chuck Clifton, and Mike Milligan. Sophomores who played with the reserves last year include Lawson White, Jim Dawson, Bob Shine, and Chris Parrot.

THE SCHEDULE this year is essentially the same with the exception of New Haven and Concordia being dropped from the roster.

A new addition to the schedule, Royerton, should prove to be very interesting in that this school has won its last 25 games.

Schedule:

Sept. 2—Jamboree
5—Anderson
12—Shortridge
26—North (Fort Wayne)
Oct. 2—Central (Fort Wayne)
9—Mississinewa
16—Royerton
23—Huntington

The Girls' Athletic Association, commonly known as GAA, will begin its program on September 15 for upperclassmen and September 19 for freshmen.

Freshmen will meet on Fridays after school from 3:30 to 4:30 p.m. The sophomores, juniors, and seniors will meet on Mondays. The reason for this division is that as many freshmen appear as the other three classes put together. The freshmen also need more instruction.

This organization is a very popular club for the girls interested in volleyball, tumbling, track, and softball. Girls may participate in only the sports they like, or all of them. It depends on how fast they want to achieve their numeral which requires 300 points. Then they can start working toward their letters and pins.

Girls may join GAA by attending the organization meeting or by signing up in the girls' gym office.

Archer Swimmers Place In Three Day City Meet

July 27, 28, and 29 were the dates of the City Swim and Diving Meet at McMillen Pool. Entrants are divided into classes by their ages; eight and under, polywogs; 9-12, midgets; 13-15, juniors ;and 16 and over, seniors.

McMillen was jammed those three nights. Besides the swimmers, there were coaches, families, lifeguards, and just plain swim-happy fans. The sounds made when the swimmers drew near the finish could have been compared with a point made during the tournament.

New City Swim Meet records were set at McMillen Park Monday night almost as rapidly as they could get final fields determined and the events run off. Out of 11 finals, nine of these produced new records.

Fourteen Archers took part in this shindig and seven of them took home medals or ribbons to show for their trials and tribulations.

In the Junior Girls Division, Sally McDonald, fifth place, 25 meter breaststroke, and second place, 25 meter backstroke; Sally Dill, fourth place, 25 meter backstroke; Molly Dixon, third place, 25 meter breaststroke; and Evilou North, fifth place, 25 meter breaststroke.

Junior Boys placers were Gus Wade, first place, 25 meter backstroke, third place, 25 meter breaststroke; and Phil Glick, second place, 100 meter freestyle.

Adding up points in the Senior Girls Division were Janet Hicks, third place, 100 meter freestyle, and first place, 50 meter backstroke; Beth Golden, fourth place, 100 meter breaststroke; Joan Littlejohn, fifth place, 50 meter backstroke; Ruth Dill, second place, 50 meter backstroke; Margo Dixon, third place, 100 meter breaststroke, and fifth place, 400 meter freestyle; Susie Rothert, first place, 400 meter freestyle, and first place, 50 meter freestyle; Sharon Probst, fifth place, 50 meter freestyle; and Penny Hunt, second place, 100 meter medley.

In the Men's Division, Larry Brown placed first three times: 800 meter freestyle, 100 meter medley, and 100 meter freestyle. Perry Schlie placed third in the 800 meter freestyle.

Wednesday night was devoted to diving. Susie Rothert again emerged champ of the Women's Division with Penny Hunt placing second. Dan Toyias was the only Archer on the men's agenda and he placed fifth.

Archers Place In Tennis, Golf

McGaw Advances To Semi-Final Round

Kelly golf and tennis prospects sharpened their games over the summer by participating in the various meets and tourneys held over the summer. Although no Kelly representatives came out with top honors they showed very well.

Seven Kellys took part in the 1958 version of the Junior City Medal Tourney. Bill Berning, number two on the golf squad, was low man in the tourney among the Archer golfers. He fired rounds of 89-81-76 for a 54-hole total of 246. Berning was in the 16-18-year group. Also in the group were Tom Graham, who fired a 249 and John Irmscher, who dropped out halfway through the final round.

In the 14-15 age bracket, Jon Heavin placed fifth with a score of 252. Two fellow Archers were close on his heels with 54-hole totals of 253. Steve Pohol, a freshman, fired a 257.

Bing Gilardi passed up the City Tourney to attempt to qualify in the USGA Junior Tourney at Indianapolis, but failed. He fired a sub-par 87 on the strange course.

In the other city tourney, the Match Medal Tourney, Bing Gilardi and Bob LeFever were tripped by Tom Yaggy, winner of the first City Tournament, and Jack Hensler. Both Yaggy and Hensler are members of the C.C. Sectional Golf Championship team.

South's tennis whiz, Dick McGaw, advanced to the semi-final round of the City Playground Tourney, but was stopped by North Side's number one man, John Johnson, 9-7 and 6-2. Johnson went on to upset defending champ, Jude DeWald, who was top seeded. In the doubles competition, McGaw teamed up with teammate Steve Meyers, but the Kelly duo was drubbed by Johnson and DeWald.

Baseball Activities Gain Kelly Talent

South Side boys took part in baseball activities throughout the summer.

Bob Bolyard, a 14-year-old sophomore at South Side, hit a 330-foot homerun in the Pony League Championships to pace Shirmeyer to the City Crown. This homerun spirited his team, Shirmeyer, on to victory. It was one of the longest homers hit in a Pony League game in the city. Shirmeyer has a few other South Side players.

Rea Wire has many South Side players. Chuck Hohman edged Rea Wire on to victory with a pitcher's duel with Fred Noll.

John Biteman was responsible for putting Menu Meats in third by striking out seven players in the last three innings play with Swanson Chevrolet.

Craig Bradley and Lee Rice played with Swiss Cleaners. Bob Rice and Steve Gaskill played on Indiana-Michigan, the team representing Fort Wayne in the National Junior Federation Tourney held at Altoona, Pa.

Bob Ramage and Steve Adair also played in South Division.

Football Rules, Reasons Told; One Of Most Interesting Sports

Football is a game of physical contact played on a field which is 55 1/3 yards wide and 100 yards long. It is one of the most exciting and interesting sports that is played today. However, much of the fan's enjoyment of this sport is lost because he does not understand what is going on during the football game.

Here are some facts and tips which will help to make the game of football more fully understood.

First of all, let us discuss the kick off. The team that kicks off at the beginning of the game places the ball on its 40-yard line. The kicker then stands approximately 10 yards back from the ball in order to pick up forward motion. After he kicks the ball, the receiving team will attempt to run the ball up the field as far as possible. If the ball is kicked into the end zone and is not advanced by the receiving team, the referee will call a touchback which gives the receiving team the ball on their 20-yard line.

The game itself is played in 12-minute quarters. At the end of the first and third quarters the ball is moved to a corresponding distance at the other end of the field with the teams changing goals.

The point after touchdown is always attempted from the two-yard line. This point may be scored by running, passing, or kicking the ball.

A "down" is a word used instead of "play" or some similar word. A team is given four downs to make another first down and thereby maintain its possession of the ball. If it is fourth down and the offensive team does not think that it can make a first down, it will punt the ball to the other team.

A safety occurs when the team with the ball is tackled behind its own goal line. This awards the other team two points. After a safety the ball is brought out to the 20-yard line where the team that was penalized has one down to relinquish the ball to the opposing team.

During the game it is always interesting to figure out the reason for the running of a certain play.

A play which is run around or outside the end may be run because the end was playing too close to the offensive line.

A pass may be called because the defensive team is playing in a nine-man line with only two men to guard against passes.

The same play may be repeated many times because the man playing at the defensive position where the play is occurring is not strong enough to defend his position.

After a team has run its plays to one side for quite a while, look for a reverse. A reverse is a play where the ball will be carried in the opposite direction. This play usually "goes wide" or around the end.

To foretell a play's direction you should watch the linemen. They will usually block the defensive men away from the play. Therefore, if the line is blocked to the left, the play will likely run to the right.

Schmitz On Sports

Another "summer" is gone and the time has come for the Kelly grid squad to embark in a new pigskin campaign; but the prospect for recapturing the City Grid Crown is remote, once again. In addition to losing the backbone of last year's starting team via graduation, Coach Bob Gernand was handed another setback by the announcement of Tom Bolyard's decision not to play football this season.

* * * *

Picking the team that will be "a-top the heap" of the City Series come November——is, as usual, a tough job. On paper, the three co-champions appear to be stronger than South; but as the Kellys proved two years ago they are to be respected. Fort Wayne's prep pigskin power for the past few years, North Side, lost all their all-city representatives from last year; but have many veterans returning, including flashy Dale Zumbaugh of cinder fame, a boy to watch in the Redskin backfield. Harold Dimke, one of the reasons North tied for the title last year, is returning also.

Hoping to pull another surprise in this year's City Series scramble, Irish coach Walt Bartkiewicz will have to bank his expectations on the newcomers that will fill the vacated posts of his All-City studded team of last season. Jay Pelkington and Karl Roesler the two ends last year and the Hemminger brothers are graduated. This loss blows a big hole in the Irish attack, but several seasoned veterans might hold their own long enough for the new boys to start clicking.

Although the Archers are still a big question mark and C.C. and North look strong, I'll have to string along with the Central Tigers as 1958 champs. Snitz Snider's Bengals lose only a few from their strong grid outfit of last year. All-City member, Pete Hogan is among the many returnees. Bill Boyd, Tharnell Hollins, Roger Ember, Percy Moore, and Willie Rozier are returning in hopes of bringing the cup to Central. The big problem facing Snider will be replacing Frank Smith, who sparked the Tigers in the backfield last year.

The signing of Porky Holt to the Archer coaching staff marks the second time within one year that South has contracted a coach from Winchester High School. Last fall Warren Hoover left Winchester to become assistant football coach.

Holt, only the third Archer track coach, is privileged with taking the reigns of one of the most promising cross country teams in many years. Only Phil Cartwright and Jack Esterline, number three and four men, graduated from the seven man squad that upset North Side for the first time in many years. With the addition of two newcomers the harriers should be the team to beat in the area. At this early stage the two vacancies are wide open since last year's reserve squad was unusually weak.

Over the summer several Kelly varsity members took advantage of summer tourneys to condition for spring sports. Bill Berning led all Archer golfers in the 54-hole Junior Golf meet by firing a 246, twenty strokes off par. Bing Gilardi, South's top golfer attempted to qualify for the U.S.G.A. junior golf meet, but failed as he carded an 87 for 18 holes.

Dick McGaw tagged himself as the number three boy in Fort Wayne tennis circles by capturing third in the City Park Tourney. He was ousted from tourney play in the semi-final round by John Johnson, who won the championship. Then Johnson teamed up with runner-up and ex-champ Jude DeWald to defeat an Archer duo in the boys doubles. The two Kellys were Dick McGaw and Steve Meyers.

Archer fans should be disappointed by New Haven's decision to schedule another opponent in the Archer's customary slot on their football schedule. It is a shame because the two squads have staged many crowd pleasers especially in recent years. Another regular opponent will not appear on the Archer's nine-game card. That being Concordia. By dropping the Archers, the Cadets have ridded their schedule of all city foes. The new team on the Green and White's schedule, Royerton, is one of the surprising teams in Indiana. Although a small school, Royerton is traditionally a strong grid team. Last year they advertised that they were willing to schedule teams wishing to play them and the Archers accepted.

Season Tickets On Sale Sept. 9

Cross Country Squad Retains Fine Material

Coach "Porky" Holt Succeeds Mr. Collyer As Harrier Trainer

With the coming of fall the 1958 cross country season rises at South Side. This year the team will be coached by Charles (Porky) Holt, the successor to George Collyer.

The '58 squad has fine material. Ed Hartman, Mike Albersmeyer, and Don Kern are the outstanding seniors; Sam Green, Ron Bogan, and Larry Fruchey are tops in the junior class; while Al Rainbolt shines for the sophomores. Of this year's squad, five members of last year's varsity return, Larry Fruchey was on the reserves, and Al Rainbolt was exceptional for the intramural team.

Seven members of the team compose the varsity, while the rest make up the reserve squad. Practice is held in the school stadium and home meets are run at Foster Park. The competitive distance is two miles, while the squad alternates overdistance and underdistance workouts.

The team maintains high spirit and is expected to keep the reputation of the South Side Archers at the top of the list. The tentative schedule is:

Sept. 9—Concordia.
16—North Side.
18—Central.
23—Concordia.
30—Wabash.
Oct. 7—Kokomo.
9—Central.
16—Elmhurst.
21—Sectional.
Nov. 1—State.

Head Custodian Welcomed Back

Mr. Russell Seltenright, head custodian, is returning to South Side as are the many students. Due to an operation early this summer, he was unable to help with the improvements made.

Mr. Seltenright became ill on the last day of school and was operated on June 12. He started his recovery here in town but later stayed at the lake for a few days. He spent the rest of the summer relaxing and started work August 4. As he is still recovering, Mr. Seltenright has to take it easy for a while.

Now the head custodian, Mr. Seltenright has been with South Side for 12 years. He really enjoys his work and has substituted as janitor in different schools several times.

Mr. Seltenright ended by saying, "South is a pretty nice place. The students are fairly cooperative and we have the best faculty anywhere. I believe the students really respect their school. I also want to add I have a nice group of fellows to work with."

School Is Improved By Many Changes

While Archers relaxed during the summer, South Side took on a new look. Janitors and contractors worked hard at improving the building. Much painting was done. The halls and rooms were touched up and the steel work in the gymnasium finished. Room 16, the Times office, also received a coat of paint.

Attention was given to the floors, too. Linoleum was patched and replaced in the halls and ramps. The shop rooms were rebuilt in the present building to improve classes. Room 24 is all new. It has been changed into a General Science Room.

Perhaps the greatest change is in the heating system. All new boilers were installed and South Side now has oil burning furnaces. New thermostats are being placed in each room, and the heating system covers the present building as well as the new addition. This system will be completed before the cold weather season.

Mr. Scott Helps With Problems

Many teachers with free periods have been assigned to Room S this year. These teachers will help handle the many problems which have been caused by the increased enrollment of pupils at South Side. Dealing with the adjustment and discipline of boys is among these problems. Mr. Wayne Scott, athletic director, head of the Physical Education Department, and also a teacher of physical education, will spend a large amount of his time working with these problem situations. Mr. Scott will have an office by Miss Pauline Van Gorder's, the girls' guidance director.

Red Cross Club Offers Chance To Aid Others

"Junior Red Cross is a club at South Side whose main function is to aid people who are not as fortunate as most of us and to lend a helping hand to others," said Susie Hoard, the new president. Susie wishes to welcome all students to the first meeting on Wednesday at 3:30 p.m. in Room 12. The meeting will be mainly devoted to the explanation of the full meaning and function of the club. Also a schedule explaining the many activities of the club this year will be available to individual members so they will know what the club hopes to accomplish. Refreshments will be served and dues of 25 cents will be collected.

The new fall officers include: Susie Hoard, president; Diane Kimble, vice-president; Judy Cramer, secretary; Barb Wallace, treasurer; and Suzi Carto, sergeant-at-arms.

Some of the worthwhile projects the club accomplished last year are helping at the State School, painting a recreation room for some disabled children, and making favors for children in the hospital. Also, some individual members have achieved recognition in the Red Cross City County Council. Judy Cramer is the secretary and Beth Golden is a reporter.

Junior Red Cross offers a wonderful opportunity for those boys and girls who want to help others and themselves as well.

Majorettes And Band People To Plan Shows

"Opportunity this year will be given to students in marching band and majorettes to do more of the planning and execution of shows," says Mr. Robert Drummond, band director. Leaders from both band and majorettes will be appointed at an early date by Mr. Drummond.

"A meeting of those who have been in majorettes will take place at 3:30 p.m. Thursday, in Room 50," stated Mr. Drummond. A meeting will also be held for new girls who are interested in majorettes on Friday at 3:30 p.m. in Room 50.

Study Hall Rules Set, Filled To Capacity For Every Period

Room S, commonly known as Study Hall, is the place where most pupils do their daily studying. Since the enrollment is increasing rapidly each year, the Study Hall is filled to capacity almost every period. To maintain order, each pupil must do his part by following these simple rules stated by Mrs. Roy Stuart, supervisor in Study Hall.

1. Students are to be in their seats when the bell rings.
2. No student is to leave his seat during the study period until he has secured permission from the supervisor.
3. No talking or visiting is permitted.
4. Student messengers bringing notices to students must give them to the supervisor, or secure permission from the supervisor to deliver them.
5. The taking of attendance will be done by students selected by Mrs. Stuart.
6. Students are not to be exused from the study hall for work in teachers' rooms unless they present requests for such excuses before the period starts.
7. Any student who is sent back to study hall because of misconduct in the library is to be deprived of the library privilege for the remainder of the semester. When one is sent back, the supervisor should notify him.

Clubs Listed For New Frosh

There are many extra-curricular activities at South Side. Every student should join at least one club to get the most out of his school life. The purposes of the clubs are many; some supplement school work, and some help to get acquainted with other Archers. Below is a list of clubs for incoming freshmen and a brief summary of each.

Art Club—The Art Club consists of students interested in art and desiring to work in different mediums creating a greater appreciation of art. The sponsor is Mrs. Ruth Fleck and the meetings are on alternate Wednesdays at 3:30 p.m. in room 26. Dues are 25 cents per semester.

Booster Club—The Booster Club takes care of concessions in order to make money for things needed by the school and to provide for the yell leaders, who are a division of the Booster Club. Miss Frances Stobaugh and Miss Mabel Fortney sponsor the concessions branch of the club. Mr. Quance has charge of the yell leaders, and Miss Rowena Harvey is general chairman.

Camera Club—Mr. Ernest Walker is the adviser of the Camera Club. The club, which has its own developer and enlarger, is designed to bring students together who are interested in photography and to enable them to exchange ideas. The meetings are on alternate Wednesdays at 3:30 p.m. in the Greeley Room, Room 112, and the dues are 50 cents per semester.

Cyclotron Club—The Cyclotron Club is organized to interest all students in science, particularly nuclear, and teach them about the various sciences. The sponsor is Mr. Richard Bussard. The meetings are held in the Cyclotron Room every Tuesday at 3:30 p.m. and every Saturday morning at 9. Dues are $1 per semester.

Girls' Athletic Association (GAA)—GAA is designed to provide wholesome physical activities for girls, passing in all their academic subjects, who are interested in sports. Mrs. Alice Keegan and Miss Helen Pohlmeyer are the sponsors. Meetings are on Friday at 3:20 p.m. in the gym for freshmen, and at 3:20 p.m. on Monday for upperclassmen.

Industrial Arts Club—This club meets primarily to study and work on the designing of automobiles, houses, etc., as well as general drafting. The sponsor is Mr. Thomas Polite and the club meets twice monthly on Thursday at 3:30 p.m. in Room 44. There are no dues.

Junior Academy of Science—The Academy is organized to create and maintain students' interests in science and to provide facilities and guidance for them. The club is open to all students passing in their academic subjects. The sponsors are Mr. Robert Weber and Mr. Don T. Weaver. Dues are 25 cents per semester, and the meetings are on the second Thursday of the month at 3:30 p.m. in Room 76.

Know-Your-City Club—The Know-Your-City Club is under the supervision of Mr. Jack Weicker. The club's purpose is to help members develop a greater appreciation for their city and its history. Dues are 25 cents per semester and the club meets on alternate Tuesdays at 3:30 p.m. in Room 110.

Meterite Club—Meterites is a club for freshmen and sophomore girls, receiving a B or higher in the previous semester of English and passing grades in all other subjects. The sponsor is Miss Susan Peck and meetings are held in the Greeley Room, Room 112, at 3:30 p.m. on alternate Tuesdays. Dues are 25 cents per semester.

Junior Red Cross—The purpose of the Junior Red Cross is to help people by learning the ways of kindness, by caring, sharing, and reaching out to others around the world. The club is advised by Mr. John Arnold. Meetings are on alternate Wednesdays at 3:30 p.m. in Room 12 and dues are 25 cents per semester.

Rifle Club, Boys—The Rifle Club, under the leadership of Mr. Stephen Berg is designed to improve the sportsmanship and marksmanship of all boys interested in firearms. Dues are 25 cents per semester and meetings are held on the rifle range at 3:30 p.m. on Monday.

Rifle Club, Girls—The Girls' Rifle Club is organized to train its members in the care, safety, and marksmanship of a rifle. The supervisors of this club are Mrs. Mildred Luse and Mr. Clarence Murray. Meetings are held on the rifle range on Tuesdays at 3:30 p.m. Dues are 25 cents per semester.

Safety Club—Representatives from each of the school's clubs and the four classes meet to promote individual, school, and community safety. The sponsors are Miss Virginia Ayers and Mr. Glen Stebing. The meetings are on the second and fourth Thursday of each month and there are no dues.

Service Club—The Service Club is composed of all students who are doing service work for a teacher during their free periods. Students receive points for their services, and these points are put toward a Service Club pin. The club is advised by Mr. Ora Davis. There are no dues and no regular meetings.

USA Y-Teen Club—USA is a Y-Teen Club for freshman and sophomore girls, of which the purpose is to find and give the best. The sponsors are Mrs. Marcia Hays and Miss Lutie Young. The meetings are on alternate Thursdays at 3:30 p.m. in the Greeley Room, Room 112, and the dues are 25 cents per semester.

Vesta—Vesta is a club for all girls interested in home economics, is designed to train young women to be better homemakers. Mrs. Robert Gernand is the adviser. The meetings are held on Wednesdays at 3:30 p.m. in Room 75. The dues are 25 cents per semester.

36 Workshop—36 Workshop, a club open to all students, is responsible for finding talent at South Side. The club plans, writes, and presents all assembly programs. The advisers are Miss Lucy Osborne, Mr. Marvey Knigge, Mr. Jack Morey, and Mr. William Applegate. The dues are 25 cents per semester and the meetings are on the second and fourth Thursdays of each month at 3:30 p.m. in the Greeley Room, Room 112.

Wranglers—Wranglers is a speech club open to all students who desire to further their interests and develop their skills in the field of speech. The sponsor is Mr. Robert Storey. Meetings are held on alternate Mondays at 3:30 p.m. in the Greeley Room and the dues are 25 cents per semester.

Four lucky Archers attended the Twelfth Annual High School Journalism Institute. Sue Sappenfield, Janet Hicks, Judy Novitsky, and Bev Stanton represented South Side at this institute held at Indiana University, July 13 through July 26.

All the girls except Judy Novitsky were in Newspaper Division II. Judy was in Editor's Workshop, a special division only for editors of high school papers.

Sue, Janet, and Bev each attended courses in advanced newswriting and editing. Judy took a course called "editor's lab," in which the future editors wrote editorials and analyzed their school papers to compile an editor's brief. These subjects were taught by Indiana University professors or high school teachers.

z z z

APPROXIMATELY 168 teenagers from all over the state attended the session, which was in Sue's words, "Really great!" Judy feels that the institute was a big help to editors and staffs because it aids the planning of future papers.

One of the functions of the institute was the production of the "Institute Informer," a newspaper written every other day by the students. On their last day the "Daily Student," I.U.'s newspaper, was written, edited, and completely produced by members of the institute.

Those thirteen days weren't all work, since sports such as swimming were offered. A square dance, talent show, and picnic helped add to the fun.

On the last night awards were issued at a special dinner. South's Janet Hicks received fifth in editing, and Judy Novitsky was placed on the assistant honor rim.

South's Clubs Attract Archers

South's 1,956 students kept active last semester through the 23 clubs, which claimed a total of 963 boys and girls. These clubs varied from 12 members, as in Stamp Club, to the 350 who formed 36 Workshop.

Many Archers belong to more than one club. Three clubs appear to be the limit for most boys, while a few girls belong to as many as four.

South Siders participating in the Music Department, which includes both instrumental and vocal sections, total 464.

Service, cheerleading, class offices, the Times and Totem, and many more extra-curricular activities other than regular clubs occupied 1,858 Archers.

The entire student participation last year reached 3,285.

The Designers Associated Club, sponsored by Mr. Thomas Polite for boys interested in industrial arts, and the Stamp Club are the two new organizations formed last year.

No clubs were disbanded during the second semester, but Stamp Club, which was disbanded temporarily the first semester, was re-activated.

Mr. Hammer was graduated from Dale High School in 1949, and then went into the Marines for three years. This year he received his degree from Purdue University.

While in college, he was a soloist with the Purdue University Glee Club, which sang in Alaska and at President Eisenhower's inaugural parade.

MR. SMITH replaces Mr. Robert Johnson, who moved to Florida. Mr. Smith is a 1948 graduate of North Side High School and attended International Business College for one year. In 1949 he entered Ball State Teachers College but was called into the Navy for four years. After his discharge, he went back to Ball State and in 1956 received his B.S. degree. His master's degree was awarded him this past spring.

While in high school he was active in the band and orchestra. In college he was a member of Delta Phi Delta, the honorary art fraternity; Phi Delta Kappa, the men's educational honorary fraternity, and Phi Sigma Epsilon.

During the 1956-1957 semester Mr. Smith was a graduate assistant and taught at Ball State. While in the Navy, he was stationed at Korea, Japan, Hawaii, and Guam. The Smiths' real pride and joy is their baby daughter, and apart from the time spent with her he is kept busy with art and golf. Last year he taught industrial arts at Harmar and through the summer was employed by Ream-Steckbeck Paint Company.

MRS. EMSHWILER is replacing Mrs. Marcia Hays in the English Department. A 1925 graduate of Central, she continued her studies at Oberlin College in Oberlin, O. In 1929 she received her A.B. degree from Indiana University. This will be the second time she has taught in Fort Wayne. Her first position was at Franklin Junior High where she taught English until her marriage. Four years ago she began teaching again, at Hartford City, Ind., in the high school.

While a student at Central, she was interested in writing and worked on both the school paper and the yearbook. Mrs. Emshwiler always enjoyed reading and now it is her favorite pastime.

Mr. Harader will replace Rosemary DeLancey in the English Department. Since Mr. Harader was graduated from South Side in 1929 and taught here in 1956, he is accustomed to our school. He studied at Ball State Teachers College and received his A.B. in 1937 and his M.A. in 1942. After teaching 16 years in Union City, O., he returned to Fort Wayne in 1956. The past two years he has been a life underwriter for an insurance company.

Mr. Harader is married and has three children, two of whom will be coming to South Side this year, one as a freshman, the other a junior. During his high school years he was a room agent for the Times staff. He was a member of the Student Players, the band, and orchestra. On the yearbook he held the position of Totem captain, and was also in the senior play.

MR. COMPTON is a new addition. In 1952 he received his B.A. from Yale and in 1954 his master's in education and English. He furthered his studies in three years at the Union Theological Seminary in New York and received his B.D. degree in 1957. He taught religion, spelling, and shop at McBurney Junior High School, a private prep school, in New York City.

While a student at South Side, he belonged to Math-Science, Wranglers, Rifle Club, Library Club, and the Times. He was president of Camera Club and also a service worker in the chemistry lab. In college he was a member of the Yale Christian Association. Mr. Compton is a Mason and a member of the Congregational Church. He enjoys photography as a hobby.

Mrs. W. A. Redmond taught part-time the past three and one-half years at Concordia Lutheran High School and in 1948 at Harrison Hill. She has held teaching positions at Helmsburg, Kokomo, Gary, and South Bend, Ind. Mrs. Redmond is a graduate of Decatur High School, and received her A.B. degree from Franklin College, and attended Chicago University and Indiana University Extension.

She is active in the drama section of the city's AAUW group. At present she has very little spare time because she is working on her master's degree from Ball State. Mrs. Redmond has two sons; the oldest, Dave, will be a junior at South this year.

MISS ANN ARBER was graduated from Elmhurst High School in 1948. From there she went to Indiana University and received her B.A. degree in 1953. Miss Arber went back to Indiana in 1957 and received her M.A. in June.

She has traveled through Europe and the eastern United States and enjoys seeing the many things she has read about.

Her main interest is the theater, and during her residence in New York, she studied drama. This year her role in the Civic Theater's production of the "Matchmaker," won her the Anthony Award for best supporting actress. She also appeared in "Show Boat," the Festival Music Theater's first production of the summer. At the County Line Playhouse she was in the "Tender Trap" and "Glass Menagerie." Completing her wide range of activities are golfing, swimming, and reading.

Mr. Holt is a graduate of New Haven High School and received his B.S. degree from Ball State Teachers College in 1949. After serving in the Army, he went back to Ball State for his master's degree.

Mr. Holt began teaching at Monmouth in 1950. He coached their basketball, baseball, cross country, and track teams. Under his supervision, the cross country team took two district titles, and the basketball team won four straight sectional titles. Last year he coached at Winchester High School, Winchester, Ind.

Y.E.S. Completes Successful Summer

"I find that the average teenager hasn't strayed as far from reality as many people would like us to believe. I find the teenager to be very realistic."

This opinion came from Robert H. Fitzpatrick, director of the Youth Employment Service, at the completion of the 1958 summer teen placement program.

The Youth Employment Bureau was started in 1954 by the Junior Chamber of Commerce as a service to place teenagers in summer jobs. In 1958 the program was to have been discontinued by the Jaycees, but Mr. Richard App, manager of the local office of the Indiana Employment Security Division, integrated it with the Security Division and renamed it the Youth Employment Service.

YES has, in the opinion of Mr. Fitzpatrick, completed a most successful summer. Despite rainy weather and the economic conditions, YES placed 775 teenagers in summer jobs. Of these 513 were boys and 262 girls. This is the second highest number of teenagers placed in the history of YES.

THESE TEENAGERS have earned an average of $75.75 each with total earnings being $58,691.10. This is the second highest amount of money earned in the history of YES.

Of the many jobs offered by YES, garden and lawn care was the most popular. Next in demand were teenagers for child care, miscellaneous occupations which include caddies, chauffeurs, and companions, helping at hospitals, giving baton lessons, etc., doing housework and painting, helping carpenters, and doing construction work. Other interesting jobs offered were delivering, working in restaurants, clerking and being a stockboy, ushering, attending gas stations, and doing office and farm work.

Mr. Fitzpatrick also stated that the teenager "is eager and willing to accept the challenge of the ever-changing world with one condition—that he be given an opportunity to express his eagerness for work and his desire to please. When granted this opportunity, the teenager gains confidence in his ability with each passing day. Words such as dependability, reliability, honesty, perserverance, promptness, etc., come alive and become very meaningful to him."

New Procedure In Band Tryouts

"Tryouts will be run as they have in previous years," stated Mr. Robert Drummond, South Side's orchestra and band director. Thursday, September 3, explaining will be done by Mr. Drummond as to the new procedures this year.

Since there will be ■■ members in the fifth period band and 58 members in the sixth period band, the fact that there are only 90 band uniforms and a limited budget this year will prove to be a hinderance. "As may be seen," stated Mr. Drummond, "there are not enough uniforms to go around and the library is not adequate to provide music for such large groups.

"In all probability, the symphonic band will be limited to between 50 and 60 and those persons demonstrating the best abilities and potential will be elected for this group." The remaining members will constitute the second band. This year the sixth period band will also be divided into two parts according to ability and potential.

All students are advised by Mr. Drummond that anybody who will be willing to work hard, may advance from sixth period number two band to fifth period number one band within a semester's time and without forcing any change in program except lunch. This procedure will allow the director much more freedom in the selection of his personnel.

He added that it is also possible to be demoted within the fifth or sixth period bands. Essentially those in fifth period band will provide the bulk of entertainment for assemblies, concerts, and games throughout the year. "If students wish to work hard," concluded Mr. Drummond, "then they will be included in this group."

Addition Provides Girls' Gym, Larger Cafeteria

"Look at that!" is what many South Side students will say when for the first time they will tour the soon completed addition to South Side. This addition will provide many new and different facilities, making possible a better place in which to work, play, and, of course, eat.

A larger and more accessible kitchen and a cafeteria with a seating capacity of 656 will be located on the ground floor of the new building. Two new and larger service counters, a dishwashing room, freezer, and teachers' dining room will be on the east side of the building, easily reached from the cafeteria. Restrooms and a vanity room will also be available, especially for persons eating in the cafeteria.

THE ATHLETIC Department will have a separate entrance of their own opposite the southeast stadium gate, but it may also be reached through the main lobby. Contained in the north end of the athletic section are a coaches' room, trainers' room, drying rooms, showers, and a varsity locker room which will contain 150 lockers.

Adjacent to the locker room is an issue area where the boys will receive their athletic equipment from the equipment and storage room through an issue window.

The athletic entrance will also be used to unload equipment or other storage supplies that will be kept in two huge storage rooms under the existing shop rooms. Visiting teams will have a separate shower and locker room behind the storage rooms.

ON THE FIRST floor, which will be on a level with the existing building, an all-purpose room for girls, and gym storage will be housed. A girls' locker room which will contain 64 lockers and eight showers, a basket room having space for 1,000 baskets, an instructor's office, first-aid room and exercise room will also be a part of the girls' gym section.

The old shop addition has been remodeled into two wood shops and a metal shop of 2,270 square feet. These rooms also contain sections for planning and finishing. Also on the first floor and adjacent to the girls' section are a drawing shop and a machine shop which will have a raised balcony containing welding hoods.

The present court yard has been cemented and is accessible by steps leading down from the northeast and east vestibules.

PTA Announces Fall Program

Mrs. Charles Kollman, elected president of South Side's PTA at the last spring meeting, has announced chairmen of various committees which will be in charge of all activities. Other officers include Mrs. George Butzow, first vice-president; Mr. Everett Havens, second vice-president; Mrs. Walter Vollmer, secretary; and Mrs. Walter Parrot, treasurer.

Mrs. Stephen Capps is chairman of the Chili Suppér. Her two co-chairmen are Mrs. Gathings Stewart and Mrs. Allen Sheldon. Mrs. Melvin Ehrman is hospitality chairman in charge of the Parent-Teacher Teas on November 3-. Her co-chairman is Mrs. George T. Wright. Other committee chairmen include Mrs. William Lee, Jr., program chairman, and Mrs. Robert LeSchot, membership chairman.

Some important PTA dates are the Open House, October 6, and the PTA Study Groups which will meet the Tuesday evenings of February 3, 10, 17, and 24. The topics of these meetings will be announced at a later date.

Principal Gets Honorary LL.D.

R. Nelson Snider, principal, was presented an honorary Doctor of Laws degree at Ball State Teachers' College commencement exercises last June.

The LL.D. degree, which is awarded to successful men, was given to him on the basis of what he has done for education.

Mr. Snider is an alumnus of Ball State, having received his A.B. in 1922, and receiving his master's degree from Columbia University in 1930.

36 Workshop Meets Today

The organizational meeting of the 36 Workshop Club will be conducted at 3:30 p.m. in Room 114 for students who are interested.

The members will be briefed on the outline of 36 Workshop. They will be told of the experience and opportunity of joining the Workshop. A summary will be given of the work of the committees: planning, stagecraft, and presentation. 36 Workshop presents the Christmas, Thanksgiving, Easter programs, and the Talent Show. All members will fill out two cards, and dues will be payable directly after the meeting.

"36 Workshop is open to all students who wish to display their talents. It is to help the students gain experience in presenting a program," explained Carol Lockwood, president. The other officers are Dave Dunstone, first vice-president; Ann Keirns, second vice-president; Crissie Ferguson, secretary; Jack Winder, treasurer; Janet Hicks, Kathie Sosinski, program chairmen; Stan Redding, Susie Slick, sergeant-at-arms.

Orchestra Plans Church Events

Highlighting the 1958-59 season for orchestra members will be six programs at Plymouth Church; two major programs with Plymouth Church Choir and four programs consisting of chamber music. The chamber music programs, held on Sunday evenings in the Youth Lounge of Plymouth Church, will feature students and ensembles which have particular talent. Guest soloists may also appear from time to time. These programs will be presented in the public interest at no charge, and refreshments will be served following each program.

"The purposes of these programs are to allow the talented student an outlet for his abilities, to foster an interest in a phase of music with which most are not familiar, and to let the public see and hear, without charge, what is being done in the music department of South Side High School," stated Mr. Robert Drummond.

Starting at 7:45 p.m., these programs will last about an hour. It is the sincere hope of Mr. Drummond and Mr. Slater, minister of music at Plymouth Church, that the programs will be well attended.

Thoughtful Archers Rescue Two Seniors

A small volcano almost exploded last June when it was discovered that there were not enough gold jeweled pins for those who had earned 10,000 points working on the paper. Barb Miser and Anne Sherbondy, seniors, came to the rescue of two seniors, now alumni, Jocelyn Kopper and Marina Cielens, by giving up their pins. The pins, which they were to receive on Recognition Day, will be given to them some time this year.

Dr. Singer Returns For Seventeenth Year

Dr. Elmer Singer, who has been the school physician since 1941, will fill this position again this year. He will be here from 9:30 to 10:20 a.m. or the second period. Pupils may get out of class if sick or injured, by telling the teacher in charge and going to Miss Pauline VanGorder's office.

For Times Alone (Maybe)

The homeroom period September 18 will be completely devoted to Times work. All agents are to sell subscriptions in their homerooms to those who have not yet purchased them. All teachers are asked to please allow this time for these transactions.

Hi-Y Announces Club Functions

"The first Hi-Y meeting Monday gave members an explanation about the various functions of the club. "Plans are now being made in regard to the fall picnic," said John Meyerholtz, the new president. The other new officers are: Bob Mann, vice-president; Mickey McClead, secretary; Gene Kraus, treasurer; Dick Boergert, sergeant-at-arms; and Bob Simmons, chaplain.

Some of the highlights of Hi-Y this year include a trip during spring vacation to either New York or Washington, the Queen of Hearts dance, and the Best Girl Banquet.

The Hi-Y Club is designed to create, maintain, and extend throughout the home, school, and community, high stands of Christian character. Its platform includes four planks: Clean Scholarship, Clean Speech, Clean Living, and Clean Sportsmanship. Its outstanding function is to carry out service projects for the school, YMCA, and Fort Wayne. All junior and senior boys who subscribe to the purpose of the club are eligible for membership.

Former Student Injures Knee

Larry Miller, a 1958 graduate and a former member of the South Side State Champion basketball team, underwent an operation in August to remove a misplaced cartilege from his right knee. He misplaced it while playing basketball last July.

The operation, which was performed by Dr. Hershberger, took approximately one and one-half hours. Larry remained at the Lutheran Hospital for a period of five and one-half days so his six-inch incision could heal. He had ten stitches in his knee for about a week and a half and then he had to wear a splint for three more weeks.

When asked about his stay at the hospital, Larry replied that it was "just great." Among his visitors were the Continentals. His roommate was Mr. McNeely who is a teacher of mathematics at North Side. Larry said that the food was wonderful and his favorite consisted of watermelon and orange juice at one in the morning.

Larry will be a freshman at Bowling Green State University in Ohio this fall and is going to study prelaw.

Coca Cola Provides New Dispensers

Those planning a dance or large social function here at which Coca Cola will be served, no longer will have to worry about ice, bottles, and the attending grief.

The Coca Cola Company has a new service which will eliminate much of the fuss and mess in serving refreshments. The company now can provide new dispensers for serving premixed and cooled soft drinks.

No rental fee is charged the organization using it paying only for the ingredients. These dispensers are available in three types: Coca Cola alone, Coke plus one other drink, Coke plus two other drinks, with the Coca Cola Company supplying all the syrups.

The units are self-contained and use no ice. Reservations and further information may be obtained by calling the Coca Cola Company at Harrison 3366 or by seeing Miss Rowena Harvey, Booster Club head, in Room 16.

Times Picnic Sept. 18; 100 Per Cent Agents Free

All Times staff members are invited to attend the Times picnic next Thursday after school at Foster Park in the third pavilion. All room agents who have 100 per cent for their rooms are able to come free while all others must pay 35 cents. Everyone may eat two hot dog sandwiches, a coke, a dixie cup, baked beans, and relishes. Money should be paid to Judy Novitsky, Times general manager.

Grid Team At Pep Meet

The presentation of the football team by Coach Bob Gernand and a humorous-serious skit will be presented tomorrow at the first pep session of the new year.

The skit will be about what Archer fans are doing to make the games unsuccessful . . . and successful. Kenny Howe will then give a short talk on the feelings of the team when there is no one to back them up.

JANET LAWRY, who is in charge of the pep session, is the football promotion campaign committee chairman. The main purpose of the pep session is the promotion of football.

Others helping Janet are July Carr, Barbara Wallace, and Merle Baldwin. These girls have seen to the making of the posters for this campaign.

Philo To Sell Picture Holders

"Transparent, plastic picture holders may now be purchased from any Philo member for 30 cents instead of the price of 35 cents of last year," announced Mary Sue Robertson, president, at the first Philo meeing Monday at 3:30 p.m. in the Greeley Room. She then welcomed everyone and introduced the sponsor, Mrs. Evlyn Spray, and the officers. These are Barb Miser, vice-president; Kathy Schwalm, secretary; Pam Havlin, treasurer; Mary Kay Hall, sergeant-at-arms; and Janet McClain, program chairman.

"It Had to Be You" was sung by a trio, Marilyn Buggs, Lynn Gall, and Marcia Mosel, as the talent for the meeting. Questionnaires as well as program cards were filled out by the members. Dues of 25 cents were paid after the meeting.

Junior and senior girls with an average of B or better have two more meetings to join Philo, a literary club. The meetings consist of panel discussions; contests, both short story and essay; a picnic; and a banquet.

Driver's Training In Need Of Car

"Continuance of South Side's driver's training program hinges on the ability of our school to obtain a car, either by loan or purchase," R. N. Snider, principal, has announced.

In previous years, a local automobile agency furnished the car free, but this year it is not available on that basis. Therefore, it is probable that South Side High School will buy a car and the School City is advertising for bids to see how much a new car would cost. Money for the purchase will come entirely from SSHS's funds.

Today is the last day to enroll in the driver's training course. Pupils 15½ years and over may enroll but older students will be given top priority if there are too many applicants. The first classes, beginning next Monday, will be in the classrooms. Then students are taken out in the car for practical experience.

The car will be traded in every year it is planned. The trade will be financed through the school's general fund, which is money collected from a five per cent assessment of all activities other than publications. The trade-in value on the car will leave only a small amount to be paid by the school each year. Fees paid by driving students will pay for maintenance and operating costs.

Wranglers Develop Speech Activities

"Wranglers is a club open to all students who wish to further their interests and develop their skills in speech activities," stated Patti Arnold, president, and Sharon Hubbell, vice-president.

The Greeley Room will be the place of the first meeting next Monday at 3:30 p.m.

Five other students hold offices in Wranglers. Ruth Ann Farlow is secretary; Nancy Bailey, treasurer; Bev Stanton, publicity chairman; Janice Leist, co-publicity chairman; and Steve Tracy, program chairman. Mr. Robert N. Storey is the sponsor of the organization.

An officers' talent show will highlight the first meeting. Future plans will be discussed and dues of 25 cents will be collected. Everyone is urged to attend.

1335 Subscriptions Sold First Week Of Race

Four Junior Homerooms First To Get 100 Per Cent; Drive To End Sept. 26

Have you subscribed for the South Side Times? Nearly everyone else has!

A satisfactory total of 1335 subscriptions for The Times were sold the first week of the circulation campaign. However, Merle Baldwin, circulation manager, says, "Since the campaign ends September 26 all pupils who haven't subscribed for The Times must remember that they will receive only one more free issue. Therefore it's very important that everyone subscribe as soon as possible."

Exactly 1,088 Times subscriptions were sold the very first day of school. Merle Baldwin was high salesman Wednesday, September 3, with 44 subscriptions and therefore received the $1 award. The award of 50 cents for the second highest salesman was presented to Diane Irmscher, who sold 37 subscriptions. The third highest agent, Susan Horth, sold 34 subscriptions.

THROUGH THE EFFORTS of their agents, four junior homerooms received 100 per cent the first day of the campaign. Merle Baldwin in Room 58, Susie Carto in Room 60, Judy Robinson in Room 92, and Janet Terry and Carol Szink in Room 156 were the agents in these homerooms. All 100 per cent homerooms receive candy bars for each member in the homeroom who has subscribed for The Times.

Two more meetings for Times homeroom agents will be held on Wednesdays, September 17 and 24, in the study hall at 3:30 p.m. Although agents may only sell to their homerooms here in school they may still sell alumni subscriptions and other outside subscriptions.

Room Agents Meeting Wednesday In Room S

A short Times meeting for all Times agents will be held Wednesday night right after school in the Study Hall. All agents are expected to attend. A deduction of 25 points will be given to all those who do not attend.

Below is a list of the homeroom agents and the number of subscriptions they had sold by the end of the first week.

Misplaced Articles Found In Room 104

"Losers, Weepers; Finders, Keepers" does not apply at South Side. If you find a lost article, you are urged to take it to Miss Pauline Van Gorder's office, Room 104.

Likewise, if you lose anything you can go to the same office and ask if it has been turned in. If it hasn't, fill out a "Lost Card"; and the article will be returned to you when it is found.

Last year over a thousand articles were found and returned, so you can see that this does work.

Boys Invited To Join Designer's Associated

Mr. Thomas Polite, shop teacher, extends a warm welcome to all boys at South Side who are interested in the art and skill of designing automotive bodies, architectural house plans, and airplanes, to join the club, Designers' Associated. The organization, formed early last spring, is rapidly growing in recognition. Designers' Associated was formed to give all boys the chance to discuss their common interest.

Elected for this semetser's offices are: president, Jim Roth; secretary-treasurer, Tom Cooper. Marshall Smith, Tom Cooper, and Jim Roth will also lead the club's various parts.

There are three different divisions of Designers' Associated: automotive designing, architectural designing; and aeronautical planning and designing.

The requirements to join this club are few but important. It is required that a member have at least one semester of Industrial Arts before joining Designers' Associated.

The time for the meetings of this club is every Wednesday at 3:30 p.m. The place has not been decided upon, but will be posted later.

Seniors Capture Honors On Scholarship Tests

South Side is most proud of the seniors that took the National Merit Scholarship Test. These students not only accomplished something worthwhile for themselves but have helped South Side have a higher scholastic standing.

The test was given to many thousands of students across the nation. Out of the 99 South Siders that took the test, 21 per cent placed in the top five per cent. Seven students placed in the top 99 per cent. The student body is very proud of the seniors that participated in the test.

The test results will be given to the students in the near future. Mr. Snider will be happy to explain any question that the pupils may have concerning the test.

Bio-Con Invites InterestedFrosh

Interested in Biology? Then South Side offers the club for you, the Biology-Conservation Club. This club is for students who have an interest in biology and can maintain a B average in their studies.

Sponsored by Mr. Robert Weber, the club offers more than just meetings and speakers. It is a project development organization in which each student works on a definite biological project.

The date for the first meeting has not been set. All students interested, see Mr. Weber in Room 7.

Mr. Kenneth Yager, Metal Teacher Enjoys Fishing, Grouse Hunting

Mr. Kenneth Yager will teach Metal 1 the sixth and seventh periods this year in place of Mr. Jack Bobay who will be working those periods in the administration department of the adult evening classes at Central High School.

Mr. Yager was graduated from Kirkland Township High School in Adams County in 1929. He began teaching in 1930 after attending Ball State Teachers College for one year. For three years he taught in one-room school houses in Adams and Wells counties.

In 1931 he received his B.S. degree from Bradley College in Peoria, Ill. Mr. Yager taught here in Fort Wayne at Smart, Adams, and Franklin schools, and at Jefferson School, which was a special school for retarded children.

Since 1936 he has been teaching shop at Central. Among his subjects are drawing, machine, wood, welding, and electricity. He will continue teaching at Central in the mornings.

During his high school and college years, he was active in football and basketball. Mr. Yager likes to be out of doors and enjoys fishing very much. He also hunts pheasant and grouse in Michigan.

Grades To Be Issued

The first grade period will end Friday, October 10. S and U grade cards will be issued the following Tuesday

Three South Side Girls Capture Honors At Achievers Conference

Linda Tomson, Beverly Engleman, and Betty Pherson, three of 12 chosen Junior Achievement delegates from the Fort Wayne area, helped to win 40 per cent of the awards at the National Junior Achievers' Conference.

This year's event was held at Indiana University, and it hosted 812 boys and girls from 35 states and 200 communities. The conference is the only national teenage conference in the world devoted exclusively to business. The main purpose of the conference was to bring together delegates from the various J.A. centers and exchange ideas and viewpoints concerning each company's methods. At the conference, the delegates were placed in discussion groups allowing no more than two persons from the same center in each.

DIVIDED INTO two sessions, two hours in the morning and two in the afternoon, with short intervals, the delegates discussed various business tactics. Included were the discussions of products, sales, and production procedures. The main object of these discussions was to exchange ideas on each company's entire method of operation, and to benefit from the knowledge gained.

Many companies and states distributed free examples of their individual products to all the Achievers. Many of these products were buttons from California; cokes from the Coca-Cola Bottling Company; cotton seeds from Memphis, Tenn.; pictures from Hollywood; toothpaste and tooth brushes from Colgate; perfume and salt from Canada; and license tags from Minnesota.

BEVERLY ENGLEMANN entered several of the contests at the Conference. Among these were, the Secretary of the Year, in which she placed in the semi-finals, and the speakers competition in which she placed in the first round.

Linda Tomson, who was voted the most popular treasurer of Fort Wayne, received from J.A., the $55 for the fee to the conference. Beverly's fee was paid by the Lincoln National Life Insurance Company, which sends a delegate annually to these conventions.

Freshmen Relate Confusion, Bewilderment On First Day

Wide eyes, gaped mouth, and utter confusion was the look of 429 new freshmen on the first day of school. Some were even more bewildered when they were asked to tell about their debut at South Side; however, a few did pull themselves together long enough to relate a few of their experiences.

Debbie Brooke, getting tired of lugging her books around, tried to find her locker. Her first big embarrassment came when she entered the boys' locker room. After making a quick departure and searching on her own for several minutes, she received the help of janitors and teachers. Unsuccessfully trying the lock combination on the locker they found for her, she discovered it was the wrong locker.

GIRLS WEREN'T the only ones that had trouble finding their lockers. It took Alan Mitchell about thirty minutes after searching the locker room and the halls to find his bookstower.

A run-away program card seemed to be Bonnie Russell's problem. It seems that a pest known as "senior boy" ran away with it. She had to use the common repellant, charm, to get it back.

CINDY CHRISTMAN, quite proud that she wasn't having much trouble getting to her classes, arrived at her Latin class with plenty of time to spare. Upon looking over the rest of the students, she said to the girl sitting next to her: "Aren't these kids a little old to be taking Latin 1?" No wonder, they happened to be seniors taking government. She sure made a fast exit.

Usually a freshman carries a senior's books, but not in the case of Joyce Lockwood. She thought she had too many books to carry, so she sneakingly put one on sister Carol's pile. When Carol picked up her books and discovered the extra one, she put it down, went out of the room, on which the lock had been set, and shut the door. Half way home Joyce inquired about the book; and to her dismay, she found that it had been left. As it always happens, she had an assignment in that book; so she had to go back to school and get a janitor to unlock the door for her. Better luck next time, Joyce.

THE NOTED RAMPS of South Side gave Judy Welty a hard time. She insisted on going up the wrong ramp, getting on the wrong side of the building, turning into the gym, getting on a dead-end ramp, and then, can you imagine, was late for class.

Not all the freshmen had trouble; Dave Meek sailed through the whole morning without any distress. It always helps to come to school for football practice in the summer. Right, Dave?

Kelly Homework Hounds Study Hard; Main Advice, Take Homework Seriously

Sitting down on the job? Hardly! These four Kellys are homework hounds. According to them a homework hound is one who takes homework seriously before anything in high school. They believe that this is one of the major challenges of high school.

Chris Parrot, Mary Sue Robertson, and Bob King all seem to have that spirit which is very hard to dampen. The three of them agree that hitting the books and burning the midnight oil are two of the hardest and most important things to do after a summer vacation.

This is what they told Judy Evans, a Freshman B, here at South. Judy, on the college course taking Latin, English, algebra and home economics, is very anxious to join extra-curricular clubs such as 36 Workshop, Junior Red Cross, and the Times but she does not want to take on more than she can handle. The other three agreed that this was very wise. After her first fatiguing day, Judy remarked, "I can't get over how friendly everyone is."

IF YOU SEE a happy-go-lucky lad roaming the halls, it's Chris Parrot, no doubt. Chris, a Sophomore B, is also on the college course. He is taking general history, geometry, English, and Latin. Chris is a hard-working member of our football team, and hopes to follow in brother Mickey's footsteps on the gridiron. This blond headed guy believes that homework should always come first. Chris' advice to the freshmen is to just keep smiling.

A dark-eyed lassie by the name of Mary Sue Robertson is another one in our midst. Mary Sue is on the college course taking chemistry, English, Spanish, government, and concert choir. Besides being active in Wranglers, Service, and Times, Mary Sue is president of Philo. Her advice to the freshmen is to go to all of the basketball games but not until their homework is done. When asked for a comment about South Side, she said, "It's great!"

Last but not least, playing along side Chris on the gridiron is Bob King. Football is one of Bob's main interests. A Junior A on the college course, Bob is taking physics, algebra, English, and U.S. history. Another interest of his is DeMolay in which he is the Senior Deacon. Bob's advice to the freshmen is to boost their team in every one of the sports.

If you haven't found the secret to success ask one of these four Archers. It's beyond a shadow of a doubt that they will tell you that it comes through hard work and clean living. They ought to know for they are living examples.

BACK TO THE BOOKS!—That is what seems to be happening to the four Archers this week. The freshman on the left, Judy Evans, is getting a little help from senior Mary Sue Robertson. Chris Parrott, young man next to Judy, is an ex-freshman of last semester and looks like he is in the swing of studies. Bob King, junior, has also found it possible to study while relaxed. These teens are going to get some of their studies done outside since the weather is becoming a little more like summer. (Picture by Gilsdorf)

Freshmen Set Goals To Achieve At South

Peggy Bauer: Peggy's aims are in the business field. She is sports-minded and plans to join GAA.

David Allen: Dave is on the college course and his main interests lie in geography and history.

Carol Jo Becher: Carol Jo is interested in business and is on the college course.

Karl Bandemer: Basketball and track interest Karl most. He is on the college course.

Start Working Early; Develop Good Habits

The old saying, "Time lost is never found," could well be remembered by all new freshmen as well as upperclassmen. You freshmen have four full years of high school to work for good grades and participate in extra-curricular activities. Don't wait until the fourth year to do it, get in the swing of things now. Low averages get harder and harder to raise as the years go by. Sophomores and juniors should realize this, and most seniors finally do.

By starting to work hard now freshmen will help themselves more than they know. If good study habits are practiced, they're much easier to maintain than to develop later.

If you work hard all four years of high school, the doors of college and good jobs open wider. It is unfortunate when this realization comes too late. Don't let this be you! With colleges crowded the way they are, only students with good records and recommendations will be accepted. Be one of those students!

Put your best foot forward. Budget your time wisely between studies and activities. Participate only in those clubs in which you are vitally interested. Don't be a joiner!

The proverb, "Never put off till tomorrow what you can do today," could also read, "Never put off till next year what you can do this year." Don't procrastinate, start now!

Slow Down And Live

Who would deny that driving a car is fun? Who would deny the thrill one feels as thousands of pounds of metallic power come to life beneath his feet and respond obediently to the slightest touch of his hands? Of course it is a pleasure and a privilege to drive an automobile.

But have you, the driver, the receiver of this luxury, considered the terrible responsibility you take upon yourself whenever you turn the ignition key? Whether you have or haven't, take time to think about it now.

When the State of Indiana issued you a drivers license it entrusted in you the duty of protecting and keeping the safety of all others who use the streets and highways. It has given you a great privilege and in turn demands a great responsibility.

Unfortunately, thousands accept the first without bothering to assume the latter. These thousands to a large degree account for the staggering yearly toll of traffic deaths. Their cardinal sin is speed.

An automobile can be as treacherous as a cat. It will serve you faithfully so long as you maintain complete mastery over it; but the moment you let up on the reins, the moment you retreat an inch from complete control, it may turn upon you and kill you. Excessive speed puts an unfair task on the reflexes which are vitally important to complete control of the vehicle.

Think for a moment how terrible it would be to cause another's death just because you decided to take a little chance with an excessive speed. Remember, the next time you speed down the straightaway or rush into a turn, you are defying two laws: the civil law and the law of averages.

Charles H. Seitz, '53, and Edna Adeline Grueser were married September 6. Charles is stationed at Columbus, Ohio with the Navy, and Edna is employed there by Nationwide Insurance Co.

Joan Nading, '55, attended the twenty-sixth conference of Beta Sigma Phi, national journalism sorority for women, at Des Moines, Iowa, this summer. Joan, a senior at Purdue University, represented her school at the three day affair, featuring talks by outstanding newspaper personalities.

Alice E. Richard, '58, and Lloyd W. Flowers, '55, were married September 6. Alice is employed by the G. C. Murphy Co. Lloyd, Purdue University student, is employed by the Fort Wayne Newspapers, Inc.

David Fortune, '57, has been awarded a basketball scholarship to Odessa Junior College, Odessa, Texas. He will major in physical education.

Last summer ten Fort Wayne teenagers including Judy Christman, '58, Janet Hoekstra, '58, Molly Somers, '58, Nancy Slick, '58, Jocelyn Kopper, '59, and Nancy Burton, '58, traveled to Richmond for a private conference with Dr. Elton Trueblood, doctor of philosophy at Earlham College. They discussed "How to Apply Religion to Your Life."

Last summer Pfc. John Erwin, '53, won first place in the individual specialty acts of the All-Army entertainment contest at Fort Belvoir, Virginia.

Judith Cook, '56, Marcia Downhour, '56, and Sharon Huxoll, '55, will be among the 97 Oberlin College Conservatory of Music students who will study in Salzburg, Austria during the 1958-59 school year. While there the students will study required and elective courses at the Academy of Music and Performing Arts.

Married September 7 were Richard J. Cashman, '54, and Dorothy Ann Doran. Both are students of the University of Miami, Coral Gables, Florida, where Dorothy is a member of Alpha Chi Omega Sorority, and Richard is affiliated with Sigma Chi Fraternity.

Ronald L. Hodgin, '56, and Mary Lee Popps were married September 3. Mary is a graduate of the Fort Wayne Bible College and is a secretary at the First Missionary Church. Ronald, graduate of International Business College, is presently employed by the Bible Truth Publishers and attends Fort Wayne Bible College.

Frosh Everet Mol Tells Experiences Living In Holland

Among all the new freshmen coming to South Side this semester, one boy has had a very different and exciting past. This boy is Everet Mol who spent eight years of his life in the country of windmills and wooden shoes, Holland.

Everet may shatter an illusion for you though, because he says the people no longer wear wooden shoes and windmills are few and far between. Nowadays, they are mostly used for scenery.

In Zenlo, Holland, where Everet lived, most of the people make their living by working in factories. The standard of living is high and there is only one class of people which might compare with our middle class.

Television is nearly as common in Holland as in the United States. However there is only one station to be watched and a system of pay television is used. The station only broadcasts for a few hours daily.

The schools in Holland are run by the government, and a bill for tuition and books is sent to each family with school children each year. Six years of grade school and six years of high school are attended by each child. Everet thinks we at South Side are lucky to be able to choose the subjects we would like to study because in Holland there is no elective system.

Teenagers aren't considered as a separate group there. They are considered as children until they are old enough to take responsibility as an adult. It may be for this reason that there is much less delinquency in Holland than in the United States. Parents are also more strict.

Everet has a very high opinion of our country, our city, and our school.

Kelly Couples Enjoy Summer; Romances Last Despite Vacation

Summer vacations usually put "winter romances" on the rocks, but occasionally some do survive the tepid months. Mary Sue Robertson spent most of the summer traveling, but Bob Mann waited very patiently for her return. Culver Summer School claimed most of Bob King's time, but the dances at Culver and an occasional week end home kept Sue Sappenfield from being too lonesome.

Different summer activities gave several couples a new field to explore. Sally Dill showed Dick Johnson a few new swimming techniques, while Sharon Probst explained the good points of horseback riding to Gus Wade. Tom Graham and Stan Hoover tried many times to teach Susie Starr and Sharon Hubbel how to play golf, but all attempts were made in vain. Better luck next year, boys!

Linda Levay kept a sharp lookout on the mail box most of the vacation. She was afraid she might miss a card from Gene Kraus, who was touring Europe. Bob Keegan only went to Bermuda, but Ruth Dill still missed him.

IT WAS "on again, off again, but now on again" for the steady dating of Sunny Kaade and Maria Hilsmier with Bob Miller and Dave Miller. What's wrong with those Miller boys?

Every year about this time some girls are left lonesome by their Romeos leaving for college. Kay Augspurger and Barb Wallace had a hard time saying "good-bye" to Carl Stavreti ('58) and Rich Miller ('58), but the boys promised to write, so that makes things a little easier. Skip Haberly (N.S. '58) will be mailing letters home to Carol Lockwood all the way from Florida telling her about the neat tan he is getting.

Judy Rumple and Martha Milnor are being reconciled by the promise that George Rey (Indiana) and Joe Rodgers (Purdue) will be home often to see their South Side gals. Every beau going to college hopes that the girl he has been dating will soon be back in the swing of having fun with the South Side guys though.

House parties and square dances were the getting acquainted places of many South Siders. Right, Marijane Tobey, Priscilla Ratican, Jerry George, and Dick McBride?

NO THOUGHTS of "what school are you from" enter teenagers' heads in the summer. It seems that Janice Mitchell and Judy Thompson have been having quite a bit of fun with some C.C. friends, Dave Poliginoff and Bill Kestley. Janet Lawry has been enjoying the company of the North Sider, Tom Pence. Barb Miser didn't stop with a different school; she went to another town, Garrett, to find Harry Mangese.

Susie Hoard, Bessie Ferguson, and Judy Robinson will be counting on Harry Trosin, Dave Roderick, and Bill Spindler to take them to the dances and parties now that school has started.

The "old steady couples," Marty Clark, Nick Demetre, Judy Cramer, and Dave Hickman are finding that they can't spend as much time together as they did this summer—too much homework.

Getting into the whirl at a new school is always a hard task, but the freshman gals, Sharon Eitman and Sue Herrod, find it is not too bad with Bob Lohman and Mike Ferver to lean on.

It won't be long until there will be many more names linked together, and let's hope that they have as much fun as these couples have had during the past summer months.

Archers Receive Another Letter Telling Of Student Happenings

South Side High School
September 11, 1958

Hi, Archers!

How's it feel to be "hitting the books" again? Summer really created some bad habits—loafing and sleeping late. We'll sure have to break those fast!

Tons of Kellys showed up at the Football Jamboree to support the Green and White. Our mighty Archer gridiron team really showed us how football is played. Way to go! Let's keep up the good support of the team all through the season.

Speaking of football, Bob Shine suffered a broken nose while practicing for the Jamboree.

Have you noticed all the ex-glasses wearers around school without their specks? Could be contact lenses.

TYPING IS SUCH strenuous work! Just ask Bessie Ferguson, Archer junior. While taking typing in summer school, Bessie found it necessary to eat Rice Crispies during class to keep her going.

The well-trod journey from Clear Lake to Fort Wayne is just too much for some junior girls. With Sharon Probst at the wheel and Merle Baldwin, Penny Hunt, Bessie Ferguson, and Marian McCallister as sign-watchers, you'd think they could make it back, but you never know. All were quite surprised to see a sign reading, "Welcome to Ohio." They must have taken the wrong turn someplace!

THE HULA-HOOP craze has really hit Fort Wayne. Archers of all ages have been overcome with this new sport. You never can tell, it might replace basketball!

Neil Mieras and Bob Haag are the new bubblegum blowing champions! In a hard-fought battle with Posy Weilemann and Pamm Holtzberg these boys emerged as the victors (until their beautiful bubbles were popped by the girls—what a mess!).

Well, that's about all for now; see you soon!

P.S.—Study hard!!!!

Old Familiar Trials, Tribulations Brought To Light In Song Titles

To some, songs are just songs and nothing more. But to others they ironically often go hand in hand with some of their troubles, sayings, trials, and tribulations. Listed below are some of the more popular songs and a supposed humorous comment.

"Gas Money"
Who has it?
"Lean Jean"
I guess there are two extremes.
"Devoted to You"
A teenage boy and his hot rod as seen by his steady.
"Trouble"
Aren't we all—to our teachers?
"Weekend"
General concensus—there ought to be two in every week.
"Bird Dog"
What boys think of fellows who cut in on their steadies at dances.
"I Love You Because"
You do my homework so well/and you have a car.
"Wild Child"
General concensus of parents.
"Early in the Morning"
Physically I may be in class, but mentally I'm still in bed.
"Think It Over"
"Can't we do oral book reports after school?"
"The End"
June 3, 1959
"Periwinkle Blue"
The hopeful color of the graduation gowns for the class of '60.
"The Walker"
Guess who took the car to the office today!
"Born Too Late"
"Just think, I could be out of school by now!"
"Summertime Blues"
No one could get a decent tan this summer.
"Break Up"
"If you won't promise to write my themes."
"Young Dreams"
That each student would be issued a pack of signed hall passes.
"Dance, Everybody, Dance"
In center hall fifth period.
"Little Star"
"What do you think you are—a flashlight?"
"Poor Little Fool"
"I disagree with that theory, professor."
"Western Movies"
A perfect Saturday afternoon date.
"Lazy Summer Night"
"What difference does the season make? I'm lazy all the time."
"Gingerbread"
175 calories.
"Susie Darlin' "
"Please write my excuses, just this once!"
"Nel Blu Dipinto Di Blu"
The one song you can't make any digs about, simply because who understands Italian other than Domenico Modugno?
"Green Mosquito"
The Green Hornet's sidkick.
"Ramrod"
Culver cadets' backs during drill practice.
"Just a Dream"
That I'll pass chem.
"Rockin' Robin"
I'm sure Uncle Bob (Mr. Weber) never mentioned anything like this in biology.
"Over and Over"
"You have to have all your themes in to graduate."
"Summertime, Summertime"
Let's see, only 266 more days.
"Carol"
At last I have a song dedicated to me, even if they didn't spell it right!

Ode To Football

The ground is firm and green and the white lines boldly gleam
As the stands fill up with cheering South Side fans.
We've come to see the team, the good ol' Archer team,
The finest team in all the many lands.
Yeh, rah team, fight, fight, fight for victory's in sight,
As you battle on to win another game.
We cheer with all our might for our good Green and White,
Go on to victory and lots of fame.
We're behind you all the way as you fight for us each day
That you meet a strong and cunning enemy,
So on the job don't lay, go out and win today
And we'll cheer and celebrate your victory.

Guess Who?

Lbil Emrey—Wait until he gets hold of a football.
Nejaie Rolalc—She can jump five feet, two inches easily.
Antej Kichs—Heap big chief on the Times.
Obb Namhol—A new greeny.
Uydj Esacehfr—Tremendous job in the outdoor theater presentation of "Damn Yankees."
Egen Seurok—Like a dream, a summer in Europe.
Nda Htirct—Should be very strong after lifting weights all summer.
Yka Rebrepsgua—What a tan she got at Clear Lake.
Cam Ciierwk—Painted his old car red . . . wow.
Mesit—What everyone should buy. The Times.

Gene Kraus Enjoys Two Month Trip Visiting Europe

The United States ocean liner, "The Constitution," pulled its way out of the busy New York harbor and began its eight day cruise across the Atlantic on May 28, 1958. When "The Constitution" docked at Naples, Italy, Gene Kraus, a South Side senior, and his parents eagerly got off the boat to begin the start of a wonderful summer in Europe.

The next day, Gene and his family left sunny Naples and traveled up the province to Rome where they spent five days. Gene had an enjoyable time visiting all the old ruins of ancient Rome and it certainly made the stories he had read in Latin class seem more realistic. As far as food was concerned, Gene ate spaghetti and pizza and other Italian dishes. "The Italians had a big business of selling hamburgers at $1.50 apiece," stated Gene. "The country was rather commercial and there were more Americans there than Italians." Gene also said that there were many poor people in Italy and poverty seemed to prevail over a great number.

Traveling on up the country to Florence and Poro Vino, Gene and his family then spent two days relaxing on the beautiful Riviera. Then a train took Gene up to Milan and Lake Como in the Italian Alps.

They said good-by to Italy and took a train to Venice where they spent two days. Gene especially noted that all the buildings in the city were very ancient and definitely held many fascinating tales of the Venice of yesterday.

LEAVING VENICE by bus, Gene went through the mountains to Innsbruck, Germany. The whole town was surrounded by high mountains and Gene was quite amazed at seeing snow on the ground while the temperature read 75 degrees. In Munich, he noticed that the Germans look more like Americans and they all seemed very friendly. He liked Germany mainly because it wasn't as commercialized as other countries. Germany didn't have to depend upon tourists for living, because their businesses are prosperous and they also have a very strong middle class of people.

There are a few Americans stationed in Germany and Gene talked to one soldier. The soldier told him that they had to stay over there for a while longer in order to protect Germany while she was building up her country. However, the Germans didn't care for the soldiers too much and merely tolerated their presence. Many bombing ruins were also visible.

GENE WENT BACK to Salsburg, Austria, where he stayed at a famous lodge. "At one time," stated Gene, "Von Ribbentrop stayed at this lodge and threw the owner into exile." It is also said that three million dollars worth of valuable jewels are buried someplace near the lodge. To this time, they have never been discovered although many have tried.

Vienna was their next stop and Gene saw many castles and other points of historical background. Its population is about two million while the whole country of Austria has only eight million people.

From Austria, Gene traveled into Switzerland. Although this country usually remains neutral throughout the wars, every man from the ages of 18 to 60 is a member of the army. Gene talked to a guide that said that within 48 hours they could have an army of one million men armed and ready to go. There were also a great many underground shelters and food storages in case of attack by another country. In Interlocken, Gene had the experience of walking inside of an ice glacier. "Real cool and wet," was his comment.

LEAVING SWITZERLAND, he went back into Germany and through the famous Black Forest. In Salesburg, Germany, he went into one place that seemed similar to Miller's in a German way. There were teenagers dancing to Elvis Presley's and Fats Domino's older records. The style of clothes for the boys there was "laderhausen" (leather pants).

A train took Gene to Amsterdam and then to Brussels for a delightful five days at the World's Fair. He said that he enjoyed the fair most of all, but was rather disappointed in parts of the American display. One thing he did like was a small movie-house type of building where they showed typical scenes of American living on a big Cinerama screen. One picture showed a factory whistle blowing and all the workers coming out and driving away in cars. This astonished many of the people there who couldn't believe such a thing.

"The Russian display was centered mainly around machinery and food," stated Gene. "They overplayed many things and showed expensive cars and other luxuries that most people in Russia couldn't afford." Gene also noted that they had Sputnik III on display and proved that it weighed more than an American Cadillac.

"It was like walking in a fantasyland or a dream," said Gene in describing the buildings at the Fair. All of the buildings were built very modern and though France had the largest building, Gene thought that the American pavilion was the prettiest of all the buildings.

AFTER THE FAIR, they went on to Paris where Gene saw the Palace of Versailles and other historic places. Gene also met Mr. Applegate there in France.

After spending four days in England, where Gene visited Shakespeare's house, he boarded "The Ille de France" and was greeted on August 21 by the beautiful Statue of Liberty in New York, thus ending a wonderful summer.

Iva Anspach Devotes Summer To Navaho Indian Mission

Iva Anspach

"Yaahte!" cried the Navajos as they greeted Iva Dell Anspach. This Archer devoted her summer to these friendly people at their New Mexican mission, located in the northwestern part of the state near Cuba, N. M.

Being part Iroquois herself, Iva stated her concern for the Indians. "I'm very much interested in the welfare of the Indians, especially the Navajos whom I feel are mistreated. As a missionary I feel I can serve both God and man."

Gaining experience for her future career, Iva taught Bible school and performed menial tasks such as washing dishes and making beds.

AN AMUSING incident occurred while Iva was preparing a Bible lesson. Three Navajo lads presented her with a package gaily wrapped in pink plastic. Removing the tissue paper inside, Iva noticed a tail and legs. Terrified, she dropped the package, revealing a horny toad. "Those things remind me of miniature dinosaurs," she explained.

Rain and chilly weather prompted Iva to retire for the night a little earlier than usual. As she turned back the covers, she discovered, to her horror, another horny toad. For the remainder of her visit, Iva was frequently chased by little Navajos bearing little horny toads.

Eating in the Navajo hogans, hollow mounds of dirt containing a door but no windows, Iva learned many of the tribal customs. Fry-bread, sheep, lamb, goat, and potatoes, the common Navajo menu, are served to the family seated on the floor. Vegetables are seldom eaten, as the soil is too hard and rocky for them to prosper. Tea made from the yellow flower of a wild native plant is the favorite beverage.

THE MISSION supports one family which performs odd jobs there, but most of the Navajos support themselves by herding sheep on the reservation.

The Indians wear their native costumes constantly and retain a few old customs, such as the rain dance.

Pagan worship is still conducted by some tribes not yet converted to Christianity. The doors of their hogans face the east so the Indians may worship the rising sun every morning.

Navajo papooses are carried on their mothers' backs in cradle boards for two years. Their belief that this habit will guarantee a stronger and straighter back is false. When the board is taken away, the babies' means of support is removed and they are unable to sit upright.

AS IVA DELL soon learned, any change in pronunciation or voice will completely change a word's meaning. "Yaahte," the Navajo greeting is translated "You're a louse" when the final "e" is pronounced long instead of short.

"My People," an inspired poem written by Iva, expresses her feelings about the Navajos.

"My People"

My people are far away.
They are not among my white friends in the bustling city,
Nor of the loved ones that I call my family,
Nor my relation.
My people live in dirt hogans camouflaged by the thirsty earth.
My people are proud of blood, rich of heritage, brown of skin and shy of speech.
My people are the Navajos.
To them is my calling;
Among them is my home;
With them is my heart.
These are my people.

Farewells were not exchanged when Iva left the mission, because saying good-bye implies the guest will never return.

Heavin Boys Own Model Plane Shop, Operated In Home

Jim and Jon Heavin, junior brothers, have made their hobby into a business. They own and operate a model airplane shop in their home at 714 Nuttman Avenue.

The boys started their business in October of 1956 when they found that the hobby shop where Jim had been buying his planes was going to close out its stock. They wished they had a shop like this which would supply them with spending money; therefore, they told their parents about the shop selling out. After considerable discussion and a talk with the owner, who was willing to sell them his entire stock and fixtures, came the problem of finances.

MR. HEAVIN and the boys contacted the bank and a loan was negotiated. Next the shop had to be planned. One room of the basement had an outside entrance; an ideal room was made after it was painted and sealed overhead.

During the time of remodeling the room, a name was discussed. They wanted something different; and after going through a list of all the hobby shops in the United States, they decided upon the title of "The Flight Shack."

Jim and Jon sell gas model planes, kits, engines, and accessories for the model builder and flier. Jim is the flying member of the partnership and helps beginners learn to build and fly their models.

He attended a meet at Kokomo last summer and won a trophy for one of his models. Jon does not go in for flying but handles the business details of the shop.

Both boys and their dad are members of the "Mad Modelers," a flying club in Fort Wayne.

THE YOUNG OWNERS say the business has grown much more in a year than they ever anticipated and are planning on the profits helping them through college.

The boys are busy at school as well as at home. Jim is on the business course.

Jon is preparing to go to college. The boys have made no plans for the future other than going to college.

Jim and Jon extend a welcome to boys from nine to ninety-nine to visit the shop and get acquainted. They are open evenings and Sundays for the convenience of their customers.

Archers Attend Summer School

Students Voice Opinions On Summer Curriculum

While the majority of the South Side student population swam and sunned, a few students slaved over worn textbooks, attempting to comprehend the numerous mysteries locked within the battered covers. In fact, 221 South Side students studied, willingly or no, in the classrooms of Central High School amid the soothing sounds of reconstruction. A total of 626 students attended Summer School June 9 through August 1. The first period was held from 8 to 10 a.m. and the second period was from 10 a.m. to 12 noon with a five-minute break every hour. There were no afternoon classes.

Mr. Ralph O. Virts, the principal, organized the summer educational program 35 years ago when he was a teacher of mathematics here at South Side.

The courses offered at present are English 7x, 7y, 6x, 6y, 5x, 5y, 4x, 4y, 3y, and 2y; algebra 1, 2, 3, and 4; geometry 1, 2, and 3; trigonometry; United States History 1 and 2; government; sociology; economics; Typing 1 and 2; and Bookkeeping 1 and 2. It is anticipated that next year health, biology, world history and English 2x and 3x will be added to the courses now offered.

Approximately 40 students (15 from South) decided to enrich their knowledge by attending Summer School but chose to forego their credits. Such auditing was common in the typing and advanced mathematics courses.

There were 18 teachers on the faculty representative of South Side, Central, North Side, New Haven, Elmhurst, and Garrett. The instructors from South Side were Mrs. Evlyn Spray, English 5y and 6y; Mr. John Arnold, sociology and economics; and Mr. David Cramer, geometry 1 and 2.

Several South Side students commented on the Summer School program.

Carol Dehnert (Bookkeeping 2)—"I've attended Summer School for two years. I've learned a lot because I've had two good teachers and the classes were small. I enjoyed meeting teachers from other schools and I liked the informality. In addition, since classes are in the morning, they don't interfere with most summer activities."

Jim Richardson (U.S. History)—"I thoroughly enjoyed Summer School. It was informal, not too difficult, and I learned a lot in a short time. Also, it was a good experience. My instructor presented the course in a college manner; therefore, it was quite different from most high school classes."

Susie Ehrman (Government)—"I enjoyed Summer School. The hours were good, and it's a wonderful place to meet other students. I learned a lot. We had a classroom session of Congress and court proceedings. I was particularly impressed by the outside trips we took. We visited the Federal Courts, the Courthouse, and City Hall."

Steve Smith (Trigonometry)—"There were a lot of things I would rather have done than gone to Summer School, but it wasn't bad. I liked the informality and that five-minute break when we could buy pop and candy. I had a very good teacher. There were only seven in our class. Several were college fellows, one boy from Xavier, and a girl from Central."

Edee White (Algebra 2)—"In Summer School a person takes only one or two classes so there is plenty of time to prepare assignments. Algebra is algebra, but I think the summer classes are easier than regular school. With a two-hour class we had time to get extra help from the teacher. The first hour we discussed our assignment for that day; the second hour we did the next day's assignment. If we got stuck, the teacher was right there to give us help. Also, with time in class to do our assigned work, we had little homework. I enjoyed meeting a lot of other pupils. The only disadvantage was that I couldn't stay out very late at night with school the next day."

Terry Berk (English)—"I thought Summer School was a waste of time! Our class was a breeze—we had some literature but very little grammar. The teacher was a lot of fun but didn't teach us much. I didn't meet many students from other schools because 20 of the 31 in our class were from South."

Sandra Starke (Typing)—"I had fun in Summer School. Since it was a rather cool summer, it wasn't uncomfortable to study in a classroom for a couple of hours. It was quite profitable, too—if I hadn't attended school I would have just stayed in bed and accomplished nothing."

Music Department To Have Busy Year

"The Music Department will have another busy year ahead of them," says Mr. Lester Hostetler and Mr. R. T. Drummond. The choir, band, and orchestra will display their talent and ability in many concerts and programs both in and out of school.

The Vocal Department, directed by Mr. Hostetler, is separated into four divisions. The first division is for freshmen who are interested in music. They do not have to try out for this vocal division. The second division is the advancement of the first division.

The third division is the occasional choir. The fourth and the hardest worked for is concert choir. Anyone who would like to talk to Mr. Hostetler concerning this music is to see him in Room 40.

THE INSTRUMENTAL Department is conducted by Mr. Drummond. Students are asked to see him if they are interested in either band or orchestra.

Girls who have questions about the majorettes program are also to see Mr. Drummond. These girls perform their marching skill for pre-games and half-time performances.

A new solid credit course is being offered for any students interested. It is a class on the elements of music appreciation. Again students are asked to see Mr. Drummond if interested.

Mr. Hostetler and Mr. Drummond are requesting students for accompanists.

South Siders always enjoy the fine performances the Music Department display at the Music Assemblies and certainly are proud of its wonderful Music Department.

South Welcomes All Custodians

South Side is happy to welcome new and former custodians.

Adolph Frankenstein, who replaced Clarence Hartman, is the only new member of the custodian staff. Mr. Frankenstein previously worked at the knitting mill.

Russell Seltenright, head custodian, has worked at South Side 12 years and in the public school system 13 years.

Earl Downey has spent eight years at South with previous work at Washington School. John Kowal and Ike Williams have both spent three years at our school.

Archie James and George Royer have served us for five and four years, respectively. Mr. Royer came to South from Adams.

This year will be the second full year for Martin Riley who had been working at the First Presbyterian Church.

Both Dick Arney, engineer, and Ken Buckmaster, fireman, have devoted three years work to South Side. Helen Carlo is entering into her second year of work here assisting Matron Dessie Spears.

Camera Club Announces First Meeting Wednesday

"An interesting program of developing, printing, and enlarging is on the agenda for the coming year," announced Mr. Ernest Walker, Camera Club adviser. The first meeting is to be conducted in the Greeley Room Wednesday at 3:30 p.m.

Officers for the year include Clarence Sanders, president; John Musser, vice-president; and Linda Moody, secretary-treasurer. All students interested in photography are invited to attend the meetings.

Service Workers Asset To Librarian; Gaining Experience

Crisis in the library! An evasive book which has been returned according to the borrower, is nowhere to be found. Soon, however, the mystery will be solved by one of the 25 librarians assisting Miss Willodeen Price. The girls keep the library running smoothly and it's quite a job.

As of last June 9, 685 books graced the shelves of the library. They aren't exactly catching dust either, because the library, which holds 75 students, is full practically every period.

The service workers' jobs are to find those books which frustrated students declare are not there, and to charge them out; then card and shelve them when they're returned. They send attendance slips to study hall, and fine and overdue notices to Archers who lack punctuality. Cards are typed and filed. Furthermore, mail is checked in through their efforts.

Miss Price, our librarian since 1954, couldn't get along without the girls' aid. When asked if any girl was especially helpful, she responded, "They're all good and their help is invaluable."

They aid the students of South Side; yet they, themselves, are being and will be repaid a thousand times. In college years and all through life, the experience they have gained "servicing" in library will benefit them. The confidence that most of us wish we could feel when we enter a large library are theirs for a lifetime.

WHILE COLLECTING valuable experience, the girls are also collecting points. One point for a study period and two points for extra work are given. A bronze pin is the reward for 75 points; a silver pin when 150 points have been accumulated, and a gold pin for 300 points.

Service workers must be sophomores, juniors, or seniors. To be a service worker, one must fill out an application blank, and names are chosen on scholastic grounds.

Oh, by the way, that evasive book was finally found by one of the service workers.

Joan Goshert Enjoys Working For Father As Dental Assistant

Joan Goshert, senior, works as receptionist in her father's dental office, answering the telephone and making the appointments. Other duties include bookkeeping, typing, operating the X-ray machine, developing X-rays, sterilizing the instruments, seating the patients, and mixing fillings.

Joan began her job last June. She watched her father's regular assistant for one week and then began on her own. During the school year, she works on Saturday mornings.

Her extra-curricular activities include Philo, Job's Daughters, and Junior Achievement. She is secretary of her Junior Achievement company. On Sundays, she may be found attending Third Presbyterian Church.

When asked if she enjoys her work, Joan replied, "Yes, besides getting experience, I have an opportunity to meet many people." Among the interesting people she has met is a 70-year-old woman who still has a baby tooth. She has also met several of the high school basketball players from all the city schools.

In her spare time, Joan enjoys ice skating, water skiing, and speed boating.

Archers Face Shortridge After Opening Loss

South Battles On Even Terms For 3 Periods

Steve Gaskill Scores On Forty-Yard Run In First Period

A spirited but inexperienced South Side football squad battled the perennially tough Anderson Indians for three periods, only to run out of steam in the fourth period and be stopped by a two-touchdown count. Anderson, led by letterman John Teague, had to play heads-up ball to put down South's Archers in both teams' opening game. Each showed mistakes of a beginner, Anderson fumbling five times and South three.

Anderson won the toss of coin and chose to receive. Captain Joe Roth kicked off. Later in the period the fleet-footed Teague scored Anderson's first TD on a 10-yard run over center; he also ran Anderson's conversion, to make it 7-0 in favor of the Red.

The Green came roaring back, making all their yardage on the ground. Left halfback Bill Meyer scampered 40 yards for a touchdown, only to be called back for a backfield-in-motion penalty. But the Archers were not stopped as Steve Gaskill scored on a 40-yard run the very next play. The Green tried to kick the conversion but a high snap from center dampened the play and the score remained 7-6 in favor of Anderson.

The second and third periods proved to be scoreless but very exciting. Both teams came near scoring, only to fumble and lose possession. It wasn't until late in the third period that Anderson began another touchdown march. Then the Archers fell apart.

Teague scored again with a 45-yard run on the first play of the fourth quarter. Halfback Steve Watson ran the extra point across to make it 14-6. Later the Red again marched 32 yards with Bill Graham scoring from the one. The Indians led all departments, having the upper hand in rushing and passing.

Coach Gernand unloaded his bench for the final four minutes, allowing his sophomores to gain some experience. Gernand seemed happy with sops Carl Johnson, Walt Raines, Bob Bolyard, and John Somers. Lineups and scoring summary:

Archers Play Scoreless Tie At Jamboree

Gaskill Paces Kellys With Consistent Runs; T-Formation Effective

Using numerous underclassmen, the South Side Archers showed admirably in their debut as they battled the Cadets of Concordia to a 0-0 tie at the third annual Football Jamboree at Northrop Field last Tuesday. Not only was a tremendous crowd on hand for the three 16-minute games, but they were treated to three interesting and exciting contests.

The Archers' starting defense included Tom Lerch, Steve Smith, Win Moses, John Somers, Bill Meyer, Lawson White, Ken Howe, Dan Tritch, Jib Olinske, Terry Berk, and Joe Roth.

Archer hard tackling forced Concordia to fumble quickly in the first quarter. The Archer eleven immediately started to move with quarterback Steve Smith calling signals from the newly-adopted T-formation.

HALFBACKS Tom Lerch and Steve Gaskill, sweeping around the ends, and fullback Win Moses, roaring up the middle, accounted for all the Archer yardage in the first half, and when the buzzer sounded, the pigskin was on the Maroon nine-yard stripe.

South Side received the kickoff starting the third stanza and never lost control, mixing up their assortment of plays well, using Walt Raines and Mike Millikan in addition to the other three backs.

The Gernand crew continued to drive up the middle and pace around the ends. And when the game ended, they had moved the ball down to the Cadet three-yard line.

The big Green showed admirably in their debut from a T-formation, not having to punt once throughout the game, and gained a total of seven first downs in the 16-minute contest.

SOUTH'S BIG MAN for the night was Steve Gaskill who averaged over five yards per carry and racked up the two longest runs of the game, a 15-yard scamper around left end and an 11-yard dash up the middle.

One interesting note is that Coach Bob Gernand used four sophomores, Lawson White, Jim Dawson, Carl Johnson, and John Somers frequently in the game showing potential power in future years.

Two of the apparent reasons for the low-scoring affair was because of the shortened periods and that it was the first game for both teams.

Central Catholic and New Haven met in the first game with the Irish a heavy favorite. After a scoreless first half, Irish halfback Frank Lombardo took the pigskin and went for a total of 9 yards in four plays for the evening's first touchdown. The extra point was good and the Purple held a 7-0 bulge.

Midway through the third quarter, Bulldog back Gary Kummer, threw a desperation pass that was caught by end Lani Norton who ran 55 yards to score, tying the game at seven apiece.

Irish passing gambles paid off in big dividends as the Purple threw three straight passes and completing three for a total gain of 65 big yards and the winning touchdown coming on an 11-yard toss from Walsh to Sorg.

The game ended 14-7 with C.C. on top.

IN THE SECOND GAME the Redskins of North Side met Central's Tigers, Central having the edge in line strength while North possessed good backs.

After a Central fumble on their own 15-yard marker a stalwart Tiger defense led by big Percy Moore held and and the half ended in a scoreless tie.

Things livened up a bit in the third period when T. C. Williams, Central's star back made a brilliant 45-yard touchdown jaunt only to have it called back for clipping.

After that the game seesawed with the ball changing hands frequently. The game ended in a 0-0 tie.

High-Jumping Kelly Discovered; Aims To Participate In Olympics

Among the many talents of pert, willowy Jeanie Carroll, one recently discovered is high jumping. This talent was uncovered at dinner one night when Jeanie announced casually to her parents that she had jumped about four feet, 11 inches in gym class that day.

Jeanie watched wonderingly while her father excitedly called Mr. Chambers, track coach at North Side. After a try-out at Northrop Field, Mr. Chambers gave Jeanie a pair of track shoes and track films from Central High School.

Soon Jeanie could be seen practicing in her back yard where her father had built a pit. Jeanie practices every day for about half an hour. Mr. Collyer, recent track coach at South Side, set up a schedule for her after Mr. Carroll asked him to give Jeanie a few pointers. She also received a letter from Tug Wilson, president of the Olympics, telling her to work hard.

IN ORDER TO get "the taste" of competition, Jeanie's father took her to an AAU track meet in Chicago. Jeanie placed third but twisted her knee, making it difficult for her to continue her practices for a while. With a great deal more practice, Jeanie hopes to enter the Pan American Games in Chicago next year. After this she is looking forward to working toward the 1960 Olympics which will be held in Rome. Jeanie is sanctioned by the Fort Wayne American Athletic Union. The women's record for high jumping set this year is five feet, 10 inches.

Jeanie is a sophomore on the college course taking Latin, history, English, geometry, and dance. She is a member of 36 Workshop and Meterites, and a homeroom reporter for the Times. After attending typing class in summer school, she spent the rest of the summer water-skiing and swimming at Clear Lake and Girl Scout Camp. She also likes to ice skate, collect stamps, and has done some modeling.

We hope that Jeanie will work hard so that some day we can say, "I knew her when . . ."

Speedball Rules Announced For Girls' First Gym Event

The girls' gym class will start the semester with speedball. The rules are very important and the girls are to study them for a written test. All student leaders are asked to hand the rules to their gym teacher.

Playing Privileges:

1. A fly ball may be caught, passed, drop-kicked, punted, or juggled.
2. A ground ball is stationary, rolling or bouncing from the ground.
3. A player kicking the ball into the air is eligible to catch it herself before it hits the ground.
4. The goal tender has no special privileges.
5. The ball may be dribbled by feet at will, but only one overhead juggle is allowed.
6. A player is allowed one step in any direction while holding the ball and standing still. If running, two steps are allowed.
7. A player may legally guard an opponent who has the ball. Holding is not allowed, nor an obstruction of any sort.
8. The Ball: When the ball is held by two opposing players simultaneously or when a referee is in doubt which side played the ball out of bounds, a tie ball is declared. It is also used at center, after a double foul.
9. Free Kick: Whenever a free kick is awarded a team, the ball is put in play by a place-kick, the opposing team being required to stay five yards from the ball in every direction until it is killed. The kicker is not allowed to kick it again until it is touched by another player.

Playing Restriction:

1. Personal fouls:
   a. Kicking, tripping, charging, pushing, holding, or blocking an opponent;
   b. Unnecessary roughness of any description.
2. Technical fouls:
   a. Unsportsmanlike conduct;
   b. Unnecessarily delaying the game;
   c. Kicking the ball.
3. Violations:
   a. Carrying the ball;
   b. Touching a ground ball with the hands or arms below the elbows;
   c. Making two successive overhead dribbles;
   d. Violating kick-off rule. (Ball must not be played again by center forward until played by another; all members of her side shall stand behind the ball when kicked, and no opponent shall pass the restraining line until the ball is kicked.
   e. Violating out-of-bounds rule. (Playing the ball again herself or taking more than five seconds to play the ball.)
   f. Violating the tie ball restrictions.

Penalties:

1. If a personal foul is committed outside her own area the opponent shall be awarded a penalty kick.
2. If a personal foul is committed outside a player's own area, penalty kicks are awarded. The ball is in play after the second one is missed.
3. If a technical foul is committed outside a player's own penalty area, the opponent shall be awarded a penalty kick.
4. If a technical foul is committed inside a player's own penalty area, the opponents are awarded one penalty kick. As soon as the ball is kicked it shall be considered in play and a follow-up is allowed.
5. If a violation is committed by a player outside his own penalty area, a free kick is awarded at the spot of violation.
6. If a violation is committed by a player inside his own penalty area, opponents shall be awarded a penalty kick with the opportunity of a follow-up if it is missed.

South Stadium To Host Event Tomorrow

Blue Devils Return Several Of Squad That Beat Kellys Before

The South Side gridmen will go against a capable, experienced Indianapolis Shortridge squad in their home opener tomorrow evening at 8 p.m. in the South Side Stadium.

The Blue Devils have several players returning from the squad which trounced the Archers, 33-0, last year.

Returnees from last year's line include starters Jack Davis at guard, and end Ron Goodnight. The other end position is capably filled by Todd Stewart and Bill Weigel, also veterans of the 1958 campaign.

Tackle Phil Dill is the largest man on the squad, weighing in at 208 pounds. Other linemen who figure prominently in the Blue Devils' plans are center Bill Bowe and guard Joe Hood. Senior tackles John Hawk and Dick Chaplin also bolster the beefy Shortridge forward wall.

Jerry Klapper lends experience to the backfield, having done a fine job previously in the number two slot at quarterback.

A PARTICULARLY good man to watch will be Dick Carson at halfback. Shortridge lost its two breakaway varsity halfbacks through graduation, and Dick, a fine runner and starter at fullback last season, has been shifted to half. Dick's place at fullback has been amply filled by Dennis Miskell.

Several other boys have also been helping out in the halfback slot. They include A. B. Ruby, Jim Ritchie, Wayne Coursey, and Calvin Housier, all returning seniors.

THE GREEN and White has had little success against the Indianapolis school in recent years, but if the desire is there, this looks like a good year for Coach Gernand's boys to break through with a victory. The recent display by the backs in ground plays might continue against Shortridge and produce a win.

Bill Meyer and Steve Gaskill are sure bets to start at halfback positions against the Blue Devils. Joe Roth will hold down one end position, although the other end position, as well as the line, will not be decided until tomorrow.

Driver's Training Deadline Today

"Today is the deadline for students to enroll in the driver's training course," announced Glen Stebing, driving instructor. Pupils 15½ years and over may enroll, but older students will be given top priority in case there are too many applicants.

A few insurance policies give boys an exemption if they take the driver's training course at school. The exemption does not include girls.

Moses, White Chosen Back, Lineman Of Week

For their superior play in last Friday night's encounter with the Anderson Indians, Win Moses and Lawson White were selected players of the week by the Archer coaching staff. Moses was selected "Back of the Week" and White was selected "Lineman of the Week."

With grim determination and fighting spirit, center Lawson White overcame inexperience to earn recognition as lineman of the week. Although last week-end's game was Lawson's first as a varsity member, he did shine on offense as well as on defense reflecting the capable tutoring he has received in preparation for the current campaign.

Mr. Gernand was well pleased with the 15-year-old sophomore's performance in the Green and White's season opener. Lawson, who measures 5-11 and weighs 170, continually crashed through the strong Anderson line to enable the Kellys to thwart the Indians' ground attack. On offense, White snapped the ball with care and with the proficiency of a veteran and also held back the center of the Anderson line giving the Archer backs enough time to make their moves.

THIS IS LAWSON'S second year on an Archer pigskin team; last season he was one of the stand-outs on the freshman squad. In one year White has developed into one of the biggest men in the Archer line.

Lawson first became interested in the pigskin sport when he was 10 years old. The neighborhood boys would get together to play friendly games and Lawson started playing as part of this group. Lawson recalls, "I wasn't too good in basketball so I developed an interest for playing football." Last year he was a success in football but failed to make the frosh basketball team.

He is happy to be a member of the Archer team this year. He believes that he will be a member of one of the Green and White's best squads in recent seasons and is looking forward to a good year. The team's fast backfield, with Bill Meyer and Steve Gaskill carrying the ball and the fine quarterbacking of Steve Smith, were Lawson's reasons for believing the Kellys were headed towards a good campaign.

WHITE STRESSED that a weak bench and an inexperienced line composed mainly of juniors and sophomores might slow the Archers down. He expects the Green to be in the thick of the City Series scramble, and stated that all three opponents in the city are strong, but if the Kellys play heads-up ball there is no reason why they can't pull a couple victories in this year's race.

Because of his excellent defensive performance in the Anderson game, "Win" Moses has been chosen "back of the week."

Winfield's brilliant defensive play at his linebacker position kept many an Anderson play from succeeding.

Winfield is certainly a fine example of the Archers' fighting spirit, for he was cut on the nose and lip early in the game and although his cuts continued to bleed he remained in the game, playing as hard as he had before.

A junior, "Win" stands five feet, eight inches tall, and weighs 152 pounds. This is his second year on the varsity team. In addition to playing reserve and varsity football as a sophomore, Winfield also played freshman ball.

Cross Country Meet Tuesday

Archers Face Redskins, Defending Champs

Next Tuesday afternoon may give a pre-season inkling of the cross country Sectional team champion as North Side and South Side tangle in South's second meet of the cross country season.

North Side, the defending Sectional champion, was heavily hit at graduation, but is still expected to be one of the strongest teams in the running.

The meet will be of great importance to Porky Holt's fine all-around team, as it will show what added work is needed to win the Sectional contest.

During preparation for the season the team had some fine practice time trials for the all-important two-mile race. Ed Hartman and Al Rainbolt maintained outstanding times between 10:30 and 10:40. Don Kern, Sam Green, Larry Fruchey, Allen David, Gus Wade, Mike Albersmeyer, and Ron Bogan had times through 11 and 12 minutes.

The cross country meets have a different scoring system than most sports. The low score wins and only five members of each team score points, although the other members of one team may force some of the first five of the other team farther back and more points behind. Thus proving that a cross country team is only as good as its last man.

South Side met Concordia last Tuesday, but due to newspaper deadlines, there can be no further coverage at this time.

Who said the area fans' interest for football was declining? Although this has been the opinion of many grid supporters in the Fort Wayne vicinity, an excess of 7,000 people flocked into Northrop Field a week ago Tuesday to witness the third annual six-team Jamboree. The crowd that packed the field was a pleasant surprise to the athletic departments of the six schools.

The only drawback to the large crowd was the little interest shown by the patrons to the action on the field. Despite the good shows the three abbreviated games furnished, the crowd mingled in front of the stands throughout the entire two-hour program. It is a shame for the new fans who actually came to witness the action on the football field that they were being continuously distracted by roaming students.

I noticed also that the students pay little or no attention to the action in games not involving their favorites; so once again, it points out that the high school students in this area should be educated to the facts about the game of football.

SENIOR ROOKIE Steve Gaskill's performances in the Jamboree and at Anderson brought a new ray of hope to the Archer pigskin cause. Although standing only 5-6, and weighing a slight 140 pounds, Gaskill delighted Kelly rooters with his deft ability to elude opposing defenders with quick changes of direction couples with fleeting speed.

South's Steve Gaskill, C.C.'s Frank Lombardo, New Haven's Gary Kummer, and Central's T. C. Williams tagged themselves as the Fort Wayne gridmen to watch on offense after their brilliant performances in the Jamboree and in season-opening engagements over the week end. South's sophomore flash, Lawson White, and Central's Percy Moore sparkled in the Jamboree on defense and established themselves as top candidates for All-City grid honors.

AFTER COMPLETING their first two trial runs of the season, South's 1958 cross country team was faced with the task of hurriedly improving for the opening of the schedule against Concordia this week. At the present time the harrier's clockings are slower than they were in last year's trials.

Newcomer Allen Rainbolt gave the team a shot in the arm by breaking the 10-minute barrier in his first tour over the two-mile course. In doing so, he bettered Eddie Hartman, last season's number one man.

The turnout for cross country is unusually high this campaign. Mr. Holt has many good prospects to fill the two vacated spots on the roster. In addition to having a crack team this season, Mr. Holt has discovered that he has a fast group of underclassmen with which to work in future years.

IN ORDER to keep The South Side Times' patrons better informed with the sports activities among Fort Wayne high schools, two new features will appear in this issue of the paper and continue throughout the year. "Players of the Week" will be presented every week in the paper to recognize the most outstanding boy on defense and offense in the games the week end before the paper is issued. The "City Scoreboard," a feature that will inform readers of the City Series stands, overall records of city squads, keep an up to date tab on the city's top five scorers, will be listed along with the results and schedules of City Series games.

Before we start a new season in the Intramural Department, I would like to explain Intramurals. First of all the people in the Intramural Department feel that the important thing is not winning the game but the taking part in the game. Along with that idea goes the feeling that the essential part of sports is not winning but playing well, clean, and honestly. With all these thoughts let's all get out and enter the first thing on the schedule, touch football. Remember South Side is the only place where there are athletics for all.

Touch football started this week, but it is not too late to get your teams entered. There are two weight divisions, light, 140 pounds and under, and heavy, 140 pounds and up. Touch football is nearly like regular football without losing sight of the safety angle. It is played to develop speed, endurance, skill in running, passing, and kicking, and generalship in leading a team. It has little or no body contact and doesn't require regular football equipment.

Here are the differences in rules from regular football.

1. Nine players constitute a team. Only six are needed to start to prevent forfeit.
2. Touching the ball carrier once on the hips or above is substituted for the tackle.
3. The game shall last approximately 40 minutes, divided into two equal halves.
4. A touchdown counts six points, field goal three points, safety two points, and point after touchdown one point.
5. Substitutions are limited unless a player has been disqualified.
6. The officials are referee, umpire, and linesman. Each captain is to furnish one official and one linesman.
7. Screening is solicited, also blocking an opponent in such a manner to be dangerous is illegal. In blocking, players are to keep both feet on the ground and must not grasp the opponent with the hands.
8. Penalties and Distances: Clipping and tripping—15 yards from spot. Offside—Five yards from preceding down.
9. Five downs before loss of ball, you must score or complete three successful forward passes.
10. An interseption counts a down.

Remember to get your team cards in the gym office. Last year's winners were Jack Waite's Cotton Pickers in the lightweight and Mort Domer's Terrible Titons in the heavyweight.

Remember also, you must have your parents' consent card in to play.

Starting soon will be cross country. This is the ideal sport to get you in shape for basketball. There are at least 20 nights of practice after school, then the final run. You get 25 points for entering and coming to most of the practices. Points received for the finish are: First, 20 points; second, 15 points; third, 10 points; fourth, five points. It is run in three weight divisions. They are: Light—125 pounds and down; middle—145 pounds and down; heavy—146 and up.

Be sure and sign up today in the gym office. Last year there were 32 runners. Larry Miller and Mel Smith tied for the heavyweight honors with a time of 5:43. Ted Lebrecht won the middleweight division in the fine time of 5:32. Gary Gardner and Dave Hickman followed him respectively. Al Rainbolt set a new record last year in the lightweight with the time 5:10. Al is running varsity cross country this year. An interesting sidelight to cross country is that many persons who starred in varsity cross country got their start in Intramural cross country. They all got the fever from Intramurals.

EVENTS TO REMEMBER: Fall Tennis Tournament will be on the last Saturday in September. Fall Golf is the first week end in October. Fall Bowling is the Thursday of Teachers' Convention.

Accomplishments Of Great Archer Coach, Lundy Welborn, Cited In Second Article Dealing With Gridiron Seasons Of Past Years

(This is the second in a series of articles relating the history of football at South Side since 1922. This week's article deals with the accomplishments of Lundy Welborn.—Editor's Note.)

In 1924 Mr. Lundy Welborn came on the scene at South as the Archers' head football coach and remained top man in the football clique for 14 seasons, the longest period any Green and White football coach has served. Mr. Welborn enjoyed many great campaigns in his capacity as head coach. In fact, not until his final season at South was the popular coach frustrated with a miserable season.

During those 14 years, the Kelly gridmen overwhelmed their foes continually to coast to 11 winning seasons. Of the three losing years, only the last season, 1937, was a very poor year. In 1937 they dropped nine of 10 encounters. They failed to produce one perfect season, although in 1926 they missed by an 0-0 tie in their third contest of an abbreviated schedule, in which South swept four games and tied one.

Welborn was undoubtedly the most successful coach at South of all time. In football he piloted the Green to 73 wins, 42 losses, and seven ties, in addition to excelling as basketball, track, and baseball coach. When Ward Gilbert stepped down from the football job, Welborn came in and continued aiding the Archers to a fine season in 1924.

# # #

THAT YEAR, South chalked up six wins against but three losses. In the opener, the remarkable Kellys once again trounced their annual opening game foe, Auburn. The Archers yielded their first TD to Auburn in their 68-7 triumph. A week later Portland fell before the Kellys, 25-7. Their win streak was extended to six games when they avenged a loss to Peru, the team that first upset the Green and White.

After two losses to the Archers, Huntington surprisingly dumped them, 13-6. In the season's finale the Kellys continued to show their mastery over Central by trouncing the Tigers, 46-0!

Success continued to come Welborn's way as the following year the Archers recorded seven wins against three setbacks. They won the first annual alumni game, 21-0, to open the new year and hit a hot streak in which they took seven straight games to extend their win streak from the year before to 10 games. Included in the streak was a 63-0 win over Logansport and a 57-0 win over Huntington. In the tail end of the schedule South hit a tail spin and lost three in a row including the first grid contest ever dropped to Central. The score was 7-6. During that season the Archers averaged 25 points per game while they yielded only five per game.

PRIOR TO THE 1926 season, the Archers were expelled from the IHSAA over disputed tournament funds. As a result the Green and White scheduled five college elevens. In that season the amazing Kellys held their opponents to six points. They went undefeated, but tied one team, Mooseheart. The Mooseheart squad was defending U.S. mythical high school champ.

In 1927 the Archers rolled to another winning season as they captured six, lost but two, and tied one. In city play they easily defeated North Side in the two teams' first encounter, 34-0, and disposed of Central for the fourth time by a 12-6 count to capture the city crown. In 1928 the Kellys failed to repeat as city champs although they won six of eight contests. One of the two losses was a 25-0 lacing from Central.

Nineteen twenty-nine marked the first year that Welborn's boys failed to produce a plus .500 season. They lost to Central, tied North Side, and beat C.C. in the first game between the Irish and Archers by a score of 33-0. Nineteen thirty was the second losing season in a row. Among the defeats that season, South suffered its worst setback to Lindbloom by a score of 70-6.

The following campaign the football picture began to brighten. The Archers recorded five straight wins to open the season; and in doing so held the opposition to just six points, which were all scored in the first game by Portland, as the Archers won the opener, 18-6. The next four games were shutouts. They concluded the season with a 7-2 record despite dropping the final to Central by a slim 13-12 margin. Thus one point deprived South of the city title.

In '32 the championship cup was returned to the Green as they swept past C.C. 40-20, Central 31-0, and North Side 31-0. With many returnees from the team that won eight of 11 the prior year, Welborn was able to steer South to an 8-1-1 record and the school's second consecutive city crown. In city play South averaged 21 points per game offensively, and yielded but two points a game defensively.

IN 1934 THEY slipped off the pace set during '32 and '33 to post a 4-3-2 record. They captured the city title with a 2-1 record in the City Series by posting wins over C.C. and North, and losing to Central.

In 1935, the Kelly gridders took only three out of five games. In the city race they toppled C.C., but lost to North Side and Central.

Another fine season was the outcome of the 1936 campaign in which the Kellys took six and dropped three on their way to another city title. C.C., North Side, and Central fell before the Archers by scores of 12-0, 13-12, and 25-13.

Then came Welborn's last year, the disastrous one. After 13 years of smooth sailing the going suddenly became rough. When the Archers limped off the field for the last time in 1937, they had ended a season in which they were able to salvage only one victory, a 19-0 triumph over then feeble Central Catholic.

WITH THE END of the '37 season came the end of a great era in football at South Side. Despite his going-away present to the school in football, Welborn left a good record behind, an accomplishment that all Archer supporters should appreciate.

From South Side, Mr. Welborn went to Goshen, Ind., to accept a more promising job. He coached at two Goshen high schools—first at Goshen High as head football and track coach, and then at Jefferson High as basketball coach. Later he coached football and track at Nappanee High. From there he went to Niles High in Niles, Mich., where he is presently assistant football coach.

Welborn came to South with the reputation of being very successful. He came from Wilkinson High in Wilkinson, Ind., where he was the coach for every sport at the school. At South his reputation was retained. During those 14 years as football coach he won six city titles, won the Wabash Valley crown, and several NEIC titles.

Recalling the "Welborn era," brings to mind many of the all-time greats that donned Green and White jerseys. Welborn had the privilege of training and coaching the most outstanding football giant from Fort Wayne, Herb Banet, whose name is still synonymous with sports in Fort Wayne and Indiana. Banet, a big cog in the Archer grid unit, went on to achieve great laurels at Manchester College before making his debut into the professional sports world. He was signed by the Green Bay Packers. His success in the pros made all Fort Wayne proud of him, especially Welborn. Today Banet is well known for his achievements as Central's head basketball coach.

TWO OTHERS from the era, Bob Rohmetle and Del Disher, also were standouts at Manchester College in North Manchester. Don Powell, another Kelly who played under Welborn, rose to be a star on the Purdue Boilermakers; and Bob Schoff and George Nulf starred at Butler U. after graduating from South.

The six ex-Archers mentioned above were just a few of the lads that made the grade after Welborn's tutoring. Although it is very difficult to list all the stars from a 14-year period, several of the important ones that Mr. Welborn still vividly remembers will be mentioned.

Of course, the six mentioned previously should be included in a list of the greats under Welborn. Banet played quarterback and then was succeeded by George Nulf. Two of the six, Del Disher and Bob Rohmetle, played the guard position. The remaining two, Bob Schoff and Don Powell, were tackle and end, respectively.

The great drop kicker, Ed Aldrich, finished out his career under Welborn at his normal halfback spot. Welborn also had the first of two families of outstanding Archer athletes. They were Earl Bolyard and Martin Ellenwood. Bolyard played quarterback and was Welborn's top performer in baseball. Earl later went on to play professional baseball for the New York Yankees. Although the Bolyard family is still supplying the Archers with top talent, the Ellenwood's did their share of giving gifted athletes to the Archer teams.

SOME OF THE other stars during the 14 years were Chuck Brubaker, end; Nabe Sprunger, quarterback and end; Gordon Straley, tackle; Don Currie, halfback; Sam Faye, end; Wilson McCormick, halfback; Bob Mooney, halfback; Fred Dull, fullback; Bill Kingstey, end; Bernard Dickey, end; John Staley, quarterback; Jim Dern, guard; and Ed Grim, a halfback, who built up a reputation for a great drop and place kick.

Recently communicated with, Mr. Welborn commented that he enjoyed his years of affiliation at South. He said, "I enjoyed my years at South very much because of the attitude and spirit of the boys. We had from 100 to 125 out for football. I was the only coach, and they helped to coach each other. They often did such a good job that the boy they coached won their position. They were well behaved on trips. Their conduct gave South a good reputation."

He further stated that he appreciated the attitude of the administration. They didn't pressure the coaches to win games; but, instead, expected the team to conduct themselves properly. He also enjoyed the rivalry between schools and his association with other coaches and sports writers from this area.

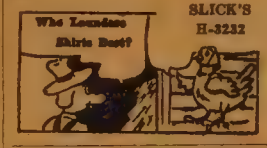
SINCE MR. WELBORN still keeps an attentive watch on sports activities at South, he is in a good position to compare football at South between today and yesterday. He commented, "Boys love to play. They still are willing to work hard and pay the price, if they lose the game." He believes that extra-curricular activities do not interfere too much with sports. His opinion on this point is that the boys have to choose between one or the other and usually participation in sports is their choice; and they realize that they must donate all their time to training.

Mr. Welborn takes quite a different stand on Michigan football vs. Indiana football than most do in this area. He said, "I doubt very much if Michigan football is any better." He also believes that not having the fans behind the team is not too important. Having the boys keyed up for each game and each boy's love for football are the important factors.

Next week: Welborn quits, Mr. Moss is hired as Archer football coach. Read about the two dismal seasons the Kellys went through under the third Archer coach.

Archers Show All-Star Skill

After a victorious campaign on the hardwood, several Archers were chosen to compete in post-season All-Star games.



South Siders Dan Howe and Rich Miller were selected as members of the first Indiana High School All-Star squad, a group which was sponsored by the Fort Wayne Amateur Athletic Association. This team met defeat at the hands of the towering and talented Ohio All-Stars in a closely contested battle on June 7 in the Allen County War Memorial Coliseum by the score of 61-60.

Each year two all-star games are played between teams of selected high school cagers from Indiana and Kentucky. These games are sponsored by the Indianapolis Star. One game is played in Indianapolis and one in Louisville. The proceeds from the games go for aid to the blind.

This year two Archer stars were selected to participate in this traditional series. Seven-foot Mike McCoy was given the well-deserved title of "Mr. Basketball" and wore the number one in the games. Sparkplug guard Carl Stavreti was the number four starter for the Hoosier team.

The first game was played in Butler Fieldhouse, Indianapolis, on June 21. At this time the Indiana squad avenged a double loss to the Bluegrass stars last year by eking out a narrow 75-74 victory.

When the teams met for the second time, a week later, the tall, rugged Kentucky squad longed for revenge. However, the Hoosiers came through again, and the Kentuckians found themselves on the short end of a 69-58 score.

O Rare Ben Null . . . High Tribute Paid To Former Teacher

Shortly after the close of school on June 13, 1957, there came to its final closing the life of one of South Side's most successful teachers, Mr. Benjamin Null, who, from 1922 until his retirement in 1950, was head of the English Department. During part of that time Mr. Null served also as supervisor of English in the elementary and grammar grades of the Fort Wayne schools.

Those who came under Mr. Null's influence at South Side, both students and teachers, realized that he was a man for whom teaching was his life. This truth is emphasized by the fact that, even after his retirement, he made frequent visits to the English classes at South Side, giving help and encouragement to both students and teachers.

Only a few weeks before his death he spoke to the classes in English 8, a college preparatory course which he initiated and which was a source of great pride to him.

ANATOLE FRANCE once wrote, "The whole art of teaching is only the art of awakening the natural curiosity of young minds for the purpose of satisfying it afterwards." Mr. Null possessed this art to a high degree. In his teaching of grammar, a subject most fascinating to him, his aim was to stimulate interest in his students by skillful questioning and then to satisfy that interest with a simple, clear explanation.

Dissatisfied with the way many of the available textbooks presented the relationship of words, Mr. Null wrote "The English Sentence," a small volume which South Side students now use as a basic text in grammar, in order to present the elements of the sentence in an effective, logical way.

Teaching was, however, not Mr. Null's only interest. He recognized the value of another idea expressed by Anatole France that "man is so made that he can find relaxation from one kind of labor only by taking up another." To relax from teaching, Mr. Null took up the hobby of refinishing antique furniture, at which he was as much an artist as in his teaching. Many homes in Fort Wayne display the beauty of his fine handwork.

MR. NULL HAD many interests outside of his school and his workshop. He was a member of many professional groups, such as the Fort Wayne English Council, of which he was a past president; the Indiana Council of Teachers of English; and the National Council of Teachers of English. He was also a member of Exchange Club, a men's service organization. He was a member of the United Presbyterian Church.

As a memorial to Mr. Null and his work in South Side, on the occasion of his retirement in 1950, members of the English department and other faculty members presented to the school the Null Grammar Trophy, to be awarded each year to the student in English 8 who makes the highest grade in a comprehensive test in grammar.

The finest memorial to Mr. Null, however, will be the memory in the hearts of many hundreds of his students and friends of his ready sympathy, his genial nature, his wit, and his keen appreciation of the beauties of language and literature. A quotation from "The Education of Henry Adams" seems especially appropriate to Mr. Null: "A teacher affects eternity; he can never tell when his influence stops."

No words can better epitomize the qualities of this excellent teacher than these lines from Shakespeare's "King Henry VIII":

"He was a scholar, and a ripe and good one;
Exceeding wise, fair-spoken, and persuading."

Wholesome Breakfast Can Bring Entirely Different Outlook On Life

"Bur-r-r-ring!" Man's dreaded mechanical bugler sends forth its usual 7:30 a.m. scream and is, as usual, angrily cast to the floor by an unidentifiable, mumbling creature slithering inch by inch, out of a feathery heaven.

Dragging himself, as if one torn by two conflicting devices, into the bathroom, he struggles to redeem himself as a fairly distinguishable human being. Lo and behold! He fulfilled the challenging task, after some forty-five laboring minutes, that is and manages to allow himself five minutes to run as fast as his skinny little toothpicks can carry.

He breathlessly arrives and is expected by his teacher and fellow classmates, if they are not caught in the trap themselves, to be ready and prepared for a hard day's work. Although he has an empty feeling, as if he has forgotten something, he supposes it is only his algebra assignment. But by fourth period he knows what it was, for he is rudely reminded by some rather embarrassing hunger pains. Can it be true that an all-round American teenager can forget anything that concerns food?

Quite frankly, yes, if that food is in the form of breakfast. The most lavish, abundant, colorful banquet can not be substituted for a simple, refreshing breakfast every morning. What other meal can leave you feeling at the end of a day anticipation and eagerness for the next morning . . . knowing that it will begin with a sunny, satisfying breakfast in a friendly family atmosphere around the kitchen table?

BREAKFAST BRINGS with it all outdoors on a bright, fresh spring morning and stimulates a yearning for life and all its natural vigor in the person who regularly enjoys it every morning. If nothing else is convincing, surely the mere fact that this hunger, after many long hours of fasting during the night, should be expected and satisfied. After all, the word breakfast illustrates this and means exactly what it says, breakfast.

Many people who are ignorant to the motive that this meal produces energy for the morning, a satisfying break, and conditioning for our body for the coming day, show remarkably well the results of slighting this all-important meal.

Let's compare Susie Skimper and Vicki Vitality, two entirely different individuals according to their healthy breakfast habits.

SUSIE WATCHES television at night till her father insists she go to her room to do her homework, all of which occurs past or very near her bedtime. She is so dazed when she does awaken that it takes her twice as long to make the lengthy journey from her room to the bathroom across the hall.

Now Susie is very conscientious about her beauty features, which she spends the rest of the morning culturing, at least till the time she must leave for school. Another discouraging contribution against Susie and her forgotten breakfast is that she is the only member of the family that is up in the morning. Eating alone is worse than not eating at all.

If Susie didn't, for some strange reason, eat her regular bowl of potato chips, three cookies, and two Cokes the night before, she may have a premature growling stomach and manage to peel an orange and gobble it down as she hurriedly leaves the starting line in the race against time.

Unfortunately, after a period of time, this practice develops into a habit, and Susie finds that she no longer has her beauty, alertness, or general outlook on life as she once had. She has become a sullen-eyed, sunken-chested dull girl. Her grades and friends have suffered dearly, for she is always too tired to listen attentively in class and her temper has diminished vastly, much to the discouragement of her friends. Susie and her family also have been steadily drifting into a lonesome sea apart from each other because of the lacking breakfast.

This dramatic episode may seem an exaggeration; however, similar alternatives in an individual fallen into the same situation would definitely occur. Even the slightest displeasure resulting by foolishly skipping the easy morning meal is needless when the whole affair can be remedied by such an enjoyable prescription.

NOW THE OTHER GIRL, Vicki Vitality, is the exact opposite of Susie Skimper and naturally gains the opposite results. She is the picture of health and happiness; and one of the most prominent reasons for this wonderful photograph is that every morning she indulges in a delicious, wholesome breakfast accompanied by a friendly morning conversation with her family.

Vicki has acquired the quality of beauty that Susie coveted: gleaming teeth, bright eyes and hair, a sturdy, graceful figure, and foremost the quality of beauty connected with sincere interest and alertness, cleared mind and friendly smile.

Eating a hearty breakfast can be compared to watering an eager plant. If regularly watered, the plant will grow normal to its capacity; but if forgotten, about a certain percentage of its destined growth is wasted.

Contrary to public opinion, breakfast does not put on extra weight, for it is burned up during the morning activities. But eating heavy foods between supper and bedtime does put on weight. So in order to safely and successfully reduce, cut out bedtime snacks and include breakfast. However, breakfast needs differ according to the exercise planned for the morning. Whether you are riding to school for a change or just walking, whether it is summer or winter, at camp or on a vacation, they all make a difference in the individual needs of a normal person.

MOST REGULAR breakfast-eaters enjoy a stand-by meal every day with only slight changes now and then. They find that a patterned breakfast is reliable and easily prepared, both of which are important factors on an early morning.

Included in this meal should, of course, be some sort of appetizer, usually fruit; an energy food, bread or cereal; and, by all means, milk.

In the country of Sweden, every student in elementary school is served a wholesome breakfast at school, thus producing students working up to their intellectual capacity. However, we Americans are blessed with liberty to make choices. Not always does the person make wise ones, but certainly starting the day with an intellectual and beneficial choice exerts enough effort to devour a tasty breakfast. Then watch and wait for some wonderfully surprising results.

Pupils Make More Than Fifty Per Cent Of Show Audiences

Over half of today's motion picture audience is made up of people under 20 years of age. The exact percentage is 52 per cent of the typical audience according to a survey taken last June and July by the Opinion Research Corporation of Princeton, N.J.

The importance of younger people in the vast motion picture audience was emphasized dramatically by the survey figures. The indications are that the teenager is the most loyal and ardent of all movie-goers.

College educated persons made up 21 per cent of those 20 years or older who attended the movies at least once a week. High school graduates comprised 37 per cent and those who did not complete high school, 23 per cent. Grade school graduates were only 10 per cent of the audience.

An indication of the favorable status of the movies in the public mind is found in the statistics covering income groups. Those people in the $7,000 and over per year made up 18 per cent of the audiences; from $5,000 to $6,999, 20 per cent; from $3,000 to $4,999, 27 per cent; and those under $3,000, 15 per cent.

The above statistics show that the majority of movie-goers are the well-educated middle class.

During the period of the survey, the weekly attendance averaged 54,200,000. Of this large audience, 62 per cent were regular weekly moviegoers, with teenagers predominating.

"Any business that has such loyal support of young, educated people is blessed with a solid foundation for the future," stated Eric Johnson, president of the Motion Piction Association of America, "and such a business has a deep responsibility by creating entertainment keyed to the active young minds of America."

Homework Length, Study Time Agreed On By Archer Pupils

In these modern days many people feel that students do not get enough education. Of course, it's impossible for a student to get a satisfactory education by merely sitting in each class for 55 minutes a day.

Dr. Herman L. Shibler, Indianapolis city superintendent, recommended a schedule of homework; at least 15 to 20 hours a week for the average high school student, and 20 and up for the "gifted" student.

Therefore, a certain amount of study time outside of school is necessary for a complete education.

VARIOUS OPINIONS were expressed concerning this schedule.

Susan Van Fossen, Junior A, feels that it depends on what year of high school the student is in. She claims she usually doesn't spend more than 13 or 14 hours a week; but if a student wishes to have high grades, he must follow this schedule.

Bill Spindler, Junior A, thinks a student should do only as much homework as he finds time to do. He stated that a good student should be able to make good use of his time in school and not have to spend 15 or 20 hours a week on homework.

DR. CHARLES HOARD, father of Susan Hoard, Junior B, stated that he used to spend 15 to 20 hours a week on homework. He feels if a student is not gifted, he has to spend much more time studying.

He thinks this homework schedule is not too much for a student, if he's going to make the best grades that he is capable of making.

Susie Phillips, Freshman A, doesn't think a student needs to spend 15 or 20 hours a week on homework. She claims she doesn't spend more than 10 or 12 hours a week on homework, unless she has a special assignment that requires additional study.

Mr. R. Nelson Snider, principal, stated that he has always said that a student, if he is to be successful, should spend at least four hours outside of school on homework—one hour for each subject. He said he thought this recommended schedule of homework is very reasonable.

Even though a lot of students don't spend 15 to 20 hours a week on homework, most of them agree it's reasonable.

Your Line . . ?

Men who are general physicians are always looked up to by their associates. They are considered as some of the most intelligent and beneficial persons in the community. These men spend practically half of their lives in preparing for their occupation. In this group, there are some of the most dedicated men in our country. Therefore, it does not seem unbelievable that some would further their medical interests and become specialists in the field of medicine.

One of the most delicate and difficult fields of specialization is ophthalmology. You have probably never heard of this word, but ophthalmology deals with the most precise instrument of our senses, our eyes. An ophthalmologist is an eye doctor; and every one of us who has had trouble with our eyes, or anyone who wears glasses, is greatly indebted to him.

In talking to one of Fort Wayne's leading eye doctors it was learned that in order to become an ophthalmologist a person must begin to prepare himself when he is in high school. He must study English, for it is extremely important in intelligent conversations with others. Latin is also important because it will aid in the prescribing of medicine. Naturally, an individual interested in being an eye doctor must use to his advantage all the science that he can study. Finally, a study of the humanities is vital in order to broaden the individual's knowledge of literature and the arts.

After he finishes high school, the student must take four years of premedical studies. This is followed by four years of medical training and three years of training in the field of ophthalmology. The final test before a student may open his own office is one year of general internship at a hospital to prove that he is a qualified ophthalmologist.

Naturally, it takes a good deal of interest and self-sacrifice to become an ophthalmologist; but any physician will tell you that there is no greater satisfaction than establishing a practice and devoting one's self to saving a person's sight.

It is such a great credit and honor to become an ophthalmologist that any person who has the ability and desire to become an accomplished specialist in this field will certainly be well rewarded for his efforts.

Mary Ellen Fritz, Accordian Player, Female Dick Contino

South Side's female Dick Contino who is Mary Ellen Fritz, a senior in Mrs. Ruth Fleck's homeroom, has been playing the accordion for five years. She began at the age of 12 when her dreams of becoming a pianist were shattered by the realization that her home had no room for a piano.

Since that time Mary Ellen has had a great deal of experience in performing. She was chosen to play at Buck Lake Ranch, where she won first and second prizes in several contests and had the privilege of meeting such stars as Betty Johnson, Dick Noel, and Slim Adams.

She has played on WKJG Radio, at the Veterans' Hospital, at the Allen County Old People's Home, and has entertained the students in school by playing in the school talent show and at the Junior Banquet. She participates in recitals each May and October. Because of her past experience, she has been offered a teaching job by her accordion teacher.

MARY ELLEN enjoys playing popular, classical, and semi-classical music. She greatly dislikes Dixieland jazz.

Mary Ellen is on the clerical branch of the business course. Her extra activities include holding the office of secretary of the Novelett Company of Junior Achievement and majorettes.

Two pedigreed beagles, a pedigreed toy manchester, and two parakeets make up Mary Ellen's menagerie. The beagles, Big Mike and Tawny Fair, are from a bloodline of national champions.

Her collection of about 100 dolls from various places has given her enjoyment as well as her favorite sports which include ice skating and all water sports.

In the future Mary Ellen plans to attend either the Chicago Conservatory of Music to further her studies or to enter office work.

Personal Interviews Help Students Plan Future Years

AFTER GRADUATION?—That's the question Mr. Snider, principal, seems to be asking Judy Novitsky. Judy is just one of the many seniors who have been interviewed by Mr. Snider during the past few weeks. Mr. Snider each year holds a personal interview with each and every senior. This year there are 377 seniors!

"To find out what students are planning after graduation, and to obtain information that will help them in that planning are the purposes of senior interviews," stated R. Nelson Snider, principal. A special interest is taken in students planning to go to college; while those interested in securing jobs are referred to Mr. Ora Davis, guidance director.

A list of students is made according to their averages, but they are not necessarily interviewed in that order. The students are taken from their study hall and the ones on the college course are called first. These interviews started early in the fall and will continue until all seniors are interviewed.

z z z

MR. SNIDER first tells the student what his average is and how he rates in the class. He asks about his plans after graduation. If he is planning to attend college, Mr. Snider helps him decide what subjects to take; and if he is yet undecided as to the college, he tries to obtain information for him about various colleges. He also tells him of any scholarships available at the time, and gives some information about the college board examination.

In case the student hasn't decided whether to secure a job or to go to college, Mr. Snider suggests that he go home, think it over, talk about it with his parents, and come back to him with his questions.

Mr. Snider urges all seniors to feel free to come to him with questions about their plans. He also encourages parents of seniors to make arrangements for an interview with him.

The second meeting of Designer's Associated will be next Wednesday in Room 46. President Jim Roth will preside. Boys who are interested in membership may fill out registration cards.

Plans will be discussed for this semester and future designing will be revealed. Mr. Thomas Polite invites all who are interested in the craft of designing to attend this meeting.

Faculty Picnic To Be Sept. 30

Over 100 faculty members are expected to arrive at McMillen Park September 30 at 5:45 p.m. for an evening of food, fellowship, and frolic.

"We hope every teacher will come to the annual faculty picnic," stated Mr. Lloyd Whelan, general chairman of the event.

The Steigerwald Catering Service will provide food for the picnic. Each person will be served one-half of a spring chicken as the main course. The menu will also include scalloped potatoes, baked beans, cole slaw, tomatoes, rolls and butter. Dixie cups and doughnuts will be served for dessert.

z z z

THE GENERAL arrangement committee, made up of Mr. Whelan, general chairman, Miss Lucy Mellen, Miss Mary Crowe, Miss Helen Pohlmeyer, Miss Lutie Young, Mrs. Ruth Berkes, Mr. Ernest Walker, Mr. Lester Hostetler, Mr. Ronald Gersmehl, and Mr. Earl Sterner, met and decided on other commitee heads and members.

Mr. Sterner was chosen head of the entertainment committee. Serving on this committee will be Mr. Jack Morey, co-chairman, Miss Young, Miss Edith Crowe, Mr. Marvin Knigge, and Mr. Hostetler.

The table arranging and decorating committee will be headed by Mr. Stephen Berg, chairman, and Mr. Gersmehl, co-chairman. Helping them will be Mr. Frederick Hellman, Mr. Laverne Harader, Mr. Dorsa Yoder, Mr. Don Weaver, Mr. Nicholas Pipino, Mr. Clair Motz, Mr. Max Hauk, Miss Rowena Harvey, Mrs. Ruth Fleck, Miss Pearl Rehorst, and Miss Mary Edith Reiff.

z z z

SERVING ON the coffee and dessert serving committee are Mr. Lowell Coats, chairman, Mr. Robert Gernand, co-chairman, Mrs. Mildred Luse, Mr. Robert Davis, Mr. Richard Sage, Miss Anita Schaeffer, Mrs. Anne Redmond, Mrs. Florence Emshwiler, and Mr. Thomas Compton.

Mr. Jack Weicker, chairman, Mr. W. C. Wilson, co-chairman, Mr. Louis Hull, Miss Virginia Ayers, Mrs. Grace Welty, Mr. Alfred Hemmer, Mr. Charles Holt, and Mr. Whelan will make up the table clearing committee.

The fireplace tenders will be Mr. Thomas Polite, chairman, Mr. Robert Storey, co-chairman, Mr. Everett Havens, Mr. Roland Smith, Mr. Leon Smith, and Mr. Ernest Walker.

z z z

TRANSPORTATION will be taken care of by Miss Pauline Van Gorder, chairman, Miss Mabel Fortney, co-chairman, Miss Helen Burr, Mrs. Donna Jean Darby, and Miss Nell Covalt.

Serving will start promptly at 5:45 p.m. Retired teachers and the wives and husbands of faculty members are invited to attend the picnic. This year the faculty members are requested not to bring their children.

The entertainment will consist of the humorous introduction of new members of the faculty, handled by the entertainment committee.

Totem Sets Deadline For Picture Paying

"The deadline for paying $1.50 to get senior pictures in the Totem is October 28," stated Sharon Ruhl, senior class editor. All senior pictures must be taken at Clippinger's before October 31.

The picture money may be paid to any of the senior room agents who are as follows: Room 4, Don Kern; 6, Sandy Hoover; 22, Sharon Collins; 26, Macy Galbreath; 32, Ruth Dill; 36, Carol Bass; 54, Mary Lou Koehler; 74, Lonnie Kimble; 76, Janet Rupp; 174, Linda Vanderford; 176, Priscilla Ratican; 186, Kathy Schwalm; 190, Margo Martindale; and 140, Bev Stanton.

Besides collecting senior picture money, senior homeroom agents handle the senior questionaires on the sale of Totems.

New faculty members are urged to have their picture taken at Clippinger's immediately, free of charge.

Underclassmen pictures are scheduled to be taken October 15 and 16.

October ■ marks the beginning of the Totem campaign. The deadline for the first payment for names on Totems is October 23 and the deadline for the final payment for names is March 6.

Regulations Stated By Study Teacher

Mrs. Roy Stuart, study hall supervisor, reminds all students of the study hall rules. During periods 1 through 7, excluding period 5, no talking is permitted. Neither is getting assignments or going to lockers.

If one needs to go to the rest room, he must take an eighth period after school. This year ordinary supplies such as rulers, pencils, paper, and crayons are to be brought by the student and not borrowed. No student may leave without permission until the bell rings, and an eighth period will be given if one is not in his seat at this time.

Mrs. Stuart also wishes to remind students that although fifth period is a free period in the halls and the gym, quietness and silence is to be observed in study hall. Mrs. Stuart also believes that everything is very much in order and running quite smoothly in study hall all periods, and that she was quite pleased with the students' behavior.

Meterite Officer Explains Aims

The aims of the Meterite Club were explained by Sylvia Ehrman, president, at the organization meeting Tuesday, September 9, at 3:30 p.m. in the Greeley Room.

Some of these are: To inspire an interest in creative writing through contests and active participation, and to give experience in speaking before groups.

Joan Stanton, vice-president, passed out registration cards to be signed. "All dues must be paid by 3:30 p.m. on October 7," announced Margie Mercer, treasurer. Ann Golden, secretary, read the minutes of the last meeting.

Susie Slick, point chairman, explained the club's point system, and Marie Rohn, program chairman, outlined the programs for the semester, which include a talent show, and poetry and short story contests.

Sue Horth, publicity chairman; Sandy Miller, house chairman; and Jan Martindale, talent chairman told the responsibilities of their committees.

Panel To Lead Talk At Philo Meeting

"How to' Make the Most of Your Time" will be discussed by a panel at the second regular Philo meeting Monday at 3:30 p.m. in the Greeley Room. This panel consists of Bessie Ferguson, moderator; Penny Hunt, and Julie Carr. Two more panelists will be chosen this week.

"How much time should be devoted to extra-curricular activities?", "do we waste too much time?", and "what is a good way to get the most out of study time?" are some of the questions the panelists will be asked to answer.

All junior and senior girls with an average of B or better in English are invited to join Philo and may do so at the next two regular meetings. During the year Philo plans many contests, a banquet, a dance, a picnic, and an initiation ceremony.

Miss Burr Spends Week At CMA

Miss Helen Burr, English teacher, spent a week of her summer vacation taking a course in Developmental Reading at Culver Military Academy in Culver, Indiana.

Miss Burr feels that she gained much useful information at the five-day school which was sponsored by Science Research Associates. She was one of thirty-six mid-western school teachers and principals who attended the school. They were taught new methods of study, how to increase one's vocabulary, and methods of improving their pupils' reading speed and comprehension without the use of machines. They also had a chance to improve their own reading skills during the eight hours of class each day.

Zero Hour Draws Near; Race For Cup Continues

Times Has 1665 Sales With 20 Homerooms Having 100 Per Cent

About eighty per cent of the South Side student body has subscribed for The Times... Have you?

Approximately 1665 subscriptions for The South Side Times were sold by the end of the second week of the circulation campaign. Circulation manager Merle Baldwin and her staff want to remind all students that this is the last free issue of The Times given to pupils who haven't subscribed as yet.

The circulation campaign ends September 26, a week from tomorrow, and more than 400 pupils still have not subscribed for The Times.

"It is imperative," states Merle, "that they do so at once in order to receive the full benefit of their $1."

z z z

ALL 100 PER CENT homerooms will receive their 100 per cent sign and a candy bar for each member of the homeroom who has subscribed for The Times. Twenty of the agents who had 100 per cent homerooms by the end of the second week of the campaign are Susan Horth, Maria Hilsmier, Crissie Ferguson, Diane Irmscher, Merle Baldwin, Susie Carto, Judy Cramer, Bill Stellhorn, Judy Novitsky, Bessie Ferguson, Margie Mercer, Judy Robinson, Judy Thompson, Lois Levine, Bonnie Brenn, Susie Hoard, Janet Terry, Carol Szink, Nancy Woolner, Joan Novitsky, and Marjorie Havens.

One more meeting for Times homeroom agents will be held on Wednesday, September 24, at 3:30 p.m. in the study hall. "It is very important that all agents attend that meeting," Miss Rowena Harvey, adviser, emphasizes.

Agents are also urged to turn in their subscriptions as soon as they receive them, for at least one member of the circulation staff will be in the Times room before school, after school, and fifth period until the close of the circulation campaign.

Below is a list of the homeroom agents and the number of subscriptions they had sold by the end of the second week of the circulation campaign.

Mr. And Mrs. Howe Congratulate Kellys

Saturday, Sept. 13, 1958

Salutation

An open letter to the students of South Side High School:

May we be one of the first to congratulate you for your wonderful spirit, attention, and support given Friday night at the football game. We thought your conduct was excellent. Your cooperation with your cheerleaders really "paid off."

Continue with this same attitude and we are sure you will have a successful season.

Mr. and Mrs. George R. Howe

New Teachers Given Sponsors

Our new faculty at South Side has been assigned sponsors to acquaint them with our methods of procedure. They are as follows: Mr. Charles Billiard is acquainting Mr. Thomas Compton, Miss Susen Peck is helping Mr. LaVerne Harader, Mrs. Donna Jean Darby is acquainting Miss Ann Arber, and Miss Lucy Osborne is helping Mrs. Florence Emshwiler, all four of whom are affiliated with the English Department.

Mr. Ward Gilbert is sponsoring Mr. Robert Davis, who is teaching science and mathematics. Mr. Richard Sage, also teaching mathematics, is being sponsored by Mr. Paul Sidell.

Mr. Jack Weicker and Mr. W. C. Wilson are acquainting two new Social Studies teachers, Mr. Alfred Hemmer and Miss Anita Schaffer. Miss Anne Redmond, a new Latin teacher, is being advised by Mrs. Grace Welty, Mr. Nicholas Pipino, who is teaching science, is being advised by Mr. Max Hauk, and Mr. Leon F. Smith, an art teacher, is being sponsored by Mr. Jack Morey.

Mr. Clair Motz is helping Mr. Charles Holt of the Physical Education Department, and Mr. Louis Hull, a new physics teacher, has no sponsor.

18 Teachers Float This Year

Because of increased enrollment, eighteen teachers will float this year, (floating teachers are ones who do not have their own room or who must vacate their room in order that another teacher may use it). To provide a study room for these teachers, Room 114 will be equipped with desks as soon as they arrive.

The schedule of these teachers is Miss Ann Arber, Room 58, first period; 188, third and fifth; and 72, sixth and seventh; Mr. Thomas Compton, cafeteria, first; 188, third and fifth; and 72, sixth and seventh.

Mr. Lowell S. Coats teaches in his homeroom, 150, first and sixth; 154, second, third and fourth.

Mrs. Florence Emshwiler, Room 66, first period; 190, second; 150 third and seventh; and Room 36, fourth.

Mr. Richard Sage, 146, first; 62, third; 156, fifth; 36, sixth; and 64, seventh.

Mr. Laverne Harader, 52, first; 26, second; 150, fourth; 76, sixth; and 54, seventh.

Mr. George Davis, Room 80, first period; 144, second; 4, third; and 156, fourth.

Mr. Stephen Berg, Room 176, second; 70, fourth; 168, sixth, and 110, seventh.

Mr. Alfred Hemmer, Room 8, first; 182, third; 110, fifth; and 174, sixth.

Mr. Don Reichert, Room 12, first; 142, second; and 140, fifth period.

Miss Anita Schaffer, 108, first; 32, third; 2, fourth; 70, sixth; and 144, seventh.

Mr. Roland Smith, 110, first; 77, second and third; 142, fifth, and 86, seventh.

Mr. Nicholas Pipino, Room 24, second; 91, third; 4, fourth; and 91, sixth.

Mrs. Anne Redmond, 56, first; 34, second; 28, fourth; 182, sixth; and 140, seventh.

Mr. Clarence Murray, 46, first and sixth; 44, second and fifth; and 45, seventh.

Mr. William Geyer, Room 64, first; 6, second and fourth; 22, third; and 30, sixth.

Y-Teen Director To Speak At USA

The first meeting of USA will take place next Thursday in Room 112. Joan Benson, Y-Teen director at the YWCA, will be at this meeting to give a talk concerning the relationships between Y-Teens and the YWCA. Dues of 50 cents for the semester will be collected at this meeting.

USA is a club for all freshman and sophomore girls who wish to get acquainted with the kids and teachers.

"USA's three main purposes are to help you grow as a person, grow in friendship with other people of different nationalities and creeds, and grow in the knowledge and love of God," stated Ellen McCarron, president.

Other officers are Barb Markiton, vice-president; Carol Lewis, secretary; and Sharon Bricker, treasurer. Miss Lutie Young is their adviser. Again, all freshman and sophomore girls are urged to attend.

Diane Kimble Visits Junior Red Cross Training Conference

"I had a wonderful time," exclaimed Diane Kimble about her week of attendance at the Junior Red Cross Training Center. The conference was held at Miami University in Oxford, O., from July 20 to 27.

Diane, sophomore vice-president of South Side's Junior Red Cross Club, went to Oxford in a Red Cross Chapter car, accompanied by five Fort Wayne area teenagers. When the Fort Wayne teens arrived on the campus, they were assigned dorms for living quarters.

Diane had two classes in the morning and one in the afternoon. The leaders of the classes were high school students. The students exchanged ideas on organization of high school Red Cross clubs, campaigns, watched films on the development of the American Red Cross, and heard talks from a representative of each department of the Red Cross.

The students attending the center could not leave the campus at night, but a dance was held on the campus each evening.

The six teens returned to the city, better informed, but certainly weary. Diane has many new ideas to contribute to South's Junior Red Cross Club.

TAP Started In High Schools

South Side students Phyllis Springer, Dan Tritch, Carolyn Dinius, and Marian McCallister are members of the "Teens Aid Polio Board" which will be established in the high schools this fall to encourage all teenagers to get their polio shots.

The group hopes to obtain a shot mobile unit for a minimum cost which would rotate between South Side, North Side, and Central. However, this must first have the O.K. of the Medical Society.

To accomplish their purpose the TAP plans to have a series of P.A. announcements in the high schools telling what might happen if everyone doesn't receive the shots.

The teenagers will assist handicapped children in the high schools and aid the March of Dimes Campaign. They plan to raise money by having such functions as record hops and car washes.

The board is headed by Paulann Hosler, North Side senior, and consists of the four South Siders plus two Redskins, Suzanne McNelley and Steve Fawley. Paulann is also state chairman of TAP.

The board will meet regularly once a month with extra meetings during the March of Dimes Campaign.

Ticket Sales Announced

Approximately 950 student season tickets and 70 adult season tickets were sold, announced Mr. Wayne Scott, athletic director.

Mr. Coats Elected By English Teachers

Mr. Lowell Coats, an English teacher at South Side, has recently been elected vice-president of the Allen County Teachers of English. Mr. Coats has served three years on the board of directors for the Council.

The Council presents three or four programs a year. Among some of these programs are a luncheon at teachers institute in October, a meeting for all teachers in the city in November, and a meeting especially of interest to English teachers in the spring.

Mr. Coats was very honored and surprised to have been elected. "I hope that I can do my job as I know how."

Employment Cards To Be Filled Tomorrow

Everyone will be busy in their homerooms tomorrow filling out employment cards for Mr. Ora Davis, guidance director. Girls will fill out yellow cards and boys will fill out blue cards. Mr. Davis sent out a letter to each homeroom giving full instructions on how they are to be filled out.

Mr. Davis stated that the main purpose of these cards is to provide availinformation for employers interested in hiring high school students.

Times Staff Invited To Tour Newspapers

Twenty-five Times staff members and journalism students have been invited by The News-Sentinel to have luncheon, hear talks, and make a tour of the building on October 1, from 11 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.

The major staff, journalism students and other Times staff members will be given consideration to go in that order.

Test Results Show Archers Rank High

"Statistics prove that our June graduates ranked higher in the Iowa Tests than 98 per cent of the schools who took the tests," said Mr. R. Nelson Snider.

While there was not much room for improvement, our recent graduates went from the ninety-fifth percentile when they were freshmen to their recent ninety-eight percentile score.

Many schools that took the tests were small schools that taught college preparatory students only. Many of their scores were lower than South Side's, whose students are only approximately one-third college preparatory students.

Times Picnic Tonight

Times staff members will have a picnic tonight after school in the third pavilion at Foster Park. Room agents with 100 per cent homerooms are guests and will be able to attend free; but all others had to pay 35 cents.

The menu will consist of hot dogs, Cokes, baked beans, dixie cups, and relishes.

Philatelic Society Starts Wednesday

Mr. Post, sponsor of the Philatelic Society, more commonly known as the Stamp Collecting Club, urges all students of South Side to attend the next meeting of this club if they wish to become members.

Plans are being made for stamp trading at the next meeting which will be held in Room 186 next Wednesday at 3:30 p.m. Nominations and elections of this semester's officers will be held as soon as all who are interested in this fascinating hobby have joined.

'Quality In Education Is Important,' Stresses R. Nelson Snider, Principal

"Training. Not education."

This is the way R. Nelson Snider, principal of South Side High School, sizes up Russia's much publicized emphasis on math and science.

Many of our nation's high schools aren't doing a good job, he says, but Russia's not doing such a good job either. "They're stressing math and science. But this is training and not education."

The man who has been principal of South Side for 33 years makes his point very clear. "Numbers," he wants you to know, "don't spell success. It's the quality of work that's important."

To illustrate, he'll tell you a little story about some German aviators who were taken prisoner by the British before the United States entered the war. "They were sent to a prison camp in Canada. These aviators knew everything about an airplane. Everything. There wasn't a thing they didn't know about an airplane. But they had no cultural background. Mention Faust—they wouldn't know who Faust was.

This Not Desirable

"That type of training," Mr. Snider warns, "does not lead to a desirable society."

Mr. Snider, a man with a variety of pinpointed ideas, says it's been "very easy for school people in the past few years, to get the idea schools were here to make kids happy. The people were not awake and demanding enough."

He believes the people of a community are to blame. In his words—"They got what they ask for."

In the past, he says, it was the policy to stress good public relations. "A good band was good enough. Or the best basketball team." This was good public relations. This was keeping everyone happy.

Then suddenly, for many people, came the dawn. Sputniks and the race to the moon and much talk about the many years of math and science and foreign language required of the Russian high school student.

Mr. R. Nelson Snider seems not at all ruffled. And he can tell you why.

"South Side," he says, "hasn't changed its basic program in many years and we don't intend to change it. Oh, of course, we often have to add courses. This fall we're offering a course in general science. During the war we had a course in elementary navigation. But we dropped it when the need for it faded. We have a sound basic program here at South Side—we'll stick by it."

He does say, however, that "we try to find the good students who will profit by additional math and science or English and we try to direct them into taking these additional courses.

"On the other hand, suppose there is a girl who is interested in being an elementary school teacher. And sup-

South Side Student Youngest Radio Announcer; Claims Distinction Of Having Week-End Show

South Side claims the distinction of having the youngest Fort Wayne radio announcer within its midst. Ron Marker, Senior A, has become quite a professional in the art of radio broadcasting. Each Saturday and Sunday, from 6 to 12 p.m., Ron comes into many homes with his own show via radio.

"My radio career began about four years ago," relates Don, "and it happened mainly by accident." One day while talking to Doug Hadley, WANE program director and radio personality, Ron told of his interest in radio. Mr. Hadley immediately became interested and produced reading material concerned with the many different phases of radio.

With Doug Hadley's influence and his own ability, Ron was able to secure many odd jobs at the WANE radio station. While still only 16, Ron could be found working in the record library, typing copy, or writing scripts each Saturday and part-time during the week. Ron then advanced

Sharon Probst Holds Title; Junior President Of Horse Show

HORSE SHOW CONTESTANT—Here Sharon Probst is seen in the Hawaiian outfit she has worn during her many appearances at various horse shows throughout the area.

President of the Junior Members of the Fort Wayne Charity Horse Show Association is the title that Sharon Probst, a South Side junior, has held since April.

This organization, consisting of young people up to the age of 18, sponsors a dance to earn enough money to present their annual horse show. The profits from the horse show are then contributed to CARE.

Covington Manor was the site of the horse show last June 15 and Sharon rode both her own horse and her father's horse.

Sharon's horse is a Morgan and is named Janet Ann, while her father's horse is named Lucky. She has ridden both horses in several shows in Fort Wayne and also in Michigan.

This great interest for horses stems back to the time when Sharon was a little girl. Since she often visited her grandparent's farm in Michigan, Sharon's father bought her a Shetland pony. After learning to ride, she was given her own horse.

Sharon vividly remembers the time she had just learned to ride her Shetland pony. Although quite young at the time, she felt quite confident that she could ride the pony as well as anyone. After saddling and mounting, Sharon discovered that her pony intended to be stubborn that day and just wouldn't move. After much coaxing by Sharon, the little pony decided that perhaps he'd better move. He moved, but unfortunately he didn't wait to open the door. Crashing right through the door, the little pony left his passenger, Sharon, flat on her back in the barn!

The picture shows Sharon back in 1957 on her mother's horse, Pixie Girl, while in a masquerade show. Both horse and rider were supposed to be attired in costumes for the occasion and Sharon won two ribbons for her Hawaiian dressed horse.

"I think horseback riding is good exercise," said Sharon "and it's a lot of fun to meet other kids. Besides, I love any kind of animal."

On the College Course and taking U. S. history, botany, English, typing and shorthand, Sharon is kept quite busy attending 36 Workshop and Service Club. Any kind of sports appeals to Sharon and her hobbies, of course, center around her horses.

What If:

—The Times didn't come out?
—There was never such a thing as an eighth period?
—South Side had a swimming pool?
—Everyone in school would participate in a club?
—South should take State again?
—Archers could bring radios into study hall?
—The Totem wasn't published?
—All Archers would buy a Times?
—The stadium was rebuilt?
—Teachers were students?
—The gym was closed to students fifth period?
—There was a juke box in center hall?

Team Members State Opinions

The Football Jamboree, September 2, marked the beginning of the football season. Of course, all loyal Archer fans think our team is the greatest and look forward to a successful year.

It's surprising to learn that individual team members think pretty highly of the team also. Steve Gaskill, a senior, keeps repeating, "Really neat team," and Steve Smith, also a senior, comments, "We're gonna take City!" Two juniors, Terry Berk and Bob Duncan, say, "No kiddin'! We're really great" and "We've got a lot of inexperienced players, but I think we can shape up into a pretty good team in time."

These boys have been practicing since long before school started and continue to practice every night after school. They have the initiative, drive, and material it takes to make a good team. They lack nothing except the whole-hearted support of the student body which is probably the most important factor.

If you were one of those who, last year, came to the games merely to see who was there or to parade around and show off your new outfit, don't start off on the wrong foot this year. Get to the games with plenty of time to spare, find a seat, and sit down in it until the half. Halftime is ample time to talk to your friends.

Cheer with as much enthusiasm as you possess, for the boys appreciate it more than you think. Don't think they don't feel hurt when some other school, especially a smaller one, outyells us, because they do. After all, they have as much school pride as anyone else; and that's why they work so hard. Let's not disappoint the boys this year. Let's help them have a successful season by backing them all the way at every game!

Happy Birthday

John Cimerron Swayback Tells Of Kelly Couples Trip To Moon

This is John Cimerron Swayback speaking to you from the football field at South Side High School, where there is a great deal of activity. A rocket to the moon, manned entirely by adventurous Archers, will take off in about 15 minutes. Let's go aboard and see some of the passengers and crew for a few minutes.

We see the pilot, John Slick, talking to Dan Bill, the co-pilot. Let's see if we can hear some conversation. ". . . when we get home, let's call Posy Weilemann and Camille Luther and see what's buzzing." Well, they don't seem to be too worried.

In the back of the rocket we see Gus Wade and Sharon Probst, but we won't interrupt them, because we have to hurry along.

Ruth and Sally Dill are waving frantically to Bob Keekan and Dick Johnson. It seems that the two girls wanted to take the trip but weren't able to get inter-planetary passports. Wait! Carol Lockwood and Skip Haberly (N.S.) are dashing up with two extra passports. It looks like the girls will be able to go after all.

Mary Sue Robertson and Bob Mann are talking excitedly to Susie Scott and Dick McGaw. They are having a heated argument about the composition of the moon. Mary Sue and Bob insist that it is green cheese, but Dick and Susie are positive that it is aqua.

Judy Cramer and Dave Hickman are playing bridge with Judy Wilburn and Chuck Putt. The moonmen may be a little shocked to see bridge scores on the side of the rocket.

Sharon Ruhl and Bob Oechsle are composing messages to send home to Lawson White and Judy Chapman. Lawson and Judy were not able to come because they both have colds. Too bad, maybe next time.

Tom White and Mike Lehman are now escorting Diane Decker and Sandy Miller up the chrome-plated plank. That's the last of these Archers we'll see for a while.

Sharon Lake, Piano Instructor, Tchaikovsky, Pat Boone Lover

It takes 88 things to keep junior Sharon Lake contented . . . 88 piano keys. Hearing others' accomplishments, Sharon, at age seven, was determined to master the piano. However, she has not confined herself to the piano; for she also plays the organ, a feat she accomplished without instruction.

Professor Ira Gerig, Sharon's piano teacher, announced that Sharon was ready to teach others. As the Archer plans to teach elementary music, her professor thought that the experience gained in teaching would be invaluable to her, so, last September Sharon began instruction on Wednesday nights. Ruth Crates presently is her only pupil, although, Ruth's brother, Roy, is a prospect. Sharon's fee is 75 cents for a half hour.

Sharon also plays the piano for the First Methodist Church and the Sunday School, where she often accompanies musical instruments and the youth group. She is a lover of Tschaikovsky's classical albums as well as an enthusiastic supporter of Pat Boone. Her favorite of Pat's records is "Wonderful Time Up There." Professor Gerig's most recent assignment, to memorize the 149-page book of Mendelssohn's songs, occupies much of Sharon's time; but Know-Your-City and USA also get their share.

A musical family, the Lakes boast two other pianists, Mrs. Lake and Sharon's sister, who also plays the viola.

As to her most embarrassing moment during her "musical" years, Sharon thoughtfully replied, "I lost my place during a recital in my teacher's home when I was eight or nine. I guess I ad libbed my way through until I remembered the music."

Sharon plans to attend college and obtain a degree in music.

Participants Of Festival Theatre Comment On Park Productions

Techniques of the theater were learned and friendships were formed by participants in the Festival Music Theater productions, "Show Boat," "Kiss Me Kate," and "Damn Yankees" at Franke Park Open Air Theater.

"Working in the theater provides a wonderful opportunity to meet a lot of other teenagers," Gonda Rider observed. "I loved the rehearsals and meeting all the participants, but I mostly enjoyed the performances and the excitement of minor disasters which always occur on the nights the play is presented.

"It was really terrific to work with Carl Nicholas, our choral director, and the stars, Jean Altevogt and Bob Cocherille. I didn't gain a great amount of experience because I've been in many shows; I've been dancing for eight years."

Sue Zollars commented, "The best part of the theater is learning to know and understand the other people who are working with you. I started performing in the Festival Theater at the age of 10 in 'Oklahoma.' This season I performed in 'Show Boat' and 'Kiss Me Kate;' I liked 'Kiss Me Kate' the best.

"With all the rehearsals I felt a bit left out of the usual summer activities, but it really didn't matter much. There is always a variety of activities going on and one can learn so much about the various phases of the theater. Even backstage work is fascinating.

"I believe my lessons at the Fort Wayne Ballet Company helped me get the part. In order to gain experience several novice dancers were chosen in the productions, but three of us, who were more experienced, were chosen to lead them and take the major parts."

"I LOVED TO meet all the participants from other schools," stated Becky Hostetler. "I particularly enjoyed the type of music we played—it was different from the music we play in the school orchestra. Although I played only in 'Show Boat,' I liked 'Kiss Me Kate' the best.

"The way I got in was that Mr. Drummond sent out notices asking orchestra students to participate. (I think he asks mainly students in South's orchestra.) I played last summer too and have gained some experience. We usually practice every night for three weeks to a month. It takes hard work, but we have fun and I would suggest that others try to participate in the Festival Music Theater productions."

"I PARTICULARLY enjoyed the parties we had and the staff was very nice this year.

"I volunteered for props," Judy Schaefer related, "and, because I had experience, I became prop manager. I've worked with props four seasons, two with Civic Theater and two with the Festival Music Theater.

"I liked 'Kiss Me Kate' because of the props we used, but I liked 'Damn Yankees' since I had a part, that of the sister. It took all morning to get the props; I worked at a dry cleaning shop in the afternoon and spent my nights at rehearsals.

"Even if we have to work hard, I think it's wonderful to work with students from other schools. Also, one meets people from all over the country. Mr. and Mrs. Ben Tarver, the director and his wife, are from New York, and the technical director is from Seattle, Wash. (originally from Pennsylvania).

"It's a great opportunity for anyone who is interested and most jobs don't take as much time as mine does. I have to go to various stores and ask to borrow props, then be responsible for them and return them. That becomes interesting too, though, when scrounging for a lion skin (for Devil's bedroom in 'Damn Yankees') or wax fruit ('Kiss Me Kate')."

"I most enjoyed the good times with the wonderful people I met," remarked Merle Baldwin. "I have played in the Festival Music Theater the past two seasons. This summer I played for 'Show Boat' and for the first time sang in the productions, 'Kiss Me Kate' and 'Damn Yankees.' I liked 'Damn Yankees' best.

"The performances of Jean Altevolt and Bob Cocherille were tremendous. One could learn a lot from just watching them and they were willing to give anyone help. The chorus director, Carl Nicholas, spent every afternoon giving instructions to any member of the chorus who had trouble with the music.

"I had all day to myself, but I did slightly regret using all my evenings for rehearsal. Even so, I thoroughly enjoyed the work and I've gained a lot of experience. I'm glad I went and I plan to participate next season and as long as I can."

MARGO DIXON said that she most enjoyed knowing the actors and everyone else who worked in the theater. She added that she liked 'Show Boat' the best since that's the one she was in. "I really loved the time I had and I got a lot of experience too—I'd never worked on such a big stage or in front of so large an audience. I even got a few lines to say.

"The way I got in was that a notice was sent to all the members of the Fort Wayne Ballet Company and I was chosen. The dancers practiced all day and at night from about 7:30 until midnight.

"At first I regretted not having time for the usual summer activities," she admitted, "but I loved the music and Charlene Tarver, our choreographer, was so cute and wonderful to work with that I wish I were in the midst of another rehearsal whirl right now."

"I most enjoyed meeting all the people," stated Allen Steere. "I liked various songs from both of the productions I was in ('Kis Me Kate' and 'Damn Yankees'), but as a while, I thing I preferred 'Kate.'

"Mr. Drummond, who directs the Festival Music Theater Orchestra, asked me to play. This was my first summer. It was a lot of fun, I really enjoyed it and I also got some experience. The orchestra didn't practice as much as the other groups, and we practiced at night, so it didn't interfere with most summer activities."

"There were two things I enjoyed most in the theater this summer: the people I met and the plays we presented," commented Chuck Clifton. "I moved scenery in 'Kiss Me Kate' and had a part as a ball player in 'Damn Yankees.' I liked 'Damn Yankees' best because the music was the most modern and the play was written the latest.

"This was my first year and I got a great deal of experience. It didn't take much of my time this summer either—just from 7 o'clock on in the evenings. Most of the people I met loved theater work and are coming back, so there'll be a real nice bunch of people participating next summer.

"The way I got in was that a friend of mine in the orchestra heard the theater was short of stage hands. He told me and I volunteered to help out. Since I enjoyed backstage work so much and had a taste of acting, I'm seriously considering becoming an actor. I believe that working with such nice people in the Festival Music Theater is very worthwhile."

Susan Arlene Craig, '58, and David Fell, '58, were awarded Kilbourne Scholarships for the 1958-59 school year. Susan will study speech and hearing therapy at Ball State College, and David will study to be a teacher also at Ball State College.

Empire, Danskins Enter Wardrobes

This fall, fashion is simply a matter of inches. The mathematics of waistlines and hems are practically as brain-shattering as algebra or geometry.

Both waistlines and hems are on the rise, so watch out! The waistline has been discovered again, but it has wandered above its normal level to the Empire height, which is the tops in style. The Empire waist may be found on a trapeze, sheath, or any type dress. Jumpers with this type waist are also featured this year, with the "jumper" look carried over into the two-piece dress.

Running a close second to the Empire line is the waistline at the hips. This is seen in long sweaters, overblouses, and middy-type dresses.

Anyone for green, red, blue, or yellow legs? Well, to be in style that's what you need. Danskins come in all colors to be worn with bermudas or skirts.

Colors shown this season are the brightest ever to hit the fashion world. Vivid red, blue, orange, and green are extremely popular and can be worn in any number of combinations. These colors are very predominant in the big, bold, blanket plaids.

Everything is shaggy, especially sweaters. The more shags the better, say most girls. Even socks are supposed to be shaggy!

Styles sound a bit loud and crazy with headache bands for the very daring, but be not dismayed, for you will still see the old favorites of matching skirts and sweaters, or crew-necks paided with bermudas or skirts.

Clod-Hoppers No Longer Rage; Tennis Shoes Prove Useful

The corridors of South Side are no longer blessed with the pitter-patter of little clodhoppers during the passing of classes. This wonderful sound has been replaced by the high-pitched harmony of squeaking tennis shoes as they carry studious Archers down the halls. Why has this revolution taken place? Why and how have these shoes of mere canvas won their claim to fame?

From fashion's point of view, it seems to be because girls like the graceful and highly stylish appearance the tennis shoe gives the foot. The sweeping line, which breathes of luxurious and lazy living, enhances many female buyers. Of course, much of the smartness of the shoe has to do with that "lived-in look." The way to gain this "look" is to replace the white hues with stylish spots and smudges. Spots may be of ink, mud, or hair dye, while smudges are more popular in lipstick and dried dishwater.

ANOTHER interesting feature of the shoe is its recreational value and its practical use around the house. Since any pencil or pen will write on it, the shoe may be used for games of dot and tic-tac-toe, memo and autograph pads, to keep bridge scores on, and to write up IOU's.

A more practical viewpoint takes the ramps into consideration. When mud-boots were in style, a person going down the ramp had to lean backwards so that he wouldn't fall frontwards with the result that he couldn't see over his books. This, in turn, resulted in bumping into someone or suddenly sitting down in the middle of the ramp.

The traction in tennis shoes allows the wearer to lean forward with the result that he falls flat on his face. This, of course, is a much more graceful fall and allows for the books to scatter over a wider area.

BECAUSE OF LACK of support, tennis shoes are very light and easy to wear. Anyone taking a maximum amount of exercise, such as walking from school to the car which is a block away, hardly notices the shoes on his feet. They are so comfortable a few lucky people can even leave the shoes under the desk of their seventh period class and never notice the difference. The heavy corrective shoes for fallen arches seem to weigh a ton compared to the stylish and comfortable tennis shoes.

Perhaps the most practical reason of all is this: because of rubber soles, the shoes are very quiet and they allow those out-too-late-on-dates to sneak into the house without the added irritation of removing shoes.

Pros, Cons Of Activities; Budget Time For Each

What are extra-curricular activities? "Anything outside of homework" says one South Sider. Another comments, "Service, music, clubs, the paper, and sports."

The pros and cons concerning extra-curricular activities are many. Perhaps the oldest cliche states, "Extra-curricular activities help you to become a better adjusted individual." This is very true, however it is not the most important aspect. Participating in outside activities gives you an intimate glance into the vast machinery of people who make up your school. What they think and how they act, as well as how your school functions become clear to you. Extra-curricular activities form a basic part of a normal high school life.

On the other hand extra-curricular activities require a great deal of time and effort. Many hours are spent planning, decorating, and finally cleaning up after a big school event. Sweat and hours of practice are the ingredients which make up a good football, basketball, or track team. Practice, practice, and more practice is what makes our band, orchestra, and choirs tops.

If you are a happy-go-lucky, all fun and no work type of person don't join an outside activity. You will be a burden instead of an asset.

When you decide to join an extra-curricular activity, don't go overboard. Budget your time so that it can be worked in without interfering with your homework. Homework should always come first.

There is nothing wrong with energy and "get-up-and-go." South Siders are famous for it, but how about adopting as a motto the old saying "Make haste slowly" instead of "Haste now; repent later?"

Haste Makes Waste!

"What's your hurry?"

Ever have someone ask this at the most annoying time, just when you were trying to hurry but were getting nowhere for your efforts?

"What's your hurry?" is the other side of the cliche "haste makes waste." This phrase contains so much truth that we often overlook its value when reminded that time is actually lost in "scurrying about."

In your haste to get to school this morning, did you forget something and waste time because you had to go back after it? Or did you try to beat a traffic light or run across the street in front of approaching cars, thereby almost causing a traffic accident? Somewhere this fall, some child is going to be a statistic in our traffic accident figures because of the kind of haste that makes waste.

Haste must have a background of purpose and thoughtfulness. Haste and hurry can be indications of energy and ambition, but they must be guided by good judgment and consideration for others.

Mother Told Me So

My mother told me there would be times like this, but how can one expect to remain calm, cool, and collected when:
—you've dressed to go to the Embers and your ever-lovin' date decides he'd rather go bowling.
—your first day's assignment is a 10,000-word theme on nuclear physics.
—You have six meetings to attend after school and you get an eighth period.
—you forget that you have health class and calmly walk into a gym class full of the opposite sex.
—you have hunted all over the school for your gym locker key and find it in the lock.
—your blind date turns out to be your steady.
—you are introducing two people and can't remember either name.
—your alarm clock goes off at 5:30 instead of 6:30 and you are all ready for school before you realize that no one else seems to be up.
—you are trying to think of things to be calm, cool, and collected about to put in this column.
—your team wins State.

Message For Pupils

September third was here again,
So back to school we came;
With new incentive, new ideas
We hope to fill each aim.

This year there is a lot to do,
There'll be a heap of work,
We'll have a bunch of good times, too,
Our duty let's not shirk.

We want to keep our standards high,
To keep our school the best;
If we will try to do our part,
Will you please do the rest?

By Diane Saalfrank

Have You Seen

—those real "crazy contacts"?
—any senior boys knitting?
—flocks of girls around the football stadium during football practice?
—any lost freshmen? If so, help them!
—any cocky seniors! If so, ignore them!
—Mr. Weber's caterpillar?
—the gym during fifth period?
—anyone sneaking through a "No Passage Zone"?
—the halls between periods? Beware!
—anyone burning the midnight oil?
—the new addition to our school? Pretty sharp, huh?

Guess Who?

Aket Eeatstrtr—Many of you room agents are quite familiar with this junior girl, for she is a bookhead on The Times. She hails from Homeroom 92.

Usg Awed—This junior boy is often associated with a girl named Sharon. Need there be more said?

Usasn Iesnh—This freshman lass is a recent newcomer from Harrison Hill. She is a room agent in Homeroom 75.

Htur Nan Alwfor—Dramatics is this senior girl's main interest. She has made recent appearances in the Civic and Festival Theaters.

Ckid Ogbetrhr—"Please help me with my geometry!" is a familiar phrase often presented to this junior boy. He was a sophomore class officer but is now a junior.

Adysn Aednelr—This junior girl from Homeroom 110 is secretary-treasurer of Safety Council. Her fifth period is spent in Room 38 participating in concert choir.

Obb Esihn—This sophomore boy received the title of "Best Speaker" of his class last year. He recently had an accident while practicing with the Archer football team.

Oanj Nttaso—The title of "Best Speaker" of her class was also presented to this sophomore girl last year. Her present activities include being Feature Editor on The Times, and is vice-president of Meterites.

to the traffic department which deals with the choosing of time spots for commercials. Last spring, because of a lack of other announcers and because he proved himself to be competent, Ron was given the opportunity to be on the air by WANE executives, Reid Chapman, manager of WANE Radio, and Jim Holston, program director.

z z z

"PUTTING ON A good radio show requires from 30 to 60 minutes of preparation," states Ron who is responsible for all programs which fall within a six-hour time shift on Saturday and Sunday nights. Although no rehearsals are needed for radio broadcasting before going on the air, Ron must select and listen to the records which are to be played on this music show, call the weather bureau for any last-minute report, check with the news machine, and prepare the commercials which will be presented during his time shift.

Ron is disc jockey, news-caster, sports-caster, and announcer all rolled into one. Announcing the network shows, identifying the station at breaks, playing and announcing songs, and broadcasting sports and news are the duties which Ron performs while on the air.

WHEN ASKED IF he'd ever "goofed," Ron readily replied, "Yes!" One recent Monday, Ron happened to be looking ahead at the program schedule and to his surprise found no program scheduled between 8:25 and 8:30 p.m. Upon looking at another schedule, he was quite relieved, because The Patti Page Show was to be presented at that time. At 8:25 p.m. Ron announced The Patti Page Show and joined the network. Instead of hearing the soothing music of the famous songstress, a maddening laughter came over the air. Realizing that the hardy chuckles belonged to Robert Q. Lewis, Ron quickly and wisely faded out and continued with music until 8:30 p.m.

Ron is very proud of the radio station with which he is affiliated. "The WANE building is the most beautiful building in Northeastern Indiana," he firmly states. "Furthermore, the station has very good equipment." In describing the WANE station, Ron mentioned that the control board is operated entirely by push buttons. In addition, he also related that the turntables and tape recorders are motivated by remote control. "It is really a pleasure to work with such modern facilities," expressed Ron.

z z z

THIS OUTSTANDING senior began working recently at the Veterans' Hospital. Ron volunteered his services to present both live and recorded shows for the entertainment of the veterans. Ron feels that he is gaining a valuable experience, commenting that it is very satisfying to give the patients a few hours of entertainment and enjoyment.

Although his record career keeps Ron quite busy, he is also make-up editor for The Times and a member of the Service Club.

Ron is an ardent fan of records. He has a collection which contains over 3,500 selections. Ron began his hobby many years ago and today it is his pride and joy.

Ron will be graduated in January and before entering college in the fall, he has hopes of traveling.

z z z

RON SUMS UP his feelings about radio by saying, "Radio has given me a great deal of experience in something that I've wanted to do for quite a few years. I'm grateful to all the persons who have given me the chance to prove myself in the radio field."

Enrollment Rises From 1879 To 2095

The present freshman class, with 608 pupils, is the largest to ever enter South Side. The sophomores and juniors aren't far behind with 582 and 506, respectively. The smallest class, the seniors, really is large, with 398 members. This is almost 100 over last year's seniors.

The total enrollment has jumped from 1,879 last year to 2,095 this year, making it the largest ever. In 1942 South had its second largest enrollment of 2,060.

Forty-two of the 216 new students have entered from out-of-town. Thirty-one students came from North Side, Concordia, and other schools. Ten pupils have returned after having missed a semester or more.

Next year the expected enrollment is 2,290. This figure is including the freshmen, if the junior high isn't finished. In 1965 without the freshmen the enrollment will leap to approximately 2,400, which will be the capacity of the school when the addition is completed.

According to Mr. R. Nelson Snider, principal, "The enrollment increase has presented no new problems. South Side was expecting this large number, and so hired new teachers and prepared to accommodate them."

Overflow Of Cafeteria Sent To Room 114

"Since the cafeteria will hold 240 people and since 350 students eat there, Room 114 is used for the overflow," stated Miss Lucy Mellen, head of the cafeteria. Assisting her are Pat Arnett, Ruth Byerlein, Louise Jackson, Gerte Pequignot, and Eileen Ray service workers this semester.

1500 Club Plans Annual Times Picnic

A meeting of the 1500 Club was held last Wednesday in the study hall, following a regular Times meeting. Final plans for the semi-annual picnic to be held today at 5 p.m. in Foster Park were discussed.

The total cost of the picnic is only 35 cents, and it is payable to any member of the club.

The 1500 Club is made up of all Times workers who have earned 1500 points. This year's officers include Judy Novitsky, president; Penny Hunt, vice-president; Bessie Ferguson, treasurer; and Merle Baldwin, secretary.

Room Agents Meeting Scheduled Wednesday

A meeting for room agents has been scheduled for next Wednesday at 3:30 p.m. in the study hall.

"All agents are to attend because it will be an important meeting," said Merle Baldwin, circulation manager.

Bank Provides Education Plan

It is now possible for parents or sponsors of prospective college students from South Side to finance a college education in regular monthly payments over a six-year period, according to an announcement today of Russell M. Daane, vice-president of Fort Wayne National Bank.

This plan may make it possible for young men and women to obtain a college education who might not otherwise have the opportunity.

As an example, suppose the head of the family or sponsor of a student requires financial assistance in the amount of $4,000 during the four years of college. Payments in the amount of $500 would be advanced at the start of each of the two semesters and the equal monthly repayments of approximately $60 would start the first of the following month.

Interest would be charged only on funds advanced. The loan would run for two years after the completion by the student of his or her four-year course, or for a total of six years.

z z z

THE PLAN2includes insurance protection. Should the head of the family (or sponsor) of the student die before the loan is fully repaid, not only is the balance of the loan paid, but also any funds that have not yet been advanced will be disbursed in accordance with the original agreement, thus allowing the student to finish his college education. The cost of this insurance is in addition to the monthly payments.

Should the head of the family or sponsor become totally and permanently disabled for a period of six months, the insurance will cover all monthly repayments due after such six-month period, so long as the total disability continues.

The program is flexible, with special plans available for sophomore, junior, and senior students, as well as those who desire more than a four-year college course.

z z z

THE PLAN may be set up and started as much as two years in advance of the student entering college. This will reduce the interest cost.

The plan also provides for the handling of the monthly repayments automatically by a charge to the customer's checking account with Fort Wayne National Bank.

No restrictions will be placed on the choice of college. This will be left up to the student and his parents or sponsor.

Mr. Daane, in commenting on the new plan, said that it would provide a means of meeting educational expenses more conveniently, since the cost is budgeted on a monthly basis. These costs have not remained static, but have risen along with other costs. Mr. Daane urges anyone interested in this new budget plan for financing college educations to consult with any officer of the bank for additional information.

Mr. Applegate Takes 3rd Trip To Europe, Brushes Up On French

"La Belle Paris!" sighs Mr. William Applegate, English and French teacher, as he fondly recalls his third enchanting trip to Paris and other places in Europe this summer.

Mr. Applegate stated that the main purpose in this visit was a review for him so that he could teach French this year. He especially enjoyed his associations with the French people and those of other nationalities.

Leaving Fort Wayne on June 6, Mr. Applegate flew to Montreal, Canada. The following day he boarded the "Arcadia" and sailed to Ireland. While aboard this ship, Mr. Applegate met many students who were participating in classes on the boat. Mr. Applegate stated that because they took the northern route it was very cold and foggy between Labrador and Greenland.

He spent four days in Dublin, Ireland, where the outstanding feature was a play by Dylan Thomas which compared to Thornton Wilder's "Our Town."

z z z

ONE OF THE highlights of the entire journey abroad for Mr. Applegate was traveling aboard an overnight steamer to Glasgow, Scotland. He traveled on a second class ticket which enabled him to come in contact with many immigrants and local people.

From Glasgow Mr. Applegate's journeying took him to Edinburgh, Scotland, where he visited St. Giles Cathedral.

Four days of his time was spent admiring the English Lake District which compared to our national parks.

Our travelling teacher viewed nine shows during his one week stay in London. One of the most outstanding plays was "Henry VIII."

z z z

THE NEXT STOP on the itinerary was at the French Riviera where Mr. Applegate enjoyed the sports and beauty of this famous resort area.

July 15 marked the beginning of a five-week stay in Paris. Here Mr. Applegate took classes at the Sorbonne four hours daily. All classes were in French, and 20 students from nine countries attended them. The United States, England, Chile, Denmark, Italy, Spain, Belgium, and Germany were the countries represented.

While studying in Paris, Mr. Applegate was able to take several weekend trips to nearby places. One such trip was to Normandy where he visited the French town of Rouen, famous because it was where Joan of Arc was burned at the stake.

Another week-end trip revealed the sights of the World's Fair in Brussels to Mr. Applegate.

August 13, Mr. Applegate said "Au revoir" to Paris as he boarded the "Coronia" and sailed to New York City where he arrived early in the morning of August 20.

Mr. Snider Speaks At Hi-Y Meeting

"The second meeting of Hi-Y was mainly devoted to Mr. R. Nelson Snider, principal, who gave a speech on education," said John Meyerholtz, Hi-Y president. "We also discussed plans for a special service project we hope to accomplish this year.

"Any students have suggestions for a worthwhile service project may contact any member of the club. These suggestions will be greatly appreciated." John also added that any junior or senior boy interested in joining Hi-Y may still join at the next meeting, Monday night.

'Make Mine Music' To Feature Classical, Rock 'n Roll Sept. 21

Teenage talent will be given an opportunity to demonstrate the latest craze in rock 'n' roll and also their talents in "long hair" music when the South Side String Quartet and the Continentals appear on "Make Mine Music," the free spectacular two-hour variety show, to be presented at the Memorial Coliseum Sunday afternoon, September 21.

"Make Mine Music" is being produced and directed by the Fort Wayne radio-television industry as a benefit for the Philharmonic Orchestra. The show will be seen on all three local television stations and heard on all four radio stations simultaneously for the entire two-hour program. Complimentary tickets are available at all stations for persons wishing to see a "live" show in actual production.

The Continentals were the runners-up to the Deb Tones, also appearing on "Make Mine Music," in the recent WOWO-sponsored Talent Search. Mercury Records has since auditioned the group.

The South Side High School String Quartet is exactly one year old this month. Members are Marylyn Sexton, first violin; Allen Steere, second violin; Cynthia Miller, viola; and Anne Sherbondy, violoncello.

The Quartet received a Superior Rating last spring in the District and State Music Contests and was pronounced the best youth string quartet in the state of Indiana by the competition judge in Indianapolis.

z z z

ALL THE MEMBERS of the Quartet are also members of the South Side Orchestra and have received special training from Robert Drummond, orchestra director. In addition to their accomplishments on string instruments, all members of the Quartet are pianists.

Marylyn Sexton is a senior and concertmistress of the orchestra. She has studied the violin for seven years and has appeared in numerous concerts in Fort Wayne.

Allen Steere, a sophomore, appeared as the boy soprano soloist in the Philharmonic Orchestra's presentation of "The Elijah." In the summer of 1957, he attended the National Music Camp at Interlochen, Mich.

Cynthia Miller, a sophomore, plays viola in the school orchestra and clarinet and glockenspiel in the school band. As the rest of the members of the String Quartet, Cynthia is a member of the Festival Music Theater Orchestra during the summer months.

Anne Sherbondy, a senior, has studied the cello for six years. She recently attended the Indiana University Summer Music Clinic.

Robert "Be Bop" Stevens, who was graduated from Central last June, started the Continentals after having discussed the possibility of forming a vocal group with his friends. At a talent show he heard other high school students who were also interested in having a vocal group, and soon the Continentals became a reality.

Other members of the Continentals are Jim Milton, first tenor; Charles Hemphill, second tenor; and Calvin Thomas, drums, all of whom are students at Central High School; Bill Van Buskirk and Harvey Trees, guitar players from South Side; and Marvin Smith, bass baritone, who was graduated from South last June.

Louie Hull Sponsor Of Cyclotron Club

Pat Doherty, president of the Cyclotron Club, has announced the next meeting, which will be held on Tuesday.

Since Mr. Buzzard is not with us this year, the new physics teacher, Mr. Hull, will be Cyclotron's sponsor. Mr. Hull's keyword is work. All those interested in science and willing to work hard are asked to attend this meeting.

Movies To Be Shown

Eight movies will be shown this week to wood, biology, and health classes. Mr. Quance's students will see "Turning Taper," "Chuck," "Culinder," and "Face Plate" today.

Tomorrow the biology classes will be shown "Climbing Plants," "Dadder," and "Fungus," and the health classes will see "Preface to a Life" next Wednesday.

Archers Down Shortridge With Fourth Period Score

South Shows Prowess In Come-From-Behind Win; Gaskill, Meyer Star

The fighting Archers upset a rugged Shortridge squad by the score of 12-6 last Friday night before an enthusiastic home crowd at the stadium. This was the first time in many seasons that the Archers have come from behind to beat a strong team. In doing so, the Archers showed the crowd that they were not just a first-half club, which was evident at Anderson.

Although South was outplayed during the first half, they outplayed Shortridge in the second half receiving seven first downs to the Devils' five.

Shortridge scored the first time they received the ball on a drive through the middle by their fullback. However, this proved to be their only touchdown, although they were inside South's 10-yard line three other times.

z z z

SOUTH SET UP its first score at the start of the second quarter when Bill Meyer, who was outstanding on offense throughout the game, sprinted over 80 yards to inside Shortridge's 10-yard line before being brought down. Three plays later, Steve Gaskill shot over for the score. The try for extra point failed, and there was no more scoring during the first half.

Dan Tritch, who played almost the entire game, along with Terry Berk, Ken Howe, and Joe Roth, did an exceptionally good job in the line; while in the backfield on defense, Lawson White, Tom Lersh, and Carl Johnson stood out.

The Archers scored the winning touchdown on a "Steve Gaskill Special" that even Coach Gernand didn't know about. It came about when the Archers were inside Shortridge's 10-yard line. Gaskill got the ball and was hit hard on the line of scrimmage. He fumbled, and the ball flew into the end zone where alert guard Ken Howe recovered it for the score.

z z z

THE ARCHERS might have been able to win the game by converting on their first try for extra point, but the absence of Bill Spindler, a center, who is out with a possible broken foot, left no one with experience to snap the ball for kicks and punts.

Steve Smith did a very good job of calling plays, and he also looked good on defense, too. Steve kept the team together, and during the entire game they had only 30 yards of penalties compared to Shortridge's 50 yards of penalties.

The main improvement in the Archer squad seemed to be their team spirit. Many times they were in trouble on both defense and offense; but they never gave up and this appeared to be the difference between victory and defeat.

THAT'S THE SPIRIT—Archer fans show their loyalty to their team by really yelling during last Friday night's game with Indianapolis Shortridge. (Picture by Gilsdorf)

Schmitz On Sports

Solid backing from the stands proved to be valuable as Coach Gernand has been asserting ever since he has been at South. Gernand's pep talk to the students during last Friday's pep session was far from a waste of time. For the first time in many grid campaigns Archer football rooters were aroused to the cause of backing their representatives on the field.

The stands roared with approval on almost every play and were especially predominant in the closing minutes of the game just before and during the Green and White's winning drive into Shortridge territory. I have never seen a South Side football crowd so enthused since the Kellys unexpectedly upset city rival Central two years ago. Their cheering was most appreciated in the drive which carried South to touchdown territory.

z z z

IT WAS INTERESTING to note that despite that brilliant 85-yard run by Bill Meyer, the Archers were outgained by Shortridge both on the ground and in the air. Shortridge also picked up more first downs, but were hurt considerably by several timely penalties and the great goal-line defense of South's.

This upset victory should play an important role in the outcome of the season for the Green. Determination has paid off and now the taste of triumph is deeply imbedded in the team and will be in future contests; but the Green will not get a chance for victory number two until September 25 in the City Series opener against North. This week is an open date.

z z z

DAN TRITCH FOILED a Blue Devil plan with the key tackle of the game when Shortridge was within the Archer 15 with a fourth and two situation. Carl Johnson's interception also enlightened the Kelly supporters but had little effect upon the outcome.

North's narrow margin of victory over Central last Friday forecasted what is to be expected in the upcoming City Series race. The loss dimmed Central's hopes for the title, but placed the other teams in a good position. South, who on paper was stricken from the contenders' list, must now be taken as a serious threat since their astounding victory over Shortridge.

z z z

FOUR OF the '58 State Championship hardwood five officially started on the road to a collegiate career by enrolling at two schools this week. Mike McCoy was joined by Carl Stavreti at Northwestern when the latter decided upon Northwestern as his school only last week.

Dan Howe and Rich Miller, the other two, journeyed down South to begin their school year at the Citadel. In doing so, they join ex-Archers George Wehrmeister and Bob Blackledge on the military school's basketball team.

z z z

CONCORDIA'S Steve Hibler gave early notice that he has high intentions of cracking the existing Fort Wayne cross country Sectional record established by South Side's Dave Redding. Since Redding established the record, the course at Franke Park has been shortened twice. One week ago Tuesday the lithe Cadet toured the abbreviated course in 9:54, just slightly over 20 seconds shy of Redding's mark.

South's present cross country coach, Pork Holt, and ex-coach George Collyer, both agree that the short course can make a difference of up to 20 seconds for a fast runner. It is not that South Side supporters dread to see the records credited to our school broken, but feel that it is only fair to everybody concerned that NEW RECORDS SHOULD BE EARNED.

Cheerleaders Plan, Present Pep Sessions Lead All Cheering

Cheering the football and basketball teams, keeping the fans organized, and planning and presenting the pep sessions are all jobs of the cheerleaders. To handle these responsibilities and to be good representatives of South Side, 11 were chosen for the '58 and '59 athletic season.

The varsity squad, which sees the most action, consists of Janet Hicks, captain; Carol Lockwood, secretary; John Hendricksen; Janet Lawry; Janis Mitchell; and Judy Thompson. Assisting varsity and cheering for the reserve games is the job of Barb Wallace, reserve captain; Sally Dill; Merle Baldwin; Margo Dixon; and Sharon Zelt. The unknown worker of both squads is the coach, Mr. Raymond Quance.

z z z

THESE ENERGETIC 11 spend many hours on perfecting the routines of their yells and in planning enjoyable pep sessions. Each Tuesday after school and each Friday before school finds the group practicing. The pep sessions are planned by a member of each squad.

To learn new cheers and better techniques, the cheerleaders will go to a Cheerleading Clinic in Portland, Ind., during October. They hope to get new ideas for pep sessions.

Although varsity cheerleading consumes many hours, each one on the squad still finds time for several other activities.

JANET HICKS is the news editor for The Times, program chairman for 36 Workshop, a member of Philo, and a service worker. In the summer she can be found breaking swimming records and counseling at a girls' camp.

Being president of 36 Workshop, vice-president of her church Luther League, a member of Philo, a feature writer for The Times, a service worker, and a member of concert choir keeps pert Carol Lockwood more than busy. Carol also works at the Betti-Lou Hat Shop.

South's only boy cheerleader, John Hendricksen, enjoys taking pictures for The Times and Totem and singing in concert choir and in a senior boys' trio.

Photogenic Janet Lawry often "sits" for Clippinger's Studio for whom her pictures have won prizes. At the present she is taking modeling lessons from Bobbi Ray. Janet is also a member of Philo and 36 Workshop.

Participating in speech contests, Wranglers, 36 Workshop, and Service Club keeps Janis Mitchell hopping. She is also a member of the modern dance group.

Judy Thompson finds time to be a Times agent; a news, feature, and editorial writer; an ad solicitor; a Totem office manager, a member of Philo, 36 Workship, Service Club, Wranglers, and concert choir.

z z z

EACH CHEERLEADER agrees that yelling for South Side is a lot of hard work, but they consider it worth every minute, if they can have a yelling section which will do its best to encourage the teams both in victory and defeat, in a wholehearted fashion.

Tennis Prospects Play Each Other

Underclass prospects for the South Side tennis squad met Tuesday in Room 178 with Mr. Everett Havens, tennis coach.

It was decided that the candidates will compete between themselves three nights a week for the next few weeks on their own. This will give them practice, and it will also provide Mr. Havens with a chance to observe the capabilities of each player.

Competition will be on a ladder system. In the first flight of this system, the players given the numbers one and two compete. Number three then meets four, and five competes with six. In the second flight, two plays three, and four plays five. The third flight then returns to the original pattern.

If a player defeats an opponent who has a number closer to the top than himself, he takes that person's position. If he is defeated, he remains in the same slot.

Kelly Reserves Beat North 6-0

Duff Takes Pitchout For Touchdown Run

The South Side Reserve football squad lived up to the high expectations placed upon them by whipping the North Side Redskins 6-0 on the South Side gridiron last Monday.

The game was marked by brilliant defensive play on the part of the Archers as they withstood the Redskin charges on four sparkling goal line stands, two from inside the five-yard stripe.

The Archer defense which was largely responsible for the victory consisted mainly of Griffiths, Hargan, Dawson, Somers, Raines, Sheray, Weinraub, and Hertel on the line and Shine, Duff, and Chris Parrott alternating with Bob Bolyard in the quarterback slot making up the backfield. Many of these boys also saw much action on offense also.

In the first half the Big Green were plagued with fumbles as the pigskin was lost twice to the Redskins on fumbles. On one of these occasions South was well on the way to a score when the ball squirted away from the Kellys and into North Side possession.

Two of the four goal line stands came in the first half of play when North was knocking on the door with first down and nine or ten yards for a touchdown. But each time a spirited Archer defense came on to hold the opponents in check permitting the Green to take over.

The standout play of the day came in the third period when Archer halfback Tom Duff took a pitchout and swept around end on a 45-yard touchdown jaunt that put South in the lead to stay.

Again in the third and fourth quarters a stalwart Archer defense was called upon to ward off Redskin offensive threats.

Archer ability and nerves were really put to the test when in the final stanza the North Side eleven had the ball first and goal from the four-yard stripe. The Archers once more held, putting on a magnificent exhibition of blocking and hard tackling. The climax came when a Redskin back on fourth down looked as if he was in the end zone when out of nowhere came Chris Parrott to drop him one foot away from paydirt.

Bob Bolyard and Chris Parrott calling signals did a commendable job while the strength of their running attack came from Tom Duff, who averaged 13 yards per carry and Bob Shine who averaging four yards a carry took care of most of the running chores in the first part of the contest.

The Green completed one pass in four tries, a Bolyard to Hargan toss covering 16 yards.

The South Side hopefuls showed well in their debut and Coach Glen Stebing can well be pleased with their performance.

Score by quarters:

South Side scoring: Touchdown—Duff (45 yard run).

Grid Team Coached By Gernand, Scott, Hoover, And Stebing

South Side's grid hopes this year lie not only on the squad, but on the men who must form a smooth working unit out of 11 individual players. Archer Head Coach Robert Gernand will be ably assisted at this job by Warren Hoover, Athletic Director Wayne Scott, and Glen Stebing.

Mr. Gernand attended South Side from 1940-1944. He attended Penn State University and Michigan State University, where he participated in football, track, and wrestling.

He was in the Navy during World War II and served in the Marines during the Korean War. Before coming to South Side, Mr. Gernand taught at Pidgeon, Stephenson, and Escanaba, Mich. He served as assistant coach in 1954 and is in his third year as head coach at South Side.

z z z

MR. HOOVER attended high school and college at Valparaiso and later attended Indiana University. In college he played football and tennis.

He spent four years in the Marines and taught in New Albany, Ill., and at Winchester, Ind., before coming to South Side. This is Mr. Hoover's second year as assistant football coach.

Wayne Scott, in his sixteenth year at South Side, was an All-State basketball player at Central of Fort Wayne. He then attended Michigan State University where he coached frosh basketball after graduation. Before coming to South Side he taught Physical Education at Harrison Hill.

z z z

THE STAFF IS rounded out by Glen Stebing, who is in his eleventh year as an Archer instructor. He attended Auburn High School and was named to the Indiana All-State small college basketball team while at Manchester College, North Manchester, Ind. After graduating from Indiana University at Bloomington, Ind., he spent two years in the Air Force and came to South Side in 1947.

The coaching staff looks upon the coming grid season with optimism. The Archer crew will be light but fairly fast. They work mainly from an unbalanced "T." Though mostly underclassmen, they are expected to improve as they gain more experience.

Service Workers Vital To Gym Office

If it wasn't for the service workers and pianists in the girls' gym office, gym and dance couldn't be carried on. Service workers in the gym office assist in taking attendance, refereeing the games, and keeping the equipment in good order.

The girls who help are, period 1, Alberta Bonnell, Kathy Dunigan, Jeannette Lynn, Susan McMurtry; period 2, Marilyn Budd, Susan Getty, Ruby Martin; period 3, Shelba Cox, Judy Garrison, Susan Kuroski, Linda Wolf; period 4, Shelby Cox, Pat Igney, Ann Walton; period 6, Jane Glass, Pat Igney, Ann Walton; period 7, Barb Brown, Connie Dennis, and Jeannette Lynn.

Sororities, Fraternities, Violation Of State Law

"Membership in High School Sororities and Fraternities is a violation of a law of the state of Indiana," stated our principal, Mr. R. Nelson Snider.

The ruling this year will be the same as it has always been in past years. "As long as these organizations keep their activities outside of school," Mr. Snider pointed out, "my belief is that the school does not need to worry about them. However, initiating members or wearing insignias of these organizations in school is forbidden," said Mr. Snider.

Teachers have been requested to report violators of this law to Mr. Snider's office.

Archer Harriers Trounce Cadets; Team Meets Tigers After First Win

Rainbolt Shows Fine Running, Wins 2nd Place

Barret Leads Reserves; Ed Kridler, Weinraub Take Second, Third

A strong Archer cross-country team downed the Concordia Cadets in the first meet of the season, Tuesday at Foster Park.

South's Don Kern took the lead right after the start of the race, followed closely by Cadet Hibler. At the half-mile mark, Hibler and Kern were still ahead while Archers' Sam Green, Al Rainbolt, and Eddie Hartman were close behind.

As they reached the mile mark, Kern dropped back while Sophomore Al Rainbolt showed up in front and battled with Hibler for the lead. Al ran a very fine race and took the lead, but as the two ran, Hibler started his strong finish. He passed Rainbolt and crossed the line first, with a good time of 10:16.8, while Rainbolt came in second with a time of 10:22, a personal best for him.

z z z

SOUTH'S SAM GREEN came in next with a time of 10:36, while Eddie Hartman, the number one man on last year's team placed fourth. In fifth place was Forrest of Concordia, but the next two places were taken by Don Kern and Gus Wade of South Side.

The final score was South Side 22, Concordia 33. This gave the Archers and Coach "Porky" Holt a victory in the first meet of the season.

z z z

THE ARCHER RESERVE cross country team made a fine showing by beating the Concordia Reserves. The reserve meet was won by Dave Barrett in the good time of 12:05. The next two places were also taken by South Side. Ed Kridler was second in 12:22 and Chuck Weinraub third in 12:35.

This showed that South Side, besides having an excellent first string team also has very good reserves, on which they always can depend if one of the regular members should not be able to run.

SUPERIOR PLAYERS—Lawson White prepares to hike the pigskin as Win Moses calls signals. Both varsity players have seen action this early in the season and figure in Coach Gernand's future game plans.

Howe, Meyer Chosen Players Of The Week

Winning Touchdown, 85-Yard Sprint Help Coaches To Decide

Following South Side's sterling victory over Indianapolis Shortridge, lineman Ken Howe and back Bill Meyer were chosen players of the week. The two were the Archer standouts in the 12-6 win as the Green and White won their first game of the season in the home opener.

The choice of Kenny for Lineman of the Week was based mainly on his winning touchdown in the closing minutes of the game. With less than two minutes remaining in the game, Ken pounced on a loose ball in the end zone. The Archers were on a touchdown drive when Steve Gaskill fumbled the ball which rolled into the end zone where Howe recovered the pigskin. Kenny also shone on defense, making many fine tackles.

z z z

KENNY HOWE, brother to South alumnus Dan, is in his first year of varsity first string football. Kenny began his football career as a freshman end and moved to the tackle position in his sophomore year. Early this season Coach Gernand moved Howe to guard in order to strengthen the all-around ability of the line. Ken, wearing number 61, plays left of the center on both offensive and defensive first teams.

In school, Kenny is a Junior A on the college course, majoring in English and math. His subjects this semester include English 6, Algebra 3, U.S. History 2, and Physics 1. He is a member of the state champion basketball team and a hurdler on the cinder squad. Ken is an active member of DeMolay.

z z z

BILL'S YARDAGE through the middle and around end in the Shortridge game earned him the Back of the Week title. On one occasion Bill scampered 85 yards through the Shortridge defense only to be halted by the Blue Devils five yards from pay dirt. Billy also sparked the Archer touchdown drive in the closing minutes of the game.

Senior Bill Meyer begins his first full season in the Archer backfield. Bill did not begin playing football until his sophomore year when he played end on the reserve squad. Midway through his junior season he was switched into the backfield to occupy the left halfback position vacated by the injured Carl Stavreti. Billy may be remembered from last year's performance in the Central Catholic game in which he continually scampered around ends for South yardage.

z z z

BILL IS ON the college course and carries English 8, Algebra 4, and Chemistry 1 on his schedule. Also a member of the state championship basketball team, Bill promises to lead the team on the hardwood this season. Bill is an active member of DeMolay where he acted as a Preceptor for one semester.

Both Bill and Ken wanted to commend the fans on their support in the game. They said it certainly encouraged them and was a prominent factor in the Kelly win.

Gym Classes Elect Student Leaders

Mrs. Keegan's and Miss Pohlmeyer's girls' gym classes have elected student leaders for the fall term. Special duties of student leaders are to coach and officiate in class games.

They also referee, umpire, and keep score in GAA games. A leader should read all notices on the bulletin boards and keep her squad informed of all items. KNOW YOUR RULES! Clip them from the Times and check them in immediately with your teacher.

In manner, she should always be pleasant, poised, helpful, and courteous to those on her squad, remembering that she is serving as coach, teacher, and friend to those in her charge. In appearance, she should always be neat. She is identified by a green gym suit, white or green anklets, gym shoes, black tie, and whistle.

z z z

STUDENT LEADERS should know where everything belongs as they are responsible for all equipment. They must help office girls get it ready at the beginning of the period, see that it is not misused on the gym floor, and return all of the equipment in the proper place at the end of the period.

Girls chosen for student leaders in Mrs. Keegan's classes are: Period 2, Mary Ann Clarke, Judy Dunlap, Judy Earlywine, Sandy Fields, June Garvin, Beverly Hughes, May Jones, Joan Mueller, Eunice Ross, Pamela Stech, Barbara Steiner, Nancy Stillwell, and Phyllis Trees;

Period 3, Becky Davis, Connie Denis, Diane DeVincent, Sandy Dolson, Judy English, Mary Follis, Carol Hofer, Carol Lewis, Barbara Markiton, Martha Price, Bonnie Riskas, Joyce Rothgeb, and Shirley Stahlhut;

z z z

PERIOD 7, Trudy Bachman, Nancy Baen, Nita Baron, Marilyn Baysinger, Cindy Hart, Barbara Heilman, Carol Hildebrand, Diane Junk, Leanne Keokuk, Sue Slick, Nancy Tagtmeyer, Sandy Trulock, Linda Vollmer, Marianne Weiss, and Judy Widurn.

Miss Pohlmeyer's classes chose the following girls as student leaders: Period 1, Donna Barnes, Bonnie Bender, Michelle Flaig, Judy Follis, Karen Johnson, Sharon Kennedy, Janice King, Bonnie Schug, Susan Springer, Kay Sheehan, and Sandy Wietfeldt;

Period 4, Joyce Ashkenazie, Sharon Duff, Bella Dyson, Judy Fisher, Deane Kappas, Sheri Koch, Sue Lewis, Jean Myers, Darlene Ramey, Phyllis Redding, Darlene Reid, and Mari Jane Tobey; Period 6, Marcia Anderson, Marceil Baysinger, Diane Carpenter, Anita Keller, Pat Lalone, Lola McLaughlin, Marilyn Miner, Mary Dalston, Stephanie Roe, Sandra Sieber, Marlene Timma, Pam Ward, Lois Wartenbe, Sharon Wickliffe, and Sharon Zollars.

Important Test To South Squad For City Title

Rainbolt, Hartman, Green Maintain 10:22 - 10:40 Times

This afternoon the South Side harriers play host to the Central Tigers at Foster Park in the Archers' third home meet of the cross country season. The two-mile race will start at 4 p.m. in the park on Hartman Road and will terminate at the same place.

The contest will be important to the Archers. It will test the improvement they have made since the opening of the season and might be the important step to their second consecutive regular season city title.

Al Rainbolt, Ed Hartman, and Sam Green have maintained five times of between 10:22 and 10:40 for the two-mile course. Don Kern, Gus Wade, and Allen David are all pushing to crack the 11-minute barrier.

z z z

THE TIGERS will not be as balanced as they were last season, although the Central squad has a fine one-two punch in the persons of Onofre Gutierrez and Terry Henline. In addition, the city's fleetest reserve runner of last year, Nate Harrison, will return to bolster the Tiger attack.

Next Tuesday South will receive its first opportunity to run over the abbreviated Franke course when they meet Concordia in a return match. At Franke the race begins directly west of the park zoo and is completed aproximately 400 yards west.

The Kellys were victorious in the teams' first encounter, although Steve Hibler, defending Sectional titlist, outsprinted Al Rainbolt to take individual honors. Hibler's time at Foster against South was 10:16, but last Thursday he ran a sizzling 9:54 against North Side's balanced harriers.

Jeff Shull was recently added to the Cadet squad for the North meet. Shull, a two-sport man (Shull is halfback on Concordia's grid team), missed the South meet, but placed third in 10:19 at Franke over the shortened course. Gary Forrest has been improving steadily this season and can be expected to be vying for a top five finish at Franke Tuesday.

Mural Men

By Stan Rupnow

I'm sure by now all of you know of the Parent's Consent Card and its importance in Intramurals. Without it a boy is not eligible to play. It is a card showing your parents and doctor approve of your competition in Intramurals. If a boy forges a consent card and is caught, he is barred from Intramurals for a year. So, let's get those Parent's Consent Cards in and make this a "bang up" year in Intramurals.

Well, the turnout for cross country really was great. Catch this, a grand total of 66 boys were signed up one day before the deadline. Cross country is the one sport that you can make yourself. The harder you work, the better you show. Those out in Lightweight are Gary Butz, Larry Schrader, Acie Eldridge, Dave Smith, Jim Marley, Dave Reese, William Borgmann, Fred Schoen, Dick Klaehn, Larry Britton, Robert Hawkins, Joe Bleakney, Argrior Porpor, Dick Schnepp, Dave Osborne, Bill George, Bill Cartwright, Phil Spray, and Dave Zimmerman.

Friday is the last day to get football teams in. You can pick up your team cards in the gym office. Remember, 12 men on a team. So get all your buddies together and get a team in. Last year's Lightweight winners were Jack Walte's "Cotton Pickers," who defeated Neil Hoffman's "Katz-n-Jammer Kids" in the playoff. Mort Domer's "Terrible Titons" won the Heavyweight title from Dave Barrett's "Honey Dippers."

In the opening game of the '58 touch football, the Weasels defeated the Mighty Mouses, 7-0. It was a see-saw battle throughout the whole game with the Weasels holding the upper edge. They finally scored on a fine pass run play by Jack Waite with the ball ending up in the hands of Art Wilson in the end zone. Chuck Putt then pitched to Art Wilson for the extra point.

Third Archer Coach Bill Moss Holds Position For Two Years

(This is the third in an eight-issue series of stories relating the progress of Archer grid outfits through the years at South Side. This week's article deals with the two years under Bil Moss, the third Kelly coach.—Editor's Note)

When Lundy Welborn announced that he was accepting a coaching job downstate, the Archer administration hurriedly searched for a replacement and came up with William Moss. Mr. Moss held the head coaching reigns for just a two-year period. He turned out to be the most unsuccessful football coach in history at South Side.

During those years at South Side, Mr. Moss marched the Archers onto the field 18 times and returned victor only five times! His first year at South was the worst football season ever. The Green and White were trounced 10 straight times. Coupled with the record the season before, it gave the Archers one triumph in 20 games.

Even C.C. crushed the Green and White in 1938. The Irish won by a score of 13-7. Central and North also recorded easy wins by counts of 47-0 and 46-0. The game with Central ended the Archers most disastrous season.

z z z

THE PICTURE began to brighten slightly the following year, as the Archer's broke out of their losing spell to enjoy a winning season. After annexing the opener, the Kellys rolled along to record a 5-2-1 season mark. They avenged the loss to Central Catholic with a 12-0 victory. North and Central made it two straight shutouts by blasting South 12-0 and 28-0, respectively.

When his two years were up, Mr. Moss accepted an assistant coaching position at Shurtleff College in Alton, Ill. He remained there for several years and then quit. Mr. Moss has not been heard from since. Since his whereabouts are not known, an interview for this story was impossible.

Next week: The fourth in the series of eight articles. The fourth football coach at South was Wayne Gift, who like Moss, stayed at his post for just two years.

Girls' Rifle Club Meetings Postponed

"Since Mr. Clarence Murray conducts an eighth period shop class and cannot help sponsor Girls' Rifle Club, meetings are postponed indefinitely, as I don't feel qualified to handle the girls and the guns alone," stated Mrs. Mildred Luse, the club's remaining sponsor.

Anticipating an immediate replacement for Mr. Murray, the officers plan to discuss their first regular meeting in about two weeks under the guidance of two sponsors.

South Side Boasts 9 DeMolay Officers

South Side is well represented in the world's largest chapter of DeMolay located in the Fort Wayne Masonic Temple. Out of the 703 young men in the chapter, nine of the officers are from South Side. They include David Dunstone, Jerry George, Bog King, Chuck Jellison, Tom Dougher, John Wilkes, Bruce McKinney, John Skiner, and Steve Bash.

Master Counselor John Johnson (N.S.) announced two of the major fall events planned by DeMolay. The members will attend the Purdue-Nebraska football game on September 27, and reserve October 4 for their annual hayride at Robinson Park Pavilion.

'Quality In Education . . .'

pose she takes two years of math and makes an A grade both years. We wouldn't try to get her to take more math. She wouldn't need it."

Mr. Snider says South Side has a director of guidance who works with students individually. "But he's just one man for 2,070 kids. So he tries to develop the guidance program through the student's homeroom teacher. We emphasize educational guidance (taking the right subjects), do some social guidance and some vocational guidance."

Overall, however, guidance is a word that brings a furrow to Mr. Snider's brow.

Why, he wants to know, do kids need so much guidance? He thinks it is better to get the information to them—the information about some particular field, say industrial engineering. Then let them decide what they want to do.

"There's too much school work," Mr. Snider says, "that's called education when it's really nothing but training in a specific field. If I had my way, every kid going to college would take four years of liberal arts before starting to specialize. This frees a person's intellect and gives him the background and tools with which to think.

"In the long run, if there's any virtue in this world, that kind of power (the technical training Russian students are getting) can't possibly win any eventual struggle. We need technical training, of course, but let's not over-emphasize it. It would be a horrible world if we stressed nothing but math and science."

Describes Ideal Program

The ideal high school program, as Mr. Snider sees it, would include four years of English, three of social studies, two of science, four of foreign language and four of math. "But that's too much. So what do you leave out? It depends on what the kids are interested in."

To have a good school, Mr. Snider proposes two jobs for the school principal.

First eliminate the obstacles that interfer with teacher-student contact.

Second, have a balanced program. "Don't let any particular activity run away with the show, be it band, athletics, speech, math or science. This doesn't mean you can't do well in some sideline activity such as the school publication or athletics or speech. But don't let any one of them take over."

Finally, when asked to suggest just one way education in our country might be improved, Mr. Snider suggests:

"To improve education we need intelligent people well trained to do the teaching. To much emphasis is put on education courses (techniques of teaching). More time should be spent on subjects which the teacher is going to teach. If the man is going to teach English, take more English courses. Math, more math courses. This is particularly important for the man or woman who is going to teach in the upper grades and on the high school level."

Safety Emphasized By Boys' Rifle Club

"To explain the mechanism and safe handling of rifles and ammunition, Boys' Rifle Club assembled last Tuesday at 3:30 p.m. on the range," informed Gene Crum, president.

Following a short organizational meeting September 9, members became acquainted with the range.

Mr. Stephen Berg, sponsor, emphasized the important of personal conduct on the range.

Times Ranked Superior By Quill And Scroll Heads

International Honor Rating, Gallup Award Won Yearly Since '26

"A pleasure to read—and a challenge to other school papers," concluded Mr. A. M. Sanderson, head of judges of the Quill and Scroll Critical Service in his final note in the score book rating The South Side Times.

The quality of The Times was summed up by the judges in this way, "one can speak of this paper only in superlatives. It is outstanding in balance of news coverage, leadership, features, and quality of writing. Certainly the staff, faculty, school, and community should be extremely proud of this publication. The standards of this paper exceed those of many professional publications."

The South Side Times once again proved itself to be a newspaper of "superior achievements" when it recently received the International Honor Rating in a judging by the Quill and Scroll Critical Service.

THE TIMES has received the International Honor Rating every year since 1926. This year was no exception. Out of a possible 1,000 points, The Times merited 936.

The George H. Gallup Award was also achieved by The Times. This award is for "exceptional service to the school, community, or nation, and sustained leadership through the years."

"I was especially pleased that the paper was given this honor, since there was a new head judge this year," stated Miss Rowena Harvey, adviser for The Times staff. "This proved that The Times is highly regarded by more than one man or group of men."

IN RECENT YEARS, Mr. Laurence Campbell, former head of journalism at Florida State University, was head judge of the high school newspapers. When he resigned, Mr. Sanderson, member of the University of Iowa staff, became head judge.

The judges scored the newspaper a a new medium to inform readers, as a leadership medium to influence readers, and as a feature medium to entertain readers. The Times was also judged as a business enterprise and an educational laboratory.

The Times merited 306 points out of a possible 360 as a news medium. The judges commented that The Times did this in a "well-balanced and very thorough" manner. The judges expect the school paper "to provide the readers with a balanced picture of the school's part in the community's educational program."

"The school newspaper stimulates critical thinking, co-operative planning, and democratic actions on the part of the reader. The Times did an outstanding job in the leadership medium," said the judges, scoring the paper with 146 out of a possible 160 points.

THE TIMES features were judged "very well done" and given 148 points out of a possible 160 by the judges, who expect the paper as a feature medium to "provide readers with lively and wholesome reading matter."

"Very outstanding," was the judges' comment on the paper as a business enterprise. The Times was awarded 149 points out of a possible 160 points in this division.

A score of 186 out of a possible 200 points showed the judges' opinion of The Times as an educational laboratory. "Through the newspaper, they learn that a free people and a free press are inseparable," was the comment on the judges' sheet.

"The only major criticisms were that there should be more display on the inside pages and that the name plate, The South Side Times, should be kept at the top of the front page, even for special issues," commented Miss Harvey.

QUILL AND SCROLL, the International Honorary Society for High School Journalists, was organized by a group of high school advisers for the purpose of encouraging and rewarding individual student achievement in journalism and school publications. The society has always taken an active part in raising standards in this field and in directing the course of high school journalism.

Since its organization in 1926, Quill and Scroll has granted charters to over 7,000 high schools. Active chapters are located in both public and private high schools in every state of the Union, Alaska, Hawaii, the Philippines, and a dozen foreign countries.

South Installs 24 Hour Heat

To control our school's temperature automatically, a new heating system, which operates 24 hours a day, has been installed.

Because the Minneapolis-Honeywell Company, manufacturer of the new wall control appearing in each classroom, failed to connect these controls with the boiler room at the scheduled date of August 15, the heating system is not yet in operation. Mr. Russell Seltenright, chief custodian, reported that the new heating system will be completed before cold weather.

Replacing coal heat, the new Petro oil burner will average 72 degrees F. during the day and 55 degrees F. at night. This set temperature will eliminate chilly mornings and stuffy afternoons.

Although 30,000 gallons is the oil capacity, only time and usage will denote the amount actually consumed in South Side.

Introduction, Speech To Feature Pep Meet

The introduction of the track team by Coach Charles Holt and a short speech by Mr. Robert Gernand, football coach, will highlight tomorrow's pep session at 8:25 a.m. Mr. Gernand will tell of his appreciation of the school's enthusiasm at the game with Shortridge.

John Hendricksen and Margo Dixon have planned this pep session.

Girls Trounce Boys In Times Grid Clash

The boys may beat the girls in putting in the food, but the girls showed the boys how to play football. They soundly trounced the boys, 30-6, at the annual Times fall picnic last Thursday. The girls were coached by John Hendricksen, Stan Rupnow, and Mike Gilsdorf.

Meterites To Hold Organization Meeting

Meterite Club president Sylvia Ehrman said that there will be an organization meeting next Tuesday. Meterites is a girl's English group for freshmen and sophomores; students are urged to attend.

PLAN EVENTS—Ready to start another successful year, the new PTA officers discuss plans for the Open House October 6. This year's officers include left to right, sitting: Mrs. Walter Vollmer, secretary; Mrs. C. F. Kollman, president; Mrs. G. M. Butzow, first vice-president; standing: Mrs. Walter Parrott, treasurer; and Mr. Everett Havens, second vice-president.

Parents Given Chance To Join For 25 Cents

Names Of Teachers, Floor Plan Of Building, Contained In Programs

PTA committees to serve throughout the entire year have been announced by Mrs. Charles Kollman, president.

Committee plans are underway for the open house, October 6. All parents are asked to attend to get acquainted with their children's teachers and curriculum. As in past years the parents go from room to room following the schedule of the child.

Parents will be given an opportunity to join PTA in their homerooms by paying 25 cents to the homeroom representative. Homeroom mothers will be in the homerooms helping the teachers.

The PTA program booklets for the whole year will contain a list of all the teachers and their homeroom numbers and also the floor plan of the building which will be a help to the parents during the open house.

Prelim Elections For Class Officers Held Yesterday

"Who will the class officers be this year?"

This question will be answered shortly, for the preliminary election was taken in the homerooms of the sophomores, juniors, and seniors yesterday. Each student wrote six names of persons who he thought would be capable of handling the offices.

After the results have been compiled, ■ names of persons with the highest number of votes are sent out for finals which will be held next week.

The student members will be elected through the number of votes they receive.

Results of the preliminaries will not be announced due to the tendency of organizations to influence students into voting for ■ certain individual whom he thought would be capable.

Totem Agents Meet Tomorrow In Rm. S

A special meeting is scheduled for all Totem agents tomorrow at 3:30 p.m. in the study hall. All agents are requested to be present at this meeting to get the necessary information about the Totem campaign which runs from October ■ to October 23.

Faculty Picnic To Be Held Next Tuesday

All faculty members are invited to attend the annual picnic next Tuesday at McMillen Park at 5:30 p.m.

Serving will start promptly at 5:45 p.m. For the entertainment, the 14 new faculty members will be properly initiated into the organization.

Chairmen of the various committees are: general arrangement, Mr. Lloyd Whelan; entertainment, Mr. Earl Sterner; coffee and dessert serving, Mr. Lowell Coats; table arranging and decorations, Mr. Stephan Berg; clean-up, Mr. Jack Weicker; fireplace tenders, Mr. Thomas Polite; and transportation, Miss Pauline Van Gorder.

The food will be provided by the Steigerwald Catering Service. The menu will consist of spring chicken, escalloped potatoes, baked beans, cole slaw, tomatoes, rolls and butter, and dixie cups and donuts for dessert.

Retired teachers and wives and husbands of faculty members are invited to attend. Faculty members are asked not to bring their children.

Senior Pictures Needed For Totem

"To get best results on senior pictures, the proofs must be turned in as soon as possible," says Mr. Clippinger of Clippinger Studio.

All seniors are urged to make their appointments immediately, since October 31 has been set as the deadline.

At present, only 175 seniors have had their pictures taken.

Scholarship Fund Open To Pupils

The Fort Wayne School Scholarship Loan Fund, which was established to aid students who could not otherwise attend college, is presently loaning a total of $32,000 to graduates of all Fort Wayne High Schools.

Any graduate of a Fort Wayne high school who presents proof of sufficient need and a high school record good enough to enter college is eligible to borrow from the fund. The amounts borrowed vary because they are determined by need.

The Scholarship Fund was started in 1936 for students from South Side. In 1938, the year South won the basketball championship, parents and radio stations raised money to buy presents for the team. The remainder of the money, which was about $3,500, was placed in the Scholarship Loan Fund.

IN 1946 M. G. IRVING LATZ, then president of Wolf and Dessauer, told Mr. R. Nelson Snider, that if he would have the loan as a non-profit undertaking available to graduates of all the Fort Wayne high schools, Mr. Latz would give $21,500 to the fund. This was accomplished and a present total of $36,000 is in the fund.

The Scholarship Loan Fund is controlled by the Fort Wayne Educational Foundation, Inc., of which Mr. Snider is secretary-treasurer.

The only restriction placed on a loan is that the borrower pay the amount back before two years after his graduation from college if he wishes to pay it back free of interest. If he fails to do this, he must pay four per cent interest. A total of 42 loans have been fully paid back to the fund and 38 are now in circulation.

500 To 600 Teens To Be Accepted In Jr. Achievement

Junior Achievement is ■ good basis for the business men and women of tomorrow. Mr. Charles Robinson, director of Junior Achievement in this city, has stated that between 500 and 600 teenagers will be accepted into Junior Achievement. Those who are eligible to sign up are students 15 to 18 years old. Junior Achievement meetings will be held one night ■ week, Monday through Thursday, from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m., at 109 West Lewis Street.

The teenagers who are interested in business are looking forward to the next Junior Achievement year. During the year 32 companies are to be formed. Twenty-seven local enterprises will be sponsoring these junior business companies. The new sponsors this year are the following: Fruehauf Trailer Company, International Telephone and Telegraph Company, Automobile Dealers Association, Lincoln National Bank and Trust Company, and Fort Wayne National Bank. The achievers are given the choice of wood, food, ceramics, metal, leather, television, novelties, electric appliances, printing, and banking to work on.

The Junior Achievement companies start out by voting how much capital they should use. After that shares of stock are issued and sold for 50 cents a share. Then the achievers buy materials and start making their products. Officers are elected, and the company endeavors to make a profit. At the end of the year the companies are dissolved, and awards are given to the most active achievers.

Circulation Campaign Ends Tomorrow; Last Stab For 100 Per Cent Rooms

C'mon kids . . . Only two more days left to subscribe for The Times to win the cup!!!

By the end of the third week of the circulation campaign approximately 1870 subscriptions for The South Side Times has been sold. However, the campaign ends tomorrow, September 26, and more than 130 pupils still have not subscribed.

Miss Rowena Harvey, adviser, and the circulation staff wish to emphasize to all students that they must subscribe for The Times before tomorrow afternoon in order to have their subscription count in the circulation race.

Once again The South Side Times has zoomed far ahead of Central's Spotlight and North Side's Northerner in the semi-annual circulation race for the famed circulation cup. The Times has won this cup consecutively for the past fifteen semesters.

MORE THAN THIRTY-EIGHT homerooms have now reached the goal of 100 per cent or above. Each of these homerooms will receive its 100 per cent sign and candy bars for all members of the room who have subscribed as soon as all of the promissory notes in the homeroom have been paid.

All agents who do not have 100 per cent homerooms as yet are urged to remind any pupil who hasn't subscribed for The Times that it is very important that he do so before the end of the circulation campaign, tomorrow afternoon.

MERLE BALDWIN, circulation manager, and the circulation staff want agents to be sure to turn in subscriptions for The Times when they receive them, for no more free issues will be given to pupils who haven't subscribed. At least one member of the circulation staff will be in the Times room at noon and after school today and tomorrow, and tomorrow morning before school begins.

Although all students should subscribe for The Times before school ends tomorrow, subscriptions may still be bought in the Times room during the rest of the semester.

TWO DAYS LEFT—Merle Baldwin and Ellen McCarron are reaching for the Circulation Cup which South Side plans to win for the sixteenth semester. Only two days are left for subscriptions to count toward the circulation cup. South Side is well ahead of both Central and North Side.

Below is a list of the homeroom agents and the percent of subscriptions each one had sold in his homeroom by the end of the third week of the circulation campaign.

Junior Red Cross Plans Toy Drive

The third meeting of Junior Red Cross was held Wednesday after school in Room 8.

"Plans for a style show at State School are now being made," said Susie Hoard, club president. "We also discussed plans for our toy drive. This drive is somewhat like the Lettermen's food drive. We hope to collect toys from all the home rooms in the school and give them to the State School children.

"A hall monitor system will be improvised as soon as the membership of the club is established. This system is to help people who are unfamiliar with South Side, such as visitors and parents, to become better acquainted with the school."

The club hopes to accomplish many worthwhile projects this year. Students interested in helping others may also gain a personal benefit by joining this club. Any students interested in joining Junior Red Cross may join at the next meeting, Wednesday, September 24.

Cheerleaders Elect Janet Hicks Captain

The captains and committee heads of the reserve and varsity cheerleaders were announced this week.

The officers this year are Janet Hicks, captain of the varsity cheerleaders; Carol Lockwood, secretary of the varsity; and Barb Wallace, reserve captain.

The job of rewriting the constitution has been left to the constitution committee consisting of Janet Hicks, chairman, John Hendricksen and Carol Lockwood.

The football promotion committee which was in motion previous to the first pep session is headed by Janet Lawry. Others working with her are Merle Baldwin and Barb Wallace.

The decision of how much the cheerleading outfits will cost and how much money will be needed to attend the out-of-town games has been left up to the finance committee. Janis Mitchell, head of this committee, is being helped by her co-chairmen, Judy Thompson and Sharon Zelt.

Frosh Talent Show At 36 Workshop

"A variety of talent ranging from declamations to tap dancing will be the program for the Freshman Talent Show today at 3:30 p.m. in Room 114," said Janet Hicks and Kathie Sosinki, program chairmen.

Students still may join and pay their dues at this meeting. The meeting of October 9 will be the last time that dues and memberships will be taken.

Phil Spray will be the master of ceremonies of the program. The freshmen presenting the talent show are Barb Spiers, Sarah Finch, and Elaine Edwards, playing solos; a skit given by Karen Simmons, Sally Bash, Becky Baughman, and Diane Fredrick; "How Ruby Played," a declamation, will be given by Aletha Staight. A dance will be next done by Brenda Dull. To conclude the show, Sheri Bush will sing and dance.

Times Offers Sympathy

Mrs. Laura W. Leif, mother of Miss Barbara Leif, South Side home economics teacher, died Sunday evening at 7:40 p.m., in the Lutheran Hospital. Funeral services were held Tuesday, at 7:30 a.m., in the Mungovan & Sons Mortuary and at 8 a.m. in the Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception.

Judge William H. Schannen Lauds 98 Percent Of Teenagers

"I'd rather speak about the other 98 per cent!" This is the reply that Judge William H. Schannen, judge of Juvenile Court, gives when he is asked about juvenile delinquency.

Since only two out of every 100 juveniles become delinquent, the judge gives a great deal of credit to the teenagers that stay out of trouble.

"The object of Juvenile Court, which deals with children as young as nine, and as old as 18, is to correct trouble at an early age," said the judge. The delinquents are brought before a probation officer and an investigation is conducted. If the child is found guilty, he and his parents talk to Judge Schannen in his office. In this manner, privacy is maintained and the chances for the child to live ■ useful life are increased.

MOST OF THE delinquents are put on probation and must report to a probation officer every week. This method serves to remind them of the law. Only when a child has done something very serious or has been back to Juvenile Court several times, is he sent to a corrective school.

Although some of the 18-year-olds come back as adults to be tried in Circuit Court, some of the judge's happiest memories are of delinquents who have "gone straight" after being in Juvenile Court. Last week, Judge and Mrs. Schannen were in a restaurant when a bus boy suddenly came up and shook his hand. He explained by saying, "Thanks for what you did for me when I was in trouble. Now I have a job and I'm going to school. I'm really doing O.K."

THE EXPERIENCES which Judge Schannen had as a child helped him to shape the characters of the kids that come into court. His father died when he was eight, leaving his mother and ■ family of eight and their Allen County farm. He attended a country school and had no ideas of going to high school when he was graduated from the eighth grade. His brother and ■ cousin had different ideas concerning his education. When he was 18, they secured a job for him in Fort Wayne and he earned his way through Fort Wayne High School, now Central. His senior class of '05 was the first to be graduated from the new school.

Having come this far, the judge decided to finish his education properly. With the idea of being a Latin professor and very little money, he entered Indiana University in Bloomington, Ind. He stopped chasing Caesar when he discovered that the college offered a five-year law course. His formal education was interrupted for two years when he ran out of money. He taught in an Illinois reformatory, and then, with sufficient funds, returned to school. He received his Bachelor of Arts degree in 1912 and his Law degree in 1913. He started practice the same year.

Judge Schannen was elected to the post of City Court judge in 1925 and he served there for 12 years. He is

Congratulations Extended To Archer Students; Job Of Cheering Well Done At Football Game

By Merle Baldwin

South Side's first home football game showed both a team and student body which possessed an invaluable quality—school spirit. A well-mannered, enthusiastic crowd coupled with a determined team with a will to win got the football season off to a tremendous start.

It was not always this way. For the last five years, South Side may have not been known for its football team, but it certainly stood out for its poor school spirit at football games. Whether because of a lack of interest, of understanding of the game, or of good manners, South Siders continued to come to football games for a two-hour gab fest and free fashion parade.

This year an attempt was made to promote football at South Side. Posters were made, editorials and features written, and a pep session planned and presented. Although the student body responded well at the pep session, there was still doubt as to the reactions of the school at the actual game. Would everyone from force of habit forget why they are at the game.

z z z

FRIDAY NIGHT came at last. The burst of applause and cheers when our team came on made everyone tingle with excitement. The band marched on and presented a well-received pre-game show. Everyone was standing at their seats for the kick-off, and although the opposition made the first touchdown, neither the team nor the school was going to let that stop them. Cheering for every tackle and gain, the student body gave the team the determination and confidence they needed.

Nothing is as thrilling as the first touchdown scored by our team, and every Archer let the team know it with a roar equivalent to one at the State Basketball Tournament. There was little rowdiness in the stands, for nearly everyone was there for a single purpose: to watch the South Side Archers play football.

OF COURSE, there were the exceptions to the rule: the stragglers who sauntered in after the game had begun; the few who still believed it was a necessity to walk around the track at least twice; and those who stood talking in front of the stands, trying to find out who Jim was with or why Jill didn't come. However, this group was a minority.

The majority were discovering wonderful new ideas, such as: you can see the game if there isn't a crowd of people on the track in front of you, the cheerleaders can be followed if you watch them, it is possible to get refreshments and see friends at the half, and football isn't half as confusing as you thought it was. The ones who were still confused made up for it by cheering with all their might.

The cheers heard weren't just "victory cheers" either. We didn't win the game until that lucky touchdown in the last quarter. The Archer eleven played with a new determination, and so did an almost new player on the Archer team: the twelfth man—you!

z z z

WHO IS TO BE given credit for the school's wonderful response: the yell leaders; the publicity; the pep session with the effective speeches by Mr. Gernand and Kenny Howe? All this helped; the ones who really deserve the credit are the Archers who attended the game and showed that:

"We're from South Side, couldn't be prouder!
If you can't hear us, we'll yell
a little louder!"

z z z

A VOTE OF thanks is due to the student body. Everyone is to be congratulated on the school spirit shown at Friday's football game. Let's keep it up!

Mr. Gernand, football coach: I believe that we had the most exuberant crowd that I can remember at a South Side football game. Although I usually am not conscious of the crowd during a game, I could not help but notice the support we received, especially during that final touchdown drive.

The team did an excellent job of adjusting defensively to an extremely difficult offense. Their aggressiveness and desire overcame some of the mistakes they made; and good physical condition enabled them to move offensively late in the game when they may have been physically exhausted.

I feel the game was a team project: the boys who played, the subs on the bench, the reserves who did not suit up for the game, and the student body all contributed their share to the victory.

z z z

KEN HOWE, football player: In playing football for three years, this is the first time the fans had an effect on the team. We needed support badly, and we got it Friday night. The team needed this victory to keep its morale and confidence. Most of all we needed the backing of the fans. It looks like we got all three. We have more than half our season ahead of us, so please give the team your support and they won't let you down.

Janet Lawry, varsity cheerleader: We cheerleaders often scold the fans and always tell them to yell louder, but seldom do we get an opportunity to thank them for their support. I've never seen the South Side student body rise to the occasion in such fine style or display such enthusiastic school spirit as at the South-Shortridge game. I can proudly say that the work of the Football Promotion Committee has been a success, thanks to the fans. This is just a sample of what our great Archers can do and will continue to do with your backing, so let's keep it up all season!

z z z

ROBERT DRUMMOND, band director: In 12 years, I have heard the band play better, but I have never seen the student body, nor the cheerleaders, nor the team show more enthusiasm and drive. Friday night's game really showed what South Side can do.

Mr. Snider, principal: The student body did a beautiful job of supporting the team and watching the game. The team fulfilled the expectations of everyone in the way they played the game.

Mary Weyer, '57, and Robert Manuel of Fort Royal, Va., were married last June 28.

Sally Hollis, '57, and Charles M. Snyder were married September 6 in the South Wayne Baptist Church.

Deanne Wisser, '56, has been named a residence counselor at Miami University, Oxford, O.

Ralph G. Saylor, '58, is a student at Kalamazoo College.

Mrs. Janet Thomas Gutman, '51, received her Master of Arts degree from the University of Michigan at the end of the school's 1958 summer session.

Charles Gibbs, '54, is enrolled in the 1958 beginning class of the Indiana University School of Medicine.

Sharon Carper, '58, is one of 60 students who registered at the Baptist Missionary Training School of Chicago. Sharon is a freshman and will study for a Bachelor of Religious Education degree.

Kay McNabb, '57, who is attending Ball State College and Jane Felger, '57, who is attending Indiana University were recently entertained by alumnae of Alpha Chi Omega Sorority at a dessert bridge. Crested bracelets, gifts from the alumnae group, were presented to eight newly initiated college women including Kay and Jane.

James J. Nickels, '55, a graduate from the Business Administration School of International College, has accepted a position as production manager with the Indiana Stamp and Seal Co. of Fort Wayne.

Ode To Football

For South Side's team we yell and cheer,
You must be the best this year.
We want honor, we want fame,
For the team that bares our name.

On you, good coach, the duty lays
To teach them rules, to show them plays.
Without your help the boys can't win,
So, come on, sir, and pitch right in.

Obey him boys, his warning heed.
He'll be there when aid you need.
If all will give co-operation,
We'll have the best team in the nation.

Two things each one of us must do
To keep school spirit shining through.
Try to come to every game,
Cheer for the school from which you came.

Bring a sister or a pal,
Ask your favorite guy or gal.
Let's try to keep the stands full,
For the squad, let's Pull! Pull! Pull!

Although the boys are fine,
We must help hold the line
By staying in our seat
And always off our feet.

Lose or win we must be brave,
And not like bad sports behave.
Though we have done poor,
Next time we'll have a terrific score.

Loyal to South we will stay
Today, tomorrow, and always.
We could never be untrue
To the team we know is blue.

Football Game Attracts Couples; Mishaps Seem To Be Frequent

Sitting on my high perch in the South Side Stadium, I can see that this is going to prove to be an exciting football game.

Carole Oxenrider and Susie Scott are so anxious to find seats on the 50-yard line that they just smashed Mr. Drummond's electric baton. Bill Koos (C.C. '57) and Bob Haag are trying to calm our irate maestro, while the girls scamper on.

There may not be an official yell block for football, but Patty Krebs, Linda Wightman, Diane Decker, Judy Robinson, and Sue Lewis seem to have the right idea. Even though the team is still in the locker room, I'm sure Fred Von Gunten, Bill Meyer, Tom White, Bill Spindler, and Frank Lude are quite able to hear them!

Some people come late! Pat Forehand, Jim Dowty (Elmhurst), Sandy Collins, Gary Noll (Salem '57), Sandy Miller and Mike Lehman have resorted to sitting on the top of the press house. Everything would be okay except they weren't interested in the game, so Sally Dill, Nancy Jones, and Linda Clark are being pelted with popcorn, while hungry Dick Johnson, Jack Ford (I.U.), and Jim Johnson (Anderson '57) simply open their mouths. Don't their parents feed them?

I thought people were supposed to watch the game and not try to be one themselves. Judy Cramer (C.C.) and Marilyn Porter are spinning around in hula hoops. That's bad enough; but Bill Harrader and Tony Robinson are trying to crowd in one hoop and end up tripping themselves.

About the most sane couple here are two freshmen, Sue Herrod and Lee Rigel (Wawasee), who are sitting calmly on the goalposts eating popcorn! I know a few seniors who could take lessons.

It may be September to most people, but to some it's still mid-July. Proof of this can be seen as Marilyn Werner (Concordia) and Carole Fischer are talking about the good times had on McMillen Swim Team while Roger Kerr and Bob Weesner (I.U.) are shivering holding four cokes.

At the gate Martha Milnor, Susie Hoard, and Judy Rumple are trying to convince Mr. Arnold that they should be permitted to enter while Joe Rodgers (Purdue), Harry Trosin, and George Rey (I.U.) are frantically pooling their money in the background. I'll tell you a secret, girls. The passouts aren't good until the half, especially those from last week's game.

The game ended when Patty Brooke's sweater blew on the field, and Butch Vaughn (Kendallville '57) ran after it, thus causing a spectacular play for the Archers.

The sappiness continues out to Hall's, where Archers are still hoop-crazy. Sharon Ruhl and Mary Sue Robertson fouled up the works when their hoops stuck up in the lettering. As suspicioned, Bob Oechsle and Bob Mann started climbing. More trouble ahead when Phyllis Cozmas catches Officer Marian in her hoop. Let's see Tom Dumick (C.C.) talk himself out of this one!

"A very able driver," Julie Dedman calls herself, but I have my doubts when she stalls Lee Mellinger's (Purdue) car for the third time in three times around.

Not another traffic jam! This one is traced to Ann Farlow, Jerry Gaskill, Karen Brumm, and Jerry Robinette. Both Jerry's, being Central-ites, want to motivate for Gardner's while the loyal Archers prefer to stay out South.

As time goes by, all the cars have left except for four. The owners, who go by the names of Gene Menze, Craig Hess ('58), Gus Wade, and John Slick, were subject to playing a modern version of the game Button, button, who's got the button? with car keys. The female searchers, looking angelic as usual, can be identified as Linda Amos, June Garvin, Sharon Probst, and Posy Weilemann! All in all, you might say that our life could be called hectic; but, oh, do we have fun!

Posy's Pointers

By Posy Weilemann

(Editor's note: This column is being written to help our readers with their personal problems. If you have a question, mail it to Posy in care of The Times or bring it to Room 16 and place it in the editorial editor's desk.)

Dear Posy,

I have a crush on a boy who doesn't even know I exist. How can I get to know him? None of my friends know him well enough to introduce me. Should I just give up?

M.L.S.

Dear M.L.S.,

If he belongs to any clubs or activities, join them. In the meantime, go out of your way to be friendly. Give him a big smile when you pass him in the halls. Also, if worst comes to worst, you can "accidentally" drop your books when you see him coming. If that doesn't do it, give up!

Dear Posy,

This might sound silly, but I am very shy around girls. I like one in particular, but I am too scared to even talk to her. Last week I had a chance to meet her, but I just "froze." Can you give me some advice?

Bashful

Dear Bashful,

The only way to get over your self-consciousness with girls is to get out and meet a few. Maybe you have a friend who can introduce you to her. It might surprise you to find that she could be as anxious to meet you as you are to meet her.

Dear Posy,

Last year I dated a boy here at school for a few months. After we broke up, he went out of his way to spread mean things about me. Well, this is a year later, and he's still at it. What can I do?

Troubled

Dear Troubled,

Most persons that act this way are just jealous. Even though it is a very infantile way to get even, they think it will help. The best thing to do is ignore it. If the rumors aren't true people will understand.

Dear Posy,

This summer I dated a boy for three months. We had a wonderful time together, and I thought he liked me. Right after school started he stopped calling me. I haven't heard from his since. What did I do wrong?

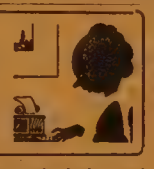
H.I.L.

Dear H.I.L.,

During the summer many people get mad crushes, which usually don't last long. His must have worn off before yours did. Try to forget about him, and date other boys. Keep busy with outside activities, and you'll soon forget him.

Dear Posy,

How can I refuse a date with someone and make sure he will ask me out again?



D.B.R.

Dear D.B.R.,

There's no sure way of refusing a date and making sure you'll be asked out again. The best thing to do is to explain why you can't go out with him and make, sure it's the truth; boys have ways of finding out if it's not. Tell him you're sorry and sound like it. Also be friendly when you see him. If that doesn't work, at least you've done your best.

Howdy,

Say, what did you think of our mighty Archers against Shortridge? Pretty great, huh? It must have been the fans' new-found enthusiasm for football.

That Molly Dixon is at it again—swimming with her clothes on. This time Hoy is completely innocent, but Larry Brown did "help" Molly.

Wouldn't you think that chemistry is much different than orchestra? Maybe not, 'cause Martha Lanning sat through 10 minutes of chemistry before she realized something was wrong.

Football injuries are really piling up. Bill Spindler sprained his ankle badly while practicing for the Shortridge game.

Clipping dogs is dangerous! Just ask Sally Burton. While cutting her dog's coat, Sally slipped and cut herself instead. Three stitches were needed to repair the damage. I guess Sally's dog will have long hair for a while.

Don't the halls seem narrower this year? Let's hope the jam-up levels off soon!

Kathy Sosinski surely had a red face in speech class the other day. In the midst of giving a dramatic pantomime, in which she constantly rolled her eyes, one of her contact lenses slipped out of place. That'll teach her.

How do you like the danskin look? I wonder how long they'll stay around?

I've heard of putting buckets full of water above a door, but never a water balloon. Mary Jane Spindler and Jan Martindale know it can be done. Mary Jane and Jan received quite a "bath" when they discovered the balloon.

I wonder why foolish is linked with freshmen, when it seems more appropriate at times to describe upperclassmen.

Freshmen aren't the only ones who get mixed up on the first day of school. Seniors do it, too. Carolyn Dinius seems to have a hard time telling chemistry and English apart.

Frisby isn't a new boy at South, it's just a game that's giving those wild hula-hoops some competition.

Well, I really must run! Don't forget to buy your Times!

Bye.

P.S.—Back the football team and the cheerleaders!

The young man in the tub, who is busy at his play,
Takes Geometry 3 and study twice each day.
The study hall numbers are F-14 and also M-4,
And third period he has U.S. history; there's more;
For he also takes English 5 in 152,
And physics, period 7, is on his schedule, too.
His homeroom's 77, his grade, Junior B,
The ads will tell you who he is, if you look and see.

Guess Who?

Evest Sigklal—This senior has curly hair and is No. 45 on our great football team. He is not large in size but as the saying goes, "It is quality not quantity."

Yujd Urempl—This beautiful soprano with big eyes is in Concert Choir. If you see her singing in the halls very gaily, please don't stop her; she is probably practicing!

Yertr Kerb—This giant is a male with a carrot-colored head of hair. He is a junior and plays varsity football.

Noaj Tojniltelh—This senior girl is the president of the Safety Council and she carries her height with beautiful grace.

Valyis Hemram—This sophomore girl is a mid-termer and president of Meterites. Have you seen her dark tan?

Teens' Tidbits

Bowling! Wonderful sport, but would I ever go? Not me! They'll have to drag me out! This was my opinion of bowling about a month ago, but have I changed! Drastically! Because of persistence of a girl friend from out of town, I finally agreed to at least watch.

When we got to the bowling alley, they fitted me with bowling shoes and even asked the manager for the lightest ball in the entire building. As soon as a lane was available, they took me up to our booth (hauled is more like it), gave me the ball, showed me how to hold it, and told me to bowl.

What was I supposed to do? Of course, I didn't know anymore about bowling than the man in the moon, and I'm sure he doesn't know much! Anyway, I heaved the ball down the middle, hoping for some beginner's luck; but, alas, it wobbled off into the gutter for a total score of a big, fat zero.

From then on every time I was up I did a weensy bit better . . . but not much! At the end of the game I was quite exuberant and even wanted to bowl another. But, just as I had poured out some enthusiasm, it was time to leave, as is what usually happens when something interesting is going on for a change.

z z z

THE NEXT EVENING we decided to try again, hoping to improve our skill. This time everything was different! First my parents insisted that my little sister and cousin come along; next I surprised myself and everyone else by bowling a 110! I realize that to a real bowler this is an unmentionable score; but to a poor, inexperienced bowler like myself, it was wonderful!

Of course, when things are going good, there always have to be drawbacks to wreck everything. Mine were in the form of two little people. (Sometimes I really wonder—those invaders from Mars, you know!) Have you ever bowled with a little sister who never makes a total score of above 20, and makes a spectacle of herself by nearly rolling down the alley every time she tries to let go of the ball? Or with a cousin who goes into a tizzy everytime he knocks a pin down and in his exuberance, spills pop all over the people sitting beside you? Well, I have, and it's no picnic, believe me . . . except for the pop.

To be perfectly frank, we had a lot of fun, even if we did run out of money and were stuck at the bowling alley until the rescue team of parents arrived.

THE HULA-HOOP, whirla-hoop, or whatever it's called has certainly taken everyone by storm. They've even written a song about it. Red, green, pink, chartreuse, and purple disks with holes in them fly all over the United States, wiggling around the middles of everyone who is old enough to walk. They are even required in children's gym classes in order to see who can whirl the longest, everybody just about dying in the attempt.

The man who invented and produces them, I've read, has made a mint of more than three million dollars on one seemingly small venture! If everyone had that ability to sell, I wonder where we'd be.

z z z

IF SOUTH'S FANS do as well in every game as they did against Shortridge, we can be expecting quite a bit from our team. Let's keep it up! Don't let the boys down!

Kellys Express Ideas About Extra Hour

What would you do with an extra hour? Sleep? Do homework? Goof off? Pester your teachers? Here's what some Archers said when asked the question "What would you do with a 25th hour?"

Dave Conine: Sleep one more hour.

Jill Leonard: Stay at home.

Sharon Krakower: Take advantage of it.

Marcia Mosel: (Unprintable because of rule that no personal messages can be printed—especially when they're about me!)

Marv Smith: Rehearse another hour.

Mel Smith: Run another hour.

Rosy Tsintsaroff: Take Judo lessons.

Don Walters: Sleep!

Art Wilson: Do homework.

Fred Wyatt: Hope for 10 minutes between periods.

Pat Forehand: Stay awake thinking of witty answers for polls.

Sharon Cullen: Spend more time on my front porch.

Sandy Collins: I'd find something to do!

Margaret Rogers: I'd think of something!

Judy Thompson: Save it until I had 24 hours and then spend a whole day relaxing.

Lonnie Kimble: Pull crabgrass out of our crabgrass-infested lawn.

Martha Milnor: I would do all those things that I never have time to do.

Sandra Grodrian: Study shorthand.

Posy Weilmann: Go out for football.

Karen Good: Talk Mr. Drummond into arranging a new tryout for string players in orchestra.

Merle Baldwin: Think about all the things I should be doing and still won't get done.

Sharon Probst: Spend it with a certain "little" friend of mine.

Steve Feustel: (Unprintable for the same reason as Marcia's.)

Dorothy Major: Go into hiding to get away from reporters and their polls!

Marilyn Bugg: Relax and play records.

Karen Brumm: Play "It's All in the Game" another 500 times.

Carolyn Holmes: Bake a loaf of bread.

Chuck Jellison: Practice mimicking Bob Kelly.

Penalties To:

Kids who stand around in the locker rooms to talk.

Girls who wear their hair in curlers to school.

Seniors who initiated freshmen.

Congestion Of Autos Problem Around South

The fall season has finally caught up with us and with it comes another busy year of books and studies; however, many South Side students have recently noticed another problem . . . the congestion of automobiles crowding the streets around our beloved high school.

Many remarks, such as: "Where did all these vehicles come from?" or "What is this—a surplus from the 'mobile manufacturers?", have been heard from various Archers concerning this traffic and parking problem. One Kelly lass was thoroughly amazed to see two boys who live a block and a half away from South Side park their car two blocks away and walk from there to school!

All this appears to be rather amusing on the surface, but underneath a serious problem is involved.

Of course, what student isn't proud of the fact that he is legally capable of driving an automobile once he obtains his operator's permit? But, however anxious he may be to demonstrate this new-found pleasure to the student body, in doing so he is causing great discomfort to others and is also harming himself.

Because of the number of students driving to school it has become more and more difficult for an adult who has an appointment with one of the faculty members to find a place to park. Unfortunately, students have also resorted to parking in front of homes near the school and, in doing this, not only occupy the space presumably for the owner's car, but some students even have the audacity to litter the lawns of the owners with left-over lunch materials.

Aside from all the extra work he is causing others by driving to school when he lives close enough to walk or ride a bicycle, the student is also keeping himself from getting the much needed fresh air and exercise he would otherwise obtain. During the school year it is almost essential for the student to walk to school if possible, because he is kept inside either the school building or his home most of the time; and therefore participates in very little outdoor exercise.

If more of you Archers who drive to school just for the fun of driving would stop and consider seriously the difficulties you create for yourself in searching for a parking space, causing other adults discomforts who either live near the school or are visiting the school, and, last but definitely not least, deprive yourself of the benefits of healthy outdoor exercise most of you would realize that these factors greatly outweigh your own personal desire to drive.

Remember when joining activities not to get into too much and spread yourself too thin.

Don't forget, homework comes first.

Homeroom Highlights

Marijo Edwards, Editor

The members of Homeroom 142 kept themselves busy during the summer and found time to do everything from attending four slumber parties in a row to taking typing lessons . . . Norman Lontz mounted water wings and went swimming about every day . . . Connie Marquart found time to visit Michigan . . . Martha McChesney took typing and tennis lessons . . . Don Gordineer packed his tackle and went on a fishing expedition with his uncle to Port Elgin, Ontario . . . Beaulah McGee moved to Fort Wayne and spent her time at the movies and fishing . . . Bill Lentz had a good time working on the counselor staff of Pokagon Boys Camp. Bill was a part of the kitchen staff and managed to increase his waistline a little . . . Su Ann Marvin kept busy working. She also managed some time for water skiing . . . Chuck Leopold worked on the Camp Potowatomi staff during the summer . . . A trip across the new Mackinac Bridge and a visit to the state fish hatchery were the highlights of Susan Maier's vacation . . . Larry Levy spent his summer as a midshipman at Culver Naval School and took a trip to Niagara Falls and Canada . . . Bev Liggett and Katie McGee used their vacation to attend numerous slumber parties and set a new record of the most consecutive times attending slumber parties . . . Traveling to New York City was the hightlight of Lois Levine's vacation.

Homeroom 172 has quite a few changes. We have a new student, Sharon White, who has transferred here from Central Catholic High School. We lost three of our classmates, Jean Wietfeldt, Jack Wise, and Calvin Williams. Calvin has moved back to his home in Hawaii . . . Nancy Walker, Gus Wade, Judy Weber, Eddie Windmiller, and Jim Yerger found a good way to spend the summer. They went to summer school!

—Posy Weilemann, reporter

Students of Homeroom 62 have been busy with many activities this past summer . . . Mariiyn Daniels stayed at Idle Wild Resort in Michigan to relieve her hay fever. She enjoyed boat riding and roller skating. She saw Bill Dogget perform. Seeing the famous Mackinac Bridge highlighted her summer . . . Trying to go over the ski jump at Lake James was David Disher's recreation. He also enjoyed hunting . . . Bob Haag began his vacation by visiting friends in Connecticut. While staying in Leland, Mich., with a friend, he water skied . . . Doing chores on his uncle's farm in Ohio kept Mike Close busy . . . Chuck Clifton had quite a tough schedule. At the beginning, he took typing in summer school. Then came morning football practice after which he worked at Lincoln Life as a bus boy in the cafe. He then returned to football in the afternoons and concluded his day at Franke Park where he worked back-stage in "Kiss Me Kate" and had a part in "Damn Yankees." Also he enjoyed riding around in his cousin's boat. Ending his summer, he painted his car . . . Dick Dailey visited Tom Cooper at his cottage on Lake Michigan and finished his trip by seeing the Mackinac Bridge. More next week.

Music Students Can Rise In Scale, Rank, Declares Mr. Drummond

Initial auditions for positions in orchestra, fifth period band, and sixth period band were held last week.

Further tryouts and further arrangement of groups, especially in the fifth and sixth period bands, are scheduled. Students may be elevated to fifth period band from the sixth period band if they improve enough.

"Within the fifth period band there will be two ranks. If a student is in the second rank, he may work up to the first rank. In the same way, a student can drop from the first ranking if he does not maintain a high level of performance and attitude," stated Mr. Robert Drummond, the instrumental music director.

Tryouts in the orchestra have resulted in the following chair positions: First violins—Marilyn Sexton, concert mistress, Allen Steere, Carolyn DeVore, Gretchen Meister, Vicki Sheldon, Carol Purdy, Nancy Swaim, Karen Good, Geri Geller, and Sheri DeYoung.

Second violins—Alice Houk, principal, Martha Lanning, Barb Lewandowski, Diane Leath, Shelby Smith, Verene Andrews, Larry Skow, Mary Lou Koehler, Robert Acker, Joyce Rothgeb, and Kay Weist.

Violas—Cindy Miller, principal, Bethany Bond, Susan Bond, Becky Hostetler, and Linda Newell. Cellos—Anne Sherbondy, principal, Mike Church, Joan Motley, Judy Novitsky, Janice Ferber, and Peggy Lee. Basses—Judy English, principal, and Bill Ryan.

Band auditions have placed the following in fifth period band: Flutes—Merle Baldwin, first chair, Kay Kieffer, Bonnie Riskas, Sandra Yaggy, Jeff Roth, Sally Franklin, Donna Barnes, Lynne Goldman, and Sharon Todd. Oboes—Carol Downhour and Carol Becker.

Bassoon—Nancy Stauffer. Clarinets—Tom Cooper, first chair, Judy Eisenhut, Dave Flanigan, Susan Harrod, Kay MacDaniel, Mike Carter, John Musser, Cindy Miller, Dick Tipton, Barb Eggeman, Stan Redding, Jim Carter, Marsha Bechtold, Allen Flowers, Brenda Harper, Jean Simpson, Rita Hessert, and Sondra McKee.

Alto clarinet—Linda McNeal. Bass clarinet—Sharon Collins. Alto saxophones—John McNett, first chair, Mike Gilsdorf, Helena Kamm. Tenor saxophones—Judy Dunlap, first chair, and Dan McCrosky. Baritone saxophone—Jerry Boerger. French horns—John Richardson, first chair, Tom McMahon, and Dave Crapo.

Trumpets—Mike Collins, first chair, Wendell Eicher, Bruce Berlein, Dan Oesch, Steve Pratt, Jack Young, Sam Rea, Steve Feustal, Vaughn Correll, John Wilks, and Steve Griffin.

Trombones—David Dill, first chair, Warren Burns, Byron White, Chuck Clifton, Don Walters, Marvin Todd, and Nick Roembke. Baritones—George Bennett, and John Shannahan. Tubas—Bill Stellhorn, first chair, Steve Gaskill, Tom Felger, Nelson Kimble, and Ron Heathman.

In the percussion section are Mickey McClead, Ron King, Fred Richardson, Susan Parady, Judy Garrison, and Carolyn DeVore.

In the sixth period band are: Flutes—Judy Welty, first chair, Nancy Baltes, Nancy DeBrular, Bella Sue Dyson, Dick Lowens, Logan Smith, Jan Spuller, and Richard Parke.

Clarinets—Elaine Edwards, first chair, Ellen Lowe, Nadine Hobbs, James Feustal, Kay Holley, Sue Harrold, Shirley Stahlhut, Stephen McDonald, Joyce Flaugh, Jim Freeman, and Gerald Isch.

Trumpets—Richard Spencer, first chair, Allen Sheldon, Bob Suhr, and Bill Batchelder. Trombones—Bill Branning, first chair, and Bill Wilder.

Tour Of City Hall Slated For KYC's

Know-Your-City Club will visit the City Hall Tuesday, September 30, from 4 p.m. until 5 p.m. The club will meet in Room 110 at 3:30 p.m. and will take the bus to City Hall. Members must bring their own bus money and they must have a permission slip from their parents.

At the City Hall, the club's guide will be Sergeant Ted Butz. The KYC's will meet Mayor Robert E. Meyers and they will visit the Police Department, where some of the main points of interest will be the Fingerprinting Department, the Lineup Room, and the jail.

The officers for this year are Ann Wilson, president; Nancy Baltes, vice-president; Joyce Eads, secretary; Pat Brown, treasurer.

Pat Brown was elected Tuesday in an emergency election, for Julia Leas, previously elected as treasurer, is now going to Leo High School.

Library Rules Told To Frosh

Library regulations were explained by Miss Willodeen Price, librarian, as a part of freshman orientation, to 18 English classes last Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday.

She told students the hours of the library, how to take books out, how long they may be kept, and how to sign in at the library.

She told them of four articles in our library that may also be found in the main library downtown. They are the card index and catalogue of all books, Reader's Guide for magazines, a vertical file giving pictures, clippings, pamphlets of diversified subjects, and encyclopedias and reference books.

MISS PRICE has several service workers in the library each period. The service workers this semester are Barbara Hamilton and Cheryl Habecker, period 1; Ruth Dill and Posy Weilemann, period 2; Karen Brumm, Phyllis Cozmas, Cindy Hart, and Marsha Rolf, period 3; Jan Derheimer, Marjorie Havens, Sara Hindman, Sally McDonald, and Janet Rupp, period 4; Susan Brenn, Susan Holmes, and Susan Seibel, period 6; Iva Anspach, Sharon Ebersole, and Priscilla Ratican, period 7.

Sandra Parrott, Joyce Flaugh, Donna Zelt, and Judy Dunlap work in the library before and after school but not during study periods.

THE LIBRARY workers receive points for all work and when they receive their bronze pin, they have earned 75 points, silver pin, 150 points, and gold pin, 300 points. After 300 points are received, any further points go to their service record.

Janet Rupp is president of this year's Library Club. Sara Hindman and Sue Brenn are other officers. The club is now planning its annual picnic.

Service Workers, Pianists Chosen For Girls' Physical Ed.

Service workers and pianists for the girls' gym office and dance classes have been announced by physical education instructors, Miss Helen Pohlmeyer and Mrs. Alice Keegan. The service workers assist in taking attendance, refereeing games, and keeping equipment in good order.

Girls who help are: Period 1, Alberta Bonnell, Kathy Dunigan, Jeannette Lynn, Susan McMurtry; Period 2, Marilyn Budd, Susan Getty, Ruby Martin; Period 3, Shelba Cox, Judy Garrison, Susan Kuroski, Linda Wolf; Period 4, Shelba Cox, Pat Igney, Ann Walter; Period 6, Jane Glass, Pat Igney, Ann Walton; Period 7, Barb Brown, Connie Denis, and Jeannette Lynn.

Book Rental Saves Pupils Large Sum

Seven thousand dollars is the sum received from books rented this semester at South Side.

About $2,200 of the $7,000 comprises the dollar deposit-fees which will eventually be returned to the students. Only $52 was received from purchased books. All the books but the social studies, commerce, home economics, and health books are new this year, adopted on a five-year plan.

In order to give the student an idea of how much he saves by renting his books instead of buying them, the following estimate tabulation of several courses was compiled.

JOHN IS ON the college course. In his freshman year he is taking English, Latin, algebra, gym, health, and biology. By renting his books he paid a total of $2.79 as contrast to $22.13 if he had bought them, thus saving $19.34. On the business course, Mary, a freshman, is taking English, Spanish, algebra, civics, gym, and health. She rented her books for $4.22 instead of buying them for $22.56, thus saving $18.34.

Joe, a sophomore, is on the college course taking English, geometry, Latin, general history, and gym. As he rented his books, paying $2.31, instead of buying them for $18.35, he saved $16.04.

Alice is a sophomore on the business course and is taking English, geometry, Spanish, physical geography, bookkeeping, and dance. She saved $16.93 by renting her books for $4.73, instead of paying $21.66 to buy them.

PETER IS A junior on the college course. He is taking English, U.S. History, physics, and French. He paid $2.97 to rent his books instead of paying $26.10 to buy them, thus saving a total of $23.13.

Sally, a senior, is also on the college course and is taking English, government, French, and chemistry. By renting her books instead of buying them, she saved a total of $16.46, paying $4.24 instead of $21.70.

J.A. Gives Students Chance To Join

Students, aged 15 or over, desiring membership in Junior Achievement were given application blanks by their homeroom teachers.

Later, the students will be notified of their acceptance by the department head.

They will then meet and be divided into different companies. Each member is given an opportunity to contribute toward the success of the company.

Mr. Charles Robinson, director of Junior Achievement, explained the purpose of the organization over the P.A. system two weeks ago.

Teaching students business training and management is their goal. New friends usually are made through this organization.

Room 114 Converted For New Teachers

Room 114 will soon be converted into a permanent station for the new and the floating teachers. Although not here yet, eight desks have been ordered for the room. They will be placed at the opposite end from the students' seats, and will be used during all seven periods for the convenience of the teachers.

For the future, plans have also been made to transform Room 114 into a private lounge for the faculty. This plan is expected to be carried out during next summer vacation.

Wranglers Hold Talent Show

The officers of Wranglers Speech Club put on a talent show at the first meeting last Monday night. They gave a melodrama entitled, "And The Lamp Went Out" starring Ann Farlow as the young girl, Steve Tracy and Janice Leist as the two lovers, Nancy Bailey as the old lady, and Patti Arnold as the narrator of the story.

Also at this meeting events for this semester were told. On September 29 Ann Colone will be guest speaker and on October 13 the pinic will be held at Foster Park. An inexperienced speech contest will be held on October 27 in preparation for the Howe Inexperienced Speech Contest on November 4. A trip to WANE TV will highlight the meeting on November 10. The talent show on November 24 and the Christmas Play on December 28 will highlight the semester's events.

Later this year, speech contests will be held at Purdue and Ball State. Only 150 points are needed for a gold pin.

Anyone who is interested in furthering their speech and drama abilities is urged to join at the next meeting, September 29, held in the Greeley Room.

585 New Books In School Library

Many people have often said that books are good food for the mind. Therefore, the 585 new books in the school library this semester, plus about 9,500 already on the shelves, should satisfy the hunger of South Siders.

Last January, after receiving a compiled list of books from all South Side teachers, Miss Willodeen Price, the school librarian, checked all of these books on several high school check lists.

When approved by Mr. R. Nelson Snider, principal, Miss Price then ordered the books through the Administration Building of the Fort Wayne Community Schools.

In June, when the books arrived at school, they were thoroughly examined for subject content. The book title, subject title, and author were filled out and filed.

"EXACTLY 251 NEW books and 334 duplicate books are in the library, making a total of about 10,000 books," said Miss Price.

The main category of books are the English books, which include all types of poetry, dramatics, and the history of American and English literature.

History and social studies also constitute a great many books. The history of Greece, Egypt, Canada, Russia, Europe, France, and Japan are but a few countries told about in these books. Political governments and foreign relation books can be found on the shelves of the library.

Under the useful arts field, books concerning medicine, electronics, airplanes, cooking, business arts, jets, rockets, and space travel can be found.

MANY NEW fine arts books can also be found on ceramics, ink drawings, oil painting, pastel painting, and mechanical drawing.

For those interested in mathematics, physics, chemistry, and anthropology, the library has plenty of good books relating to these subjects.

Interesting biographies on such famous people as Clara Barton, Helen Keller, Ruth Nichols, Robert Reese, Woodrow Wilson, and Abraham Lincoln are new to the library this year. Collections of biographies on capitalists, musicians, United States Senators, and symphony conductors are included.

TRAVELING TAKES up a lot of Judge Schannen's spare time. He has been in 46 of our 49 states as well as spending two weeks in Hawaii this summer. He has also been in Canada, where he trolls for big fish, and in Mexico, where he enjoyed the scenery and disliked the food.

His son, who was graduated from South Side in '35, his daughter-in-law, and his two grandchildren live in Boston, Mass. Judge and Mrs. Schannen visit them quite often.

Hair Stylist To Visit Vesta

To help members decide on a becoming hair style, Susan VanFossen, president of the Home Economics Club, Vesta, announced that a hair stylist from Hutner's Paris will be coming to the Vesta meeting on October 1, at 3:30 p.m., in Room 75.

The hair stylist will discuss styles for teenagers, becoming styles for the different personality traits, and the latest fashion hair styles.

The Vesta Club met last Wednesday, for an organization meeting. Susan VanFossen, president, introduced the new officers: vice-president, Susan Parady; secretary, Diane Patrick; treasurer, Linda Tomson; and sergeant-at-arms, Marianne Pinkham. The sponsor is Mrs. Robert Gernand, and the assistant sponsor is Miss Anita Schaefer.

Susan explained some of the activities for the year, which include: initiation for the newcomers, a talk by Bobbi Ray, a toy drive, Christmas party, party at the Allen County Children's Home, and a Mother-Daughter tea.

"The purpose of the club," stated Susan VanFossen, "is to help its members in home economics and to become acquainted with the styles and latest fashions." The last meeting for anyone to join Vesta Club is October 15.

City Elevens Compile 6-6-2 Composite Record

C.C. Remains Undefeated, South, Central At .500

A slim schedule produced but one win from the city's gridiron teams the past week. Both Central and South had open dates, as Central Catholic produced the city's only win by a 13-12 score over South Bend St. Joseph.

North Side and Concordia were both defeated by 12 points. LaPorte's Slicers handed the Redskins an 18-6 setback; while Wabash's Apaches shut out the Cadets by 12-0.

Central Catholic traveled to South Bend last Thursday. Tim Walsh's point-ofter-touchdown kick proved to be the winning factor for the Irish.

Though outscored in the statistic box, the Purple drove through the South Bend squad for two touchdowns. The first, scored by Johnny Sorg, was set up by a St. Joseph fumble on their own 11-yard line. Sorg plunged across from the two, four plays later. The second touchdown was the climax of an 81-yard drive in the third quarter. A 32-yard touchdown pass from Sorg to halfback Frank Lombardo topped the drive.

Halfback Bob Dygulski scored both touchdowns for the South Bend team and led them in their three 17-yard gains. Three fumbles proved very costly for the St. Joseph team as Central Catholic remained Fort Wayne's only unbeate nteam. They now possess a 2-0-1 record, and are tied only by Indianapolis Secina in a 0-0 game. Their other win came over South Bend Riley, 13-7, in the season opener.

z z z

NORTH SIDE LOST its second NEIHSC start in two tries to a fired-up LaPorte team. Fullback Warren Bullard proved the only effective player for the Redskins as the LaPorte squad out-rushed North by 184 yards to 115. The Orange and White continually drove through the Redskin defense for yardage. Captain Joe Bailey scored the Slicers' first touchdown in the first quarter, just 12 plays from the game's start. A Redskin fumble on their first running play of the game set up the second LaPorte score. It took them just two plays with halfback Dick Draves scoring on a 19-yard run around right end.

The second and third periods saw no score as both teams fought hard. North Side was without the services of quarterback Pat Riley and end Jerry Leeth for the entire game. The Slicers continually threw North's ace halfback, Dale Zumbaugh, for sufficient losses as the 'Skins around-end plays proved ineffective.

North's first and only score came early in the fourth period when the hard-driving fullback, Bullard, moved the ball from the LaPorte 30 to pay dirt in five plays. Pushing hard all the way, Bullard finally scored from the two-yard line.

But the LaPorte squad came back quickly to "ice the game." Taking the ball on the 36, they moved 64 yards in eight plays to put down a short North Side rally. North followed with several passes which, although impressive, gained little. North now owns a 1-2 record, their only win an impressive victory over Central in City Series competition. The Redskins, leading the City Series race, return to action against South Side tomorrow.

z z z

CONCORDIA REMAINED the city's only winless eleven. Traveling to Wabash last Friday, the Cadets were downed by a 12-0 figure. Both Apache touchdowns came in the second period on a one-yard plunge and a pass interception. Concordia came back much spirited in the second half but couldn5t quite reach pay dirt, being out-rushed 144 yards to 34. They reached the Apache six twice, but fumbled once and were held the other. The Cadets entertain Auburn tomorrow at Dwenger Park, holding an 0-2-1 overall record and winless in NEIC competition.

z z z

CENTRAL, AFTER losing to North Side two weeks ago, return to action against Elkhart tomorrow. It's the Blue Blazers' home game as they are highly favored after having defeated North Side three weeks previously.

z z z

SOUTH SIDE, quite the darkhorse in the City Series, is looking for an upset victory over leading North Side after an open week. The Archers would like nothing better than to defeat the Redskins and crack the City Series competition wide open. The Green showed they aren't to be taken lightly when they upset a highly-touted Indianapolis Shortridge two weeks ago. They hope to do just that against North Side tomorrow night at 8 p.m.

State Top 10 In Football

The following is a listing of the best 10 football teams in the state. It is based on performances through last Saturday night, and the listing is not necessarily in any specified numerical order.

1. South Bend Central, 3-0.
2. South Bend Adams, 2-1 (lost to South Bend Washington).
3. Hammond, 3-0.
4. Richmond, 4-0.
5. Evansville Reitz, 3-0 (undefeated in 26; with 15 traight wins).
6. Noblesville, 3-0 (22 straight wins).
7. Indianapolis Manual, 3-0.
8. Elkhart, 3-0.
9. Anderson, 2-1 (lost to Richmond).
10. South Bend Washington, 2-0-1.

S. O. S.

Schmitz On Sports

From watching North Side in action against LaPorte last Friday night, South's grid squad learned a minimum about their foes for tomorrow in the Green and White's first City Series contest. The scouting Archers, along with a large North Side throng, watched the Redskins "roll over and play dead" before their conference foes from LaPorte.

Judged by a few particular plays the Redskins didn't even play like a high school team. If the Red and White don't regain their lost poise, speed, spirit, and desire of victory, the Kellys might end a long string of losses handed them by the North Siders.

z z z

CENTRAL CATHOLIC remained undefeated and showed signs of once again becoming the Fort Wayne football power. The Irish continued to roll along undefeated, but had another close call as they nudged South Bend St. Joseph, 13-12. It was the Purple and Gold's second victory, both registered over South Bend competition, in three tries.

Although their record, 2-0-1, looks impressive, the Irish have averaged only three points per game more than their competition. This is a far cry from Central's tremendous 13-point average margin of victory; but the Tigers on the other hand, managed only to split in two games, losing a City Series encounter that placed them in the cellar of the 1958 series race.

By taking North Side's record into consideration, the picture is further confused. The Red have yielded 13 more points than they have scored, yet they defeated Central and currently lead the City Series race. South and Concordia are presently following the expected pattern. South has yielded 13 points per game and scored nine per game, a difference of minus-four, while splitting two games. Concordia, searching for victory number one, gave up 13 more points than they scored.

z z z

TOMORROW evening's game at North might well tell the story of the '58 series race. If South can produce a victory over the Redskins the city race will probably end up in a wild scramble or the Archers and Irish can decide it between themselves. Should North win, the outcome of the race will undoubtedly rest upon the Central Catholic game in October.

After last year's graduations, South Side's cross country squad appeared to be the team to beat in 1958; but both North Side and Central produced many new standouts to establish themselves as cross country Sectional co-favorites. North lost their big three, but Rollo Chambers has developed a solid five behind number one man Pete Poorman.

Central, the powerhouse right now, came up with a freshman replacement for Bob Hawkins, when they unveiled Henry King. King at this stage in the season is the strongest threat to defending Sectional champ Steve Hibler. The latter two raced each other to a dead heat in an earlier meeting.

Central also has produced new strength with addition of Nate Harrison. Harrison, Central's top reserve man last season, is the Tiger's second best varsity man this year. The Tigers haven't had a close call yet and should be even stronger when their number two miler. Onofre Gutierrez, becomes eligible this week. Onofre played football last season instead of running cross country.

South Side's hope of shattering Royerton's long unbeaten string, as they broke little Springs Valley's in basketball last year, was shattered when Portland turned the trick first two weeks ago in a 25-19 win over Royerton.

z z z

FOR THE SECOND straight year the Milwaukee Braves will meet the New York Yankees in the seven-game fall classic, the World Series.

The Braves once again were pushed by the first division teams although not the same teams as in 1957.

The Yankees captured the junior loop pennant with the greatest ease of any Yankee team that captured it. The league title was the Bronx Bombers' ninth in 10 tries under the old professor, Casey Stengel.

This season the fans' cries "Break up the Yankees" are being voiced again and the complaints are louder now that World Series time is approaching and the Yankees are again trying for another world championship.

What is the validity behind these demands. Many fans who see or hear one or two games a year and consider themselves experts in everything including foreign affairs, notice that the Yanks win every year. They call the Yanks the invincible New Yorkers; but are the Bombers invincible?

FRANKLY, SEVERAL pure facts point out that they aren't. With these facts as a basis of reasoning, I conclude that there is no reason why the Yanks should be split up. With a few of these facts, maybe you can draw your own conclusion.

Last Saturday, a National League castoff, who pushing 40 years, won his third game of the season. Third win, that's nothing compared to the 22 games won by Pittsburgh's Rob Friend; but this old pro won his third by limiting the American League Champ Yanks to just two walks. Baltimore's knuckleballer Hoyt Wilhelm and his no-hitter is one indication that the Yanks can be tamed.

It is true that the Yanks are a great team and there is no doubt about that; but the Yanks could have been tamed this year. In 1954, the only year the Yanks didn't win the pennant under Casey, they captured more than 95 games; this season they can't possibly win that many.

Several factors behind the Yanks' easy victory in the pennant chase was the early and middle season injuries that plagued two top contenders—Detroit and Cleveland. Both teams suffered from injuries, managerial changes during the season, and infields that were composed of players attained from winter and spring trades along with last year's players. In addition the Indians were forced to use inexperienced rookies to replace the injured vets.

The Chicago White Sox's poor start in the spring also gave the Yanks extra breathing room. Being pressed by such teams as Kansas City and Washington is really no test.

z z z

MILWAUKEE HAD an easier time of it this year than last due to the fact the so-called contenders floundered until late in the season. Los Angeles proved that age eliminated them from the contenders' ranks, but St. Louis and Cincinnati were big disappointments in 1958. The Redlegs' pitching staff looked superfluous and their hitting still appeared strong, but both suffered season-long slumps.

New contenders Pittsburgh and San Francisco tagged themselves as new threats in years to come. The Giant rookies carried 'Frisco along until mid-season and then left the brunt of the load for the pitchers, who could do little of their share to keep the Giants' momentum going. With a little seasoning, the rookies, Orlando Cepeda, Bob Schmidt, Felip Alou, Leon Wagner, Andre Rodgers, and Willie Kirkland, will make Mays and company serious contenders.

z z z

NATIONAL LEAGUE players and managers were right when they selected three Pittsburgh Pirates, Bob Skinner, Frank Thomas, and Bill Mazeroski, for the All-Star starting lineup last summer. These Pirates, along with rookie home run smasher Dick Stuart and pitchers Bob Friend, George Witt, and Ron Kline, paced the Pirates' relentless surge twards Milwaukee which fell short. Rookie Witt currently possesses the lowest earned run average in the National League.

With the close of the baseball season, sports writers all over the country will have the task of selecting a rookie of the year and most valuable player in both leagues. Since I am not one of the participating writers, I would like to make my selections in forms of predictions.

In the National League, I'll take George Witt over Orlando Cepeda as rookie of the year. Witt helped the Pirate cause all year, while, I feel, that Cepeda slipped the last two months. Also in consideration for this honor are St. Louis' Curt Flood and Gene Green, L.A.'s John Roseboro, Pittsburgh's Dick Stuart, and San Francisco's Bob Schmidt and Willie Kirkland.

z z z

THE PICK in the American League is more rugged. Several contenders are very closely rated, yet none compare to the top rookies in the National League. If the officials rule the Yankee's Ryne Duren not eligible because he played half a season with K.C. last year, the voting will be wide open. Duren is above the class of the other rookies if he is considered one. Figuring that Duren will be ineligible, I'll pick Cleveland's Jim (Mudcat) Grant. Grant's won-lost record isn't the most impressive nor is his ERA, but he has been very valuable to Cleveland.

Albie Pearson of Washington, the littlest outfielder in the majors, and Baltimore's pitcher, Milt Pappas, are also strong candidates. Others are—New York: Faye Throneberry; Cleveland: Gary Bell, Billy Moran, Dick Brown; Baltimore: Brooks Lawrence.

Most Valuable Player awards are hard to pick, but I've decided upon Jackie Jensen of Boston in the American League and Warren Spahn of Milwaukee in the National. Others who I would give high rating would be: American League—Ted Williams and Pete Runnels, Boston; Rocky Colavito, Cleveland; Harvey Kuehn, Detroit; and Bob Cerv, Kansas City.

The other National League top prospects are: George Witt, Bob Friend, and Bob Skinner, Pittsburgh; Hank Aaron, Milwaukee; Ernie Banks, Chicago; and Willie Mays, San Francisco.

z z z

DO YOU REALIZE that although Ted Williams stands a good chance of winning the American League batting crown with a .317 average, his average could be the lowest in his long career.

In conclusion of all this baseball talk, I'll make my series predictions. I'll defy the odds-makers, who pick the Yanks at 7-5, by picking Milwaukee to win in six games.

Mural Men

By Stan Rupnow

At the base of this great Intramural system at South Side are the Intramural managers. Without these boys the system could not work. These boys have many jobs. They take care of equipment and take it to games. They check on parents consent cards and keep score of games. They also discuss the rules and make decisions on rules. And last but not least they help officiate at all games.

Who are these boys? Well, at the head is Wendell Rose. He is a junior and has been a manager three years. He was elected head manager by a popular election. Another boy is Max Van Fossen, a junior with two years' experience. Other juniors are Jon Heavin, two years' experience; Tom Wible, two years' experience; and Steve Longenberger, three years' experience. There are two sophomores, Dave Morrell and Bill Houk, each with one year experience.

Don't get the wrong idea about these boys. They aren't all work and no play. Over the Christmas vacation they play a series of basketball games with the varsity equipment managers. Also, there is something new. They are planning to take a trip to see a Big 10 basketball game. They also are planning to have a picnic soon. So you can see it is not all work and no play.

Well, cross country is now well underway. There was a total of 81 boys signed up. Not all 81 boys are out every night but there are enough to give Mr. Motz the idea that it looks like the Sectional track meet every night. The usual night's program consists of running laps. Then calisthenics. After calisthenics there are some competitive relays, then the conditioning sprints. Gary Gardner has the best time for one lap around Packard Park. His time is 75 seconds. In the three lap relay, Jim Porter, Mike Metzger, and DeWayne Trim hold the record of time of four minutes and three seconds.

There were 21 boys signed up for tennis Saturday at Packard Park. In the lightweight division: Larry Schraper, Dave Zimmerman, Rich Dobson, Vaughn Correll, Larry Chen, Bob Hawkins, Max Allen, Ray Lerch, and Ron Heathman.

In the middleweight division: Larry Troop, Larry Christman, Max Van Fossen, Jeff Baker, and Steve Longenberger are signed up. Wendall Rose, Roger Worholzer, Jim Vanderford, Thomas Schwartz, Perry Schlie, Steve Banet, and Art Templar all signed up in the heavyweight.

There are 11 boys signed up in the Horseshoe Tournament held the same time as the Tennis Tournament. Larry Chen is the only lightweight. In the middleweight division, Tom Halley, Max Van Fossen, Steve Longenberger, and Dave Flaig have signed up. Perry Schlie, Bill Houk, Jim Vanderford, Wendell Rose, Steve Banet, and Art Templar are signed up in the heavyweight.

The Intramural Fall Golf Tournament is coming soon. It will be the first week end in October, or October 3-4. All you have to do is play an 18-hole round at the Municipal Golf Course, or Foster Park, with somebody else signed up. You must play with somebody else in the tournament! So sign up in the Gym Office right now.

There were a few more football games this week. But many were postponed because of rain. The Mighty Mouses defeated the Crude Dudes, 26-0. Tom Doty put on a scoring exhibition. He accounted for 19 points. He first passed to Phil Gallmeier for the second and third touchdowns. Don Dickey threw a pass to Dick Colpetzer for a touchdown. Steve Zimmerman topped the scoring by a line plunge for the extra point on the last touchdown.

The Sealwags defeated the Crude Dudes, 18-7. Dale Eberle intercepted a pass for the first touchdown. Dale then passed to Joe Kraick for the second touchdown. Then Joe threw to Carl Cichocki for the last touchdown. Dave Timma scored the only touchdown for the losers. He passed to Tom Schwartz for the touchdown. Then he passed to Dave Morrell for the extra point.

The Click-Clock-Kickers defeated the Alley Rats, 12-7. The Rats scored their points on a fine run around right end by Bob Hawkins. He also made the extra point. The Kickers scored their points on the fine play of Dave Reece. He scored their first touchdown on a fine run after catching a pass formation. He then threw a pass to Lowden for another TD, then he tried an end run to his left for the extra point, but failed.

DATES TO REMEMBER
Sept. 27—Tennis Tournament at Packard Park at 8:30 a.m.
Sept. 27—Horseshoe Tournament at Packard Park at 8:30 a.m.
Oct. 3-4—Fall Golf Tournament at Foster Park Golf Course.

South Side Harriers Beaten By Blue, Red In Gallant Attempt

South Loses To Tigers Although Three Archers Place In First Five

Although placing three runners in the first five, due to lack of balance, the Archer cross country team was handed a setback by the Central Tigers in the third meeting of the season, last Thursday at Foster Park.

The final score was Central 24, South Side 33, with Central the winner. The individual winner of the meet was Henry King of Central, who covered the distance in 10:05.

The Archer reserve team also lost the meet to the Central reserves by a score of 23-36.

Although the Archers did their best in trying to keep up with the Blue and White, they could not prevent the Tigers from running away from them in the last 300 yards, with King crossing the line first in 10:05 and Harrison next in 10:06. Then came the three Archers: Eddie Hartman third in 10:11; Sam Green fourth in 10:16, and Al Rainbolt fifth in 10:19. Although the next two South runners, Mike Albersmeyer and Don Kern, both beat 11 minutes, they were only able to take eleventh and twelfth places.

After the start of the varsity race, South's Sam Green took the lead, followed by the Archers Eddie Hartman and Al Rainbolt, while the Tigers' Henry King and Nate Harrison were trailing along behind. Sam led for about the first half-mile, then yielding the lead to King and Harrison. At the mile mark, passed about in five minutes, the Tigers were still ahead with the three Archers running next to them.

Although losing, the cross country reserve team showed marked improvement. Dave Barrett and Eugene Guenther, placing second and fifth, both were under 12 minutes. Larry Lee, a very promising freshman, also beat 12 minutes.

Although the Archers lost their second straight meet, it is the opinion of Coach "Porky" Holt that the great improvements the boys have made give hope that the Archers have a very good chance to turn this season into a winning one.

Battle Fought Against Redskins Even Though Varsity Members Absent

Although some of the members of the varsity team were absent, the Archers' cross country team fought a real battle before dropping a 27-34 decision to the North Side Redskins in the second meet of the season, Monday, September 15, at Foster Park. The individual star of the meet was North Side's Pete Poorman who covered the distance of two miles in 10:01.

Although Poorman ran a very fast pace he was not able to open up a race-deciding gap between him and Hartman. Eddie, who finally has regained form, ran a very fine race and he might have won if Poorman, who was in the lead at that time, had not failed to see a flag which marked the way.

He cut off (in the opinion of observers) about 20 yards and crossed the line first in 10:01. Hartman, running the whole distance, did not have a chance to make up the lost ground and was a close second in 10:05, a personal best for him.

z z z

THE NEXT TWO places were also taken by South Side. Al Rainbolt wns third in 10:17, and Sam Green fourth in 10:18. But South, failing to take any of the next seven places, was only able to place its next runners, Don Kern and Mike Albersmeyer, twelfth and thirteenth. This made the final score North Side 27, South Side 34, with North the victor. The Archers now have a record of one win and one loss.

Right after the start of the race, Redskin Poorman took the lead, followed by Archers Eddie Hartman, Sam Green and Al Rainbolt. Poorman set a terrific pace and passed the mile mark together with Hartman in 4:54, while Rainbolt and Green were running next to them.

"It was too bad we had to lose," said Coach "Porky" Holt after the meet. "I just can say we'll try it again."

Kelly Harriers Go To Wabash

For the first time this season, the South Side harriers will hit the road, gunning against Wabash on September 30 ,at 4:15 p.m. It will be the Green and White's fifth meet of the current campaign.

Wabash lost their number one man, Baughler, through graduation last year, and were left with little material to work with. The Apache reserve squad appeared weak last season and will not have an extremely strong team this year. However, in the past, Wabash has made the most of their material and has always come up with a creditable team.

Having lowered their times in the first meet, the South Side Archers will prove to be stiff competition for the host team.

Ed Hartman, Al Rainbolt, and Sam Green will lead the Kellys against Wabash. This trio has maintained good times of between 10:05 and 10:40 over the two-mile course through the first three meets. Mike Albersmeyer, Don Kern, and Gus Wade will be pushing them on, fighting for a first-five berth. South hopes to have more balance at the finish to bring home a needed victory.

Archers To Meet North Tomorrow Night

Gernand To Use Lineup Which Trounced Devils

By opening their City Series play against rugged 1957 co-champion North Side at Northrop Field, South Side's Archers will return to action tomorrow night at 8 p.m.

Coach Gernand of South will start the game with the same starting lineup which proved itself successful against the Blue Devils of Shortridge. Joe Roth and Frank Lude will start at the end positions. The tackles will be Jim Olinske and Terry Berk, and Ken Howe and Dan Tritch will start at guard. Sensational sophomore Lawson White will continue as regular center.

The backfield will again consist of Steve Smith at quarterback and Bill Meyer and Steve Gaskill at half. Fullback Dick Tipton, a veteran of last season who has seen limited action thus far this season due to an accident incurred during last summer, will undoubtedly be used. It remains to be seen whether he will start or if the chores will once again be assigned to Win Moses.

z z z

THE REDSKINS are defending co-champions in the City Series via a three-way tie with Central and Central Catholic last year. They are also off to a good start this season, owning a 1-0 record in city play gained by means of a 16-13 win over Central two weeks ago.

The recent victory over highly regarded Shortridge bolstered the Archer gridmen's confidence, and should make them hard to handle from here on in. Coach Bob Gernand gave partial credit for the victory to a student body which was so highly enthused by the heretofore "unknown" game of football that it was scarcely discernable as being related to the anemic crowds of former years.

The Redskins have 10 returning lettermen from the squad which defeated the Green and White by a score of 19-6 last year. Half of them are in the backfield and three of the others are at end, leaving only two returning interior linemen. This more or less tells the story of this year's squad. There is strength to spare in the backfield, and several excellent ends, but the line is weak and inexperienced from tackle to tackle.

z z z

SENIOR QUARTERBACK Pat Riley, rated as one of Fort Wayne's best in many years, should be back at full strength after a recent injury. Pat is an excellent passer, and he is also a capable runner.

The Green will have double trouble with North Side quarterbacks. Bill Wallace, a junior, has been filling the shoes of Pat Riley quite efficiently on occasion. Bill also plays halfback.

The main running threat for Coach Bob Cowan's boys is diminutive Dale Zumbaugh. A dash man during the track season, he has been the spark plug of the North Side offense this season. He stands only 5-6, but he is a very strong runner. Other halfbacks include Harold Dimke and Mike Poorman.

Warren Bullard, a damaging varsity halfback last year, will start in the fullback slot.

The Redmen are deep at end, having Mike Dafford, Jerry Leeth, Larry Sacca, and Al Hapner returning from last year's squad. All are able performers.

Don Pierce at tackle, Bob Hyndman, Ross Bissell, and Dean Thomas at guard, and Steve Fawley at center add experience to the forward wall.

The lineups are as follows:

North Side		South Side
Dafforn	E	Roth
Pierce	T	Olinske
Hyndman	G	Howe
Fawley	C	White
Thomas	G	Tritch
Worley	T	Berk
Leeth	E	Lude

Hartman, Green, And Rainbolt Champions Of Cross-Country

While the boys on the football squad have been playing excellent ball, three Archers have been carrying the load in another sport every bit as important and exciting as football. This sport is cross country, and the boys are Eddie Hartman, Sam Green, and Al Rainbolt.

Eddie Hartman, the senior of the group, has been winning his share of meets for the past two years. After running intramural his first two years at South Side, Eddie decided he was ready for the big time.

Every day previous to the 1957 season, Eddie could be found pacing around the municipal golf course training for the coming season. That fall George Collyer, track coach, was treated to a pleasant surprise as Eddie would often show his heels to opposing runners.

His inspiration came from watching the running of another Archer, Wade Altevogt, a '56 graduate, and from the encouragement of Mr. Clair Motz, South Side physical education director.

Of the teams that South Side will run against this year, Eddie believes that Kokomo will prove to be the toughest.

When asked about South Side's chances in the Sectional meet, Eddie simply stated, "We'll win."

z z z

ANOTHER ARCHER thinlie who has been the cause of many headaches for the opposing team is junior Sam Green.

Sam, being an avid student of the long distance run, has put in three years on varsity.

He began running at the age of 14 through the encouragement of South Side graduate Dave Redding, one of the great distance runners in this state's history.

Putting a lot of stock in his teammates and Charles Holt, coach, Sam thinks that if the team works hard enough they can make off with the Sectional crown and go all the way.

After studying the situation with a track man's eye, Sam thinks that North Side will be the toughest opponent that South has to run with because of their excellent grouping.

z z z

THE THIRD Archer, Al Rainbolt, only a sophomore, is fast becoming a standout runner for his work on the track team last year and cross country this year.

Al became interested in running through a schoolmate, whose brother was a track star. Because of this keen interest, he started running in junior high and continued running during his freshman year at which time he was the ace miler for the frosh squad and played a big part in Archer victories.

He startled everyone this year when in the Green's opening meet with Concordia, he ran second only to Steve Hibler, one of the state's best. He says that North Side will be the toughest opponent because of their overall team balance.

He believes that South Side has an excellent chance in the Sectionals if there are no injuries and the team is running its best.

Speedball Played By Freshman GAA

Speedball was the main sport played by the 25 girls who attended the first freshman GAA meeting last Friday. Miss Helen Pohlmeyer, gym instructor, divided the girls into two separate squads.

Squad one members are Joyce Beckley, captain; Alice Bailey, Pam Buzzard, Sharon DeBaille, Marie Decter, Betty Lou Ensley, Judy Ann Fields, Ann Therese Stichler, Marjorie Lehman, Sandra McKee, Flora Reynolds, and Sharon Todd.

Squad two members consist of Janice Spuller, captain; Martha Bonnell, Gretchen Brumm, Shirley Davis, Bella Dyson, Mary Jane Hake, Jean Hatfield, Martha Jacobs, Susan Johns, Janice Nahrwold, Peggy Swartz, Barbara Uhl, and Judie Welty.

The umpires were Shelby Cox, Jeanette Lynn, Jane Glass, and Ann Walton. The two scorers were Alberta Bonnell and Connie Denis. The winner of the speedball game was squad two. All freshman girls are invited to attend GAA tomorrow after school.

Upperclass GAA Turns In Results

The Junior and Senior speedball teams conquered Sophomore teams 2 and 1 respectively, Monday night in Upperclass GAA.

In the first game the Senior team beat the Sophomore 1 team 6-2.

In the second game, the Sophomore 2's led at the half, but were overtaken by the Juniors, 13-6.

Jeannette Lynn and Jane Glass refereed while Mrs. Keegan kept score.

The girls divided into teams according to classification. Captain of the Seniors is Jeannette Lynn. Her team members are Shelba Cox, Betty Harter, Pat Igney, Bonnie Lane, Ann Walton, and Donna Zelt.

The juniors consist of Jan Kessler, captain; Nancy Baltes, Bethany Bond, Barb Brown, Pat Brown, Barb Burdick, Judy Garrison, Peggy Markin, Barb Nahrwald, Luanne Uhl, and Marianne Pinkham.

The sophomores were divided into two teams. Rita Hessert is the captain of Sophomore 1. Her teammates are Marilyn Dauscher, Judy English, Mickey Flaig, Mary Follis, Barb Heilman, Betty Lamley, Joan LeChot, Dixie Piercy, Melodie Potts, and Sue Rousseau.

Heading the Sophomore 2's is Diana Meyer. To back her up are Donna Barnes, Valerie Callahan, Connie Denis, Sandy Dolson, Susan Getty, Carol Hofer, Ruby Martin, Ellen Rudasky, Linda Vollmer, and Shirley Stahlhut.

Grid Reserves Beat C. C. 6-0

Burton Catches Pass For Winning T.D.

South Side reserves crawled, battered, and plunged their way to a 6-0 triumph over Central Catholic. Hampered by seven fumbles, the Archers butted through the line of offense, dug in on defense, and ground out another shut-out victory.

Though South fumbled with amazing consistency, and was vulnerable to wild laterals, their rocklike defense intercepted two passes and allowed C.C. inside the home 40-yard line only once. The one time the Irish did work inside the 40, they lost the ball on downs on the 23-yard line.

The winning touchdown, oddly enough, was scored on a 20-yard pass from Bob Bolyard to Steve Burton. The attempted conversion was also a pass to Burton; however, this one bounced off his chest.

z z z

IN THE FIRST quarter, the Archers went to the Irish five-yard line on a 19-yard run by Bob Shine. Shine, however, fumbled his next carry and C.C. recovered the ball.

The Irish moved the ball out to the 20-yard line. There they punted. South moved to the 35 before losing the ball on another boot. C.C. then moved to the Archer 20, but lost the ball on downs. South Side began to roll on 13 and 10-yard runs by Steve Burton and 12 and nine-yard jaunts by Steve Matthias and Tom Duff. Bolyard's quick pass put South in the scoring column just before the half ended.

z z z

IN THE THIRD quarter the Kellys started rolling behind Ron Hay, Walt Raines, and Bolyard. But on the C.C. six-yard line, Chris Parrott threw a pass which was intercepted on the goal line and run out to the four.

For the rest of the game it was a matter of fumbles, penalties, interceptions, and vicious tackles causing loss of yardage.

The Archer defense was excellent, the blocking was good, and the running fair. South gained 143 rushing yards from scrimmage. Fumbles, poor hand-offs, and poor laterals cost much yardage.

z z z

BURTON, WHO carried the "mail" eight times, gained 48 yards for top honors. Second place went to Walt Raines with 27 yards in six tries. Bob Shine, with a net of eight yards gained, had the longest run, a jaunt of 19 yards. However, Bob fumbled twice and missed a faulty lateral which cost him yardage.

Steve Burton average six yards per carry; Raines, 4.5; Hay, 4.4; Bolyard, 4.2; Duff, 4; Shine, 2; Matthias, who only ran twice, 6.5; and Parrott, who only carried once, 4.

Despite the fumbles the Kellys gave a good account of themselves. They sent several Irish backs for big losses.

Scoring:

South Side .....0 6 0 0—6
South scoring: Burton (20-yard-pass from Bolyard).

Tiger Frosh Beat South 21-12

After leading at the end of the first half, South's freshman football squad came out on the short end of a game with Central by dropping a 21-12 decision at the South Side Stadium last Thursday. At half-time the Green and White led 12-6, but in the final two quarters Central came roaring back with two touchdowns, an extra point, and a safety.

The Tigers dominated play in the second half as they scored two quick touchdowns to come from behind and forge into the lead never to be caught again. The Central comeback countered an Archer rally in the second quarter.

z z z

CENTRAL HAD taken the lead early in the initial stanza when they completed a pass play from their 20 to the Kelly 10-yard line. On the next play Central dented the scoring column. The score remained tied at the end of the first period.

In the second stanza Ken Robinson ran around left end for a Kelly touchdown after his teammates had returned a Tiger punt to the Central 30-yard line. Later in the period, with Central deep in their own territory, the Tigers fumbled in the end zone and the quick thinking of Bill Branstrator led the Archer team to a 12-6 lead as the half-time whistle blew. The second half was almost entirely dominated by Central's fine play.

z z z

SOUTH BLEW a chance to score in the first period after the Tigers had taken a 6-0 lead. The Kellys worked the kickoff back to Central's 20-yard line and lost the ball on a fumble just prior to the end of the period.

Ken Robinson and Bill Branstrator paced the Kelly attack but received valuable assistance from Dave Meek, Nicky Markiton, and Nate Norman both on offense and especially on defense during the first half.

Dad's Club To Sell Football List Pens

The Dad's Club of South Side, a newly-formed organization of fathers helping to promote athletics and good sportsmanship among the boys of our school, has on sale a ball point pen which has the 1958 football schedule embodied in the traditional green and white.

The pen will be sold, as long as the supply lasts, for 50 cents at the office or during home football games near the refreshment stand.

The funds from the sale of the pens will go toward the financing of banquets for members of the fall, winter, and spring sports. Mr. R. M. Smith, Dad's Club president, and his officers urge all fathers who have sons participating in athletics at South Side to join the club.

Fourth Kelly Coach, Wayne Gift, Leaves With Two Good Seasons

(This is the fourth in a series exploring past football campaigns at South Side High School. This week's article deals with the two years Archer grid teams were piloted by Wayne Gift.)

When Mr. Moss accepted a coaching job at Shurtleff College (now Southern Illinois University) in Alton, Ill., the South Side school administration was once again backed against the wall with the job of choosing a replacement for Moss. They came up with ex-pro football star Wayne Gift to become South's fourth Archer coach.

Gift became the third of the four coaches up to that time to last only two years at the helm. He came on the coaching scene as head coach at the beginning of the 1940 campaign and left at the termination of the '41 season. He left South with two impressive seasons in which he guided two Kelly grid squads to an overall record of 10-4-1.

z z z

THE FIRST SEASON, 1940, was a good one for the Green as they captured five contests in seven tries; but both losses were dealt the Green and White by city foes, Central and North Side. The Red and White squeezed past the revived Kellys by a count of 17-7. Central turned the same trick by a 24-7 score.

Those two losses were offset by impressive showings in the other five games, one of which was a hard-earned 22-6 win over the Irish of Central Catholic.

Gift came back for a second try in the fall of 1941. He enjoyed a second fine campaign as he helped the Kellys to a 5-2-1 record. The Archers took the opener that season and rolled merrily along throughout the entire season.

Before opposing city foes for a crack at the title, the Archers met Garrett in the school's most impressive victory in many years. The Green and White threw a staunch defense at the Railroaders and geared up the offense to score 66 points in the lopsided white wash.

The city teams respected South but showed little fear as C.C. earned a 6-6 tie, and Central and North won easily from South by scores of 19-0 and 20-6, respectively.

WHEN GIFT CAME to South to coach the grid squad, somewhat the same low morale in football was predominant as when Mr. Gernand took over three years ago. It was hoped that the young man with a full, varied, and experienced background in football, could boost the team back into the winning groove. When he announced that he was retiring to enter the armed services, the football picture at South had improved, although the Archer teams had not risen to the peak they once hit several years prior.

It was no shock to Archer fans that Mr. Gift was taken into the armed services. Before he accepted the head coaching job at South in 1941, at the age of 25, he enlisted for service. He told the school that he expected to be called in the winter and could complete his second season in capacity as head grid coach.

THE SCHOOL administration hired Gift not only because of his vast experience in bootball, but also because he was young and understood the boys. He had valued experience as an outstanding member of the Purdue Boilermakers and as a back for the Cleveland Rams of the National Professional Football League. (The league has since been disbanded.)

He had several fine boys to work with during his two seasons, of which Chuck Shimer, halfback, stood out during both years. Some of the other names that brought prominence to the Archers in football during the seasons of 1940 and 1941 are as follows: Russ Dixon, right tackle; Bill Siebold, left tackle; Bob Englehart, right half; Harry Hines; Bill Knoll; Bob Babbitt; Birkenbeul, tackle; and Worman, end.

After his release from the service, Mr. Gift looked for a coaching job in this area, but could find none available. He liked Fort Wayne and the people here, so he engaged in other work. Several years ago, he operated a restaurant on the corner of Calhoun and Pontiac Streets. Today he is a traveling salesman.

NROTC Blanks Now Available

South Side students are now able to obtain applications from Mr. R. Nelson Snider, principal, for the Navy's thirteenth annual competitive examination for its nation-wide regular NROTC college training program, according to a recent announcement by the Navy Department.

The mental examination is scheduled for December 13, and is open to all high school seniors and graduates who can qualify. As soon as South Side students turn in an application, they will receive a letter telling them where to take the test.

Due to the fact that South must have its own applications in order before sending them to the national office, the deadline date for receipt of all applicaions at South is October 31.

MALE CITIZENS of the United States between the ages of 17 and 21 are eligible to apply for the Navy College Aptitude Test. Persons attaining a qualifying score will be given the Navy's rigid midshipman physical examination next February.

From the pool of qualified candidates remaining in competition, approximately 1,800 young men will be selected for appointment as midshipmen and will enroll in one of the 52 colleges of their choice where a Naval Reserve Officers Training Corps Unit is located.

THE REGULAR NROTC is maintained for one purpose—to train and educate young men for ultimate commissioning as career officers in the Navy and Marine Corps. Successful candidates will start their Naval careers in colleges and universities across the country in 1959.

After a normal college education and substantial Navy training, graduates will be commissioned as regular officers in the Navy or Marine Corps, for active duty with the United States fleets throughout the world. For those who qualify and apply, assignment to flight training will open new careers in naval aviation.

In addition to the normal college curriculum, midshipmen in the regular NROTC will study a planned course in naval science. All tuition, fees, and books will be furnished by the Navy, plus an annual retainer pay of $600 for a maximum of four years. Regular NROTC midshipmen will spend part of three successive summers on training cruises with various fleet units.

So-Si-Y Panel To Cover Suggested Topics Tuesday

A So-Si-Y panel consisting of Bonnie Allen, Karen Randall, Barbara Bailey, Sharon Kidwell, and moderator, Virginia Tsuleff will discuss topics, suggested by club members, next Tuesday at 3:30 p.m. in the Greeley Room. A question-and-answer period with the audience participating will follow.

Miss Joan Benson, city Y-Teen director, will be a special guest.

Job's Daughters Plan Hayride October 18

"A new place and twice as much fun," said Judy English, ticket chairman for the coming Job's Daughters' Hayride.

This annual event will be held Saturday, October 18, at Hobrock's Farm on Road 427. Tickets for the hayride, wiener roast, and dance are $2 per couple. The rides start at 6:30, ending at 10:30, and there will be plenty of dancing after that.

All South Side girls that are members of Job's Daughters are selling tickets, and there are members in each of the other high schools and junior high schools in Fort Wayne.

In case of rain the event will be Monday, October 20.

Boy's Rifle Club To Practice Shooting

"As the actual application of shooting knowledge will benefit the riflers greatly," explained Gene Crum, president, "an actual practice period will precede the training session next Monday at 3:30 p.m. on the range."

To teach the fundamentals of sighting and the use of a rifle sling, Boys' Rifle Club assembled on the range Monday at 3:30 p.m. New members were trained in the prone position by veteran members and were allowed to fire blank cartridges for target practice.

After emphasizing the saefty rules of the range, Gene Crum demonstrated the handling and reaction of rifles September 15 at 3:30 p.m. on the range. In a detailed explanation of target rifles, Gene pointed out their sensitive triggers, micro-precision sights, and slings. He also informed new riflers of the cost of ammunition, 15 cents for 10 shots, and the dues, 25 cents per semester.

Studebaker-Packard Bought For Drivers

A Studebaker-Packard for driver's training class has recently been purchased by South Side High School.

A fee of $5, asked of each student, will go toward the purchase of gasoline and upkeep of the car. South Side High School financed the purchasing of the car.

IN PERIOD 2 the students are Sharol Booth, Kenneth Buchan, Paul Bultemeier, Ramona Byrd, Charles Cary, Sharon Gebhard, Eleanor Glass, Patricia Glass, Steve Golden, Sandra Grodrian, Kenneth Hike, Peggy Markin, Carol Miller, Robert Parquet, Jerry Putt, Marsha Rolf, Thomas Schwartz, Carol Szink, Janice Welborn, and Gary Wilson.

The third period has David Barrett, Ruth Beyerlein, Judy Bly, Tom Burton, Mike Chaney, Janet Ditzenberger, Stan Driver, Geraldine Geller, Don Harmon, Jerry Havener, Janice Koch, Katherine See, Bonnie Nahrwold, Beverly Potts, Susi Smethers, Paul Stammon, Max Van Fossen, Norma Waikel, Sharon White, and Ada Williams.

Cyclotron Club Deals With Nuclear Science

"The Cyclotron Club welcomes all students interested in science," stated Pat Doherty, president, at last Thursday's meeting.

The members will devote most of their time to the assembly of the cyclotron. Experiments in nuclear science will be made with the finished machine.

In brief, a cyclotron is an atom-smasher. Different parts of the machine were donated by various Fort Wayne industries. The Fort Wayne Engineers Club is the club's city-wide sponsor.

Each year the Cyclotron Club members repair, replace, and add parts to this machine. Only a very few high schools in the nation have cyclotrons, and South Side is the only high school in Indiana to possess one.

When the apparatus is ready and working, it will give off radiation. This means that it should not be handled by amateurs. The cyclotron is controlled behind a sixteen-inch wall of sand and concrete. Both the control room and the cyclotron are in the basement of South Side.

Because of limited space and equipment, the group will probably be limited to 20. Mr. Louie R. Hull, physics teacher, sponsors the club. Vice-president is Larry Buckmaster, Sue Hiller, secretary, and Dan Nelson, treasurer.

Meetings take place in the Cyclotron Room in the basement to which access can be obtained by going down the stairs in the laundry, opposite Room 24, every Tuesday at 3:30 p.m.

Eighty Seniors Sign In Scholarship Tests

"Senior scholarship tests, given by the College Entrance Board, are taken by seniors trying to qualify for scholarships offered by the National Honor Society, National Presbyterian College Scholarship Program, Scholarship Test Program of Indiana Colleges and Universities, Socony Mobile Oil Company, Jewel Tea Company Scholarship Program, and a number of others," stated Principal R. Nelson Snider.

The fee charged for the privilege of taking these tests is $1 and approximately 80 seniors signed up during the allotted period.

Over 30 colleges and universities in Indiana use the results of these tests to award scholarships.

Girls' Rifle Club Changes Meeting Date To Tuesday

Because GAA, which meets on Monday, claims many rifle club members, Girls' Rifle Club has changed its meeting date to Tuesday. Under the direction of two new sponsors, Mr. Thomas Compton and Mr. Alfred Hammer, and Mrs. Mildred Luse, veteran sponsor, the club assembled in Room 94 Tuesday, at 3:30 p.m.

To demonstrate the positions, riflers will meet on the range next Tuesday at 3:30 p.m.

Y-Teen Group Attend Retreat

"Are You a Real Person?" was the theme for the Y-Teen's fall leadership retreat, sponsored by the YWCA, September 14 and 15. At 9:30 a.m., Saturday morning, 36 girls gathered at Dallas Lake to learn how to organize their school clubs.

Its purpose was to train new officers, club chairmen, and Y-Teen members in duties and responsibilities, to give each member an opportunity to know more about the YWCA as a world movement, and to have fun and fellowship with other high school girls from Y-Teen clubs throughout the city and county.

Girls from the city and county schools were selected to make the plans for the retreat and Nancy Starkel from North Side was voted chairman. Huntertown girls were in charge of food. Virginia Tsuleff and Ellen McCarron, both from South Side, had the job of installing the new interclub officers.

Registration and the get-acquainted games were organized by Central girls. Two YWCA representatives, Dee Clark and Joan Benson, were on hand to oversee the retreat.

South Side was represented with 12 girls. They are Ellen McCarron, Virginia Tsuleff, Barbara Richey, Judy Hawk, Carolyn Holmes, Susan Holmes, Judy Ormsby, Nancy Ormsby, Emily Traylor, Janet Hoover, Beverly Potts, and Janet Long.

Hi-Y Makes Plans For Fall Picnic

The third meeting of Hi-Y was held Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the Assembly Room of the YMCA. The meeting was mainly devoted to a discussion and plans for a fall picnic.

"It was decided that the picnic would be held at McMillen Park this Monday," said John Meyerholtz, Hi-Y president. "At this picnic the new members are to prepare skits or short plays for the enjoyment of the others. We also discussed our special service project. A specific project has not yet been decided upon and suggestions will still be welcome and appreciated by the club.

"These suggestions may be given to any officer or member of the club, and should be sent to their homerooms. These homerooms are as follows: John Meyerholtz, Room 190; Bob Mann, Room 190; Mickey McClead, Room 190; Gene Krause, Room 54; Dick Boergert, Room 190; and Bob Simmons, Room 186."

Archers Welcome Handicapped Pupils One From Turkey

This year, South Side has three new students who are handicapped physically in some way. They are Bill Forman, Sheryl Sommers, and Diane Saalfrank. In order for these people to come to South Side, some special arrangements had to be made for them.

Bill Forman has polio, but he is still able to get around by himself. His schedule is arranged so that he is out of school at noon and his classrooms are fairly close together.

Sheryl Sommers was also a victim of polio. However, she is unable to get around alone and she has to be pushed from one class to another in a wheelchair. The Junior Red Cross Club here at school has taken over this responsibility. Several of the members have volunteered to take her to her different classes. Someone also takes her in and out of the cab which takes her to and from school. Her program is arranged so that her classes are close together. She also attends school in the morning only.

Diane Saalfrank is the third handicapped person. She is blind, but here again the teachers and students are doing all they can to make it possible for her to attend school. Before school started this fall, Diane came over to learn her way around. Now she can find her way around school alone. Another great aid to her is that all of her books except her Latin book are written in braille. Diane has taken advantage of the school clubs and is a member of the Times staff.

One more student who wasn't mentioned before because he isn't handicapped in a physical way is Dere Salim from Turkey. His handicap is that he speaks very little English. The only English he speaks is that which was taught to him by a missionary in Turkey.

It is becoming possible for physically handicapped people with normal minds to attend the public schools. South Side is proud to be a part of this advancement.

Panel Discussion Leads Philo Meeting

"How to Make the Most of Your Time" was discussed by a panel at the Philo meeting, Monday. Bessie Ferguson, moderator; Penny Hunt, Julie Carr, Barb Fredricks, and Janet Lawry made up the panel.

The requisites for good studying were listed by Penny. Janet talked about extra-curricular activities and commented that the average person belongs to two clubs in school and some out of school. "Studies should come before extra-curricular activities," she stated.

The responsibilities at home were discussed by Barb. "You can make the most of yourself if you want," said Julie who spoke on responsibilities to yourself.

Mary Lou Koehler played "You'll Never Walk Alone" on the piano as the talent selection for the meeting.

Many Lost Articles Taken To Room 104

Sweaters, belts, jewelry, and an umbrella are among the 134 articles reported lost from the beginning of school until one week ago today. Of these, 94 have been returned. "However, many items, including text books, are turned in each day to Room 104," says Miss Pauline Van Gorder, dean.

Meyer, Rothberg, Parrott, Newly Elected Class Presidents

Three boys, Bill Meyer, Dick Rothberg, and Chris Parrott will lead their classes during the 1958-59 school year.

The boys were elected in the final balloting Monday. Each ballot consisted of 18 members of the class which were results of the primary elections last Wednesday. The students voted for six officers, the president being the student receiving the most votes.

Assisting Bill with the senior class activities will be Carol Lockwood, vice-president; Bob Mann, secretary-treasurer; Tom Bolyard, chairman of the social council; Jerry George and Hoy McConnell, social council members.

# # #

ASSISTING Dick with the junior prom and banquet will be the duties of Merle Baldwin, vice-president; Dick McGaw, secretary-treasurer; Winfield Moses, chairman of the social council; Dan Tritch and Barbara Frederick, members of the social council.

Assisting Chris Parrott, sophomore president, will be Evilou North, vice-president; Sheri DeYoung, secretary-treasurer; Tom Duff, chairman of the social council; Molly Dixon and Dennis McBroom, members of the social council.

Other candidates for the senior class officers were Janet Hicks, Steve Komito, Carol Lytle, Ronald Marker, Margo Martindale, John Meyerholz, Janis Mitchell, Mary Sue Robertson, Sharon Ruhl, Mike Simmons, Susie Starr, and Linda Wightman.

# # #

CANDIDATES FROM the junior class included Terry Berk, Sally Burton, Judy Cramer, Wendell Eicher, Kenneth Howe, Penny Hunt, Jim Jackson, Bob King, Janet Lawry, Frank Lude, Steve Meyers, Susan Vesey, and Barbara Wallace.

TOTEM MONEY SEEKERS—Ready to begin an all out circulation campaign are Barb Miser and Maria Hilsmier, Totem circulation managers. The extensive Totem campaign will begin next Monday.

1,350 Subscriptions Goal Set For Totem Campaign

At least 1350 Totem subscriptions by October 23! To insure publication of the 1958-1959 Totem, 1350 must be sold during the campaign which is from October 6 to October 23.

Except for the $200 it receives from the senior class, The Totem is self-supporting and depends entirely upon circulation funds for existence.

The Totem may be ordered by paying the full $3 or by making a down payment of 50 cents. One must subscribe during the campaign and pay the full $3 by December 12 to have his name embossed on the Totem cover.

All underclassmen wishing to have their picture in the Totem must pay 35 cents to their homeroom agent.

# # #

Barbara Miser and Maria Hilsmier, circulation managers; Anne Sherbondy and Diane Decker, events editors; Martha Milnor and Margo Martindale, clubs; Lonnie Kimble, copy; Phyllis Springer, faculty; Mary Sue Robertson, music; Susan Holmes, art; Janice Leist, girl's sports editor; Stan Rupnow, boy's sports; Stan Hoover, intramural; Vallory Eckrote and Carol Bass, layout; and Joan Littlejohn, publicity.

IN THE PAST the Totem has won All-American Awards given by the National Scholastic Press Association and the Medalist Award given by the Columbia Scholastic Press Association.

A free Totem will be given to both the senior agent and the underclass agent who sell the most subscriptions. The agents will receive 10 points for each Totem they sell and 5 points for each picture they sell. "The first agents meeting is tomorrow. All agents should attend this meeting to get all the necessary information," announced Maria Hilsmier and Barbara Miser, circulation managers.

# # #

Only four weeks remain for seniors to have their picture taken and have it appear in the 1959 Totem. Clippinger Studio reports a total of 124 seniors still have not made their picture appointments.

October 31 is the deadline and all pictures must be taken by that day. Seniors are advised to make an early appointment at Clippinger Studio, in order to insure against beating the deadline.

Biology Section To Be Reformed

Students who are especially interested in the biological sciences, and who would like to develop their interests through experimentation, guided research reading, project preparation, etc., are urged to see Mr. Robert Weber in Room 76, within the next few days. Any such students who can qualify scholastically, may become a part of the Biology Section of the Junior Academy of Science.

"The Biology Section is being reorganized this fall, with special emphasis placed upon those students who are able and willing to proceed on their own initiative," says Mr. Weber, club adviser. "For such members, the Biology Section, and the Junior Academy of Science can be a great help through its advisers, library, laboratory facilities, science fairs, and state meetings," Mr. Weber also stated.

FOR EXAMPLE, during November, members of the Junior Academy all over the state of Indiana will meet at Indianapolis on a Saturday, where scientists of many fields will be available for chats and consultation. This will also be an opportunity for the Junior Academy members to visit with each other and to compare notes on various topics.

The Biology Section members, in addition to working on individual projects, are involved in a long-range group project. An arboretum, eventually to consist of all the trees, native to Indiana, is being planted on land in Foster Park, provided the club by the City Park Board.

Sometime near the middle of October, Mr. Weber will notify those students who have contacted him of an organization meeting for the club, to be held in the near future.

Meterites To Hold Initiation Tuesday

The Meterite Club will hold an initiation Tuesday. The program chairman is Nancy Vanderford, and her assistants are Mary Jane Spindler and Jan Martindale.

There will be refreshments served by the food committee. The chairman of this committee is Sue Slick, with Jody Reiff and Ann Plogsterth helping.

The president, Sylvia Ehrman, urges all the new freshmen to come.

DeMolay Hayride Scheduled Oct. 4

Robinson Park, from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m., will be the setting for the DeMolay hayride, October 4. No committees were appointed this year as the adviser, Dad Reithmiller, took charge of the arrangements. Included in the program are dancing and refreshments after each ride. The postponement date has been set for October 6 and tickets for the affair may be purchased from any DeMolay member.

Times Grabs Coveted Cup For Sixteenth Semester

2063 Subscriptions Sold As 59 Homerooms Reach 100 Per Cent

South Side High School is 100 per cent for The Times!!!

For the sixteenth consecutive semester, The South Side Times cinched the well-known circulation cup by being 100 per cent for the entire school last Friday, the end of the circulation campaign.

On the same date, the Northerner obtained about 70 per cent of North Side's enrollment, while Central's Spotlight showed a percentage of —.

South Side's enrollment is 2,095 pupils, plus 91 faculty members with homerooms, making a total gross enrollment of 2,186. From this is subtracted 123 brother-sister reports, making the final net enrollment of 2,063.

OF THESE 2,063 members of South Side, 1,906 subscribed for The Times. Exactly 139 outside subscriptions were sold, plus 18 subscriptions bought by members of the faculty without homerooms. The total amount of subscriptions sold for The South Side Times by the end of the circulation campaign, was 2,063, the exact number of our net enrollment.

Merle Baldwin, circulation manager, commenting on the close of the circulation campaign had this to say: "Everyone who has subscribed for The Times should feel very proud about having a 100 per cent school, and I hope those who haven't subscribed as yet will do so very soon. I also want to express my thanks to the eight bookheads and all the 100 per cent agents who really worked hard in this campaign."

# # #

SUBSCRIPTIONS for The South Side Times may still be bought from the homeroom agent or in the Times room until the close of the semester. Agents should see Miss Rowena Harvey, adviser, if they are in doubt

Hi-Y New Members Give Skits At Picnic

"Hi-Y had its annual picnic Monday night at McMillen Park," said John Meyerholtz, club president. "At this picnic the new members gave skits for the other members. Since there were so many skits, we will finish them at our next meeting."

The most outstanding skit was called "Anatomy of a Purple People Eater," by Dave Dunstone.

Junior Academy To Plan Project

Plans for this year's group project will be discussed by the Math Section of the Junior Academy of Science on Thursday, September 25, at 3:30 p.m. in Room 77.

Research in space travel will be discussed and tricky math puzzles will be solved by the members. Any student interested in math as a hobby is invited to attend the meeting.

The Junior Academy of Science, consisting of the Math Section and the Biology-Conservation Section, will meet on Thursday, October 2, at 3:30 p.m. in Room 77. Any student interested in forming a new group or joining one of the present groups should attend this meeting.

206 Students Make Honor Roll, Have Average Of 90 Or Better

Circulation Cup

Last semester 206 students from the 9th, 10th, and 11th grades made the honor roll by scholastic effort.

Each semester those students who have an average of 90 per cent or better are named on the honor roll.

The honor roll at one time had been discontinued but was re-established for the purpose of stimulating scholastic interest. The honor roll has no connection with National Honor Society; therefore, a student may still be placed on National Honor Society ever if he does not have at least a 90 per cent average. His average must be in the upper third of his class.

# # #

Carol Kenner, Don Kern, Lonnie Kimble, Mary Lou Koehler, Stephen Komito, Gene Kraus, Joan Littlejohn, Carol Lockwood, Jeanette Lynn, Bob Mann, Ronald Marker, Richard McClure, Hoy McConnell, John Meyerholz, Martha Milnor, Barbara Miser, Judy Novitsky, JoAnn Perry, Beth Rankin, John Richardson, Mary Sue Robertson, Sharon Ruhl, Stanley Rupnow, and Janet Rupp.

Sharon Schlamersdorf, Robert Schmitz, Kathy Schwalm, John Shannahan, Anne Sherbondy, Mike Simmons, Robert Simmons, Phyllis Springer, Beverly Stanton, Susan Starr, Bill Sutter, Judith E. Thompson, Judith Tigges, Steven Tracey, Judy Walter, and Alice Joy Weddle.

Excellent Students To Be Presented On Electra Club

Each year at the beginning of the school year, Indiana and Michigan Electric Company sponsors a television program, The Electra Club, through which they wish to present outstanding students of the local high schools.

Students will be recognized for any outstanding instrumental and vocal talent in the field of music. Recognition will include those accomplished in the classical dances, dramatics and declamations. Special recognition will be given to young people who have, at an early age, proved their capability in the field of pure and applied science, such as electronics, chemistry, mathematics, physics, biology, botany, and related sciences.

Those individuals who have early in life engaged in some form of business such as participation in Junior Achievement will be recognized.

The Electra Club has proposed to have a youth panel for the discussion of timely local, national, and international events in relation to the lives and interests of high school students.

Physical Science New To Curriculum

Physical science and biology are now being taught in Room 24. Physical science was added to the curriculum because, with the growing enrollment, a general science course was needed for those not going to college.

Filmstrips, movie projectors, desks, books, and other new equipment were bought for the new room. An old demonstration desk was brought in from the chemistry laboratory.

Since Room [illegible] was formerly a conditioning room, a new room for exercising is the problem facing the Physical Education Department.

Y-Teens Choose Two Archer Students

Two South Side students, Virginia Tauleff and Ellen McCarron, were elected officers of the Y-Teen Interclub Council at the Y-Teen Leadership Training Retreat September 13-14.

Virginia was elected vice-president and Ellen was elected historian.

The council is made up of representatives of all the high schools, and they plan the various Y-Teen projects. Other officers elected are from different schools.

Music Assembly To Feature, Honors Band, Choir, Orchestra

A BALLAD OR ROCK 'N ROLL — Mr. Robert Drummond and Mr. Lester Hostetler are planning the Music Assembly to be presented next Wednesday in the gym. Both the band and orchestra will play, and the choir will sing. (Picture by Gilsdorf)

The first music assembly of the semester to be held in the gym next Tuesday morning, will feature the Orchestra, Band, and Concert Choir performing several selections.

The orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Robert T. Drummond, will first perform the popular selection "Laura" by Raksin.

A Campbell-Watson arrangement of "Tributes to Sigmund Romberg," including such well-known melodies as, "French Military Marching Song," "Desert Song," "Deep in My Heart Dear," "Your Land and My Land," "One Alone," "Golden Days," "Softly as the Morning Sunrise," "One Kiss," and "Stout Hearted Men," will then conclude the orchestral presentation.

Mr. Lester Hostetler will then direct the Concert Choir in "Melodic Caravan" a Harry Robert Wilson arrangement. "I Feel a Song Coming On," "It's a Most Unusual Day," "I'm in the Mood for Love," and "Don't Blame Me" are some of the songs that constitute this medley.

A Welsh Folk Tune entitled "Ash Grove" will then be sung followed by "He Shall Come Down Like Rain," a religious hymn by McCormick. An unannounced popular tune will also be sung.

Concluding the assembly, the Honors Band, which is the best of the three organized bands at South Side, will play "Nimord Variations" from the "Enigma Variations" by Elgar and the First Suite in Eb by Gustav Holst.

Philo Sets Picnic Deadline

Tomorrow is the last day for all Philo members to pay 35 cents for the picnic and rough initiation, October 6, in Pavilion 3 at Foster Park. The money may be paid to any of the officers or in Room 154.

Cyclotron Club To Meet Tuesday

"The third meeting of Cyclotron Club is scheduled for next Tuesday at 3:30 p.m.," announced Pat Doherty, president.

The qualifications for being in the Cyclotron Club are a good knowledge of science and a definite interest in scientific work.

Miss Ann Arber To Teach Drama

"Dramatics helps a person not only in his acting, but in his appreciation of drama," said Miss Ann Arber, English teacher here at South Side. Miss Arber will teach the beginning classes of the Creative Dramatics and Playacting School which begins October 4 at the Civic Playhouse. She will teach boys and girls from 7 to 16 years of age.

Miss Arber says that she enjoys teaching dramatics as well as English. She received her bachelor and master's degrees from Indiana University Schools of Speech and Theater. She spent two years in the Tamara Daykarhanona School for the Stage in New York, covering all phases of theater, speech, dance, make-up and acting. She has taught drama in high school and has worked with Girl Scout groups.

Miss Arber is acting in Tennessee Williams' production "A Streetcar Named Desire," which is now playing at the Civic Theater.

Art Club Schedules Visiting Speakers

The Art Club, sponsored by Mrs. Cleon Fleck, decided at their first meeting last Wednesday not to do art work at the meetings, but to have guest speakers discuss art and art appreciation. They also formulated the rules for the year.

All students may join who are interested in art and desire to work in various mediums creating a greater appreciation of art. Meetings are held on alternate Wednesdays at 3:30 in Room 26. Dues are 25 cents per semester.

At next Wednesday's meeting, the members will elect officers.

Therapy Classes In Speech Today

"Speech therapy classes will again be held at South Side this year," stated principal, Mr. R. Nelson Snider.

Starting the first week of October Mr. Lloyd C. Way, speech therapist, will conduct Thursday morning classes for students who have speech impediments.

Last year six South Side students enrolled in this class.

Mr. Way will also offer hearing tests for students requesting them.

Guest Speaker To Talk To Art Club Oct. 8

A guest speaker who is an authority on art will highlight the next meeting of the Art Club in Room 26 at 3:30 p.m.

The policy of the Art Club has been changed. Last spring Mrs. Fleck and the group discussed the problem of nothing being accomplished during the meetings. They decided to devote more time to art appreciation and less time to actual art work.

Any student with at least one semester of art may join the club.

Seven New Desks Arrive For Floating Teachers

Seven desks have arrived for the floating teachers around the school. All the desks are in Room 114 at the present time.

One of the desks will be put in Room 14; and a few will be put in the old Junior High office. The desks are finished in blond.

John Stein, Bruce McKinney Operate Educational Television

Two South Side boys, John Stein and Bruce McKinney, both sophomores, had the opportunity to operate educational television, a new system being experimented with in various school systems.

Mr. and Mrs. Stein, parents of John, acted as co-chairmen of the educational forum held September 19 at the Van Orman Hotel.

At the last minute, John and Bruce were asked to run demonstration television cameras for 200 educators, administrators, and citizens at the forum.

Neither of the boys knew anything about this field, but they were taught how to operate the cameras in one hour.

John commented that the technical aspects of television are certainly very interesting and he said that he would like to investigate this field further.

Bruce also added that his interest in this field was stimulated and that perhaps he would like to go into the field of television productions.

Mr. Charles Billiard, head of the South Side English Department, served as the recorder for one session of the educational forum.

Among the various topics discussed in the citizen educational council, one that was of considerable interest to teachers, administrators, and citizens, was the Three-Track System. Mr. Billiard acted as recorder for this special session.

"By the Three-Track System method of grouping students according to their ability and achievements, students can work up to their capacity," said Mr. Billiard. "Such a teaching method would require the adjustment of teaching methods and materials."

This special group finally agreed that pupils should be grouped according to ability and achievement within the class or in separate classes if the school is large enough to make such groups possible. This should be especially done in academic and skilled subjects.

"However," Mr. Billiard added, "such groups should be kept flexible and a wide opportunity provided for other groups of students in such areas as extra-curricular activities, physical education, and non-academic fields."

Classes To See Movies

"Blanking and Piercing" and "This Is Aluminum" are the two movies which will be shown to the metal classes Monday.

Parents To Attend Students' Classes At PTA Open House Next Monday

"PTA programs will have a list of all the homeroom teachers, their room numbers, and the floor plan of the building, to help the parents during the 29th annual open house next Monday, at 7:30 p.m.," stated Mrs. Charles Kollman, PTA president. Parents are invited to attend the open house to get acquainted with their children's teachers and curriculum.

Parents wishing to join PTA may do so by paying 25 cents in their children's homerooms. Homeroom mothers will be in the rooms early, to welcome the parents and help collect dues.

AS IN PAST YEARS, the parents will go from room to room, following the schedule of their child. If they have more than one child in school, one parent may follow one child's schedule and the other parent may go to the rooms of the second child. During the students' study periods and lunch hour, the parents can go to the gym, the choir room to hear the concert choir perform, or walk around the halls.

Teachers will display students' work for the parents to look over. Because of the shortness of the periods, the parents are asked not to talk with the teachers about individual problems. There will be just enough time for the teachers to explain to the parents what the class is now doing, and what they wish to accomplish by the end of the semester.

Parents will be invited by the teachers to visit the school at any time and to feel free to attend any of the assemblies throughout the year. Teachers will post a list of dates of the activities and programs.

Junior Red Cross Plans Toy Drive

The third meeting of Junior Red Cross was held Wednesday in the Greeley Room. They discussed plans for the toy drive which they hope to initiate very soon. "All toys will be collected in any homeroom and contributions will be appreciated very much," said Susie Hoard, club president.

The members also saw two films on "We Serve" and "Boats, Motors, and People." After the films refreshments of punch and cookies were served.

Senior Shows Underclassmen Chemistry; All Give Views About Football Team

Susie Phillips, Jack Winder, and Bill Lentz seem to be watching Patti Arnold stir up some unusual mixture in the chemistry lab. Could it be that she is plotting to create an explosion big enough to damage our dear beloved school?

These four Kellys were chosen as the teens of the week because of their high standards and achievements. Since this is so, I am sure that this was not Patti's intentions.

z z z

Susie Phillips, a Freshman A, is on the college course taking Latin, algebra, English, chorus, gym, health, and home economics. Her favorite of these is English, which she finds relatively simple. Susie also finds time to belong to 36 Workshop, Meterites, Job's Daughters, and The Times. She is also secretary of the Wayne Street Methodist Youth Organization.

Susie likes South Side very much and thinks that everyone is friendly even though there seem to be a lot of individual gangs around. When asked an opinion of our football team, Susie said, "Wonderful, wonderful!"

z z z

Jack Winder, a Sophomore B, is another lad who thinks highly of our football team. When asked his opinion of this, Jack said, "I think it will be better than everyone thinks it will be."

Jack is on the college course taking geometry, general history, choir, English, Latin, and gym. His favorite of these seems to be geometry. Playing golf and stamp collecting are his hobbies. He also finds time to be active in 36 Workshop, for he is treasurer this semester.

z z z

The junior, Bill Lentz, loves being an upperclassman as most juniors do after two years of belittlement. Bill is another one of these Kellys who is on the college course taking English, solid geometry, U.S. history, and physics. Bill also finds time to be active in sports and take an interest in cars. Aside from all of this, Bill is a member of Hi-Y and Lettermen's.

When he was asked an opinion of our football team, he stated, "Even though our team does not have all the manpower that we did last year, we do have more team spirit which is just as important." Bill believes that our team will do better this year than last.

z z z

Last, but not least, is Patti Arnold, the senior. Patti stated that she liked South so well because as a senior she has had much time to learn to like it. She also thinks that the courses and the teachers are wonderful, since they do such a fine job in helping you prepare yourself for college.

Patti is on the college course taking chemistry, English, Spanish, government, concert choir, and she also does service during her free periods. Fourth period, Patti does service for Miss Rowena Harvey, and seventh, she works for Mr. Robert Storey.

Her main hobby is Pixie, her dog. Another hobby of hers is camping, which she is quite experienced at. Patty relates a camping experience she had two summers ago while she was in Canada. It seems that Patti and six other girls got lost in the wilds of Canada. They were missing for about five hours. During these frightful five hours, they had on them one dozen raw eggs and one box of raisins. Patti said that she never went through a longer five-hour period in her life.

This experience, however, did not keep her away from camping, for she was a Girl Scout Leader at Camp Ella J. Logan this summer for two weeks.

Indeed, Patti is a busy gal, for she is president of Wranglers, a Totem office manager, and also belongs to Philo. When asked her opinion of our football team she remarked that she thought our football team had great possibilities and that the spirit at the South-Shortridge game was terrific.

As you can see these four Kellys who were picked as Teens-of-the-Week are indeed agressive Archers! They are fine examples of South Side's students.

Archers Define Wit

What would you do if someone came to you and asked, "Define a wit?" Would you tighten up and lose all sense of reality? The answers of some Archers are listed below.

Chuck Holman: A wit is someone who can draw a conclusion in a split second.

Dave Schwalm: A wit comes out on Halloween.

Ruth Ann Farlow: Something from the back of the Civic Theatre prop room.

Sally Dill: Someone clever or tricky.

Charlie Lampel: Wit, last name of a well known celebrity whose first name is Nit.

Jim Somers: Twice my brother John, because he is a half-wit.

John Somers: Two times my brother Jim, because if he had brains he would be a half-wit.

(The Somers are really very friendly).

Steve Rothberg: A person with a lot of shekel.

Sue Horth: Whitt, a boy I had a date with last week.

How would you have answered?

Original Customs Still Present In Manners Of People Today

How often has the saying "mind your manners" been reminded to teenagers?

They, as well as many other people, have probably heard this phrase or one similar to it more often than they would care to admit!

From childhood, a young person is brought up according to certain approved rules of etiquette. Very few people have ever stopped to consider how these rules came to be. Most current-day habits date back before England's Elizabethan era, and some as far back as prehistoric man.

Early courteous actions of savages were based on fear or self-preservation. The early cave man was inclined to let his "friend" enter the cave first just to be sure that he wouldn't be hit on the back of the head with a club!

After primitive men lost some of their fear of each other, they held up their right hands as a sign of peace when they met in the forest. Later this became a sign of welcome, showing that the person was unarmed and could do no harm. Then comes our custom of saluting each other.

Debut, or coming-out, parties for young girls also originated in primitive times. At that time girls were kept carefully hidden until they reached the proper age for marriage. Then they dressed in their finest apparel and paraded before the young men of the tribe. The prospective husbands were eager to snatch not only the best looking girls, but also the ones whose fathers could give them the largest dowry.

z z z

BEFORE GOING ANY further, it is interesting to note where the term etiquette, which pertains to proper manners, actually originated. In its original French, the word means a price tag, lable, or ticket.

In the days of old French royalty, court ceremonies were quite complicated. Therefore, those who came to court were furnished with etiquettes, or tickets, instructing them how to behave. In the present day, a knowledge of the rules of polite behavior still identifies its owner as would a ticket.

Still more modern customs had their beginnings "when knighthood was in flower." A forerunner of hat-tipping was the old rule that knights raise the visors of their helmets exposing their heads in friendly recognition before battle.

The habit of shaking hands became a token of good faith for if two enemies met, there could be little danger of attack if the right hand of each was firmly grasped by the other.

z z z

DURING THE Medieval era, it was customary for a housewife to throw her garbage out onto the street if she lived on the second floor of a building. Therefore, the man was compelled to walk on the outside of the woman so that if garbage was thrown it would fall on him—not her!

The modern custom of the boy opening the car door for the girl probably originated in the time of the horse and buggy era or perhaps as early as the Greek and Roman chariots, where it was necessary that the boy aid the girl in climbing in and out of the vehicle.

z z z

THE YOUNG PEOPLE have a wonderful heritage of manners and customs, and also have a very important responsibility pertaining to them. They are the ones who will decide which can be safely discarded without loss and which shall be retained and handed down to future generations.

Thus it is definitely important that they, at all times, attempt to follow these sensible rules set down by their ancestors to the best of their ability.

Archers Help Needed For Passable Halls

A sea of faces! A mass of people! That is the scene which confronts the students in the halls between every period.

Twenty-one hundred students, all with a certain room to reach within five minutes, and with little thought for each other, make confusion out of what should be an orderly procedure. A student must either go under, around, over, or through this blockade. There are three factors involved in the situation: halls, time schedules, and students.

First of all, the halls. Architecturally, nothing can be done. But perhaps something could be done locker-wise. The student who has a hall locker is out of luck when the stampede begins, but he can be more careful to leave as much room as possible in the hall, thereby protecting himself as well.

As for the time element, it might help relieve the S.H.S. (Study Hall Stampede) if some system of staggered dismissal times could be arranged from the study hall. Other than this, there seems little else that can be done.

Now we come to the last and most important factor, the students. There are several things we students can do to improve this situation, one of which is to be more considerate. Don't go rushing out of your room the minute the bell rings. If you haven't far to go after a period, wait until most of the others have gone. If you're one of the majority who does have quite a distance to go, you can cover it more quickly by waiting until the crowd subsides.

Whatever you do, be a bit more orderly and considerate of your fellow student. This is especially true when you're leaving the study hall. If you've ever been a hapless victim of the S.H.S., who finds himself being pushed bodily back to his original point, you should be able to understand and sympathize.

Another practice that helps to make the halls impassable is the loitering and talking. If you have to meet your steady, don't meet him in the halls! It's neither romantic nor safe.

Actually, not much can be done concerning the halls and time schedules, so it's going to be up to us, the student body, to improve our hall situation. After all, it's a sign of good breeding to be kind and considerate of each other. How are you going to help?

Posy's Pointers

By Posy Weilemann

Dear Posy,

How can I overcome the feeling of shyness that I have when I'm with a boy whom I would like to date? Recently, I completely ignored a boy at a party, even though I wanted to talk to him very much. I only feel this way with this certain boy; with others I am completely at ease. How can I show him that I would like a date him? I've known him vaguely for about a year. Give me a pointer!

Helpa Helpa

Dear Helpa Helpa,

Try talking to him about a mutual interest. If he likes sports or has a hobby, ask him about it. After you have discussed this, your fear of talking to him will probably have passed. P.S.—Boys also appreciate an interested listener.

Dear Posy,

I think this is a problem that most boys face at one time or another. What can a boy do when he wants to date but isn't old enough to drive?

B.H.S.

Dear B.H.S.,

From your letter I would guess that you are a freshman or sophomore in high school. If you have any friends that are old enough to drive ask to double with them. If none of them drive, I'm sure your parents would be willing to take you and pick you up from your destination. Your date won't mind, if she really likes you.

Dear Posy,

I think I'm sending this to the right person, but I'm not sure. I was told by a certain friend of mine about your column. So I thought maybe you could and would help me. My problem is really hard to understand. I seem to fall for too many girls at the same time. I guess I fall for a cute face and figure. My problem seems to pop up every time I start to like a new girl. I would like to like just one girl at a time, and would like some help. Thank you.

Mixed Up

Dear Mixed Up,

You are really "mixed up" if the only thing you can see in a girl is a cute face and figure! There's nothing wrong with liking more than one girl at a time anyway. At this age it's better to date lots of different girls. I think it's really too bad that some people are blind enough to pick their dates by looks instead of for her qualities. Remember, looks aren't everything, and beauty is only skin deep.

Dear Posy,

I march in a high school band. The trombone player keeps hitting me during parades. What can I do?

Lucy

Dear Lucy,

If your school has an orchestra—join it! It's safer!

Dear Posy,

I am a junior this year and dated a boy all last year who was a senior and graduated last spring. I still like this boy very much, but I'm afraid he's losing interest because he writes that he has met some very attractive girls. How can I hold his interest?

Curious

Dear Curious,

Of course the boy is meeting several new girls in college, and that's to be expected. Don't let him know that you are jealous and never try to confine his interests. To be possessive is the quickest way to loose him. Encourage him to meet a lot of new people. Your turn will come in a couple of years.

(Posy will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Times or 1245 W. Rudisill.)

Teeny Times

The boy in the sun is an 11B;
From Sidell, second period, he takes Geometry 3.
This giant junior is known by many of you;
He takes Physics 1 fifth period, too.
In study hall sixth period he sits in B-8;
While to English 5 in Room 10; I'm sure he's never late.
Third period he has U. S. History 1 and there's still one more,
For he has developmental reading in 154.
The ads in the paper will tattle who he can be;
So, if you're sure you don't know him, look in the ads and see.

Kelly Couples Enjoy Hayride; Three Senior Maids Tell Story

September and October are certainly the months for hayrides, and South Side couples usually hit all of them—that is all but the traditional dateless senior girls. We, the three senior maids, decided to go to a hayride anyway, just to see what was going on.

On our way there, we saw Butch Vaughn and Bryan Ronan waiting impatiently for those Brooke girls, Pattie and Debbie, to get dressed. Naturally they arrived late at the hayride.

Hiding in an inconspicuous place, we saw Lonnie Kimble and Janet Gareiss trying to drag their blankets out of the car while their dates, Jeff Clark and Jerry Leeth (N.S.), listened to the football game on the radio.

Nancy Bailey, John Meyerholtz, Kathy Schwalm, and Dave Roderick were the first ones in line to hop on the wagon.

Demure Ann Keirns and Janis Mitchell were afraid to join the mob to find a place on the wagon, but Eddie Bash ('57) and Bob Miller (C.C.) fought their way through and saved them a place.

Once they got started, Roy Robinson and Nelson Baney insisted on singing at the top of their lungs, much to the embarrassment of Brenda Kraick and Sandy Kunkle.

Marilyn Bugg, Janet Lawry, and Sandy Trulock got into a conversation about the latest fads. Since this didn't interest Tom Shoaff (N.S.), Mike Millikan, and Tom Gratz (N.H.), they decided to take a snooze.

Jane Koegel and Don Dennis were in an argument about the place of certain star constellations, but Don Pollock and Marcia Noll came to the rescue and settled the dispute.

Back at the barn, Diane Decker, Jackie Hawk, Sharon Klopfenstein, and Judy Tigges were trying to get Tom White, Jerry Long, John Hartman and Jim Steinbauer to form a set for a square dance. It took quite a bit of friendly persuasion, but they finally succeeded.

While Pat Oyer and Carl Schaffer went to get some food, Peggy McCoy and Joan Goskert strolled to the fire to get warm. The guys were really confused when they came back and couldn't find their gals.

Bob Spittler tried to convince Linda Tobey that Central was the greatest school, but he was out-numbered by their double dates, Karen Good and Al Klopfenstein.

Military uniforms seemed to impress Posy Weilemann and Joan Littlejohn—that is the uniforms of cadets Gene Brown (Howe Military Academy) and Bill Rothert (Annapolis). They even liked the uniforms with straw all over them.

After seeing all the fun these couples had, the "three maids" have come to the conclusion something will have to be done about the "dateless senior girl" tradition.

South Side High School
October 2, 1958

Hi!

My, how the time flies! Just think, we've been in school over four weeks. Only about 32 weeks until summer vacation! I can hardly wait!

Ellen McCarron certain is patriotic! She even went to the extreme of having one side of her hair green and the other side white. This wasn't purely intentional, but nevertheless loyal. While painting her house, Ellen seems to have also painted herself—part green and part white!

Most South Side girls agree that the new adjective "tough," which is fastly replacing "neat" makes them sound like hoodlums.

Patsy, Miss Harvey's dog, has finally done it—bitten a girl with flats on. She usually sticks to saddle shoes or loafers which protect the foot, but now she's branched out. Sharon Eitman was the first victim. Beware all Times workers!

If you happen to notice that one of Merle Baldwin's shoes looks bigger than the other, pay no attention; there's been a slight mix-up. Merle and her sister, Gail, each own a pair of gray suede loafers. In her haste to pack for college, Gail picked up one of Merle's shoes and left one of her own. This doesn't sound bad, except the shoes are different sizes.

Don't you think they should stop playing "Summertime, Summertime" and "Lazy Summer Night"? It makes me so reminiscent.

Janet Terry had a close call! One Saturday morning the doorbell rang, and since she was lounging around in her pajamas Janet didn't want to answer the door. Quick thinking on Janet's part led her to lie down behind the couch, until the caller went away. No sooner had he left than the telephone rang. I guess Janet wasn't as concealed as she had hoped, because the visitor saw her lying there, and thought she was dead.

Margo Dixon was almost thrown in the "drink," I mean river. The count was three and Margo was poised over the water, when the Times workers at the picnic decided to be generous. Lucky for her!

Lawson White doesn't know his own strength! Intending on giving Gonda Rider a friendly pat on the shoulder, he sent her sprawling on the floor! It must be football that's given him the added power.

Attention Poodle Lovers! For Sale: Five beautiful French poodles. They come in three assorted colors—black, apricot, and blue. For further details contact Dave Dunstone.

Some kids have all the luck! Somehow or other Miss Susen Peck's seventh period English class got locked out of the room, while Miss Peck and a few students were locked in. Mike Millikan came to the rescue and crawled out the window to get a janitor.

Well, that's about all for now. Don't forget—only 89 days until Christmas! Start your shopping now and avoid the rush!

Homeroom Highlights

Marijo Edwards, Editor

Homeroom 156 has had quite a time getting back into the swing of school. These early mornings make it rough . . . We would like to welcome Linda Towns back to South Side. She spent last winter in sunny Florida. Two other members are Penny Thorne from Central Catholic, and Mike Vaughan from Concordia. Penny is on the business course, while Mike is on the college course . . . Many teenagers had a hard time finding jobs this summer in Fort Wayne, but it was no problem for those in 156. Zorana Toscas spent her summer working for her father. During her free time she was at Lake James zooming around in her boat. Rick Van Hine didn't let the recession bother him. Rick was very busy mowing lawns, painting houses, and washing cars. Janice Tannihill had a swell job, she worked in the cosmetic department of a department store . . . Notice any difference in Dan Tritch? He has been lifting weights and getting in shape for football. Dan was also busy doing odd jobs this summer . . . Linda Woodruff spent part of her time at Adams Lake where her family had a cottage . . . Penny Thorne was at Adams Lake also . . . Janet Terry attended summer school where she took typing. California put out a welcome mat for her also. Janet's next stop was church camp way up in Wisconsin . . . Jim Stewart spent some time at Clear Lake. Carol Szink was there for a while also . . . Kathy Sosinski just got new contact lenses. She didn't get through the first day, though. It seems one slipped out and she stepped on it. Such a mishap. Contact lenses are really the rage here at South . . . Susie Vesey spent her summer swimming and water-skiing at Clear Lake in northern Indiana.—Susie Vesey, reporter

During the summer, Kay Hensch learned what it was like to live in a small town. She spent six weeks at her sister's home in Wolcottville, Ind. During the day, her time was occupied by taking care of her niece while her sister worked. On the week ends, Kathy went to many of the surrounding lakes with some of her new teenage friends. After Kay's return home, she spent much of her time playing tennis and practicing the dance steps that she had missed from the Cabanna Dance School. Kay remarked, "This is a summer I will never forget." She has now returned to South Side as a sophomore on the business course. Her present subjects are home economics, physical geography, bookkeeping, and English.—Barb Heilman, reporter

Homeroom 6 had a visitor. Mary Esther Hopkins, who was a member of the Senior A class in her freshman and sophomore years, came from her present home in Tennessee to visit the class last Thursday . . . Harvey Trees and Bill Van Buskirk of the "Continentals" played with their group at the presentation of "Make Mine Music" at the Coliseum Sunday . . . Dan Frump went to Toledo, O., last week end. This week end, he is going to Camp Potowatomi with his Boy Scout troop . . . Sandy Hoover went to the Smokey Mountains with her family and relatives. They camped out there for a week this summer.—Linda Wightman, reporter

z z z

Homeroom 152 has three new stuwents this year. Priscilla Scott, Jim Saylers, and Jeanne Schumm. Priscilla came from Virginia. Jim flags from Deerfield, Mich., and Jeanne, who used to be a member of the homeroom, returned from Angola, Ind. . . . The Music Conference at Indiana University attracted Vicki Sheldon . . . A canoe trip into Minnesota was on the summer agenda of Tom Schwartz. Tom also went into Canada, and to the east coast with his family . . . Culver Military Academy was an attraction to Marsha Rolf. She attended two of the summer dances there . . . Since school has started, Dave Roderick and Dick Rothberg could have been seen pushing Dave's car up and down Old Mill Road. It seems that it couldn't be started so they tried to start it by pushing it.—Marsha Rolf, reporter

z z z

Everyone in Homeroom 110 was happy and eager (?) to get back to good old South Side for another year of activities . . . New class officers were elected. Congrats to all of them! . . . Phil Jones leads as president, Dave Hickman as vice-president, and Marsha Klaehn as secretary-treasurer . . . Sharon Lake has charge of banking every Tuesday morning . . . Sunny Kaade is our Times agent and is working very hard to get 100 per cent for this homeroom . . . We'd like to welcome a Redskin in our midst. Steve Kearns transferred to South from the Dome. We like him anyway! . . . We lost one member of our homeroom. Nikki Kaplan is now attending a private school, Walnut Hill School, in Massachusetts.—Janet Lawry, reporter

Jim Vanderford Goes To Hawaii; Visits All 49 States

Most persons have heard about "Gulliver's Travels," but what about Jim Vanderford's travels?

Jim Vanderford, a 10A, has traveled throughout the 49 states. Jim usually takes these trips with his family during summer vacation.

From east coast to west coast, Jim has seen many places and has had many exciting experiences. Disneyland, Washington, D.C., and Gettysburg Farm are only a few of the many places he has visited. While in Texas Jim and his family stayed on a ranch. The oil wells seemed to fascinate him the most because there were so many he couldn't count them.

Jim has seen all the bodies of water surrounding the United States. While in the southern states, deep-sea fishing in the Gulf of Mexico was an unforgettable experience he undertook.

In 1956, the Vanderfords journeyed to Alaska by car. Their stay lasted a month. While there, Jim fished in the Russian river. After catching some salmon, they cooked them outside over an open fire.

The Hawaiian Islands were the place of interest this last summer. Jim's sister and husband now live there. They left Los Angeles by plane and arrived in Honolulu ten hours later. The trip lasted a month, but they were only in Hawaii for two enjoyable weeks. While there Jim saw flower gardens, hula shows, and beautiful scenery. The shore line of the islands seemed very enchanting to Jim. Only one trouble, it wasn't safe for swimming because of the fast drop-offs.

The Punch Bowl was something Jim said he would always remember. This is where the soldiers from wars are buried. The Dole Pineapple, a large factory, had a water tank shaped like a pineapple. This was only one of the things that added a touch of color to his trip.

Bright South Side Students Reap High Rewards---Good Grades

Bill Mueller, a member of Mr. Pipino's second period class, and Sandy Hadley, third period, turned in excellent biology reports on "How do twining vines find their support?" and "Is sunlight needed for photosynthesis?"

Nine Pupils Leave School

Since school has started, no new students have entered South Side, but nine pupils have dropped out.

John Gernard dropped out because of illness. Lloyd Miller has decided to work instead of going to school, and Joe Pyle and Ray Atkinson have transferred to New Haven. Concordia now claims Anna Kanditzki. Mike Treehill, Rande Rider, Patty Daughtery, and Connie Marcom have quit.

Archer Cross Country Varsity Triumphs At Triangular Meet, Defeats Concordia Squad 24-33

Hartman, Rainbolt Take Second, Third Places; Reserves Complete Win

A strong Archer Cross Country team returned to the winning trail by trouncing the Concordia Cadets 24-33 in the meet Tuesday, September 23, at Franke Park. The individual star of the meet was Cadet Hibler who won in 9:55 minutes.

The Reserves also made a fine showing by beating the Concordia Reserve team.

Although Archer Eddie Hartman did his best in trying to keep up with Hibler, he could not prevent Hibler from outsprinting him and crossed the line first. Hartman was second in 9:59, Archer Al Rainbolt third in 10:11, and Sam Green fourth in 10:12. Places four and five were taken by the Cadets, but South's next two runners, Mike Albersmeyer and Don Kern placed sixth and seventh to make the final score South 24, Concordia 33, with South the winner.

At the beginning of the race, Hibler took front position, followed by Archers Hartman, Green and Rainbolt. Hibler ran a very fast pace and slowly opened up a gap between him and the three Archers. He passed the mile mark in 4:55 minutes, ahead by about 30 yards. At the mile and a half mark he was still ahead by quite a margin.

At that point, Hartman made a gallant bid to win. He rapidly gained on Hibler and drew up with him, but Hibler outsprinted him in the last 50 yards.

By beating Concordia the Archer Reserves showed a fine improvement. Al David won the Reserve meet, with Archers Guenther and Lee placing second and fifth. Another Archer, Ed Kridler, came in sixth. All of them came in under 12 minutes.

"I was very much pleased with the boys, especially because the first five of the varsity broke 11 minutes," commented "Porky" Holt after the meet, "I hope that we can do it again."

Sam Green Takes First In Triangular Meet At Foster Park, Thursday

Led by the winning performance of junior Sam Green, who won in the time of 10:27 minutes, the Archer cross country team scored another victory by winning a triangular meet from the New Haven Bulldogs and the Bluffton Tigers, held Thursday at Foster Park. The final score was South Side 19, New Haven 38, and Bluffton 101. This was the Archers' third win of the season.

The Archer reserves made a good impression by beating the New Haven reserves by the perfect score of 15-45.

Coming into the last 100 yards of close to the race, Archers Green and Al Rainbolt, and Schnuelker of New Haven were still close together, but Green had the best kick and crossed the line first. Schnuelker was second in 10:28, Edwin Hartman third in 10:28 and Rainbolt fourth in 10:28. These three were so close together that it was very difficult to determine the order of finish.

The next two places were also taken by the Archers. Gus Wade came in fifth and Mike Albersmeyer sixth. This gave South Side the almost perfect score of 10 to the 39 of New Haven. Although the Bluffton runners tried hard, their best man was only able to take nineteenth place.

After the start of the race, Archer Eddie Hartman took the lead, followed by teammates Sam Green and Al Rainbolt and Schnuelker of New Haven. At the mile mark Hartman was still leading with Green second, Rainbolt third, and Schnuelker fourth. In the following parts of the race nobody was able to open up a race-deciding gap between him and the other three runners.

Al David was the winner of the reserves meet in the time of 11:34. Eugene Guenther was second in 11:47, and Chuck Weinraub third in 12:03.

"Although New Haven and Bluffton were not the kind of competition we will have to face in the next meets, I was very pleased with the boys," commented Coach "Porky" Holt after the meet.

The Varsity Reserves ran again the boys from Intramural cross country last week. As expected the Varsity Reserves won 26-32; but they didn't take first place. Sophomore Dave Reece took first place with a fine time of 5:07.8. And running right behind him was another Intramural boy, DeWayne Trim, with the time of 5:09. The Varsity Reserves took the next four places with Marc Spellman, Bill Lentz, Dave Connie, and Max Lane finishing in that order. Gary Gardner, of the Intramural squad, finished seventh. Allen David and Gene Guenther of the Reserves finished eighth and ninth. Jerry Moring, of Intramurals, finished tenth. Ed Kridler of the Reserves finished eleventh ler of the Reserves finished eleventh. Jim Pocter finished twelfth running for the Intramurals.

In football, the West Childs defeated the Pigskin Poppers, 26-0; Bob Johnson accounted for the first touchdown on a pass to Rich Adamonis, and he ran the extra point. Joe Harper passed to Adamonis for the second touchdown. Harper then tossed to Don Hasselring for the next touchdown. Johnson passed to Adamonis for the extra. Harper then threw to Adamonis again for the last touchdown.

The Pea Pickers defeated the Black Hawks, 7-2. Bob Martin was caught in the end zone for the losers' two points. Zartman pitched to Burns for the touchdown for the Pickers. The extra point was also good.

The Fuzzy Fuzzers defeated the Alley Rats, 19-0. Jim Allendorph intercepted a pass for the first touchdown. Giese threw to Schnepp for the extra point. Giese then threw to Aller for the next touchdown. He copped the scoring drive by passing to Ahlersmeyer for the final TD.

The Templar's Tumblars lost to the Moon Men, 15-0. Perry Schlie passed to Tom Esterline for the first touchdown. Art Templar then was trapped in his own end zone by Tom Esterline for a safety. Miller then intercepted a pass for the second touchdown. Perry Schlie then threw to Tom Esterline for the extra point.

Reserves Beat Tigers 26-0

Steve Burton Scores 20 Points In Grid Win

South Side's reserves trounced an inept Central squad last Monday by a score of 26-0 at Lawton Park. Steve Burton racked up 35 yards and 20 points on three touchdowns and two conversions.

The rugged South line prevented Central's backs from trodding on South territory. The Tigers once moved to their own 49, but could not enter the sacred ground.

While the staunch defense dug in and held, Archer backs swept the ends, broke through the middle, and tallied for four touchdowns and two conversions. Unlike the last game, South pulled the right plays and lost a fumble only once.

IN THE FIRST quarter, Burton kicked off and Central moved to the 25 where they kicked on the fourth down. South took the ball on the 44 and moved it to the 41 where they kicked. The Tigers got a sustained drive going from the 15 to the 43 where Steve Pohl fell on a fumble for South.

This break gave first blood to the Archers. Burton swept end for 13, Bob Bolyard threw to Steve Matthias for seven, and a play later, Burton plunged three yards for the score. Bolyard then threw to Burton in the end zone for the conversion.

The Tigers received the ball as the first quarter ended, but were forced to punt early in the second quarter. South began to methodically grind out yardage from their 35. Walt Raines broke from the Central 29 to the 12.

A recovered fumble put the ball on the six. Bob Shine drove to the one, where Burton drove over for the touchdown. Steve Matthias' conversion attempt was blocked and South had a 13-0 lead at half-time.

Central's kick in the third quarter went out of bounds, and the Archers took over on their own 40. They moved the ball to the Tiger 15 before losing it on downs. A Tiger back cut loose for 21 yards to the 36 before the quarter ended.

CENTRAL GAINED nine yards on the first play of the fourth quarter. They then gained four yards to the 49 for a first down. A penalty put the Tigers back on the 44. The quarterback faded to throw. His pass, however, went amiss and fell into the eager arms of Tom Duff who returned it 44 yards for a touchdown.

Matthias' kick was again blocked. Central took the kick-off on the 20 and ran it back to the 29. Here they lost it when Carl Biewald fell on a fumble. The Archers moved it to the 15 where they lost it on Raines' fumble.

South took over on downs on the 13 and two plays later Bob Bolyard, with instructions to run a 58, which goes to the fullback, came up with a better idea. He faded back and lobbed a touchdown pass to Steve Burton for six more points. He duplicated this feat for the conversion. With five seconds to go, Bob Shine intercepted a Tiger pass on the 40, but was dropped immediately.

The Archers gave their most splendid performance. The offense showed much better than before, and again the defense shut out the opponent. This time the enemy never even threatened.

The reserves ground out 21 yards running from scrimmage and 21 passing as they completed four of eight aerial tries. The longest run, however, was not from scrimmage. It was Duff's brilliant 44-yard interception.

Here are the averages from scrimmage: Burton, 5; Raines, 5; Matthias, 4; Shine, 3.5; Ron Hay, 2.9; Duff, 1.3; Bolyard, 1.25; and Somers, 1. Steve Matthias picked up seven on a pass, Burton nine, and Hargan five. South's only punt return was a 10-yarder by Bob Bolyard.

Mr. Todd and Mr. Johnson were the referees. Leroy Turner was the only Central player worth his salt. This back led his team in rushing yardage with 30, while Raines and Burton had 35 for the Archers.

South Side	7	0	0	13	—26

South scoring: Burton, 3 (two-yard plunge, one-yard plunge, and three-yard pass from Bolyard); Duff, 44-yard interception. Conversions: Burton, 2 (two-yard passes from Bolyard).

12 Girls Join Freshman GAA

"Get that ball!" was the cry of 31 Freshman GAA members out for speedball last Friday.

Twelve of the 31 were new members. They were Nadine Hobbs, Dayna Harader, Marjorie Bloom, Sandy Walton, Ginny Kachinmens, Jenny Slater, Tamara Beaty, Nancy Nichols, Susan Merchant, Alice Ashton, Sherry Hall, and Jane Ladig.

Miss Helen Pohlmeyer divided the girls into four squads. Squad 1 defeated Squad 3 and Squad 2 was defeated by Squad 4.

The umpires were Jane Glass, Jennette Lynn, Shelba Cox, and Ann Walton. The scorers were Connie Dennis, and Alberta Bonnell.

Every freshman girl is invited to attend the next meeting of GAA scheduled for tomorrow.

Girl Riflers' Practice Target Sighting

Target sighting will be practiced by the members of Girls' Rifle Club Tuesday at 3:30 p.m. on the range.

To emphasize safety on the range, various rules were explained at the previous meeting last Tuesday on the range by the four officers. They are Carol Dehnert, president; Linda Adams, vice-president; Joyce Reynolds, treasurer; and Sue Blaising, secretary. Inducting new members and final paying of 25 cents dues concluded the riflers' meeting.

George Collyer, Fifth Archer Grid Coach, Pilots Elevens To Four Winning Seasons, 27-16 Record, Between '42 and '47

This is the fifth installment in a special series of articles exploring past South Side football campaigns. This era in South's history covered the year of 1942 through 1946 with George Collyer taking South's football teams to battle during these years.

Collyer was by no means a newcomer to the Archer football aggregation when he succeeded Wayne Gift as head coach. During the preceding three years, George assisted Gift with the coaching chores. During Collyer's five-year reign, the crafty and clever pilot engineered the Green and White to 27 triumphs in 43 games, despite the slow start he made as Archer coach.

In 1942, George's initial season at the helm, he could do no better than capture three of eight contests; but in the final four seasons, the picture changed as Collyer blossomed into one of the most respected and prominent football coaches South has ever had. In 1944, he enjoyed his best season by taking eight of nine decisions.

In '42, Collyer greeted Archer fans with a victory in his debut as he guided South to its first of three wins that season. He extended the school's win streak to four over Central Catholic as South beat the Irish for the twelfth time in 14 years with a convincing 27-0 score, but the Archers' losing strings to North Side and Central were extended to six against both clubs. That year Central handed the Green and White a 27-0 beating.

THE FOOTBALL picture at South brightened in 1943 as the Green copped five of its eight outings including wins over all the city competition. For the first time, South played one team twice in the short season. They split two games with North Side and dropped C.C. twice by narrow margins. The two wins over the Irish increased the Archers' series lead with the Purple and Gold to 13 games.

The year 1944 promised to be one of the best in Archer history as Collyer led the Green and White to eight wins against one defeat. The only loss was a 13-6 defeat at the hands of the Redskins as they avenged an earlier season loss in the two-game series with the Kellys. In city play they split the two games with North, dropped C.C. twice by identical scores of 27-0, and whipped Central 32-6 on their way to the city championship.

The following year the Archers enjoyed another good season by capturing six of their nine games, although their three losses all came against city foes and thus unseated the Archers as city football champs. They split two games with North Side, dropping the second by 7-6. Central, 1945 champs, dumped the Kellys twice by scores of 14-12 and 29-20. C.C. once again fell before South by a count of 27-0.

HIS LAST YEAR as coach of the Archer football team found the Green and White beginning to go down hill from the high peak it hit in 1944 under Collyer. The Archers blew the first game and struggled through a hard season to post a 5-4 record for the season.

In '46, only North Side was able to derail South in city play as they nosed out the Kelly gridders by 6-0. On the other hand, they disposed of Central by scores of 25-7 and 26-0 and dumped Central Catholic by 14-7.

When Collyer bowed out from football, he left with a good and commendable record as head mentor. In guiding the Green to a 27-16 record, he boosted the Archers' overall win percentage back over the .600 mark.

SEVERAL OF Mr. Collyer's star performers went on to make names for themselves in college later. Heading this list is Ed Roth, who held the school's shot put record until Jim VuChon broke it during this spring's track season. Roth played tackle position and went on to Indiana. Others who made the big grade after being groomed by Collyer were Gene Holtrey, tackle at Valparaiso; Harry Hines, fullback at Valpo; Dick Bennent and Dave Peterson, halfbacks at Butler; and Chuck Schele and Keith Miller, All-City stars.

Collyer had been piloting the Green and White's track teams at the same time he was football coach. When he stepped out of football he resumed track coaching until he announced his retirement at the close of the 1958 track season; thus ending 20 years of coaching at South Side. Since 1947 Mr. Collyer has been active as a football referee. Last year he had the privilege of officiating the most talked-about game of the year between Anderson and Richmond.

This fall Mr. Collyer will return to South as a social science teacher. Although he has been out of football at South for several years, he still is well versed on the situation at South. Mr. Collyer believes that the lack of interest in football came as a direct result of the increased success of basketball, which has always held an upper hand over football. Mr. Collyer said, "The lack of interest has not decreased since '47, but neither has it increased."

OTHER CONTRIBUTING factors are the improved living standards, girls, and extra-curricular activities. During the post-war years, boys had little money to spend on girls and consequently spent less time with them; but, instead, donated their spare time to athletics. "More boys went out for football and showed greater initiative, but today's boys are just as good, only there are fewer of them," reported Mr. Collyer in a discussion concerning the past and present football picture at South Side.

Proper education among the students would serve as the best means by which to arouse more interest in football, stated Mr. Collyer. He also said, "Many youngsters who attend football games do not have the slightest idea what is happening except that the team which crosses the goal line scores six points. Some students even believe that they get credit for seven points."

He frowns upon the fact that students never get excited about a good defensive play or a key block. "Instead all the cheering is heard when the home team scores a touchdown, a player runs 50 yards, or a long pass play is completed. If more students learn the detailed facts about football as they have in basketball, South's football teams would make a gradual climb back to the top."

Next week: The sixth installment of this eight-article history of football at South Side High. South's sixth coach was Marion T. Feasel, who led the Kellys from 1947 to 1952 and who is still a teacher at South.

GRIDIRON GREATS Bill Meyer and Kenny Howe were chosen players of the week for their outstanding game against Indianapolis Shortridge, two weeks ago. Both Bill and Kenny will probably see action in tomorrow night's clash with Central.

Eager Archers Review Record

South's Most Success Against C.C.—25 Won

With South Side hoping to annex another City Series title in football this season, it is interesting to look back on the Archers' record to see how we have done in previous City Series contests.

South Side has only played one tie game in her entire City Series competition. This game was played some years back against the North Side Redskins.

The Archers have had the most success against Central Catholic. They have won 25 games from the Irish, while dropping only six.

The Green and White sport their worst record against those greedy Central Tigers, who have won 23 games while allowing the Archers only 16 triumphs.

The Archers have their most even record against the Redskins. However, North Side maintains a small lead in the competition, having compiled 18 victories to South Side's 14.

South has a winning record against Concordia, who has been in the City Series only five years and has just this year resigned from this competition. The Archers hold a record of four wins and one loss in their games against the Cadets.

In the entire City Series competition, the Archers have a winning record. Through 1958, the statistics show that the Green and White has won 59, lost 48, and tied once; and this year's team is certainly eager to improve on the record.

Archers Seek To Avenge 7 To 6 Loss At Meet With Tigers

Kellys To Face Central In City Tilt Tomorrow

South's Archers Hopeful For Win Against Fast, Experienced Tiger Team

Seeking to avenge a 7-6 defeat, South Side's Archers will face their perennial gridiron rivals, the Tigers of Central, tomorrow at 8 p.m. at South Side Stadium with South as host. Following a loss last year, the South Siders fond themselves on the short end of a 15-24 record of competition between the two schools.

The Bengals looked good in trouncing Concordia, 38-12, in their opener, but in their loss to North Side, their play was marked by rather sloppy ball handling and several costly errors.

CENTRAL WILL field an experienced team, containing eight senior letter winners from last year's squad, which was engaged in the memorable three-way tie for the city championship with North Side and Central Catholic.

The Blue has a veteran line returning from last season, but has been experimenting with a green backfield. The loss of the great breakaway halfback, Frank Smith, has been felt severely. Although the squad features good overall speed, it was presumed to be lacking in explosive runners. However, the Tigers have come up with quite a surprise in this department, in the person of T. C. Williams, a junior.

Joe Adams will probably get the nod as the other halfback, and senior Tharnell Hollins will start at full. Hollins is presently one of the leaders in the city scoring race.

Other backfield candidates are Fern Williams, Cal Thomas, and a sophomore, Willie Rozier.

CENTRAL'S SQUAD features two very capable quarterbacks, Jim Keim and Bill Thomas. Keim, a junior, should start in the quarter slot, but both will undoubtedly give the Archers reason to worry.

As targets for his passers, Coach Waveland "Snitz" Snider has two sixfoot ends, Bob Tilker and Willie Curry. Both are juniors.

The Tigers' forward wall will consist of Stan Durnell and Percy Moore, tackles, Pete Hogan and Roger Ember, guards, and Jim Goldsmith at center.

Hogan, whose talented toe defeated South by the margin of an extra point last year when he was a sophomore, has been replaced as kicker by Percy Moore. By means of his standout line play, Moore has been establishing himself as one of the men to watch for city honors.

COACH BOB GERNAND is expected to stick with his usual starting order, and the Green is optimistic about picking up a victory over its arch foe.

The tentative lineups are as follows:

South Side		Central
Joe Roth	E	Bob Tilker
Terry Berk	T	Stan Durnell
Ken Howe	G	Roger Ember
Lawson White	C	Jim Goldsmith
Dan Tritch	G	Pete Hogan
Jim Olinske	T	Percy Moore

Bill Meyer	HB	Joe Adams

Archers Suffer Setback In First City Series Game

PRAYING FOR A VICTORY—Coach Bob Gernand patiently watches his team gain yardage by both aerial and ground offenses. The Archers hope to return to the victory trail tomorrow night as they meet the Central Tigers.

S. O. S.

Schmitz On Sports

Handed a few kind compliments and being gifted with one victory in two games by the football team, the South Side cheering section did not begin to approach the standard it had set two weeks prior in a contest against Shortridge. Last Friday against city rival North Side at Northrop Field, a large throng of Archer supporters turned out, braving interrupting showers, but failed to solidly back their squad with continued cheering as they had been thanked for by Coach Gernand during Friday's pep session.

Cheering and the lack of it substantiated the effect it had upon the team during the game as a result of the loss to the Redskins. The Archer fans stood behind their team while losing by seven in the first quarter and really went wild when the Kellys recovered a fumble on a punt return that set up the Archers' only score early in the second stanza.

Several minutes later, the loud, organized, but frenzied cheers were suddenly stifled, never to be as predominant as before. The cause was the first of five costly and devastating fumbles. The outcome of the cheering pointed to the fact that our student body has become spoiled by the string of victories recorded last year in basketball and track.

Warren Bullard, by tallying three TD's against the Archers last Friday night, vaulted from the unrated to the number two spot among the city's top five scorers. C.C.'s Frank Lombardo kept pace by crossing the goal line for the fourth time and booting his second extra point.

Meanwhile, Elkhart quelled Central's big scoring punch, Tharnell Hollins, and his teammates. Hollins, who held down the top slot and the number two slot for two weeks, stepped to a third place tie with Concordia's Dahling, who tallied his three touchdowns in Friday evening's encounter with Auburn at Dwenger. In that one, Dahling paced the Cadets to a 33-0 win, their first of the season.

AFTER THE CONTEST with North, the Archers slipped behind all other city teams with the largest negative difference on scoring. That is to say that the Kellys have yielded nine more points per game than they have scored. After appearing among the Top Five scorers for two weeks, Steve Gaskill slipped into a three-way tie for fifth and therefore doesn't appear on this week's charting.

Dick Tipton, returning to regular action Friday, showed Archer fans some good displays, especially in the touchdown drive, when he busted through the North line on two power plays, the latter being the one that broke the ice for South. Jim Dawson also enlightened the Kelly coaches with his brilliant but limited line play.

Last week I mentioned that Royerton's unbeaten streak finally was ended. Once again the small school "hit the brakes" as they bowed to another Archer opponent for '58, Mississinewa. The Mississinewa eleven set back Royerton with ease in a 20-7 triumph. The victory gives the Archers something to think about in preparation for their October 9 engagement with Mississinewa.

Huntington, the Kellys' final non-city series foe, continued to roll along undefeated by trouncing Hartford City, 50-6. The win upped the Vikings point-per-game average to 37.5! Huntington was amazing in the contest and missed a 50-0 shutout by 10 seconds! Phil Wasmuth, the Vikings' big gun this season continued to focus attention as he raced into the end zone three times.

Following is the acknowledgement of last week's errors. Faye Throneberry is not a rookie nor is he a Yankee; he plays for Washington. It is Marv Throneberry that is the Yanks' prize rookie. In haste, I accidentally called the Oriole rookie Brooks Lawrence, instead of Brooks Robinson. Lawrence is a first-string pitcher for the Cincinnati Redlegs. I was also asked about selecting George Witt over Orlando Cepeda; with all due credit to Orlando, I'll still pick Mr. Witt.

Archer Harriers To Meet Kokomo

The South Side Archer cross country team will head down to Kokomo next Tuesday to find how one of the top harrier powers in Indiana performs.

Walter M. Cross, the Kokomo track and cross country coach, reports that his team will be ready for the invading Archer harriers. Kokomo has maintained excellent balance through two meets up to this time.

Three men, Dick Beck, Dave Long, and Don Campbell are under 11 minutes, while Larry Needham, Steve Terrell, Tom Owens, and Jeff Freed are all pushing the 11-minute mark.

The Archer squad, led by Ed Hartman, Sam Green, and Al Rainbolt, is progressing well with their main problem, a greater balance towards the front, under the direction of Coach Porky Holt.

Kelly Grid Team Loses To North By 26-6 Score

Dick Tipton Scores Archer Touchdown; Fumbles Very Costly

The North Side Redskins behind the stellar quarterbacking of Pat Riley and the slashing runs of Warren Bullard, knocked the wind out of South Side's sails by trouncing them, 26-6, at Northrop Field last Friday.

The Archer style of play was a far cry from their performance against Indianapolis Shortridge just two weeks previously. The Green were lax on defense throughout the contest which definitely was a controlling factor in the Redskin victory. This inability to block and tackle was exemplified as North Side backs would continually tear through the Archer line and secondary.

THE GAME started off as if it was going to be an exciting and interesting affair with Archer quarterback Steve Smith firing three straight passes to loosen up the North Side defense.

The Red and White took over and immediately started to pick apart the Kelly defense with fullback Warren Bullard and Pat Riley carrying the load. The game's first score came on a Redskin favorite, a 20-yard pass play from Riley to big end Mike Darforn. The conversion was good and the Redskins took a 7-0 lead.

South Side got right back in it, however, when on a punt, Joe Roth, Archer end, clobbered Sonny Gordon on the North 20-yard stripe, causing him to fumble. Roth recovered and set up the Gernand crew's only tally of the evening.

Bill Meyer, Steve Gaskill, and Dick Tipton moved the pigskin to within one yard of pay dirt. From there, Tipton, seeing action for the first time this year, plunged over for the touchdown. Sophomore Tom Hertel's extra point attempt was low and the North Side eleven held a slim 7-6 lead.

WARREN BULLARD was easily the game's outstanding player, took the ball on the four-yard line and marched for his first of three touchdowns later in the same quarter, giving North a 13-6 bulge which proved to be all they needed.

Toward the end of the first half, Bullard went over again, this time from 15 yards out. The half-time whistle sounded with the Archer aggregation being down by a 20-6 count.

North Side, capitalizing on a Kelly fumble, moved the ball in close, and from there it was Bullard again driving over for the score.

SOUTH SIDE Coach Bob Gernand, realizing that it was a lost cause, put in many reserves and ordinarily defensive players on offense. Two of these boys, Steve Burton and Tom Lerch, proved to be South Side's most effective weapons with Lerch getting almost 10 yards per carry and Burton over eight.

Coach Gernand also put in a number of sophomores who all played well considering this to be the first varsity game for many of them. These sophomores, Steve Hargan, Larry Seivert, Chris Parrott, Bob Shine, Bob Sheray, Jim Dawson, Tom Hertel, Lawson White, Bob Bolyard, Carl Johnson, Walter Raines, John Somers, and Steve Burton, all showed good potential for future years.

Two of these sophomores, Jim Dawson and Chris Parrott played commendable defensive ball for the time they were in.

The final buzzer sounded with North on top, 26-6.

THE ARCHERS were definitely not keyed up as was exhibited by their sluggish play all during the contest. Their ball carrying was sloppy, the Green losing control five times for fumbling. When they finally did get rolling, they would lose the ball on a costly bobble. The Redskins were penalized 85 yards which kept the Green alive and the score down.

South Side

Ends—Hargan, Sievert, Lude, King.

Tackles—Bowen, Olinske, Sheray, Berk, Slick, Dawson, Leininger.

Score by quarters:

North Side	7	13	6	0	—26
South Side	0	6	0	0	— 6

North Side scoring: Touchdowns—Bullard 3 (4, run; 15, run; 1, run); Dafforn (20, pass from Riley).

Conversions—Gordon 2 (placements).

South Side scoring: Touchdown—Tipton (1, plunge).

Jim Dawson

Dick Tipton

Jim Dawson, Richard Tipton, Chosen Players Of The Week

Shining in defeat for South Side's Archers this week were senior fullback Richard Tipton, and sophomore tackle Jim Dawson. Both players were sparkling standouts as the Archers suffered a 26-6 defeat at the hands of North Side's Redskins. The Archer record now stands at 1-2. Coach Gernand and his aides pick the players of the week every Sunday for the previous game.

Playing in his first game of the season, Richard Tipton has added to the Archer lineup a smooth, hard-driving fullback. Dick broke his foot in a water-skiing accident this summer, but is steadily improving since his cast was removed two weeks ago. Unable to play in the Green and White's first two ball games, Tipton saw his first action of the season in South's City Series opener against North Side.

DICK WAS CHOSEN Back-of-the-Week mainly for his driving efforts which finally earned South their only touchdown. His battering efforts paid off for the team as well as himself as he earned his honor in his first week of competition. Dick is well-liked by the other members of the team and is one of the "yellers" of the squad.

JIM'S STERLING play on defense as well as offense earned him the Lineman-of-the-Week title. Coming off the Archer bench, he proved trouble for the Redskin off-tackle plays, foiling many halfback drives. Jim also proved to be very effective on offense where he spirited the Archers' second-half drives.

Dick is on the college course, majoring in math and English. His schedule this semester includes English 7, Algebra 4, Government 1, Chemistry 1, and fifth period band. Dick is also an active member of Hi-Y, DeMolay, Lettermen's, Intramural, and his church fellowship. He believes that South's major problem last Friday was lack of pep, but hopes to help bring home an Archer victory over Central tomorrow night.

Jim, on the business course, is taking English 3, Physical Geography 2, Bookkeeping 2, and Wood 2. He also participates in track where he promises to be a star shot-putter, taking over the position vacated by graduates Dick Miller and Jim VaChon. Jim thinks that South should have beaten North but believes that the boys "just weren't fired up." This sophomore is certainly a boy to watch in his future years in South Side athletics. Congratulations boys from the student body!

New Officers Elected By Dad's Club

The election of new officers was the main point on the agenda for the meeting of the Dad's Club, Monday evening.

The new officers will take over the responsibilities which have been held the past year by Mr. Raymond Smith, president; Mr. Robert Parrott, vice-president; Mr. Winfield Moses, secretary; and Mr. Lawrence Coleman, treasurer.

The club meets every week and is open to any man who has a son participating in the reserve or varsity squads of any athletic event. The purpose of the organization is to promote the interest in the Athletic Department of South Side.

The club has several extra activities during the year such as banquets and various ways of raising money. Ballpoint pens with the complete football schedule of the 1958-59 season may now be purchased in the athletic office.

Classes Elect '58-'59 Officers, Social Council Representatives

Senior Class Elects Meyer '59 President

Rothberg, Parrott Elected Underclass Presidents In Ballot, September 30

On September 30, the senior class of South Side High School voted for six people who would lead their class in its activities through this coming year. The six students chosen were Bill Meyer, Carol Lockwood, Bob Mann, Tom Bolyard, Jerry George, and Hoy McConnell. When they were asked what their immediate feelings on being class officers were, they all replied, "I was very surprised, very happy, and I will try to do my very best for the class."

Bill Meyer, the senior class president, is on the college course taking English, chemistry, and Algebra 3. He is also on the varsity football and basketball teams and vice-president of Lettermen's Club.

Carol Lockwood, who was elected vice-president, replied it was a shock and a half when she found out she had been elected to this office. Carol is on the college course. Her subjects include English 7, Government 1, home economics, and concert choir. She is kept busy with many extra-curricular activities which include Philo, Luther League, being president of 36 Workshop, secretary of cheerleading, and a Consumer Panel member for Seventeen Magazine.

BOB MANN holds the office of secretary-treasurer. He is taking English 7, Algebra 4, Government 1, Chemistry 1, and Developmental Reading on the college preparatory course. He is vice-president of Hi-Y. He is also in Math-Science, 36 Workshop, and Intramural here at school. Outside of school he is in DeMolay, Church Fellowship, and a member of a church basketball team.

President of the social council, Tom Bolyard is on the college course. His subjects include English 8, Sociology 3, Drawing 2, and Metal 3. He is president of Lettermen's Club, and a member of the varsity basketball team.

Jerry George and Hoy McConnell were elected members of the social council. Jerry is taking English 7, Government 1, Wood 3, and Drawing 3 on the college course. Outside activities include being a member of DeMolay. Hoy is taking English 7, Algebra 4, Government 1, and chemistry. He is in 36 Workshop and a member of the varsity basketball team.

Junior Officers

"I was shocked, to say the least, and deeply honored to represent such a great class," stated Dick Rothberg, newly-elected president of the junior class.

Dick is on the college course studying English, U.S. history, solid geometry, physics, and is in concert choir.

Dick is a member of Hi-Y, DeMolay, Wranglers, and Math Section. He is secretary of Fort Wayne Temple Youth Group, and is treasurer of AZA, a Jewish fraternity.

As to his future career, Dick is undecided but is presently interested in being a tax lawyer. When considering college plans, Dick tends to lean toward Northwestern or a small eastern school.

UPON LEARNING of her election to the vice-presidency of the junior class, Merle Baldwin remarked, "I was really surprised and thrilled when I found that I was elected by the junior class. We have a great class, and I will do my best to deserve the honor of being an officer."

Merle's activities include being circulation manager for The Times; vice-president of her Lutheran church group, Seganeet; reserve cheerleader; and first flutist in the orchestra and band.

French, English, U.S. history, and physics are Merle's subjects this year.

"I CONSIDER being an officer of the junior class about the greatest honor I could receive. I believe the class is very well off financially due to the co-operation of the members of the class and the sponsors, said Dick McGaw, secretary-treasurer.

Dick is on the college course taking physics, Latin, speech, English, and developmental reading.

Hi-Y; Wranglers; safety council; Lettermen's; service; tennis; and 36 Workshop, of which he is sergeant-at-arms, claims Dick's spare time.

Future plans for Dick include a career in law with a college education possibly at Indiana University.

COMMENTING on his honor, Win Moses said, "I am very pleased and surprised to be elected chairman of the social council and would like to thank all the fine people who voted for me."

English, U.S. history, physics, solid geometry, and developmental reading fill the school day for Win. Hi-Y, football, and track claim his time outside of school hours.

Win plans to be an engineer and may attend Michigan State.

"I AM SURPRISED but happy to have a part in planning the junior activities," commented Dan Tritch, member of the social council. Dan is on the Archer football team and par-

36 Workshop Holds Officers' Meeting

"An important meeting for officers and sponsors of 36 Workshop will be conducted today at 3:30 p.m. in Room 30, and all officers should attend this meeting. We will discuss the problems of 36 Workshop," said Carol Lockwood, president.

The Freshman Talent Show was the program of September 26. The master of ceremonies of the program was Phil Spray. The freshmen that presented the talent show were Elaine Edwards, Sarah Finch, and Barb Spiers, who played solos on the piano; a skit was given by Diane Frederick, Sally Bash, Becky Baughman, and Karen Simmons; "How Ruby Played," a declamation, was given by Aletha Staight. Brenda Dull tap danced to the song "You're an Old Smoothie." The conclusion of the program was a pantomime of the record "Barefoot" given by Elizabeth Hostetler.

PG Request Card Deadline Nov. 14

Students who wish to take less than the regular load of subjects in their post graduate year next semester are to see Mr. Ora Davis, guidance director, for a request card. If he approves the request an approval slip will be sent to your homeroom teacher.

A student not having this permission is to carry on a normal program. The request cards are to be in by midterm, November 14, with permission by Mr. Davis.

Movies To Be Shown

Five movies are scheduled to be shown in the very near future. Tomorrow the biology classes will see "Amoeba," "Bacteria," and "Paramecium." Health students will be shown "Endocrine Glands" and "There Is No Substitute" next Wednesday.

KYC's To Discuss Wabash, Erie Canals

"A discussion on the Wabash and Erie canals will be led by Carol Lehman, Virginia Adkison, and Pat Brown at the next meeting of the Know-Your-City Club," said Ellen McCarron, president. The meeting next Tuesday is in Room 110. Refreshments and entertainment will follow the discussion.

Eight Seniors Announced As Semifinalists Winners In National Merit Scholarship Test Of 479,000

BRAINS PAY OFF—Seven finalists competing in the Nationalist Merit Scholarship Tests received grades of 99 per cent. All will have the chance to compete in future tests which offer scholarships to many colleges and universities. Left to right, first row: Alice Houk, Mary Sue Robertson, and Sharon Ruhl; second row: Mike Simmons and Mike Gilsdorf; third row: John Shanahan. Ed Hartman was absent when the picture was taken. (Picture by DeHaven)

Eight seniors have been named semi-finalists in the 1958-59 National Merit Scholarship competition. They are Michael Gilsdorf, Edwin Hartman, Alice Houk, Mary Sue Robertson, Sharon Ruhl, John Shannahan, Michael Simmons, and Judith Walter.

The semi-finalists named today outscored over 479,000 classmates, and thus moved a step closer to an estimated $5 million in Merit Scholarships to be awarded in the 1958-59 program. The group of 10,000 semi-finalists is composed of the highest scorers in each state, pro-rated according to state population.

THE SEMI-FINALISTS now face another rigorous three-hour examination, the Scholastic Aptitude Test of the College Entrance Examination Board, which will further substantiate their high scores on the NMSQT. This second test will be given in testing centers throughout the United States on December 5. Those who repeat their high scores on this second test will become finalists in the competition.

John M. Stalnaker, president of National Merit Scholarship Corporation, which conducts the annual program, predicts that over 95 per cent of the semi-finalists will get past the second hurdle—the December 6 examination—and become finalists.

AS FINALISTS, the students will be eligible for an estimated $5 million in scholarship awards sponsored by over 80 business and industrial organizations, professional societies, foundations, individuals, and the National Merit Scholarship Corporation itself, the conductor of the annual nationwide competition.

About May 1, at least 735 students will be named the Merit Scholars of 1959.

All finalists will receive Certificates of Merit attesting to their high ability; and all colleges and universities will be notified, thus enabling these students to be considered for a wide range of other scholarship awards.

Each Merit Scholarship is a four-year award covering the four undergraduate college years, and each award carries a stipend tailored to the need of the individual winner. The stipends have been averaging about $650 a year. Minimum awards, for students who have been determined to have no financial need, are $100 a year; and maximum awards, for students who have been determined to have maximum need, are $1,500 a year.

MERIT SCHOLARS make their own choice of college and are free to choose any course of study leading to one of the usual baccalaureate degrees.

The colleges chosen by the Merit Scholars also receive cost-of-education grants ranging to $500 per year to help defray the actual cost of educating the students.

Over 2,300 of the nation's most able students are now holding Merit Scholarships at some 325 colleges. Nearly one million high school students have been tested in the massive talent hunts.

The competition is open to students in any public, private, or parochial high school in the United States and its possessions.

October 15 Meeting Of Vesta Cancelled

"Because of the large number of new members in the home economics club, Vesta, the October 15 meeting will be cancelled," announced Mrs. Robert Gernand, the sponsor.

In such a short time, a new program could not be prepared, but Vesta will assume its regular meetings, Wednesday, October 29.

Cyclotron Club Getting Organized

"We have been and still are getting organized," said Mr. Louie Hull, adviser for the Cyclotron Club. "We are choosing and appointing chairmen at present," he said.

A meeting will be held Tuesday, October 14, at 3:30 p.m. in the Cyclotron Room. The club also meets every Saturday morning at 9 a.m.

Each week a report is given by one of the members. Mechanical pumps and repairing wiring are just two of the many things that members are working on. In this club, about 24 members have joined to date. All students are invited to attend this meeting.

Safety Council In Room 182 Today

A report on the meeting with the heads of the safety councils from the city high schools at the Chamber of Commerce will be given by Joan Littlejohn, president of the Safety Council, at its meeting today at 3:30 p.m. in Room 182.

Committees and committee chairmen will be announced at this meeting.

Judy Anderson Chosen For Belles Of Indiana

Judy Anderson was recently selected to be a member of the Belles of Indiana of Indiana University.

The Belles of Indiana are a carefully selected group of campus girls who have outstanding ability in vocal work. This choir also conducts several tours throughout the year.

Out of the 425 students that auditioned for the Belles of Indiana, Judy was one of the final 36 chosen to be a member of the choir.

Judy was also hired as a paid alto soloist for the Sunday morning services at the First Methodist Church.

To obtain toys for the children at the Fort Wayne State School, the Junior Red Cross will collect toys from South Siders and others, from October 8 to 15.

It is the desire of the Junior Red Cross that South Siders will contribute to this drive. Toys are to be taken to the contributor's homeroom, where they will be picked up by a Junior Red Cross representative. This drive is similar to the Lettermen's Food Drive carried on during the Christmas Season.

TOYS CONTRIBUTED do not have to be in excellent condition, neither do they have to be recently bought. The only requirement is that they be useful enough to be played with.

After the toys are collected from the homerooms, they will be taken to a storage room, where they will be cleaned, repaired, and painted by members of the Junior Red Cross.

"It is anticipated that all Archers will realize how lucky they are, compared to these children, and that they will feel it in their hearts to give something," stated Red Cross president, Susan Hoard.

Service Club Potluck

All service workers, including those who work before school, at noon, and after school, are urged to attend the annual Service Club Potluck October 16.

Service Banquet To Be Held Oct. 16

In order to award the Randolph Jacob's Cup again this year, the Service Club Banquet will be held October 16, 6 p.m. to 8 p.m., in the cafeteria.

For all interested students who do service, the price is either 25 cents and a food dish, or one dollar. A food list is in Mr. Ora Davis' guidance office for those who want to bring a dish for potluck to sign.

Susie Holmes, general chairman, announced that the theme of the program would emphasize fall. Other chairmen are Patty Arnold, program; Kathy Dunigan, program cover; Sue Brenn, decoration; Sara Hindman, invitations; Ruth Ann Farlow, publicity; Dave Dunstone, toastmaster; Stan Hoover, clean-up; Marie Hilsmier, serving; and Janet Gareiss.

Oct. 25 Roto Section To Feature Times

"We selected your paper to be used for the story because of the fine awards it has received, such as the Quill and Scroll award," stated Marjorie Barnhart, editor of the Roto, the Saturday night supplement of the News-Sentinel. In the October 25 issue of the Roto, a story will appear telling about the writing ,editing, and publishing of the South Side Times.

On September 25, Ed Blair, a photographer on the staff of the News-Sentinel, was in the Times room taking pictures to be used with the story. Roger Doran will write the story that will be printed in Roto.

Grades To Be Issued

The Times acknowledges a mistake made in the last issue. The grade period ends tomorrow and U and cards will be issued Tuesday.

17 Totems Purchased At Start Of Campaign

Order Must Be Taken By Oct. 23 To Engrave Name On Yearbook

Seventeen Totem subscriptions were turned in Monday, the first day of the campaign. Exactly 1,333 Totems must be sold before October 23 to insure publication of the 1959 Totem.

The Totem may be ordered by paying the full $3 or by making a down payment of 50 cents. One must subscribe during the campaign and pay the full $3 by December 12 to have his name embossed on the Totem cover.

Underclass pictures will be taken October 15 and 16. These pictures will be taken during the English period by the National School Studio in Room 114. The charge for having underclass pictures in the Totem is 35 cents.

The money for the Totem and the money for having pictures put in the Totem can be paid to any homeroom agent.

Oct. 31 Deadline For Senior Pictures

"Any senior who has not made an appointment to have his senior picture taken should do so immediately," says Alice Weddle, editor of the 1959 Totem.

Only three weeks remain for seniors to have their picture taken and have it appear in the Totem. Clippinger Studio reports that a total of 120 seniors still have not made appointments for picture sittings.

October 31 is the deadline and all pictures must be taken by that day.

Upper, Underclassmen Study Hounds; Take Time Out At Noon To Cram

Have you ever heard of time out for studying? These four Archers above take time in and time out for studying. In other words, they study all the time.

Diane Fredericks, Crissie Ferguson, Dan Tritch, and Tom Ogles all seem to be homework-hounds. They are taking the advice of South Side graduates, which is to put it simply: study!

Diane Fredericks, a Freshman B, did not get lost in any one particular spot when she came over here for the first time. She was lost everywhere! She seems to be alright now for she finds her classrooms which are Latin, algebra, English, and biology. These all come under the category of the college preparatory course.

Diane's favorite sport in the summer is water-skiing, and her favorite one in the winter varies with the season. Right now it is football, but soon it will be basketball! Diane also finds time for 36 Workshop, Wranglers, and The Times. She is a feature and news writer on the staff. Diane's first impression of South was that it was wonderful. She thinks as much of our football team as she does of South.

TOM OGLES, a Sophomore B, came from Gibson City Grade School in Illinois. He thinks that the courses offered is much better than it is in a lot of other places. Tom is on the college course taking English, Spanish, geometry, general history, and gym. Workshop and Designers' Associated are his activities. His hobbies are woodworking and art. He likes to plan and make wood projects. Football seems to be his favorite sport. Hi sopinion of the team is that they are doing fine and will pick up even more as the season rolls along. The thing that appeals to Tom Ogles the most is the friendly Archers at South. Tom remarked, "Without friends you have practically nothing."

THE UNDER-UPPERCLASSMAN in our midst is Dan Tritch, Junior B. Dan is another one who is on the college course taking U.S. history, physics, solid geometry, and English. He is also active in Lettermen's. One of his hobbies is amateur radio work for he has a ham radio set. Varsity football is his main interest during the fall. His position is right guard.

LAST BUT NOT least, we have a senior with curls who goes by the name of Crissie Ferguson. She is on the college course taking English, chemistry, French, and government. Secretary of 36 Workshop takes up much of her time, along with Service, Philo, The Times, and The Totem, of which she is freshman editor.

Hobbies she enjoys are postcard collecting and junk collecting. Junk collecting to Crissie is picking up odds and ends wherever she goes. One of her most interesting experiences is her adventure at International Walther League Conference this past summer at Miami University, Oxford, O. She believes everyone should support our footbal land basketball teams whether they win or lose.

STUDY, STUDY!—That seems to be the attitude taken by these Archers, for they are even studying during their lunch period. Sophomore and freshman studying in the front row are Diane Frederick and Tom Ogles. Crissie Ferguson, senior, and Dan Tritch, junior, are cramming in the top row. (Picture by Seaman)

Posy's Pointers

By Posy Weilemann

Dear Reader,
I have a problem. I don't seem to be getting through to you, because I haven't received many letters from you. If I don't get enough letters, I can't get my column in on time, and if it isn't in on time, I won't get to write it anymore. What can I do? Please send me a pointer.

Posy

Dear Posy,
I have a twin, and we both like the same boy. He also likes both of us. How can I eliminate my sister from the picture? I'm desperate and if you don't answer soon, I may have to take drastic measures!

The Other Half

Dear Other Half,
If you get the Journal-Gazette, read "Long Sam." She has a similar problem.

Posy

Dear Posy,
I am dating several boys which I like. One of them has asked me to go steady. I've dated him the longest and like him a little bit more than the others. I do not approve of going steady myself, but if I refuse him he won't date me anymore. I want to date all of them. What can I possibly do?

Bewildered

Dear Bewildered,
This is a decision that only you can answer. If you don't believe in going steady, then stick to your guns and don't let him force you into it.

Posy

Dear Posy,
I have a very pressing problem. I have my eye on a boy who speaks and acts very friendly toward me, but he has never asked me out. I have used all my charms and alluring powers on him, but I don't think I'm making much progress. I'm dying to go out with him! He is as dense as a London fog. What shall I do?

Tootsie

Dear Tootsie,
If you belong to a club, church group, or any other school or outside activities, ask him to one of your social events. If he goes and doesn't ask you out later himself, I would give up.

Posy

Dear Posy,
This problem may not be very serious, but it is bothering me very much. I have some very good friends that I like very much, but they smoke. I can't stand to smoke, so when they light up a weed I refuse to. They don't seem to like it very much. What can I do to make these girls realize that I don't mind if they smoke, but I wish they wouldn't insist that I do?

Smoked Out

Dear Smoked Out,
This seems to be a common problem among different groups of teenagers. Don't let this bother you. Stick to what you think is right. Just because they have the habit doesn't mean you have to get it.

Posy

———

(If you have a problem for Posy, please send it to Posy in care of The Times or to 1245 W. Rudisill.)

P.S. from PENNY

By Penny Hunt

South Side High School
October 9, 1958

Bonjour, mes amis!

And, how are you? My, how the days are rolling by. Thanksgiving is rapidly approaching. Can't you just taste that turkey and pumpkin pie? Yummmmmmm!!

Will the hula-hoop craze never cease? Teachers have gotten the bug, or rather hoop, too. Miss Luse put on quite an exhibition of the art for some students. Maybe we ought to have a student vs. faculty match.

Just what does "nuh" mean? The boys around school use it for almost everything.

You've all heard of the saying, "An apple a day keeps the doctor away," but what about "A raw egg a day keeps the doctor away"? Sounds a little odd, doesn't it? You never can tell 'cuz Pam Holtzberg seems to approve of it, or else why did she bring a raw egg for lunch and crack it open while eating at Miller's? Was that ever a mess!

I wonder if Mike McCoy is the tallest boy at Northwestern. He'd be hard to beat.

We seem to be having a minor epidemic of colds and flu. Who will be next?

If it's not one thing it's another, just ask Hoy McConnell. First he dislocated his shoulder playing football, then he sprained his ankle.

"Rain, rain go away,
Or the football team won't play—except in the mud!"

I'm sure everyone knows what a sacroiliac is. Mike Millikan dislocated his during the North-South football game. How's yours been lately? If you don't happen to know what it is, dictionaries are always available.

Why do we have green blackboards? Because South Side's colors are green and white, that's why.

Something's fishy here! Why did Bob Mann, Hoy McConnell, Steve Smith, Bob Keegan, and Mike Simmons always happen to get at the same table in the library? Miss Price seems to have figured out a solution. Were the boys ever surprised to receive table slips with their names typed on them, placing each at opposite ends of the room!

Is South Side cloudy or is Sharon Probst just in a daze? Sharon wandered in the wrong room and didn't even notice it. She practically had to be dragged out!

Gene Crum must have taken Dale Carnegie's course on how to be a powerful speaker because he certainly is "powerful"! While giving a talk in speech class Gene dramatically pounded the lectern and split it in half.

Real or not real, that is the question! Are Kay Augspurger's and Linda Wightman's tans authentic?

Well, I really must run—

Au revoir!

P.S.—See you at the football game tomorrow night!

Alumni News

By Sue Brenn

Joyce Purk, '52, received a certificate of psychiatric nursing at recent commencement exercises of the University of Tennessee medical units. Joyce plans to return to Parkview Memorial Hospital in October.

The engagement of Rosalie Ann Sheline, '55, to William Charles Hurst has been announced by her parents. Rosalie, a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma Sorority, is a senior at Indiana University. This fall she is doing student teaching in Fort Wayne. William, a graduate of Broad Ripple High School, is also a senior at Indiana. He is a member of Beta Theta Pi Fraternity. The wedding will be next June following the couple's graduation from Indiana University.

The marriage of Richard J. Bauer, '53, to Miss Barbara L. Olson took place September 6 in the Bethany Lutheran Church with the Rev. C. G. Shira officiating. Dick is a senior at Purdue University, and Miss Olson attended Indiana University Center and is employed by the Lincoln Life Insurance Company.

Doris Jean Smith, '52, and Robert E. Fensby were married October 4 by Doris' father, the Rev. Vern O. Smith. Robert was graduated from Central High School and is an employee of the Tokheim Corp. Doris is employed at Phelps-Dodge Copper Prod. Corp.

Thomas J. Oyer, '58, has enlisted in the Marines for four years. Under the 120-day delay program, Thomas will leave for active duty on November 19.

John Robinson, '57, and Lucy Van Horn, '57, have been given Service Awards at the Indiana University Center in Fort Wayne. The awards are granted to graduates of the Fort Wayne Community Schools, and they allow the students, who are recommended by their principals, to exchange service for fees.

Kirk Newell, '56, will portray the role of Payne in the Purdue University production of "Mister Roberts." The play will be presented October 10, 11, 16, 17, and 18 in the Hoeb Playhouse in the new memorial center of the University. Kirk is a junior in the School of Science, Education, and Humanities.

Michael Parrott, '58, is enrolled in the freshman class at Carleton College.

Charles Schwantz, '57, will serve as counselor in a residence hall at Indiana University for the current school year.

Elizabeth G. Moore, '57, has resumed her studies at Penn Hall Junior College and Preparatory School, Chambersburg, Pa. She is a member of the second-year class in the Junior College Department.

Homeroom Highlights

Marijo Edwards, Editor

Homeroom 108 welcomes George Wilkin back to school after suffering through four days of shots and stitches. George was bitten by a dog, and as a result of this, had to have eight stitches . . . During the summer, Bob Weiss and his family took a trip to Florida. While they were there, they saw Miami, Miami Beach, and Daytona Beach. They also visited several other places of interest.—John Wightman, reporter

The news from Homeroom S-2 is . . . Sherry Hall, Trudy Estep, and Diane Hall spent their summer vacation at the lake . . . Brenda Harper went to the West Coast in August . . . Mark Hagerman spent quite a bit of time at Clear Lake cutting down trees. He was getting in condition for the football season . . . Other freshman football team members besides Mark are Jack Harter and Larry Gerig . . . George Gosherf and Jerry George were not trying to break into a car at Azar's the other evening. They only locked themselves out of their own car . . . Richard Dobson says he has a new nephew, and he hopes he will be like him.—Brenda Harper, reporter

Homeroom 162 had a busy summer . . . Tom Cooper spent his vacation typing in summer school and playing his clarinet in the Summer Festival at Franke Park. He also acquired a rare pet from Frankie Park, a Red Tailed Hawk. A month of his vacation was spent at Lake Michigan. We are proud of Tom who now is playing the sax for the Silhouettes . . . Nick Demetre played baseball on the Indiana-Michigan team and went to Michigan . . . The Mackinac Bridge, Sault Ste. Marie, and Niagara Falls were the destinations of Ron Flickinger. He also enjoyed two weeks at Lake Webster . . . Barb Collier spent a week at Lake George, a week at Wawasee, and the rest of the summer at Skinner Lake (I guess one lake wasn't good enough for her) . . . Steve Druart spent a week at Clear Lake skiing behind his new boat and entering boat races. He also went out for football . . . Basking in Florida for two weeks at Jacksonville Beach was quite an experience for Barb Dennis. She also worked at a summer camp in Howe, Ind. . . . Carol Dehnert went to Lake Erie . . . Sam DeHaven enjoyed his summer at Lake James . . . We would like to welcome to South Side Tom Dougherty, Dave Cocine, and Larry Cooper. Tom came from North Side. He attended summer school and works at the Grand Leader. Dave is from Troy High School in Troy, O. This summer he worked at Eavey's and played softball for the Third Presbyterian Church. Auburn was Larry Cooper's home until this summer. They are all on the college course.—Margo Dixon, reporter

There are 31 people in our Homeroom 146. They come from James Smart, Harrison Hill, Abbett, St. Peter's Catholic, and other parochial schools. Our main feature this week is Diane Fredricks and Tom Frazel. Diane is 14 years old. She is our Times agent and her main hobby is water skiing. She is an excellent skier due to the fact that she practices all the time at the lake. She belongs to Wranglers and also to 36 Workshop. Her pet peeves are her two younger brothers . . . Idea on the sack dress: "I really like the sack dress, although some aren't too hot" . . . All about Tom Frazel now. Tom is 13 years old. His hobbies are cars and old coins. He spent his vacation in Ohio, and says he had a rather routine summer. He has no pet peeves. His favorite subject is algebra. His interests vary, but they center on basketball.—Diane Gebhard, reporter

Homeroom 150 welcomes Caroline Baughman to South Side. Caroline attended Union Center in Zanesville. She is on the college preparatory course. She is taking Latin, English, gym, geometry, and history. Her outside activity is Vesta . . . The homeroom elected officers, chairman, Bob Bradfield; vice-chairman, Valerie Callahan; secretary-treasurer, Bonnie Brenn . . . Lately Bob Bolyard's and John Biteman's desks have been moving around. I wonder why?—Sharon Bricker, reporter

Archers Give Ideas On Modern School

What do Archers think the modernized school of the next century will be like? Here are some of their answers.

Molly Dixon—7 Up in the drinking fountains, dancing in the halls, and snack bars in the class rooms.

Dianne Reiff—Elevators instead of ramps and robots for teachers.

Dave Dunstone—Little cars running on electronic cables, television instead of textbooks, and no teachers.

Linda Meyers—Drive-in schools where you hear the teacher way up front and give answers through speakers.

Bob Bolyard—Atomic powered teachers.

Diane Irmscher—There will be an automatic Times paperfolder.

Kathie Sosinski—Hall to hall carpets that continually move so you won't use all your energy running to and from the gaily colored rooms.

Denny Payne—"Mad," "Dig," and "Motor Trend" will be the textbooks, Alfred E. Newmen and Mr. Meridian will be members of the faculty, and classes will be held in a glass school.

Susie Slick—Record players going full blast and record hops instead of classes. Also, classes will be held with your boy friend.

Mike Lehman—I don't know!

Carol Salaka—Football games in the gym, other than that they'll be the same.

Ann Kierns—Corridors will be open air, machines will create sunshine, and classes will be held outside.

Mike Carter Makes Music His Hobby, Plays Clarinet, Sax

Music seems to be the main point of interest in Mike Carter's life. Mike, a freshman, has made the study of instrumental music his hobby for the past few years.

Mike has studied music since he was nine years old and has concentrated on the mastery of the B-flat clarinet and the tenor saxaphone. He has received vocal instruction and participated in the Harrison Hill Choir and in several special programs. Mike's attention is centered on the playing of the instrument rather than on vocal instruction. By being in the South Side Band he is ineligible for the Freshman Chorus. He regrets this, but it makes it possible for him to devote more time to the study of playing his instrument.

Mike is quite an outstanding musical student and this is attested by the many medals he has won during the past several years. For the past three years he has attended the Northern Indiana School Band, Orchestra and Vocal Association held at Harrison Hill School. The NISBOVA has been held annually for several years and is a contest of skill in the instrumental field.

It is open to all junior and senior high students. An entrance fee of $1.50 is required and the students are rated by superior, excellent, good, and fair standards. Only the students who rate either superior or excellent receive medals. Mike won ten of these medals; five superior and five excellent medals in the short time of three years. Another contest open to junior high students is the one at Greenville, Indiana. Within the two years he has attended this, he has earned five medals; three superior and two excellent.

LAST SUMMER Mike attended special musical instruction classes held here at South Side which were conducted by Mr. John Broom. Mike had also taken from Mr. Broom in the 7th and 8th grades.

Outside of his musical studies Mike also finds time for other activities. He is quite interested in swimming and his skill in this sport has enabled him to compete in several YMCA swimming contests. He is an "All American" type and participates in track, tennis and archery. In addition to being outstanding in music and sports, we find that Mike is also a good student, his particular interest here lies in chemistry.

With so many fields from which to choose it would appear that Mike should have no difficulty in planning his future after graduation. However, at the present time he has not fully decided which of his "talents" he will pursue.

Supposin'

The Concert Choir sang only rock and roll.

Archers were issued a pack of hall passes signed by Mr. Snider.

Girls were admitted to the after-game dances in slacks and Bermudas.

The drinking fountains were connected to vats of Coke.

Girls understood football.

There was no rivalry between Central and South.

Roller skating was allowed on the ramps.

Record hops were held every fifth period in the gym.

People actually went to the library to study.

The seats in the stadium were electronically heated.

South had an indoor swimming pool.

All the Times writers actually made their deadlines.

German and Russian were added to our foreign language slate.

There weren't any "No Passage" signs.

There was an agreed date when girls switch from summer to winter clothes.

There was a Bluffton Street Fair every week-end.

The schools went on the four-day week plan.

Gossip Brings Danger

I once heard a story about a pretty woman who moved into a small town with her two young children. Soon the whole town was buzzing with talk about her. She was too pretty, she didn't go out often or make friends, she let her children run around in the streets, and two or three men came to visit her each week.

One day the much-talked-about woman collapsed in the Post Office. The truth; she was dying of an incurable disease. She allowed her children to play in the streets so they couldn't see her suffer. The men that came to see her were the doctors and lawyers who were taking care of her estate before she died. If the thoroughly ashamed townsfolk had investigated before they gossiped, the woman and her children would have been much happier. In an example of this sort, the fact that the people talked about her made the woman afraid to confide in any new friends.

Gossip is also harmful to business. A rumor about an important business deal may leak out, ruining the whole proposition.

By the same token, gossip flies fast and furious at school. If you are one at fault, your friends may drop you; and others will shy away from that "cat with the big mouth."

One of gossip's biggest dangers is that a tidbit of idle gossip spreads like a forest fire. The result is often two unhappy people, the gossiper and the one gossiped about. By the time that it is discovered that the whole story was a big farce, the unfortunate person has seen and heard enough to turn him against the human race.

Why do people gossip? There are a few who are bitter and deliberately start false stories with the intent to hurt. Most people credit the urge to gossip to human nature. Perhaps people try to justify their own faults to themselves by enumerating the faults of others. Of course there are the minority who gossip for lack of anything better to do.

Most people are afraid to let go of the chains of conformity and do what they want because they are afraid people will talk about them. Anything out of the conventional style is picked apart by people who haven't the courage to do anything "drastic."

The next time you start to gossip about someone, remember the age-old adage, "People who live in glass houses shouldn't throw stones."

35 South Side Journalists Tour Newspaper Plant, Hear Speeches By Leading Men In Publishing Field

PICTURES BY WIRE — Times major staff and journalism students toured Fort Wayne Newspapers, Inc. last Wednesday. Here they are seeing the AP Wirephoto machine demonstrated. This machine transmits pictures of important news events from where they occur to the newspaper in a matter of seconds.

"If the daily newsprint consumption of Fort Wayne Newspapers, Inc., were placed on a map of the United States, it would extend from Fort Wayne to Pittsburgh, a distance of about 360 miles."

This was one of the gems of information gained by 35 South Side and 16 Central Catholic journalism students and staff members when they toured The News-Sentinel and The Journal-Gazette building last Wednesday in order to further knowledge and increase interest in newspaper publication.

In the composing room, news, which is relayed by tape and by electric impulses on linotype machines, is converted into metal type. Stereotypers make the flat metal page forms to adapt them to the presses. Lead plates are brought 130 feet from the stereotype room to the pressroom on an automatic floor conveyor.

Three stories high and 110 feet long, the press has a maximum speed of 52,000 copies of an 80-page paper per hour. Two black tanks contain 7,000 gallons of ink, which circulates automatically from tanks to press units. Ink mist is extracted from the air by four filter units. For additional protection against ink, grease, oil, and paper lint, the 22 pressmen wear snug, square, handmade paper hats, such as were worn in this country as early as 1748.

Time is saved by keeping three rolls of newsprint on the press. When one is used it can be replaced in a split second by a full roll.

# # #

NO OTHER newspaper in the United States stores its newsprint on the same level on which it is delivered. Three railroad cars can be unloaded simultaneously into the warehouse, which has a capacity of 80,000 pounds of newsprint. Each roll is 40 inches in diameter, 62 inches long, and weighs 1,800 pounds. The cots per ton has risen from $37 in 1950 to the present rate of $148.

Automatically taken off the press, the folded papers are conveyed by a series of rollers and wires to the mail room, where they are wrapped for distribution.

Other departments included in the tour were the accounting, advertising and dispatch, editorial, sports, and photography.

Lectures concerning the various phases of newspaper work prefaced the tour. Mr. Robert Adams, promotion manager of Fort Wayne Newspapers, Inc., introduced the four speakers.

# # #

QUALITIES OF good newspaper students, according to Mr. Herbert Miller, editorial editor, include curiosity, courage, and ability to get along with people. "I hope many of you will elect to stay with newspaper work," he added.

"A newspaper is the No. 1 advertising medium in the United States," declared Mr. William Good, classified ad manager of the Fort Wayne Newspapers, Inc. To reach the same number of people, a three column three inch ad would cost $4,169 in postal cards as compared to $31 in the newspaper. "A good ad produces good prospects."

Classified, local retail desplay, and national constitute the three types of advertising. "A school paper should use both classified and local detail display for best merchandising," Mr. Good concluded.

"Distribution is the last function before the newspaper reaches the reader," began Mr. Ralph Heckman, circulation manager. "Nothing is more worthless than yesterday's newspaper," he remarked. Approximately 140,000 copies are distributed over an area with a radius of 100 miles. Motor routes cover 6,000 miles daily and 10,000 miles on Sunday.

"The newspaper is the essential core of daily life of every community and person," stated Mr. Robert F. Johnson, business manager. "It is a reservoir of information and a panorama of life. Rumors confirmed by a newspaper are seldom questions. This illustrates the public's confidence in this medium."

At lunch in the modern cafeteria, a wide selection of food was offered to the guests.

ticipates in the Teens Aid Polio Board.

Dan is on the college course studying English, U.S. history, physics, and solid geometry.

Dan is uncertain as to his career plans but may enter the military service or pursue a career in medicine. West Point is Dan's first choice when selecting a college.

# # #

REALIZING she had actually been elected to an office, Barb Frederick remarked, "I am truly delighted to help represent such a great class. I will do my best." Barb is a member of the social council for the junior class.

Barb's college course subjects include English, U.S. history, solid geometry, Latin, and developmental reading.

Barb participates in 36 Workshop, in which she is co-prop chairman; Philo; is a bookhead on The Times; and is evangelism chairman of her Luther League.

Barb is studying to be an elementary school teacher and is planning to acquire her college education at Wittenberg College.

These officers will lead the junior class in planning the Junior Banquet and Junior Prom.

Sophomore Officers

In the recent election, the class of '61 chose Chris Parrott, Evilou North, Sheri DeYoung, Tom Duff, Dennis McBroom, and Molly Dixon to serve as their class officers.

Regarding his position as president, Chris Parrott expressed, "I am very pleased. By accepting this position I know many things are expected of me, and I will sincerely try to live up to the trust the sophomores have in me."

Chris is on the college course taking Latin 3, English 3, History 1, and Geometry 1. He is also quite active in athletics. He is a member of the track, football, and hockey teams.

When asked of his plans after being graduated from high school, Chris stated, "I plan to attend a small liberal arts college; but, at the present, I'm not sure what career I will enter."

# # #

THE SOPHOMORES felt Evilou North was the person to serve as vice-president of their class. "I wish to thank everyone who helped me receive an office. I truly hope I can live up to your expectations," she said, directing this statement to the sophs.

Evilou is a student of Spanish, general history, geometry, English, and modern dance. Being a member of the Luther League at her church, 36 Workshop, and Meterites occupies much of her spare time.

Evilou's plans for the future include a career in elementary teaching. Although she hasn't definitely decided upon the college she wishes to attend, Evilou stated, "Since both Ball State and DePauw have good training for teachers, I probably will attend one of them."

# # #

"IT REALLY WAS unexpected!" Sheri DeYoung exclaimed in regards to being elected secretary-treasurer. She also added, "I'm very happy, and I hope I can live up to the honor."

Sheri is a Sophomore A studying English 4, Spanish 3, dance, orchestra, Art 3, and Geometry 2. Concert orchestra, Vesta, modern dance, and Job's Daughters are all part of her extra-curricular activities.

When questioned about her future, Sheri replied, "I'd like to be a commercial artist or an art or English teacher. I plan to work on my degree at either Ball State or Indiana."

# # #

TOM DUFF, Sophomore A, was elected chairman of the social council. "I feel very honored as well as surprised knowing that the sophomores have chosen me to fill this important position," remarked Tom.

In the classroom, Tom Duff studies Latin, geometry, English, and history. Since football season is in full swing, Tom can also be found, in much of his spare time, on the football field.

In regards to future plans, Tom plans to attend college at Ball State or River Forest where he will major in school teaching.

# # #

MOLLY DIXON, social council member, expressed, "I think the sophomores are great, and I will do my best for them."

English, geometry, Spanish, history, and dance are all on Molly's classroom schedule. Outside of class, Molly is a member of Meterites, 36 Workshop, Times, rhythmic choir, and Pilgrim Fellowship.

"I have always wanted to be a model," Molly answers when querried about her future, "but would also like to be an airline stewardess," she added. Whatever she finally decides upon, Molly will work on a degree at DePauw University.

# # #

THE OTHER social council member elected by the sophomore class is Dennis McBroom. "Although this honor that I have received is really unexpected, I will try to do my best," Dennis expressed.

Dennis takes geometry, English, Latin, general history, developmental reading, and physical education. 36 Workshop, Intramural, Youth Group at the Christian Science Church, and DeMolay are all part of his extra-curricular activities.

After graduation Dennis plans to major in engineering at either Purdue or Miami.

Sophs To Perform For 36 Workshop

"A sophomore skit will be the program for 36 Workshop today at 3:30 p.m. in Room 114. This is the last meeting in which dues and membership will be accepted," explained Carol Lockwood, president.

The sophomores presenting the skit are Molly Dixon, Mary Jane Spindler, Diane Irmscher, Gretchen Meister, Leslie Malone, Jan Martindale, and Susie Slick. The remaining sophomores are Sylvia Ehrman, Pam Olson, Nancy Vanderford, Sue Pfeifer, Tom Ogles, and Jack Winder. At the next regular meeting the juniors will present the program. To conclude the series of class programs the talent will be the senior skit.

All students who are interested in planning for the Thanksgiving Assembly are asked to see Kate Rastetter.

Many Jobs Filled By Employment Cards

Mr. Ora Davis, guidance director, has been busy working with Student Employment Cards. He divides them up by hours that a student wishes to work, and the type of work he will do. Mr. Davis has already filled many jobs and states that the present need is for boys who will do yard work.

Mr. Davis is very careful in selecting a student. A student must be dependable, able to get along with others, and willing to work. He also has a list of places that he wouldn't send students to work because of past experiences with the employer. Mr. Davis wants the employer to be pleased with the student and the student to be pleased with the employer.

Traveling Science Library To Come To South Side

From now to November 4, from November 17-January 30, February 2-April 3, and April 6-June 5 are the periods in which the Traveling High School Science Library will come to South Side during the year.

Since Principal R. Nelson Snider's application for participation in the Traveling High School Science Library Program was accepted by the American Association for the Advancement of Science, 200 outstanding, evaluated, up-to-date "best seller" type books in sciences and mathematics will circulate to the school library from Washington, D. C.

The idea for this experimental program, aimed at interesting more students in scientific and technical careers, originated with National Science Foundation, an agency established to promote the progress of science.

This library will go to about 1,400 schools in every state in the Union, the Canal Zone, Puerto Rico, and to U.S. Army dependents' schools in France, Germany, Italy, and Okinawa.

Faculty Committee Introduce Addition

Mr. Ora Davis, guidance director, is chairman of a committee to introduce the new addition of our building to the students and the community.

Mrs. Alice Keegan, Miss Helen Pohlmeyer, Miss Lucy Mellen, and Mr. Wayne Scott are the other members of the committee.

The new addition will be completed by the beginning of next semester.

Archers Lose To Tigers On Last Period Fumble

Penalties, Mistakes Plague Team; No Score Until Closing Minutes

By Steve Rothberg

Trying to pull an upset in City Series competition, the South Side Archers attempted a fake punt in their own end zone in the closing minutes and fumbled, permitting Central's Bob Tilker to recover, and annex the game, 6-0, on the South Side gridiron last Friday.

It was a highly contested affair from beginning to end with play becoming a bit ragged at certain stages of the game.

Penalties were a key factor in the game with many 15-yarders being marched off against both teams, most of these being for unnecessary roughness and personal fouls as feelings rode high and often led to minor scuffles on the field.

FOR SOUTH SIDE, however, these penalizations came at precisely the wrong times. The Archers would drive into Tiger territory only to be called back for some infraction.

Fumbles were another disease which plagued the Green. They committed three costly fumbles which definitely had some bearing on the outcome. Central's staunt goal line defense also aided in holding the Green scoreless.

The first quarter saw both teams nervous and shaky with each committing mistakes. Early in the game, Neil Merias, Archer back, pounced on a Central fumble on the Green two-yard line.

The Archers got into trouble when Steve Gaskill fumbled on the 21. Sterling defensive play and a penalty forced Central to kick. Three plays later Kelly quarterback Steve Smith muffed the ball on the 27. Again the Bowmen defense, playing inspired ball, stopped the Bengal drive short.

IN THE SECOND stanza Bill Meyer, who played a terrific game throughout, Steve Gaskill, and Dick Tipton powered down to the Tiger three-yard stripe. With first down and goal to go, the Green, trying the shortest route to pay dirt, ran four plays into the center of the line, the climax coming when Tipton dove through the middle only to be held inches away from the score by a stalwart Central defense, led by big Percy Moore.

The half ended with both teams failing to score.

In the third period the Gernand crew again knocked on the door when from two and a half yards away on a fourth down situation fullback Tipton again tried the beefy part of the Blue's line and again was stopped less than a yard from six points.

The crucial point of the contest came in the final quarter when the Archers, deep in their own territory, faked a punt to go for the first down and a chance to pull it out of the fire.

FLEET BACK Bill Meyer, who was to run the pigskin, bobbled the ball and Bob Tilker recovered in the end zone for the game's only tally.

The Green ran into some hard luck as when Bill Meyer took the ensuing kickoff and made a brilliant run up the sidelines that would have gone for a touchdown, had it not been called back by the officials claiming Meyer had stepped out of bounds on the 30. On the next play from scrimmage Meyer went for 17 yards but again the men with the whistles called it back for going out of bounds.

Coach Bob Gernand, knowing time to be running out, called for passes, one of which was completed for six yards. Being rushed, Steve Smith threw a partially blocked pass that was intercepted. The Tigers, keeping the ball on the ground, were in control as the final buzzer sounded.

IT IS PLEASANT to note that Central's number one man, T. C. Williams, was held down considerably, a credit to the South Side defense which also looked its sharpest this year.

Once again sophomores were used with John Somers, Jim Dawson, and Tom Hertel giving commendable performances.

Bill Meyer was the game's outstanding player on offense, averaging 7½ yards per carry. Next came Steve Gaskill with 4½, and Dick Tipton getting just over four yards a carry.

Senior Tom Lerch, who sustained a minor injury during the game, was tops on defense making numerable bone-jarring tackles.

Had the punt play worked Coach Gernand might have become the biggest hero on the squad. Since it failed, however, he will now have to take that second guessing that always comes when a strategic maneuver goes the wrong way.

South Side

Ends: Roth, Lude, King, Duncan.

Tackles: Hertel, Berk, Dawson, Olinske, Bowen.

Guards: Howe, White, Spindler, Leininger, Gifford.

Centers: White, Sutter.

Backs: Lerch, Meyer, Merias, Smith, Raines, Somers, Johnson, Tipton, Gaskill, Moses.

Scoring by quarters:

Central	0	0	0	6	—6

Central scoring: Touchdown — recovered fumble in end zone.

S. O. S.

Schmitz On Sports

Well, who'd ever think that a recovered fumble in the end zone would spell the difference for the same team twice in four games? But it did happen to South Side, only the first time the outcome was by far more pleasing to Archer rooters.

If you can recall, the Archers scored the winning TD against Shortridge in the home opener by Ken Howe's recovering Steve Gaskill's fumble. Last week the Archers again fumbled on the goal line, but instead of dropping the ball in foreign territory, the Kellys lost the pigskin in their own end zone, opening the gates for Bob Tilker to convert the fumble into the Tigers' first and only touchdown.

From the stands it seemed as if punter Carl Johnson became confused and faked a pass instead of a punt. When the Tigers saw Johnson cock his throwing arm they began rushing in and then the fumble gave Central the golden opportunity with a horde of defensemen in on the ball by this time.

* * *

Last week I criticized the Archer fans for not supporting their team as rabidly as they had in the home contest against Shortridge. Well, the Kelly supporters came right back last week and gave the grid team staunch support with their yells. The only drawback from the cheering was the fact that the "Cheerleaders" didn't lead the fans in the cheers but rather flew from their perches on the rail when the stands began to chant rigorously to follow the ardent Archer rooters.

On defense Jim Dawson continued his fine work but this week received able assistance from consistent Joe Roth, who was all over his side of the field on defense. Dick Tipton, back of the week last week, proved that he was worthy of the honor as he continued his brilliant work from his fullback spot.

Turning to cross country developments around the city. Fast-improving freshman Henry King of Central once again shocked harrier fans in the area by recording the lowest time of the season, 9:33.6, in upsetting Steve Hibler by two-tenths of a second. The loss was Hibler's first in two campaigns.

Not only was King's performance enlightening to Central Coach Pete Williams, but his next two boys, Nate Harrison and Onofre Gutierrez finished under the 10:00 barrier!

South's rapidly and steadily improving cross country squad got a shot in the arm when Gus Wade and Larry Fruchey displayed definite improvement to bolster the Kelly team. Gus made note that he can be counted on to give the Archers that added punch in their remaining meets and in the upcoming Sectionals.

On the other hand the Kellys' harrier coach, Mr. Holt, received a letdown when Fruchey, Al Rainbolt, and Sam Green became sick briefly last week, but all three are back in action this week.

* * *

Looking ahead on the Archers' grid picture, I noticed three interesting developments involving Big Ten powerhouses last week end. Michigan fooled the experts by jumping to an early lead and holding on to earn a tie in their contest—the first Big Ten Conference tilt—with Michigan State. The Spartans were ranked fourth in the nation, but their neighbors contained the Lansing crew's normally potent offensive charge.

Lookin ahead on the Archers' grid schedule, I feel free to say that the Kellys will not have an easy time of it against Mississinewa Friday night as they did the last season. Mississinewa dropped their first game in five tries Friday night to Portland, the same team that stopped Royerton's long winning skein.

* * *

"Have fans, will travel" should be the Archer grid squad's answer to hosting opponents; so give the team a big following on this week's road trip to Mississinewa.

Mural Men

The Mighty Mouses rolled over the Tumblers, 47-0, last week in football. Tom Doty passed to Tony Sedivy for the first touchdown, and Steve Zimmerman passed to Doty for the extra point. Tom passed to Dick Colpetzer and Dick Hutchinson for the next touchdown and extra point. A spot pass to Don Dickey resulted in the next touchdown. The fourth touchdown came on a pitchout to Don Dickey, and to Ken Robinson for the extra point. Tom, by now a hero, recovered a Tumbler fumble, for another TD. Dick Hutchinson then intercepted a pass and ran it back for a touchdown. Doty passed to Dickey for the extra point. Tom concluded the scoring by passing to Steve Zimmerman and Dick Colpetzer for the last touchdown and extra point.

The Peapickers defeated the Pigskin Poppers, 34-0. Steve Weiss passed to Fred Leakey for the first touchdown and to Tom Martin for the extra point. He threw to Leakey and Martin again for the second TD and extra point. He hit Leakey a third time for a touchdown but couldn't make the extra point. Leakey ran around end for the next touchdown and extra point. A few minutes later he finished up the scoring going around the opposite end for the last touchdown and extra point.

The Wild Childs defeated the Peapickers in a real thriller, 7-6. The Pickers picked up their points on a pass from Fred Leakey to Tom Martin. The Childs got their touchdown on a pass from Joe Harper to Dick Adamonis for the touchdown. They were able to score the important extra point on a fine end run.

The Moon Men defeated the Weasels in an overtime game, 2-1. Perry Schlie accounted for both points for the winners with passes to Dave Miller and Bob Higgins. Chuck Putt passed to Don Uetrecht for the lone Weasel's point.

The fall tennis and horseshoe tourney was held Saturday, September 27, at Packard Park. Ron Heathman copped the lightweight title. He defeated Gary Leips in the championship round. On his way to the final round he defeated Ray Lora, 4-0; Bruce Folte, 4-2; and Fred Schoen, 6-0.

Larry Christman captured the middleweight championship, defeating Dennis Truitt, 6-0, in the final round. On his way up he defeated Howard Miller, 4-4; Bill Zehender, 4-0; and Jeff Baker, 4-0.

Perry Schlie won the heavyweight title by way of two victories. He defeated Jim Vanderford in the first round, 4-1. He defeated Wendell Rose in the championship round, 6-2. Rose in turn had beaten Tom Schwartz, 4-0.

Vaughn Correll won the lightweight horseshoe championship in the final round from Loren Hinderer, 15-8, 8-15, 15-10. Vaughn made his way up by defeating Jon Bill, 15-3, 15-4; Bob Rodocker, 15-3; and Max Allen, 15-2, 15-4.

Max VanFossen is the middleweight horseshoe champ. He edged out Ron Zigler in the final round, 15-11, 6-15, 15-9. On his way to the championship round, he defeated Jeff Baker, 15-4, 15-2; and Lewis Troop, 15-1, 15-9.

Wendell Rose won the heavyweight horseshoe tournament, 15-12, 15-10. He defeated Perry Schlie, 16-1, 15-4, in the first round. Then he went on to defeat Jim Vanderford, 15-12, 15-10 in the championship round. Vanderford in turn had defeated Tom Schwartz, 15-11, 15-11.

Cross Country Downs Wabash By 22-23 Score

Edwin Hartman Takes First As Archers Win Third Straight

By sweeping the first three places, the South Side harriers easily downed their host, Wabash, by a 22-33 score.

The meet was staged at Wabash, Ind., on a rainy, cold September 30 as the South Side cross country team walked off with their third consecutive triumph in the past two weeks, although they met one of the more excellent squads the state has to offer.

THE FINAL SCORE was 22-33, but the times of many Archer harriers were not their best on that wet, steep course.

Gus Wade, however, made an impressive gain and Dave Conine, a new addition to the squad, showed his worth to the Archers.

As the race progressed, Tom Eckhart, the fine Wabash two-miler, gained the lead and maintained his position until approximately three-quarters of a mile was remaining. At this time, the Archer runners, Edwin Hartman, Al Rainbolt, and Sam Green showed their excellent abilities as they sprinted to a fine finish in one-two-three position.

THE TEAM FELT that they had met good competition and excellent sportsmanship from both teams. The first seven places were as follows: Hartman (S.S.), Rainbolt (S.S.), Green (S.S.), Eckhart (W.), Bahlar (W.), Wade (S.S.), Wade (W.) — 10:08.

C.C. Defeats Freshmen, 28-6

Ken Robinson Scores Only Kelly Touchdown

A spirited and surprisingly tough Central Catholic team bowled over South Side's freshman squad by a 28-6 score at the South Side Stadium last Thursday night.

The Kelly's ineptness to cover the ends was a vital factor in C.C.'s decisive victory in the rough contest. The Archers' lone touchdown came in the third quarter when Ken Robinson sprinted 65 yards to the end marker.

AS THE GAME began the Green and White was seen kicking off and defending the north goal. C.C. received the ball on the 40-yard line and through a series of end runs and plunges through the line managed to reach the goal line in 15 plays which took up the entire first period.

The same spectacular play was seen in the second quarter as the fighting Irish barreled through for two more touchdowns that made the score 21-0 at the midway point.

In the second half, South Side's fumbles proved costly, for C.C. drove for another touchdown. Once with the Irish on the 5-yard line with first down and goal to go, the C.C. passer found an open man in the end zone and completed a pass for the touchdown.

THROUGH THE Archers' mistakes came a bright spot when Ken Robinson sprinted from his own 35-yard line for the Green and White's only score.

On the whole the game was very rough. The frosh squad suffered a few minor injuries, and one Irish team member was asked to leave the game for unnecessary roughness.

Scoring:

South Side	0	0	6	0	—6
Central Catholic	7	14	0	7	—28

Sue Kuroski Wins Tennis Tournament

Sue Kuroski defeated Judy Garrison, 6-1, 6-2, for the tennis tournament championship in GAA held at Weisser Park on September 31. The girls received 100 and 75 GAA points, respectively, for participating.

Ten girls entered the tournament. The participants were to meet their opponents before cold weather. They had to furnish their own equipment and a scorekeeper to record the plays.

In the first round, Jeannette Lynn overcame Gretchen Grumm, 6-3, 6-2. Judy Garrison defeated Shirley Stahlhut, 6-2, 6-1. Susan Kuroski walloped Rita Hessert with 6-1, 6-0 scores. Pat Igney and Donna Zelt each clobbered Albert Bonnell and Jane Glass by 6-2, 6-2 scores in both games.

In the second round, Judy Garrison beat Jeannette Lynn with 6-3, 6-2 scores. Because of a default, Pat Igney overcame Donna Zelt. Susan Kuroski then smashed Pat Igney in games of 6-1, 6-0. Susan Kuroski then swung her way to the championship against Judy Garrison with 6-1, 6-2 scores. Each of the losing participants received 25 GAA points for entering.

Squads Two, Four Win In Speedball

Speedball was played by 31 freshman girls in the gym last Friday after school.

Miss Helen Pohlmeyer divided the girls into four squads with Squad 2 defeating Squad 3, 9-6, and Squad 4 defeating Squad 1, 6-2.

High scorers were Janice Spuller, 5; Gretchen Brum, 2; Mary Jane Hake, 2; Tamara Beatty, 2; Nancy Nichols, 2; Susan Merchant, 2; Sharon DeBailhe, 2; Bella Dyson, 2; Peggy Schwartz, 2; and Alice Ashton, 2.

Referees were Jeannette Lynn, Pat Igney, Ann Walton, and Shelba Cox. Scores were kept by Sue Rousseau.

Archers Will Invade Mississinewa Friday

Gernand To Use Same Starters As Previously

Indians Lose To Kellys Last Season 34-0; Undefeated This Year

Invading foreign territory this week end, the Archers of South Side will do battle with the Indians of Mississinewa Friday night.

The Indians, undefeated in their first four games this season, will bear little resemblance to the combine that was trounced by the Green and White to the tune of 34-0 last year.

The Red and White of Mississinewa, under the direction of Coach Charlie Fisher, have averaged over 20 points per game thus far, while seldom being scored upon. Their list of victims includes Royerton, another of South's future foes.

Only one of the starting eleven is a returnee from the 1957 team. He is senior guard Paul Willen, the most experienced man on the squad with three years of varsity action behind him.

A bright spot in the Mississinewa backfield is halfback Jim Watson, who looked good as a sophomore in the limited play which he saw in the Archer-Indian clash of last year. Other backs in their first year as starters are Dick Westling at quarterback and Larry Leming at fullback. Watson's running mate at right half is Jim Wines. This backfield features good speed, as did last year's counterpart.

The ends for the host team will be Wilbur Griffith and John Moore. The interior of the line is marked by a lack of experience, but it has good overall speed. The tackles are seniors John McPherson and Joe DeBonis, both in their first year of varsity competition. Opposite Willen, the pillar of the line, the other guard will be junior Bob Studebaker. The center, also a first-year man, is Louis Atkinson.

Coach Bob Gernand of the Archers will probably use basically the same players as in previous games.

The tentative starting lineups are as follows:

South Side		Mississinewa
Joe Roth	E	Wil. Griffith
Jim Olinske	T	J. McPherson
Ken Howe	G	B. Studebaker
Lawson White	C	Lou. Atkinson
Dan Tritch	G	Paul Willen
Terry Berk	T	Joe DeBonis
Frank Lude	E	John Moore
Steve Smith	QB	Dick Westling
Steve Gaskill	HB	Jim Watson
Wm. Meyer	HB	Jim Wines
Dick Tipton	FB	Larry Leming

Grid Scouts A Big Help To Coaches

Contrary to many people's beliefs the game of football is not just a couple of 200-pound linemen banging heads together or a fleet back running 90 yards for a touchdown. There is an intricate system of scouting that goes on from the beginning of practice in August to the last game of the season.

Head Football Coach Bob Gernand and his staff have devised a plan, which, though time-consuming has proved to be well worth the effort. The basic idea is through diagramming, observation, recording of formations, personnel, team strength and weakness.

Each team on the South Side schedule is scouted at least twice before the Archers play them. If at all possible, the scouting is done by the same man. When that specific game is played, that man sits on the bench with the coach, advising him on the opposition.

# # #

WHEN ONE OF the coaches scouts a game, he uses three sheets—one for the team's offense, the other for their defense, and the third for obtaining statistics on passes, punts, kickoffs, defensive and offensive alignments, runbacks and any other additional information not provided for on the other two sheets.

When observing the team's defense, special note is taken of their basic pattern, if they vary greatly from this pattern and the type blocking that they employ. Certain players are watched also to see what they do and when they do it. All this is recorded on the sheet designated for defense on the scouters clipboard.

On the other hand, the defensive end of the job is every bit as important as offense. Their defensive patterns are all taken in by the scout, especially the line and line backers.

The line is watched to find out what is done by each man on a play. For instance, if two linebackers are red-dogging or running through the line as the ball is snapped, that is marked down.

Their line and backfield strength and weaknesses are carefully observed as they will have a great deal to do with the offensive maneuvers of South Side when the two teams clash.

# # #

THE SCOUTED team's specialists are also closely eyed. The scout watches their punter to see how far he can boot the pigskin and if he kicks to one side or not. The player who does the kicking off is seen in the same manner. Their passers and centers are watched for degree of power or weakness.

In scouting a team the ideal way to go about it is to see the team in action three times. The first, just get the basic patterns and plays used; the second, to go a bit more into detail and to watch what will happen when a situation arises; and the third, to devote the whole game in just watching players.

Although this business of scouting is not always exciting, and requires intensive work on the part of the scout, it often pays back in big dividends.

Past Football

M. T. Feasel Guides Grid Team To 28-21-2 Record In 6 Seasons

(This is the sixth of eight installments relating the accomplishments of past Archer teams. This week's story begins in the '40's and takes us into the present decade of Archer football wtih Marion T. Feasel leading the Archers as head coach.)

In 1947 George Collyer stepped down from his post as football coach as he gave way to Marion T. Feasel, who held his new job through the 1952 season, when he was replaced by Jack Bobay.

# # #

MR. FEASEL by no means was inexperienced when he took over for Collyer. Like most Archer head coaches, Mr. Feasel held reserve coaching posts at South before becoming the top man in the Archer football organization. He had coached several years at Harrison Hill; thus he became the second straight head football coach that had come to South by way of Harrison Hill. Between his years at the junior high school and South, Marion was New Haven's head basketball coach.

Mr. Feasel compiled a creditable won-lost-tied record of 28-21-2. While coaching the football squad he helped the Archers to three consecutive city titles in '47, '48, and '49. During those five seasons the Green and White annexed 10 city tilts, lost seven, and tied two. The year 1949 was Mr. Feasel's best campaign as his Kelly gridmen recorded a 7-2 record for the season with the city championship to boot.

South lost the opener in 1947; but things began to look brighter as the season wore on, because the Archers rallied at mid-season to cop the city title as they went undefeated in three games. By the end of the season South had won five and dropped three.

# # #

IN 1948 THE ARCHERS under Feasel got off to a fast start and stayed on the right "road" as they roared to a 5-1-1 record and their second city championship. They were held to a tie by North in their initial city tussle, but rolled over C.C. and Central by scores of 28-14 and 25-0 on the way to the title. The victory over Central narrowed the margin in the long series between South and Central to 16-14 in favor of the Tigers.

Looking even better than the year previous, the Archers behind the steady play of its veterans, Merle Hettler and Bill Davis, chalked up seven victories with wins over Bluffton in the opener, 57-6; North Side, 14-13; and C.C., 20-13. The only black mark of the season was a thrilling loss at the hands of Central by a count of 19-14.

THUS AFTER THREE years as coach, Feasel had compiled a fabulous 17-5-1 record; but the tables turned in 1950 as the Kellys came in last in city play and recorded four victories in nine games. They lost the opener and continued their losing ways by being stopped by North, Central, and even C.C., the team that hadn't beaten South in 13 years.

With almost an entirely new cast of stars, Mr. Feasel looked for things to get better in 1951, but they didn't, they grew worse. The Archers salvaged only two games of the nine played, one being a victory over C.C. by 13-0, averting last place in city play. They gave Central a good fight before losing, 19-13, but North Side easily whipped the Kellys, 19-0.

# # #

IN 1952, HIS LAST season, Feasel led the Kellys to a 5-3-1 record which included a four-game split in city play. They recorded wins over North Side, 21-0, and over Concordia, 60-7, but lost to Central, 7-0, and Central Catholic, 6-0.

Mr. Feasel stepped down as the Archers completed their 30th season in football. With 30 hard, long seasons history, South had won 151 games, lost 94, and tied 10. After Feasel's reign, the percentage of games won slipped below 60 per cent.

Mr. Feasel is presently teaching social studies at South Side, but was not available for comment on football at South while he was coach.

Juniors, Seniors Speedball Victors

The Senior team and the Juniors were the winners in the speedball games played in upperclass GAA last Monday night, at 3:30 p.m., in the gym.

The Seniors beat the Sophomore 2 team by a score of 23-4, and the Juniors defeated the Sophomore 1's, 16-3. The high scorers were Pat Brown 2, Judy Garrison 2, Jane Glass 4, Jan Kessler 2, Luann Uhl 4, Sharon Duff 3, Shelba Cox 8, Betty Hartel 4, Jeannette Lynn 5, Joan Motley 2, Ann Walton 2, Donna Zelt 2, Shirley Stahlhut 2, and Karol Wise 2.

Judy Garrison, Jan Kessler, Lynn Vollmer, and Sue Getty refereed the games, and Beela Dyson kept score.

Wayne Scott Schedules SportsEvents

Scheduling a sports event for South Side is a very important duty for the athletic department, for if games were not scheduled, our athletic program would be full of open dates.

Wayne Scott, athletic director, handles most of South Side's program scheduling. The first thing he must do to fill a date is to contact other schools and let them know which dates we have open.

If a school wishes to play the Archers in a certain sport, an actual contract is signed which states the date of the contest and the amount of cash our team will receive from gate receipts. Since most schools play on a home basis, which entitles it to the funds from the game, the Archers will receive only about $100 to $200 for an away game. This does not apply in track, however, since the majority of schools do not charge admission for track meets.

Because South's football team does not play in a conference, it is sometimes difficult to maintain a full schedule. This was one of the reasons that South had an open date between the Shortridge and North Side games.

Mr. Scott is hopeful that the Archers will play a full schedule in football next season. Already he has signed Goshen to take the place of Mississinewa, and he says that Valparaiso may fill our open date.

Playing in a holiday basketball tourney is slightly different than other games. Teams are usually invited to play in these tournaments. In past seasons, South has played in the Muncie Central holiday tournament, but this year the athletic department has decided to play in the holiday tourney at Elkhart.

The holiday tourneys contribute quite a large sum of money to the athletic office. This sum may be anywhere between $500 and $2,000 for one tournament.

Coaches Choose Steve Smith, Joe Roth Players Of Week

KEY PLAYER—Steve Smith was one of two Archer mainstays chosen player of the week. Steve was cited this week for his outstanding signal calling and fine defensive play. Joe Roth's picture was not available, but it will appear next week.

Two senior mainstays were chosen players of the week following South's 6-0 loss to Central. Quarterback Steve Smith and end Joe Roth were the Green's key players as the Kellys suffered their second City Series defeat. The Archer record now stands at 1-3.

# # #

STEVE SMITH is the fourth Archer backfield man to receive the honor of Back of the Week. "Smitty" moved to Fort Wayne in his sophomore year from Michigan. He played reserve football and basketball, seeing only a small amount of action in both.

As a junior, Steve starred on the Archer defensive team and served as understudy to Mickey Parrott and Ralph Saylor.

He did not play basketball in his junior year, as Coach Reichert limited his junior candidates. This year Steve starts on South's offensive and defensive units, being "field general" of the former and halfback on the latter.

# # #

STEVE IS ON the college course, taking four solids in his Senior semester. His subjects include Algebra 4, Sociology 1, Chemistry 1, and English 7. He is an active member of Lettermen's and participates in Hi-Y. Steve plans to further his football career in college," although the grade would be rather hard to make," he stated.

"Smitty's outstanding signal calling, along with his fine defensive play, earned him the Back of the Week honor. Steve was the spearhead of two fine Archer drives which were stopped inside the Central two-yard line.

On several occasions he stopped Central's end sweeps, hustling from his defensive halfback position to make the stops on the Blue's T. C. Williams and Joe Adams. Steve is also co-captain of the Archer squad.

# # #

JOE ROTH BEGAN his football career at South with a two-week hitch as a manager, deciding afterwards to try his luck as a player. Playing one year of frosh ball and another of reserve, Joe developed into a fine end in his junior year. He saw action last year on defense, where he starred as a defensive end.

Joe is also South's number one quarter miler on the track squad. His only reason for beginning track was to gain speed for football, and he certainly has developed into a strong runner. Joe's uncle, Ed Roth, a top South Side athlete in his day, has served as an inspiration for Joe.

# # #

ALSO ON THE college course, Joe plans to finish high school this spring. His schedule is composed of Algebra 4, Government 1, Chemistry 1, and English 7. Joe is a member of Lettermen's and his church youth group.

Joe was chosen Lineman of the Week by Coach Gernand for his fine play in the Central game. He stopped halfback T. C. Williams on the reverse play several times Friday night as his defensive play was sterling. Also the co-captain of the Archers, Joe is playing his first season as a starter on both offensive and defensive units.

These boys have well earned this honor and greatly deserve the hearty congratulations from the Archer student body.

Scientists To See Slides Of May Fair

Colored slides taken by the 1958 National Science Fair last May highlighted the first meeting of the Junior Academy of Science last Thursday at 3:30 p.m. in Room 76," announced Mike Church, president. The Academy invites anyone who is interested to attend the next meeting.

Tentative plans for the activities of the coming year will be discussed. Since new sections of the club can be formed at any time by three or more members, it is hoped that a nuclear physics section may be formed by the Cyclotron Club.

Hi-Y Induction To Be Held Monday

"Final plans were made for our induction ceremony next Monday night at St. John's Evangelical and Reformed Church," said John Meyerholtz, Hi-Y president, in telling of last Monday's meeting. "Parents of the 45 new members are invited to the induction ceremony," John commented.

The entertainment last Monday consisted of the remainder of the acts by the new members.

Faculty Members Initiated At Picnic

Miss Lutie Young initiated the new members of the faculty through a Haggis Baggis program Tuesday night at the faculty picnic. The new teachers identified silhouette pictures of the other faculty members. Each contestant had his choice of a Haggis Baggis puzzle by identifying one of the shadow pictures of the faculty.

Following this, Mr. Earl Sterner M-C'd a keep talking contest, in which Mr. R. Nelson Snider, Mrs. Ruth Berkes, Pat Carol, and Paul Winchell of the original program; and Mrs. Evlyn Spray, Miss Lucy Osborne, and Mr. Ernest Walker, replaced Ilka Chase, Audrey Meadows, and Danny Thomas with the score of four to four.

Food for the picnic was furnished by Phil Stiegerwald Catering Service.

Those who attended are: Mrs. and Superintendent Aaron T. Lindley and several former teachers of South Side, who were: Miss Mabel Thorne, Miss Rosemary DeLancey, Miss Margie Suter, Miss Beulah Rinehart, Mr. Delivan Parks, and Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Bex.

Wranglers To Have Picnic At Foster Park Monday

Wranglers' semi-annual picnic will be at Foster Park from 5 p.m. to 8 p.m., October 13. Steve Tracey has planned the initiation of all new members. There is a list in Mr. Storey's room, 190, where members can sign up for food.

Hula Hoop Contest At Philo Picnic

A hula hoop contest by the new Philatians was presented at the Philo picnic, Monday. These initiates also popped balloons. The menu consisted of hot dogs, baked beans, potato salad, cokes, and dixie cups. Approximately 50 members attended this Philo event.

Eager Archers Aim For Highest Grades

Mr. Hellman's Latin 2 students, periods 4 and 7, recently had a gustatory treat in the form of Roman fried cheese cakes baked by Sharon Carrel and Peggy Floyd. Adapting Cato's recipe to ingredients as presently processed and to modern appliances that Sharon and Peggy passed with flying colors.

Mary Sue Robertson received 93 per cent, and Evilou North received 91 per cent on the last composition quiz in Miss Grimshaw's Spanish 3 classes. These were the only grades above 90 per cent in both of her Spanish 3 classes.

Miss Rehorst's Home Economics 1 and 2 classes have completed the cutting out of slacks and housecoats. They are now sewing at top speed. Marilee Young, in the Home Economics 5 period 6 class, withdrew.

Ann Plogsterth baked Roman bread to bring to Miss Reiff's Latin 4 period 2 class. Sylvia Ehrman and Ruth Finrow gave oral reports on a Roman dinner party in the same class. In the Latin 4 period 1 class outstanding oral reports were given by Katherine Misegades, Ellen McCarron, and Connie Dennis.

Miss Edith Crowe's health classes saw a movie titled "Preface to Life," which showed how a person grows emotionally, mentally, and physically. The health classes are now preparing for a test over the parts of the body and the way they work together.

Miss Pohlmeyer's gym classes are having their speedball tournaments. In period 1 Team 2 is ahead with three wins. The captains are Michele Flaig and Judi Follis. In period 4 Team 1 is ahead. The captains are Sandra Ditton and Sharon Duff. Teams 1 and 3 are tied. In period 6 captains are Marcia Anderson and Marceil Baysinger, Team 1; and Marilyn Miner, Team 3.

The following students made 100 on a dictation test in Miss Perkins' Spanish 1 period 3 class: Roberta Crosby and Laura Lopez. A mark of 90 or above was made by Carol Cullen, Pat Galloway, Barbara Hawkins, Mike Heggerfield, and Carol Link. In period 4, 90 or above was made by James Baker, Peggy Bauer, James Eme, Marilyn Hayden, Ronald Higge, Dave Ketzennaier, Kenneth Long, John Nickles, Tom Ogles, James Porter, Margaret Rogers, Ronald Simon, Jim Smith, Nadine Wilson, and Dave Zimmerman.

In order to help each girl choose clothes that will be most becoming to her as an individual, Mrs. Gernand's Home Economics 1 classes have just completed a study of personality, lines, shapes, textures, designs, and color in relation to clothing. The girls made accompanying scrapbooks with illustrations of these various topics. As a summary each girl wrote a self analysis considering her hair and skin color, personality, figure type, and the clothing styles that will be most becoming to her.

After a week of activities reviewing the choice of styles, lines, designs, textures, and colors that are most becoming to each individual girl, Mrs. Gernand's Home Economics 3 classes chose patterns and fabrics for their first project, a shirt dress. In this project they are learning how to set in a sleeve, make a notched collar, use interfacing, and apply a dress-type zipper. Their dresses of lightweight wool and dark winter cotton prints will make a good addition to their wardrobes.

Nancy Rose received 100 on a quiz given by Mr. Hemmer in his period 3 General History 1 class.

Three days in September Miss Joan Nading, '55, who is a senior at Purdue University, was an observer in Miss Leif's classes.

A bulletin board has been put up in Room 77. The material for the board was brought in by Miss Leif's Home Economics 4 period 4 class. Trudy Bachmann and Marsha Rolf did the board with the assistance of Jackie Hawk, a service worker.

In Miss Leif's Home Economics 2 periods 2, 3, 6, and 7 classes two film strips will be shown on making quick breads, one on muffins, and the other on batter breads.

In Mr. Weicker's United States History 2 period 6 class the following made top grades in a recent test over the growth of the United States following the Civil War: Bernice Fitch, Linda King, and Jerry Olinske.

For current news work some classes will begin next week having one reporter who will be checked by all others in the class in Miss Crowe's history classes. Three reporters for the week of October 6 will be Barb Frederick, Frank Lude, and Judy Robinson.

Mrs. Keegan's dance classes have divided into small groups and are creating dance patterns from modern dance exercises.

In Mrs. Keegan's gym classes the girls are playing speedball and round robin. In period 2 Team 3 is ahead; period 3 Team 2 is winning; and in period 7 Team 3 is ahead.

On a recent geometry test in Mr. Petty's Geometry 2 period 6 class those scoring 90 or better were Steve Bowen, Joel Feltenberger, John Gear, Phillip Schulze, Sandra Trulock, and Arthur Wilson.

On a test over lines and angles in Mr. Petty's Geometry 1 period 7 class those making grades of 90 or better were Bob Shine, Steve Marshall, Judy Koontz, Dennis Graham, Ann Golden, Ann Erickson, Jim Carter, and Sally Cappo. Those scoring 90 or better on a similar test in period 7 were Fred Musser, Leslie Malone, Judy Koontz, Thomas Halley, and Judy Dunlap.

Barbara Hamilton of Mr. Arnold's United States History 2 period 7 class made a map showing the important railroads in the United States from 1850 to 1900. William Brackney of the period 3 class made a map depicting the French and British forts and battle sites during the French and Indian War.

Dick Butzow of Mr. Arnold's United States History 1 period 4 class made a map depicting "The Inland Penetration of Population" from 1660 to 1760.

In Miss Peck's English 5 period 1 class students making 85 or better on a recent literature test were Dave Bosselman, Harold Dehnert, Betty Pherson, and Sue Sappenfield. On the same test in the period 2 class Bessie Ferguson made the highest grade. In the period 7 class Judy Cramer, Martha McChestney, and Shelby Smith made grades of 85 or batter.

Mr. Storey's speech classes are presenting demonstration speeches. In the period 1 class those receiving high grades were Julie Carr, Gene Crum, Larry Scherschel, and Nancy Jones. In period 3 Charles Putt, Steve Tracey, Edward Storck, and Joyce Brittenham received the highest grades. In the period 6 class Dick Baxter, Ruth, Dill, Janet Lawry, Joan Novitsky, and Dick McClure presented the best demonstrations.

In Mr. Storey's English 2 period 4 class outstanding themes were turned in by Tamara Beaty, Marsha Marshand, and Mike Lehman.

Miss Fortney's Algebra 2 period 7 class had a test over factoring. Those who scored a grade of 90 or higher are Joyce Abbott, Bill Burr, Kay Dickerson, Janet Doelling, Mike Hegerfield, Sue Lewis, and David Reese.

Mr. Murch's Shorthand 1 period 6 class has several students who rank high in their class. They are Carol Szink, Roberta Crosby, and Sharon Probst.

Mr. Gersmehl's English 3, periods 2 and 4 are writing short stories with the singular emotional "fear" as a background.

In Miss Welty's Latin 1 period 1 class Joyce Beckley, Sarah Franklin, and Diane Fredrick received 100 on a recent vocabulary test. The following students received 95 or better: Caroline Baughman, Kathy Bricker, Elaine Edwards, Sylvia Hanson, Susi Hines, Kathy Knettle, Peggy Lee, Charlotte Powell, Marna Ruber, Allan Sheldon, and Lydia Sutto.

Linda Newell and Richard Waterfield received 100 on a recent test in Mrs. Welty's Latin 1 period 7 class. The grade of 95 or better was made by Dan Davis, Gary Hilsmier, Sandra Hookansen, Mary Keegan, Suzanne Link, Steve Mueller, and Susan Perry.

In Mrs. Welty's Latin 5 period 4 class the students are learning the attitude which prominent Romans had toward slavery from reading letters which Gaius Plinius Caecilius Secundus wrote to one of his friends. This man, commonly called Pliny, lived during the first century A.D.

Marsha Sills, Debby Brooke, Mary Keegan, and Dian Leath received perfect papers on a spelling test in Mrs. Emshwiller's English 1 period 7 class.

Bonnie Russell, Warren Burns, and Karen Fine received 100 per cent papers in Mrs. Emshwiller's English 1 class.

On a test over school rules in Mr. Berg's Civic 1 classes Ray Lora and Gail Woodruff scored 100 per cent. Others who earned high grades in periods 2, 4, and 7 were Janice Bodkin, Joyce Cossairt, Louise Jackson, Ken Louden, and Vicki Miller. Lillian Krudop, Louise Jackson, and Donna Arnett wrote excellent essays on the need for school rules.

In Mr. Berg's period 6 Government 1 class, those who scored high on a test over foundations of our government were Verene Andrews, Steve Gaskill, Richard Pence, Larry Jackson, Keith Vlot, John Heilman, and Dick Johnson.

In Miss Mellen's home nursing class Ramona Stuart and Bernice Fitch demonstrated for the class how to change a patient's bed linen.

In Mr. Hoover's Algebra 2 class Lee Crowell and Dick Hirschburg received a perfect paper. In Algebra 1 Debby Brooke, Jo Ann Goble, Lissa Hoffman, Larry Lee, Vicky Miller, Joyce Parley, Pat Gallaway, Mary Jane Hake, Louise Jackson, Dave Lipp, Karen McFarland, and Charlotte Powell received perfect scores.

Mr. Hostetler gave a music test; the ones who received perfect grades are Jon Bill, Judy Fields, Babette Jones, Fred Schoen, Bill Mueller, Eddie Musice, Dennis Cook, Dennis Crill, Barbara Cleary, Marie Deeter, Sue Penland, Sue Hiller, Linda McMurtry, Loraine Stone, Elizabeth Hostetler, Vicki Miller, Karen Simmons, Sarah Finck, Alice Bailey, Gaylene Hilsmier, Joyce Parmerlee, Diana Hess, Debby Brooke, Sandy Hookanson, Jeannie Pollom, Marsha Sills, Jan Curtis, Judy Hutchens, Jo Ellen Bobay, and Margie Lehman.

Mr. Pipino's biology classes have been studying introductory biology which includes the relationship between plants and animals and the study of environment. The period 6 students tasted an interesting new flavor Tuesday, when Mr. Pipino served pawpaws, a fruit common to the central and southwestern United States.

Mr. Pipino's chemistry classes have been analyzing chemical compounds.

Mr. Yager's and Mr. Quance's shop classes haven't had any regular class work due to the remodeling of the room. The boys have been kept busy arranging the machinery, bolting the machinery to the floor, and rebuilding the stairs.

On a quiz on the solution of algebraic equations given by Mr. Sage to his Algebra 1 classes, everyone received a good grade.

A test covering the correct uses of titles was given by Miss Harvey to her journalism classes. The highest grades were made by Maria Hilsmier, period 1, and John Hendricksen, period 2.

On reading proof in Miss Harvey's journalism class, Judy Riping, Craig Bradley, period 1, and Linda Benton, Carolyn King, period 2, made the high grades.

Jacobs Cup To Be Given At Service Club Banquet

Who will win the Randolph Jacobs Cup Award?

This question will be answered tonight at the Service Club Banquet in the cafeteria from 6 to 8 p.m.

A list of those eligible for the cup will be presented to the members at the banquet, who will vote by ballot.

Mr. Ronald Gersmehl, English teacher, will speak on the value of a service worker to a teacher.

Judy Thompson will talk on the value of service work to a student. Judy Rumple will be the songleader.

Mrs. Francis Long, featured speaker, will give a monologue, with piano accompaniment.

Safe-T-Charts To Record Pupil Accidents, Violations

"Somewhere along the way we have lost our 'highschooler' when it comes to safety. This is the purpose behind organizing Safety Councils in the high schools in the city," stated Custer A. Dunifon to teenage representatives of the six high schools on October 6 at the Chamber of Commerce.

Joan Littlejohn, representative of the Safety Council, and Judy Novitsky, South Side Times general manager, represented South Side at this luncheon meeting.

OFFICIAL PRESENTATION of the Safe-T-Charts by Officers Ted Butz and Robert Waldrop was the highlight of the meeting.

Mr. O'Day, representing the Fort Wayne National Bank, announced that the bank would co-sponsor this program with the Fort Wayne Police Department.

"The school charts will reveal any accidents and violations concerning teenagers of the school," stated Officer Butz. "This means that any accident or violation involving a teenage driver at any time, seven days a week, will count against your school," Officer Butz continued.

AT THE END of each month the Fort Wayne Police Department will send a monthly accident report to each school. If any school goes the entire month without an accident or violation, the initial of that school will be placed in the special box in the corner of the Saf-T-Chart. There has never been a school in the entire three years of the organization of the Safety Councils that has gone the entire month without a violation.

This year each school will be rated on a point basis. The council president will keep a binder notebook of each development of the safety plan. At the end of the year each school will be rated as to the number of violations and accidents, the accomplishments of the school council and the information in the binder.

CLEAN RECORD—Joan Littlejohn, Safety Council representative, is shown holding South Side's Safe-T-Chart. The chart will record any accidents or violations concerning teenagers of the school. It is hoped that this year the Archers will not be at the bottom of the list every month as they were last year. (Picture by Gilsdorf)

"The Fort Wayne Police Department and the Fort Wayne National Bank have spent a lot of time and effort in launching this program for us, the Fort Wayne teenagers; therefore, it is up to us to carry through this program and support it in the best way we can," stated Joan Littlejohn.

Outgoing Choir Chosen By Mr. Lester Hostetler

Mr. Lester Hostetler, choir director, has announced the 1958-59 outgoing choir group.

Sopranos include Judy Bastian, Joyce Brittenham, Ginger Doyle, Vallory Eckrote, Pat Harding, Cheri Henry, Sunny Kaade, Carol Kenner, Kay Krause, Sandy Landree, Judy Rumple, Phyllis Springer, Marsha Stirn, Janet Terry, Linda Tomson, and Marylin Williams.

Composing the alto section are Patti Arnold, Sharon Bower, Ruth Ann Farlow, Barbara Frederick, Nancy Hickman, Ann Kierns, Kathy Lee, Janet Long, Carol Lockwood, Margo Martindale, Diane Mertens, Sarah Miller, Barb Miser, Marcia Mosel, Kathy Schwalm, and Alice Weddle.

SINGING TENOR are Carol Bass, Judy Boyer, Mary Kay Hall, Susan Holmes, Joan Littlejohn, Martha Milnor, Janet Rupp, and Judy Schaefer.

Times Proves Archers Are Big, Happy Famliy

Archers are one, big, happy family; and The Times is helping to prove it. Several pupils that subscribe for The Times have brothers or sisters at South.

Exactly 246 families here total 500 Archers. Of these, 238 families have two pupils at South and eight families have three enrolled. One family has shown its school spirit by boasting three subscriptions in a family of three. In three Archer families of three, two pupils have subscribed and in three others, one has bought The Times. Only one family of three has no subscriptions.

The Archer families which come in pairs total 238. Of these 121 families of two support The Times by bringing home two papers per family each week. Other Archer families of two, totaling 106, share one copy of The Times. Only 11 families of two do not subscribe for The Times at all.

The situation is less complicated when a family contains a Times agent. In this case, everyone in the student's family has subscribed. One family of two is blessed with two agents. Both of these Archer agents have subscriptions.

To have your own Times is more convenient, but financing a family is sometimes a problem. This certainly is not true of the Archer brothers who drive a Corvette and have not bought a subscription.

1300 Parents Visit South

Approximately 1,300 parents attended the open house October 6. Over 1,000 joined PTA by paying 25 cents to the homeroom mothers in the homerooms.

PTA program booklets were a great help to the parents as they had a list of homeroom teachers and their room numbers plus a floor plan of the building.

The parents went from room to room for 15-minute periods following the schedule of their child. Each teacher explained the work of the class and what they planned to accomplish by the end of the semester. The work of the students was displayed for the parents to look over.

The parents were invited by the teachers to visit the school at any time and to feel free to come to any of the assembles and programs throughout the year.

Pupils Discuss Hall Problems

"If everyone would be considerate of his fellow students, I believe our traffic problem in the halls would be settled," stated R. Nelson Snider, principal.

This problem was recently discussed in the homerooms. Suggestions by the homerooms varied from painting lines down the middle of the halls to knocking the walls out so that the halls could be wider.

Recalling several of the suggestions, Mr. Snider remarked that those which suggested hall monitors and longer breaks between classes might be considered but shouldn't have to be if people went straight to their classes without stopping to talk to friends.

Many homerooms suggested one-way traffic, which, according to Mr. Snider, would be almost impossible because of the confusion which would result.

All of these problems on hall traffic have been turned over to a hall committee with Mr. Ronald Gersmehl, chairman, Mr. David Cramer, Miss Mary Graham, Miss Mary Reiff, and Mrs. Grace Welty serving on the committee.

Latin Students Enact Wedding

Surprises are always good fun but when hard-working Latin students are subjected to a surprise, the applause is spontaneous.

Miss Reiff's Latin 4 class recently witnessed a Roman wedding ceremony. Dressed in togas, Shirley Stahlhut, Susan Bond, and Ellen Beatty dramatized a marriage service, as they felt it would have been performed in ancient Rome. The girls were both the writers and actors.

During the skit, the bartering for the bride was demonstrated, and peanuts were thrown by the bridegroom to symbolize his relinquishment of childhood toys. The formal wedding ceremony was performed. The class, as guests of the nuptial affair, were served wedding cake.

At the conclusion of the skit, Katherine Misegades demonstrated the making of thread from lamb's wool by use of a shuttle.

What a great deal of work some people will perform in lieu of a quiz!

Workshop Officers Summoned Today

A meeting for officers and sponsors of 36 Workshop will be today at 3:30 p.m. in Room 30.

The program for the last regular meeting was the sophomore skit, under the direction of Molly Dixon. The skit was a regular routine of a football team doing their exercises and plays.

The sophomores who presented the skit were Molly Dixon, Mary Jane Spindler, Diane Irmscher, Gretchen Meister, Leslie Malone, Jan Martindale, and Susie Slick. Other sophomores were Sylvia Ehrman, Pam Olson, Nancy Vanderford, and Sue Pfeifer.

The coaches for the football teams were Tom Ogles and Jack Winder.

The juniors under the direction of Barb Wallace will present their skit at the next meeting.

739 Archers Take Insurance Policy

Exactly 739 students in South Side High School took out the student plan insurance policy. This policy protects a student up to three thousand dollars for medical expenses for a year.

The students are protected: while traveling to or from the school for regular school sessions, while in or on the school buildings or premises during the regular school hours, while participating in any school sponsored and supervised activity, while participating in the practice or play of school sponsored and supervised athletics either at or away from school, and while attending religious services.

The insurance costs only $2 for the students for this great amount of protection. This plan is the cheapest insurance plan for students attending school.

Three Kellys To Appear On TV Series

Judy Novitsky, John Shannahan, and Joyce Brittenham will represent South Side this Sunday on the Elektra Club, a new television series sponsored by the Indiana and Michigan Electric Company.

The Elektra Club, formerly Livewire Club House, will again be presented this year by the Junior Achievement members. The club originated two years ago. The program will be presented every Sunday at 5:30 p.m. starting this Sunday.

The purpose of the program is to provide through the medium of television an opportunity for the recognition of outstanding talent and accomplishment of the youth in Fort Wayne. Talents and accomplishments include the arts, sciences, and business.

In the arts, outstanding instrumental and vocal talent will be recognized in the field of music. Also in this field classical dances, dramatics, and declamations are included.

SPECIAL RECOGNITION will be given to students who have proved outstanding in the field of pure and applied science, such as electronics, chemistry, mathematics, physics, biology, botany, and related sciences.

Students who have engaged in some form of business will be recognized also. Recognition is given in every field except athletics.

In addition, the program will have a youth panel for discussion of local, national, and international events in relations to the lives and interests of young people. Do you intend to live your adult life in Fort Wayne? This is the question that will be discussed this Sunday.

Teacher Committee Chosen To Help With Hall Problem

The bell rings, a mad rush of feet, and the halls are again filled with thousands of hurrying students who are trying to reach a destination in an allotted amount of time. Naturally since so many people are struggling to get through the crowded corridors, there is bound to be a serious traffic problem.

Steps have been taken to eliminate this crisis. A committee of teachers has been chosen to offer suggestions to decrease the tenseness of the situation. Members of this committee are: Mr. Ronald Gersmehl, Miss Edith Reiff, Miss Mary Graham, Mrs. Grace Welty, and Mr. David Cramer.

The group had a meeting October 9. Nothing will definitely be decided until the new addition has been completed. It is waiting to see if the traffic problem will resolve itself when there is more room.

Toy Drive To Be Until October 15

The third meeting of Junior Red Cross was held last Wednesday in Room 8. Plans for the toy drive were discussed.

The toy drive started October 8 and will be in progress until October 15.

"We are grateful for the toys which have already been collected and any others will be appreciated," said Susie Hoard, president. She added that toys should be brought to the individual homerooms and a Junior Red Cross representative will come to collect them.

The poster committee, headed by Bonnie Strutz, has completed its job and their posters may be seen through throughout the school.

Wranglers To Have Speech Meet Oct. 27

A school wide inexperienced speech meet will be the program of the October 27 meeting of Wranglers at 3:30 p.m. in the Greeley Room. Pupils may sign up for the meet in Room 190.

The speech meet will have four divisions; humorous declamation, dramatic declamation, and poetry and radio. Mr. R. Storey will choose the best in each division. It is in preparation for the inexperienced meet to be held at Howe Military Academy November 8.

Art Club Members To Display Work

Members of the Art Club will display their art work and discuss it at the next meeting of the Art Club, in Room 26, next Wednesday at 3:30 p.m. The discussion will include the technique and medium used. They will decide where the art work will be displayed. Bonnie Lane will give a report on a famous artist.

Awards will be given to the members that identified the paintings of famous artists at the last meeting.

Meterites Presenting Short Story Contest

The Meterite Club is presenting an Original Short Story Contest on October 21. On November 4 the Original Poetry Contest will be held.

Next 5 Days Determine Whether Totem Appears

1,110 Needed By Oct. 21; Only 240 Subscriptions Turned In First Week

Unless 1,110 Totems are purchased in the next five days, no 1959 Totem will appear. Only 240 Totem subscriptions were turned in the first week of the campaign.

Maria Hilsmier and Barbara Miser, Totem circulation managers, urge all students to subscribe to the Totem before October 23, the end of the campaign. The goal of 1,350 subscriptions must be reached by October 23 to guarantee the publication of the Totem.

Totems may be purchased from any homeroom agent by paying the full $3, or by making a down payment of 50 cents. One must subscribe during the campaign and pay the full $3 by December 12 to have his name embossed on the cover.

STUDENTS MAY subscribe for the yearbook in the Totem office in Room 16. The office is open before school, after school, and during fifth period. An office manager will be there at these times to accept the money. Totem agents should also turn in this money at these times.

The officer managers are Sharon Hubbell, Carolyn Dinius, Susie Starr, Cheri Henry, Ann Kerns, Sandy Hoover, Diane Reiff, Carol Kenner, Patty Arnold, Priscilla Ratican, Judy Thompson, and Ginger Doyle.

Class Tea Committees To Be Named Oct. 21

Committees for the class teas, November 3, 4, 5, and 6, in the cafeteria will be named by the class chairmen at the executive meeting in Miss Van Gorder's office, October 21.

The Freshman Tea will be at 2 p.m., November 3. Freshman class chairmen working on the tea are: Mrs. Paul Mitchell, welfare; Mrs. David Sherman, ways and means; Mrs. Carl Ashman, membership; Mrs. Lester Grile, hospitality; and Mrs. John Huffman Jr., program.

The Sophomore Tea is scheduled for 2:30 p.m., November 4. Chairmen for the Sophomore class include: Welfare, Mrs. Phillip Redding; ways and means, Mrs. Lowell Redding; membership, Mrs. Torwell Matthias; hospitality, Mrs. Charles Springer; and program, Mrs. Lavern Gelow.

Junior class chairmen who will plan the Junior Tea, November 5, at 2:30 p.m., are: Mrs. Thomas Church, welfare; Mrs. James Demetre, ways and means; Mrs. Chester Leopold, membership; Mrs. J. F. Favorite, hospitality; and Mrs. Herbert Cooper, program.

The Senior Tea will be November 6, at 2:30 p.m. Senior class chairmen to help with the tea are: welfare, Mrs. Melvin Ehrman; ways and means, Mrs. H. W. Esterline; membership, Mrs. Dean Lockwood; hospitality, Mrs. Richard Galbreath; and program, Mrs. M. E. Bickel.

Ten Students To Attend Indiana Press Conference

Approximately ten students from South Side will attend the annual Indiana High School Press Association Conference at Franklin College, Franklin, Ind. North Side and Central will also have representatives. The students will take the trip on a chartered bus leaving at 5 a.m. Friday, October 24.

Several outstanding journalists and personalities, including Dr. Jesse Stuart, one of America's most inspirational speakers, and Dr. Joseph Murphy, director of the Columbia Scholastic Press Association, are scheduled to appear. Over fifty classes in yearbook production, newspaper writing, editing, business practices, and publicity procedures have been planned to make the annual convention worthwhile.

Glen Hanson, director of the Illinois Press Association, will conduct a series of classes on yearbook production. Other sectional speakers will include top journalism instructors from Indiana high schools and colleges.

A "record hop" with "Bouncing Bill Baker" from WIBC will be one of the two top entertainments. Delegates will also be guests of Franklin College at a football game on Saturday.

This year Miss Rowena Harvey, faculty adviser, will attend the convention with the students as chaperone.

135 Students Enrolled In Developmental Reading

The developmental reading classes conducted by Mrs. Evlyn Spray and Mr. Lowell Coats, boasts an enrollment of 135 students this semester.

"In our classes, we stress the improvement of rate, comprehension, and vocabulary," stated Mrs. Spray.

"The student learns to retrain his eye muscles, so the eyes can move more rapidly across the page, and he also learns to break his old eye habits or regression and unevenness of movement," said Mrs. Spray.

A course in developmental reading becomes valuable to students when they enter college, where the reading of many books is a necessity.

"In three days, my improvement was remarkable," said Barbara Eggeman, junior. "This course helps your vocabulary a great deal and you also get a well-rounded picture of different types of books."

Diane Decker, senior, stated, "You get a chance to read a lot of books and stories you'd never get a chance to read otherwise."

Carol Druart, a sophomore, doubled her reading speed. "It really helps me with my studies and I find I can do my homework faster."

"So far I've increased my reading rate by about 100 per cent," said Tom Cooper, junior. "For the amount of time spent each day at the reading machines, your reading rate can't help but increase."

Three Archers Girls In Play For Patriotic Education Week

Priscilla Ratican, Carolyn Dinius, and Sandy McComb are included in the cast of the play, "A Visit from Johnny Appleseed," which will be one of the activities during Patriotic Education Week from October 19 to 25.

Patriotic Education Week has been proclaimed by Robert E. Meyers, mayor of Fort Wayne, and is being sponsored by the National Society of the Children of the American Revolution.

Patriotic Education Week is being celebrated throughout the 48 states. This is the first year Fort Wayne has commemorated this week on a large scale, but it will continue to do so in the future.

The Indiana Children of the American Revolution have 20 societies in Indiana, of which Ruth Hunt Society in Fort Wayne is one. This society is presenting the above mentioned play at 8:30 p.m. Wednesday, October 22, over WOWO radio.

During the week one can view displays in the main branch of the Public Library and in the Allen County Historical Museum.

The week has been proclaimed to promote the study of American history, which the society believes to be quite important.

Tom Cooper Likes Wildlife, Enjoys Training Pet Hawk

Since he was 12 years old and in the seventh and eighth grades, Tom Cooper, a junior, has been interested in wildlife, mainly birds.

"My first pets were two horned owls, homing pigeons which were already trained, and banty chickens which I trained."

This summer, Tom received from Franke Park a red tail hawk, which he nicknamed "Red." He has been trying to teach the hawk to eat out of his hand but so far hasn't had much success.

"It takes a lot of time and patience to train a hawk," said Tom. "A hawk can be trained to go hawking, that is to hunt for small game, in about a year. This is done by covering the head of the bird so he cannot see where he is being taken. When the trainer reaches the field, he throws the hawk in the air to hunt for game."

TOM HAS OBSERVED that "Red" is more restless this fall than he ever has been. "I believe the cause of this is the fact that the bird's natural instinct is to migrate south at this time of year."

Besides taming birds, Tom collects objects concerning wildlife. He has a large collection of birds' nests including an abandoned quail's nest in which he found 16 eggs.

Tom once had an experience with a family of possums. It seems that every day when he went out to feed "Red," he found a bucket of feed tipped over.

"I became so curious I set a box trap," exclaimed Tom. The next day when he inspected the trap, he found a mother possum and her two babies. "The mother escaped but I kept the two little ones for two days until they died."

RECENTLY TOM attempted to be a taxidermist. The victim was a robin. Although he worked long and hard, Tom was unsuccessful. "I gave the remains to my hawk," he said.

Here at school Tom is a member of the band and the orchestra in which he plays the clarinet. Just recently Tom became a member of the Silhouettes, a dance band made up of Fort Wayne high school students. Tom belongs to the Designers' Associated Club and Hi-Y.

"I intend to go to college but have no specific one in mind. I will probably major in natural science and minor in music."

Teachers Meet October 24, 25

"To form a better method of teaching through comparing notes is the purpose of Teachers' Convention," stated Mr. Lawrence Foote, secretary-treasurer of Northeast Division.

Teachers' Convention is October 24 and 25 and teachers are free to attend meetings in Fort Wayne, Indianapolis, South Bend, Gary, or Evansville.

In Fort Wayne the speaker for the general session, which is held Thursday morning at Scottish Rite Auditorium, is Mrs. Billie Davis from San Jose, Costa Rica. Section meetings are held in the afternoon.

Another general session is planned for Thursday evening at which Mr. Drew Pearson, famous news commentator, will appear.

South Side's orchestra will also play at the Thursday evening session. "A Tribute to Sigmund Romberg," "Laura," and selections from "My Fair Lady" will be the numbers they will play.

Mr. Robert H. Wyatt, executive secretary of Indiana State Teachers' Convention, and Mr. Rollin R. Long, Internal Revenue agent, will be the speakers for the general session on Friday.

Cyclotron To Accept Students Until Oct. 31

"Students wishing to become members of the Cyclotron Club may join until the end of October," stated Patrick Doherty, president of Cyclotron. The club meets in the Cyclotron Room at 3:30 p.m. Tuesdays and 9 a.m. Saturdays. The Tuesday meetings will consist of business followed by work on the Cyclotron.

The officers this year are Patrick Doherty, president; Larry Buckmaster, vice-president; Sue Hiller, secretary; and Don Nelson, treasurer.

Ann Erickson Spends 3 Months Touring Many European Lands

Ann Erickson, a sophomore, was able to spend about three months last summer in Europe. She joined her grandparents who had been on vacation there (and stayed in Paris over the winter) and visited Great Britain, France, Germany, Austria, Italy, Luxembourg, and the Brussels World's Fair. She flew from Detroit to London after weeks of planning, packing, vaccinations, and securing official papers.

In Great Britain they stayed in London and went on a bus tour of England and Scotland. The tour went as far as Edinburgh, through Cambridge, Lincoln, Burns' cottage, the Borderlands, and then returned to London through York, Stratford-on-Avon, Oxford, and many more.

z z z

"IN LONDON, ONE finds a profusion of contrasts and impressions; the Tower, the bobby, the Abbey, the man with the bowler, briefcase, and umbrella; the wooded parks, the palaces, the traffic, the chimney-pots, the wine cellars of Ye Old Chesire Cheese, mutton and Yorkshire pudding, gooseberry pie, and East Indian curry!"

Ann and her grandparents then crossed the channel by boat-train, a train taken across on a ferry, and arrived in Paris. They stayed near the rive Seine, the Louvre Palace, the sparkling fountains of the Place de Concord, and the gardens of the Tuilleries. Who could help but love the "City of Light"?

After more than a week in Paris, they began to travel by Volkswagen, seeing as much of France as time allowed. The trio visited Chartres Cathedral, the sleepy chateaux country of the Loire, Brittany, and Normandy, Mount St. Michel, Rheims, and the Champagne country.

z z z

THEY ENTERED Germany and drove through the castled Rhine region, Trier and the Mosel country, the old walled town of Rothenburg, famed Heidelberg, Bavaria and its heart, Munich, while moving south toward the Austrian Tyrol. During their stay in Innsbruck, Austria, they made a bus trip over the Alps to Venice.

They had only a few more days in Paris and a single day at the World's Fair. Unable to get reservations on a helicopter from Paris to Brussels, they flew by Lebanese Airlines, spent the day visiting pavilions and flew back late at night.

"It was exhausting but very interesting. We saw the American pavilion, the Russian, Argentine, Norwegian, Siamese, Dutch, French, and the exhibit from the Belgian Congo." They sailed to New York on the Ile de France.

Ann did not have many lingual problems as her grandfather speaks French, Spanish, and German. They spent a great deal of time in France and Ann feels that country is a "must" if she ever returns!

"I really appreciate this experience; it has been the most wonderful time of my life!"

Teens' Tidbits

By Barb Steiner

Has it ever been the misfortune of any one of you to be classified as one who loses everything? Well, here speaks the voice of experience. I know, because I am one of the many who are in this category (I hope it's many, and I'm not an only member!).

A typical day for me starts out with a misplaced Latin book. Finally retrieved from the wastebasket, where it has been gracefully awaiting rescue, it begins to fall apart (thank goodness, I bought it) and has to be hurriedly taped together.

After a mental calculation of almost everything, I start out for school. On the way I suddenly remember, geometry! We're having a huge test! Later during the day I cram, cram, cram, and to my intense joy and surprise I received ■ much-above-passing grade on the test.

The day seems to be going splendidly for once, and clouds are floating by when boom! I cannot, absolutely, positively, cannot, find my history report. I had it a minute ago! I know I did. Well. maybe two minutes, an hour, three hours? Anyway, it's gone, and a mad rush begins to take place.

I look in the gym . . . nothing! Homeroom . . . nothing! Latin . . . nothing! Finally resorting to drastic measures, I try to call my mother in order to get the pencil copy. The line is busy! Grr-r-r-r! I'm getting mad! I try again! Buzz-z-z! Again! Nothing happens! Still busy! By now the period (5th, incidentally, if you're wondering how I made all these phone calls) is almost over, so suicidal measures are taken. I call our neighbor and patiently (?) explain that I want them to call my mother to their phone. Finally she arrives and everything is explained.

Sixth period is sweated out and when class is over I rush to my locker and breathe a sigh of relief when I see the report, which arrived by Mother Express. Everything goes well the rest of the day, but now, due to circumstances beyond my control, I am not losing things so rapidly. Odd, isn't it?

Colds are a great disadvantage. Especially when one is driving around in an open convertible with a gang of kids, and one's mother, who lectured about ear aches, sore throats, and all kinds of illnesses, might just happen to pass by.

For those who were in Meterites initiation meeting, the hula-hoop is not easy to swing (?); especially when it is slightly bent into a triangular shape.

For Or Against Told By Group

Are you a conformist or a non-conformist? Do you feel that teenagers of today should conform or be strong individuals? Are teenagers expected to go along with the crowd, especially in regard to fads, fashions, forms of recreation, and moral standards? Below are the answers of Archers when asked if teenagers should be conformists or non-conformists.

Marv Smith: Teenagers should not go overboard in either direction. They should be conservative in some things and possess the "continental" look in others.

Rosy Tsintsaroff: It is important to do things that are common with others, but a person who is a little of both, I'm sure, will be very well adjusted.

Bob Haag: I feel that a person should do what he wants, to a certain extent.

Carole Fischer: From some standpoints a person should be a conformist; from other standpoints he should be a non-conformist. It really depends on what kind of person he is, but most average high school students, I would say, are a combination of both.

Jerry Long: I think we would be funny-looking teenagers if we didn't follow the styles and fashions.

Lynn Gall: I think the teens of today should be non-conformists to a certain extent, but they shouldn't be completely contrary to the accepted fads, standards, and fashions of the majority of teens. In other words, being a little of both is best.

Barb Steiner: I believe that every person should stick to his own beliefs and do what is best for him no matter what the fad, fashion, or moral standards may be. As Rosy said, it is important to do things in common with others, but not to the extent that a person's initiative is entirely lost in the opinions of others.

Marcia Mosel: I don't think there is a certain set pattern for teenagers in regard to conforming or not conforming. Teenagers should just be themselves and not do something just because they think they are expected to, because they are teenagers.

Margaret Rogers: I think that we teenagers can be a little of both without going overboard either way.

Marianne Pinkham: I think that if the fad, fashion or form of amusement is reasonable, then it would be all right to conform. A person who wisely balances the two will be a well balanced person.

Linda Tomson: I believe teenagers wouldn't be teenagers without fads. I feel, however, there is an extreme to everything and it shouldn't be carried too far.

Phyllis Springer: I admire someone who has a little different taste, as long as it isn't carried to extremes and sticks out like a sore thumb.

Cheri Henry: I like fads, but I do think they can be carried too far. Teenagers wouldn't be teenagers if they didn't have fads.

Steve Feustel: In some cases I think we should be conformists, in other, non-conformists. Fads, I think we shouldn't follow.

Frank Lude: I'm a non-conformist, so if this is a serious poll I refuse to be serious.

Carole Oxenrider: First, I have to find out what the two words mean. If they are what I think they are, I am a conformist. I like fads, they put variety and spice into life. Of course, you can go too far.

Posy's Pointers

By Posy Weilemann

Dear Posy,

I am dating a wonderful gal, and I like her very much. The only trouble is that her parents don't like me. Whenever I ask her out she has a long fight with her parents before she can go. I want to continue dating her. What can I do?

Troubled

Dear Troubled,

Try to find out why they don't want their daughter to date you, and then do what you can to correct this. Maybe it would help if you would go over and talk to them about it sometime. It may just be a simple misunderstanding.

Posy

Dear Posy,

I met a certain boy while at the lake this summer. We dated quite frequently, but when he asked me to go steady I had to refuse because of the distance that separated us. When I returned to school I found out he had decided to return to his old steady. Now he lives in Fort Wayne, and I see him every day. I am in agony! Like help!

"Z"

Dear "Z",

I wouldn't place too much importance on a "summer romance." If he is back to his old steady, he must like her. It would be better if you get used to it. Golly Ned, I wouldn't spend my time at home moping about something I couldn't do anything about. Just think of all the other boys at South, not mentioning North, Central, Concordia, and Central Catholic. There's always more than one fish in the sea!

Posy

Dear Posy,

We, the dateless senior girls have a problem. We realize that we were very nasty and very mean the past three years to the boys in our class. Now we realize their immense capabilities, and we really want to date them. But in view of the happenings of the last week the situation looks hopeless. What can we do? We'll do anything . . . . Help!

Distraught, Desperate, & Dateless

Dear D3,

No comment! I'm not getting in the middle of one of these feuds.

Dear Posy,

We have a problem. We don't want to date the senior boys because they are so conceited. But we can't date our boys in our class because the senior girls are dating them. What can we do?

The Sophomore Girls

Dear Sophomore Girls,

If you want to date the boys in your class, why don't you use some of that irresistable charm you sophomores are supposed to have. That should do the trick!

Teeny Times

The small girl by the house
With the sweater over her blouse
Is a 9A in Homeroom S-1.

First period she has gym and health,
And from study hall second she gets a wealth
Of information on her subjects, but she has fun;
For she is a second period chorus fan,
While seventh she has Latin with Mr. Hellman,
And sixth period she has art in 26.

Fourth period she has English in 180.
Now her last class you shall see
For I haven't mentioned algebra in 146.
Her only free period of the day
Is fifth, sometimes it's that way,
And I'm sure many other 9A's know her.

If you want to know who she can be,
And from the poem you can't see,
Look in the ads and then I know you'll find her.

Freshman's Antics

I am a freshman . . . I get lost . . . I carry a big, zippered notebook . . . I scream at my little rodent friends who reside in my locker . . . I struggle through Latin . . . I get wet running through the rain to Lehman's. . . . My friends and I stop to talk in the middle of the hall . . . I end up in the wrong gym dressing room . . . I plan to wear boots this winter . . . I sit down during competition yells at pep sessions . . . I can't wait until my senior year so I can be late to class without fear of punishment . . . I am forever dropping my books in a crowded hall . . . I do my homework during music assemblies . . . I wonder why I looked forward to high school . . . I hate rock and roll . . . I am oblivious to fads and fashions . . . I always have a hall pass . . . teachers like me . . . my assignments are always done . . . I have crushes on all senior boys . . . Oh, how I long for the sophisticated life of a sophomore.

P.S. from PENNY

By Penny Hunt

South Side High School
October 16, 1958

Howdy!

Jeepers, is it ever warm out! I guess we're experiencing what is commonly called an Indian Summer. Whatever it is I hope it stays around for a while, 'cuz I don't like cold, winter weather.

It seems like everyone is going on all the hayrides, but you can count on one person being home. Jim Jackson is allergic to hay.

Do you realize that no one in South Side has a last name beginning with Q?

During World Series week I was in the library and saw a boy with what looked like a hearing aid in his ear. I felt real sorry for him, thinking he was deaf, until I heard a voice say, "And there's a line drive to centerfield."

I wonder what Barb Wallace thought of her new danskins? Pamm Holtzberg handed Barb a sack saying she was returning her danskins. There must have been a slight mix-up because it turned out to be Pamm's lunch.

Some people are really anxious to get to school and go to no ends to arrive on time. When the Carrel's car stalled while on the way to school with Sharon, Diane Hall, Sue Horth, and Susie Phillips, the girls didn't let that slow them down. They made a quick trip to Sylvia Ehrman's house to call Peggy Floyd to come pick them up. You'd think they'd be late by this time, but they made it.

Talk about car trouble, Linda Towns really had it. When Linda started her car, there was a loud bang, and smoke came pouring out of the hood. Actually there was just a small bomb in the car which made a lot of smoke, but didn't do any damage.

I won't mention any names, but did you hear about the three girls who drove down Oakdale going the wrong way and wondered why everyone kept blinking his lights?

Do you understand the advertisement for Morton Salt, which reads, "When it rains, it pours"? I just figured it out a couple of months ago.

Danskins aren't the rage among boys; it's crutches. The football team especially enjoys them. Tom Lerch and Steve Gaskill are each sporting a pair.

I guess Sue Sappenfield's chair walks away from her, at least, it wasn't there when she sat down in history class.

What some people won't do to avoid walking! When Bob King discovered he had forgotten his car keys at school, and his car was parked at the far end of the stadium, rather than walk back he put the car in gear and coasted it back to school. Bob really shouldn't have been walking in the first place, since he sprained his ankle playing football.

The first grading period is over, aren't you glad?

The girls with the little green bows in their hair aren't trying to start a new fad, they're just Philo initiates.

Well, I really must run—gotta study!

Bye-Bye!

Pen

P.S. When it seems like homework will never cease, and you're so tired you could drop, and when everything goes wrong, remember, "Cheer up, you may get sick!"

The juniors of Homeroom 110 sure like the feeling of being upperclassmen this year. Everyone seems to carry his head just a wee bit higher than last year . . . Many of us had enjoyable summer experiences . . . Carole Lallow went to Pennsylvania, the lake, dances, and out with Ronnie . . . Dave Hickman and Phil Jones loafed all summer (now surely, boys, you did more than that!) . . . Carol Lehman did baby-sitting work . . . Gary Leips went to Lake Tippecanoe . . . Carol Jeckel journeyed to Chicago and Wisconsin. She also enjoyed the lake with her girl friend . . . Lee Jackson also spent some time in Chicago and Idlewild, Mich. . . . Janice Koch visited New Albany and a lake near Columbia City . . . Paul Klenzak took a trip to Canada. He also went to Illinois and spent some time at the lake . . . Our very talented Miss Kay Keiffer played the flute in the orchestra for "Kiss Me Kate" at the Festival Theater . . . Pat Krebs spent a lot of time at the lake learning to water-ski . . . Steve Kearns attended a missionary camp and MYF Institute . . . Helena Kamm went to Michigan, Delaware, and Crooked Lake where she took in some water-skiing . . . Marcia Klaehn was impressed by the size of the new Mackinaw Bridge. She had fun with Bob Kruse going to the lake and doing other things . . . Janet Lawry took a trip through about 10 eastern states. She was most impressed by a full dress parade at West Point and hopes to go there again soon! . . . Sharon Lake went to the Upper Peninsula of Michigan, Copper Harbor, the copper mines, the State Fair, and summer school . . . Sunny Kaade also attended summer school. She visited Plymouth, Ind., and saw Culver Military Academy. Sunny also spent some time at Clear Lake . . . Kathy Lee and Sandy Landree seem to have had a ball at Lake George with their girl friends . . . Kathy also went to Howe Military Academy for the Northern Indiana Episcopal Young People's Conference and later saw the sights of New York. —Janet Lawry, reporter

Homeroom 46 had an exciting week end . . . Among those attracted to the Bluffton Street Fair were Bob Schmidt, Everett Scherrer, Sue Stafford, Nancy Thayer, Linda Tomson, Susan VanFossen, Susan Seibel, Sharon Zelt, Linda Wehrmeister, Bill Spindler, and his pals Ken Howe and Dan Tritch . . . Some attended "Make Mine Music" and decided it was a wonderful project for Fort Wayne.—Susan VanFossen, reporter

Many things have happened in Homeroom 94 since school started . . . Steve Pohl was elected chairman of the homeroom. He has done a good job so far . . . Chris Parrott and Evilou North were elected president and vice-president of the sophomore class. Congratulations to both! . . . We're happy to welcome three new students to our homeroom. They are Tom O'Hara and John Poinsette from North Side and also Jim Peglow from LaPorte . . . The members of our homeroom were active this summer. Steve Pohl tried to play golf at Foster Park . . . Chris Parrott worked at Camp Missawaka as a counselor this summer . . . Evilou North and Sue Pieffer went up to the lake. Sue tried desperately to teach Evi how to water ski . . . Tom Ogles and Pam Olson liked summer school . . . Dixie Piercy spent most of the summer loafing around but found some time from her busy schedule to go to Cleveland, O. . . . Melodie Potts went to the lake for one week . . . Annette Plesniak had plenty of exercise by playing tennis as often as she could. She also went to Pennsylvania . . . Mrs. Luse practiced on the hula-hoop in her spare time. If anyone would like to know how to use the hula-hoop, contact Mrs. Luse for free instructions.—Annette Plesniak, reporter

The members of Homeroom 68 had a busy summer. Cheryl Doege isn't sure that she likes getting up this early after spending the summer swimming with her cousin . . . Janice Curtis belongs to Vesta, works hard on algebra, and catches people's payments for The Times on the side . . . Hunting and baseball are the favorite sports of Mike Dunn from Abbett . . . Sharon DeBall also belongs to Vesta and GAA . . . James Essex is a Safety Council Representative.—Shirley Davis, reporter

z z z

Now that school has started again, the homerooms are buzzing with news and gossip, mostly gossip! Homeroom 79 has become very sophisticated over the summer due to the fact that they are no longer freshmen . . . There is ■ new student to add to the chatter. Her name is Marilyn Miller and she has transferred from Central Catholic . . . Margie Mercer traveled with her family to the West Coast this summer. While they were driving up a steep mountain, Margie's sister scraped the side of the mountain. The car is slightly dented . . . Over the vacation, Dennis McBroom became ■ water skier. If you see a mad-man come whizzing over Lake Tippecanoe don't get alarmed, it's only Dennis . . . Gretchen Meister took a trip with her family. She enjoyed herself but said, "Too many relatives and not enough unrelated boys!" . . . Sally Mieras and Linda Meyers were two of the five students who decided to walk to the Mieras' house after school one night. It doesn't seem unusual except that the house is five miles from South. Some walk, eh?—Sally Mieras, reporter

z z z

Homeroom 50 has survived this summer . . . Kathy Misegades received a broken arm three days before school started . . . Carol Manners was on crutches a few days this summer because she took a tumble on skis . . . Bruce McKinnie is leaving us to go to Buffalo. We wish you the best of luck Bruce, we will never find a banker haif as nice as you . . . Ellen McCarron took her annual vacation to New York this year and as usual had a ball . . . Karen Johnson and Carol Manners went up to the lake for a week.—Marilyn Miner, reporter

z z z

Homeroom 72 has really been busy since school started, meeting new friends in their class, and also preparing for the coming events at school . . . Our teacher, Mr. Billiard, is quite versatile being head of the English Department and also playing the part of "Charlie the Weatherman" on WOWO radio . . . Most of the students are joining clubs or are participating in other activities.—Shari Busch, reporter

Quiz For Archers; To Test Alertness

Can you tell a "coffee pot" from a "jelly bowl"? Does a "frozen feline" leave you traveling in space? Then dig this crazy quiz. But don't peek at the answers first!

1. Out to Lunch (a) Having a sandwich. (b) Not in the groove. (c) A sign hung on an absentee's desk.
2. Frozen Feline (a) A cool cat. (b) A sherbert dessert. (c) A polar bear.
3. A Fly (a) An insect. (b) A dead head. (c) A lively person.
4. A Blast (a) A gala party. (b) An explosion. (c) A reprimand from Miss VanGorder.
5. Ivy Shag (a) A new breed of sheep. (b) New style of sweater. (c) An Ivy League rug.
6. Fungus Among Us (a) One of Mr. Weber's little friends. (b) Foliage in the park. (c) A musty character in our midst.
7. Gung Ho (a) A foreign recipe. (b) All in favor. (c) A Chinese cook.
8. Mystery Meat (a) Something prepared in Home Ec. 1. (b) A phantom horse. (c) An unidentified person.
9. Coffee Pot (a) Something sitting on the kitchen stove. (b) The life of the party. (c) A speedy track star.
10. A Loose Goose (a) An agile person. (b) A lost animal. (c) An eccentric person.

18. Tough (a) A hard piece of meat. (b) Tree bark. (c) Neat or sharp.
19. Tough Enough (a) Real gone. (b) An even harder piece of meat. (c) A week-end detention.
20. It's Been a Hunk of Heaven, But I Think I'll Jump for Earth (a) Space talk. (b) The party's over. (c) One paratrooper to another.

Here are the answers: 1-B. 2-A. 3-B. 4-A. 5-B. 6-C. 7-B. 8-C. 9-B. 10-C. 11-B. 12-C. 13-B. 14-A. 15-C. 16-B. 17-B. 18-C. 19-A. 20-B.

Score yourself five points for every correct answer. A score of 90-100 means you're either the "most," or you read the proof in the Times Room; 80-90, you're pretty much in the groove; 70-80, you're not with it; below 70, consider yourself a fly, and strictly out to lunch when teenagers start slinging the slang.

South Offers Advantages In Athletic Events, Clubs

Are you taking full advantage of what South Side has to offer you as an individual? Of course you are aware of the fact that our school provides education through classroom activities, but it offers much more than these obvious services.

South's various clubs are an informal means of furthering mental growth. They impart greater knowledge in their many interesting programs and they teach the valuable social lesson of how to get along with others. These clubs help one to adjust to differences of personality so that he becomes aware, and perhaps respectful, of contrary opinions.

Participation and attendance in such events as pep sessions, music assemblies, and the class banquets and proms stimulate the intellect and thought of the individual. It is commonly recognized that one must go beyond the books to obtain the qualities needed for a happy life in our modern world.

Athletic events are another method by which the individual can grow. One must learn that in order to receive, he must give of himself. Is there any better way of learning this than by giving support to the cheerleaders when they ask for it? Some students have failed to remember this lesson, in our last few football games especially. It is up to the individual whether he takes or rejects advantages.

Guide To Ease Load

So you say you've got a club meeting tonight, a theme to write, geometry to do, history to read, a book report coming due, and a term paper to think about? Friend, you need a plan. Of course life is rough, but by following about four simple rules you can make the rocky path a lot smoother.

Before you do anything, sit down and figure out about how long each thing should take you. This will organize your work and give you an idea of where to start. Do those things first which are most pressing. Thus, after you finish these, you will be under less strain. After you have done this do the things which need to be done; but which can wait. After this, you may use your leisure time as you like.

Five Archer Instructors Are Members Of Original Teaching Staff Of 1922

Original Teachers Tell Of Hobbies, Interests, Views Of Present Pupils

With no regrets, Miss Rowena Harvey, Mr. Ward Gilbert, Mr. Earl Murch, Mr. Lloyd Whelan, and Mr. Louie Hull, South Side's five faculty members who were part of the original staff, find teaching a rewarding career.

TO BE A DOCTOR is Miss Harvey's alternate choice of professions if she were again faced with this decision. Personal illnesses have stimulated her interest in diagnosing symptoms. "Medicine, like teaching, is a living, growing challenge," she stated. "The only difference is that a patient takes the pill prescribed by the doctor, while a student does not necessarily consume the pill of advice offered by the teacher."

The three main job oportunities open for women when Miss Harvey was young were clerking, office work, and teaching, the latter of which involved education and was more respected and more remunerative.

Graduated with an A.B. degree in 1921, Miss Harvey sent six applications to schools in various cities, including Fort Wayne, and was accepted by Hammond High School. During the winter of 1921-22 she was requested by L. C. Ward, superintendent of schools in Fort Wayne, who had saved her previous application, to come to Fort Wayne that fall. Miss Harvey taught English and organized the school paper and year book. As the task of the paper increased, she was compelled to devote all her time to publications.

Sponsor of Quill and Scroll and Fifteen Hundred Club since 1926, Miss Harvey added services to Booster Club in 1928.

Gardening is her primary hobby, especially the cultivation of tomatoes and flowers.

Her ability to find or make humor has relieved the tension inevitable in this type of work.

"Although today's youth are ambitious and pleasant, they devote more time to extra-curricular activities and jobs and less time to the publications," she commented.

As an encouragement to future teachers, Miss Harvey emphasizes the pay, the individuality and the vacations.

IN ADDITION TO teaching his present subject, chemistry, Mr. Gilbert coached all athletics for two years and headed the Physical Education Department, after which Mr. Lundy Welborn relieved him of the football and track duties.

Enlisting in the army during World War I interrupted Mr. Gilbert's study of medicine. Because he believed he was too old to complete his medical training, he coached at Kokomo, Ind., for two years. To obtain a teaching degree, he returned to college and was offered a coaching position at South Side by Supt. L. C. Ward.

Mr. Gilbert assisted in the organization of the Lettermen's Club and sponsored the Stamp Club, Archery Club, and Hi-Y Club for 10 years.

He devotes his spare time to carpentry and raising flowers, particularly hybrid roses.

"I have always felt a record of humorous incidents from my classes would be interesting. I recall one lad who performed the same experiment six times, only to have each endeavor explode. He was removed from the lab."

Homework in chemistry has not increased since Mr. Gilbert has always expected 30 minutes of honest study out of class. Standard teaching outlines have been improved by adding current material.

Because he works with college prep students, he notices no change in their attitudes. "I have enjoyed teaching and would not hesitate to make the same choice again," he concluded.

MR. MURCH, head of the Business Department since 1930, became a teacher through the encouragement of one of his college professors, Mr. M. H. Northrop, who was the first principal of North Side High School.

He served as school treasurer from 1927 to 1956.

Working with marketing statistics, gardening, and fishing comprise his hobbies.

"Students today are not as eager to make good grades even though there is less homework in my classes than formerly," he declared.

When South Side opened in 1922, business classes were held in the area now known as Rooms 61 and 77. The next year they moved to Rooms 22, 24, 26 ,and 28. With the addition of the second story, they occupied their present quarters.

"While I have enjoyed teaching, its most painful aspects are the non-teaching duties such as supervising study hall and noontime hall assignments."

AN INTEREST in science and a liking for school combined with the dissatisfaction of the job he had, after his release from the army following World War I, prompted Mr. Whelan to enter the teaching profession.

He has always retained his position as a teacher of physical geography.

For 17 years he was adviser of the junior class in addition to serving many years as sponsor of the Math-Science Club and timekeeper for basketball games.

Fishing, rock and mineral collecting, and all forms of nature study are Mr. Whelan's hobbies.

"I think students have more outside interests than they did many years ago and less time for their homework," he remarked.

"Before South Side became so large, a Senior Fun Fest, similar to a carnival, was put on by the seniors, their parents, and teachers. They performed stunts for their own entertainment."

# # #

WHEN MR. HULL came to South Side, he was the only physics teacher. He chose this profession simply because he enjoyed it.

Studying the Cloud Chamber, fishing, and gardening constitute Mr. Hull's hobbies.

"It does not seem to me that the attitudes of the students have changed through the years," he revealed, "although I do notice an increase in the number of books the upperclassmen take home.

"Until the school was completed, the chemistry students had to use nail kegs for seats. Most of the upper floor has been added since the school's opening."

Bio-Con Section To Visit Arboretum October 22

"We will go to the arboretum at Foster Park on October 22 and decide where we will plant our trees," stated Mr. Robert Weber, sponsor of Bio-Con section of the Junior Academy of Science. The individual projects of the members will be discussed at this same meeting.

Mr. Walker Shares 500 Pencil Collection With His Brother

Big pencils, little pencils, fat pencils, skinny pencils, if you want them, Mr. Ernest Walker, commerce teacher, has them. The collection was started about two years ago by Mr. Walker's brother of Dallas City, Illinois.

As the collection grew, Mr. Walker's interest grew, and he joined forces with his brother. They now have over five hundred pencils.

Most of the pencils have been issued for advertising or are in novelty shapes. They now have collected as many as eight different kinds from one company. The pencil collection is now in Dallas City. Mr. Walker's brother is preparing to mount them, so they will be more easily displayed.

YMCA To Take Trip To Indiana Campus

South Side boys can now register at the youth department of the Central YMCA for the fall trip, October 25, to Brown County and Indiana University. The highlight of the trip will be a football game between Indiana University and the University of Miami (Ohio).

The group will go by chartered bus, leaving the Central YMCA at 6 a.m., and arriving at the Brown County State Park in time to eat their sack lunches and then to hike on some of the scenic trails of the park.

Following lunch, the boys will see the football game and tour the Indiana University campus. They will arrive back at the Central Y at 10 p.m.

A limited number will be able to make the trip. For additional information, call the youth department of the YMCA, A-3144 or E-2202.

Hi-Y Performs Annual Induction

The South Side Hi-Y Club held its annual, formal induction of new members at St. John's Evangelical and Reformed Church last Monday night.

The ceremony consisted of several hymns, an invocation by Bob Simmons, a ritual, which was performed by the officers and guides, a speech by Mr. David Peters, and a benediction.

The Active Candidate, who represents all candidates in the full ritual, is chosen by virtue of the highest test score over Hi-Y information. The Active Candidate this year is John Hendricksen.

Dave Dunstone was awarded the Hi-Y pin and year guard for acquiring the highest test score and special stunt performance points.

Mr. Robert Weber, the club adviser, stated, "I want to express from all the members and myself a welcome, to the families and friends of the new candidates, to the induction ceremony. We are happy to bring into membership these boys who have set for themselves high standards of Christian character. Please join me in congratulating them and following their progress."

The new members are as follows: Steven Bash, Terry Berk, Bruce Berlin, Dan Bill, Mike Boyer, Larry Brown, Tom Cooper, Sam DeHaven, Tom Dougherty, Bob Duncan, Dave Dunstone, and Dick Erb.

Other new members are Jack Fitzgerald, Allan Flowers, Jerry Fritz, Bing Gilardi, Tom Graham, Bob Haag, Charles Hall, John Hendricksen, Chuck Jellison, Rodger Kerr, and Jack Lehman.

American Legion Guide To Aid Scholarship Seeking Students

To aid qualified students in finding scholarships, the American Legion, Post 47, has presented a guide of hundreds of college scholarships to South Side.

This guide, which has been revised for the 1958-1959 year, has been recognized as one of the major scholarship guides in the United States.

While children of veterans, especially deceased veterans, get a special listing of scholarships, the guide gives information on scholarships for young people in general.

"Thousands of young people are failing to take advantage of generous educational aids now being offered," stated Mr. Arthur Wilkie, chairman of Post 47's child welfare committee.

"Need a lift?" the American's Legion's scholarship guide is made available to interested students, parents, and high school officials. Since it was first published in 1951, a quarter of a million copies of the handbook, which is in its eighth edition, have been distributed.

To aid students further, the Legion has information on over 200,000 scholarships in its files and will answer individual queries on education opportunities.

Information on the guides may be attained in the South Side High School office.

Four Pupils Leave School; Two Enter South Side

In the past week, South Side has lost four pupils and gained two.

Attending South Side for the first time are Mike Lovette and Jerry Hodges. Mike transferred from Central Catholic, and Jerry came from Maryland Heights, Missouri.

Marilie Young and Dick McCormick have decided to quit school. Tom McClanahan has moved to Florida and Janet Hoover is now working.

Philo Meeting Will Have Talent Show

A new-member talent show is the program for the Philo meeting, Monday at 3:30 p.m. in the Greeley Room. A trio, consisting of Marcia Mosel, Marilyn Bugg, and Lynn Gall, will sing. A humorous skit will be presented by Joyce Brittenham and Geraldine Geller. Janet Lawry will direct a short skit, Susie Hoard will sing, and Sandy Landree will play the piano.

Vesta To Hear Talk On Skin, Make-Up

"A representative from the Merle Norman Cosmetic Company will come to the home economics club, Vesta, to discuss skin care and make-up for teenagers, on Wednesday, October 29, at 3:30 p.m. in Room 76," Susan Van Fossen, club president, has announced.

At the October 1 meeting of Vesta, the members heard a talk on the care of hair and proper styles by Mr. Frank and his assistant, from Hutner's Paris. Mr. Frank stressed the fact that the latest style is short hair. He answered the questions of various club members and gave opinions of their hair styles.

Marilyn Bugg was appointed publicity chairman, while Judy Robinson and Sandra Parrott were appointed house and initiation chairmen, at this meeting.

The club initiated approximately 70 newcomers, Wednesday, October 15.

The club is planning a meeting which will feature Bobbi Ray, from the Bobbi Ray Charm School.

Scholarship Tests To Be Held Tuesday

Scholarship tests to 30 of the Indiana colleges will be taken next Tuesday morning at 8:40 a.m. in Room 114. So far 81 seniors have applied. The tests are available for anyone who wishes to take them.

HERE ARE MORE UNPLEASANT FACTS TO FACE!

Since 1913, the beginning of the Federal Income Tax, there have been FIFTEEN increases—FOURTEEN of these came from the Democrats. During these same years there were TEN reductions—SEVEN of these created by the Republicans. In 1954 alone the Republicans cut Federal taxes to the tune of $7.4 Billion annually . . by far the largest reduction in the nation's history.

Talk about scandals—during the last Democrat administration (Truman's) there were 220 separate scandals. The revenue department particularly was shot thru with graft and corruption among the top officials. Hundreds resigned or were separated from government service—177 in the Internal Revenue Service alone in a little more than one year.

South Side Trounces Missisenewa 31-19

Archers Win 1st Road Game In Five Years

Senior Bill Meyer Scores All Points In Win Over Indians

A spirited South Side team won its first road game in five years, defeating Mississinewa's Indians by a 31-19 score. Senior left halfback Bill Meyer scored all the Archer points at Gas City in a game attended by a small but cheering Kelly crowd.

Coach Bob Gernand altered his starting lineup somewhat to gain full power. The position vacated by the injured right halfbacks, Steve Gaskill and Tom Lerch, was filled offensively by soph Walt Raines, a converted fullback, and defensively by Bob Bolyard, also a sophomore. Guard Tom White was substituted for the still ailing Dan Tritch, and Jim Dawson was started at tackle in preference of Terry Berk.

SOUTH KICKED OFF at the start of the game and promptly began a touchdown drive after the Indians lost the ball on downs. From that point on, the Archers were never in danger.

Quarterback Steve Smith handled the Green deftly, sending fullback Dick Tipton through the middle frequently and running Meyer and Raines around the ends. Meyer's first touchdown came on a plunge from the five. Tom Hertel missed the conversion kick, but the Archers were ahead 6-0.

Coach Gernand used his reserve bench freely in the second period, hoping to give some experience to his unskilled sophomores and juniors. However, Meyer scored two more six-pointers before the finish of the second period; his first a 56-yard end sweep and the second a 70-yard run of the same. He also scored the conversion of the third touchdown. Mississinewa fired back for a touchdown to end the half at 19-6.

THE SECOND HALF was somewhat exciting, although the Archers had the game in their pocket after the first touchdown. Meyer scored two more touchdowns on successive 64 and 72-yard end sweeps. Coach Gernand again used his bench as he seemed unworried over what looked like an impossible Archer loss.

All in all, Meyer totaled 310 of the Green's total of 399 yards rushed. Mississinewa scored two more touchdowns but proved unchallenging to the Green and White.

The Indians were unbeaten until last week when they were stopped by unbeaten Portland. Their record now stands at 4-2.

South was definitely encouraged by the small group of fans who undoubtedly cheered their hearts out. The win boosted their record to 2-3, slightly under .500. The Green hopes to even its record when it invades Royerton tomorrow night.

South Side personnel:

Ends—Roth, Lude, King, Leininger, Duncan, Matthias.

Tackles—Olinski, Dawson, Bowen, Berk, Sheray, Slick.

Guards—Howe, White, Hertel, Griffith, Gifford, Clifton, Tritch.

Centers—White, Sutter, Spindler, O'Laughlin.

Quarterbacks—Smith, Bolyard, Parrott.

Fullbacks—Tipton, Mokes, Comers.

Halfbacks—Meyer, Raines, Burton, Johnson, Duff, Geller.

Bob Bolyard

Bill Meyer

TOP PLAYERS—For his outstanding one-man show scoring 31 points last Friday evening, Bill Meyer was chosen the offensive player of the week. Sophomore Bob Bolyard was named top defensive player of the week for his brilliant attempt to hold Mississinewa's Indians to only 19 points while South Side garnered Mississinewa, 31-19.

William Meyer, Bob Bolyard Chosen Players Of The Week

For their outstanding play in the South Side triumph over Mississinewa, senior Bill Meyer and sophomore Bob Bolyard have been selected for player of the week honors. Bill for his magnificent exhibition of running and Bob for the fine job he did on defense throughout the contest.

Being player of the week is not a new experience for Bill Meyer as he has already been selected once this year. The first time it was for play in the Shortridge upset in which he played so big a part. He set up the first touchdown with an 85-yard scamper only to be hauled down on the five, close enough for an easy score.

Bill, making a habit of running for long gains, gained a total of 310 yards rushing alone which will undoubtedly establish some sort of a record for South Side backs' total yardage in one game.

TO SEE WHAT a feat was accomplished it is usually the case of a team having a fairly good night by advancing the pigskin from 230 to 290 yards. But Meyer alone gained more yardage than most teams and he also had all but 60 yards of South Side's rushing yardage.

He also did what could be called nothing short of great in the scoring department. He alone carried the mail for no less than five touchdowns, only one being from inside the 20. In addition to that he also was credited with an extra point to bring his total to 31 big tallies, putting him well up among the leaders in the individual city scoring race.

Bill, playing his first full season with the Green, is gifted with tremendous natural speed. This, coupled with a powerful determined slashing style of running has enabled him to always be relied on for those few yards for a first down or for long break-away broken field runs.

All this year Bill has been a potential big threat and it was finally in this game that he really showed what he was capable of and what the Archers will have going for them for the remainder of the season.

ON NOT AS glamorous, but just as important defense, sophomore Bob Bolyard carried the load for the Gernand crew making 8 key tackles from his fullback position. The number six does not sound like very many, but considering Bob's position in the Archer secondary, he turned quite a trick in that he was credited with more than any other member of the South Side squad.

Bob, playing in his first year on the varsity team, participated in both freshman and reserve football last year. He also was active in two other sports being a starting guard on the frosh basketball quintet and the city's best freshman half-miler.

He first became interested in playing when many boys in his neighborhood would often get up a game. Bob's inspiration came from Bobby Lane, great quarterback now with the Pittsburgh Steelers.

Bob feels that Shortridge was the toughest game for the Green because of their overall speed and good downfield blocking. He believes that the Archers are now starting to pick up and that they have a good chance to end the season right.

Bob himself, showing great promise for coming years, says that with the good crop of underclassmen the Archers should really be up there in contention next year. With players like Bolyard it is not hard to believe.

Mr. Jack Bobay, 7th Grid Coach, Leads Team To 5-19 Record

Being in quest of regaining the City Series championship, which they had been deprived of for several campaigns, South Side was presented with Jack Bobay to fill the shoes of his predecessor, Marion T. Feasel.

Mr. Bobay was an assistant to Mr. Feasel during those six years in which the Archers were "up and down" in their performances. With the appointment of Bobay, a coach who had no previous experience before assisting Feasel, Kelly rooters hoped that the grid squad could once again rise to prominence.

But as it is very well known, without the "horses" a coach cannot be expected to turn out a stellar squad; and Mr. Bobay didn't have the "horses."

DURING HIS REIGN as head football coach, which began in the fall of 1953 and terminated in the spring of 1955, only three of Jack Bobay's gridmen were selected to an All-City squad. Not one of the Kelly football stars under Bobay went on to achieve success in the collegiate ranks, although most of them are still in college; but undoubtedly none of this group will shine in college.

Jack Kern, end; Jerry McManama, quarterback; and Fred Augspurger, halfback, were the only three to be named to an All-City team between 1953 and 1956. Several other boys looked outstanding as compared to their teammates, but were not selected to the city team. They were as follows: Dave Sutter, guard; Norm Miner, guard, who also achieved great fame as an Archer cinder star; Dick Brantingham, halfback, who like Miner, was outstanding in track; Kent Horton, halfback; and Cyril Laycoff, halfback.

AFTER MR. FEASEL led the Kellys to a 5-3-1 season the year prior, Mr. Bobay headed the Archer aggregation that split an eight-game card in 1953. Although their overall record was not as outstanding as the one from the year before, the Green captured three of four City Series tilts to place second in the city race.

By dropping a 21-6 decision to North Side, the Bowmen were eliminated from a City Series title in 1953; but they came in second by producing 7-0, 45-13, and 39-0 wins over Central, Central Catholic, and Concordia.

With hopes for improvement after a good showing in the City Series race, Archer fans received a big letdown in 1954 as the Green and White salvaged only one win during the entire campaign, a 19-0 shutout win over Concordia. The Kellys struggled through the season by losing the remaining tilts to Central by 13-0, to North Side 14-0, and to Central Catholic in the season's finale, 27-0.

IN 1955 THE FOOTBALL scene was further clouded at South Side, when for only the second time in the school's history the Archers had an unvictorious campaign. Only in 1938 had a similar tragedy occurred. The '55 season also brought to the Kellys their first and only defeat at the hands of the Concordia Cadets. The Cadets finally won that contest in a thriller, 24-20.

To no one's surprise after that disastrous season, Mr. Bobay decided to call it quits. His retirement was announced in the spring of 1955. Then in early summer, it was announced that ex-Archer assistant football coach and head coach at Escabana, Mich., Robert Gernand was appointed new head football coach.

IN THREE YEARS of coaching Mr. Bobay led his crews to five wins and 19 losses. He was only the second Kelly coach with an overall record below .500, the first being Mr. Moss. Those three years brought no titles to South.

Since stepping down from the coaching ranks, Mr. Bobay has remained as an industrial arts teacher. In a recent interview, Mr. Bobay had several comments to make about football at South Side. He feels that the parents do not appreciate the boys' desire to be recognized for participation in athletics. Consequently some boys with good potential are forbidden the opportunity to participate by their parents and many do not get the necessary moral backing from their folks.

The spectators will come anytime a good-enough team takes the field," commented Mr. Bobay. And he believes that in order to field that good team there must be keen competition on the practice field. The main difference between the caliber of Indiana football as compared to Ohio and Michigan football is that "In Ohio and Michigan every boy wants to play football.

"They live year round in such a manner to be ready when the opportunity comes to try out for the high school team. Only the best eventually make the team, but competition is keen for a place on the squad."

Next week: The final in an eight-article series presenting the feats of South Side football teams since the school's opening in 1922. The last article takes us through the completed seasons under present head coach, Mr. Robert Gernand.

Seniors, Juniors Beat Sophomores

The Seniors beat the Sophomore 1 Team, 22-8, and the Juniors defeated the Sophomore 2 Team, 11-6, Monday afternoon in the gym.

The scorers in the games were Shelba Cox 6, Pat Igney 4, Bonnie Lane 2, Jeannette Lynn 6, Betty Byrne 4, Sharon Duff 8, Bethany Bond 2, Judy Garrison 3, Jane Glass 4, Barbara Nahrwold 2, Connie Dennis 2, Diana Meyers 2, and Karol Wise 2.

The referees for the game between the Seniors and Sophomore 1's were Shirley Stahlhut and Alberta Bonnell. Linda Vollmer kept score for that game. Bonnie Lane and Linda Vollmer were referees for the game between the Juniors and Sophomore 2's.

Seniors, Soph 1's Speedball Victors

The GAA Seniors and Sophomore 1 teams defeated the Juniors and Sophomore 2's Monday night 8-3, 8-2, respectively in speedball.

The Juniors led the Seniors 3-2 in the first half. Pat Igney and Jane Glass were scorers. The Seniors became "red hot" and Betty Harter and Ann Walton scored six more points in the final half.

The Sophomore 1's did splendid teamwork to gather eight points in the game with Sophomore 2's. Only four points, made by Sharon Duff and Annette Plesniak, were accumulated in the first half. The Sophomore 2 team accomplished two points to the four more points for Sophomore 1. Scorers were Susan Getty and Judy English.

Tigers Down Kellys In Cross Country

Central handed the South Side Archers their fourth setback of the current cross country season by the score of 18-45 at Franke Park last Thursday. It was the Green and White's eighth meet this year and their second straight loss.

The Tigers' Henry King was the first harrier across the finish line with a 10:02, while teammate Nate Harrison was second. Sam Green, the Archers' first man home, topped third-place laurels in the time of 10:05, a personal best.

Archers Ed Hartman, Al Rainbolt, and Don Kerr placed seventh, ninth, and twelfth, respectively, all finishing under 11 minutes.

Soon after the start of the race, Tigers King and Harrison with South's Green led the pack. These three almost hide by side, increased their lead at the milemarkers and remained within 50 yards of each other going into the stretch. Green at this point tried to pass the two Tigers, but the boys from Central were not to be beaten. King, Harrison, and Green crossed the finish line in that order.

In the reserve meet, Central won by the score of 21-38. The Tigers' Coats was the individual winner. South Side's Eugene Guenther placed second in the fine time of 11:09. Another Kelly, Al David, was fifth with an 11:28 time while Lentz, Weinraub, Sonniers, Stirn, and Lee were all under 12 minutes for the Green and White.

Mural Men

That day, October 9, will go down in history. Not because the Yankees won the World Series, but that day ended the Intramural cross country season. It was the day of the final run. One of the best fall days of the year ended the work of 48 boys. As expected by everybody, Dave Reece won the lightweight championship. DeWayne Trim copped the middleweight division and Dave Bosselman took the heavyweight.

Right behind Dave Reese, who finished with the time of 5:09, was Terry Dibert. He finished with the time of 5:23 and right behind him was Argirious Parpos, who had the time of 5:41. Jim Rondot had the time of 5:56 to finish third, and Gary Butz finished fourth in the time of 5:57. Finishing in fifth place with the time of 5:59 was Joe Bleakney. Following Joe in were: Bill Cartwright, Bill Borgmann, Dean Haggerty, Dick Snapp, Dave Smith, and Richard Russell. Good work, all of you guys.

Congratulations to DeWayne Trim, the new middleweight champ. He finished in the time of 5:06. Dick Waike finished a very close second with the time of 5:10. George Bennett was right on his tail with the time of 5:13. Close behind was Jim Porter with the time of 5:15. Gary Gardner finished sixth with the time of 5:20. The rest of the middleweights finished in this order: Mike Dunn, Ron Zigler, Dave Cormany, Don Hesselbring, Ken Learey, Steve Pratt, Don Stalter, Larry Christman, Rickey Bush, Bill Zehendner, Jerry Stout, Jim Crule, Jim Crabill, Dave Timma, Jim Eme, Lewis Troop, and Kenny Nidlinger.

Dave Bosselman won the heavyweight championship. He finished with the fine time of 5:26. Close behind him with the time of 5:28 was Jim Saylors. Doug Smith was right behind Jim with the time of 5:31. Ron Schwartz finished fourth with the time of 5:45 and Al Klopfenstein was fifth with the time of 5:52.

The rest of the heavyweights finished like this: Steve Meyers, Selim Dere, Max Redding, Steve Banet, Ray Hieber, Gary Marvin, John Stein, Tom O'Hara, and Jim Vanderford. Nice work, all you guys. Congratulations, Dave.

In football, the Mighty Mouses lost to the Weasels, 13-7. The Weasels scored their points on passes by Chuck Putt. He threw to Alan Meredith for the first touchdown. He then threw to Ken Uetrecht for the second touchdown and to Art Wilson for the extra point. The Mouses scored their points on passes by Tom Doty. He passed to Phil Gallmeier and Dick Colpetzer for the TD and extra point.

The Pea Pickers shut out the Wild Childs, 7-0. Bob Weiss scored the only touchdown on a fine run. He then threw to Ken Leaky for the extra point.

The Moon Men also bowed to the Weasels, 14-7. Chuck Putt again accounted for all 14 of the winning points. He threw passes to Don Uetrecht and Jerry Butt for the first score. He passed to Al Meredith and Don Uetrecht for the last touchdown and extra point. The Moon Men scored their points on passes from Larry Motter to Tom Esterline for the TD and extra point.

The Click-Clock Kids defeated the Pea Pickers, 21-0. Wible passed to Steve Longenberger for the first TD. Steve snagged a pass from Lee Rice for the second touchdown. They scored a touchback. Gary Leips scored on a fine end run. Dave Reese then pitched to Wible for the extra point.

The Weasels and the Moon Men also played a tie, 8-8. Chuck Putt scored the only regular time points for the Weasels. He passed to Don Uetrecht, Larry Motter threw to Bob Higgins for the TD. In the overtime Perry Schlie threw to Steve Druart and Larry Motter for the Moon Men's points.

The Pea Pickers won over the Fuzzie Fuzzers, 13-0. Weiss threw to Ken Leakey for the first touchdown. Weiss then ran around right end for the extra point. McCloymonds intercepted a pass and ran it back for the final score.

Congratulations to Vaughn Carrell the new fall golf lightweight champ. Vaughn won the tournament with the fine score of 84. Fred Schoen finished second with a 91. Max Van Allen finished third with a 92. Bruce Foltz carded a 95 to finish fourth and Larry Levy finished fifth with a 97.

Jack Harms took the fall golf middleweight title with a score of 78. Dave Timma finished second with a score of 88. Jeff Roth finished third with a score of 108. Nice work, you guys, and congratulations, Jack.

Dick Rothberg carded an 88 to win the heavyweight division. Right behind Dick was Wendell Rose with an 84. Dan Bill shot an 89 to finish third. John Stein and Bruce McKinney tied for fourth places with 92's. Jim Vanderford took fifth place with a 99. Congratulations, Dave. Nice going, you guys.

Archers To Tangle With Royerton Friday, Kellys To Invade Huntington October 25

Redbirds Carry Fine Record Into Grid Match

Archers Travel South For First Encounter With Royerton Eleven

Tomorrow night the fighting Archers will take to the road, to play a rugged Royerton Redbird football team at Royerton, Ind.

The game will start at 7:30 p.m., Central Standard Time. Adult tickets will be priced at 75 cents, while student tickets purchased from South's athletic office prior to the game will cost only 50 cents. If purchased at Royerton, student tickets will cost 75 cents.

Royerton is located near Muncie and is only a 75-minute drive from Fort Wayne.

THE REDBIRDS have had an average season thus far. Previously they had won over 20 straight games before being beaten by Portland, 25-19, in their second contest. The Redbirds have been beaten by Mississinewa this season.

The Royerton eleven initiated the campaign with a record that had been marred only by a tie with Winchester under the direction of ex-coach Warren Hoover, who is now an assistant coach at South Side.

Against Alexandria their record was not snapped as they earned a 7-7 tie with their opponents. As mentioned before, the string was broken by a 25-19 loss to Portland.

Mississinewa, South's foe last Friday, stopped them 20-6, just one week after the Redbirds stopped conference foe Fairmount. A week ago Friday they recorded their most impressive triumph and showed signs of regaining past strength in a 33-7 victory over Winchester.

SOUTH WILL engage in battle with Royerton for the first time in the schools' history. It is hard to judge how strong a team Royerton has had in the past, except for comparison of its activities against common foe Mississinewa, another school that is relatively new to the Archers' schedule.

The players on the Royerton squad who will probably see a good deal of action against the Archers are:

Name	Pos.	Ht.	Wt.
Morty Grey	RT	6-1	185
DeWayne Goldman	RT	6-3	195
Bill Crockett	LE	5-9	165
Everett Stamper	LE	5-10	150
Bernie Smith	LE	6-1	180
Jack Weist	LE	6-1	205
Phil Prevost	LG	5-10	165
Ken Dosch	C	6-0	170
Jim Shaffer	C	5-11	175
Mike Zoll	RG	5-11	150
Larry Moore	RG	5-9	160
Ron Reitenour	RE	5-11	155
Boyce Keihn	RE	5-10	155
Norman Locke	QB	5-11	155
Jack Yoder	QB	6-0	155
Jerry Harvey	LH	5-9	150
Ed Livingson	LH	5-8	150

Don Falls	FB	5-10	170
Phil Unger	FB	5-11	155

Kokomo Hands Archers Defeat

Kokomo handed South Side its third loss in cross country competition by the score of 18-40 at Kokomo on October 7 in the Archers' seventh meet of the current season. The Wildcats' Richard Beck was the individual winner with a 10:45 time over a slightly long course. Sam Green was the first Archer across the finish line with an 11:04 time.

Despite the fact that Kokomo got the first four places, the most exciting part of the race was Green's sprint past fellow Kelly Ed Hartman to take the number five place. Hartman's time was one second slower than that of Green's. Archers Al Rainbolt and Gus wage followed these two placing seventh and tenth, respectively.

The first seven runners kept their same positions from soon after the start of the race to its conclusion with the exception of Green's sprint past Hartman at the finish.

South Side's reserve team did not fare too well against the Kokomo reserve boys, being defeated 20-40. Dave Conine was the first green shirt across the finish, copping second place with a good time of 11:53. Guenther took a sixth place, and Allen David finished tenth for the Green and White.

Schmitz On Sports

One of the most spectacular running exhibitions ever displayed by an Archer back was presented to Archer fans last Friday night as senior halfback Bill Meyer swept around his right end all night long to chalk up 316 yards for 31 points on touchdown runs that averaged slightly better than 52 yards per carry.

Meyer's phenomenal ground-gaining enlightened the Archers as they chalked up their second victory of the season. The win placed the Kellys in an excellent position to split their eight-game card this campaign. Now the Green's record stands at 2-3 with three encounters remaining.

Next week against Royerton at the latter's home field should be a breeze for the Kellys based on the speculation that Mississinewa, last week's victim, trounced the once undefeated Royerton outfit, but in the final two tussles with Huntington and Central Catholic, the Green and White will be underdogs.

The Vikings, the talk of the area, have yet to drop a game. In six battles the offensive-conscious Vikings, led by Phil Wasmuth, swamped their foes with a 46-point per game average. They have outscored their opponents by an average of over 29 points. Last Friday they exploded for 29 points in the last quarter for a come-from-behind victory over unset-minded Rochester.

Meanwhile, the Archers' perennial final game foe, Central Catholic, lost much of their prestige when they had trouble in eking out a 7-7 tie with Fort Wayne Central. Regarded as the top team in the area as a result of their undefeated slate, the Irish were contained throughout the first three periods by a fine defense led by big Percy Moore; but then the Irish struck back with the equalizer after a freak pass completion.

Sorg, who had hit George Roth for two key passes, lobbed one towards the end zone which both Willie Rozier, who scored Central's TD on an intercepted pass, and Frank Lombardo grabbed near the five. The rule book awarded the Irish a completed pass. From here Lombardo dashed into the end zone to set up the equalizing PAT that went from Walsh to Sorg on a nifty pass.

By scoring the touchdown, Lombardo regained the lead in the city scoring race with 32 points, just one extra point ahead of a newcomer to the scoring race, South Side's Bill Meyer. Meyer had not appeared on the list until this week as he went on a 31-point scoring binge.

Both vaulted ahead of Fred Theye of Concordia, who like Meyer made the sudden appearance on the listing. Theye made his first appearance on the list last week for a short-lived lead. Warren Bullard, who scored the bulk of his points against South, dropped to fourth.

As the season progresses the city squads are beginning to show steady improvement. In all they have earned a 12-10-3 record averaging better than 15 points per game but have yielded slightly under 15 points per game. Concordia is currently the offensive leader averaging 20 points per game in five contests. C.C. has maintained a 10-point per game margin over foes while winning three and tying twice.

South, in taking two games, has given up five more points per game than they have scored. Currently only South and North are scoring less than their foes.

Sporting colds and being trounced by two foes last week, the Archer harriers received a disheartening blow when Sam Green and Larry Fruchey were declared ineligible last week. Green was the number two man and occasionally finished first. Fruchey was running in the seventh slot.

As a result of their poor showing against Kokomo and Central, the Kelly coach, Porky Holt, decided to pass up the Shortridge Invitational Meet last Saturday in hopes of getting in better shape for the Sectionals Tuesday.

Concordia was the only team that made the trip to Indianapolis where their top runner, Steve Hibler, finished third. Central, one of the strongest teams in the entire state, continued to give notice that they intend to recapture the Sectionals from perennial champ North Side. As a preview to the Sectionals these two squads will face each other this week, the final one of the regular season.

My World Series forcast was shattered by several costly Brave mistakes. If you recall I said that the Braves would win in six. And that they nearly did; but a fielding error by Billy Bruton enabled the Yanks to tie up the sixth game at 2-2, which the Bombers finally pulled out of the fire in the 10th inning.

Billy Herman's decision to send lead-footed Andy Pafko home on a fly ball also cost the Braves a possible victory in the sixth game which would have clinched the Series. Their tenth-inning rally almost netted them a victory in that contest also.

The absence of Joey Jay, one of Milwaukee's top hurlers during the regular campaign, definitely hurt the Braves in the Series. Jay would have given the Braves that third reliable pitcher to relieve the load that was carried by Warren Spahn and Lew Burdette.

Only two more City Series games remain for '58 and both involve Central Catholic. The Irish, by virtue of their tie with Central, need to capture both games in order to win; therefore, the pressure rests upon the Irish.

North Side, the only other team remaining in contention, tests the Irish Friday and needs to stop them to capture the crown. North also has the hope of South's upsetting the talented Gold to win, the crown should the Redskins bow to Central Catholic.

Central was eliminated when they tied Central Catholic and South Side was mathematically ousted after their second straight loss in city play to Central.

Basketball is starting to reappear on the sports scene again. Several county schools began practice a few weeks ago. South started limited sessions with the boys who are not participating in a fall sport this week.

Basketball prospects from Intramural cross country began basketball practice and will be joined by members of the varsity reserve cross country team tomorrow. Cross country and football will terminate the first of November and by that time all hopefuls will be battling for spots on the squad.

Vikings Score 176 In 5 Games; Are Undefeated

Gernand May Call On Sophs To Strengthen Defensive Backfield

The rampaging Huntington Vikings will be South Side's next foe after Royerton as the Archers invade Kriegbaum Field, home of the undefeated Vikings.

The Vikings, undefeated in their first five games, have run up 176 points for an average of 35 1/3 points a game. Among the teams bowing to Huntington are Wabash, Warsaw, Hartford City, and Columbia City.

Mike Reeves, 170-pound fullback, has scored 10 touchdowns for a backfield that consists of Ken Tewel, a 150-pound quarterback, Ron Whitesell at right half also weighing 150, and a 140-pound halfback.

On the line they have 190-pound left end John Owen and 190-pound left tackle Mike Thomas. Right end features 170-pound Tom Smith and the right tackle, Dennis Kramer, weighs 180. The two guards and the center each weigh 150.

Stalwarts on the bench are 210-pound tackle Paul Reed and 195-pound fullback Garl Welters. The Viking backfield is in fine shape and their line is heavy and experienced.

Coach Wabe Myers has a rough crew that is favored to win the Central Indiana Conference championship. Going on past performance this seems like a good bet.

On the other hand, South has been plagued by injuries; especially in the backfield. Tom Lerch and Steve Gaskill may, however, be able to start. Dan Tritch, injured guard, should be back in good condition.

Bob Gernand may call on sophomore Chris Parrott and Bob Bolyard to strengthen the defensive backfield. Bolyard was chosen player of the week against Mississinewa as he made one-third of the tackles on defense.

Looking on the bright side of things, Huntington, though rated high, has yet to meet a team of high caliber.

Here is the Vikings starting lineup:

John Owen	LE
Mike Thomas	LT
Bob Harris	LG
John Beerbower	C
Stan Hammel	RG
Dennis Kramer	RT
Tom Smith	RE

OUTSTANDING LINEMAN—For his sterling game against Central, senior Joe Roth was last week chosen Lineman of the Week. Joe is playing his first year on both the offensive and defensive units.

70 Boys Attend Basketball Meeting

A meeting for the boys who are interested in going out for basketball this fall was held last Wednesday, at 3:30 p.m. in the gym. About 70 boys attended the meeting.

Mr. Reichert explained that the boys who want to go out for basketball should have gone out either for track in the spring or for football or cross country in the fall. "The chances of making the team for those who did not do any of those things are very small," he said.

He also handed out cards for the boys and their parents to fill out.

"The first group will start practice at the beginning of next week. This practice will consist of running, weight lifting and basketshooting exercises," stated Mr. Reichert.

Sectional Starts Next Tuesday

The running of the Sectional cross country race will take place next Tuesday afternoon at the Franke Park course. Competing in this contest will be the city teams, which together compose the Northeastern Indiana Sectional bracket.

The old Sectional record of 9:33.8, held by Dave Redding of South Side, and set two years ago, is in great peril. The course has been shortened and several of the teams have boys capable of shattering this outstanding time.

A field of 24 teams will compete for the honor of being one of three from this Sectional to travel to the Indianapolis Shortridge course on Saturday, November 1, for the state contest. Of this group, only three squads will qualify along with five individuals.

CENTRAL HAS an excellent team and in one race last week had nine men under 10:10. Leading the Tigers will be Henry King, Nate Harrison, and Onofre Gutierrez. All three have been consistently under 10:00.

Concordia has a top runner in Steve Hibler and another in Gary Forest. The Cadet team has gradually improved during the season and expects to be in top condition for the race.

North Side has an outstanding runner, Pete Poorman, and also a well-balanced attack. They are expected to be one of the top teams, because of their balance.

ONE OF THE TOP area teams is Elmhurst. Their harriers, paced by Keith Waldrop and Carl Weaver, have beaten the Concordia team in the past two weeks and made their squad a potential comer.

In addition, several area teams will field strong individual contestants that could qualify themselves. The top man of this group is Schnelker of New Haven.

SOUTH SIDE'S TEAM is still maintaining excellent sportsmanship and spirit, although they were beaten soundly by Central and Kokomo last week. The Archers are hoping that Ed Hartman and Al Rainbolt will qualify for the state finals. Sam Green, the third member of the top three, has been declared ineligible. With the added strength of Gus Wade and Mike Albersmeyer, the team expects to succeed.

The coming meet will be of great importance to every member of every team, and all fans are urged to attend this spectacular of high school cross country.

Squads 1, 2 Win In Freshman GAA

Speedball was the game played by the Freshman GAA last Friday night. Joyce Cossairt was the only new member, Squad 1 and Squad 2 were the winners. Squad 1 defeated Squad 4, 1 to 3. Squad 2 defeated Squad 3, 7 to 0.

The high scorers were Sherry Hall, 3; Alice Ashton, 2; Bella Dyson, 2; Joyce Cossairt, 2; Marjorie Lehman, 2; Ann Heckler, 2; Betty Ensley, 2; and Jan Spuller, 1.

Thirty girls were present at the last meeting.

Kelly Reserves, Freshmen Trounce Trojans 33-6

Shine, Norman, And Robinson Outstanding In Win Over Elmhurst

By Jim Carter

Behind the great breakaway running of Bob Shine, Nate Norman, and Ken Robinson, South Side's Archers trounced the Trojans of Elmhurst by a score of 33-6 last Thursday at South Stadium. The game was a combination of contests between the freshman and reserve grid squads of the two schools.

The host Archers dominated play with their rock-ribbed defense, but their offense was marked by a certain amount of inability to move the ball consistently in sustained drives.

The first quarter was played between the two freshman squads. The Trojans received the kickoff and started to move downfield, but the Green and White defense stiffened, forcing a punt. The Archers immediately moved to the Elmhurst 30 for a first down. On the second play from scrimmage, fleet Nate Norman skirted end, outdistanced his pursuers, and romped to pay dirt for the first tally of the game. Ken Robinson then slanted into the end zone to add the extra point.

# # #

WHEN GIVEN another chance with the pigskin, the Red and White of Elmhurst got a sustained drive under way, which carried them from their own 40 to the South Side 20-yard line. At this point the Archer defense dug in and held on downs, regaining possession.

As before, Norman slipped away from his pursuers and reeled off a fabulous 80-yard run, which was called back because of an offsides penalty.

To start the second quarter, Coach Glen Stebing sent in some of his reserves. The reserve performers, undefeated in competition this season, immediately began to show their superiority over their Elmhurst counterparts. They sliced through the line for two rapid first downs, putting the ball on the midfield stripe.

Halfback Bob Shine then took a pitch-out and swept around left end. He followed his blockers until they disappeared and then found his own way through a maze of opponents to the end zone with a brilliant demonstration of broken field running.

The score was invalidated, however, because of a personal foul at the five-yard marker. The ball was then placed 15 yards from the point of infraction, giving South Side another first down on the 20. On the next play, Ron Hay sped the remaining distance for the score. The extra point was attempted from placement, but it was low.

Once again Elmhurst managed to mount a sustained drive, puncturing the home team's defense to roll deep into Archer territory. When the drive reached the 15, however, it also was stopped on downs.

# # #

IN THE THIRD, the freshmen returned to action again. Play in this period was more ragged than in those preceding it, but the Green and White managed to spring another back loose. This time it was Ken Robinson who sprinted 65 yards to increase the Trojan deficit to 19 points. The Archers attempted to run the extra point again, but they were foiled on this attempt.

Late in the period Elmhurst was forced to punt. The Trojan kicker got off a beautiful kick, which rolled out of bounds on the Archer two. South Side moved the ball out of danger, but a penalty returned the ball half the distance to the goal, placing it on the one. Faced with this situation, and with only 14 seconds remaining to be played, the Archers punted.

The kick was good, but it fell into the waiting arms of an eager Trojan defender on the 25. He ran it back through the Green for Elmhurst's only score. The try for the point after touchdown was a kick from placement, and it was low.

# # #

IN THE FINAL stanza, Shine again set off on a 50-yard touchdown jaunt. For the extra point, Steve Matthias faked a kick and hit Shine with a pass.

The Trojans launched an offense which was shaky and immediately faltered. An errant pass was intercepted by Ron Hay on his own 35, once again giving the Archers possession. An offsides penalty was then called on the Green, moving the ball back another five yards.

Shine then reeled off his most sensational exhibition of the afternoon. Again he took the pitchout around end, and knifed through the Elmhurst secondary, largely finding his own running room by reversing his field. He then outdistanced all pursuers and continued his 70-yard trip to the other end of the gridiron. The score was then run up to 33 by Matthias' plunge, good for the extra point.

At this point, Coach Stebing sent his reserves to the showers, finishing out the remainder of the contest with the freshmen.

Shine gained 165 yards from scrimmage in slightly over one quarter of action, for a fantastic average of 27.5 yards per carry. Ron Hay averaged 10 yards, and Steve Matthias got 6.5. Diminutive Mike Robinson also looked good at the quarterback slot for the reserves.

Both squads were assessed heavily with penalties, the Archers being charged with 35 yards and the Trojans with 40. The Green also had the edge in first downs, showing eight to the Red and White's five.

Elmhurst	0	0	0	0	— 6
South Side	7	6	6	14	—33

Elmhurst scoring: Touchdown (25-yard punt runback).

South Side scoring: Touchdowns—Shine 2 (50-yard run, 70-yard run); Hay (20-yard run); Norman (30-yard run); K. Robinson (65-yard run).

Conversions—Shine (2-yard pass from Matthias); K. Robinson (run); Matthias (run).

Reserves Beat Cadets 25-6

Cadets Cop First Score; No Archer Retaliation Until Second Quarter

Recovering from an early deficit, South Side's reserves powered their way to a 25-6 victory over Concordia at South Stadium last Monday. The Cadets took the opening kickoff and six plays later, scored the first touchdown that has been scored against the reserves this season.

The South defense soon got used to Concordia's belly-series and halted most Cadet traffic. The offense gathered itself together and chewed off large chunks of yardage against a staggered Cadet defense.

# # #

THE FIRST QUARTER started with a bang. Concordia took the kickoff on their 25 and returned it to the 45. They ground out six yards on the first play from scrimmage and two each on the next two for a first down.

The Concordia quarterback then threw a pass to an end who took it to the South Side two before being tackled by Chris Parrott. Two bucks up the middle gave Concordia first blood. They tried a buck on the conversion, but it was unsuccessful.

South took the kick on their 20 and returned it to the 39. Bob Bolyard then ran the quarterback sneak for two yards. Chris Parrott fumbled on the next play and Concordia recovered.

The Archers held and Concordia was forced to punt so South took the ball on their 21. Steve Burton clipped off two 14-yard runs. Tom Duff followed with nine yards, Steve Matthias for five, and Duff with 15 more. However, just before the quarter ended, Bolyard fumbled on the Cadet 21, and the Cadets recovered.

# # #

EARLY IN THE second quarter, Concordia quick-kicked on the third down from their 27. South ran into difficulties and punted to the Concordia 38 where the Cadets fumbled and South recovered.

Two plays later, with the ball on the 32, Bolyard passed to Steve Stults for 30 yards down to the Cadet two-yard line. Walt Raines plunged over for the score, but Steve Matthias' conversion try was blocked.

Concordia received the kickoff and got a sustained drive rolling to the Archer 20. Dan Belchner, however, crashed in from his end position to spill the Cadet quarterback for an eight-yard loss just before the half ended.

# # #

CONCORDIA'S opening kickoff in the second half rolled into the end zone and South took possession on the 20. They reeled off gains of four and nine yards before Bolyard threw a 32-yard pass to Belchner.

South moved to the 26 where Ron Ray scampered 16 yards to the 10. A six-yarder put the ball on the four, second and goal. Bolyard faded to pass but his receivers were covered so he took off around left end for the touchdown.

Concordia returned the kick to the 32. One play later Bolyard intercepted a Cadet pass on the 37. The Archers moved forward steadily, with the exception of a five-yard offside penalty to the 16. Walt Raines then plowed the remaining 16 yards for the touchdown and tried to repeat on the conversion but was stopped with no gain.

Concordia returned the kick 24 yards to their 46. They then picked up a first down on a fake punt just before the quarter ended.

# # #

CONCORDIA AND South then traded fumbles which put Concordia on the South 37. A pass and a 15-yard unnecessary roughness penalty against Steve Matthias gave Concordia a first down on the Archer 10. After an incompleted pass and a run netted the Cadets only two yards, they moved to the three, but was penalized back to the 13 for offensive holding.

When Concordia lost the ball on downs, South took over on the 17. Duff slipped through for nine. Then came the play of the day. Bob Bolyard bootlegged around left end 73 yards for a touchdown. Chris Parrott's pass on the conversion attempt was no good.

The last few minutes of the game were extremely uninteresting. Both teams put in freshmen who knew little of what to do or where to play. The following is a good example of such play.

Ken Robinson, a big freshman left halfback, had gained 10 yards on his only carry. Chris Parrott, the quarterback, called a 57, which is a fake to the fullback and a pitchout to the left half.

Movies Will Be Shown

Six movies are scheduled to be shown to three classes, Monday, Miss Lucy Mellen's home economics students will see "Immunization." The physical geography classes will view "Water Supply" and "Ground Water" Tuesday, and shop classes are to see "Orthographic Project," "Section," and "Sections and Conventions" next Wednesday.

Designers Associated To Tour Baer Field

"Next Wednesday the meeting of the Designers' Associated Club will be devoted to work on our drawings of custom cars and floor plans," said Tom Cooper, secretary-treasurer of the club. The meetin gwill be held in Room 46 at 3:30 p.m.

The club has planned a tour through the Baer Field radio tower and hangars on October 20.

Betty Byrne Finds Traveling Interesting, Enjoyable Hobby

Summer traveling is the interesting and enjoyable hobby of Betty Jayne Byrne, Senior B.

Born in Mobile, Ala., Betty can claim her right as a true Southerner. Having visited and lived in 46 of the 49 states, she can also claim her right as a northwesterner and a midwesterner.

Mr. Byrne's occupation was the reason the family of four first began moving. They traveled from Alabama to Florida, and then to Oregon where they were first bitten by the summer vacation bug. It was between the scenic area of Illinois and Oregon they decided they wanted to see more of the United States. In Oregon, they traveled to the well-known Timberline Lodge on Mount Hoot and several other mountains in that area.

Betty Jayne and her family were surprised to find the panhandle of Texas more interesting than barren. They also enjoyed the rustic beauty of the "Badlands" of South Dakota and Mount Rushmoor. In Yellowstone National Park, they were amazed by the friendliness of the bears. Some other interesting sports in the West included the Grand Canyon and the petrified forest of Arizona.

# # #

WHAT BETTY really enjoyed was New England, where they spent a great deal of time. An enormous ferry which carried cars, passengers, trucks, and even railroad cars, transported them from New Brunswick to Prince Edward Island.

This island, with its red, sandy beaches, is noted for lobsters and crabs. Here they visited the famous "House of Seven Gables."

Exploring the passageways of the old house proved to be interesting. One began behind a woodstack on the grounds and ended in the back of a book case on the third floor. From this point, the countryside surrounding the house and the bay could be seen. Because of this, the attack unseen would be extremely difficult.

On the ferry once more, they went to Nova Scotia, the home of Longfellow's "Evangeline." They returned through Boston and Cambridge where they saw the statue of the Minuteman. They also visited what is called the Brinestone Corner in Boston where an important church of Revolutionary War days stood. From Boston they visited Plymouth Rock and went on to Old Cape Cod with its small shops and souvenirs. Then followed West Point, Harvard, and Yale, which would interest any red-blooded American girl.

In New York City, they found the Empire State Building and the United Nations Building much more interesting than the pictures they had seen. The Staton Island ferry received their attention. But the most interesting thing they saw in New York was Wall Street at noon where people from all walks of life met.

THIS SUMMER, the travelers went to Cape Cod again and took a scenic cruiser from New Bedford, Mass., to Martha's Vineyard and Nantucket. Betty enjoyed this very much because it was so quaint. They particularly liked Provincetown, R. I., with its wharves and shops for the same reason. From there they traveled back to Boston once more and then on to Philadelphia and Independence Hall.

Washington, D. C., turned out to be much different than they had expected. Here they toured the Smithsonian Institute, the Capitol Building, the Art Gallery, and the very impressive Supreme Court, where they were fortunate enough to be able to sit in on a court session. The Lincoln Museum and the house where Lincoln died proved to be very interesting, as did almost all of Washington, D. C. After seeing the Pentagon Building and Washington's home at Mount Vernon, Va., they returned to Fort Wayne.

In the South, Betty had a most interesting experience. One morning she awoke to find a large turtle in her neighbor's yard. The top of its shell came almost to her knees, and he made quite a meal when they cut him up for turtle soup. He must have come in from the ocean during the night.

Other than those mentioned, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin, and Southern Canada were also very interesting to the Byrne family. The thing that impressed them the most in this area was the friendliness of the people to perfect strangers.

Betty Jayne's hobby of traveling has taken her to every state except Oklahoma, Arkansas, and North Dakota, which just might be the object of her travels next summer.

Questions For Archers!

What would it be? A good question for an ambitious Times reporter to ask in a poll?

Pat Forehand: What is your favorite "feeling?"

Jerry Long: Do you enjoy going to South Side and what do you think of the teachers?

Rosy Tsintsaroff: How do you carry a gym bag incognito?

Sharon Cullen: What would it be like if there were school only four days and the fifth were party day?

Sandy Collins: What do you think of nosy people who take these polls?

Tom Felger: What could you take more of—girls or pizza?

Karen Good: What do you think of the confusion in the gym fifth period?

Marianne Pinkham: What do you think of school?

Linda Tomson: What do you think of gangs and cliques?

Ginger Doyle: What do you think of the school systems in Indiana?

Phyllis Springer: Since the summers have been so wet and cold, what do you think about three years of school without summer vacation and then one year of vacation in sunny Florida?

Mr. Morey Given Anthony Award At Civic Theater

Mr. Jack Morey, director of South Side's senior play each year, was presented the Anthony Award from the Civic Theater last spring for his performance in "Teahouse of the August Moon."

This award is given annually in four separate divisions: principal roles, supporting parts, bit parts, and backstage work. It is presented to both a man and a woman for outstanding acting in a principal role of the season.

This also is done in supporting roles; however, either a man or a woman receive the award for a bit part, but not both. The person who has contributed the most backstage is also recognized.

In "Teahouse of the August Moon," Mr. Morey portrayed the role of Sergeant Gregovitch, a typical master sergeant in the army who had been around a lot. He put on a superb performance in the final scene where he was to be more than slightly intoxicated!

Active in the Civic Theater for more than 20 years, Jack Morey has also been a member of the Board of Directors and was once treasurer of the board. In three different years, he assumed the position of Business Manager, the only job for which he has been paid by the Civic Theater.

A few years ago at the Civic, Mr. Morey obtained a role in "Bus Stop," which he was particularly eager to play. He portrayed a professor about his own age, and his reason for seeking the part was, as he so readily described it, "In 'Bus Stop' there was a show within a show where my part would be that of Romeo in Shakespeare's 'Romeo and Juliet.' I thought that that would probably be my last opportunity to play Romeo, so I seized it," said Mr. Morey.

Berkley Waterson To Talk To Teachers

Mr. Berkley Waterson, staff member of the National AFL-CIO community services activities, will be the guest speaker at the Fort Wayne Teachers Council, Local 700, AFL-CIO Banquet next Thursday, at 5:30 p.m., at the Wayne Street Methodist Church.

This dinner meeting comes during the teachers association convention and will be counted as a regular session.

Tickets may be purchased for $1.75 from Mr. Glen Stebing, Miss Mary Crowe, Mr. David Cramer, and Mrs. Grace Welty.

Mr. David Cramer, South Side mathematics teacher, is president of the Regional Teachers Council. He urges all teachers to attend for a most enjoyable evening.

New Addition Has More Locker Space

South Side's new addition will house some of the most beautiful rooms in the entire school. In one of these spacious rooms will be shelf upon shelf of storage space. In another will be rows of showers, and in another room will be lines of widely spaced lockers.

Perhaps this scene would not seem beautiful to you, but to the coaches and athletes at South the opening of the school's new locker room will be an event of quite some merit.

At the present time, the Archer football squad has been jammed into the gym locker rooms along with the cross country runners. With hardly any room to breathe, let alone dress, the Archers have kept even tempers throughout their plight.

The new locker rooms were to have been completed by the time school started. This plan has been slightly altered, however, and nobody knows when the much-needed addition will be ready.

Nevertheless, when the new locker rooms are finished they will be quite an improvement over the old quarters of previous years. Storage space will be at a maximum and lockers will be bigger than previous types. Room between the rows of lockers will be more than sufficient.

Therefore, everyone in the athletic department has high hopes that the addition will be completed as soon as possible.

Loyal Jeanette Lynn Stays With Relative As Parents Move

Parents move, but our loyal South Siders stay. Such is the case of Jeanette Lynn, a senior. Her parents moved to Wisconsin last summer. Jeanette doesn't commute everyday to school, but she is living with her grandmother here in Fort Wayne. Jeanette just couldn't pull herself away and finish her high school days in another school. She is very loyal to the student body and teams and she feels that South Side has offered her many opportunities.

Jeanette is serving as president of GAA and is very active in service work. Her hobbies are swimming, tennis, and reading. Her favorite subject in school is government.

"I think GAA is a fine organization in which to make friends and to participate in athletics," says Jeanette. She wishes more underclass and upperclass girls would join.

"A photo contest between members will highlight the next meeting of the Camera Club," Mr. Ernest Walker, sponsor, has announced. The members will vote on snapshots which they have taken during the summer months. Those who attend the meeting are asked to bring their best pictures.

Smart Archers Continue To Study As Grade Period Closes

In Mr. Hull's Physics 1 period 1 class Dan Tritch made a perfect paper. In the Physics 1 period 4 class Larry Levy made a perfect paper.

In Miss Mellen's Home Economics 2 class Sue Van Fossen made the highest grade on the seven food groups. In her Home Economics 6 class, Sue Bechtold demonstrated for the class how to make the closed bed.

Mr. Hostetler gave the freshman placement test to the first semester students. William Muller made the highest grade.

On a test Mr. Hoover gave on the factoring of Algebra 2 problems, those who received perfect scores are Brenda Arnold, Lee Crowell, Dick Hirschburg, Sandy Kunkel, Bud Lucas, Ken Meese, Mary Jane Miller, Sandy Miller, Steve Pribble, and Dan Toyias.

Mr. Bobay's metal classes have been in mass confusion since the day school began. It seems that the electrical connections have not been hooked up due to the remodeling of the shops. Doctors Remmer And Radler Evaluate Teenage Viewpoints

By Martha Milnor

As a teenager, I loath the word "teenager." It indicts without evidence; it convicts without trial. Until word coiners produce a better synonym, however, I fear we are stuck with "teenager" just as the older generation is stuck with us now.

Indeed, Dr. H. H. Remmers and D. H. Radler of Purdue University, have written a book, "The American Teenager," which mirrors the high school mind in such a way that our elders might be justified in wondering just what they produced. Their findings, based on more than 15 years of Purdue Opinion Polls and thousands of solicited, anonymous letters, add up briefly to one fact: we are a sick generation.

Oh, there is hope for us "trustees of posterity," but I had to read between the lines to find it. Remmers and Radler pointedly do not preach. They report statistics and interpret them. Do we need changing? Judge for yourselves after reading the findings on how American youth regards the Bill of Rights.

z z z

FORTY-ONE per cent disagree with the principle of freedom of the press. Fifty-five per cent think newspapers should be allowed to print anything they want except military secrets.

Thirty-four per cent of us quarrel with freedom of speech. Thirteen per cent believe religious worship should be restricted by law. Twenty-five per cent disagree with the right of assembly. One third of us say that people who refuse to testify against themselves should be made to talk and should be severely punished. Another 20 per cent ■ uncertain. That is just ■ sample of what we think, according to the authors.

The poll takers paraphrased the Communist Manifesto and discovered that we, by no means, reject all Communist teachings. For instance, 58 per cent say that history is the story of the fight for power between different classes: "man and slave, landover and peasant, management and labor." Thirty-nine per cent think the price of goods should depend only on the cost of their manufacture. Sixty-two per cent of us said that modern society is moved chiefly by the desire for profit. Eighty-three per cent favor allowing the FBI to tap our wires to obtain evidence.

z z z

IN THE PHYSICAL, sexual, and social portions of their book the authors find everything from the sordid to the sublime. But one of the fiercest and most motivating of all emotions is the craving for popularity. To some, popularity, even of the most passing type, is worth any means to gain it. This applies to popularity among schoolmates and members of the opposite sex.

We worry about complexions, our clothing, our inability to express ourselves, and the fact we are not treated like adults by our parents. I suspect teenagers (there goes that word again) have been troubled with those problems since time began.

On the whole, the attitude of the American high school pupil toward his teachers is good. A majority find them sympathetic and fair. We also agree, by a slight majority, that teachers are underpaid.

z z z

THE AUTHORS QUOTE excerpts of many letters verbatim. Some tear your heart; others make you tear your hair to realize there are youths who put such thoughts on paper. One thing, if nothing else, stands out: poor spelling isn't confined to Fort Wayne schools.

Remmers and Radler have a chapter entitled, "How Can We Help?" In it they quote liberally from other psychologists and child behavior experts. They point up the need for critical thinking and finally, after full circle, lay the responsibility back where it started—on the family hearth. Our alarming opinions, it seems, reflect what our parents are saying.

The book makes us aware that other American teenagers share the same problems. We are not unique. Social-sexual problems can't be solved by statistics, but the authors' gloves-off manner in presenting them should help put them in a different perspective.

We have been called "the most exasperating, most unpredictable, and most inspiring" citizens in America. If psychologists, such as Dr. Remmers, continue to probe, perhaps—by the time we are 90—they will know why teenagers are unpredictable.

Junior, Judy Estlick, Has Main Interest In Horses, West

"Oh, for a life on the wide open range," could be a familiar remark by Judy Estlick, junior, whose main interests are horses and the western part of the United States.

Judy spent two weeks this summer at the Don-K Ranch in the Sangre de Cristo Mountains of Colorado. This ranch is located near Pueblo, Colo.

A normal day on the ranch included eight hours of riding horses, three hours of swimming, and eating the "wonderful" food. Night activities usually consisted of dancing, singing, playing cards, or going to the movies.

Though the entire trip was packed with thrills, Judy's most exciting experience was when she met up with a rattlesnake while riding along a trail in the mountains. As Judy tells it, she was next to last in line as a group was progressing up the trail on horseback. All of a sudden she heard a rattle and glanced back only to see a rattlesnake close behind her. Her horse immediately reared straight up. By that time, the others in the group had noticed, and one of the men pulled out a knife and killed the snake. In remembrance of this special occasion, Judy has a few rattles.

z z z

WHEN ASKED how long she had been interested in horses, Judy replied, "Ever since I can remember." Much of Judy's experience was gained at the farm of ■ friend near her grandmother's.

In past years Judy has won several ribbons in horse shows in southern Indiana. These include two Western Pleasures and one English Pleasure.

Judy's interest in animals is also exemplified in the fact that she enjoys training dogs. She owns a German Shepherd which she has trained herself. Several neighbor dogs have also been under Judy's guidance. To represent her talents in this area, Judy possesses a dog show cup which she won a few years ago.

Because of her love for animals, Judy plans to become a veterinarian, gaining a college degree at Purdue.

z z z

ASIDE FROM HER few weeks in Colorado this summer, Judy held a job at a doctor's office. Her duties consisted of answering the phone, filing, sterilizing instruments, and sometimes helping with treatments.

Though Colorado remains Judy's Number 1 choice as the most ideal place to live, eastern Canada also attracts her. This results from a trip four years ago through New England and up the St. Lawrence River to Montreal and Quebec.

Judy is on the college prep course taking English, physics, Latin, U.S. history, and developmental reading. Her school activities include participation in Philo and 36 Workshop.

Accompanying second period is Sally Capps, while Joyce Brittenham does service work. Servicing third period is Carol Kenner. Margo Martindale and Janet Terry are period four service workers. Accompanying the occasional choir are Barb Steiner and Diane Meyer.

Period 5 service workers are Beth Curly and Elizabeth Hostetler. Sharon Ruhl and Sally Capps play the piano for the concert choir, which meets that period.

Sunny Kaade and Kay Krause help sixth period, while Carol Lockwood and Nancy Hickman lend their services in period 7.

USA Program To Feature Round Table Discussion

A round table discussion about the personal problems of the freshmen will be in the USA program next Thursday at 3:30 p.m. in the Greeley Room.

Freshman and sophomore girls who wish to join must pay dues before 3:30 p.m.

New Program Established For Teacher Education

South Side students interested in elementary school teaching now have an opportunity to acquire their education at Purdue University under a new program established this year.

The program, approved by the Indiana Commission on Teacher Training and Licensing, is designed to prepare only elementary school teachers of a high quality.

A limited number of students will be admitted, and admission to the university will not guarantee placement in the program. Applicants will be accepted on the basis of above average scholarship, leadership qualities, good mental and physical health, and positive attitudes toward teaching.

z z z

THE TYPES OF work included in the program are general education, professional education, and specialized education. Approximately two years will be spent on general education where the student will gain a broad understanding of courses dealing with many professions.

Courses emphasizing the characteristics and development of children will make up the professional education part of the program. Students will also have a chance to observe other teachers at work.

The main purpose of the specialized education program is to develop proficiency in one subject.

z z z

MR. R. NELSON SNIDER, principal, stated that he believes this to be a fine course. When asked why more students are presently embarking upon careers in elementary education in contrast with those entering secondary education, Mr. Snider replied that more elementary teachers are needed than high school teachers and also that the field ■ becoming more appealing to men.

The reason for the latter is that with the single salary scale presently being offered, teachers in elementary education are earning as much as those in secondary education.

Enjoy Teachers' Convention

While the teachers are attending school, rest up! Remember the teachers will be smarter and really inspired after attending "school" while we vacation. But seriously, we wish the teachers the "best" — may they find relaxation as well as acquiring more "know how" of their profession.

Pupils and teachers will both benefit from these educational sessions arranged for the teachers.

Miss Graham, Mr. McClure Senior Advisers For 12th Year

Mary Graham

Jake McClure

Mrs. Robert Gernand

William Applegate

Evlyn Spray

Alfred Hemmer

Juniors Elect Mrs. Gernand, Mr. Applegate

Mrs. Luse, Mrs. Spray, Messrs. Smith, Hemmer Chosen By Sophomores

Miss Mary Graham, English teacher, and Mr. J. H. McClure, government teacher, have been elected to the position of senior class advisers for the twelfth straight year.

Advisers who were chosen for the junior class are Mr. William Applegate, English teacher, and Mrs. Robert Gernand, home economics teacher. Because of an exceptionally large class, the sophomores have four advisers. Those chosen by the sophomore class officers are Mrs. Mildred Luse, mathematics teacher, Mrs. Evlyn Spray, English teacher, Mr. Leon Smith, art teacher, and Mr. Alfred Hemmer, history teacher.

# # #

MISS GRAHAM and Mr. McClure will lead the senior class through the Senior Reception, December 4, which the parents are invited to attend; the Senior Banquet, February 6; the Senior Play, which will be presented April 10 and 11; and the Senior Dance, June 2.

The Junior Banquet, November 14, will be the first social activity of all the classes. May 1 is the date set for the Junior Prom, which is the main social activity of the junior class. Both of these events will be under the direction of Mr. Applegate and Mrs. Gernand.

Mrs. Luse, Mrs. Spray, Mr. Smith, and Mr. Hemmer will assist the sophomore class in preparing their one main social event, the Sophomore Party, April 24.

25 Contestants To Attend Meet

Twenty-five contestants and five judges from South Side will attend the Howe speech contest for inexperienced speakers at the Howe Military Academy, Howe, Ind. The students will take the trip on a chartered bus leaving at 8 a.m. Saturday, November 8, and will return around 6 p.m.

The contest is divided into two divisions. The freshmen and sophomores are in one group, and juniors and seniors are in another. The students will compete in oratory, dramatic declamations, humorous original oratory, and extemporaneous speech. Ribbons will be given to the winners. To the school with the best showing, a trophy will be awarded.

The judges representing South Side will be Nancy Bailey, Kay Krenchbaum, Janice Leist, Jane Koegel, and Mr. Robert Storey, head of the speech department. The alternate judges are Patti Arnold and Sharon Hubbell.

Bob Kelly To Speak At Safety Council Nov. 6

"What To Look for When Buying a Used Car" will be the topic of discussion at the November 6 meeting of the Safety Council in Room 176 at 3:30 p.m.

Bob Kelly, co-owner of Fort Wayne Motors, will be the guest speaker.

Capital Paper Honors Times

The South Side Times was recognized in the Indianapolis Star by a picture of John Richardson, Barbara Miser, and Doris Walter at work on the Times and some information about our school paper.

The Star said,

"You wouldn't recognize the old high school paper!

"Gone forever is the dull four-page sheet filled with essays and poems from English classes, gossip columns and trite editorials.

"Today's edition is a bright, perky paper built on a hard core of school news, interesting feature stories, crisp pictures, and imaginative make-up."

# # #

THE SOUTH SIDE TIMES has a weekly paper with seven columns, 154 inches a page, and six to 10 pages regularly, except during the tournament, and then the paper is increased.

Many things have caused the change in the school's newspapers. One big reason is the improvement in the quality of journalism instruction. Many of these instructors have had special journalism training or newspaper experience.

Miss Rowena Harvey, editor at the age of 14, started her newspaper experience as a freshman in high school. She worked on the Daily Echo, their school paper. In college she did all forms of the paper. She was the second woman to do this type of job in Indiana University. After Miss Harvey graduated from college she started work for The News-Sentinel as a sports editor. She worked at this job for 25 summers, and she was a copy editor the last seven summers before coming to South Side.

# # #

THE SHORTRIDGE High School in Indianapolis was quoted as saying, "Fort Wayne's South Side Times is the size of a paper in a regular metropolitan city." The Times is one of the biggest papers in the country and is the biggest in Indiana. It was rated the Medalist Paper in the United States.

Mathematics Section Undertakes Project

The Math Section of the Junior Academy of Science is undertaking as a group project, the plotting and calculating of all the mathematics needed for a shot to the moon.

All those who are interested are urged to attend the meeting today.

Seniors Teach Government To Kelly 9th, 10th Graders

In order for the school to comply with the requirements of the Government Aid to Schools Act, students of government classes are teaching the freshmen and sophomore students in the homerooms.

The high schools of this state do not, as a rule, offer a four-year course in the social studies. At South Side many pupils do not take the ninth year course in citizenship or the tenth year course in general history.

The Act provides that all schools shall provide two weeks preceding the day of any general congressional or state election five full recitation periods of class discussion concerning our state government. The homeroom periods are lengthened to 9 a.m. for this teaching.

Students who are teaching are gaining experiences in planning discussions and tests for their classes. To highlight the classes, student teachers are bringing outside clippings and reading material. Each student teacher is required to give a final test tomorrow. The results of the test will be given to the History Department. The student receiving the highest grade in each homeroom will have his picture put in the Times.

The student teachers and their homerooms are as follows: Carl Schafer, Room 10; Ruth Farlow, Room 182; Carolyn Dinius, Room 72; Gregory Avdakov, Room 184; Hoy McConnell, Room 50; Barbara Ronan, Room 146; Sharon Hubbell, Room 75; Kay MacDanel, Room 64; Steven Tracey, Room 66.

Hi-Y Discusses Service Project

A meeting of Hi-Y was held last Monday night in the assembly room of the YMCA. The meeting mainly consisted of the remaining ideas concerning the special service project, a discussion on the Hi-Y cushions, and a report on the freshman inserts for the directory by Mike Gilsdorf and Gene Kraus.

Dave Dunstone, Bob Mann, and John Meyerholtz attended a meeting at the Chamber of Commerce for a Mental Health program.

This program is designed to help the teenagers of Fort Wayne have a better understanding of mental health problems. Explanations were also given on the use and purpose of the United Fund donations.

After the business meeting, most of the members went swimming at the YMCA.

Halloween Dance At Coliseum Oct. 31

South Side students are invited to attend a Halloween dance tomorrow night at the Coliseum Exhibition Hall, 8 p.m. to 11 p.m. The dance is sponsored by the Park Board and students from South Side, North Side, Central, and Central Catholic will be able to attend.

Admission is free and Jack Powell will be spinning the records. Entertainment will be provided by the Continentals.

Chaperones are provided by the PTA. Those from South Side are: Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Gall, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Mitchell, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Lentz, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kollman, Dr. and Mrs. J. F. Favorite, Mr. and Mrs. William Good, and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Tipton. Police protection will also be provided.

Buses will run to the Coliseum from North Side and downtown.

Cyclotron President Announces Program

"The program for the November 4 meeting of Cyclotron Club will consist of a very brief business meeting and a question and answer period, followed by work on the cyclotron," stated Pat Doherty, president of the club.

Cyclotron Club meets at 3:30 p.m. in the Cyclotron Room.

PTA To Host South Mothers At Class Teas, November 3-6; Committee Chairmen Announced

Clubs, Music Dept., Teachers To Provide Entertainment At Teas

The Freshman Tea, November 2, 2 p.m., in the cafeteria, will be the first of the class teas to be given by the PTA for South mothers. The Sophomore, Junior, and Senior teas will be at 2:30 p.m. on November 4, 5, and 6, respectively.

A tour of the building to acquaint the mothers with the school will highlight the Freshman Tea. Chairmen working on the tea are Mrs. Paul Mitchell, welfare; Mrs. David Sherman, ways and means; Mrs. Carl Ashman, membership; Mrs. Lester Grile, hospitality; and Mrs. John Huffman, Jr., program.

# # #

THE SOPHOMORE TEA will have a demonstration by the publications and business departments and an explanation of the purpose of the Meterite Club by one of the club's officers. Sophomore class chairmen helping with the Sophomore Tea include, welfare, Mrs. Phillip Redding; ways and means, Mrs. Lowell Redding; membership, Mrs. Torwell Matthias; hospitality, Mrs. Charles Springer; and program, Mrs. Lavern Gelow.

# # #

36 WORKSHOP WILL present part of the program for the Junior Tea. The developmental reading classes will demonstrate their work, and Mr. Glen Stebing will explain to the mothers the purposes of the Driver Training course.

Junior class chairmen planning the Junior Tea are Mrs. Thomas Church, welfare; Mrs. James Demetre, ways and means; Mrs. Chester Leopold, membership; Mrs. J. F. Favorite, hospitality; and Mrs. Herbert Cooper, program.

# # #

THE SENIOR TEA will be highlighted by a talk by Mr. R. Nelson Snider, principal, about colleges, scholarships, and jobs. The Concert Choir will provide the entertainment. Senior class chairmen include welfare, Mrs. Melvin Ehrman; ways and means, Mrs. H. W. Esterline; membership, Mrs. Dean Lockwood; hospitality, Mrs. Richard Galbreath; and program, Mrs. M. E. Bickel.

Background music for the teas will be provided by an instrumental group consisting of members of the orchestra.

Mr. Wm. Applegate To Appear In Civic Theater Production

Mr. Bill Applegate, French teacher here at South Side, is a man of many talents. At present he is playing the role of John Lawless, butler to the Biddle family, in the Civic Theater production, "The Happiest Millionaire."

"I had acting experience at the University of Michigan and the Little Theater in Lafayette before coming to Fort Wayne," said Mr. Applegate. "So far I have appeared in 22 Music Festival, Children's Theater, and Civic Theater productions."

When asked what his favorite role was, Mr. Applegate replied, "I enjoy playing character roles best. I believe my favorite part was that of Captain Braken in 'South Pacific'."

# # #

"THE TEENAGERS here in Fort Wayne seem to have a strong interest in the theater," said Mr. Applegate. "Many high school students participate in the various Civic activities, both acting and working backstage."

In answer to a question about stage-fright, Mr. Applegate said, "Everyone has stage-fright and you will never overcome it completely. However, you can learn to control it by first working backstage, then branching out to small roles, then larger ones."

Mr. Applegate believes the Civic Theater and the Fine Arts Foundation are very worthwhile activities. "I believe they are an excellent way to display local talent and also provide a worthwhile way to spend leisure time," he said.

Eight Girls To Participate In Short Story Contest

A short story contest in the form of a mock radio broadcast is the program for the Philo meeting Monday at 3:30 p.m. in the Greeley Room.

Eight girls will participate in the program and will be judged by two English teachers.

Nov. 19-21 Date For Book Fair

The annual ACE Book Fair, which is sponsored by the Association for Childhood Education with the co-operation of the Allen County Public Library and the English Council, will be held November 19, 20, and 21, from 5 p.m. to 9 p.m. at the Brentwood School. The fair's chairman is Miss Grace Lloyd of Indian Village School with Mrs. Florence Trader of South Wayne School helping as co-chairman.

Miss Lloyd stated that, "There will be approximately 3,000 books on display including some 1938 editions. These books cover all grade levels—kindergarten through high school." She explained, "The book fair is not a book sale as so many people in the past have thought. No books will be sold. It is just an opportunity to come and browse around to see what is available for pupils at all grade levels."

In addition, November 20, 21, 24, and 25 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. are the dates set for the classroom visitation.

Math Section To Assign Project Committees

"Anyone interested in mathematics as a hobby is invited to join the Math Section," stated Mr. Don T. Weaver, sponsor.

Committees will be appointed for research and math projects at today's meeting at 3:30 p.m. in Room 77. A math puzzle will be solved by all who attend.

Randolph Jacobs Trophy Awarded To Senior Girl, Alice Joy Weddle

The coveted Randolph Jacob's Cup was awarded to Alice Weddle, senior, at the Service Club Banquet, October 16.

Jim Jackson, junior, presented the cup to Alice, who was not present to receive the trophy because of a singing engagement, and conducted the election to determine the winner. Everyone who attended the banquet received a ballot and voted for one senior service worker.

# # #

"SERVICE WORK has been good for us, and you have been good to us," concluded Mr. Ronald Gersmehl, English teacher, expressing the teachers' appreciation of service workers. Mr. Gersmehl also stated that both the student and teacher benefit from the opportunity to know each other on a "human being basis" rather than the teacher behind the desk pounding in the lessons, student obeying basis.

Though some students often believe otherwise, the teacher must spend many hours working outside of class, and because of this, Mr. Gersmehl remarked that the time saved by service workers is invaluable.

Judy Thompson presented the students' view on service work. She said that one of the important values of service work was the opportunity to know the teachers, and to discover that sometimes (very seldom, of course) even they make mistakes.

Judy also stated that service work develops character, teaches courtesy, gives the student the feeling that he has done something for his school, and serves as a thank you to the teachers for their devoted service.

CUP WINNER — For her outstanding service to South Side, Alice Weddle was awarded the Jacobs Cup at the Service Club Banquet October 23. Alice is receiving the cup from Jim Jackson.

# # #

GUEST SPEAKER for the evening was Mrs. Francis Long, who recited monologues with musical backgrounds. Mrs. Long presented a love poem, a humorous wedding told through a telephone conversation, and ended on a serious note with "Your Mother's Prayer" by Herschel.

Mrs. Long also introduced Jerry Leaman to the group who played "Tick Tock Polka" and "Birth of the Blues" on the accordion.

Dave Dunstone served as master of ceremonies of the banquet. Joan Stanton delivered the invocation. Judy Rumple led the group in singing "Be Happy," "Shine on Harvest Moon," and the alma mater; while Miss Pauline VanGorder, dean, accompanied on the piano.

General chairman of the banquet was Susie Holmes. Committee chairmen included Sara Hindman, invitations; Kathy Dunigan, programs; Sue Brenn, decorations; Patty Arnold, program; Janet Gareiss, menu; Maria Hilsmier, serving; and Stan Hoover, cleanup.

'South's Pacific' Is Banquet Theme; Juniors' Event To Be November 14

"South's Pacific" is the theme for this year's Junior Banquet. The event will be held at Trinity Episcopal Church on November 14 at 6:30 p.m.

Tickets will go on sale next week for $1.35 and may be purchased from any of the following juniors: Chairman, Joan Novitsky and co-chairman, George Piffer; Steve Meyers, Carolyn Holmes, Lois Levine, Carol Salaka, Posy Weileman, Linda Niblick, Sally Burton, Bruce Berlin, Barb Eggeman, Barb Collier, Anna Mae Chen, Karen Good, Lynn Gall, Susan Van Fossen, Fran Hoffman, and Susie Vesey.

Program chairmen, Penny Hunt and Bessie Ferguson, have asked Mr. R. N. Snider, principal, to give a short speech.

# # #

THE ENTERTAINMENT committee has been ably assisted by the class advisers, Mrs. Gernand and Mr. Applegate. James Jackson, chairman, and Jan Lawry, co-chairman, of planning the entertainment have been working with the following: Julie Carr, Judy Robinson, Nancy Thayer, Sharon Probst, Betty Pherson, Beth Golden, Margo Dixon, Barb Wallace, Kathy Sosinski, Sue Sappenfield, Sandra Landree, Geri Geller, Sunny Kande, Kathy Lee, Susie Hoard, Dave Bosselman, Larry Levy, Tom Cooper, and Charles Jellison. The entertainment will be a talent show based around the movie, "South Pacific," with its characteristic island atmosphere.

Marilyn Bugg is chairman of the decorations committee, and Chuck Jellison is chairman of the poster committee.

# # #

TAKING CARE OF the banquet publicity is Katie Rastetter, chairman, and her committee, Barb Bailey, Susan Van Fossen, Julie Dedman, Sue Stafford, Janet Lawry, Sandra Landree, and Sam DeHaven.

Heading the invitation committee is Linda Tomson, assisted by the following: Joyce Brittenham, Carol Miller, Carol Szink, and Janet Terry.

"Since the enthusiastic and capable juniors are slaving away, the success of our Junior Banquet is assured," stated Barb Fredrick, chairman of the Social Council.

$2,489 Contributed To United Fund

A total of $2,489 was contributed to the United Fund by South Side students, faculty and other school employees.

"R. Nelson Snider, principal, felt as though South Side could have contributed more. The contribution was a decrease of $63.63 from last year's contribution of $2,552.63.

Merle Baldwin, Miss Versatility, Guess Who? Proves To Be All-round Archer

If a "Miss Versatility" title was presented to a South Side student, Merle Baldwin would be a high ranking candidate.

Merle is now a 16-year-old junior at Archerland taking French, history, physics, and English. She participates in the band and orchestra, and also does service work for Mr. George Collyer.

However, Merle still finds time to help lead the student body in cheers for the team and perform her many staff duties of The South Side Times. On the Times Merle's main responsibility is circulation manager. Merle writes many of the stories appearing in The Times and is the newly elected secretary of 1500 Club. By working busily on the staff, Merle has earned over 5,000 points and now has her gold pin.

z z z

WHEN MERLE, the vice-president of the junior class, was questioned about the new class advisers, she replied, "We officers feel that our recently chosen sponsors, Mrs. Robert Gernand and Mr. William Applegate, will be great assets in planning this year's junior events." Merle further stated, "The Junior Banquet, which will take place on November 14, is now being planned; and we would like to have 100 per cent attendance from the junior class."

Being a member of the reserve cheerleading squad, Merle is looking forward to leading the team to victory during the basketball season. According to Merle, cheerleading is "the greatest."

z z z

MERLE NOW holds the position of first flutist in both band and orchestra, and she is looking forward to the concerts they will give under guest conductors in the Plymouth Congregational Church. Merle enjoys orchestra very much and likes band because she believes that it represents a cross section of the school.

Aside from participating in band and orchestra, Merle is also a member of the Recorder Society, which is usually an ensemble of two flutes, a recorder, a cello, and a piano. She is one of the few students now attending South Side woh can play the recorder, which is a wooden forerunner of the flute. There are various types of recorders; Merle plays the soprano.

On Saturday mornings Merle's spare time is taken in teaching six students flute lessons. Merle herself takes flute lessons from Mrs. Walter Kerfoot, the first flutist of the Fort Wayne Philharmonic Orchestra.

z z z

LAST SUMMER Merle participated in all of the Summer Festival performances in Franke Park. She played in the orchestra in "Showboat" and sang in the chorus of both "Kiss Me Kate" and "Damn Yankees." "It was really fun; and the experience I gained was invaluable," states Merle.

Merle is a member of a Modern Dance group which meets every Wednesday evening under the direction of John Neff.

Merle teaches Sunday School to a class of thre and four year olds every Sunday morning at the Lutheran Church of Our Savior. She is also vice-president of Seganeet, the Luther League group in her church.

Line Siraem and Lhirale Lalh—Two boys new at South trying to cope with the woes of a public school.

Vysila Nhrema—A sophomore girl who spends most of her time as a bookhead on The Times, Meterite president, and a petitioner for 36 Workshop.

Nke Eowh—In our midst is a hefty junior boy doing a fine job of following in his brother's footsteps.

Lalsy Illd—This Kelly lass is often associated with cheerleading.

Risci Chubs—This freshman became troubled when she couldn't locate the gym.

Ussei Yvese—A jumping junior that is also a bookhead on The Times.

Yakht Osinskis—This is the young lady that has trouble with her contact lenses in speech class.

Akjc Dinewr—This sophomore boy is treasurer of 36 Workshop and an agent for The Times.

Honj Yermetzloh—New president of Hi-Y is one of the main jobs of this senior boy.

Yram Eus Obrtrenso—Big wheel in Philo.

Arbb Dfrreecki—Bookhead with almost all 100 per cent rooms in her book.

Npeyn Tuhn—Always looking for funny incidents that have happened to people, so she can put them in her column.

Goram Xdnio—This junior can always make her presence known by her laugh.

Yoh Cmunnclelo—Threw his shoulder out of whack again.

Asnus Eisble—Seems to have trouble with the slippery ramps. She fell twice in one day.

Ootfllba Eamt—The one thing everyone should support.

Retev Lom—This freshman boy is from Sweden. His first impression of South Side was that it was "pretty big." He has an adorable blond flat top.

Kicd Rebroget—This lad is a senior plus and sergeant-of-arms of Hi-Y. During the summer he can be seen at Lake St. Clair.

Eanjne Laroc—This blond sophomore seems to be an Olympics prospect in the field of high jumping. Could her long legs be the reason behind this, or is it just luck?

Duyj Votsyikin—This active lass can be seen in the Times room almost anytime of the day. It seems that she is what they call general manager or something like that.

Mot Orblyad—This big guy seems to be talented in basketball. He was only a member of the 1958 State Basketball Champs. He is easily recognized by his large hands.

Lasyl Urtnob—This dark-haired gal has glass eyes. No, not really, but she does have contacts. This junior who is a mid-termer is on the major staff of the Times. She also has a dog named "Punkin" who has received some trophies for her mistress.

Retgofluf—This is my name because I seem to have forgotten how to spell. Please don't tell anyone I wrote this. My friends above would be furious.

Parent's Point Of View

How many, if any, responsibilities should high school students accept in the home?

This question was recently put forth to parents of various Archers. Before discovering what they have to say, let's see what determines the responsibilities given to high school students.

Your responsibilities in the home depend partially upon the time consumed by school work and extra-curricular activities; however, as Mrs. Dean R. Lockwood states, "I do not believe that outside activities and school work should monopolize so much of a student's time that he cannot assume some responsibility in his home."

Mrs. Lockwood, who now has two daughters in South Side, Carol, a senior, and Joyce, a freshman, further says, "Since parents work and strive for the very best for their children, each child should realize that he has duties in the home that cannot be neglected."

z z z

EACH MEMBER of Archerland should also remember that he should work together with his parents and brothers and sisters to achieve one of the most precious and valuable possessions in the world, family closeness.

Bob Duncan's mother, Mrs. Charles F. Kollman, who is the president of South Side's Parent-Teacher Association, believes that every family must work together as a unit, and everyone in the family must accept certain responsibilities.

Mrs. Kollman also comments, "Although the amount of duties differ from week to week, whenever an unusual situation arises all members of the family should be prepared to accept the necessary responsibilities."

z z z

MRS. JOHN D. MARTINDALE, who has two daughters now attending South Side, Margo, a senior, and Jan, a sophomore, believes that there should be a formula in the home as to how much is necessary to be done; and the responsibilities should be divided so that each member does his own share.

Mrs. Martindale further states, "Children don't need to be given work just for the sake of working; they should have free time to do as they please after they have performed their required tasks."

z z z

IN SUMMING UP her answer to the question, Mrs. Robert Parrott, the mother of Chris Parrott, the newly-elected sophomore class president, had this to say: "Responsibilities and the recognition of them are very important to everyone. The high school student today has a very important and demanding responsibility in first securing the best possible education to prepare himself for the future. He has other responsibilities too—to his school, community, home, and parents. Each are deserving and should receive a portion of his time budget."

Mrs. Parrott also remarked, "Lawn care, snow shoveling, waxing and washing the family car are examples of home responsibilities that a high school boy should be able to easily accept without interfering with his education. Students who have home responsibilities develop more interest and pride in their home than those without."

How To Be Expelled

Don't come late; take the whole day off.

Don't copy; let someone else do it all.

Don't let your parents do your homework; they've been away from school too long.

Don't whisper in class; shouting is more effective.

Don't run down stairs; slide down the banister.

Don't throw erasers; books are harder.

Don't peek at anyone's exam paper; have it passed to you.

Don't borrow from your neighbor; take what you want.

Don't wear bermudas to school; short shorts get more attention.

Don't let your teacher worry herself into an early grave; help her.

Posy's Pointers

By Posy Weilemann

Dear Posy,

I have a very unique problem, I think. T he girl I like lives in a northeastern Indiana city. I attend a military school some miles away. This presents many problems. Please send me some advice.

"Miserable"

Dear "Miserable",

It must not present too many problems, or I doubt if you would be dating her. If you both keep busy in different activities at your own school, the time will pass a lot faster; and you'll have a lot of interesting things to talk about when you see each other. Also, remember what they say about, "Absence makes the heart grow fonder."

Dear Posy,

I'm a junior girl, and I have the maddest crush on a senior boy. I don't know what to do though; the senior boys all seem to be madly pursued by the younger girls. I would really like to snare this one.

Pinky

Dear Pinky,

After last week's column you seem to have a different impression than some girls. Just don't be too obvious about it. Boys don't like a girl that follows them everywhere and is always underfoot. Why don't you drop a hint to one of his friends that you'd like to date him. If he doesn't ask you out after that, I doubt if he will.

Dear Posy,

How can I convince a certain boy with a swelled head that I'm not as hard up as he thinks? When I had a date with a different boy he said, "Well, I'm glad she finally got another date. Now I won't be obligated to ask her out."

Susy

Dear Susy,

Anyone who would be unkind enough to make a remark like that isn't worth spending any time on. You can convince him that you're not hard up by dating other boys, and by checking him off your list permanently.

Dear Posy,

I like a boy very much. Some of my friends say he is losing his good reputation by running around with the wrong people. I don't think he is. What should I do?

Determined

Dear Determined,

Base your judgment on the facts of how he treats you. If he is always considerate of you and acts like a gentleman then forget about the silly rumors.

Seniors Tell Regrets Of Past Four Years

The seniors of today give some of their comments when asked the question: "As a senior, if you had your four years of high school to live over again, what would or wouldn't you do?"

Rosy Tsintsaroff: I would work harder and not place such a high value on social life.

Jerry Long: Coming into South as a freshman, I would start out by studying at least two hours every night.

Melvin Smith: Considering the situation I was in, I would definitely work harder on the subjects I took. I wouldn't ease up when I thought I had it made.

Art Wilson: I would work hard on my subjects and be prepared in class.

Marvin Smith: I would do my best to accomplish every high grade I could get. I made the mistake of taking high school for a joke in my freshman year.

Diane Decker: I would study more.

Pris Ratican: I would get on the ball and study a lot more.

Lonnie Kimble: I would put much more emphasis on grades and making things sink in for good!

Judy Thompson: As far as studying goes I'd do the same, but I'd limit myself to fewer clubs so that I could devote my time to just the ones I had a strong interest in.

Cheri Henry: If I had four years to live over again I would definitely study more. A freshman never realizes the importance of good grades until he is a senior.

Ginger Doyle: My advice is to really work hard. If I had to do it all over again I'd study every night, not get behind, and get into the organizations which I had the most interests in.

Phyllis Springer: If I had it all to do over again I'd finish all the things I started, instead of quitting and starting something new.

Judy Rumple: I'd learn how to study—something I'm having trouble doing now. It's not until you're trying to get into the college of your choice that you realize what you should have been doing these past four years.

Freshmen, take note! These seniors have been through it all and know what they're talking about. Study hard and then some!

Typical Sophomore

I am a sophomore . . . I swagger down the hall now that I've passed my freshman year . . . I copy all fads and fashions that seniors wear . . . I carry the smallest notebook the bookstore has to offer . . . I am an amateur in the field of copying . . . Cheating is still an unknown field . . . I have begun to appreciate the music played at assemblies . . . By this time I have learned the words to the school song . . . I am through with health . . . I still carry a gym bag . . . I let stray dogs into the gym . . . How I long to be a junior so I can initiate . . . I chew a pack of gum a day . . . I am never quiet in the halls . . . I walk slowly down the halls . . . I always have my books closed five minutes before the bell rings . . . Nobody can tell me anything for a I am a sophomore.

LEVYty

By Larry Levy

Oleho!

The greeting above, as you all know, is the Outer Mongolian way of saying hello. To all the new freshmen, reading this column will be a new experience; but to the old-timers at South the shock is somewhat softened. Before you ask us what that funny looking word at the top of this column is, let us explain about last year.

Last year a new record was set for the most times we were asked what "LEVYty" means on a Tuesday with the temperature 73 and the sky full of cirro-cumulus clouds between 8:33 a.m. and 2:07 p.m.—and that's quite a record. So this year, instead of explaining what it means, we want to try and break last year's record!

Archimechie's Law Proven?

X. P. Archimechie, an ancient physicist who proved that the light in your refrigerator comes on when you open the door, has recently had one of his laws proven. Mr. Louie Hull, physics teacher, was transferring some lab equipment from one room to another. With his arms full of glass test tubes, meters, electrical apparatus, and physics equipment, he approached the door and Crash!

Another teacher happened to be coming the other way and the result was broken glass. But at least they proved Archimechie's Law, which states something about "If equal forces collide"—well, you can imagine the rest.

Problem Solved?

In answer to the current problem of how to get through the halls efficiently, many solutions have been suggested. These solutions range from a system of one-way halls to a plea for the students to be more courteous and considerate. The latter solution has been put to the test and seems to be working quite smoothly.

Some members of Homeroom 142 are secretly working on a plan for a series of conveyor belts! Blueprints are being drawn, and at press time the group was seeking financial aid.

Sail or Snail

There's nothing greater in the world than to go sailing on a nice, breezy day if you've got the boat and the time. So instead of staying home and watching the Saturday football game, we pile into a car and head for Lake Wawasec.

After rigging this beautiful 19-foot sailboat, we cast her off and head for the other end of the lake, which is about five miles away. We had the sail set on a broad reach (that means getting all available wind) and were really clipping along. Then all of a sudden, R-I-P, and down comes our 30-foot mainsail!

What would you do out in the middle of a lake with your mainsail down and your jib (little sail) taking you at a snail's pace? The answer is nothing! Eventually we reached shore, and by making a few minor adjustments we set out once more. So what started out as an hour cruise across the lake ended up to be a day's voyage, but that's the sport of it!

Power Hitter?

Kelly Couples Remain Loyal; Attend Football Game, Hayride

Hi, Archer fans! The autumn air has hit all football enthusiasts. At each game it is really hard to find a seat, but Merle Baldwin and Bill Lentz always seem to get ahead of everybody else. Aren't Mimi Hinman, Jackie Hawk, Jim Spuller ('58) and Jerry Long the ones who walk in late but always manage to get seats? Bonnie Riskas and Mike Turnet (C,C.) are often ones in need of a seat but usually find one . . . next to the band!

After each game, if anyone looks, they will find Karen McCrome, Sue Sappenfield, Sue Lewis, Sue Perry, Janet Lawry, and Judy Chapman waiting patiently by the boys' locker room. Could it be they are waiting for Terry Berk, Bob King, Frank Lude, Bob Duncan, Mike Millikan, and Lawson White?

It seems to me that we've been missing three junior girls at our games this fall. Maybe Carol Salaka, Rodka Shady, and Linda Woodruff are more intrigued with Roger Wisely, Ron Guthier, and Ed Herman from New Haven.

Well, the DeMolay hayride attracted a lot of Archers including Molly Dixon who had quite a time riding around on Larry Brown's back, as Jan Martindale and Gene Krause looked on.

Debby Brooke and Bryan Ronan found plenty to do in eating all of the hot dogs, while Diane Frederick and Tim Shank (St. Bede's) drank all of the Coke. During the rush to get in the food line, Bill Harmison ('57) embarrassed Judy Robinson by spilling two Cokes on someone.

Marijane Tobey, Sheri DeYoung, Steve Burton, and Bob Bolyard showed their skill in first aid when Gene Menze burned Linda Amos with his roasting stick.

Wasn't Gretchen Meister the one seen tumbling off the fence into the arms of Fred Van Fossen ('58) and Dick Tipton, as Vicki Sheldon stood by holding the food?

About 8:30 Sylvia Ehrman, Sharon Carrel, Steve Gaskill and Tom Lerch stumbled in just in time for a quick trip on the last wagon after a rough day at a car wash. Ruby Martin and Steve Mathias were the only smart ones; they arrived in time for the first wagon.

Evilou North and Chris Parrott spent most of their time hunting for Toni Halley and Tom Hertel. Evie and Chris later found them on the wagon they were supposed to be on.

Many were the disappointed frowns when Linda Wightman, Susi Scott, Bill Meyer, and Bob Haag discovered they could only ride once.

Bev Liggett, Marti Clark, Bob Rice, and Nickie DeMetre got stuck in an overloaded wagon and as a result ended up walking. Lose any weight, girls?

Susie Hoard did a great job of losing her blanket so Harry Trosin could hunt for it the whole evening.

Ann Cupp, Susie Rothert, Susie Ehrman, Jim Griffin, Carl Johnson, and Jim Somers consumed a great quantity of hay in the mad dash to get a place on a wagon. Perhaps that's why they didn't get anything else to eat. Well, it was fun, anyway. Hay, anyone?

Homeroom Highlights

Marijo Edwards, Editor

One new member in our Homeroom 22 is Mahmoud Abonzeid, who comes from Egypt. He arrived in New York April 10. Before coming here, he lived in Washington, D.C., for two months and in Montana for four months; then he came here on August 29. He is living with his uncle; his parents are still living in Egypt. Some people gripe because they have such hard subjects but Mahmoud has taken subjects such as calculus, mechanics, coordinate geometry, solid geometry, plain geometry, college algebra, English Arabic, French, plus chemistry, physics, biology, and general drawing. Now he is taking English, government, U. S. history, and speech. Mahmoud has this to say about South Side, "It is the nicest school I have yet attended." Mahmoud is going back to Egypt in five years to become a petroleum engineer. . . . Last week we had an election of homeroom officers. Nancy Bailey, a newcomer to our room, was elected the president. The vice-president is Keith Byer, who has been in the room for a semester.—Ginger Doyle and Patty Brooke, reporters.

In Homeroom 12 there are two students who worked during the summer. . . . Terry Geise worked at Hall's Drive In on the Bluffton Road, where he was kitchen clerk. Terry started this job in May and worked full time during the summer. He now works Friday nights and all day Saturday and Sunday. Terry commented he would like to keep this job throughout high school. . . . Joel Feltenberger works at the Tasty Burgers. His dad is the owner. Joel worked from 6 a.m. until 12 a.m. during the summer. He enjoys the work and loves the free meals he receives while working. Joel now works from 4 p.m. until 9 p.m. on Wednesday nights. — Cindy Hart, reporter.

Officers for Homeroom 152 were again elected this semester. Tom Schwartz will reign again as president, as he did last semester. Vicki Sheldon is the newly elected vice-president, and Sue Sappenfield the secretary-treasurer. . . . The homeroom is very happy to have as one of its members the Junior Class president, Dick Rothberg. . . . It seems that someone has been leaving Mrs. Darby strange little notes. One morning when she came in homeroom she found this note on the blackboard:

"Misses Darbbie,"

'I done heard youse tell'n no good things bout my own kin Grendel. He's a very nise quiet kid at home in the swamp. He work aftar schole to bring home food fur his kinfolk.

Youde shut-up or maybe we'll see youse at dinner someday."

Lovingly,

Homeroom 36, a lot of ambitious students . . . Millie DeMetre, Diane Fisher, Jerry Beauchamp, and Jeff Clark are members of several different Junior Achievement companies. Millie DeMetre is in Sparke Lite. Diane Fisher is in Magna Wire Company. Jeff Clark and Jerry Beauchamp are in Spun Al Company. Jeff is sales manager and Jerry Beauchamp assistant production manager. . . . Diane Decker and Jerry Beauchamp are taking Senior Life Saving on Monday nights at the YMCA.—Janet Gareiss, reporter.

Lighter Side Of School Gives Facts On Grades

Fools in the past have said that high school is a step in education. However, as we all know, aside from token work required to humor teachers and parents, high school is merely a large social get-together provided by the law. If anything, you are bound to learn how to confuse adults, make and break dates, crack bubble-gum, play basketball, eat, and dance. Anyone who tells you differently is probably a four-sided polygon whose angles and sides are equal.

For the sake of those who want to go on to college and go to bigger and better dances, here are a few hints on getting better grades. First, get a good teacher who will allow you to chew gum, talk, cheat, and pass notes in class. Erase her blackboard for her, and maybe she will not collect the six weeks' notebook or pages two-thirty-two through two-thirty-six.

Next, you should cultivate the friendship of that cadaverous creep with the horn-rimmed goggles. Everyone knows he gets straight "A's."

If you find it impossible to be chummy with the be-goggle honor roll student, there is always another approach.

"Of course, I'll let you borrow a pencil, three sheets of theme paper, my ball-point pen, two rubber bands, a paper clip, and a drawing tablet. By the way, Mitherworth, what did you get for number eighteen?"

Then, always as a last resort, there are your parents. Remind your father of the good old days at good old P.U.; and how he got an "H" on the course. He'll help you with your geometry, all right. If you set the table and wipe the ring out of the bathtub, maybe your mother will do that Latin.

It is doubtful whether older brothers and sisters are any help. They usually have forgotten it all.

Even if after all your efforts, you cannot make good grades, don't worry about competition.

The average run of truck drivers and waitresses aren't smart anyway.

Our appreciation is extended to the policeman who helps with traffic problems of the morning.

The week of October 20 brought a total of $341.59 in banking receipts.

Miss Lutie Young, Mr. David Cramer, and Mr. Robert Petty led in this week's banking. Miss Young's Room 156 was first with $34.66; Mr. Cramer's Room 80 came in second with $31; and Mr. Petty was third with $27.28.

The banking program seems to have been very successful in Mrs. Darby's room where there was 100 per cent in banking.

Fort Wayne UNICEF Helps Foreign Children

"Trick or treat for UNICEF" is what many Fort Wayne residents will hear on Halloween as the national yearly campaign to raise funds for foreign children gets under way.

The drive started Sunday, October 26, and continued to today. From 6 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. on these days, teens were ringing doorbells to collect what is hoped will total $1,500.

"Approximately 500 children from over 15 youth groups connected with various churches have organized to canvass the Fort Wayne area," stated the Rev. Cletus Hirschy of Wayne Street Methodist Church, general chairman of the drive. Children as young as fourth graders through high school participated. They wore badges and have stickers on their containers. "This year we will not be able to cover the entire city but as the drive gets bigger each year, we hope to reach every home in the city," he continued.

THIS IS THE first year that the groups have co-ordinated their efforts. Previously each group planned its drive separately and the same area was covered twice or three times. "Due to the duplications, we decided to get together and co-ordinate our efforts," said the Rev. Mr. Hirschy. The largest groups are: Simpson Methodist, 90 members; Wayne Street Methodist, 80 members; and Youth Temple Group, 60 members.

Chairmen of the committees are: Mr. John Bastain, Protestant chairman and chairman of the canvassing committee; Steve Golden, Jewish chairman; Judy Novitsky, and Miss Mary Pettit, youth director of Plymouth Congregational Church, chairmen of publicity; Edwin Hartman and Miss Beulah Bertsch, director of St. John's E. & R., supplies. Steve and Judy are both from South Side.

NATIONALLY, THE drive started in 1952, but it wasn't begun in Fort Wayne until 1955. That year a speaker from the United Nations interested the Protestant groups in making the campaign their special project. They brought in $1,500. Since then many groups campaigned separately until this year when the various groups organized.

The money is sent into UNICEF (United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund) in New York. From there it is sent to over 80 countries, where the government adds as much as is sent. It is used to stop malnutrition, get medicines, hospitals, and maternal and child welfare agencies where they are not provided.

Diane Saalfrank Wins Story Contest

During the last meeting of Meterite Club, October 21, a short story contest was held and the judges voted Diane Saalfrank as the first place winner. Ellen McErron came in second place, and the third place winner was Ann Plogsterth.

"Because it was originally a poetry club and got its name from 'Writers of Meter' (meter meaning the rhythm of a poem), the Meterite Club will hold an original poetry contest on November 4," stated Marie Rohn, program chairman.

Members who have already signed up for this program are Sue Horth, Linda McMurtry, Ellen Williams, and Diane Saalfrank, who will read their poems that Tuesday in the Greeley Room.

The "Icicle Ball" is the name the Meterites have chosen for the after-game dance which they are planning. They have been working on this project in order to raise money for the club, and have chosen a decoration committee of which Sharon Carrell is head. Other activities of the club will be a spelling match, a Christmas story and poem contest, and a visit from an outside speaker.

Hi-Y Sees Film On Better Business

"Our meeting Monday night, October 20, mainly consisted of a film presented to the club by the Better Business Bureau," said John Meyerholtz, Hi-Y president.

An idea concerning the selling of cushions was presented to the club for discussion. These cushions could be used for football games, in the classroom, or for various other purposes.

The special service project was also discussed and the members began to work on the insert of freshmen names for the Hi-Y directory.

The YMCA has established a new program for Hi-Y in which the club is more closely related to the YMCA. Therefore, a dollar is required of each member to help promote this idea.

John also stated, "Our induction ceremony, October 13, was the largest we have ever had. We are very proud of all the new members in Hi-Y."

Collegiate Officials Come To South Side

"What college am I going to?"

This is a question almost every student asks himself who is planning to attend college. To help these students South Side High School has been having representatives from the various schools to come and tell the students about the various colleges. Many representatives have been to South Side already.

The colleges that have had representatives here are: Heidelberg, North Manchester, Earlham, Ohio Northern, and Colorado Women's College. More representatives are scheduled to come and speak at South Side.

On October 28 Mr. Jackson from Oberlin will be at South Side.

On October 31 Mr. Cole will be at South Side to speak about Wabash, and on November 10 Mr. Bavin will speak about Carlton College. Many other colleges will have representatives who have not made an appointment. This will be announced later.

USA Club To Initiate New Members Today

"Today the program of the USA Club will be the initiation of new members," said Ellen McCarron, president. The meeting was planned by Barbara Markiton, Carol Lewis, Sharon Bricker, Carol Wise, and Ellen McCarron. The meeting will be held in the Greeley Room at 3:30 p.m.

Two Pupils Leave School; One Enters South Side

Kenneth Bredemeyer has transferred to South Side from Central.

Two seniors, Allan Eitman and Jane Gall, have decided against finishing high school. Dennis Verbert dropped out of school to join the Marines, but decided to come back and finish school.

Yell Leaders Praised At 'Cheer' Clinic

"There's the State Champs' cheerleaders, the ones that had the seven-foot center. Aren't their outfits sharp!"

These are but a few of the whisperings which the South Side cheerleaders heard when they led a yell at the Cheerleading Clinic held on October 18.

The clinic was held under the direction of Mr. Lawrence Herkimer, Mr. Cheerleader of America. Mr. Herkimer instructed about 300 cheerleaders from Indiana and Ohio in the different types of yells which can be done, when they should be done, and how to make pep sessions interesting. He also taught several new cheers with collegiate motions.

Mr. Herkimer gave each squad comments on the yell which it led. Of South Side he said, "Very, very good . . . probably still in practice from the late cheering season at Indianapolis last year."

General Mills Sponsors Test

Senior girls interested in competing for a top prize of a $5,000 scholarship and an expense-paid trip to Washington, D. C., Williamsburg, Va., and New York City should take the "Search for the Homemaker of Tomorrow" scholarship test on December 2.

The national winner will receive the above prize, and the top state winner will be presented a $1,500 scholarship and the trip.

General Mills is sponsoring the contest and offering many scholarships from $500 to $5,000.

Miss Lucy Mellen, home economics teacher, believes that the value of the test is open to all senior girls; it gives the girls an opportunity to realize their interests in homemaking; and it offers competition to win prizes.

The test is open to girls in all 48 states, Alaska, and Hawaii. An average of 30 people usually take the test each year at South Side.

Archers Will Face Central Catholic In Final Grid Game

C. C. Boasts Good Season; Almost Champs

Both Coaches Uncertain As To Who Will Start; Finale To Be Tough

Tomorrow night at 8 p.m., the mighty Archers of South Side will close their football season by meeting Central Catholic at Northrop Field. No matter what the outcome of this final game will be, South can look back on a most successful season. The fighting Irish have had a good season and almost came up with the city championship.

C.C. is in possession of a star right halfback in the person of Frank Lombardo. Frank has aided the team much by his superb offensive play. He also starred on the varsity team last year. Lombardo, as of October 16, is now leading the city scoring race with 32 points in four games. Our own Bill Meyer is in second place with 31 points in four games. All of Bill's points came in the game against Missinewa.

The Irish started right out on the victory trail by downing New Haven in the Jamboree by a score of 13-6. In the opening game of the season C.C. posted a 13-7 victory over South Bend Riley.

z z z

THEY CONTINUED their season by trouncing New Haven and then posting a 13-6 victory over Gary Roosevelt. In a crucial city series tilt with Central, the Irish battled the Tigers to a 7-7 tie. C.C. had high hopes of winning the city title this year but these hopes were abruptly stopped when North Side came out on top in the championship battle. Most of C.C.'s outstanding offensive play has come within the last three minutes of their contests. In nearly every victorious or tie game C.C. changed the score with very little time left.

z z z

BOTH BOB GERNAND and Walt Bartkiewicz, Irish coach, are undetermined as to whom the starters will be. C.C. will probably go with Dave Schaab or Johnny Sorg at fullback, Frank Lombardo at right half, Leroy Carcione at left half and Tim Walsh at quarterback.

On the line the tentative starters are Mike Goodman at center, Bill Kestly and Jack Smith at guards, Dick Roynter and Mike Broderick at tackles and George Roth and Mike Russo at ends.

Substitutes that will see action against South are Joe Kleinrichert at tackle, Joe Caruso and Bill Talerico, guards, Joe Musi at halfback and Mike Creigh at end. Coach Gernand has not determined the Kelly lineup as yet, for many players are injured.

Harriers Beat Elmhurst, 23-35

In their final meet of the regular cross country season the South Side Archers downed the Elmhurst Trojans by the score of 23-35 on October 16 at Foster Park.

The Archers rounded out their 1958 campaign with a record of five wins and four losses. South's Al Rainbolt was the first harrier home in the time of 10:31 over a slightly long course. Dan Weaver and Don Waldrop of Elmhurst were second and third, followed by Kellys Ed Hartman and newcomer Dave Reese.

Soon after the start of the race the field was bunched together. After the first mile Archers Hartman and Kern gained the advantage with Rainbolt far back in tenth position. At the mile-and-one-half mark Rainbolt with Trojans Weaver and Waldrop challenged and took the lead. In the last quarter-mile Rainbolt built up a sizeable lead which none of his pursuers could overcome.

Elmhurst was highly touted because of its eight victories and county championship gained previously this season. However, the Green and White had too much balance for the Trojans and won by a comparatively wide margin. Dave Reese, in his first competitive meet, came through in fine fashion for the Archers, copping fifth-place laurels in the time of 10:50. Ed Hartman in taking fourth-place honors had a 10:38 time, and Gus Wade finished with a 10:54 in placing sixth for the Green and White.

Due to the fact that the Trojans did not bring a reserve team, Archer reserves competed with the varsity in a combined race.

South Plays 13-To-13 Tie With Huntington; Archers Defeat Royerton Redbirds 14-To-0

Tipton, Meyer Score Archer Touchdowns; Defensive Line Excellent

The South Side Archers, combining grit, determination, a never-say-die spirit, and brilliant defensive play, fought the highly-touted Huntington Vikings to a 13-13 tie last Saturday at the South Side Stadium.

The game was a clean, hard-fought struggle that gave many anxious moments to the players as well as fans. The Vikings, rated among the top 20 high schools, were expected to continue their streak and roll over the Archers, but apparently the Bob Gernand eleven hadn't heard about all this as they came from behind twice, exhibiting some of the potential that they have been capable of all year.

z z z

THE ARCHERS, going with Steve Smith at quarterback, Walt Raines and Bill Meyer in the halfback positions, Dick Tipton in the fullback slot, Lawson White at center, Ken Howe and Dan Tritch at the guard posts, Terry Berk and Jim Olinske at tackles, and Joe Roth and Frank Lude at ends, received the opening kickoff and marched down to the Viking 25 before losing the pigskin on downs.

Huntington halfback Ron Whitesell, little but quick, then led the Viking offensive attack down to the Green 13-yard line. From there quarterback Kenny Tewel, on a fine fake, went all the way putting the Red and Black out in front by a 7-0 count.

The Huntington happiness was short lived, however, as the Archer eleven, led by Richard Tipton, who was fabulous on offense throughout the game, ripped through the opposing line time and again with quick openers and delays. Tipton put the cap on it then from the 35, as he crashed his way into the Viking secondary, shook off tacklers, and jaunted into the end zone for the equalizing touchdown.

z z z

THE THIRD PERIOD was spotlighted by Huntington's Whitesell again as he scampered 68 yards around end to pay dirt and a 13-7 lead for the Red and Black.

In the final period the Archer defense that was outstanding all evening forced Huntington to punt. On the first play from scrimmage, Bill Meyer took a handoff and finding no hole, made his own and covered 69 yards, treating the Archer fans to a truly great run.

From that time on the South Side defense was called upon at numerable occasions to stop a Viking threat, the climax coming when, from first down and three yards to go for a score, the Huntington aggregation ran into a stone wall.

z z z

ALTHOUGH THE Gernand crew were sparkling on defense, their offensive line play was spotty, lacking the needed consistency to pull out a win. Dick Tipton, who was the game's outstanding player on offense, was used entirely too much in both the first and second halves. Until he sustained a minor injury in the second half, he had carried the ball more than half the time. Tipton gained 113 yards in 11 carries for a terrific 10.3 average. Bill Meyer, who uncorked the longest run of the night, averaged a commendable 8.7 yards per carry. Meyer, scoring one touchdown, put himself in a commanding position in the city scoring race, which will be decided next week.

Sophomores Lawson White and Jim Dawson and senior Jim Olinske were sterling on defense along with Bob Bolyard who was largely responsible for the Vikings not completing a single pass.

The Archers were sharp on both offense and defense and committed only two minor infractions for 10 yards in penalties as opposed to 55 for Huntington.

READY FOR C.C.—John Summers and Jim Olinske practice in preparation for the Central Catholic Irish who the Archers will face Friday night. Both John and Jim were chosen Player of the Week for their outstanding game against Royerton. John was chosen Back of the Week and Jim was chosen Lineman of the Week. The Archers shut out the Redbirds, 14-0.

Jim Olinske, John Sommers Chosen Players Of The Week

Two outstanding Archer football players were chosen players of the week following the Kelly victory over Royerton's Redbirds two weeks ago.

Junior tackle Jim Olinske and sophomore fullback John Sommers were named to the honor by Coach Gernand as the Green shut the Redbirds out by a 14-0 score. The South defense, led by Olinske and Sommers, was superb in holding the Royerton offensive unit for pay dirt all night.

z z z

JIM OLINSKE is playing his third year of football at South Side. As a freshman, Jim played on the frosh and reserve teams. Last year he saw some action on the varsity ,while most of his play was on the reserve. On the varsity this year, Jim has proven to be one of the best hustlers on the squad; his determination has enabled him to keep a firm grasp on his starting right tackle position.

Jim is a junior on the college course. His subjects this semester include Algebra 3, U.S. History 2, English 6, and Physics 2.

Jim was awarded the Lineman of the Week title mainly for his fine defensive play. "Ole" consistently jammed up the Royerton line for yardage loss. Jim's fine offensive blocking enabled the Archer backfield to run their off tackle plays freely. Jim has done very well this season and promises to have a great season next year.

z z z

JOHN SOMMERS is in his first year of varsity ball. Although he has seen most of his action in the defensive unit, John promises to become a hard-driving first-string fullback. Sommers started in the freshman team last year and impressed Coach Gernand very much. He holds down one of the starting defensive linebackers positions on the varsity and his ball reaction from that position has been outstanding.

John is also on the college course, taking Latin 3, English 3, General History 1, and Geometry 1. He is now in his Sophomore A semester.

John's top-flight defensive play coupled with his fine pinch hit job for Dick Tipton, earned him the Back of the Week honor for the Royerton game. John did a tremendous job backing up the line, making many fine tackles on Redbird runners. His driving runs on offensive gained many first downs for South Side as he continually pushed through the middle of Royerton's defense.

Both boys feel that this year's team is much improved over the squads of the previous seasons. They add that South's bench strength has added to the Green's power. Both have high hopes that the Kellys will finish the season with a 5-3 mark. If the student body helps cheer these and the rest of the boys to victory, the Kellys can't help but finish above the 50 per cent mark.

Kellys Grab 3rd Win In Exciting Contest; Smith, Meyer Score

Battling an aggressive but smaller foe, the Archers came up with their third win of the season against Royerton by the score of 14-0.

The game, which was played at Royerton, was filled with excitement until the very end.

In the first period, neither team was able to score; but the Archers drove 60 yards in the second period with Steve Smith plunging across from the two-yard line for the score. Bill Meyer drove through the middle of the Royerton line for the extra point to make the score 7-0. The score remained 7-0 through the second period.

z z z

SOUTH GOT THE clincher in the final period when Meyer capped a 75-yard march by covering the final 18 yards. Again Meyer, who had scored five touchdowns a week ago, drove for the extra point.

Coaches Chose Tipton, Tritch Best Players Against Vikings

Dan Tritch

Dick Tipton

PLAYERS CITED—For their outstanding play against the Huntington Vikings Saturday night, Dick Tipton and Dan Tritch were chosen Players of the Week. Dan was chosen Lineman of the Week, and Dick is Back of the Week. South held the Vikings to a 13-13 tie, and broke the Huntington perfect record.

Assisting in South Side's magnificent play against Huntington's Vikings last Saturday were this week's outstanding players, Dick Tipton and Dan Tritch. Although they were rated underdogs for the contest, the Archer gridmen, sparked by these standouts, came from behind to tie the visitors.

Senior fullback Dick Tipton, Back of the Week, has been cited once previously for his continually outstanding work. Dick missed the first two games of the season because of a broken foot. However, he won recognition in his first outing, the City Series opener against North Side.

Against Huntington, Dick provided the necessary power through the middle time after time. The Viking line was unable to make any pretense toward containing the hard-driving fullback. Dick accounted for the Green and White's first touchdown by breaking through the center of the line for the necessary 35 yards. He also ran for the extra point, tying the score.

Dick thinks Central was the toughest team for the Archers this season, and he is looking forward to a victory over Central Catholic tomorrow.

z z z

DAN TRITCH, a junior tackle, has turned in sparkling performances all season, particularly on defense. The Lineman of this Week was sorely missed a few weeks ago when he missed a game because of an injury. Although Dan has one year remaining on the squad, he also saw considerable action with the varsity in his sophomore year.

In the final seconds of the game, an inspired South Side line stood its ground in the shadow of its own goalposts to ward off a Viking threat and preserve the tie. Dan is one of the staunchest defenders of this rock-ribbed line on defense, as well as a sterling performer on offense.

Dick is on the college course, majoring in math and English. His schedule includes English 7, Algebra 4, Government 1, Chemistry 1, and fifth period band. He is also an active member of Hi-Y, DeMolay, Intramural, and his church fellowship.

Dan, also on the college course, is taking Physics 1, Solid Geometry 1, English 5, and United States History 1.

Kelly Cross Country Team Captures Berth For State Meet

South Takes Fourth Place In Sectional

First Time Archers Become Competitors For State Since '51

Although the Archer cross country team was heavily weakened due to the absence of some of the best runners, South Side managed to qualify for the State Meet for the first time since 1951, by placing fourth in the 25-team cross country Sectional, Tuesday, October 21, at Franke Park. Central and their star runner, Henry King, ran off with winning honors with astounding performances.

Al Rainbolt, finishing first for the Archers, took 12th place, while Henry King of Central won the individual crown in the excellent time of 9:44.4. Defending champion Steve Hibler of Concordia was second, Onofre Gutierrez of Central third, and Herman rez of Central third, Herman Schnelker of New Haven, fourth, and North Side's Mike Poorman fifth.

By placing men in the number 1, 3, 6, 8, and 10 positions the Tigers captured the Sectionals with a low total of 27 points. The Blue and White's win was the most impressive throughout the state and definitely establishes them as a strong threat to Hobart's claim as state champ.

z z z

CENTRAL'S IMPRESSIVE victory was not half of the story because the Tigers' number two man failed to compete because of illness. With Nate Harrison, who is capable of placing in the top five, Central's win might have been much more startling.

By grabbing the first five places, King, Hibler, Gutierrez, Schnelker, and Poorman automatically qualified to compete in the State cross country meet which is to be held Saturday at the South Grove Golf Course in Indianapolis.

With the exception of Schnelker the other four lads were guaranteed the trip since their respective squads also qualified. All four city schools, South, North, Central, and Concordia, will send teams.

z z z

THE FIELD OF 25 teams (28 were entered but three scratched), including 176 participants, was the largest in the Sectional's history. Central's victory was one of the few produced over North Side, and King's victory unthroned defending champ Steve Hibler, although King was slightly less than 11 seconds off the meet record of 9:33.8, set by South's Dave Redding two years ago.

At the beginning of the race, Tiger King took the lead followed by Hibler and Gutierrez, while the Archers Al Rainbolt, Dave Reece, and Eddie Hartman were traveling around 40th place. At the mile mark King was still ahead while Hibler and Gutierrez were trailing along behind. King kept his lead and coming into the last 200 yards of the race he was ahead by about 10 yards.

Then Hibler made his bid to win. He started his famous kick and tried to pass the Tiger runner. But King was able to stay ahead and crossed the line first, about five yards in front of Hibler.

z z z

AT THAT TIME Archers Al Rainbolt and Gus Wade sprinted to a good finish, taking 12th and 20th place. Rainbolt might have taken a higher position but he was pushed by some opponents near the finish. The next South harriers, Edwin Hartman, Reece and Don Kern came in on places 40, 42, and 43, to give the Archers a total score of 153.

"I am very glad that the boys qualified for the State Meet," said Coach "Porky" Holt after the race. "I just say we'll do our best at State."

SENSATIONAL AL—Al Rainbolt who has made outstanding showings at all Kelly cross country meets, is shown making a sensational finish at Franke Park in the final minutes of the sectionals. He will be in Indianapolis this Saturday bidding for state honors.

S. O. S.

Schmitz On Sports

Well, it's been a long time but the Archer harriers are returning to Indianapolis to take part in the annual state cross country meet Saturday afternoon. Not since 1951, when the Kellys, under the direction of ex-cross country coach George Collyer, took second place behind perennial power North Side to earn a team berth in the State Finals, has a South Side squad been represented in Indianapolis; however, Bob Davis and Dave Redding went downstate as individual contestants in recent years.

z z z

Congratulations are in order for South's new coach, "Porky" Holt, who guided the Archers through a good year. He helped his harriers through several anxious moments during the season and demonstrated extreme patience and quick-thinking to overcome the handicap as result of the loss of two Archer mainstays, Sam Green and Larry Fruchey.

z z z

Porky's decision to train Dave Reece in order to bolster the squad paid off greater dividends than anyone expected. Holt originally asked Dave to join his squad after witnessing the sophomore's outstanding performance in Intramural competition. Reece worked hard and when it was learned that Green and Fruchey were lost to the Kelly cause Reece was asked to fill their shoes and he did come in handy.

z z z

In his first run against Elmhurst in a tune-up for the Sectionals, Dave did no less than to be the third Archer to dash across the finish line. In the Sectionals Dave placed fourth for the Archers.

z z z

Al Rainbolt was just short of sensational in the big race at Franke Park. Al lingered back in the pack until the mile and a quarter mark when he opened up with all guns. Zooming to the front Al put on a sensational finish in the stretch only to be hit by another finisher which caused him to fall and stumble across in 12th place when it appeared as if he would finish in the top ten.

z z z

Gus Wade, who has been performing well all season came through in great form as he placed second for the Green and White. Behind him on the Kellys was Ed Hartman. Ed's 40th place finish was very disappointing to Kelly supporters and enabled Concordia, previously twice conquered by the Archers, to finish one place ahead of the Archer runners.

z z z

Central's triumph was by no means unexpected, but the ease with which they won was eye-opening. The Tigers' first five finishers all were in the top ten. Not only did this look impressive, but the Blue and White accomplished the feat without the services of their second top man, Nate Harrison.

z z z

It is a shame that Nate missed the race for his cause and Central's. It is doubtful that Nate will be able to participate in the State meet but regardless the Tigers remain a strong threat to the state crown.

z z z

Looking ahead to Saturday's race it is hard to pick a winner because of the strength of several teams, but Fort Wayne Central, Muncie Central, and Elkhart all look like strong bets to take the state crown from defending champ Hobart. Individual honors seem headed for Central's Henry King with Elkhart's Charley Umbarger, Griffith's Dick Green, and Concordia's Steve Hibler giving close chase.

z z z

South's fine defensive squad (second to only Central Catholic among Fort Wayne teams) showed the value of a strong line in their astounding goal-line stand in the Kellys' upset tie with undefeated but now not untied Huntington. Of course, that five-yard illegal motion in the backfield gave the defenders a shot in the arm.

z z z

At times, Viking backs Reeves, Wasmuth, Tewel, and Whitesell displayed signs of cracking the contest wide open with their noteworthy offensive barrage. But the Kellys dug in and held the Vikings way under the point-per-game average of over 35 points.

z z z

South's own Bill Meyer and Dick Tipton showed Huntington fans, who flocked to the Summit City in large numbers to pack South Side Stadium, that their lads were not the only flashy backs in the area.

z z z

By sweeping through the shoddy Huntington line in the opening of the third stanza and galloping 67 yards for the Archers' second score, Bill Meyer, Archer halfback, forged into a huge lead in the city scoring race. In just three contests (the last three) Meyer has accounted for 45 points, his entire total for the '58 season.

z z z

Friday brings an end to the current season and regardless of the outcome of the C.C.-South game this will be a successful season for the Green. At Present the Archers have a 3-3-1 record; and therefore an upset win over C.C. would place the Kellys over the .500 mark for the first time under the last two coaches.

z z z

Amazingly true South has shown poise and class against teams heavily favored over them, but against city foes they have faltered. Among the tcuhdowns were the 12-6 win posted over Indianapolis Shortridge and the tie against Huntington.

Frosh GAA Members Get Softball Points

Mrs. Alice Keegan has announced the Freshman GAA Softball points for the many girls who participated in the event this semester. The GAA-ers receive 20 points for each attendance. Those with a total of 100 points are Alice Bailey, Joyce Beckley, Gretchen Brumm, Shirley Davis, Sharon DeBaillie, Marie Decter, Bella Dyson, Betty Ensley, Judy Fields, Mary Jane Hake, Ann Heckler, Martha Jacobs, Sondra McKee, Flora Reynolds, Janice Spuller, Sharon Todd, and Barbara Uhl.

The girls wh oreceived 80 points include Alice Ashton, Tamara Beaty, Marjorie Bloom, Dayna Harader, Virginia Kochiamenis, Jane Ladig, Marjorie Lehman, Sue Merchant, and Sandy Walton.

Frosh holding 60 points are Pam Buzzard, Janice Nahrwold, Nancy Nichols, Ginny Slater, Peggy Swartz, and Judy Welty.

Because of absences, these girls only received 40 or 20 points. They are as follows: Martha Bonnell, 40; Joyce Cossairt, 40; Jean Hatfield, 20; Nadine Hobbs, 40; and Susan Johns, 40.

Even though Freshman GAA has many members, they are always looking for more girls to join.

Meet To Have Top Teams In Indiana

Central, Concordia, North, South From Fort Wayne Area

Cross country's yearly spectacle, the State Cross Country Meet, will take place at South Grove Golf Course in Indianapolis this Saturday.

Among the teams competing will be South Side, who had 153 points to place fourth in the Sectionals.

Fort Wayne Central, Concordia, North Side, and South will represent the Fort Wayne area.

Central won the local Sectionals with only 27 points, a comparatively low score. Five of the first nine finishers were from Central, and Henry King, speedy freshman star, won the event. Concordia's Steve Hibler came in second, and will go to State. Onofre Gutierrez of Central finished third.

New Haven's Herman Schnelker ended fourth and will go to Indianapolis for personal honors only. Pete Poorman from North Side finished fifth.

z z z

AT MISHAWAKA, Charles Umbarger from Elkhart was the winner. Trailing him were Paul Minzey, Mishawaka; Willie Wilson, South Bend Central; Ron Pettit, Elkhart; and Mike Munson, Warsaw. The top four teams were Elkhart, Warsaw, South Bend Riley, and Mishawaka.

At Valparaiso, Scotty Ward, the Northern Indiana cross country champ, took the sectional crown. He is from Valparaiso. Behind Ward were Tim Bagby and Denny Hood, Chesterton; Jack Armstrong, Michigan City; and Jim Grandorf, LaPorte. Here the top four teams were Michigan City, Valparaiso, LaPorte, and Chesterton.

Bob Patterson of Muncie Central took individual honors at Anderson. Following him were Bob Brown, Anderson; George Bonner, Muncie Central; Bill Crosley, Pendleton; and Tom Carpenter of Anderson Madison Heights. Schools leading in points were Muncie Central, Anderson, Anderson Madison Heights, and Pendleton.

z z z

DICK GREEN of Griffith was the winner at Hobart. Close behind him was Ray Isakson of Hobart. They were followed by John Neeley and Rich Seely, both of Calumet, and Bill Snow of Hammond Tech. Leading teams were Hobart, Calumet, Gary Roosevelt, and Hammond Tech. Because of his 9:41:5 time, Dick Green will compete at the State Meet even though Griffith did not qualify.

Finally, at Indianapolis Broad Ripple's Art Campbell was the victor. He was trailed by qualifiers Elson Benedict of Shortridge; Brad Waltman of North Central; Larry Phillips of Crispus Attucks; and Tom Matthews of Howe. The four leading and qualifying teams were Shortridge, Howe, Southport, and Tech.

Cross Country Teammates Give Opinions On Coming State Meet

INDIANAPOLIS BOUND—This year's cross country team is the first Archer squad to earn a berth in the state finals since 1951. The team is pictured left to right, kneeling: Ron Bogan, Don Kern, Mike Albersmeyer, Dave Reece, and Al Rainbolt; standing, Coach "Porky" Holt, Ed Hartman, Gus Wade, and Al David.

On November 1, on the South Grove Golf Course in Indianapolis, the South Side Archer cross country team will try to capture a State championship title in cross country. For three of the seven boys on the squad, this will be the last chance to make a bid for the title.

Eddie Hartman, a senior, is in his second year of cross country. Although having some off days this season, he has been improving quite a bit this year and has been filling the top spots on the team for most of the meets. To the Archers' fourth place in the Sectionals, he commented, "We got a pretty bad break at the Sectionals and in some other meets we should have done better than we did. But we will show them at the state meet."

Al Rainbolt, a sophomore, is in his first year. Along with Hartman he has been filling the top spot on the team and has been finishing in one of the first four places in most of the meets. "Of course I am glad that we qualified for the state meet, especially for this is my first year. But I also think that we should have placed better than fourth, but several of the boys had an off day. We'll do our best at the State meet," he said about the Sectional.

z z z

ONE OF the boys who were needed to back up the top men is Gus Wade, a junior. This is his first year of cross country and he has been showing great promise for next year by breaking 11 minutes in several meets this year. His comment about the Sectional was, "I am quite disappointed that we did not do better than fourth. About the State meet, "I think that we have a good chance to finish in the top ten if we run up to par."

Also among the top men on the team is Don Kern, a senior, who is in his fourth year of cross country. Although he has showed little improvement in comparison to last year he has been filling a top spot in several of the meets in this season. Don thinks that although the Archers had some very tough competition they should have done better than placing only fourth.

A newcomer to the squad is sophomore Dave Reece. He went out for Intramural cross country. Impressed by Dave's fine running, Coach "Porky" Holt asked him to join the squad. In the first meet he ran he did a very fine job by finishing third for the Archers. He thinks that we have a good chance for placing at the State meet.

z z z

ONE OF the boys who did not receive all the glory, but always did a fine job to add to the team balance, is Mike Albersmeyer, who is a fourth year man. Although he did not reach some of the times he ran last year he always added balance to the team. About the fourth place in the Sectionals, he says, "We should have done a lot better than fourth place but I guess we had an off day. If we really do our best at the State meet we should do pretty well."

Along with Albersmeyer adding to the team balance is Junior Ron Bogan. Ron has not had as good a season as last year, but has always been helping the team to win its meets. "I think we should have done better at the Sectionals, but I still am glad that we qualified for the State meet. I am sure that everyone will do his best," he commented about the Sectionals.

100 Boys Try Out For Basketball Team

As the South Side football season nears its completion, we look forward to the coming of the 1958-59 basketball schedule.

Through a checking of the gym after school, it is found that Coach Don Reichert and his prospective squads are hard at work attempting to get into condition and maintain their excellent record in defense of their State Championship Title.

A total of approximately 100 boys are trying their skills to maintain a berth on the varsity, reserve, or freshman basketball teams. Last Monday was the first cut in preparation for the new season, and all remaining boys will fight all the harder to land a position on one of the squads.

Although the team lost four of the five starters on last year's State Championship team, the squad now has the fine bench strength of last year to work with. Tom Bolyard, the returning starter, will combine his aggressiveness, experience, and fine jumping legs to lead the team through another successful year. Other returning members of last year's varsity are Bill Meyer, Nick Demetre, Ted Lebrecht, and Mike Simmons. Two newcomers to the team are also good looking prospects: tall Dave Roderick and guard Jim Saylor. All of these boys are expected to help in our defense of last year's title.

It is hoped that the future shows that the "Hoosier Hysteria" of prep basketball is once again in the hands of able Coach Don Reichert and the Archer basketball team through the hard work of practice.

Basketball Rules Announced For GAA, Girls' Gym Classes

Mrs. Alice Keegan and Miss Helen Pohlmeyer have announced the new basketball rules for the benefit of the girls in gym and GAA.

1—Definition of playing terms.

(A) Bounce—A tactic in which a player gives impetus to the ball once, causing it to rebound from the floor and then touches or regains possession of the ball; this includes a player giving impetus to the ball by throwing, batting, or fumbling, and touching it again before another player has played it. If the ball has hit the floor more than once, having received only one impetus, it may be recovered.

(B) Boxing-Up—A foul in which a player in possession of the ball is guarded between two opponents and is unable to make a successful pass or score a goal.

1. Personal Foul—any foul involving personal contact.
2. Technical Foul—any foul not involving personal contact.

(C) Holding the ball—Retaining possession of the ball while it is in play for more than three seconds anywhere on the court; taking more than 10 seconds on a free throw.

(D) Overguarding the ball—Deliberately holding and keeping one or both hands on the ball when it has been secured by an opponent.

(E) Pivot—A play in which the player holding the ball steps once or more than once in any direction with the same foot, called the pivot foot, is kept at its initial spot of contact with the floor.

(F) Tagging—Constant or repeated contact with a person with hand or elbow.

(G) Traveling—Progress in any direction by moving both feet from the initial point of contact with the floor while retaining possession of the ball in bounds.

1. If a player receives the ball when both feet are off the floor and lands with both feet touching the floor simultaneously, she may move either foot in any direction provided that the other foot stays at its initial point of contact.
2. A player who receives the ball while she is progressing or upon completion of a bounce or limited dribble, may use a two step in coming to a stop or in releasing the ball.

(H) Violation—An infringement of a rule for which the ball is put in play from out of bounds.

2—Out of Bounds.

(A) The ball is awarded out of bounds after

1. A player causes the ball to go out.
2. A violation.
3. A free throw except following a double foul.
4. A dead ball while the team is in possession and no foul is involved.

(B) A player with the ball is out of bounds when she touches the floor or any object on or outside a boundary line.

(C) The ball is out of bounds when it touches the floor or any other person or object on or outside the boundary line, the supports, or back of the backboard.

(D) The throw-in. If the ball goes out of bounds, it shall be put in play by an opponent of the player who caused it to go out of bounds, said opponent to throw ball to another player from the spot out of bounds where the ball left the court.

3—Free Throws.

(A) A free throw is an unguarded throw for the goal by a forward from a position behind the free-throw line. If made, it scores one point.

(B) Whether the goal is made or missed, the ball shall be put in play from out of bounds at the sideline opposite the free-throw line by the forward who attempted the free-throw. Time-in is taken when the ball touches a player on the court from the out of bounds play.

(C) Double foul. In case of a double foul, the ball is put in play at the center circle after the last free throw by a jump ball between two opposing forwards.

4—Violations and Penalties.

(A) A violation is an infringement of a rule for which the ball is put in play from out of bounds.

5—Fouls and Penalties.

(A) A foul is an infringement of a rule for which one or more free throws are given.

(B) A double foul occurs when fouls are called on players of both teams simultaneously.

(C) A disqualifying foul is rough play or unsportmanlike behavior for which a player is removed from the game.

(D) Blocking. Personal contact which impedes on the progress of an opponent who does not have the ball.

(E) Charging. The player with the ball makes contact with an opponent with either body or ball as she is attempting to throw the ball, to use a bounce or limited dribble, to pivot, juggle, or shoot for the goal. Contact caused by the momentum of a player who has passed or thrown for the goal is a form of charging.

(F) Guarding with personal contact. Holding, pushing, or tripping an opponent. Contact caused by a defensive player approaching the ball holder from the rear is a form of pushing.

(G) Obstructing. Impeding by the use of personal contact the progress of an opponent who has started to advance the ball by means of a bounce to herself, a limited dribble, juggle, or pivot. If the defensive player moves into the path of a player who has started to advance the ball by one of the means listed above, the defensive player shall be called for obstruction.

(H) Tagging. Contacting an opponent with any part of the body, or repeatedly touching her with hand, elbow, or body.

(I) Unnecessary roughness. Committing any act which might cause injury to an opponent.

(J) Technical fouls. A technical foul is any foul not involving personal contact, with the exception of blocking.

1. Overguarding the ball is by deliberately placing or keeping one or both hands on the ball when it has been secured by an opponent. If a player repeatedly touches the ball on the same play, even though accidental, it is overguarding the ball.
2. Snatching or batting the ball from the hands of an opposing player.
3. Threatening the eyes of the player in possession of the ball by using the hands in a dangerous manner.
4. Boxing up a player in possession of the ball by guarding her between two opponents. This foul is not called if the player boxed-up is able to execute a successful pass or score a goal. In the judgment of the official, if she does not make an honest attempt to make a goal or pass to a teammate, the foul will not be called.

(K) Penalty for all fouls follow:

Free throws for goal given to opponents and whether made or missed, the ball will be put in play from out of bounds at the sideline opposite the free-throw line by the forward taking the free throw.

MURAL CHAMPS — Top: Cross country champs are left to right, Dwayne Trim, middleweight; Dave Reece, lightweight; and Dave Bosselman, heavyweight. Middle: Lightweight football champions are left to right, first row: Ken Lowden, Bob Christlieb, Robert Colpetzer, and Dave Reece; second row, Steve Longenberger, Tom Wible, Lee Rice, and Ward Miller. Bottom: Heavyweight football winners are left to right, kneeling: Keith Vlot, Craig Bradley, Jerry Putt, Art Wilson, and Bill VanAllen; standing, Don Uetrecht, Jack Waite, Chuck Putt, Marc Speelman, and Al Meredith.

The Clock-Clock-Kickers defeated the Wild Childs, 33-0, last week in football. Tom Wible threw to Dave Reece for the first touchdown. He threw to Steve Longenberger for the second touchdown. Max VanFossen snagged a Wible pass for another TD. Tom threw to Lee Rice for the extra point. Tom Wible sprinted around end 35 yards for another touchdown. Steve Longenberger threw to Max VanFossen for the extra point. Dave Reece then intercepted a Childs' pass and ran it back for a touchdown. Wible threw it to Longenberger for the extra to cap the scoring.

The Fuzzy Fuzzers defeated the Black Hawks, 33-0. Giese threw to Zigler for the first touchdown. Allendorph threw to Zigler for the extra. Allendorph ran around end for another TD. Cormany pitched to Zigler for the third touchdown. Zigler reversed things and threw to Cormany for the fourth touchdown. Allendorph pitched to Zigler for the extra point. Giese intercepted a Hawk pass and ran it back for a touchdown. Alledorph capped the scoring by passing to Zigler for the extra point.

Congratulations to the Weasels, the 1958 Heavyweight Football Champs. The defeated the Moon Men in the championship round, 13-7. The champs scored their first touchdown on a spot pass from Don Uetrecht to Chuck Putt. Chuck pitched to his brother Jerry for the extra point. Chuck Putt then scored the winning touchdown by passing to Bill VanAllen. Larry Motter was responsible for the Men's score. He threw to Perry Schlie for the first touchdown. He threw to Tom Esterline for the extra point. The winner's team was composed of Chuck Putt, Jerry Putt, Marc Speelman, Jim Somers, Al Meredith, Bill VanAllen, Keith Vlot, Jack Waite, Art Wilson, Craig Bradley, and Don Uetrecht.

Congratulations also to the Click-Clock-Kickers. They captured the Lightweight football crown by way of a defeat over the Pea Pickers, 21-0. On the champs' team were Tom Wible, Lee Rice, Gary Leips, Max VanFossen, Bill Myers, Ken Lowden, Steve Longenberger, Ward Miller, Dave Reece, Bob Colpetzer, Larry Levy, and Bob Christlieb.

Remember to get your basketball team cards in. Get a bunch of your friends together. If you have a fifth period class, get up a Night League team. The Noon League plays fifth period and abides by all gym class rules. The Night League is different. Here are the rules for the Night League.

Each Night League team shall consist of ten players.

Each game shall be played as follows: Four quarters, the first three quarters are seven minutes long with clock running; the fourth quarter to be six minutes long and clock killed on held balls, and fouls. Five minutes is time allowed for between halves; one minute for time out.

The Night League games shall be played generally Thursday evenings with a few Monday night games scheduled.

Each player will be allowed three personals in Night League play, with the fourth personal disqualifying him. A second technical eliminates him from the game.

Visitors are not to be brought to Night League games—parents are the exception.

Players are to enter by the north (Stadium) door and are not to go to school lockers on night of a game.

Balls are to be placed in corner of gym as game is played. No waiting player is to play or dribble ball on ramps or aisles during game at hand.

The refereeing problem has been quite serious recently. This year each captain must secure a referee for his night league contest and report same to Director Motz at least one day before the game is played.

The Intramural Department furnishes a set of jerseys for each team. They are to be left on gate nearest office. Failure to do so eliminates that team from further play.

Sportsmanship is main objective of this league. Any boy who can't control his temper during an intramural game shall be warned first and if he is again involved in any other unpleasant actions, such as back-talk, anger, griping at officials, scuffling or fighting, etc., he shall forfeit his place for the rest of the season in that sport. He is done!!

All protests shall be made before game starts—not afterwards.

It is captain's duty to turn in starting lineup and substitutes' numbers three minutes prior to game.

Each team is allowed one time out per quarter.

Each team shall be given four balls for warm-up practice.

Things to Remember

Handball will start soon. There are three weight divisions. Games are at noon and after school. Novice League is for boys without any previous handball experience. Regular League is for all other boys.

Be sure and get those basketball teams in.

Past Football

Bob Gernand, Grid Coach Now, Has 6-10-1 Record In '56, '57

(This is the last in a series of articles exploring the past football seasons at South Side since 1922. In the past eight weeks we have explored the feats of Archers pigskin squads under South Side's eight colorful coaches.—Editor's note.)

In the spring of 1956 a surprise, but not an unexpected, announcement was issued that Mr. Jack Bobay had stepped down as South's football coach to make way for the eighth coach.

With the Archer football team still in a slump, the athletic office dug into football-rich Michigan to hire Bob Gernand, an ex-Archer and former Kelly assistant coach under his predecessor, Mr. Bobay. Bob Gernand had left South in 1955 to accept the head coaching job at Escabana, Mich., from where he was recruited in 1956.

Gernand stepped down from a classy football squad to take the reigns of a potential, but weak, team. He did an excellent job of rebuilding the team in his first year, but faced the difficulty of the declining interest in football at South. Plagued by injuries in 1957, Gernand's marked improvement in 1956 seemed a wasted effort; for in 1957 the team had one of its poorer seasons.

THIS YEAR, 1958, promised to be an even stiffer challenge for the confident and optimistic coach, since the 1958 graduating class drained much of the team's talent. All hopes for success rested upon Gernand's underclassmen and an increase in the number of boys trying out for the sport.

Gernand took over the Archer squad following the most dismal season at South in 17 years. In his first year, Mr. Gernand took an unvictorious squad and guided them to an even split of an eight-game schedule. Although the Green and White failed to capture the city title, they pulled the big surprise of the year by upsetting Central in a spine tingler at the South Side Stadium.

With this victory under his belt, things began to look much better as the team picked up added inspiration. The Archers continued to be the spoilers of the city race as they disposed of C.C. to earn second place in the title scramble. Concordia was also swept down by the srtonger Kellys in 1956.

LAST YEAR Gernand started the season with high hopes of returning the city cup to South Side, because North Side, the perennial power of late, seemed much weaker than usual; but the Archers went back into their slump by landing in the cellar of the city race. Gernand's hopes for a great season were marred early by two consecutive drubbings from powerhouses Anderson and Shortridge. Then hopes for the city title were destroyed as Central nipped the Archer rally to win. North followed with a win over South as did C.C. in the season's finale to guarantee the Irish of a three-way share for the title. South managed but two triumphs in 1957, while dropping six and tying one. In two years of coaching, Mr. Gernand had improved the Archer team considerably; but can show no prestige in the record his teams have compiled in two years. The overall record with Gernand as coach is 6-10-1.

IN SUMMARY, the 36 seasons of competition at South Side have netted many good campaigns, but have been marred by only a few poor years in recent campaigns. To close out this series of articles a chart relating team success by coaches follows up to the present season:

Coach	Years	W	L	T
Ward Gilbert	1922-24	13	2	0
Lundy Welborn	1924-28	73	42	7
Bill Moss	1938-40	5	12	1
Wayne Gift	1940-42	10	4	1
George Collyer	1942-47	27	16	0
Marion Feasel	1947-52	28	21	2
Jack Bobay	1952-56	5	19	0
Bob Gernand	1956-	6	10	1
Total		167	126	12

Following is South Side's All-Time record exclusive of 1958 in City Series football competition. The figures relate South Side's record against the following four elevens.

Opponent	W	L	T
Concordia	4	1	0

Freshman GAA Has Speedball Tourney

The October 17 meeting of Freshman GAA was spent in playing a speedball tournament.

Squads 1, 2, and 4 are tied for first place. Four high scorers were: Jane Ladig, 5 points; Marjorie Lehman, 4; Sandra Walton, 4; and Ginny Kachiemenis, 4. Thirty-three girls participated in the sport.

This photograph of Abraham Lincoln was made by Alexander Hesler in Chicago, February, 1857, nine months after Lincoln made the famous statement below. There is a story that Lincoln deliberately rumpled his hair before this portrait was made, reacting to the photographers' unsuccessful efforts to make his hair appear well-groomed.

"... WE MUST NOT be led by excitement and passion to do that which our sober judgments would not approve in our cooler moments."
Abraham Lincoln

We invite you to see the collection of 132 original Lincoln photographs and the many other interesting Lincoln items on display in our Lincoln Museum.

General Motors Offers National Scholarship Plan

Senior students at South Side High School are eligible to compete for more than 100 four-year college scholarships offered by General Motors under its National Scholarship Plan, according to Mr. R. Nelson Snider, principal.

The competition is open to high school seniors who are United States citizens and who plan to take the College Entrance Board Examination in order to compete for the GM award. At least one GM award in each state and more than 50 winners will be chosen at large. Seniors awarded scholarships under GM's National Scholarship Plan may attend any college or university of their choice and pursue any course of study.

More than 400 students are now attending 110 colleges and universities under the plan, initiated in 1955. Their career objectives include engineering, medicine, law, the sciences, journalism, teaching, music, religion, and other worthwhile fields.

Selection of award winners in the GM National Plan is made by a group of leading educators representing various parts of the country.

Full details of the competition, including registration dates for examination are available in Mr. Snider's office.

General Motors offers other scholarship opportunities. Under its College Plan 302 four-year college scholarships are awarded annually by 180 colleges and universities located in 48 states and the District of Columbia. A list of the participating colleges may be obtained from the principal's office. Selection of award winners under the College Plan is made by the representative colleges and universities. Students wishing to be considered under this plan should apply directly to the college of their choice.

Awards under both plans range from $200 to $2,000 per year depending on the student's needs.

Superior Students To Be Featured On Electra Club

Each year at the beginning of the school year, Indiana and Michigan Electric Company sponsors a television program, The Electra Club, through which they wish to present outstanding students of the local high schools. This program may be seen on television station WANE at 5:30 p.m. on Sundays.

Students will be recognized for any outstanding instrumental and vocal talent in the field of music. Recognition will include those accomplished in the classical dances, dramatics and declamations. Special recognition will be given to young people who have, at an early age, proved their capability in the field of pure applied science, such as electronics, chemistry, mathematics, physics, biology, botany, and related sciences.

Those individuals who have early in life engaged in some form of business such as participation in Junior Achievement will be recognized.

The Electra Club has proposed to have a youth panel for the discussion of timely local, national, and international events in relation to the lives and interests of high school students.

Workshop Chooses Thanksgiving Heads

Officers and sponsors of 36 Workshop will meet today at 3:30 p.m. in Room 30.

The general chairman for the Thanksgiving Assembly is Judy Thompson. The co-chairmen for stagecraft are Lois Levine and Tom Ogies. So-Si-Y Entertains Faculty And Guests

"The faculty and other guests were entertained at the annual So-Si-Y Faculty Tea last Tuesday at 3:30 in the Greeley Room," announced Barb Richey, president.

All faculty members plus Miss Pauline Van Gorder, Mr. Ora Davis, Mr. R. Nelson Snider, and Miss Frances Stobaugh were invited. Miss Joan Benson and Miss McKenna from the YWCA were also extended an invitation.

The guests were welcomed by the president. The welcome was followed by devotions given by Jan Pollom. Members of So-Si-Y presented a reading called, "The Spirit of the YWCA." Ramona Stuart played the piano, and Alice Houk played a violin selection.

After the members of the club opposed the faculty in a short contest, refreshments were served.

South Side Extends Sympathy To Teacher

The students and faculty of South Side express their sympathy to Miss Mary Graham, English teacher and family upon the death of her father, Mr. Edwin J. Graham.

Mr. Graham retired from the General Electric Company in 1946 where he served as department superintendent and staff assistant. After retirement, Mr. Graham taught industrial management and industrial relations at Indiana Technical College from which he retired in 1957.

Mr. Graham was a charter member of the South Wayne Baptist Church and the Fort Wayne YMCA; a member of Home Lodge No. 342 and the Quarter Century Club of the General Electric Company, and was 32nd Degree Scottish Rite.

"Indian Love Call" Tops Philo Talent

Because they received the most applause, the talent quest at the Philo meeting October 20, at 3:30 p.m., in the Greeley Room, was won by Joyce Brittenham and Geraldine Geller, who sang and did a short skit to "Indian Love Call," and Penny Hunt, Sue Sappenfield, Bessie Ferguson, and Janet Lawry, who presented a melodrama entitled "Little Nell."

The program was based on a television talent quest. Sara Lou Miller was the mistress of ceremonies. Ann Keirns, Martha Milnor, Judy Thompson, Nancy Bailey, and Kay McDaniel were the talent scouts.

The Girls' Trio, Marilyn Bugg, Marcia Mosel, and Lynn Gall, sang "So Tough." Susie Hoard sang "The Little White Cloud That Cried." Sandra Landree played "Young, Warm, and Wonderful" on the piano.

Two Kellys To Appear On TV Club

Steve Rothberg and Mary Sue Robertson will represent South Side on the Electra Club next Sunday. Steve will report the coming events for South Side. Mary Sue will be on the panel.

"Only 60.4 per cent of the qualified citizens voted in the last Presidential election; will your generation set a better record?" This is the question that will be discussed on the panel.

Girls' Rifle Club Has Target Practice

Having previously practiced target shooting with blanks, members of Girls' Rifle Club began live-fire target practice last Tuesday, at 3:30 p.m. on the range.

High scorers among veteran riflers include Sue Ellen Blaising and Peggy Markin, 86, and Joyce Reynolds, 76.

Science Academy To Hear Dr. Rossiter

Dr. D. L. Rossiter will be the guest speaker at the November 6 meeting of the Junior Academy of Science. Dr. Rossiter will talk on the history, preparation for, and techniques of surgery.

Mike Church, president, has announced that if enough interest is shown in the fields of meteorology or astronomy, a new section of the Academy may be started. He stated that the Academy will show three movies of the Bell Telephone series in the near future. These films are in color and last one hour.

Mike Simmons, Senior, Works IBM Machine Past Summers

Pushing buttons!

That's what Mike Simmons, a senior this year, spent his last two summers doing, working at the Fort Wayne Drug Company. His job consisted of "pushing buttons"; but as you all know, pushing buttons on an IBM machine is somewhat complicated. Having completed two weeks of specialized training, and having two summers of actual experience, Mike knows his job quite thoroughly. Mike enjoys this job, particularly because it offers a wide open field.

What is an IBM machine? It is an "electronic brain" used for many useful purposes. Its main purpose, however, is to take the jobs of many people in figuring invoices and keeping accurate records. You may think that many people are resentful of such a marvelous invention, but this machine is a time and labor saving device to a great many corporations.

Mike's job deals with the billing and invoicing system. Mike's job is pushing various buttons to feed the invoices; then the machine punches the cards. The cards that the machine turns out are of vital importance to both the calculator and accounting machines.

A former South Side student, Tom Campbell, has worked with Mike at the Drug Company. Mike says, "Working here at the Drug Company with this type of machine would provide a good background for anyone sincerely interested in going into the broad field of electronics."

Camera Club To Hear Slide Lecture Oct. 15

"An interesting slide lecture entitled 'Snap That Picture' is the program for the next meeting of the Camera Club," announced Mr. Ernest Walker, sponsor.

The lecture deals with the taking of black and white prints.

All interested persons are welcome to attend. The meeting is to be conducted in the Greeley Room at 3:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Boys' Rifle Club Practices Shooting

Aided by Mr. Steven Berg, the following members of Boys' Rifle Club received high scores in the prone position Monday, at 3:30 p.m. on the range: Robert Stout, 94; Dave Welch, 91; Dale Smith, 89; Earl Erwin, 87; Ralph Adkinson, 87; Kenton King, 87; Jim Edwards, 85; Bill Batchelder, 84; Mike Durnell, 83, and Rex Patterson, 81.

Temporary squads, each composed of nine boys, will be organized next Monday according to the riflers' rates in marksmanship.

AGENT'S REWARD—Anna Mae Chen is receiving the Totem she will win as a reward for selling the most subscriptions for the 1959 Totem during the circulation campaign. Circulation managers Maria Hilsmier and Barb Miser are presenting the award.

Sharon Ruhl Wins Citizenship Award

Sharon Ruhl

Sharon Ruhl, senior, has been chosen the DAR best citizen for this year by the faculty of South Side High School.

"I was very shocked, to say the least, and also honored to have received this award," said Sharon concerning her award.

The award, which is sponsored by the Daughters of the American Revolution, was presented to the outstanding senior girl and judged on her dependability, service, leadership, and patriotism.

On October 18, Sharon took the test to determine to whom the award should go for Allen County.

Sharon is on the college course taking Chemistry 2, French 4, Government 2, and accompanies the concert choir fifth period.

Among her outside activities are participating in Philo and being the senior class editor for the Totem.

Grade Period Ends Nov. 14

The grade period ends one week from tomorrow, November 14. Letter grades will be issued on Tuesday, November 18.

Snider To Talk At Senior Tea

The highlight of the Senior Tea today at 2:30 p.m. in the cafeteria will be a talk by R. Nelson Snider, principal, about jobs, scholarships, and colleges. Entertainment will be provided by the concert choir.

The Junior Tea, yesterday at 2:30 p.m. in the cafeteria, featured a demonstration by the developmental reading classes. 36 Workshop also presented part of the program.

Demonstrations by the publications and business department made up the program for the Sophomore Tea, Tuesday at 2:30 p.m. in the cafeteria. The officers of the Meterite Club explained the purposes and work of the club.

A tour of the building to acquaint the mothers with the school was the highlight of the Freshman Tea Monday at 2 p.m. in the cafeteria.

Background music was provided for all the teas by instrumental groups from the orchestra.

Principal, Mr. Davis Visit I.U. Students

Mr. R. Nelson Snider, principal, and Mr. Ora Davis, guidance director, will be among the six delegates from Fort Wayne to attend the annual High School-I.U. Junior (Freshman) Division Conference at Indiana University today.

Approximately 175 high school teachers from Indiana will attend the conference. During the program for the day, the teachers will visit their high school graduates from previous years to see how well they are faring with their college work. On the program will be talks and a panel discussion by former colleagues.

These delegates will bring back information gained at the convention. Those attending from other city schools are as follows: Herbert F. Birkman, Concordia; Charles W. Eickhoff, Elmhurst; O. Dale Robertson, North Side; and Maynard Henwood, Adams Township.

Education Coverage Featured This Week

In honor of American Education Week, November 9 through 15, this week's editorial page is replaced by a coverage of the educational activities at South Side.

Thanksgiving Service Planned

The annual Thanksgiving Assembly presented by 36 Workshop is now well underway. The assembly will be presented in South Side's Gymnasium on Wednesday, November 26.

Judy Thompson is the general chairman of the event, and Miss Lucy Osborne and Mr. William Applegate are the sponsors who are in charge.

In charge of script writing is Katie Rastetter. Her committee consists of Sue Sappenfield, Penny Hunt, Bessie Ferguson, Margo Dixon, Barb Frederick, Judy Franklin, and Michele Coleman. This committee aided Miss Osborne and Judy Thompson in writing the script.

Lois Levine and Tom Ogles are the co-chairmen of stagecraft for the assembly, and the chairmen of the presentation division will be announced at the meeting this evening.

The dates of tryouts for the various speaking parts in the assembly will also be announced tonight; it is important that anyone interested in obtaining a part be present at this meeting.

Contemporary Cape Philo Dance Theme

"Contemporary Capers" was chosen by the members of Philo at the meeting Monday as the theme for the Philo after-game dance, January 10. Judy Cramer and Phyllis Springer are co-chairmen of decorations. Members of their committee include: Janet Rupp, Carol Kenner, Carol Dehnert, Ann Wilson, Linda Baughman, Linda Vanderford, Anna Mae Chen, Judy Tigges, Judy Thompson, Peggy McCoy, Margo Martindale, and Crissie Ferguson.

The program committee will be headed by Dianne Reiff and Linda Tomson. Lonnie Kimble, Carol Lockwood, Carol Discher, Beth Golden, Barb Dennis, Bessie Ferguson, Penny Hunt, and Sue Sappenfield will assist them.

Marcia Swathwood is the refreshments chairman. Susie Smethers, Janet Lawry, Mary Lou Koehler, Janet Terry, and Beth Golden comprise her committee.

THE CLEAN-UP committee chairman is Sandra Landree. Carol Oxenrider, Penny Hunt, Bessie Ferguson, Sue Smethers, Kathy Lee, Marcia Mosel, and Dorothy Major are the members of the committee.

Diane Decker captured first place in the short story contest with her story entitled "Weekend." "The Loss of Lenore," written by Karen Brumm, was voted second place by the judges, who were Miss Ann Arber, Mrs. Donna Jean Darby, and Mr. Laverne Harader.

Other participants and their stories were Lonnie Kimble, "Earning Her Way;" Judy Thompson, "A Purpose;" Sharon Ruhl, "Making a Living;" Mary Lou Koehler, "Katie Stone;" and Linda Tomson, "Something to Live For." The talent number for the meeting was presented by Judy Rumple, Judy Thompson, and Sara Lou Miller.

THE CHAIRMEN for the semester were also announced. These include Janet McClain, program; Kay MacDanel, paster; Carol Szink, bulletin; Lois Levine, putting posters up; Sara Lou Miller and Karen Brumm, thespian; Fran Hoffman, scrapbook; and Sharon Schlammersdorf, piano player.

Camera Club To See Film November 12

"An interesting movie on how to improve your photography will highlight the next meeting of Camera Club, November 12," announced Mr. Walker, sponsor. This film will be of great interest to anyone who is interested in photography.

'South's Pacific' To Have Atmosphere Of Polynesian Isles At Junior Banquet

EIGHT DAYS TO GO—The entertainment committee for the junior class banquet meets to discuss final plans for the annual event. The banquet will be held next Friday, November 14.

"Theme, decorations, entertainment and programs will lure all into an atmosphere of the Polynesian Islands," stated Marilyn Bugg, chairman of decorations, in describing the Junior Banquet scheduled for November 14 in Trinity Episcopal Church at 6:30 p.m. Tickets will sell for $1.50 each.

Girls should wear Sunday dresses and heels, not semi-formals, while suits are the appropriate attire for boys.

SPECIAL GUESTS include Mr. and Mrs. R. Nelson Snider, Mr. and Mrs. Aaron T. Lindley, Mr. and Mrs. Ora Davis, Miss Pauline VanGorder, Miss Frances Stobaugh, the class' previous sponsors, Mrs. Keith Darby and Mr. David Cramer, and the new junior class advisers, Mrs. Robert Gernand and Mr. William Applegate. Teachers of junior homerooms are invited.

All committee's are carrying out the theme, "South's Pacific." Charles Jellison heads the poster committee which consists of Marcia Mosel, Sandra Grodrian, Mary Beth Foote, Marty Clark, Anna Mae Chen, Pat Brown, and Rodka Shady.

DECORATIONS ARE being made by Barb Bailey, Nancy Baltes, Kathy Bricker, Barbara Burdick, Joyce Eads, Dottie Ertel, Judith Franklin, Robert Haag, Fran Hoffman, Carolyn Isch, Linda Jones, Julie Lipp, Dorothy Major, Martha McChesney, Louise Misegades, Carol Oxenrider, Martha Reif, Nicholas Roembke, Judy Ridlen, Sue Smethers, Marcia Swathwood, Nancy Walker, and Nancy Woolner, with Marilyn Bugg, chairman.

PTA Chili Supper To Be November 18

Food To Be Served From 5 To 7 P.M. In Cafe; Bake Sale Featured

The Chili Supper, sponsored by the PTA, will be November 18, 5 p.m. to 7 p.m. in the cafeteria. The menu will consist of chili, sloppy joes, potato chips, cole slaw, baked beans, dixie cups, cake, pie, coffee, and milk.

Co-chairmen for the event are Mrs. Alan Sheldon, Mrs. Gathings Stewart, and Mrs. Stephen Capps. Others helping with the supper include Mrs. Paul Mitchell, freshman class chairman; Mrs. Phillip Redding, sophomore class chairman; Mrs. Thomas Church, junior class chairman; and Mrs. Melvin Ehrman, senior class chairman.

ALSO WORKING on the supper are the ways and means chairmen of the classes: Mrs. David Sherman, freshman chairman; Mrs. Lowell Redding, sophomore chairman; Mrs. James Demetre, junior chairman; and Mrs. H. W. Esterline, senior chairman.

Homeroom mothers are calling mothers to ask for help for the supper; either working in the kitchen or donating pies, cakes, or candy for the bake sale which will go on during the supper. Mothers making baked goods are asked to put them in a disposable container and label the kind of cake or pie.

Parents may donate money to the PTA, and send it with their students to the homerooms.

Bobbi Ray Coming To Talk To Vesta

Bobbi Ray

"Members of the Vesta Club are urged to attend the meeting next Wednesday at 3:30 p.m. in Room 75. Bobbi Ray from the Bobbi Ray Charm School will be coming to give demonstations of charm," announced Susan VanFossen, president.

Bobbi Ray will tell and show the girls the correct posture, good walking position and how to get in and out of a car gracefully.

A short business meeting will take place before Bobbi Ray gives her demonstration.

On October 29, two representatives from Merle Norman Cosmetics Company came to the meeting and demonstrated on two members from Vesta the correct way to apply make-up and the proper amount of make-up to use.

Parents May Buy Net Tickets Now

Mr. Wayne Scott, Athletic Director, said that parents wishing to purchase mail orders for basketball season tickets may buy them November 3 through November 14. The cost is $6. If they want the reserved seats which they had last year, an early order is necessary.

People with reservations last year can have the same tickets if Mr. Scott is notified in the school athletic office before November 14.

Students may get season tickets in the athletic office anytime for $2.50.

The 1958 champions will open the season on November 29 with their first home game against Concordia.

Modern Dancers Perform At North

The Modern Dance Group from South Side performed in the workshop of the Women's Physical Education Department for the Northeastern Indiana Teachers Association, October 28, at 1:30 p.m. at North Side High School. Mary Blanche Parker, dance teacher at Albion and Hillsdale College, conducted the workshop.

The dancers worked on group pattern demonstrations to show spatial relationships and levels. The girls climaxed the performance by presenting a dance sequence to the tune of "He's Got the Whole World in His Hands," by Marion Kerby. Miss Helen Pohlmeyer directed this presentation.

The choral speech was given by Joan Littlejohn while the dancers performed the movements created by them. Carolyn DeVore accompanied on the piano.

The dancing group included Linda, Amos, Tomma Arnold, Kay Augspurger, Bethany Bond, Barbara Collier, Sheri DeYoung, Ann Cupp, Susie Ehrman, Macy Galbreath, Susan Knight, Cindy Miller, Marian McCallister, Marianne Pinkham, Carolyn Sievers, and Shelby Smith.

Senior Pix Proofs Deadline Nov. 15

Friday was the last day in which seniors could have had their pictures taken for The Totem. Many Archer seniors had their picture taken during the summer months and this helped eliminate much of the confusion caused by those who waited until the last few weeks.

Although 376 seniors have had their picture taken, 51 of these students have not yet returned their proofs. Mr. Clippinger said, "The proofs are the property of the studio and must be returned within four days." The deadline for returning proofs is November 15.

Out of the 428 pictures that should have been taken, 24 students have withdrawn, 28 have not yet had their pictures taken, and 51 have not returned proofs. This number also includes the new teachers who have recently come to South Side. All teachers have had their pictures taken and their proofs returned.

TV Panel To Discuss Student Series

Next Saturday, from 4 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. on WPTA-TV, a panel of high school students will discuss the past and future student concerts presented by the Fort Wayne Philharmonic Orchestra. Mickey McClead, senior, will represent South Side in the panel.

Mr. Igor Buketoff, Philharmonic Orchestra conductor, will lead the discussion. The Philharmonic String Quartet will also be featured.

The first in a series of student concerts for high school and college students will be presented on November 15 at 7:30 p.m. at Concordia Senior College. Tickets for these concerts may be purchased from junior Merle Baldwin or at the concerts.

Two Girls To Appear On TV Electra Club

Two Archers will appear on the Elektra Club next Sunday night. The program will be on WANE-TV at 5:30 p.m.

Kate Rastetter will appear on the program as a reporter from South Side High School. Martha Milnor will be a member on the panel representing South Side.

Be sure and watch two great Archers represent South Side.

Music Department Sells Candy To Finance Uniforms, Formals

To sell 6,000 boxes of candy before Thanksgiving is the goal of the South Side Music Department. Boxes of DeMet's turtles, each priced at $1, are packed in cartons of 12 boxes. Monday only 12 cartons remained to be sold.

Salesmen include over 500 students in the vocal section, band, orchestra, and majorettes. Music Department members each sell approximately one carton.

Proceeds will help finance band uniforms, choir formals, and music.

"We hope to end the candy sale by Thanksgiving," stated Mr. Lester Hostetler, vocal director, "and will extend sales only if absolutely necessary."

Hi-Y To Sponsor Car Wash Saturday

At the Hi-Y meeting Monday night, Mr. Orn Davis spoke on Vocations and plans for a Thanksgiving program were discussed.

"Hi-Y will have a car wash this Saturday at the Sunoco Service Station on the corner of Pettit and South Calhoun. Another project of the club was an unsuccessful attempt to clean the urns of South Side. Also, the members are to act as guides for the dedication of the new building," stated John Meyerholtz, club president.

Jr. Minstrel Show At Workshop Tonite

A junior minstrel show will be given at the 36 Workshop meeting tonight at 3:30 p.m. in Room 114.

The juniors who will present the skit are Katie Rastetter, Kathie Sosinski, Pam Holtzberg, Janet Lawry, Sue Sappenfield, Penny Hunt, Bessie Ferguson, Beth Golden, Fran Hoffman, Julie Carr, Margo Dixon, Judy Estlick, Anna Mae Chen, and Nancy Ryan. Juniors who will help backstage are Sharon Probst, Susie Carto, and Judy Robinson.

Book Week, November 2-8, Comes To School Library

Explore with Books is the theme for Book Week which is being held this week.

The story of book week began in 1919 when Mr. Mathiews, Chief Scout Librarian, Boy Scouts of America, undertook to make reading part of the Scout program. In his championship of more and better reading for boys, he traveled from place to place preaching his gospel and gathering information as to what boys read and where they were getting their reading material.

In the spring of 1919, The American Booksellers' Association came together for a convention at which Mr. Mathiews made a stirring speech. He called attention to the fact that boys and girls reading needed year round notice. The interest inspired led to a national campaign to arouse public interest in more and better books for children.

The American Library Association at their summer convention, promptly took action and gave their support to the first step taken.

It was not long before the schools became as interested as public libraries; and so Book Week became a regular part of the school year.

Book Week was placed in November because November and December will always be the busiest time of the year for the sale of children's books; during these months more parents can be found to take time to interest themselves in children's books. It was in November, too, because book sellers would not then be too busy to give as intelligent attention as possible to visitors, and book displays could be fresh and adequate. Book Week is not intended to be a lone week for the distribution of books, but it is a week for arousing new enthusiasm for the rest of the year.

The year 1958 marks Book Week's 39th successful year. During the week of Novemebr 2 to November 8, the South Side Library will have many new and interesting books on display. They are ready for distribution, and students are invited to look them over and check them out.

Philharmonic To Open Student Concert Series; Programs To Feature Enjoyable, Serious Music

South Side students are invited to attend the Fort Wayne Philharmonic student concert series which will open with its first concert, Saturday, November 15, at 7:30 p.m. in the auditorium of Concordia Senior College.

"This series came about in answer to requests by many students for serious music which would be enjoyable and interesting but not stuffy; and high school students should take advantage of opportunities like this which enable them to understand and enjoy music to a fuller extent," stated Mr. Igor Buketoff, director of the Philharmonic, when he expressed his personal feelings on the concert series.

SEASON TICKETS are $2.50 for the three concerts and $1 for single admissions. South Side students may purchase tickets from Merle Baldwin or can call the Philharmonic office.

The first concert will include, among other works: Concerto Grosso in D minor by Vivaldi (arr. Silati); Concert Piece by Weber, played by an Indianapolis high school student, Victor Rosenbaum; and "Hoedown" from Rodeo and "Celebration Dance" from Billy the Kid, both by Aaron Copeland.

"Vivaldi is a predecessor of Bach, and this selection especially has stood the test of time and contains exciting movements. Silati, the man who arranged Concerto Grosso in D minor, was Franz Liszt's most favorite pupil," commented Mr. Buketoff on the first selection to be played. On Victor Rosenbaum, he said, "I discovered this boy at the auditions for the Indianapolis Symphony. He has great drive and force and the piece I requested him to learn is a real show for the pianist."

"AARON COPELAND is the biggest exponent and champion of American music and the two pieces selected are his two most popular works," commented Mr. Buketoff.

"One thing unique about our concerts is that we have a spontaneous and unprepared rehearsal full of problems and stopping points. To my knowledge, we are the only group that does this."

After and during the actual concert everyone will have the opportunity to ask questions, whether pertinent or not. Mr. Buketoff urges, "Everyone should listen with a curious ear in order that they will enjoy hearing all works."

SINCE THE CONCERT series is fairly new, the women's committee is open to suggestions for promotion and improvement, and will welcome volunteers for some aspect of the program. Another thing the women's committee would like to change is the name, Student Concert Series.

"We feel that a new name is needed for the series; one with more 'zip' and that will tell more about the series. We are prepared to offer a prize for anyone contributing the best suitable name," was the statement made by Mrs. G. Irving Latz, chairman of the women's committee.

Education Here Featured For American Education Week

Mr. Snider Gives Opinion On Schools Of Today

By R. Nelson Snider
Principal, South Side High School

The nation-wide observance of American Education Week should remind us of the fact that Americans generally have a profound, if uncritical, belief in the public school system. No other nation, at any time in history, has furnished so much educational opportunity to so many of its citizens.

From early colonial days, through the early years of our Republic, and down to the present, leading individuals, state legislatures and the federal government have spoken, worked, and voted to support an ever-increasing educational opportunity for the youth of the country.

This individual and group interest, and the fact that every citizen is close to the operation of the public schools, have led to periodic examination, and criticism, of this operation. At no time have this interest and criticism been keener or more searching than now.

# # #

MUCH OF THE CRITICISM has come from extremists, particularly in the writing of those who like spectacular writing because it has great sale value. Unfortunately, much of the defense has come from those who think they have a vested interest in education, and resent any critical remarks about the program.

The interest in, and support of, the educational program has been growing rapidly for the last decade or more, but it required the orbiting of a dog in a Russian Sputnik to bring a scare-psychology into frenzied play in the field of educational appraisal.

The scientific know-how evidenced by the Sputnik has led many writers, newsmen and ordinary citizens to question bitterly the efficiency of the American educational system, and to demand a greater emphasis upon the teaching of mathematics and science, particularly in our high schools. It has also led many people to believe that the Russian system of education must be superior to ours.

# # #

THOSE WHO CRITICIZE because we were second with the satellite seem to think the solution lies in having more and more engineers. They forget the basic fact that in autocracy like Russian a few people may decide where the vast energies of the country may be directed, and where the resources may be spent.

Russia decided to direct their energies and money into the creation of the world's first satellite; our people thought we should spend more on bread, butter and better living for all. We had the knowledge, but had to wait for the money necessary to carry out the expensive program of testing, failing, and retesting.

The fallacy of copying the Russian system of education lies in the essential fact that most of their system is not education, but mere training for specific tasks. This fallacy is underlined again by the fact that Russia itself, by order of Kruschev, has recently ordered the programs of its school drastically changed.

# # #

MANY PEOPLE in the school systems of our country know, and believe in, better educational programs than are now being operated. The schools belong to the people of the communities in which they are located, and the school administrators cannot move more rapidly than the citizens will permit. It is at this point that we have a conflict of values.

If the school administrators and teachers think the school should have additional library facilities, provisions for more laboratories, and special classes for the gifted youth, and the community thinks the money available should be spent for a spectators' gymnasium or lights for the football field, the wishes of the community usually prevail.

If the school wants to provide a more expensive program to enable every student to develop to his greatest capacity, and the community thinks a hot lunch program is better, the wishes of the community will be followed. In a nation as rich as ours, both programs should be supported, but to date, choices have been made time after time against the better educational effort.

# # #

THE NEED has never been greater for a strong system of education, for the future here will belong to those with the best education, and the world will be directed either by brute force or by those who are wholly educated. Within our own nation the number of unskilled positions is declining, and the need for highly skilled persons increases each day.

Those high school students who plan to go on with advanced education will meet stiffer and stiffer competition as the numbers wanting to enter our colleges and universities increase. Because of the limited physical facilities of these institutions of higher learning, those who wish to enter next year or five or ten years from now will have to meet higher and higher standards.

Can the high school—public, and with limited support—prepare its students for tthis competition? It can if it is not stampeded by scare-psychology into changing its educational program into one of mere training. Those schools which have maintained a sound basic course throughout the years will need only to adapt new material when it becomes available; the educational program and process do not change radically or quickly.

# # #

EMPHASIS SHOULD REMAIN upon the kind of mental work which stimulates thinking, encourages inquiry, and furnishes facts and information upon which sound judgments can be made. It will always be impossible to teach in four years of high school everything which all people wish taught.

The selection of subjects, methods and procedures must be made—after ascertaining the wishes of the community—by individuals who are themselves well-educated, and who have sufficient training and experience in the educational field to make wise judgments.

There are a growing number of special classes in schools for retarded readers, speech and hearing and partial visions cases, but children are returned to their normal classes as soon as possible because teachers believe that children "do better socially if they are with the type of people with whom they will be spending their lives."

The teacher shortage is a crucial problem in most countries of the world.

Editor's note: In honor of American Education Week, November 9-15, The Times is devoting an entire page to the purpose of revealing education and scholarship at South Side to the student body and to those in our community who may be interested in a progressive education for our youth. The Times thanks those teachers whose classes we interrupted to take pictures, and Mr. R. Nelson Snider, principal, whose article on education appears on this page.

Top left—GET THAT RIBBON!—Miss Covalt discusses a problem with a student in her typing class. In this class students learn the basic fundamentals of touch typing. The commerce department is a special lane on the school designed to teach people who intend to enter the business world. Other subjects taught in this department are shorthand, merchandising, business law, business management, and clerical practice. (Picture by Thompson)

Left upper middle—OH, THOSE HOUR LONGS!—Mike Simmons' hour long book reports seem to have captured the attention of Gene Kraus, Diane Decker, and Pat Doherty, members of the senior experimental English class. This class, and several others at South, is for exceptional students in English. By covering several semesters of work in a shorter time, the class expects to begin college English next semester. English isn't the only language studied by industrious Archers; Latin, French, and Spanish are popular subjects that are also taught. (Picture by Thompson)

Left bottom middle—WOOD WORKERS—Ambitious Archers who are interested in industrial arts are able to select wood, metal, or drawing here at South Side. Members of a wood class display the interest shown by all people enrolled in an industrial arts class.

Upper middle right — DRESS DESIGNERS — Members of a sewing class lay out patterns for dresses that they will mtke this semester. The home economics department covers all phases of activities for the future homemaker. Cooking, dress making, tailoring, mending, home management, nursing, dietetics, and other related subjects which lead to the development of the efficient care of the home are taught by the home economics department. (Picture by Musser)

Bottom middle right—LAW ABIDING—The state law requires five hours of pre-election study by all high school students in a national election year. This year senior government students took over the teacher's responsibility by teaching the underclassmen. Dick Tipton is shown discussing governmental problems to his class. Government is just one class offered by the social studies department. General history, United States history, sociology, economics, and citizenship are also offered. (Picture by Gilsdorf)

What Our Classes Are Doing

Dave Cunningham of Mr. Arnold's United States History 2 period 7 class made a map depicting the "Military Operations in the Spanish-American War." Ron Carlo of the United States History 1 period 3 class made a map of the United States in 1783.

In Mr. Petty's Geometry 2 period 7 class high grades on a unit test were scored by Sally Capps, James Carter, David Dill, Thomas Halley, Mimi Hinman, Ed Sarver, Carolyn Sievers, and Allen Steere. On a construction test in the same class high grades were received by James Carter, Dave Dill, Ann Erickson, Steve Rothberg, and Bob Shine.

Miss Arber's English classes are studying punctuation, quotation marks, and underlining in grammar.

Miss Burr's English 4 classes after studying "Our Town," wrote short acts portraying "Our School." The best ones written by Ann Plogsterth, Gene Jacobs, Sylvia Ehrman, and Sheri DeYoung were tape recorded with class members reading the dialogue. Both classes enjoyed and profited from hearing the tapes.

In Mr. Sage's general math classes Rose Binkley, period 3, and Pam Holtzberg, period 6, reported on the works of Archimedes.

In Mr. Petty's Geometry 2 period 6 class high grades on a recent test were scored by John Chenoweth, Lee Jackson, Ward Miller, and Arthur Wilson.

Mr. Storey's English 2 period 4 class had a spelling test recently. Highest grades were given to Bob Leslie, Tamara Beatty, Mary Crowaghn, and Pat Neuman.

Carol Becker was the first to complete her housecoat in Miss Rehorst's Home Economics 1 period 2 class. Carol used a blue nylon print for her housecoat. Linda Johnson withdrew from the Home Economics 5 period 6 class.

In Mr. Hemmer's general history classes maps were constructed on Alexander the Great's Empire. The following people turned in the most factual and artistic maps: Sue Maxson, Steve Pohl, Steve Anderson, Penny Yore, Sandy Starke, and Pamela Stech.

Mr. Feasel's General History 1 classes have been studying about the Middle East.

In Mr. Murch's Shorthand 1 period 4 class JoAnn High and Georgia Gomez ranked highest in their class.

In Miss Harvey's journalism classes those who have been perfect in obtaining classroom news are Dick Baxter, Maria Hilsmier, Barbara Brown, Ron Marker, Carl Pliett, and Judy Riping.

Miss Grimshaw's Spanish 1 periods 1 and 2 classes are learning to tell time, to count, and to work mathematical problems in Spanish. The record player has been used to help the students to improve their pronounciation.

Miss Fortney's Algebra 2 period 3 class is studying powers and roots.

Top grades on a literature test given by Miss Arber to her freshman English classes were made by Gaylene Hilsmier and Linda Newell.

Those who scored 100 on a test in Mr. Sage's Algebra 1 classes are Eugene Best, Barbara Spiers, Steve Haifley, period 1; Ron Ehrman, Bonnie Russel, period 5; Dennis Crill, Diane Fredrick, period 7.

Education Necessary In Any Field Of Work

Rich man, poor man, beggar man, thief, doctor, lawyer, merchant, chief . . . whatever occupation you wish to pursue, one thing in general can be said, an education is of foremost importance for you. In fact, in the turbulent and crisis filled world we live in today, an education is not a right or privilege to be lightly brushed off; it is a necessity.

An education is a duty for each individual to provide for himself so he may fulfill his future job or position with the best skill possible for his ability.

Especially now, with competition from rival powers such as Russia knocking at our door ready and eager to jump at the chance to replace the United States as leaders in intellectual know how. This generation of students will be the deciding factor in determining the fare of democracy, perhaps even the fate of the world.

Too often, the disgruntled pupil will proclaim that an education is not necessary for his future. The pupil plans to become a laborer or maybe plans to get married after graduation. Well, laborer or politician, teacher or housewife, artist or lawyer, each owes it to himself to secure an education.

Whether seeking financial success or not, a student's education is vital to his happiness. What future parent wants to be an uneducated person to the disappointment of his child?

Since so many students are now seeking a college education, a person with only a high school diploma can expect to have a hard time finding a job. For who can blame the employer for wanting the higher educated person for the job?

Many people, not taking advantage of their youth, are now going back to school to complete their education. Students shouldn't wait until it is too late, until they have to get their education at the same time they must support a family. They should take advantage of the golden opportunity offered to them now.

College Education Earns Student Twice As Much

By Lyman Ginger, Former President of National Education Association

An adult male with four years of college will, on the average, earn more than twice as much in a year as a man with less than an elementary school education and $1,500 a year more than a high school graduate.

This indication of the economic power of education was given to a House of Representatives Subcommittee on Education by Lyman V. Ginger, former president of the National Education Association.

Dr. Ginger cited Census Bureau statistics that showed the median income in 1956 of men 35 to 54 years who were year-round full-time workers was $3,025 for those with less than eight years of school; $4,182 for those who completed eight years; $4,700 for three years of high school; $5,179 for completion of high school; $5,763 for three years of college; and $6,625 for four or more years of college.

"For the individual, education represents earning power and a better material life," Dr. Ginger said. "Education is also economic power for his community and for his employer."

"Comparisons of income and education levels by states," Dr. Ginger pointed out, "typically show a high correlation between the state's ranking in median school years completed and its ranking on per-capita personal income. This is particularly striking at the bottom of the scale; in 1950 the 10 lowest-ranking states on school years completed were also the 10 with the lowest per-capita personal incomes."

"For the employer," Dr. Ginger said, "a more highly educated labor force is an absolute essential. Automation demands more, not less, education. For the nation, education represents the most fundamental of all sources of economic growth. In our preoccupation with horsepower and nuclear power, we cannot afford to lose sight of the rich returns offered by investments in brainpower."—The Indiana Teacher

Proof Of Kellys' Diligence Shows

Those who have gotten classroom news from all their teachers every week in Miss Harvey's journalism classes are Barbara Brown, Dick Baxter, Maria Hilsmier, Carolyn King, Ron Marker, Carl Pliett, and Judy Riping.

Miss Peck's English 5 classes are continuing to write paragraphs of detail, comparison, and contrast.

Mr. Storey's speech classes had a test recently. Those receiving the highest grades in the period 1 class were Julie Carr, Margo Dixon, Janet Garoiss, Sarah Hindman, Nancy Jones, Ann Sherbondy, Kathy Sosinski, and Ann Witte. In period 3, the highest grades were scored by Mary Lou Koehler and Marylyn Sexton. High grades in the period 6 class were made by Richard Dailey, Ruth Dill, Dick Baxter, Janet Lawry, Joan Novitsky, Clarence Sanders, and Janet Terry.

Mr. Storey's English 2 period 4 class wrote a set of themes recently. High grades were scored by Tamara Beaty, Marsha Marshand, Steve Tharp, and George Townsend.

Sue Ann Marvin of Mr. Arnold's United States History 1 period 4 class made a map of the major campaigns of the Revolutionary War. Ron Carlo, United States History 1 period 3 class, made a map of George Rogers Clark's expeditions against the English. Bob Colburn, United States History 2 period 7, made a map depicting the "Campaigns in Cuba in the Spanish-American War."

Mr. Petty's Geometry 2 classes are beginning to study ratios, proportions, and constructions. The period 7 special geometry class is studying constructions, analysis, and proof of more difficult geometry problems. The Algebra 1 class is beginning to divide polynomials by polynomials.

Miss Fortney's Algebra 2 class has been studying factoring, powers, and roots of numbers.

Mr. Feasel's General History 1 classes have been studying the history of Egypt, Japan, and China.

In Mr. Murch's Shorthand 1 period 6 class students who rank high are Nancy Jones, Carol Szink, and Roberta Crosby.

Mr. Gersmehl's English 7y classes are writing and studying short stories.

In Miss Mellen's Home Economics 2 class the girls have been working on the unit of quick breads. So far they have baked biscuits, muffins, gingerbread, and nut bread. Some of the girls have been doing home projects on quick breads.

In Miss Mellen's Home Economics 6 the girls completed the course on the clinical thermometer. Carol Hofer demonstrated to the class how to properly fill a hot water bottle and the proper use of it. On the last test given in the class Sue Bechtold made the only perfect grade.

On a test in Miss Perkins' French 1 period 6 class Wendell Eicher and Sally Burton made 100. A 90 or above was made by Barb Bailey, Judy Chapman, Ann Golden, Beth Golden, Susan Haas, Pegeen Horth, James Stewart, Susan McMurtry, Susan Merchant, Robert Ramage, Sue Sappenfield, John Skiver, Diane Telgman, and Sandra Yaggy.

On a test in Miss Perkins' French 3 period 1 class Sharon Ruhl made 100. Marks of 90 or above were made by Jeffrey Baker, James Chi, Ann Cupp, and Crissie Ferguson.

Education Bill Provides Loan Fund For Students To Help Pay For Burdening Costs Of College

Attempting to enable more students to be able to attend college, Congress authorized almost a billion dollars for education on August 23, when it gave final approval to the National Defense Education Act of 1958. One of the last bills to be approved by the 85th Congress, it has had a long, drawn-out legislative history.

Once called the "Scholarship and Special Aid" bill, and calling for a four-year program costing $1,300,000,000, stipulations for provisions of scholarships were omitted at the very end of the legislative process, thus reducing the program to $887,000,000 over a four-year period.

A TOTAL OF $295,000,000 for four years ($47,500,000 the first year and increasing to $90,000,000 the fourth year), of which Indiana received $1,380,328 the first year, is to be made available by the U.S. Commissioner of Education to higher institutions for establishment of student loan funds.

Allotted to the states on a percentage basis, the money is to be parceled out to those institutions which reach an agreement on the loan fund with the Commissioner. No institution may receive more than $250,000 for any single fiscal year and is to grant preference to students desiring to teach in elementary or secondary schools. The colleges and universities will also be expected to contribute in part to the loan funds.

UP TO $1,000 CAN be borrowed by a student each year, and the total maximum is $5,000 for four years with interest at three per cent to start one year after graduation. Half the amount of the loan will be forgiven to students going into elementary or secondary school teaching after graduation, provided that they continue to teach for five years. The amount of the loan forgiven will be reduced if the student teaches less than five years.

A total of $300,000,000, of which Indiana has been authorized $1,611,010, will be available in matching grants to the state at the rate of $75,000,000 a year for purchase of equipment necessary to teach science, mathematics, and modern foreign languages. A special loan fund will be established from which non-public elementary and secondary schools can borrow directly from the Federal government for the purchase of similar equipment.

The idea behind the section of the bill concerning guidance, counseling, and testing is to increase the number of such counselors and guidance officers in the American secondary schools so that students may be advised of courses of study adaptable to their abilities, aptitudes, and skills; and so that the more able ones may be encouraged to prepare themselves for college. At the rate of $15,000,000 per year for the next four years, the grants for this service are to be matched by the state.

ANOTHER SECTION of this part of the bill calls for a total of $28,000,000 ($6,250,000 the first year and $7,250,000 for the following three years) specified for contracts with colleges and universities wishing to establish summer institutes for teachers to improve their competence as guidance counselors, or the training of teachers preparing to enter this field.

The sum of $7,250,000 was stipulated for each of four years for similar contracts for teachers to improve their competence in modern foreign languages. Also included in this section of the bill is $8,000,000 per year for four years for contracts with higher institutions to develop special centers for the study of rare modern languages, possibly including the history, political science, economics, sociology, geography, linguistics, and anthropology of the foreign country.

Funds for such centers are to be on a matching basis, with the government and the institution of higher learning each contributing one-half of the total. Provision is also made in this section for the staff of the language and area centers to travel abroad, and for foreign scholars to come to this country to teach.

APPROXIMATELY $59,400,000 for not more than three-year graduate fellowships will permit the awarding of 1,000 fellowships the first year of the program and 1,500 new fellowships for each of the following three years. Stipends are to start at $2,000 the first year and increase to $2,400 the third year of graduate work. In addition, there is an additional payment of $400 for each year for each dependent. This calls for a total allotment of $48,000,000 the first year, $12,200,000 the second year, $19,900,000 the third year, and $22,500,000 the fourth year.

In order to discover how the wide range of audio-visual aids can be best used in American schools, one section of the education bill has been authorized a total of $18,00,000, of which $3,000,000 would be used for the first year, and $5,000,000 for each of the three succeeding years, to be used for research and experimentation on better educational uses of these mediums.

A total of $392,031 is to be used by Indiana for vocational education programs in skilled trades necessary for defense. This provision in the education bill calls for an allotment of $15,000,000 a year for four years for the entire United States. This money is to be allocated and matched in the same manner as the Smith-Hughes funds which Indiana has received since 1917.

The last section of the bill concerns statistical services. Under this provision, the Indiana Department of Public Instruction may receive funds from the $6,500,000 allocated for the improvement of statistical services in the education agencies. The first year, $1,000,000 was authorized with $1,500,000 the second year and $2,000,000 each of the next two years.

Sylvia Hanson Enjoys Visit With Relatives In Norway

On June 5, 1958, the German ocean liner "Bergensfjard" pulled away from the New York docks for a nine-day cruise across the Atlantic. Sylvia Hanson, a South Side sophomore, and her family were headed for a two-month vacation in Norway and Sweden.

The ship "Bergensfjard" docked at Copenhagen, Denmark, where Sylvia and her family stayed one day. The Hansons then boarded a ship and sailed north to Oslo, Norway. In Oslo they stayed with relatives for two weeks and spent much of the time sightseeing. Sylvia saw the famous raft, Kon-Tiki, which made the historic trip from the coast of South America to the South Sea Island; and the ship, "Fram," in which Raold Amundsen sailed to the South Pole.

FROM OSLO the Hansons took a train to Bergen, Norway. "Bergen is known to be the rainiest city in the world," stated Sylvia. "However, we had nothing but sunshine during our stay there."

After three days in Bergen, Norway, the Hansons boarded the ship "Meteor" for a 10-day cruise to North Cape and Hammerfest, where they spent the Fourth of July. While it was hot here, Sylvia said the weather in Hammerfest was very cold.

* * *

FROM HAMMERFEST the Hansons sailed back to Bergen. Sylvia said she didn't make many acquaintances during the cruise since most of the people were older couples.

From Bergen the Hansons took a train to Oslo. Here they spent five days visiting relatives and sightseeing before taking a train to Stockholm, Sweden.

"In Sweden I learned how to walk," commented Sylvia. "We took many tours throughout the city of Stockholm and we walked from the main streets to the points of interest most of the time."

After spending a week in Stockholm they took a train to Mortala, Sweden, a city about four hours north of Stockholm, where they stayed with friends.

"After a week in Mortala we took a train back to Oslo for a week of recuperating," Sylvia said. While in Oslo Sylvia almost got hit by a "trick," a vehicle like our streetcar.

"THE NORWEGIANS had no word for teenager so they adopted the English word and use only a slightly different pronunciation," stated Sylvia.

"Another thing that was surprising were the 'Hula Hoops'," commented Sylvia. "They are just beginning to catch on here but the Norwegian children have been playing with them for the past year."

On August 18, aboard the ship "Oslofijord," the Hansons arrived back in New York Harbor, and that was as far as they got until the next day. It seems since it was Sunday they couldn't unload the ship, so they spent the night in the harbor.

When asked which of the countries she enjoyed most, Sylvia replied, "I'll have to stick to the land of my parents. Many of the Norwegians speak English very well and they are very friendly people."

After only one hour in the city of New York, the Hansons boarded a train for Fort Wayne. The end of a wonderful vacation had all but come too soon.

Two Archers Own, Operate T.V., Radio Repair Business

Drop in on Dave Terrill one afternoon. Chances are he will be found with Fred Richardson working on a television or radio set. These two South Siders run a T.V. and radio repair service in the basement of Dave's home at 4727 Old Mill Road.

The two boys started their business last March and it has been flourishing ever since. "We were interested in this type of work," answered the boys when questioned why they started their enterprise.

They repair more radios than television sets, and can do anything a regular serviceman can do, only their charge is lower. The service charge they ask is only $2.50; yet a regular serviceman would charge $5.

Fred handles the bookkeeping end of the business. He is a Junior B, taking business law 1, English 4, band, United States History 1, and physical geography 2.

Dave is on the college course, taking Latin 3, English 4, general history 2, and geometry 2; he is a member of DeMolay.

Need your television or radio set repaired? Call K-4123 or H-4735.

History Class Makes Maps

Dick Butzow of Mr. Arnold's United States History 1 period 4 class made a map showing "The Inland Penetration of Population." He also made a picture of the "Revolutionary War Campaigns" and another depicting the "Venezuelan Boundary Dispute." Richard Dailey of the United States History 1 period 4 class made an illustration of the "Battle of Long Island."

Manager Don Myers Sets Memorial Coliseum Events

On the main floor of the Coliseum in a quiet office sat Mr. Don Myers, manager of the Allen County War Memorial Coliseum, up to his ears in ice; for the huge building was housing the annual "Holiday on Ice" show.

Mr. Myers is a very busy man and his duties are many and varied. They include booking the events such as the ice show, circus, rodeo, supervising the maintenance of the Coliseum, personnel, and parking lot; in other words supervising the whole operation of the Coliseum.

Mr. Myers is bossed by a five-man board of trustees whose job is to operate the Coliseum and carry out its policies. This board is appointed by the County Commissioners and the Circuit Court judge.

THE MEMORIAL Coliseum was built in memory of the persons who died in World Wars I and II. In Memorial Hall there is a plaque. Its inscription reads as follows:

"This Coliseum is dedicated as a living memorial in honor of these men and women of Allen County who gave their lives in World Wars I and II of our nation that we might live."

Mr. Myers said that bonds were sold to pay for the construction of the Coliseum. These bonds are being paid bnck by tax levies. Entertainers and shows such as the ice show rent the Coliseum through the efforts of Tri-State Promotions and other promoters and are paid out of the box office take. The Coliseum is paid a flat rental rate and also receives a percentage of the box office money.

DURING THE seven years that the Coliseum has been in operation it has featured a number of celebrities: Bob Hope, Liberace, Nat "King" Cole, Elvis Presley, Wayne King, Billy Eckstine, and Roy Rogers, to name a few.

Most popular among the affairs at the Coliseum are the ice show which runs for nine performances and the circus which runs for six performances. Other activities at the Coliseum are ice skating, hockey, basketball—both high school and professional—stage, home, and sports shows, auto races, dances, banquets, and dog shows.

Ten thousand persons is the capacity of the Coliseum arena. This capacity has been filled during the basketball tourney, the hockey season, and when there were famous personalities playing at the Coliseum.

SEVERAL DEATHS and a birth have been seen by the Coliseum. During the 4-H Fair a cow gave birth to a calf in the Exhibition Hall, where the circus animals are also housed. Several persons have died in the Coliseum; and strangely enough, they were not performers, but people who died of heart failure.

Mr. Myers made this statement in connection with the use of the Memorial Coliseum:

"This is a public building. We like to operate the building as a public service. We emphasize the public service angle and want it used by everybody."

Meyer Scores Two TD's But Archers Bow To C. C.

Second Half Defense Nets Irish 20-12 Win In Final Football Game

Central Catholic's heavy, hard-hitting line, and fast, charging backs ground out a 20-12 victory over South Side at Northrop Field last Friday. This, as most games, was won up front by a sturdy wall.

With the exception of Bill Meyer's consistent ground gaining, the Archer offense was stymied all night long. Meyer crashed over the goal line twice, the initial score climaxed by a brilliant 58-yard run; the second cinching his title as city scoring champ.

C.C.'s superior line opened big holes in the Archer line, and Leroy Carcione, Dave Schaab, and Johnny Sorg crashed through them.

C.C.'s victory boosted the Irish into a second-place City Series tie with Central, while dumping the Kellys to last place.

THE KELLYS RAISED a storm in the second period and threatened to spoil the Irish bid for victory by taking an abbreviated lead at 12-7; but the Green found the Irish back too much and the Purple offense came spilling through the crumbling Green and White.

C.C.'s superior line ruined South's chances. Sorg, Carcione, and Schaab picked up yardage at will and the Archer line was helpless. Meyer was the whole story for South, though a poor choice of plays spoiled some good chances.

Sorg picked up 109 yards rushing for an average of 5.7 per carry and Carcione picked up 59 for an average of 4.2.

Meyer gained 105 yards rushing for South, an average of 8.8 per carry. Steve Gaskill and Tom Lerch each gained six and Lerch's average was three, compared to two for Gaskill. Tipton carried once for four.

* * *

SOUTH HAD 126 yards rushing to C.C.'s 230 and completed only one of five passes while C.C. completed five of nine. C.C. intercepted a pass while South recovered two C.C. fumbles and C.C. recovered only one Archer fumble.

Players and scoring:

Ends—Joe Roth, Lude, Duncan.

Tackles—Olinske, Bowen, Dawson, Berk, Slick.

Guards—Tom White, Tritch, Howe, Griffiths.

Centers—Sutter, Lawson White.

Backs—Smith, Meyer, Gaskill, Lerch, Tipton, Johnson, Somers, Bolyard, Raines, Parrott, Matthias.

Scoring:

Cen. Catholic	7	7	0	6	—20
South Side	6	6	0	0	—12

Central Catholic — Touchdowns: Schaab (1, run), Sorg 2 (11 pass from Walsh, 5 run). Conversions: Jerry Perriguey (kick), Creigh (pass from Walsh).

South Side—Touchdowns: Meyer 2 (58-yard run; 7 run).

Bill Meyer, Frank Lude, Bob King Credited For Consistent Play

Frank Lude

Bob King

Coach Gernand has cited three players for their outstanding performances in South's final game of the season against Central Catholic. Back Bill Meyer and linemen Frank Lude and Bob King were named to the Players of the Week honor as the Irish defeated the Green in a well-contested gridiron battle. The win enabled C.C. to tie city rival Central for second place in the City Series competition; while the loss dropped the Archers into the Series basement without a win.

* * *

BILL MEYER, South's speedy senior left halfback, is honored as Back of the Week for the third time this season. Bill is assured of a berth on Fort Wayne's All City Football Team named by local sportscasters and sportswriters.

Bill's incredible 51-point total places him as the number one scorer in the city. He has had tremendous gallops averaging 50 yards per each touchdown.

It was Bill's touchdown run in the first quarter that put the Green back into the game. The Irish had previously marched for the touchdown in 12 plays and converted the PAT for a 7-0 lead. From South's first play in scrimmage, Bill galloped 65 yards for the touchdown. He was superb all night as he led the Archer backfield. Even though the Irish defense was set up to stop Meyer, Bill powered through the stubborn Purple defensive unit for consecutive first downs. Bill closed his prep football career very honorably and will long be remembered for his thrilling touchdown gallops.

This week's Linemen of the Week title was split between Frank Lude and Bob King, two junior right ends. Both boys have alternated in the starting slot through the latter part of the season. The two will return next season and promise to have an exciting year for the Archers.

FRANK LUDE has shown much improvement as the season has progressed. His offensive play earned him the starting position in South's opener at Anderson. Since then, Frank has improved steadily, both offensively and defensively.

Frank began his football career at South on the freshman team as a starter. Last season, he played reserve ball for the sophomores and showed signs of a good football player. Frank was a pleasant surprise this year as he earned his starting slot. It was mainly for his continually outstanding play throughout the entire season that Frank earned this week's Lineman of the Week honor.

BOB KING, playing his first year as an end, has come along rapidly since being moved from the fullback position. Bob played in the backfield as a freshman and sophomore on their respective teams. He saw action on South's defensive unit as an end against Anderson. It was after that game that Coach Gernand began to groom Bob for the offensive end position, moving him from the backfield. Bob has alternated with Frank since, starting three games himself. Bob is also named Lineman of the Week for his overall play this season.

Bob feels that this year's team was the best varsity squad in his three years at South. He thinks that determination was a key factor, combined with spirit. Bob feels (as does Coach Gernand) that next year's team can finish well over the .500 mark.

The student body wishes to extend hearty congratulations to each member of South's varsity and especially to these three boys. "Best of luck in the future" to Bill, and "Harder next year, boys" to Frank and Bob.

Soph Allen Rainbolt Works With Dogs At Vet Hospital

It is often said that a man's best friend is his dog. By the same token a dog's best friend is a man, and carrying out this theory into actual practice is Allen Rainbolt. Several months ago, Allen became interested in working at Allen's Veterinarian Hospital. Here he spends as much available time as possible taking care of the pets he is so fond of.

Every Saturday, Sunday, and holiday will find Allen shearing and bathing dogs as well as doing many other little odd jobs for the care and comfort of these animals. He also assists the veterinarian in performing operations.

Allen likes this kind of work because, he says, "It's different from most other jobs."

* * *

ALLEN IS NOT sure right now if he will continue in this type of work as a profession. He thinks that his decision to become a veterinarian will depend on how he feels about working with animals after he has had more experience.

For the present, however, Allen is happy in his work and these dogs have found a real friend.

Grid Reserves Set 5-2 Record During Season

Burton, Raines Lead Scorers, Belchner, Pohl, Bewald, Sherray Defense

Finishing slow but still having a commendable season, the Archer reserve team gave promise to lead South Side to a good varsity season next year.

The Archers started in a flash, winning five games before their first defeat. The reserve team's first victim was a strong North Side team. It was a highly contested affair, that was really a rough game. The Green and White scored a touchdown on a sweep by Tom Duff and managed to hold this margin for a 6-0 win.

THE RESERVE TEAM also squeaked by C.C. with a 6-0 score. However, the Archers were plagued with fumbles and should have won by a greater score.

Inspiration and determination led South to a 26-0 rout over Central. The team was really ready for this one since they had handed the team their only defeat as freshmen.

The Archers received quite a scare when they were behind 6-0 at the half in their game with Concordia. This was the first time the rugged Archer forward wall had been scored upon this season. Coming out for the second half, the reserve team decided to settle down. They then proceeded to score no les sthan 25 points while blanking Concordia for a 25-6 win. Walter Raines led the scoring with 12 points.

IN THE ELMHURST game, which was played along with the freshmen, the Archer team scored 21 points in only one half of play while keeping the Trojans scoreless. The freshmen scored twice in their half, letting the Trojans score once for a final score of 33-6.

The reserves received their first setback of the season when they met North Side for the second game scheduled between the two foes. The first time the Archers received the ball, they scored. Walter Raines scored on the very first play from 18 yards out on a plunge through the middle. From then on, however, the Green and White just couldn't start rolling. They fumbled seven times and watched the alert Redskins pick two of them up for two scores and a 12-6 victory.

In their last game, the reserves were completely shut out by a determined Central Catholic team that remembered their early season loss to the Archers. The game started with many scuffles and before it was over many players had been ejected from the game from both teams. In the melee, the reserves lost both Steve Burton and Walter Raines, who made up one-half of the starting backfield. This along with a weakened line were the reason for the humiliating final score of 18-0.

THERE WERE many standouts on the Archer squad this season. The reserves had two quarterbacks, Bob Bolyard and Chris Parrott, who always looked good. Bolyard was the better offensive player, while Parrott was probably the best defensive player on the team.

In the scoring department, Steve Burton and Walter Raines led in the statistics. Others in the scoring department were Tom Duff, Bob Bolyard, Ron Hay, and Bob Shine.

Carl Bewald, Ron Belchner, Bob Sherray, and Steve Pohl did a good job in the line both on offense and defense.

KYC To Discuss Local Railroads

"Railroad development in Fort Wayne will be discussed at the November 11 meeting of Know-Your-City," announced Ann Wilson, president. The Know-Your-City Club will meet in Room 110 at 3:30 p.m.

The Times would like to apologize for a mistake made in a previous issue concerning the identity of the president of KYC. Ann Wilson should be recognized and given full credit for being president of the club.

11 Pupils Leave School; Three Pupils Enter South

In the past week South Side has gained three pupils and lost 11.

Steve Black has come to South Side from Ohio. William Joy and Jerry Ann Arnett have transferred from Concordia and Central respectively.

Marie Deeter now lives in Indianapolis. Van Buren, Indiana is now the home of Judy Earywine. Susan Stollars has transferred from South Side to a school in Anderson. Patrick Campbell decided that he would get more out of the Air Force than he would out of school. Diane Patrick and Sharon Kennedy now live in Barrington, Rhode Island, and Kansas City, Missouri, respectively.

Sandra Fields has transferred to North Side. Sondra King is married and gone to join her husband. Jim Marley, Linda Johnson, and Judy Lindquist have withdrawn.

Wranglers To Take Trip To Radio Station Monday

Wranglers Speech Club has planned a trip to radio station WANE, next Monday. The members are to meet immediately following the 3:20 p.m. bell. They will board a bus which will take them to the station.

One of the main speech meets of the year will be Saturday at Howe Military Academy. All participants must be inexperienced.

Thirty-three students are planning to attend the contest. Mr. R. N. Storey, sponsor, has selected five students to act as judges.

Seniors Become GAA Champs

The Seniors took the speedball championship in Upperclass GAA last Monday night. They had a total of five wins. The Juniors were close behind with three wins and a tie. The Sophomore 2's claimed third place with two wins. They were followed by the Sophomore 1's who claimed one win and a tie.

Teams In Gary Area Cited As Rugged Lot

Northwestern Indiana Offers Tough Semi-Final; Many Excellent Teams

(Editor's Note: This is the first in a series of articles canvassing the prospects throughout the state for the upcoming basketball season.)

By Bob Shine

One of the strongest areas in basketball competition, the Gary area, will be even stronger this year when basketball makes its yearly return to the Hoosier state. This area should have many top teams which will be of championship quality.

Northwestern Indiana offers one of the toughest sectional groupings in the entire state, for there are always many excellent teams that compete against each other at tournament time.

TWO OF THE top teams to watch in the north are Gary Froebel and East Chicago Washington. Gary Froebel has four of the starting five returning, plus a 6-foot, two-inch forward, a transfer student who was an outstanding player at East Chicago Washington last season. Froebel had a 50-50 season last year but came back to win their Sectional title, and should be a threat to the other area teams.

Crawfordsville, who was runner-up to South Side in the State last year has only one of its starting five returning. He is Bill Burget, who stands six feet, three and one-half inches. Bill is a senior and has a chance to be an outstanding performer this season.

Lafayette Jefferson has only two boys back from last year's varsity, but Coach Marion Crawley, who is known throughout the state as one of the best coaches in the country, has been known to make a championship team out of inexperienced players.

COACH VIRGIL SWEET could turn his Valparaiso basketball team into a big surprise this year. Four of the starting five are back from last season's team which won 20 and lost five. The Valparaiso squad also has one of the tallest boys in the Gary area. He is John Worstell, who stands at six feet, six inches. Another member of the team is six feet, five inches. Both of these boys were on the second string last year.

After a losing season last year, the first in 10 years, Hammond Noll expects to rebound with a tremendous campaign. Six of last year's 12 are returning. Although only three seniors will be on the squad, the Warriors will have four hot juniors—Dan Adyia, Martin Cieslok, Stan Habryck, a six-foot, five and one-half inch center, and Ron Krajewski. The Warrior coach, Ed Hudson, received a pleasant surprise this fall when a lanky six-foot, eight-inch junior, Willie Kingsley, reported. With this addition, Noll could "raise a storm up north."

GARY TOLLESTON also has a good chance to fool the big teams this year. Their hopes are based around Arthur Spears, who was conference scoring champion last season.

Michigan City, who was one of only two teams to beat South Side last year, has lost four of their starting five players. They will be considerably weaker this season, but have enough reserve strength from last year to give any team a battle in this campaign.

All in all, basketball enthusiasts can look forward to a most exciting season in the Gary area.

Schmitz On Sports

The 1958 City Grid Title South Side couldn't boast, but the new city scoring champ the Archer fans are proudly heralding. By tallying 57 points in his last four contests, Bill Meyer easily emerged as the new high scorer in Fort Wayne.

Incidentally, he accomplished the feat in only eight games (all teams with the exception of South and Central played nine) while being handicapped by an injured knee that hampered his ability to break to the left during the early part of the season.

* * *

Bill wrote the finishing pages to a high school grid career with a sterling performance. Meyer continued to gain the eye of many local fans as he swept through the Irish line all night during his two-touchdown performance that boosted his season's total over the 50-point mark.

* * *

His two runs, one a 60-yard jaunt up center, sent Kelly fans' hopes sailing high as the second gave the Archers a short-lived lead that could have spelled evacuation from the City Series cellar.

* * *

Carl Johnson's sensational punt in the second stanza for a moment appeared as if it would enable the Archers to come rebounding back. Although the game's history proved it of no significant importance to the outcome, the punt was the tall sophomore's most spectacular all season. Johnson booted the ball high almost enabling South to recover on the goal line after a C.C. fumble.

C.C.'s win hoisted the Irish into a two-way tie with Central for second place in the city scramble. It also doomed the Archers to the bottom rung for another year.

Although in the City Series cellar once again, the season was far from fruitless for the Green. South's record was vastly improved over last year. The final record is 3-4-1 as compared to 2-6-1 over last year.

* * *

Of course, South's schedule was a little lighter this year but the quality of competition varied only slightly. The Green and White's offensive and defensive averages varied only two points. The defense allowed two more points per game than the offense was capable of tallying. For complete statistical information refer to the City Scoreboard.

* * *

The Kellys' defense overall was the second best in the city, but in City Series competition the Archers yielded the most points. Central Catholic's defense was tops in the city and it was superb. The Irish yielded only 56 points in nine contests.

* * *

Looking ahead to next season, the promises look very pleasing. Coach Gernand used many sophomores this past season, most of whom looked great and showed true promise in the future years. Bob Bolyard, Carl Johnson, Jon Sommers, Lawson White, Jim Dawson, and "Red" Hertel all blossomed forth to aid the Archer cause in glory this year.

* * *

As to my prediction of the City Series race just prior to the first game, I was wrong; but only by three points. Central and Central Catholic, the two teams who tied for second, lost to North Side by three and six points, respectively. Had either downed North the outcome would have been entirely different.

* * *

Good running conditions the season through are always a coach's dream. This season the weather hampered the Archer harriers only a scarce amount of times during practice and in two meets. The extent of the poor weather played little effect on them in two meets with Elmhurst and Wabash.

* * *

Then last week the horrid weather that nobody cherishes plagued the runners in the State Meet at Indianapolis. Cold, nippy, rainy weather hovered over the South Grove Golf Course, scene of the State Finals. When a runner's feet become cold and heavy with water, he is working against adverse conditions. Thus was the condition of about 200 runners at Indianapolis last Saturday.

"Porky" Holt's runners stayed as cold as the weather during the entire two-mile course and hence failed to bring home the pride and prestige they were seeking.

* * *

Dave Reece, the newcomer, was a pleasant surprise, however. The fleet sophomore dashed across the finish line in 11:10, his best time of the season, a great accomplishment for his third varsity race in his high school career.

* * *

Senior Don Kern was another surprise being just four seconds behind Dave. This race closed out the careers of Kern and two others, Mike Albersmeyer and Ed Hartman. These two concluded three and two years of running, respectively.

* * *

Last week I picked Central's Henry King to win individual laurels, but followed closely by Elkhart's junior Charley Umbarger. Instead the situation was reversed. Muncie Central was one of the teams I said to watch for in the Finals and they did come up with the team championship.

Court Squads Cutting Players

As the Archer basketball team progresses into a deeper concentration on practice to be well prepared for the beginning of another basketball season, the squads show the wear of their efforts by the minor shuffling throughout the different squads. Through major cutting on the part of Coach Don Reichert, the teams are starting to shape up into another fine South Side squad.

A group of 35 men was cut to about 20 on the varsity and reserves combined list Monday. Another major cut will take place this coming Monday. The freshman team was cut from 35 to about 25 last Monday. In addition, the football players have started practice this week.

Some outstanding men out for the varsity squad are Ted Lebrecht, Nick Demetre, Dave Roderick, and Jim Saylors. A fast-coming man is Dave Barrett. Among the Archer hopefuls on the football team are Bill Meyer with the varsity and Bob Bolyard, Steve Burton, Steve Mathias, and John Somers with the reserves. Although Tom Bolyard broke his left hand, he will keep in shape during practice sessions by drilling on shooting and running.

Rm. 156 Banks $38.41 Oct. 28

The total banking receipts slacked off this week with only $277.10 being received.

Again this week Miss Lutie Young's Homeroom 156 had the highest total with $38.41. Miss Janice Leif's Room 79 placed second with $26 and Miss Mary Crowe's Room 142 was third with $21.55.

WINNING BOWLERS—During spring vacation the intramural department held its semi-annual bowling tournament at Scott's Recreation Center. Those bowlers turning in the highest scores, left to right, are Larry Levy, Keith Correll, and Chuck Krause. The bowlers are pictured with Mr. Clair Motz, intramural director.

"Hoosier Hysteria" once more strikes South Side as Intramural basketball starts. Basketball got into full swing in the gym fifth period last week, as many of you noticed.

In the first game, the Woof-ED's defeated the Unknowns, 33-11. Tom Doty was high point man with 10 points. His teammates, Al Meridith and Dick Hutchson, chipped in eight and six points, respectively. Carl Cichocki led the losers with four points and Joe Krack scored three.

In the second game the Sassy-whoopers defeated the Rim Robbers, 38-17. Ron Zigler led the winners with 12 points and Mike Runn chipped in eight. All the scoring for the losers was by two boys. Ron Leakey tallied 11 and Lee McClymonds scored six.

The Macking All-Stars defeated the Dork-A-Gators, 39-20. Willie Raines led the winners with 23 points while teammate Fred Dixie chipped in eight. Bill Lentz led the losers attack with nine points while Ken Robinson chipped in seven points.

In night league the Basketeers defeated the Block Busters, 32-22, paced by Don Denis, who led the winners with eight points, while teammate Bob Bickel chipped in six. Larry Brown was high point man for the game and for the losers with 10 points. Chuck Smith chipped in five points to the losing cause.

Also in night league Roth's team defeated the Basketbenders in a thriller, 31-30. High scorer for the winner was Jim Belschner, who tallied 10 points. He was overshadowed by Bob Oechsle's fourth quarter spill of seven points to bring them from behind to win. Ted Von Gunten capped the game with his winning basket in the last few minutes. Don Nolan led the losers with 12 points and Dave Andrews chipped in nine points.

Things to Remember!!

Sign up now in the gym office for handball doubles. There are two divisions: novice, for new boys; and regular for boys with previous experience. These games will be played at noon and after school. Handball singles will be held on Saturday mornings. Lightweight will be on the first Saturday after Thanksgiving vacation. Middleweight and heavyweight will follow on successive Saturdays.

Harriers Fail To Star At State

Muncie Wins Meet; Anderson Comes In 2nd

Led by the fine running of senior Bob Patterson, who placed second, the Muncie Bearcats nosed out Anderson and defending champion Hobart to place first in the Cross Country State Meet, November 1, at the South Grove Golf Course in Indianapolis.

The individual crown was taken by Chuck Umbarger of Elkhart who climaxed a fine season by crossing the line first in 9:54-.5.

Steve Hibler, one of the favorites for the title, had stomach trouble and did his best in placing 41st.

Having one of the worst days in the whole season the Archer cross country team could do no better than place 27th.

Another team that had an off day was Fort Wayne Central. Although Henry King came in third, the Tigers failed to live up to expectations and placed only seventh.

Two other Fort Wayne teams, North Side and Concordia, placed 11th and 23rd, respectively.

A light rain fell at the start of the race. After the sound of the gun, Central's Henry King took the lead along with Concordia's Steve Hibler and Scotty Ward of Valparaiso. Although the course was wet and slippery, the pace set by the leaders was quite fast. At the mile mark King was still alone in the lead, along with Hibler, while Charley Umbarger was in sixth position. After the mile mark Hibler dropped back into the pack.

At that time Umbarger showed up in front and raced along with King in the lead. These two stayed together for most of the distance but when the finish came nearer, King lacked strength to keep up with Umbarger who ran on to win. King was so exhausted that Bob Patterson of Muncie was able to outsprint him and place second while King came in third.

The team title was taken by Muncie Central by a score of 145. Anderson was the runner-up with 161; and defending champ Hobart was third with 185. Michigan City, regarded as one of the great favorites for the title, came in only on place number four.

33 Girls Participate In GAA Basketball

The first game of basketball was played Friday night in GAA. Thirty-three girls were present. New captains and teams were chosen.

Team 1 defeated Team 2. Team 3 beat Team 4.

Student Government Teachers Announce Best Scholars

Editor's note: Due to bad photography, the pictures of the winners are not available. They will be in a future issue.

"The government classes, which the students of Mr. W. C. Wilson's government classes taught us from October 27-31, taught me the responsibilities and privileges of being a citizen and the importance of voting," stated Susan Hines, freshman, representing the views of the freshmen and sophomores on the classes.

The student teachers believed the opportunity invaluable because they learned some of the trials and tribulations of a teacher, other students' viewpoints on elections and government, and more about government themselves from having to prepare the discussions and a final test.

THE CLASSES were taught to fulfill the requirements of the Government Aid to Schools Act which states that all schools should provide five periods of class discussion concerning the state government before any general congressional or state election.

Those who scored highest on the final test in each homeroom are: Bill Stout and Diane Albrecht, Cafe; Gwen Langdoe, Room 34; Marilyn Cole, Janet Christensen, and Michael Coleman, Room 72; Lee McClymonds, Room 70; William George and John Frederick, Room 146.

The public is invited to attend the annual Chili Supper sponsored by the PTA next Tuesday, 5:30 p.m. to 7 p.m. in the South Side cafeteria. The menu will consist of homemade chili, sloppy joes, hot ham sandwiches, potato chips, cole slaw, baked beans, dixie cups, homemade pie and cake, coffee and milk. Food will be very reasonably priced.

Chairman for the event is Mrs. Stephan Capps, with Mrs. Alan Sheldon and Mrs. Gathings Stewart as her co-chairmen. Class chairmen working on the plans for the supper are: Mrs. Paul Mitchell, freshman chairman; Mrs. Phillip Redding, sophomore chairman; Mrs. Thomas Church, junior chairman; and Mrs. Melvin Ehrman, senior chairman.

# # #

THE WAYS AND MEANS chairmen helping include: Mrs. David Sherman, Mrs. Lowell Redding, Mrs. James Demetre, and Mrs. H. W. Esterline. Miss Lucy Mellen, director of the cafeteria, will also help.

Homeroom mothers have called mothers of the homerooms to ask for help; either making a pie, cake, or candy, or working in the kitchen.

A bake sale will go on during the supper. Mothers donating pies and cakes for the bake sale are asked to label the kind of pie or cake and put them in a disposable container.

Parents may donate money to the PTA and send it to the homerooms with their children.

156 Register For NMS Test

Exactly 156 students who will be 11A's or 12B's next spring have registered with R. N. Snider, principal, to take the National Merit Scholarship Qualification Test. The test will take place in Room 114 from 9 a.m. to noon on April 28.

# # #

DR. JOHN STALNAKER, of Evanston, Ill., is president of the National Merit Scholarship Corporation which administers the nation's largest independently supported college scholarship program for high school students.

More than $5,000,000 in scholarships will be provided by the National Merit Corporation in the 1959-60 academic year. The amount of the scholarship is determined by the financial need, and is renewable annually without further examination.

"Although the primary reason of the test is to select National Merit Scholars, the test results will tell students a great deal about their educational strengths and weaknesses," Dr. Stalnaker stated. "As a result, students will be able to approach decisions about their senior year more intelligently, plan for further education and training, and make a sound vocational choice with greater knowledge and confidence."

# # #

"FROM THE TEST results, both students and teachers can see how the students are progressing and how individual test performance compares with other high school students across the nation. Completing the worksheet will enable pupils to compare their abilities and educational aptitudes or college training they are considering. This information will also assist them in selecting college courses of study in which they are most likely to succeed," stated Dr. Stalnaker.

Riflers To Fire With Elmhurst

South Side's rifle team will compete with that of Elmhurst in a prone position shooting match next Wednesday on South Side's rifle range at 3:45 p.m. Two top marksmen from the Girls' Rifle Club at South will help compose the Archer rifle team, which will include four boys with the highest target scores plus some reserve riflers.

"Elmhurst's rifle team rates fifth in the nation in excellence of marksmanship," stated Gene Crum, president of South's rifle club, "because members practice shooting during their study hall period as well as after school." To contend with Elmhurst's quality, South team will practice tonight in addition to the regular meeting next Monday.

To plan the match and practice target shooting, Boys' Rifle Club will meet Monday at 3:30 p.m. on the range.

Totem pictures were taken at the Boys' Rifle Club meeting Monday at 3:30 p.m. on the range. Mr. Steven Berg, sponsor, announced the opening of the hunting season.

Results of qualification shooting to determine members of the rifle team and reserves are as follows: Gene Crum with the highest score of the season, 98; Bob Stout, 97; Dave Welch, 94; Jim Edwards, 93; Kenton King and Karl Bosselmann, 90; Dave Briggs and William Scott, 86.

2 Archers To Appear On TV Elektra Club

Merle Baldwin and Mike Simmons will appear on the Elektra Club next Sunday night. The program will be on WANE-TV at 5:30 p.m.

Merle will represent South Side as a reporter and Mike will be a member on the panel for South Side.

Art Club To Visit At Museum Nov. 19

Art Club has planned a trip to the Fort Wayne Art Museum next Wednesday. The members are to meet in Room 26 after school and will take a bus to the museum.

Mr. Ross, curator of the museum, will take the students on a guided tour of the museum. The display consists of art work done by local artists. After the tour, Mr. Ross is arranging to serve the students tea.

At the December 3 meeting the students will display their art work.

Math Section Members To Give Reports Nov. 14

Each member of the math section of the Junior Academy of Science will give his report at the meeting tomorrow on the various material needed to evaluate the mathematical evidence necessary to plot a shoot to the moon.

36 Workshop To Present Assembly With Theme, "Our American Dream"

The Thanksgiving assembly, presented annually by 36 Workshop, will take place in the gymnasium of South Side High School on Wednesday, November 26.

"Our American Dream" is the theme of the assembly, which will be divided into three parts: one depicting the past, a second the present, and a third the future.

Miss Lucy Osborne and Mr. William Applegate, the two sponsors in charge of the event, are now busily working with the stagecraft and presentation divisions of the assembly.

Lois Levine and Tom Ogles are co-chairmen of the stagecraft division, and Janet Hicks and Sylvia Ehrman are co-chairmen of presentation.

In charge of the part played by the foreign students in the assembly is Barb Frederick, and Carol Miller is assisting her in the costuming.

Judy Thompson, the general chairman of the event, announced last Friday that the tryout dates for speaking parts in the assembly will be held next Tuesday in Room 30 at 4 p.m.

"It is very important," states Judy, "that all members of 36 Workshop who wish to take part in the assembly be present at these tryouts."

Mrs. Grimshaw Soph Adviser

Mrs. Myrtle Grimshaw

Mrs. Myrtle L. Grimshaw was chosen adviser for the sophomore class along with Mrs. Mildred Luse, Mr. Leon Smith, and Mr. Alfred Hemmer. By mistake the Times was given the name of Mrs. Evlyn Spray as a sophomore class adviser.

Mrs. Grimshaw, Spanish teacher, came to South Side in September, 1956. She lived in South America for two years and taught in private schools for boys in Santiago, Chile. She also gives travel talks and book reviews to clubs.

Thanksgiving Skit At Philo Monday

"Thank You Sally," a Thanksgiving skit by Karen Brumm, is the program for the Philo meeting Monday at 3:30 p.m. in the Greeley Room. This skit is the story of a girl who wishes to be a member of a group of rich girls.

Sally Scott will be portrayed by Lonnie Kimble, her sister Elaine by Linda Wightman. Sara Lou Miller will play the maid, Jane.

Cheryl Habecker, Judy Riping, and Carol Oxenrider will play the roles of Claudia, Roberta, and Joan Williams. The part of Diane Mead will be enacted by Diane Decker.

Archers Place In Speech Meet

Six Archer students placed at the November 8 Howe Military Inexperienced Speech Contest. The contest was divided as to grade level.

In the junior-senior division, Joyce Brittenham won first in humorous, Ruth Dill, a fourth, and Margo Dixon, a fifth. Dick McGaw won fifth in oratory.

In the freshman-sophomore division, Karen Simmons won fourth place in humorous and Phil Spray won first in oratory.

Susie Starr and Diane Saalfrank were in the finals.

South Side placed third in the entire contest.

Meterites To Have Spelling Bee Nov. 18

A spelling bee will highlight the meeting next Tuesday of Meterites in the Greeley Room at 3:30 p.m.

Mr. R. N. Snider, principal, will pronounce the words to the girls. The winner will receive 25 points.

After-Game Dances Start December 5

With the basketball season starting, the aftergame dances, which every South Side student looks forward to, begin.

The Meterite Club is in charge of the first one after the game with New Haven on December 5.

The second dance is on January 10 after the game with Mishawaka and is sponsored by Philo.

Following the game with Shortridge on January 31, the third after-game dance is put on by the Lettermen Club.

The Hi-Y Club is putting on the last one after the game with Gary Froebel on February 7.

Juniors' 'South's Pacific' To Be Tomorrow Night

FINAL TOUCHES—Left to right, Susan Van Fossen, Barbara Burdick, Nancy Jones, and Martha Reiff, put the finishing touches on the decorations which will be used at the Junior Banquet tomorrow night at Trinity Episcopal Church beginning at 6:30 p.m.

Bob King Is Selected Master Of Ceremonies; Ticket Deadline Today

Bob King will serve as master of ceremonies for the Junior Banquet, "South's Pacific," tomorrow night at 6:30 p.m. at Trinity Episcopal Church. Tickets are on sale for $1.50, and today is the deadline for purchasing them!

Entertainment coinciding with the theme will be provided by members of the junior class. Performers include Judy Robinson and Sharon Probst; Margo Dixon and Janet Lawry; Gerri Geller and Joyce Brittenham; Penny Hunt, Bessie Ferguson, Kathy Sosinski, and Pam Holzburg; Julie Carr, Sonny Kaade, and Barb Wallace; Merle Baldwin, Sue Sappenfield, and Marian McAllister; and Bobbie Jo Crosby, who will dance the finale.

# # #

R. NELSON SNIDER, principal, will speak. Other guests include Mrs. Robert Gernand and Mr. William Applegate, advisers of the junior class; the class' sponsors last year, the dens, and teachers with junior homerooms.

Decorations will depict a Polynesian atmosphere, and even the menu is from the South Seas. It includes suckling seagull, coconut juice, lati leaves, poi, loaved okie, pinappie spread, and isle ala mode.

Parking facilities will be provided by the church.

Rm. 142 Banks $23.30 Nov. 4

This was an average week for banking with $273.55 in banking receipts.

The first place homeroom changed hands from Homeroom 150 to 142. Miss Mary Crowe is the teacher of Homeroom 142 and they had $23.30 in receipts. Second place went to Miss Nell Covalt's Room 184 with $16.50.

Wranglers Tour WANE TV Station

A tour of the WANE-TV station was made for the November 10 meeting of Wranglers.

The group traveled by chartered bus. The reason for the trip was that the club has been quite interested in radio and television this year.

Patti Arnold, president of Wranglers, feels that this was a worthwhile trip, since no such plan has been devised for several years.

Academy Of Science To See "Man In Space"

Would you like to see man's first flight into space?

Those persons who are interested are invited to attend the November 20 meeting of the Junior Academy of Science. The highlight will be an hour long movie, "Man In Space," by Walt Disney.

Grades To Be Issued

Beware! The second grade period ends tomorrow. Letter grades will be issued Tuesday.

Hi-Y's Hear Talk By Wayne Rothgeb

The Hi-Y Club of South Side heard a talk on Russia last Monday night. The talk was given by Mr. Wayne Rothgeb and proved to be exciting as well as very educational.

Plans for a splash party are now in progress. Before the splash party there will be dancing. This party is to be for the members of Hi-Y and their dates. It is to be held at the YMCA but a permanent date has not yet been decided upon.

Plans were continued for the Thanksgiving program. Bob Simmons, Eddie Hartman, Dave Dunstone, and Dick McGaw were among several of the committee heads which reported their progress.

A panel discussion will be the program next week. A topic has not yet been chosen.

Workshop To Make Thanksgiving Plans

A cabinet meeting of 36 Workshop will discuss the Thanksgiving plans tonight at 3:30 p.m. in Room 30.

The juniors, under the direction of Barb Wallace and Kathie Sosinski, presented a minstrel show last Thursday. The juniors who presented the program are Tom Cooper, Mr. Interlocutor; Julie Carr, Margo Dixon, Bessie Ferguson, and Kathie Sosinski, the end men.

The vocalists were Anna Mae Chen, Pam Holtzberg, Penny Hunt, Janet Lawry, Katie Rastetter, and Sue Sappenfield.

The acts were given by Judy Estlick, Sharon Ebersole, Fran Hoffman, and Beth Golden, a skit; Penny Hunt, pantomine of Al Jolson; Sue Sappenfield, Janet Lawry, and Penny Hunt, a soft shoe.

The juniors who worked backstage are Suzie Carto, Judy Robinson, and Sharon Probst.

'Teas Success,' Says Principal

"Approximately 150 mothers attended the freshman tea, November 3; 150 also attended both the sophomore and senior teas, November 4 and 6; and about 130 attended the junior tea, November 5," stated Mr. R. Nelson Snider, principal. He went on to say that the teas were very successful because the demonstrations of the various departments were very clearly presented and were enjoyed by all.

A tour of the building to acquaint the mothers with the school was the highlight of the freshman tea.

For the sophomore tea, demonstrations were done by the business department and the publications. The officers of the Meterite Club explained the work and purpose of the club.

The junior tea featured demonstrations by the developmental reading classes and 36 Workshop Club. Mr. Glen Stebing explained the purposes and advantages of the driver training classes.

A talk by R. Nelson Snider on colleges, jobs and scholarships highlighted the senior tea. The entertainment was provided by the concert choir under the direction of Mr. Lester Hostetler.

Background music for all the teas was provided by various instrumental groups of the orchestra.

'Fine Arts In Miniature' To Feature South Side Chamber Music Society

"Fine Arts in Miniature" is the name given to a series of six Sunday afternoon and evening musical programs to be presented by the South Side High School Chamber Music Society. These programs will be presented in collaboration with Plymouth Congregational Church. Many featured guest participants and speakers will appear throughout the year.

Committees have been organized by Mr. Robert T. Drummond, director; and the music students are heading and serving under various committees, ranging from the Publicity Committee to the Page Turning Committee.

# # #

THE PURPOSES of these Fine Arts programs is to, first, "expose students, parents, and friends of the Music Department to better music; second, to afford the talented student the opportunity to launch his 'musical Sputnik;' and third, to acquaint the public at large with what can be and is being done relative to serious music in our area schools," stated Mr. Drummond.

On November 23, at 8 p.m., the first program will take place in Plymouth Church Sactuary. The featured guests will be the Berne High School Choir, under the direction of Mr. Freeman Burkhalter from Berne, Ind. Members of the South Side Band and Orchestra will entertain one or two of the Berne Choir members at their homes for dinner on November 23.

# # #

A PRELUDE BY the brass choir will start the Sunday evening program followed by the "First Movement of the Symphony for Organ and Orchestra," by Guilmant. Vincent E. Slater, of Plymouth Congregational Church, will be the guest organist.

Two selections, to be announced, will be performed by the Bern High School Choir.

J. S. Bach's "Suite No. 3 in D Major for Orchestra," consisting of the Overture, the Air and the Gigue, will be performed by the South Side Orchestra.

# # #

MR. RICHARD GIBEAU, executive director of the Fort Wayne Fine Arts Foundation, will be the featured guest speaker.

Concluding the first program, the Orchestra and Mr. Slater, organist, will perform "Passacaglia and Fugue in C Minor" by J. S. Bach.

No admission will be charged at the programs, and it is the sincere hope of the music students at South Side that they will be well-attended.

8 Hi-Y Boys Help With YMCA Party

Eight South Side boys from Hi-Y Club aided the YMCA in their Halloween party on last October 29. The boys supervised the games, decorations, judging of costumes, and helped with refreshments.

Those who attended were Bob Rice, Mike Millikan, Neil Mieras, Bill Lentz, Bruce Berlien, Bob Haag, Byron White, and Steve Tracey.

Junior, Janet Lawry, Wins Best Model Prize On TV Show

Archer and model instead of "Artists and Models" fit Junior Janet Lawry to a "T." Janet is exactly that, an Archer model who recently proved her ability when teens on "Dance Date" voted her "Best Model" in a contest held on the program.

Competition was rough with Merle Baldwin and Susie Rothert also chosen from pictures in the Times and Totem to represent South.

The girls were permitted to wear what they wanted from a selection in Gass' Ladies Shop. Janet chose a flattering slim skirt, sweater and blazer for the contest because the cameras make people appear 10 pounds heavier. During the week she decided to model more extreme fashions like chemise and trapeze outfits because they are "more fun."

JANET ENJOYED her prize very much, as she got to model her choice of clothes from Gass' Ladies Shop for the next week of the program.

"I don't devote a lot of time to modeling because so far I haven't had the opportunity. I would like to very much," she said. To Janet it may not seem like a lot of time but to most people it would seem like a great deal. She is attending a two-hour charm course at Bobbi Ray School of Charm once a week which she began this fall. She practices modeling techniques and does exercises every night, plus putting as much grace and poise as possible into everything she does.

Janet says that the exercises are hard but really give results. When she found out that she was going to enter the contest, she did double duty on all her exercises.

# # #

JANET FEELS THAT eight years of ballet prepared her for a lot of the charm course which is a combination of self-improvement and career girl courses. It teaches everything from speech and personality improvement to different turns, pivots, hand and feet positions, and wardrobe. The girls also learn beauty tricks which all the actresses know. The basic trick is cleanliness.

"Posture is the most important modeling technique," said Janet. "It can make a tall girl short and a short girl tall." While learning good posture, she had to walk, sit, and move up and down stairs balancing a book on her head. She wants to take a course which turns out models that have nothing amateurish about them, after she finishes this one.

# # #

JANET MODELED for Clippinger Studios when she was 14. The picture was entered in a contest and "got hung," which means that it won. Since then she has posed for them off and on, sometimes spending a whole afternoon being photographed in different outfits. Usually Clippinger takes portraits rather than full length pictures of her. Several of these have been entered in contests and "hung."

Although Janet has looked wist-

Sophomore Cindy Miller Plays Piano, Bells, Viola, 2 Clarinets

ONE-MAN SHOW—Talented Cindy Miller is an accomplished musician on five instruments. She plays the bass clarinet, viola, clarinet, bells, which she is holding, and piano. This versatile junior is a valuable asset to both the band and orchestra.

Cindy Miller, sophomore, has certainly been vested with many musical talents. The viola, clarinet, bass clarinet, piano, and the bells are the five instruments she has learned to play since she began developing her musical talents during the sixth and seventh grades. The recorder, which is like a wooden flute, is the next instrument Cindy is hoping to play.

"The demand for viola players, because the viola is a rather unusual instrument, makes it my favorite," Cindy stated.

Cindy's first experience with music was the song flute, and her first instructor persuaded Cindy's mother to have Cindy continue with her music lessons.

"AT FIRST I didn't like music lessons, but as I learned more I developed a greater interest for music. After college I would enjoy becoming a music teacher or entering some other field of music."

Cindy now takes viola lessons from Raymond Marsh, first violinist in the Fort Wayne Philharmonic Orchestra, and piano lessons from Ruth Castle.

She has been studying viola for five years, clarinet for six years, and piano for three years. The other two instruments which she plays, the bass clarinet and the bells, are related to these three and were easy for her to learn.

"MY MAIN ENJOYMENT is the satisfaction of producing and interpreting something all my own, and I enjoy playing classical music mostly because there is more to choose from," she said.

Cindy is now on the college course taking English, geometry, history, and French, and her musical interests at school include many. Besides band and the orchestra in which she is first violist, she plays in the string quartet and also the bells in the marching band. Cindy also finds time to join the modern dance group and the Walther League at her church.

Her main hobby of course is music, but dancing and skating are also among her favorites.

Annual Ice Follies At Archerland Attracts New Freshmen Couples

South Side's annual ice follies is here again! Many of the new freshmen are taking part this year. As we start our tour for familiar faces we suddenly see popcorn flying around in the air.

As we look more closely we see Sue Harrod and Marilyn Cole having a battle with those Rigal brothers, Lee and Bob, Wawasee. It does look like the girls are going to win.

Suddenly we hear our names being called. We look up and see Susi Hines and Lee Crowell along with Diane Fredrick and Tim Shank, Peru, Ill., waving frantically for us to come chat with them. Sitting behind them is Tom Wright and Sally Bash, drinking Cokes.

About ten minutes before the show, we decide it's time to move so we go to our seats. To our surprise, Sarah Finch and Craig Miller are sitting on one side of us and Becky Baughman and Dave Meek on the other side.

As the show begins we find that the first act is done by Judy Swanson, Bishop Luers, and Chuck Hohman. Next we see Peggy Lee and Allen Sheldon, Debby Brooke and Brian Ronan, Babette Jones and Alan Mitchell, Sharon Eitman and Steve Swanson, Bishop Luers, all doing a cha cha to "Tea For Two."

The next few acts were rather boring since we didn't know the skaters. Then as the lights go out and the drums roll we see Karen Simmons and Dick Taylor doing a solo together. Following this is a trio number consisting of Barbara Spiers and Steve McDonald, Kay Carrier and Bill Branstrator, and Jan Curtis and Tom Thieme.

It's half time now so we'll go around and see if we can find anyone else we know. Sue McGinnis and Bill George just walked by but they were busy talking to each other and didn't see us. Molly Dixon and Larry Brown are handing out refreshments so we talked with them for a minute, and they agreed that the show was wonderful.

As we returned to our seats a loud speaker announced that Sue Perry was lost and wanted to know if Bob Duncan would come pick her up at the box office. As the curtain opens we see Mary Jane Hake and Dave Wallace hurrying back to their seats.

The next act was a clown act, and he threw a big chiffon pie in Kenny Robinson's face but he didn't seem to mind when Judy Hollister wiped it off for him. Elizabeth Hostetler was laughing so hard she fell down the steps, and Lee McClymonds had to help her back to her seat.

As the laughter died down we find Lane Grile and Evert Mol doing a cute Dutch scene. The grand finale was done by the whole cast but Karen Fine and Tom O'Hara led the group out.

On our way out to the car we saw Steve Holmes and Linda McMurtry walking hand in hand out to the parking lot. Everyone had a wonderful time and they are looking forward to South Side's ice capades for next year.

Archers Give Ideas On True Teenager

Motorcycles, black leather jackets, switchblades, tight skirts and sweaters and fast cars seem to exemplify the typical teenage life in America as seen by most "uninformed" adults. Perhaps our Archers haven't heard the latest yet or else they're way ahead of everyone else, but here's what they replied when asked the question, "What would you consider the normal characteristics of a normal teenager?"

Mary Smith: Dates, homework and hobbies.

Sharon Cullen: Cars, Cokes, dates and drive-ins, plus no money.

Rosy Tsintsaroff: Laughter, friends, homework, and Hall's.

Mel Smith: Worries, troubles, dates and homework.

Don Walters: Cars, dates, drive-ins and being flat broke.

Pat Forehand: Music, steadies, heartbreaks, dates, buzzing and cars.

Margaret Rogers: Friends, cars, dates, many worries and drive-ins.

Tom Felger: Cars, pizza, dates, disliked homework and grade worries.

Diane Decker: Having fun and not working hard enough.

Lonnie Kimble: Wondering, wishing, working a little and having a wonderful time.

Pris Ratican: Just about anything!

Karen Brumm: The same as Superman, due entirely to a complete lack of brains.

Marilyn Bugg: Complaints about: homework, teachers, parents and steadies. Likes such as sports, cars, rock and roll, Continentals, clothes and food.

Jan Curtis: Records, cars, good times, sports and food.

Dick Erb: Wine, women and song; cars, cards and Hall's.

Dorothy Major: I don't know; I've never met one.

Judy Riping: Dates, Hall's homework and fun.

Janice Leist: Hall's, tests, homework and fun.

Bev Englemann: Blue jeans, Mad mag, Cokes, homework and records.

The students who joined 36 Workshop are Diane Hoppas, Susan Horth, Sharon Krakower, Sandra Kunkel, Jane Ladig, and Jenny Manth. . . . The girls who joined Meterites are Susan Horth, Jane Ladig, Susan Lewis, and Jenny Manth. . . . The boys who belong to intramurals are Kenneth Lowden, Bud Lucas, and Gary Marvin. . . . Other club represented are Vesta, Boy's Rifle Club, Junior Red Cross, Camera Club, Cyclotron, and GAA. — Jenny Manth, reporter.

Several weeks ago Homeroom 110 began the semester's programs with a discussion on the nursing profession. This was led by Pat Krebs, Sandra Landree, Kathy Lee, and Janet Lawry who all plan on becoming nurses. . . . During the Teachers' Convention, Mr. Weicker attended the sessions at the Fort Wayne convention. He painted his new house in his few free moments. . . . Gary Leips certainly had a full schedule over our short vacation! He attended DeMolay, Junior Achievement, and the Drive-In. . . . Carol Jekel slept till noon and studied shorthand. . . . Carol Lallow went to a movie, did homework, and babysat. . . . Janice Kessler tried to get out of working for her dad to enjoy a few days vacation but she got stuck anyway! . . . Did you know that Carole Lehman got three teeth pulled? . . . Over Teachers' Convention Pat Krebs went on a hayride and to a party. . . . Steve Kearns did some work at his church (and also loafed). . . . Marsha Klaehn had friends visiting from Toledo. She went to the homecoming at River Forest Concordia Teachers College. . . . Janice Koch bought some new clothes and did homework. . . . Sharon Lake went on a hayride and to Muncie on a motorcade which was a church function. . . . Helena Kamm went with all the girls and buzzed McDonald's. . . . Carole Lehman painted her bedroom. . . . Nancy Lawson was with Gordon, and she also babysat. . . . Sandy Landree served on the registration committee for the Lutheran State Convention at her church and met kids from all over the state. . . . Will buzzing McDonald's ever replace buzzing Halls? . . . Homeroom 110 has been represented on "Dance Date" WANE-TV. Kathy Lee attended with a Central Tiger. Janet Lawry won the model contest so she modeled for a week on the show. . . . Janice Koch babysits for Mr. Weicker's children. They are probably better behaved than his juniors during our homeroom "study (?)" periods.—Janet Lawry, reporter.

Homeroom 186 seems to have many industrious members, in school and out. Joe Roth spent his summer working for his uncle as a brick-carrier in Lansing, Michigan. In season he puts this surplus strength and energy to use by being a prominent figure of the football team. . . . This homeroom also boasts two officers and official pianist of Philo. They are Mary Sue Robertson, president; Kathy Schwalm, secretary; and Sharon Schlamersdorf, official pianist. William Scott is a newcomer to South Side from Virginia. . . . Susie Rothert appeared recently on TV in competition with other girls from Fort Wayne high schools in the field of modeling. . . . Kathy Schwalm toured the campus of Princcipia College as a prospective student. Her stay included the attending of several classes of her interest.—Marylyn Sexton, reporter.

Students in Homeroom 182 have been busy during the past several weeks. Bill Branstrator plays tackle on our freshman football team. With all this attention directed towards football Jean Beer decided to cheer the Wittenberg College football team to victory last weekend. . . . David Bennett found time to take a short trip to Covington, Kentucky. The purpose of the trip was not to watch football but to bring his grandmother back to Fort Wayne for a a visit. . . . Ann Brase has spent two "enthusiastic" weekends ridding her yard of those pesky autumn leaves, which all of a sudden seem plentiful. . . . It seems as though several students have leaf infested yards. Carol Bowers and Claudia Bradley also were raking their yards last Saturday. . . . Jo Ellen Bobay's spare time has been spent practicing for shows her dancing school is preparing to put on. — Debby Brooke, reporter.

The members of Homeroom 70 had an exciting summer. John McNett had fun swimming in Lake Michigan on his vacation this summer. . . . Joyce Lockwood set aside two weeks for swimming at Crooked Lake. . . . New York state, Buffalo, and Niagara Falls were on the agenda for Sandy McCombs. . . . Susan Martin visited Tucson, Arizona, for two weeks. While she was there she went to Old Tucson, which is the setting of many western movies. . . . Joyce Lockwood is our Times agent. She received 100 per cent for selling subscriptions. . . Susan Martin is the class representative to the Safety Council.—Sue McGinnis, reporter.

Homeroom 79 has quite a few unusual talents. Gretchen Meister has taken up smoking a pipe because a certain friend of hers does. . . . Sally McDonald is building a space ship to go to the moon. Ask Sally for details. . . . Neil McCoy is working hard for his father. . . . Ed McClure is working for his father at his furniture store. . . . If you need a top piano teacher, Cindy Miller and Diana Meyer are both teaching piano in their homes. . . . Mary Meily, Sally McDonald, Linda Meyers, and Sally Mieras were among the students who went to Mississinewa on the bus. . . . Anyone find any bathing suits lately? While on a church retreat, Margie Mercer and Gretchen Meister woke up one morning and found their bathing suits on a flagpole. . . . Central Catholic has invaded our home room. Mary Martha Miller and Linda Cron visited us because Central Catholic had a holiday.—Sally Mieras, reporter

Trips seem the most popular pastime of the summer in Homeroom 75. Judy Handy attended a rodeo in Cheyenne, Wyo.; Sue Harrod rode to the top of Pike's Peak on a burro; and Susan Hines went to Washington, D.C. where she saw Ricky Nelson! . . . Mary Hemmelgarn met Dennis Puckett and Fred Barton at Covington Downs, and a record hop at Sacred Heart School provided Helen Heinzelman with summertime memories . . . Sports occupied Mary Jane Hake and Ronnie Heathman. Mary Jane learned to water ski at Lake Wawasee, but fell out of a boat with all her clothes on! Ronnie diligently practiced tennis and was awarded a $125 tennis scholarship from the Fort Wayne Tennis Club.—Sue Harrod, reporter

Homeroom 14 has survived the summer and things are just beginning to happen. . . . Cordelia Williams announced her engagement to Chuck Hill. . . . I just found out that Jack Winder has a secret ambition to be a ballet danced. "That's one for the books." . . . Marcia Zelonis bought a new dog. . . . Sandy Weitfeldt was stuck out in her garage for almost fifteen minutes because the milkman was in the house and she had her pajamas on. . . . Pam Ward has been going to the record hops at the Roller Dome. . . . Lawson White has been pretty quiet. He must be thinking up something for next week. By the way have you seen his haircut?—Juanita Wonderly, reporter.

There are 28 pupils in Homeroom 30. The main two this week are Vicki Miller and Alan Mitchell. . . . Vicki, a freshman, thinks that South Side is just great. Her favorite subject is algebra. During the summer she enjoys swimming and in the winter she enjoys ice skating. Vicki has no pet peeves. . . . Alan Mitchell, also a freshman, enjoys being here at South Side. His favorite subject is algebra. He enjoys playing basketball. This summer he went to Wyoming and liked it very much. — Pam Orchard, reporter.

Homeroom 82 has finally gotten accustomed to the rush at South Side. . . . This last summer we have been very busy swimming, staying at a lake, or going to camp with friends. . . . On Monday morning three students failed to bring back their U and I cards. . . . Every week we are going to have talks on how to prevent accidents. . . . There is a rumor going around the school about three girls. One of them is in our room. It seems last week they walked home from school barefooted. One of the girls lost the heel from her shoe. To keep her company, they all took off their shoes and walked home barefooted.—Karin Rahden, reporter.

It is possible Homeroom 76 will start exercising during the 20-minute homeroom period. . . . Larry Scherschel, who works for Perfection Bread Company, noticed how undernourished the class looked and did something about it. He brought four boxes of rolls to school. They devoured all but one which was placed in Mr. Weber's desk drawer. Since Mr. Weber arrived late, he knew nothing of the time they had. He proceeded to ask about the roll. The wastebasket gave them away. . . The next day Mr. Weber brought some paw-paws for his classes to sample. The brave and the starved took a bite of those "Hoosier Bananas" but I don't think they will ever replace pumpkin pie! . . . They finished the week off with a bag of orange slices Mr. Weber left in plain sight on his desk. In adding up the calorie intake they fell a little short because no one knew how many calories are in a paw-paw.—Cheryl Habecker, reporter.

Although the purpose of the summer months is to offer people a chance to rest and relax, the majority of students in Homeroom 76 worked . . . Sharon Guy worked at Grand Leader . . . Sharon Ruhl worked at the registrar office of Indiana Technical College . . . Jeanne Hammons spent the summer studying at Warner Beauty College. This summer she hopes to complete her remaining hours of study so she can get her license. During the past summer she also visited Smoky Mountains and learned how to water ski . . . Joan Scott spent most of her summer at the lake although she took a trip to the Indiana Sand Dunes . . . Anne Sherbondy devoted most of her summer to music. She played in the three productions put on by the Festival Music Theater and attended the Indiana University Music Clinic . . . Janet Rupp took her first roller coaster ride at the Wisconsin State Fair. You might have seen her at the Lutheran Hospital where she did volunteer work at the information desk . . . Dianne Reiff attended ice skating school at the Coliseum. While at Circle Park on July 4, she helped apply artificial respiration to a drowning woman.—Cheryl Habecker, reporter

Teeny Times

The miss on the step
To studying is hep,
For she carries five solids every day.

She takes English 5 in 60
And first period she has history,
While period 6 she takes typing in 184.

She services for Miss Van Gorder
And Mr. Murch is a teacher to her
On the subject of shorthand in Room 178.

Third period she takes botany
And she is an 11B,
And botany class is in Room 76.

If you don't know who she is,
P.S. if you do, you're a whiz.
Look in the ads and they will tell her name.

Posy's Pointers

By Posy Weilemann

Dear Posy:

As an out of town subscriber, I would like to offer a solution to this feud among the seniors. Girls . . . the thing to do is move to Florida in your senior year! By the way, there is a pretty good selection of boys here. Boys . . . have fun. Remember, next year you will be freshmen again!

"Sun Tanned"

Dear "Sun Tanned",

Thank you for your interest in my column. Sorry we can't all come to Florida.

Dear Posy,

Please help me. There is a neat boy in my history class who I could really go for. My girl friend (who only knows him slightly) says he is very shy, and even though he is always looking at me he won't make any passes at me. He is also in the library a few times when I am. I would like to take the initiative, but I'm afraid he would think I'm a big flirt. He isn't interested in sports, and history is rather a dry subject. He is a nice, tall, clean cut guy; and I think I could like him better than any of the boys I know.

Waiting Impatiently

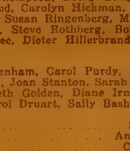
Dear "Impatient",

You have nothing to lose so try flirting with him. If that doesn't do it, nothing will. He's probably too shy to speak even if he wanted to. Good luck.

* * *

Dear Posy,

The girl I am dating always makes solecisms. What I mean is she talks scurriously. The more I go out with her, the more she endeavors to do it. I hear these atrocious sayings so frequently that they are beginning to influence me. What can I do?



The Beast

Dear "Sir",

While trying to answer your letter I gave my dictionary a good workout. My advice would be to buy a good cake of soap and go to work! (Readers, if you're as uneducated as I am, I'd advise you to have a dictionary when you read this problem.)

Teens' Tidbits

By Barb Steiner

The dean's office can be the center of many activities as Joan Stanton and Barb Steiner discovered one day as they were doing service work for Miss Pauline Van Gorder, dean of girls at South.

Sitting peacefully at their work, they suddenly jumped into each other's arms as an enormous black and white Dalmatian dog came bounding into the room. Of course, at a second glance, the dog was being held firmly in tow, but still!

It isn't every day that one meets up with a dog of that size. It so happened that the dog had torn a boy's shirt to shreds and broken the skin on his arm. Gory thought, isn't it?

After calling the Humane Society, everyone sat down to wait. One of the girls ran down to the janitor's room to get some rope to tie the bewildered dog to a table leg. By this time quite an audience had gathered, none of which had any heartening effects on the dog, instead rather the opposite.

The man from the Humane Society soon arrived, and in a trail of cigar smoke (choke, choke) took the dog away. However, the memory still remains, and these two service workers are very wary of anything that so much as sounds like a bark.

It seems some people just can't open their mouths without sticking their foot in it. Upon announcing to just about everyone in fourth period cafeteria that he was married to an unknown person from Massachusetts, a certain person whose initials are W.E. N.D.E.L.L. E.I.C.H.E.R, appeared on a hayride with someone who was not his supposed wife, thus putting himself in a position to be absolutely slaughtered by his first wife.

However, on a trip to Chicago, our above friend met and said he again married another unknown person of the opposite sex, who was also nameless. This seems to be getting slightly monotonous! This time he wasn't sure if her (second wife) hometown was Alcatraz or Sing Sing, not that it would make much difference as he'll probably never see her again.

I certainly hope you realize that this was all a big white fib, on the part of Mr. Eicher of course.

Diane Saalfrank's winning story in Meterites Short Story Contest was a real challenge to everyone's patriotism. Telling the conflicts of an early American orphan who was faced with the problem of poverty and the happiness of being with her sister in America, or riches for her sister, but loneliness and hard work for herself Diane skillfully wove the story into the listener's hearts.

South's Safety Lacking, Possible to Improve

How fast can you apply your brakes in an emergency? How accurately do you estimate the speed and distance of an oncoming car? These and other factors mark the good or bad driver. The number of fatal accidents are constantly rising. The 1957 total of fatal accidents rose six per cent from 1956.

Must we continue these mass murders? Some people think that if they had an accident, only they themselves would be hurt. It doesn't work that way. Sometimes the person responsible for an accident walks away, while his innocent victims are either killed or crippled. Engineers make traffic surveys, widen highways, straighten curves, put up warning signs at danger spots, and build divided highways with controlled entrances and exits.

Thousands of organizations are helping to educate the public. Newspapers call attention to traffic hazards and print driving lessons. Magazines and radio programs warn drivers and pedestrians of carelessness. Insurance companies, gasoline distributors, automobile clubs, and safety councils, such as our safety councils at South, promote safe driving by posters and other means of advertisement. But all the advertising in the world cannot make a driver drive carefully. He must decide in his own mind if he wants to be a safe driver, or stagger along like our feeble-minded friend, Willie Lump-Lump.

South Side has been in a safety contest with Central, Central Catholic, North Side, and Concordia since last year. As everyone well knows, Concordia usually leads with fewest violations. Our friend Willie comes up with a well-known excuse, namely that Concordia is at the edge of town, and traffic there is not so heavy. What Willie Lump-Lump has forgotten is that some of the Cadets have to drive across town to get to school.

Hard-pressed, our friend Willie comes up with the same excuse, to a lesser extent, for North Side. But we know that traffic around North Side is much worse than here. What is our excuse when Central and Central Catholic come in ahead of us. Now let's get out and show these schools how good Archers are as drivers. Let's bring the safety trophies in to put beside our other trophies! We can and we will!!!

Mahmoud Abouzeid, Senior, Comes From Egypt; Turkish Pupil, Selim Dere, Lauds U.S. Comforts

LONG WAY TO SCHOOL—This semester two foreign students are attending school here at South Side. Left to right are Mahmoud Abouzeid from Cairo, Egypt, and Selim Dere from Mardin, Turkey. Both are learning how the newspaper press which publishes The Times operates. (Picture by DeHaven)

Flying across the Atlantic Ocean by means of Trans World Airlines, Mahmoud Abouzeid, a South Side senior, arrived in the United States last April. Mahmoud was born in Cairo, Egypt, and has lived there all of his life. Last spring he had the opportunity to see the country he had always wanted to visit.

Mahmoud traveled to Washington, D.C., Montana, Washington State, Idaho, Wyoming, and then to Fort Wayne, where he is staying with his aunt.

Mahmoud's father is a petroleum engineer in Egypt and was graduated from Berkley University in the United States. Mahmoud plans to follow his father's footsteps and he feels that there is a better opportunity in the United States for an education in this field.

In Egypt, Mahmoud went to an Arabic school for three years and then he attended an English school for eight years. In Egypt, students start school at the age of four and are usually ready for college at the age of 16. Since everyone takes an average of 13 subjects a year, there isn't much time for extra activities and recreation. In the seventh grade, Mahmoud studied algebra, geometry, biology, and French.

WHEN ASKED the comparison of the Egyptian schools to the American schools, Mahmoud replied that he liked the American system better. "In Egypt the teachers pound the lessons into your head and make you study, but here the teachers put you on your own and it's up to you whether you pass or fail."

It is forbidden by the Moslem religion for girls and boys to date, so the boys run around together and the girls stay in their group. Girls usually quit school at the age of 14 and are confined to the home.

"A boy has to be 18 before he is allowed to drive a car but since cars are not common in Egypt, only one boy in a thousand can drive," said Mahmoud.

THE TWENTY MILLION poor people in Egypt wear a garment which is called a "galabayas." The galabayas is a one-piece garment similar to the sack dress. The two million wealthier people wear the same type of clothes that we do.

The girls in Egypt aren't as fad-crazy as most American teenagers. Mahmoud expresses his opinion of the sack by saying, "If the girls did wear the sack in Egypt, I'm sure that I would not care for it!"

There is no "Millers" in Egypt and some of the older boys stop in at a pastry shop to meet their friends. There are no juke boxes and the Egyptian music is very popular. American records are played and sold there, but most people can't afford to buy them, since 45 rpm records are priced at $2 each.

* * *

TELEVISION IS unknown in Egypt but Mahmoud said that it should be developed in about three years. Imagine what it would be like not to be able to do your homework by the television set! Radio reception is excellent in Egypt and Mahmoud can listen to British broadcasts and also The Voice of America quite easily.

Basketball, boxing, soccer, ping pong, and squash (which is similar to our game of tennis) are the popular sports of Egypt.

Since there is little lumber available in Egypt, all the houses are made of clay or cement. Mahmoud's three-story house overlooking a beautiful canal, is located in a small suburb of Cairo. They have two American cars since Egypt does not produce automobiles. The summer temperatures average 110 degrees while the winter cools slightly to 80 degrees.

WHEN ASKED what his feelings were toward the Egyptian government, Mahmoud replied that when a person on the outside looks in at a country's situation, he cannot really imagine what position the people of the country are in. Mahmoud believes that President Nasser has and is doing what is best for the majority of the Egyptian people.

"In six years, Nasser has raised the standard of living 100 per cent. The average income of the people a few years ago was $10 a year, but now the income has been raised to $10 a month, which certainly is a great improvement," stated Mahmoud.

Mahmoud feels that Nasser's efforts to unite the Middle East are definitely for the good of the people.

Fish and spaghetti are Mahmoud's favorite foods but concerning hamburgers, Mahmoud replied, "I can stand a hamburger every once in a while, but I wouldn't die without one!"

"I would like to spend the rest of my life in the United States," said Mahmoud, "but I know that my first duty is to my people."

Mahmoud is a senior this year and is taking government, United States history, biology, English, and health. He is also taking speech.

"It's such a comfortable place," replied Selim Dere, 16-year-old youth from Mardin, Turkey, who arrived in the United States a few weeks ago. Miss Bicknell, a missionary to Turkey for the Congregational Christian Churches, arranged for Selim's trip to this country.

Well-acquainted with him and his brothers and sisters through her teaching in a school near Mardin, which is maintained by the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions, Miss Bicknell had recognized Selim's intelligence and ambition and had long dreamed of his going to America to further his education.

Being able to talk in five different languages is quite simple for Selim. He can carry on conversations in Turkish, Arabic, Syrian, or English with ease. However, he has only learned English within the last two months. Miss Bicknell taught him what he knows of it. He learned Syrian from the boys who lived in the Christian Mission and the Turkish and Arabic was acquired when he was small. This skill helped him to get a job as an interpreter for the Esso Oil Company in Turkey.

SELIM IS STAYING with the Frederick Schoens, 5128 South Wayne. The Schoen family, consisting of three boys and a girl, seems quite different compared to Selim's family of six girls and five boys. But he already feels at home and considers Fred Schoen, a freshman at South Side, his best friend. Selim has also taken quite a liking to American "Sloppy Joes."

Spending four hours a day working on automobiles and four on his academic subjects occupied the five years of Selim's grade school training. Solid geometry and mechanics were also included among his other studies in the grades. Sometimes school was held for at least nine hours a day and included music appreciation. During his five years in the higher school, Selim took four years of trigonometry. Mechanics and the study of engines also were included. If he were in Turkey now, he could be a teacher or mechanic.

SELIM LOVES horses and has been riding on his father's farm since he was two. He also played "first man" on the school soccer team and volleyball team.

Selim has read much about Lincoln and would like to pattern his life in much the same way as this great man.

U.S. history, solid geometry, Algebra 2, English, gym, and health are on Selim's schedule here at South Side.

We all are happy to welcome Selim to our school and our country and hope that he will gain many wonderful experiences from his stay here.

Lynn Stewart Works At Pontiac Branch Of Public Library

It's nearly time for those white slips of paper known as report cards to confront us with the results of our labors. In the few remaining days, students are making one last frantic effort to improve their grades. Forgotten assignments are appearing on teachers' desks; people are handing in activities that they hope will gain extra credit. Numerous other little neglected chores are hurriedly being completed.

You think that everything is under control when that horrible thought of writing a book report comes to haunt your memory. With list in hand, you make a mad dash for the library. From the card catalogue you get the information that will aid you to find your book quickly. A few minutes later you have checked out the book and are on your way.

Lynne Stewart, a senior, knows what it's like, for in her spare time she works at the Pontiac branch of the Public Library. What does she do? Remember when you went to the card catalogue seeking information? How did that information get filed? Lynne types the information on cards and files them.

Lynne types book pockets, repairs dilapidated books, does mailing, and more or less works as the handy girl.

The job pays as well as many other part time jobs do. Although she has little contact with the public, she likes the work very much.

Senior Mike Sell Building Hi-Fi; Now Working On Stereophonic

Is a hi-fi one of the many items on your Christmas list? Why not save Santa Claus money and build your own? Senior Mike Sell has proved it can be done; he joined the do-it-yourself rage and successfully completed the construction of a hi-fi.

The basic parts of the hi-fi, as Mike related, are the turn-table, the amplifier, the speakers which transform electrical impulses into vibrations, and the toner.

"Another vital part of a hi-fi is the cartridge; this is a device for transforming mechanical energy into electrical energy," stated Mike.

The first step in constructing the hi-fi was to order from a catalogue an incomplete amplifier. Upon receiving the "amp," Mike immediately set to work, and with the help of diagrams and directions completed the "amp" at the end of three weeks. He then bought two speakers—a tweeter, a speaker for high frequency and the woofer, a speaker for low frequency. His last step was to build the speaker cabinet.

When asked if he'd had any trouble, Mike readily replied, "Yes." After finishing the hi-fi, Mike proudly and confidently turned it on. Nothing came out! A friend quickly came to his aid and discovered that a minor fault in the amp had been causing the trouble.

The parts of the hi-fi were comparatively inexpensive. With everything totaled Mike saved approximately $100 by making a hi-fi instead of buying one.

Upon being questioned about the type of music he plays on his hi-fi, Mike replied, "Jazz." He has quite a collection of jazz albums. Favorites such as Stan Kenton, Shorty Rogers, Count Bassie, and the Modern Jazz Quartet are included in his collection of over 60 jazz records. Mike remarked that he tolerates rock and roll but will not buy rock and roll discs.

To have successfully completed a hi-fi is quite an achievement and yet, Mike is now building a stereophonic. "A stereophonic is a record which has much more depth and tone than hi-fi," explained Mike. "Everything in a hi-fi is duplicated twice in a stereophonic," he further remarked. He plans to complete the stereophonic by Christmas and will save approximately $200 by making one instead of buying one.

Although Mike is certain he wouldn't care to make his hobby his life's work, he is undecided about the career he will pursue in the future.

Tickets Should Be Bought By Nov. 21: Mr. Scott

"Basketball season tickets should be purchased before the season opens on November 21 when South Side plays Bluffton," said Mr. Wayne Scott, athletic director.

Anyone having their season tickets can buy their ticket for 50 cents if they go to the athletic office. Tickets can also be purchased at the door for 90 cents.

Junior, Janet Lawry

fully after models all her life, she never thought, she could be one and really didn't become actively interested until she was 16.

Janet is five feet, four and one-half inches, too short to be a high fashion model who should be five feet, seven inches. A good model should also have a 22-inch waist and be at least 10 pounds underweight. Pretty rough, huh girls?

"It is too soon to tell whether I will take modeling as a career," she said in regard to future plans. She might like to model in a store, on television, or for a photographer.

Janet is on the college course and her favorite subject is speech. She is most familiar to Archers as a varsity cheerleader.

Archer Grid Team Finishes Season With 3 Win, 4 Loss, 1 Tie Record

Kelly Players Give Big Ones Real Struggle

Bill Meyer, Dick Tipton, Steve Gaskill Score Most Touchdowns

The 1958 edition of the South Side Archers made the student body as well as themselves proud when they finished the season with a 3 win, 4 loss, and 1 tie record. The won-loss record does not look very impressive but a column of facts never does reveal the fight, determination and spirit of a team even in the face of defeat.

Playing the part of the underdog the Archers often were predicted to be rolled over by opponents only to come back on sheer fortitude and give these "big powers" a real struggle. The Green had fine material in players with a great deal of ability as well as drive and capable leadership on the part of the coaches.

Bob Gernand's charges opened the season by playing Concordia to a 0-0 tie in a 16-minute contest at the football jamboree that did not count on the regular season record. Senior rookie Steve Gaskill was South's big man in that game along with numerous sophomores.

In the opener, the Anderson eleven downed a nervous Archer team by a 21-6 count. It was the first time since Coach Gernand took over the coaching reins at South that a T-formation had been used as the basic offensive pattern. This style of offense although it proved itself to be ideal later in the season was costly in the first game as the Green made three costly fumbles.

The second contest was an entirely different story however with the South Side eleven pulling one of the big upsets of the year in tromping Shortridge of Indianapolis 12-6. The Archers although behind in every department made up for it with a spirit typical of the fighting team that they were. Bill Meyer starred on offense making an 80-yard run to set up the first touchdown which was made by Steve Gaskill. The clincher came when Gaskill fumbled after being hit on the Shortridge 10. The pigskin skilled into the end zone and guard Ken Howe playing alert ball pounced on it to give the Archers an edge. Defense played a big part in the game with the Green digging in and holding their ground when the going got rough.

IN SOUTH'S THIRD outing a fine North Side eleven gave the Green a shameful 26-6 shellacking. This was easily the Bowmen's worst showing; a far cry from the previous game against Shortridge. They lost control five times as a result of fumbles. Some of these bobbles were extremely costly as they were deep in Redskin territory when they muffed it. About the only good things that came out of it all were that Dick Tipton saw action for the first time this year and scored the Archer's lone touchdown. Also the sophomores looked excellent with Steve Burton leading the pack averaging 8 yards per carry.

The Green and White dropped their second city series contest as a result of a bit of strategy not working as it should have. This time it was Central's Tigers and the fluke, a fumble, punt into the end zone. The Archer defense which had been superb throughout the game had held the Tigers scoreless. Late in the fourth quarter however the Archer aggregation had been forced way back into their own territory. South, not being content with a tie attempted a fake punt and a run. The play went awry when the ball was fumbled in the end zone and recovered by a Central player. Meyer was again tops in the offensive department getting over 7 yards per carry. Senior Tom Lerch was sterling on defense making numerous bone-jarring tackles.

THE ARCHERS REBOUNDED from these two stinging defeats and under tutor Gernand whipped Mississinewa 31-19 to annex their first away game in five years. Bill Meyer was practically the whole game scoring five touchdowns; one for every year. He also made 310 out of the team's 399 which is more than a whole team usually gets in the course of a game. Sophomore Bob Bolyard was picked by the coaches superior on defense making six tackles from his defensive right halfback position.

Tasting victory once more the Archers realized how good it could be and racked up their second straight win over Royerton's Redbirds 14-0. Once more the South Side stalwart defense proved to be too much for the opposition. Until this year the Redbirds had won 25 straight games and the win was quite a feather in South Side's cap. Bill Meyer who by this time was in a heated race for the city scoring championship with Frank Lombardo of Central Catholic scored one of the touchdowns and quarterback Steve Smith accounted for the other.

The Huntington Vikings were next to invade the South Side stadium. Again South combining grit, determination and spirit fought the highly touted Huntington eleven to a 13-13 deadlock. This was the second big upset pulled by the Bowmen as the Vikings were rated in the top 20 and were expected to add South Side to their list of victories. But behind the fabulous running of fullback Dick Tipton and sensational Bill Meyer the Green managed to put a blot on the Viking record which was up to that time perfect. Dan Tritch, junior guard who had been handicapped with an injury for a portion of the season was outstanding on defense often bringing down Huntington's fleet backs.

IN THE ARCHERS' FINAL attempt to play over a .500 won, lost percentage, they were downed 20-12 by the Central Catholic Irish. Although the Green looked good in the first half they seemed to break up in the third and fourth stanzas as the line was being ripped apart constantly and the South Side backs could go almost nowhere against the Irish stone wall. Halfback Meyer wrapped up the individual scoring race by getting both of his team's tallies and assuring himself a berth in the all-city backfield.

All in all it was a commendable season for a team that had lost ten of its eleven starters the year before and considering the performances of many of the underclassmen this year the 1959 addition should really be the team to beat.

The team scoring is as follows:

	TD	C	TP
1. Bill Meyer	9	3	57
2. Dick Tipton	2	1	13
3. Steve Gaskill	1	0	12
4. (Tie between Howe and Smith)	1	0	6

Bill Meyer's 57 Points Wins City Scoring Race

Shaking off an early scoring slump this season, Bill Meyer made a fantastic finish in South Side's football campaign to wind up the season as the city's leading scorer.

Meyer did not score at all until the fifth game of the season against Mississinewa when he amassed five touchdowns in addition to a P.A.T. From then on, Bill scored in every game. He scored one touchdown against Royerton, one against Huntington, and two against Central Catholic. Bill ended the season with 57 points. This was 25 more points than his nearest rival, Frank Lombardo.

Bill Meyer

It certainly is a credit to Bill's ability to have scored two touchdowns against Central Catholic, since it proved that he was as able a ball carrier against a superior team as he was previously in some easier contests.

* * *

BILL DID MUCH MORE for the Archer football team this season than only to bring it the city scoring championship. He was always a hard worker in practice, and he was an inspirational leader both on and off the field. When the chips were down, Bill never gave up; and he certainly added the drive which the Archers needed this season.

Among the top ten scorers in the city along with Bill Meyer this season was Dick Tipton. Dick, who was South's starting fullback, scored 13 points to take tenth place in the scoring race although appearing in only six games. His points per game average rated sixth place.

Concordia has four players on this year's scoring list. They are Fred Theye, Chuck Dahling, Dick Heine, and Lynn Koehlinger.

Warren Bullard's three-touchdown performance against South earned him a berth in the standings as the only North Side member. Tharnell Hollins' splendid early season performance put him on the list as Central's lone representative.

After a fast start scoring binge T. C. Williams slacked off and failed to hit the top ten by one point. John Sorg completes the list and rounds off the top five and furnishes C.C. with their second representative.

27 Girls Participate In GAA Basketball

Exactly 27 girls were present at Freshman GAA last Friday afternoon. Three new members came: Flora Reynolds, Nancy Byers, and Jean Davis.

Two games were played. Team three defeated team one, 29 to 15. Team two defeated team four, 16 to 7.

High scorers were: Joyce Beckley, 6; Margie Lehman, 8; Flora Reynolds, 2; Janice Nahrwold, 4; Jennifer Slater, 1; Sandy Walton, 2; Sherry Hall, 10; Jane Ladig, 4; Shirley Davis, 1; Mary Jane Hake, 9; Joy Cossairt, 3; Ginny Kachiamenis, 2; Janice Spuller, 5; and Nancy Byers, 10.

Seats Arranged For Cage Fans

Do you know where to sit at basketball games in our gymnasium?

If you don't this may add to the confusion at the always capacity-filled South Side gym. South Side students should sit in the east side of the gym starting with Section K and ending at Section A. Lower Section A will be occupied by the band.

Adult spectators should sit in the lower Secrtion E and Sections F, G, H, and J.

Rival schools have the west side of the gym. The scorekeepers and timers sit with the press in lower Section D.

Members of the faculty will assist in selling tickets and seating fans at the games. Those men teachers who will aid are Messrs. Applegate, Arnold, Berg, Billiard, Bobay, Coats, Collyer, Compton, Cramer, R. Davis, Feasel, Furst, Gersmehl, Gilbert, Harader, Hauk, Heine, Hellman, Hemmer, Hostetler, and Knigge.

Others are Messrs. McClure, Morey, Murch, Murray, Peirce, Pipino, Polite, Post, Sage, Sidell, L. Smith, R. Smith, Sterner, Storey, Walker, Weaver, Weber, Weicker, Whelan, Wilson, and Yoder.

Students Get Vacation

Students will be dismissed November 27 and November 28 for Thanksgiving vacation.

In basketball last week, the Mighty Mites defeated the B-Ball Blasters in a overtime game, 20-16. Ron Davies scored the winning basket in the overtime session. He led the scoring with 16 points. Jon Bill led the losers' attack with four points, while teammate, Jerry Isch chipped in three points.

The Lazy L's squeaked out a victory over the Hot Shots, 23-22. Emmett Bowen led the victor's attack by scoring 10 points, while Bill Zehender chipped in six points. Tom O'Hara scored 10 points for the losers and teammate, Dave Timma, scored six points.

The Buzzards bowed to the Dewey's Dribblers, 30-23. Gary Butz scored 11 points for the losers, while Rich Adamonis scored five. "Symonds led the victors with 10 points, while Terry Dibert chipped in six points.

Handball is underway now. The doubles tournament is being played fifth period and after school. The singles tournament will start with the lightweight division, playing the first Saturday after Thanksgiving vacation. The middle and heavy will follow on consecutive Saturdays. Last year there was a total of 158 boys in singles and doubles. Dave Miller took the noon lightweight division, while Jim Erwin and Mike Boyer took doubles. Steve Longenberger took the middleweight singles title, and he teamed with Neil Hoffman to take doubles tournament. Dave Barrett took heavyweight singles honors, while George Naselaris and Bill Skimos took the doubles title. Gary Wilson and Tom Wible took the lightweight after-school doubles tournament. Bob Pfundstein took the middleweight after school tourney, and Laren Stanski and Bob Thompson took the doubles tourney. Charles Lampell captured the heavyweight after school title. There was no doubles tourney last year.

The Sombimafus defeated the Cubs, 20-6. Dick Stout led the winners with 10 points, while Dave Cormany chipped in six points. Bob Blombach led the losers with six points. The Sombimafus, a group of senior boys, won the night league title last year. I wonder where this team got its name?

Cross Country Team Compiles 5-5 Record

Al Rainbolt, Sam Green, Ed Hartman Lead Team Across Finish Line

Although the 1958 edition of the South Side Archer cross country team had a winning season with five wins and five losses, it did not do as well as some expected. With five men back from last year's team, which was potentially the greatest in the history of South Side, the Archers were expected to be one of the top teams in the state.

Senior Eddie Hartman, along with junior Sam Green, led the team across the finish line in most of the meets. Sophomore sensation Al Rainbolt also was one of the top men on the team. Ready to back up the top men were Don Kern, a senior; Gus Wade, a junior, and sophomore Dave Reece. Adding to the balance of the team were senior Mike Albersmeyer and junior Ron Bogan.

CONFIDENT the Archers started out the season by trouncing the Concordia Cadets. Cadet Steve Hibler was the individual winner, but South had too much balance for the Cadets.

But the next meet showed already that the Archers were not as good as they maybe thought they were. A bunch of North Side Redskins, led by the fine running of Pete Poorman, handed the Archers their first setback of the season.

Having lost some of their best men from last year and not seeming to be as good as last year's team, the Central Tigers had a surprise for the Archers. Led by freshman sensation Henry King and sophomore Nate Harrison, the Tigers beat South Side.

FINALLY RETURNING to the winning trail the Archers beat the Concordia Cadets for the second time of the season. Eddie Hartman made a fine showing in the meet by breaking 10 minutes for the first time in his career.

Victory number three was recorded as the Archers managed to win a triangular meet against New Haven and Bluffton. Sam Green crossed the line first, winning his first meet in high school.

Running out of town for the first time in the season, South Side trounced the Wabash Apaches as Eddie Hartman recorded his second win in his two years of cross country.

At that time the Archers had a record of four wins and two losses; but then the team had a bad slump. In addition to that some of the top runners were lost to the team due to ineligibility. The next two meets, against the Central Tigers and the Kokomo Wildcats, were lost.

IN THE LAST MEET of the season the Archers ran against the Elmhurst Trojans, one of the top teams in the country. Led across the finish line by Al Rainbolt, who won his first victory in cross country, the Archers managed to nose out the Trojans to end the season with a record of five wins and four losses.

It was 1951, when a cross country team from South Side managed to qualify for the State meet for the last time. Although the Archers had an off day, they qualified for the State meet by placing fourth in the Sectionals, trailing Central, North, and Concordia.

"WE COULD HAVE DONE a lot better if not some of our runners were lost due to ineligibility," commented Coach "Porky" Holt on the season.

"Generally I think that we had quite a good team this season. Of course I am not satisfied, a coach never should be. But I think that we will have a fair team next year for many of the runners will be returning."

Fort Wayne Semi-State Will Test Archer Power

Noblesville, Kokomo, Bluffton, South Bend Central, Are Strong

Editor's note: This is the third in a series of articles canvassing the prospective state basketball powers. The Fort Wayne semi area is the subject of the report.

By Steve Rothberg

In defending their state crown, Coach Don Reichert's champion South Side Archers will meet hard and heavy opposition in the Semi-State held at the Fort Wayne Memorial Coliseum. These obstacles should prove to be most hard to surpass in the Archers' quest for their second championship in as many years.

Noblesville, Kokomo, Bluffton, and South Bend Central head the list of prospective stumbling blocks for the Kellys. The Noblesville squad started practice this year with a total of eight lettermen returning from last year's team. With this added seasoning and their good height (the starting five averages six feet, two inches and there is only one player on the top 10 under the two-yard mark) they could very easily become top contenders. Bert Butler and Dave Porter are two names to be remembered as they were each standouts last year. Also with a big junior, Rex Goble, standing 6-4, and versatile Mick Gunn Coach Glen Harper is hoping for a big season.

# # #

SOUTH BEND CENTRAL, with sensational Sylvester Coalmon, will also have to be reckoned with. Coalmon, who was on the first five of the 1957 state champion Bear team, was tagged for greatness when, as a sophomore, he was the leading rebounder and defensive man on the squad. Unfortunately for the South Bend cause, he was the victim of an injury during the middle of the 1957-58 campaign. But he is now fully recovered and ready to go. And if he can stay in present physical shape, James Powers, new Bear mentor, (Elmer McCall resigned last year to accept a college post) predicts him to be an outstanding threat. Rudy Anderson, a senior, is another who played exceptional ball last year and is also a big name in the South Bend lineup.

South Bend Adams is a team that will be trying to halt the rival Bears from even making off with the Sectional crown. Although the Eagle aggregation will not have overpowering size they will possess ideal experience. Five out of the team's first six are returning, led by Buddy McKnight and Gene Phillips. But at the present, Coach Warner Seaborg is concerned about finding a man with some size to fill up the gap left at the center post.

# # #

THE WILDCATS of South Bend Riley fill out the school's vying for honors in the South Bend area. With Lenny Rzeszewski at the reigns, the Cats boast a good 1-2-3 nucleus in the persons of Phil Grundy, George Vanderheyden, and Glenn Nevelle. Grundy and Vanderheyden were both standouts last year. With these boys working for him, Coach Rzeszewski should better 1958's 9-13 won-lost record.

Finally Max Bell and the Elkhart Blue Blazers make an appearance on the scene of potential contenders. Bell will be trying desperately to make up for the size disadvantage that his ball club probably will be subjected to throughout the season. But with Steve Reim as the top returnee he will have some experience, for which there is no substitute, working for him. Even if the Blazers do not come out on top this year, Archer fans will not forget the year 1956, when the Elkhart five stole the Semi-State crown out from under the Kellys' nose.

BLUFFTON, A BIG surprise last season comes back with tall Mike Milholland and only one other junior, but Virg Kirkpatrick hopes to build up a strong squad centered around Milholland.

Of course, Fort Wayne Central and Central Catholic could surprise any team with their new fast squads. Lafayette and New Haven's four returning first stringers could also scare Central, the big city power in the area.

New Haven's Bulldogs have Al Herman, Roger Wisly, Gary Kummer, and Lanny Norton, all members of its '58 tournament five, back for a final try for Sectional honors. In addition New Haven has hopes for their 6-8 soph prospect.

Lafayette Central will lead its scoring punch with defending country scoring champ Sammy Kreigh. Kreigh will be joined by three of last season's mates, center Tom Saddler, Dick Denny, and Roger Lake.

All in all it should be a highly contested Semi-State with many teams, including the Archers, battling it out until the bitter or sweet end.

LAUREL LEADERS—South Side's basketball coaches look optimistically at the team lineups for the coming 1958-59 season. Left to right: Mr. Don Reichert and Mr. Wayne Scott, varsity coaches; Mr. Bill Geyer, reserve coach; and Mr. Ed "Porky" Holt, freshman coach. The Archers have the prestige of State Champions to live up to, and they are the example for every team in the state.

Athletic Coaches State Opinions On Coming Basketball Season

After such a splendid basketball season as the Archers had last year, the coaching staff has to work twice as hard in order to mold another top-notch team of which the school can be proud.

The coaches must start at a time when many of the players are still riding high on last year's laurels. They must also work with the majority of the new prospects who did not see any varsity action last year.

What are the chances of another good season at South? What do the coaches think will happen during the coming season? Here are the answers which were given by South's four basketball coaches in recent interviews.

# # #

HEAD COACH DON REICHERT is one of the best basketball coaches in the high schools of Indiana. Don himself is a graduate of South Side. He was an excellent basketball player for the Archers, and his senior year in 1937 saw him leading the Archers to a fine season.

Coach Reichert received his Bachelor of Arts degree when he graduated from Franklin College in 1941. Don went to Indiana in 1951 to obtain his Master's degree. He has taken additional graduate work each summer at Ball State in 1951 through 1954.

Before coming to South Mr. Reichert coached at Covington High School and the U.S. Merchant Marine Academy in San Mateo, Calif.

Mr. Reichert has been coaching at South since 1951. In his interview, he said that our basketball team would be relatively green this season. Mr. Reichert said that although early injuries would hamper the players, they would give other boys a chance to develop. He felt that the team would have to develop more scoring punch if it is to have a good year. Reichert also felt that the new players on the varsity must become more aggressive and be able to get a basket on their own deceptiveness if the team would succeed.

In conclusion Mr. Reichert said, "If we can develop one or two good boys off the boards (rebounders), develop a somewhat balanced scoring attack to go with one or two good scorers, and can improve steadily on defense we can be a good club by tourney time. We have a big job to do, but we expect to get it done."

# # #

ATHLETIC DIRECTOR WAYNE SCOTT is South's other varsity coach this season. Scotty grnduated from Central High School in 1926, and he obtained his B.S. degree at Michigan State in 1932. Mr. Scott spent four years as a coach at Harrison Hill before coming to South. He was head basketball coach at South for seven years before receiving his present position, which he has held for the past six years.

Scotty had this to say about this year's team, "Starting with little experience will be a handicap. If key boys come along, it can be a very good team by tourney time. The boys are working hard and have a good spirit."

# # #

COACH BILL GEYER will be heading the reserves as well as helping out with the varsity. Mr. Geyer is also a graduate of South Side. Like Mr. Reichert, he also made an excellent name for himself as an athlete. After Mr. Geyer graduated in 1935, he received his B.S. degree at Butler University. Before coming to South, Mr. Geyer spent four years as a track coach at Pike Township in Marion County and as a basketball and track coach at Elmhurst for another four years.

Mr. Geyer felt that inexperience might show at the beginning of the season but the team should be a real threat by tournament time.

# # #

THE NEWEST addition to South's coaching staff is Charles "Porky" Holt. Mr. Holt graduated from New Haven High School in 1942 and from Ball State with his B.S. degree in 1949. He returned to Ball State for his M.A. degree in 1954.

Mr. Holt spent seven years at Monmouth and one year at Winchester before coming to South this year.

Since Mr. Holt will coach the freshmen, he did not have information about the varsity. Speaking about his freshman squad he said, "We should have a good season if the boys develop as they should. The boys have the hustle and determination to win, and they should offer good prospects for the varsity in the coming years.

Evansville May Produce Fine Squads

Editor's note: This is the fourth in a series of articles exploring the possibilities of state teams. This article is a forecast for the Evansville semi-state crown.

By Bob King

Topped by such perennial powerhouses as Terre Haute Gerstmeyer, Evansville Central, and New Albany, the Evansville semi-state basketball area promises to send a strong representative to Indianapolis for the state championship in March. Springs Valley is also included in the area.

Coach Howard Sharpe of Gerstmeyer's Black Cats has fine senior lettermen returning for what Coach Sharpe terms "an average team." Gerstmeyer's average team usually advance to their Semi-state tournament. He will probably start all five seniors with Frank Joysa and Gary Hester at the forward slots, Dick Lawson at center, and Steve Newton and John Roshel in the guard posts. Sharpe is known as one of Indiana's best coaches and will undoubtedly devclop his team into a strong squad by sectional time.

EVANSVILLE CENTRAL, winner of their local sectional, has eight returning lettermen to enhance their tournament opportunities. The Bears have Dan Williford and Jon Fuquay available for duty at center; Gary Chesser, Larry Harris, and Louie Lynn ready at the forward positions; and guards John Steel, Gary Goodsen, and Bob Beckham ready to see action. Only Williford and Harris are juniors, the others being seniors. If the Bears develop as expected by Coach Marion Graham, they will be a greatly feared ball club at tournament time.

New Albany has most of their experienced squad of last year returning. Eight lettermen return this year, seven of which are seniors, and the other a junior. Tom Hutchinson, a senior center, is the man to watch on the New Albany club. Sonny Wright and Embra Whitfield are also returning starters. A sectional winner last year, the Bulldogs look like one of New Albany's best.

# # #

THE BLACK HAWKS of Springs Valley are definitely in a rebuilding year after remaining unbeaten throughout regular season play last season. The Black Hawks represented the Evansville area at Butler last year, being stopped by Fort Wayne South, the champ-to-be, by a 55-42 count in the afternoon's starter.

Coach Rex Wells has three starters returning but has very little in reserve strength. Guards Marvin Pruett and Frank Self along with center Jack Beicher return out of a total enrollment of 349 pupils. The Black Hawks have toughened their schedule and Coach Wells looks forward to a "very interesting season at Springs Valley."

Terre Haute Wiley will furnish strong competition for Gerstmeyer. Coach "Curly" Holt lost only one starter from last year's squad and so has an experienced team. Probable starters for the Red Streaks are Wendell Carter and Bob Wiemuth at forward; Al Belskus, 6 foot 1 inch junior at center; and Jack Dyer and Larry Wolfe at guard. Wiley has fair size and speed, good shooting, and experienced ball players. This combination proves Wiley is a team to watch throughout the year.

# # #

HUNTINGBURG, who had a 21-3 mark last season, looks even stronger this year. Eight lettermen return to form the nucleus of the squad. The Happy Hunters will average a 6 foot 4 inch starting lineup on what Coach Howard Sharp (Sharp not Sharpe) terms a better team than last year's.

Jeffersonville, Princeton, and Seymour may be tough again this year. All had winning seasons in 1958 and look tough again. The first two were Regional winners and hope to repeat this year.

S. O. S.

Schmitz On Sports

Like a pool of water circles a section of dry land and then envelopes it, so basketball is rapidly coming to South Side. The area country teams that don't play football have already initiated their prep basketball seasons for 1958-59. And in 10 days South will join them in defense of their State Championship.

# # #

For the third straight year the Kellys have been dealt a crushing blow by fate. This year, ace veteran Tom Bolyard, who promises to be nothing short of sensation this year, broke his middle finger in his left hand during a practice session a week and a half ago.

# # #

The injury will slow up the tall powerfully built senior for the initial part of the season. It is expected that Tom will be absent from at least the Kellys' first two encounters and very likely an all-important City Series opener with Concordia, November 29.

# # #

To complicate matters further Bill Meyer sustained a minor injury to his foot to add to the handicap of his weak knee. The loss of these two would play a chief role in the halting of the only long winning skien in the state.

# # #

Considering past events these two setbacks might prove to be good omens as injuries in the past have been. Last season the Archers lost the services of Danny Howe because of a dislocated shoulder and the year prior Mike McCoy broke his foot in the fall.

# # #

Those first two contests will definitely put the Archers winning streak to a severe test. Bluffton is back with Bob Milholland and could raise a storm. But the following week the trip to Southport could be the contest that breaks the string. Southport is returning with a veteran-studded squad that is always a thorn in the path of the big city Indianapolis teams.

# # #

Remember it was little Southport that almost tripped up the Attucks in the Sectionals the year the Attucks behind Oscar Robertson went all the way undefeated. Concordia shouldn't cause too much worry even with Bolyard and Meyer gone.

# # #

As the basketball fever rises at South Side the little unheralded county teams go unnoticed, but heed to any big city teams that look down on them. They're tough. Last year they proved it to North Side (lost to Huntertown in Sectionals), Concordia (rallied late to nip same team), and Central, who had their hands tied for one half by Lafayette Central.

# # #

The Pirates from the southern part of the county have already chalked up two wins and are showing opponents that they intend to erase the dreams of the big city teams next February.

# # #

A slight after-thought of the football season and the ensuing campaigns: Although I won't be around for next year's pigskin season at South, I sure hope that the students will improve on the fabulous support that was given to the team. When the team is down is when they need moral support the most. The fans fail to realize this and left the squad stranded several times.

# # #

If the students will back the team all the way, throughout the entire game, regardless of the outcome, your team will show you improved results. And remember, root for the tackles, for in any sport, especially football, the offense is only as good as its defense. This goes for all sports. In basketball root for the blocked shots, the broken up passes—not just for the goals during a routine victory.

Kelly Students Burn Midnight Oil---Grab Off Good Grades

Miss Ayers recently gave her period 2 economic geography a test over the chapter entitled "Labor and Cities." Charles Hayden scored the highest grade on the test.

Mr. Bobay's shop room is now completed and ready to go. The classes are working on their projects. Mr. Bobay complimented the metal classes on their help in getting the shop room ready to work in.

In Mr. Walker's visual education class Bruce Winn has taken over Art Wilson's job as equipment manager.

Nadine Wilson, Mike O'Hara, and Diane Kitchen have recently joined Mr. Walker's visual education class.

In Mr. Motz's gym classes the following boys had the best distance in the football throw: lightweight, Larry Gerig, 144 feet, Steve Cook 134, Ron King 130; middleweight, Fred Bowen 163, John Weaver 147, Dick Andrews 145; heavyweight, Steve Banet 156, Tom Dody 152, and Roy Fanger 150.

A minimum essentials test in General History 1 was given by Mr. Collyer covering the period of history from the Prehistoric Man to the Middle Ages.

Mr. Collyer's General History 2 classes are studying European Imperialism.

In Mr. Morey's English 8 period 4 classes a test was given on "The Spy." High grades were made by Judy Franklin, Freda Gersos, Al Klopfenstein, Gary Leips, Jerry Owens, Elaine Meyer, and Sue Schrader. In period 7 high grades were made by Bill Campbell, Ward Miller, Steven Sappenfield, Carol Beghtel, Ed Heuer, and Gary Martin.

On a recent test over curriculum in Mr. Berg's citizenship class those who earned high grades were Lillian Krudop, Jill Leonard, Carol Moilanen, Ellen Lowe, and Vicki Adams, period 2; Louise Jackson, Vicki Miller, Barbara Smith, Virginia Southworth, and Pat Galloway, period 4; Lydia Sutto, Bob Bryant, Sandy Horstman, Gail Woodruff, and Linda Chaney, period 7.

Mr. Berg's government class period 6 has been studying Independent Governmental Agencies. Students who have been doing well on written assignments on the Federal Government Administration are John Heilman, Verene Andrews, Eugene John, Gloria Moilanen, and Louisa Ross.

The first girls in Mrs. Gernand's Home Economics 1 classes to finish their skirts were as follows: Martha McChesney, Marcia Melching, Verene Andrews, Sandy Miller, Cheryl Habecker, Susan Lewis, Mattie Woods, Susan Perry, Linda Newell, Sondra McKee, Karen Rahden, and Linda Woodruff. Their next project will be a blouse featuring roll-up sleeves, a notched collar, and buttons down the front. Working on this project will teach them how to do a set-in sleeve, interface a collar and bodice front, and also how to use a buttonhole attachment.

Ann Walton and Barbara Dennis were the first girls finished with their shirtwaist dress in Mrs. Gernand's Home Economics 3 classes. Next week the classes will begin a study of textiles. As an introduction they have seen films, "Facts About Fathers," and "A Close-Up of Nylon."

In Mr. Cramer's Geometry 1 period 3 class A's were made by Barbara Ronan, Pat Worsham, William Stout, and Cindy Miller. In the period 4 class the only A was made by Ronald Hay. In the period 6 class they are Nancy Whipple, Evilou North, Neil Mieras, Ed Kridler, and Tom Felger. This was a check-up test on parallels and perpendiculars.

Mr. Cramer's Geometry 2 classes are working with similar polygons.

Mr. Cramer's Algebra 1 period 7 class is finishing the unit on Fundamental Processes.

The students in Mr. Cramer's classes who are consistently making high grades are Thomas Thieme, Logan Smith, Steve McDonald, Susan Martin, Patti Metrour, Anita Ferbert, Terry Dibert, and Ronald Bauer.

In Mr. Murch's Shorthand 1 period 4 class Angel Body, JoAnn High, and Georgia Gomez are the top students in his class.

Mr. Gersmehl's English 7y classes are studying about short stories and giving book reports on short stories.

Mr. Murch's Shorthand 1 period 8 class has several who obtained high grades. They are Nancy Jones, Carol Szink, and Roberta Crosby.

Miss Fortney's Algebra 2 period 3 class is studying fundamental operations with radicals and using powers and roots.

Mr. Feasel's General History 2 classes have been studying about the colonization of Africa by various countries.

In Mrs. Welty's Latin 3 period 3 class Larry Christman and Carolyn DeVore received 99 over a 50-word vocabulary test. In the period 7 Latin 3 class Rita Hessert and Janice Ferber made grades of 100 and 99 over the same test.

The highest grades over a Latin 3 unit test in Mrs. Welty's class were made by Karol Wise, period 3, and Janice Ferber, period 7.

A's on a recent grammar test in Miss Arber's English 1 classes were made by Carl Brubecher, John McNett, Elizabeth Ellis, period 1; Gaylene Hilsmier, Steve Lowens, Bill Wilder, period 5; Paulette Lontz, Connie Reed, Kay Sheehan, Bob Symonds, period 6; Pam Hines, Barb Stevens, period 7.

In Miss Leif's Home Economics 4 period 4 class the first luncheon to be served compromised style was planned by Sandy Long, Carolyn Holmes, and Louise Misegades. As hostess Louise has planned a fall centerpiece for the table. Their menu includes vegetable soup, deviled hamburgers, coconut banana pudding, and milk.

Mr. Weicker's general history classes are still studying the unification of Europe.

Marjorie Havens, Carol Abramson, Karen Curley, Steve Iannucilli, Judy Koontz, Steve Marshall, and Annette Plesniac received the highest test scores on a quiz given in Mr. Hemmer's General History 1 classes. Bob King scored highest on a test in Mr. Hemmer's U.S. History 2 classes.

Jeff Clark, Wendell Eicher, Bill Harader, Dave Roderick, Dick Rothberg, and Doug Smith made the highest grades on a test covering "projection of points and lines on a plane" in Mr. Sidell's Geometry 3 classes.

Marilyn Budd, Eric Hoekstra, Bruce McKinny, Ellen Rudasky, Dave Timma, and Larry Wedertz scored 90 or better on a quiz in Mr. Sidell's plane geometry period 4 class.

Carol Dehnert, Phil Jones, Beverly Liggett, Stan Robinson, and Dave Roderick made the highest grades on a test in Miss Schaeffer's American History 2 period 4 class.

Marilyn Cole, Frederic Schoen, Warren Burns, Karen Fine, Frank Lewis, Cheryl Summers, Karen Sygart, and Roberta Twitchell scored highest on a grammar test given in Mrs. Emshwiller's English 1 classes.

Cheryl Summers, a freshman afflicted with polio, is a good student as well as a cheerful one. During Teachers' Convention she took a trip to Warm Springs, Ga., for a check-up. She was very glad to hear that the report was very good. For this reason Cheryl has much to look forward to and has a very splendid reason for being a cheerful student who truly works hard.

Joe Ertel, Jane Fuller, Paulette Lontz, Sue Norman, and Jeanine Syndram received A's on a per cent test in Mr. Hoover's general math class.

Bill Campbell received the highest score on a test given in Mr. Hull's beginning physics class.

In the English 5 period 5 class of Mrs. Darby's A's were received by Posey Weilemann, Judy Ridlen, Marian McCallister, Carolyn King, Sandra Grodrian, and Ron Flickener on Notes on Chaucer and his period.

Miss Leif's Home Economics 2 classes were asked by the mothers to bake cookies for the PTA Teas. Two new recipes were used which Miss Leif secured from a Home Economics group while on a recent trip to Cincinnati. One recipe is a drop cookie called Peanut Butter and Orange Drops which will be baked in the period 6 class and the other recipe is for Toffee Bars which is to be done by the period 2 class.

Mr. Petty's Geometry 1 classes are studying areas of polygons by knowing the base and height. They are also studying the application of the area theorem.

Mr. Petty's Geometry 2 classes are studying ratios and proportions and applying them by the use of similar polygons.

Richard Dailey, of Mr. Arnold's United States History 2 period 4 class, made a map showing the "Battle of Long Island." Dick Butzow of the United States History 1 period 6 class made a map depicting the Revolutionary War campaigns. Everett Scherrer also of the period 6 class made a map showing the "Voyage of the Great White Fleet."

David Bengs of Mr. Arnold's United States History 2 period 7 class made a map showing the various canals of the Great Lakes. Barbara Hamilton of the same class made a drawing of the Panama Canal. Dave Cunningham, also of the period 7 class, made an illustration of the Panama Canal.

Mr. Storey's speech classes are reading poetry and prose. Outstanding readings were given in the period 1 class by Steve Gaskill, Sara Hindman, Kate Rastetter, Sara Lou Miller, and Susan Kuroski. Period 3, Chuck Jellison, Marylyn Sexton, and Joyce Brittenham. In the period 6 class, outstanding readings were given by Ruth Dill, Dick Baxter, Gerri Geller, Janet Lawry, Dick McGaw, Janet Terry, JoAnn High, and Joan Novitsky.

Mr. Storey's English 8 period 4 class had a literature test recently. Highest grades were given to Lynn Busche, Paul Freehill, George Townsend, and Tamara Beatty.

Miss Peck's English 5 classes are continuing their study of "Macbeth." A short quiz was given after completion of scene III, act 2.

About 400 students in the health and sociology classes heard Mr. Dean L. Barnhart, Director of Education, Section on Alcoholism, discuss what Indiana is doing for alcoholism. Two films were shown to aid the discussion.

Thanksgiving Hymn

O thou, whose eyes of love
Look on us from above
Low at thy throne
We come to thee and pray
That, gleaning day by day,
Our grateful hearts always
Thy hand may own.

Thine are the waving fields,
Thy hand the harvest yields;
And unto thee
To whom for rain and dew,
And skies of sunny blue,
Our love and praise are due,
We bend the knee.

And when beneath the trees
In fairer fields than these
Our glad feet roam,
There where the bright harps ring,
May we our gleanings bring,
And in thy presence sing
Our harvest home.

—Author Unknown

Giving Thanks

For the hay and the corn and wheat that is reaped,
For the labor well done, and the barns that are heaped,
For the sun and the dew and the sweet honeycomb,
For the rose and the song, and the harvest brought home . . .
Thanksgiving! Thanksgiving!

For the trade and the skill and the wealth in our land,
For the cunning and strength of the workingman's hand,
For the good that our artists and poets have taught,
For the friendship that hope and affection have brought . . .
Thanksgiving! Thanksgiving!

For the homes that with purest affection are blest,
For the season of plenty and well-deserved rest,
For our country extending from sea to sea,
The land that is known as the "Land of the Free" . . .
Thanksgiving! Thanksgiving!

Lincoln's Proclamation

On October 3, 1863, President Lincoln issued the first national Thanksgiving Proclamation setting apart the last Thursday in November as the day to be observed. The Proclamation reads:

The year that is drawing toward its close has been filled with the blessings of fruitful fields and healthful skies. To these bounties, which are so constantly enjoyed that we are prone to forget the source from which they come, others have been added, which are of so extraordinary a nature that they cannot fail to penetrate and soften the heart which is habitually insensible to the ever watchful providence of almighty God. In the midst of a civil war of unequaled magnitude and severity, which has sometimes seemed to foreign states to invite and provoke their aggressions, peace has been preserved with all nations, order has been maintained, the laws have been respected and obeyed, and harmony has prevailed everywhere except in the theater of military conflict; while that theater has been greatly contracted by the advancing armies and navies of the Union.

Needful diversions of wealth and strength from the fields of peaceful industry to the national defense have not arrested the plow, the shuttle, or the ship; the ax has enlarged the borders of our settlements, and the mines, as well of iron and coal as of the precious metals, have yielded even more abundantly than heretofore. Population has steadily increased notwithstanding the waste that has been made in the camp, the siege and the battlefield, and the country, rejoicing in the consciousness of augmented strength and vigor, is permitted to expect continuance of years with large increase of freedom.

No human counsel hath devised, nor hath any mortal hand worked out these great things. They are the gracious gifts of the most high God, who, while dealing with us in anger for our sins, hath nevertheless remembered mercy.

It has seemed to me fit and proper that they should be solemnly, reverently and gratefully acknowledged as with one heart and one voice by the whole American people. I do, therefore, invite my fellow citizens in every part of the United States, and also those who are at sea and those who are sojourning in foreign lands, to set apart and observe the last Thursday of November next as a day of thanksgiving and praise to our beneficent Father who dwelleth in the heavens. And I recommend to them that, while offering up ascriptions justly due to him for such singular deliverances and blessings, they do also, with humble penitence for our national perverseness and disobedience, commend to his tender care all those who have become widows, orphans, mourners or suffers in the lamentable civil strife in which we are unavoidably engaged, and fervently implore the interposition of the almighty hand to heal the wounds of the nation and to restore it, as soon as may be consistent with the Divine purposes, to the full enjoyment of peace, harmony, tranquility and union.

We Thank Thee

For flowers that bloom around our feet;
For tender grass, so fresh, so sweet;
For song of bird and hum of bee;
For all things fair we hear or see,
Father in heaven, we thank thee!

For blue of stream and blue of sky;
For pleasant shade of branches high;
For fragrant air and cooling breeze;
For beauty of the blooming trees,
Father in heaven, we thank thee!

—Ralph Waldo Emerson

Two Festivals

Thanksgiving stirs her ruddy fire;
The glow illuminates November:
She sees new glimmerings of desire
Flash up from every fading ember.
The corn is stored, and heaped the board;
The matron Day, her comforts summing,
Hears, through her best, a better word, . . .
The merry shout of "Christmas coming!"

The fires of two home-festivals
Light up the frosty air together;
Thanksgiving unto Christmas calls,
"Shake hands across this keen, cold weather!
We both are here to bring good cheer;
Each has a heart-glow for the other;
The chill of our New England year
Welcomes your warmth, my Old-World brother.

"My Pilgrims thought your wassail rude,
Your Yule-flames a barbaric splendor;
Your gay old English game eschewed,
Their graver gratitude to render
For hardship past, for peace at last.
Now, with a larger comprehending,
We catch your cheerful meaning vast,
That gives the year a blessed ending."

So Christmas and Thanksgiving clasp
Their hands, and brightly bridge December.
Close met within that heart-felt grasp,
All friends One Friend of all remember.
Two feast-fires glow across the snow:
Dead voices answer to the living,
As home to meet our own we go;
'Praise God for Christmas and Thanksgiving!"

—Lucy Larcom

A Thanksgiving Fable

It was a hungry pussy cat, upon Thanksgiving morn,
And she watched a thankful little mouse, that ate an ear of corn.
"If I ate that thankful little mouse, how thankful he should be,
When he has made a meal himself, to make a meal for me!
"Then with his thanks for having fed, and his thanks for feeding me,
With all his thankfulness inside, how thankful I shall be!"
Thus mused the hungry pussy cat, upon Thanksgiving Day;
But the little mouse had overheard and declined (with thanks) to stay.

—Oliver Herford

Two Thanksgivings

The most joyous Thanksgiving recorded in American annals occurred in May, 1778, when the news arrived that France had concluded a treaty of friendship and alliance with the thirteen States of the American Union. It followed the winter of want and harrowing anxiety which General Washington and his army passed at Valley Forge, on the banks of the Schuylkill, twenty miles above Philadelphia.

Five months before, there had been a Thanksgiving which was far indeed from being a festival in Washington's camp.

Philadelphia had fallen into the hands of the enemy, and when winter approached the American general knew not what to do with his shivering troops. There was no room for them in the country towns of Pennsylvania, which were filled to overflowing with refugees from the captured capital. General Washington, after much reflection, made up his mind to remain where he was and to create a little town of his own for the troops.

# # #

SO, IN HIS Thanksgiving Proclamation of December 17, 1777, he announced his intention, saying that, "With activity and diligence, huts may be erected that will be warm and dry," in which the troops "will be more secure against surprises and at hand to protect the country." But, first of all, the army must comply with the call of the Honorable Congress to render thanks for the brilliant successes of the recent campaign, which had resulted in the surrender of Burgoyne and his army.

"The general directs that the army remain in its present quarters, and that the chaplains perform divine service with their several corps and brigades, and earnestly exhorts all officers and soldiers, whose absence is not indispensably necessary, to attend with reverence the solemnities of the day."

All of which was punctually observed by the army on the 18th of December.

# # #

ON THE DAY following the building of log cabins began, a work as familiar to the men of that day as was plowing the fields or swinging the scythe. All the available tools were brought together, and then fairly distributed. The army was divided into parties of twelve, and all set at work building huts designed to lodge that number of men, so that every soldier had the feeling that he was building his own winter home.

General Washington promised to present twelve dollars as a reward to the party in each regiment which should finish its house in the shortest time and in the best manner. He also offered a reward of a hundred dollars to the officer or soldier who, in the scarcity of boards, should invent the best kind of available roofing for the cabins.

Each cabin was to be fourteen feet by sixteen,

Archers Entertain On Elektra Club; State Ideas On Success Of Program

"Elektra is the Greek word meaning brilliance, from which our American word electricity is derived." This phrase, one similar to it, begins each half hour of WANE-TV's Elektra Club.

The Elektra Club, sponsored by Indiana and Michigan Electric Company, was begun to display the cultural and intellectual side of the high school student, in contrast to the "rock 'n roll" picture many people seem to have. This idea was stated by Mr. J. Calvin Hill, Fort Wayne Division Manager of Indiana & Michigan Electric Company, at the dinner last month commemorating the beginning of the club.

This program, viewed each Sunday night at 6 p.m. on WANE-TV, is divided into four sections: talent presentation; interview of a student of science, business or social science; news reports; and a panel discussion.

z z z

JOYCE BRITTENHAM, a South Side junior, displayed her vocal talent on the first episode of the I. & M. Elektra Club sinking "Only Make Believe." Joyce had this to say about the club, "I thoroughly enjoyed participating in the talent portion, and I found the personnel very easy to work with." Joyce believes that this type of organization gives teenagers an opportunity to show what they can do.

Mr. Phil Wilson is the master of ceremonies of the program, which is produced by Mr. Larry Beauchamp and directed by Mr. Ken Seeman. Throughout the program the popular Mr. Norm Carroll entertains young and old alike on the organ.

Mr. Cliff Milnor, the well-known writer of the Journal-Gazette column "Lines and Angles" is the moderator of the panel each week. "The panel discussion," stated Mr. Milnor, "is not to come to any definite conclusion but to show the thinking ability of the student."

z z z

MEMBERS OF the Elektra Club are chosen by their respective high school principals to appear representing their school. All material used by the students is original and is only altered in case of a time limit.

A guest appearing on the Elektra Club is usually requested to attend the program prior to the one he shall appear on to enable him to become acquainted with the procedure. The student is then asked to arrive at the studios of WANE-TV about two hours before he is to appear on the program to go through two complete rehearsals.

Judy Novitsky, the South Side Times general-manager, appeared on the first Elektra Club program. Judy enjoyed the show very much; however, she also commented, "I don't think that I'll ever have an easy time on television. I'm either busily trying to follow the little red light on the camera, or I keep watching the camera man to see if he's giving me the fist to cut me off!"

Appearing the same time as Judy John feels that it is a "real sharp show" which will become even better as time goes on. "The only criticism that I have heard," stated John, "is that they attempt to do too much in not enough time and have to shorten the comments of the students."

z z z

"A PROGRAM LIKE the Elektra Club is especially good with so much emphasis now being placed on juvenile delinquency," said senior Mary Sue Robertson. Mary Sue, who appeared on the second Elektra Club program, went on to say that the club shows everyone that there still are well-educated young people in the world who are able to give serious problems careful consideration.

Another senior, Martha Milnor, shared the same thoughts as Mary Sue. Martha also said that the program was a very good idea and was very interesting.

DID YOU SEE THEM?—Members of the Elektra Club who have appeared on television are left to right, first row: Judy Novitsky, Mary Sue Robertson, and Joyce Brittenham; second row, Kate Rastetter, Martha Milnor, and John Shannahan. Each week two outstanding students are chosen by Principal R. Nelson Snider to represent South Side on the program. The Elektra Club is seen every Sunday evening on WANE-TV at 6 p.m. (Picture by Thompson)

Senior Eddie Hartman was one of the students representing South Side on the third program. "For as new as it is, it's doing very well; and I believe that it will become more and more popular as it continues to grow," stated Eddie. Ed also commented that the men and women at the studio were some of the nicest people he had ever met—"just as nice as they can be."

Appearing with Eddie was junior Kate Rastetter. "I feel that a program of this kind is very necessary in order to represent the majority of the Fort Wayne high school students," stated Kate, "and I loved every minute of participating in the program."

Although the I. & M. Elektra Club has taken quite a hold on Fort Wayne teenagers, one of the constructive criticisms which has been voiced by many is the amount of formality on the program. "The Elektra Club is great," said one South Sider, "but the news reports should be less formal—more on a back and forth conversation basis."

P.S. from PENNY

By Penny Hunt

¡Hola!

For all non-Spanish speaking students, "hello." Bet you wondered about that upside down exclamation point, didn't you? The exclamation point is put at the beginning of a sentence to let you know that an exclamation is coming. Pretty clever, huh? I can't figure out why it's upside down though.

Aren't class officers supposed to set good examples? That's what I thought; but even Dick Rothberg, junior class president, calls himself the "class bad-boy." Dick spent many pleasant evenings in eighth periods after being found in the halls without a pass.

If you have noticed the large pit in center hall, forget about it; it's nothing.

Mary Miely had a red face on the bus to the Mississinewa football game, and it wasn't due to blushing. It seems Mary and Dick McGaw had a small war with lipstick as a weapon. What a mess!

I thought everyone had seen danskins, but maybe not. Recently, when Beth Golden was in a small town in Kentucky, she noticed a group of rather hillbillyish looking men pointing at her and giggling madly, while standing waiting for her mother to unlock the car door. Beth realized they must be referring to her danskins and was quite embarrassed when one of the men approached her and said, "We're just kiddin' ya, honey, they're right cute!"

Can you imagine having a flat tire at Hall's? If you need any lessons on how to avoid getting hit while changing the tire, contact Gus Wade. After one misfortune Gus ought to be an old hand at the art.

I guess Susie Hoard has been trying to trade her mother in for a new model. Well, not exactly, but she did get pretty mixed-up. Recently, while downtown shopping, Susie decided her mother was just taking too much time and so grabbed her by the sleeve and pulled her out the door. Much to Susie's surprise and embarrassment she had picked the wrong lady! I'll bet that took plenty of explaining!

If you have noticed that Bessie Ferguson and I have large calouses on our hands and big bags under our eyes, you'll realize our sticktoitiveness, devotion, and complete insanity. Only absolute madness could have led us to cut out palm tree leaves for the Junior Banquet until 3 o'clock in the morning!

No, Bob Shine is not traveling incognito or trying to look like a movie star wearing sun glasses; he's got a pretty good reason. Bob had a slight accident while playing basketball—(I thought football was dangerous)—which required 13 stitches in his forehead. If that isn't bad enough the cut became infected causing his eye to swell up. There's where the sun glasses come in.

So teenagers are supposed to be the worst drivers. Well, I don't know about that! While my mother was waiting to pick me up one night, she forgot the car was in reverse and jammed into the car behind her and then didn't put the brake on and bumped the car in front. Sometimes I wonder about her!

Well, I really must run—adios!

P.S.—Cheer up, only about 173 days until summer vacation!

Posy's Pointers

By Posy Wellemann

Dear Posy,

My problem is my father. He only gives me $2 a week allowance. How can I convince him that times have changed, and it costs more nowadays to take a girl out? Whenever I take a girl to a movie, I'm afraid to ask her if she'd like a Coke afterwards for fear she'll order more than that. This is very embarrassing. What can I do?

Charlie

Dear Charlie,

I agree with you that it is rather hard at times to have a date with only $2. I think you should have a heart to heart talk with your father. If he can't afford to give you any more than that, then be thankful for what you get. Also, what is wrong with getting yourself a job to earn a little extra money? One thing you should remember, if a girl likes you she doesn't care how much money you spend on her. Just tell her how much money you have to spend then decide between you what you want to spend it on.

Dear Posy,

The neighborhood grocery has asked me to work after school. I could really use the money, and I think it would be good experience. However, my girl said I was silly to work. What do you think?

Joe

Dear Joe,

There's nothing silly about earning money. It's good to put your spare time to a profitable end. You won't look very silly to your girl with a pocket full of money.

Dear Posy,

How can I get a picture of Bob Landis without asking him or one of his friends? I'm not bad looking at all, but he has never asked me for a date. Signed,

Overlooked

Dear Overlooked,

The only way I can think of to get a picture of him without asking him or one of his friends would be to take one yourself . . . but that would be a little obvious, wouldn't it? About asking you out, maybe he doesn't know you would like a date with him. How about dropping some subtle hints?

Homeroom Highlights

Marijo Edwards, Editor

Many of the juniors in Homeroom 110 have jobs and activities outside of school. Sunny Kaade joined Junior Achievement this year and is in the Banking Company. She was appointed temporary treasurer of the company. Her company is called Ski-Hi Limited . . . Steve Kearns belongs to Methodist Youth Fellowship . . . Marsha Klaehn is a member of Bethlehem Lutheran's High School Choir . . . Pat Krebs baby-sits whenever the time permits. She belongs to St. Paul's Junior Choir and Walther League. Pat is on the Inter-Club Council at the YWCA . . . Kathy Lee is a member of the Junior Achievement company called the J-Aiders. She is secretary of Sega-Neet which is a church youth group. Kathy is a member of Philo and also works in Medical Records at Parkview Hospital as a Nursette . . . Sharon Lake teaches piano lessons on Tuesday nights. She also attends a great many church youth group activities and is busy planning their services with the president . . . Sandy Landree is a "paper cutter-upper" for the Times! She is active at South being in Outgoing Choir, Philo, and secretary-treasurer of the Safety Council. Sandy is a member of Luther League at her Church . . . Nikki Lawson is a member of Junior Achievement . . . Donna Kuehner baby-sits and works at Murphy's . . . Janice Koch is a member of Junior Red Cross . . . Carol Lehman belongs to the Junior Achievement company, Femco, whose sponsor is the Falstaff Brewing Company . . . Sandy Landree helped at a car wash a few weeks ago and really had fun (with the boys!) . . . Helena Kamm went to a football game at Purdue University . . . Next June Kay Keiffer will be moving to Cape Cod in Massachusetts where she hopes that during the summer she will be able to be an apprentice in a summer stock theater. We'll all be sorry to see Kay go but wish her all the luck in the world . . . A thought to leave our puzzled juniors with . . . The chemise is going out but which way is the hula-hoop going?—Janet Lawry, reporter

z z z

Almost all of Homeroom 76 have been devoting their time to their hour-long book reports. Sharon Guy spent most of the past week end working on "Quo Vadis" . . . Several members are planning visits to various colleges and universities . . . Dianne Reiff has been on the campus of DePauw and Purdue University . . . She spent a week end at DePauw. At Purdue she saw the Purdue-Michigan State football game and toured the grounds . . . Cheryl Habecker saw the New York City Ballet perform at the Purdue University Hall of Music. She watched part of the rehearsal. She had the privilege of meeting Una Kai, the youngest principal dancer, and Janet Reed, the ballet mistress . . . Our homeroom would advise anyone who has the chance to see "South Pacific" to go. The photography is marvelous, and along with the music and excellent acting, it makes the best show of the year. We all agree it is well worth saving up your month's allowance for.—Cheryl Habecker, reporter

Homeroom 110's officers, Phil Jones, Dave Hickman, and Marsha Klaehn, met with Mr. Weicker to decide on the homeroom programs for this semester . . . To prepare for these programs, everyone wrote down what he hoped to do, or the profession he was preparing for. These were put into catagories, and each profession will be discussed for several days during homeroom periods. The discussions will center on subjects to be taken in high school and college, information on various colleges, and all things concerned with the preparation for these many professions . . . We're proud to say that Homeroom 110 has 100 per cent for the Times! . . . Contrary to most of us, Mr. Weicker spent most of his summer at school working on a new Indiana history textbook. He is co-author of the book which will be published in the fall. Besides this, he built a new house. Really busy summer, Mr. Weicker! . . . Did you hear about our newest television star? Kathy Lee is going to be on TV for the American Red Cross during October or November. Watch for the lady on the operating table who is getting a blood transfusion. That's our girl!—Janet Lawry, reporter

Privileges Carry Tasks; Little Red Hood Learns

Once upon a time there was a girl named Little Red Riding Hood. She liked to hang out in a nifty snack shack called Miller's and eat raspberry ripple ice cream cones.

One evening her Old Man called to her and said, "Your mother wants you to take a box of turtles to your grandmother's house after the game."

Little Red said, "Can I stop off at Miller's on the way home, daddy dear?"

"Okay, but be home by 11 o'clock, darling daughter," said her father.

So this quick chick went to the game and grandmaw's, then she went in for a raspberry ripple. Little Red was a sweet kid, but there was this Big Bad Wolf and his crowd hanging out in the snack shack with Little Redalong. They all got together and went to Cinderella's and made popcorn.

Little Red came in at 12:45 a.m. in the Big Bad Wolf's pink convertable, and the Old Man hit the roof.

"What do you mean by staying out this late, you Little Hood. You worried your mother sick! After this," bellowed the Old man, "you've got to come straight home from every game!"

"But daddy dear, the after-game dances, and the parties, and the . . . "

Now every time Little Red gets a privilege she has to work for it. She has to do her homework early if she wants to mess around after supper, she has to bring her dues if she wants to be a member of Meterites, she has to turn on the TV if she wants to watch it, she has to be friendly if she wants friends, and she has to salt her popcorn if she wants it salty. If Little Red wants to keep all her rights as an American, she has to do her duties as a citizen. This could go on forever, and it does.

There are a lot of people who don't salt their own popcorn; and they may get away with it for a long, long time, but someday it will catch up with them. If enough people neglect to salt their popcorn, it just won't be salty.

Thanksgiving Assembly To Be Next Wednesday

"Our American Dream" Is Theme; Concert Choir To Sing Two Numbers

The annual Thanksgiving Assembly will be presented in the gymnasium of South Side High School next Wednesday morning at 8:20 a.m. Parents of South Side students and alumni who wish to attend may do so.

Miss Lucy Osborne, Mr. William Applegate, Mr. Jack Morey, and Mr. Marvin Knigge are the 36 Workshop sponsors who have been working on the assembly, which is entitled "Our American Dream."

THE CONCERT CHOIR, under the direction of Mr. Lester Hostetler, will help support this theme. The choir will sing "One World" and "Come Ye Thankful People, Come."

Judy Thompson, the general chairman of the assembly, has been working with the sponsors and the presentation committee, headed by Janet Hicks and Sylvia Ehrman, in selecting the cast for the event.

Lois Levine and Tom Ogles are the stagecraft co-chairmen.

Mrs. Grace Welty has been assisting Barb Frederick and Carol Miller in selecting the costumes for the Roman pilgrims in the assembly. Mrs. Welty's Latin 5 class is also helping.

# #

ROMAN, CANTERBURY, and American pilgrims will be seen in the assembly, along with several famous early Americans. The latter part of the assembly will relate "Our American Dream" to modern times.

"This year's Thanksgiving Assembly," state Mr. William Applegate, "will be bigger and better, and very impressive and inspiring."

Academy To See 'Man In Space'

"Students who are interested in viewing a film on space flight are invited to be guests of the Jr. Academy of Science," stated Mr. Don Weaver, sponsor of the Academy. "This film will be shown tonight in Room 76."

The film, "Man in Space," is an Air Force release on the problems of space flight. It begins with a history of rockets from their invention by the Chinese to the present, telling of some of the ideas and developments in the field. Then the human problems are described in a discussion of space medicine.

Dr. Werner von Braun, the foremost rocket expert in the United States, explains how our own space program will develop. The showing of how a manned rocket will be sent up with the audience riding in the cockpit with the pilot from the take off to the landing will comprise the climax.

Pep Sessions Start For Hoosier Hysteria

Tomorrow marks the first pep session starting the new basketball season.

Coach Don Reichert will introduce the varsity, reserve, and freshman basketball teams to the student body. He will also give a short talk.

Janis Mitchell and Barbara Wallace are in charge of organizing the cheers for the session.

USA Brings Food For Needy Families

The members of the USA Club brought food for needy families to their meeting in the Greeley Room Thursday at 3:30 p.m.

The food was put into baskets and delivered to the families for Thanksgiving.

A Thunksgiving party was held for the members of the club.

Seniors To Host Parents, Teachers At Informal Reception December 4

Seniors will have the opportunity to entertain their parents and teachers at an informal reception, which will serve as a "thank-you" party for the parents and teachers on Thursday, December 4, from 8 to 9:30 p.m. in Room 14 and the cafeteria.

Members of the class of 1959 and the advisers, Miss Mary Graham and Mr. Jake McClure, will serve as hosts for the affair entertaining their guests, who will include parents of all 12B's and 12A's and all South Side teachers and school officials.

APPROXIMATELY 1,200 people are invited to the come - and - go - as-you-please reception, which will consist of music, refreshments, and conversation.

Committees have been announced by the class officers and advisers. Linda Wightman is chairman of the invitations committee with Lonnie Kimble, Diane Decker, Marijo Edwards, and Phyllis Springer assisting her. These people counted, packaged, and distributed invitations which were addressed by seniors to their parents in homeroom on November 12.

The committee is now checking addresses, stamping, and preparing the invitations for mailing to parents of the seniors just before Thanksgiving.

The members of the name tags committee have counted, packaged, and prepared name tags for distribution to the homerooms where seniors made name tags for their parents and themselves on November 12. Janis Mitchell is chairman of the committee, and Patti Arnold, Pam Havlin, Barbara Ronan, Ruth Dill ,and Sue Brenn are helping her.

Other committee chairmen are Diane Reiff, decorations; Margo Martindale, serving; John Meyerholz, John Shannahan, and Dave Dunstone, dishwashing; Sara Lou Miller, refreshments; Barbara Miser and Mickey McLead, music; and Stan Hoover, checkroom.

ON NOVEMBER 12 seniors chosen by the class officers to represent each senior homeroom explained the purposes and procedures of the Senior Reception to their homerooms. Those who performed this task were Bill Meyer, Room 74; Tom Bolyard, Room 36; Sharon Ruhl, Room 76; John Hendricksen, Room 6.

Kay Augspurper, Room 22; Dave Dunstone, Room 32; Jerry George, Room 26; Janet Hicks, Room 4; Carol Lockwood, Room 54; Janis Mitchell, Room 176; Mary Sue Robertson, Room 186; Judy Thompson, Room 140; Bob Mann and Hoy McConnell, Room 190; and Steve Tracey, Room 174.

Committee Selects NHS December 15; 125 Seniors Eligible

From 125 seniors, 81 girls and 44 boys, eligible for National Honor Society having averages in the upper third of the class, not more than 55 will be chosen as members of NHS. This year members of NHS of the class of 1959 are being elected during the first semester. The list of eligibility will be returned November 26, and the committee meeting will be December 15.

Mr. Jack Weicker was elected chairman of the NHS committee at their meeting last Thursday. Those on the committee include Mrs. Robert Gernand, Mrs. Mildred Luse, Mr. Jack Morey, and Mr. Ernest Walker.

Recommendation cards have been placed in the boxes of the teachers who are to fill them out on the students they think should become members of NHS. There are also non-recommendation cards to be filled out by the teachers if there is someone on the list they think should not be.

Two New Machines Added To Reading Laboratory

SPEEDING UP EYES, BRAIN—Members of Mrs. Spray's developmental reading classes are learning to read more rapidly with increased comprehension. Top: The movie screen produces a wider spectrum to read from. The purpose of the screen is to help the reader develop reading by phrases instead of single words. Bottom: Students look into machines which produce spotlighted lines which are used to develop more rapid reading. The lines come into view at various set speeds. (Pictures by DeHaven)

Two new machines, the Tachistoscope and the Reading Controller, have been added to the Developmental Reading Laboratory this semester.

To sharpen the student's focus and enable him to see reading material more accurately and rapidly is the purpose of the Tachistoscope, which exposes a phrase or set of digits at different speeds up to 1/100th of a second.

Training for thorough, study-type reading, the Reading Controller encourages concentration and restrains eye muscles to move rapidly from left to right across the page.

THE READING Controller projects on a screen a sliding lighted slot exposing a controlled number of words at one time and moving from left to right across a line of print at any predetermined speed from 150 to 1,000 words per minute. Students read at progressively more rapid rates throughout the semester.

For light reading material and getting only key ideas, the 12 accelerators added to the reading lab last year are used.

"Average students at least double their reading speed while retaining comprehension if they apply the techniques and use the equipment offered in the Developmental Reading course," informed Mrs. Evlyn Spray, teacher of the course.

Without training, the average high school junior or senior reads 260 words per minute. To be successful in most university courses, one should read 500 words per minute or more for thorough study purposes.

VOCABULARY is increased by classroom study which includes drills and weekly quizzes on new words, prefixes or suffixes. A list of 292 commonly used but unfamiliar words has been compiled for the students for drilling purposes.

A set of flash cards containing 1,000 words with their definitions, pronunciations, and uses in sentences have been purchased by most of the students for further vocabulary study.

Material from five different text books is used for practice reading and vocabulary improvement and 250 books are available in class for free practice and use at the accelerators.

"Many students," added Mrs. Spray, "aim this term to read eight books above the requirements for English classes."

One thousand books, with a short statement about each concerning its subject and scope, are classified by both countries and subject matter in a guide book which may be purchased through the reading class.

Totem Staff Working Hard After Making 1,647 Sales

Exactly 892 Totems have been paid in full, and 755 have been partially paid for, making a total sale of 1,647 Totems. This is the first time in several years that more complete than partial payments have been made this early in the semester.

Since more than enough Totem subscriptions have been sold to insure publication, Co-Editors Beverly Stanton and Alice Weddle have announced the general theme for the yearbook and have their staff started working.

So far 397 underclass pictures and about 320 senior pictures have been paid for. They have announced that the class polls will be taken sometime in the next two weeks.

"A schedule has been made out for the club activity pictures, and the pictures are being taken every day," said Margo Martindale and Martha Milnor, event co-editors. They intend to have all the club pictures in by December 17.

# #

MUSIC EDITOR Mary Sue Robertson, faculty editor Phyllis Springer, girls' sports editor Janice Leist, boys' sports editor John Hendricksen (who has replaced Stan Rupnow), and intramural editor Stan Hoover have been working on their layouts.

Head photographers Mike Gilsdorf and John Hendricksen report that over 150 pictures have been taken and that the pictures for the division pages have been arranged.

Vallory Eckrote and Carol Bass, layout editors, have the first three pages completed and will work as the copy comes in.

Joan Littlejohn, publicity editor, has just about completed her job but will still have to see that the incoming freshmen know about The Totem.

Junior Red Cross Give Vaudville Show

A Vaudeville Talent Show was presented to the patients of Fort Wayne State School yesterday at 7:30 p.m. Members of the club participated in some act or skit.

Diane Kimble played the role of master of ceremonies; the talent show lasted approximately one hour. Several members also took part in humorous commercials between the acts.

Susie Hoard, club president, said, "Our purpose was not to present a wide range of talent, but rather to entertain someone not as fortunate as we are; and I know they enjoyed our show. This pleased all of us."

Paul Says:

The cost of everything has gone up, but happiness, smiles, and kind words are as cheap as ever.

Pupils, Teachers Give Thanks For Good Work By Both

Mr. Storey's speech classes are beginning their second round of poetry readings. In period 1 the following people received high grades: Julie Carr, Susan Kurosky, Kate Rastetter, and Ann Witte. Joyce Brittenham, Marylyn Sexton, Chuck Jellison, and Sally Burton gave the best readings in the period 3 class. In period 6 outstanding readings were given by Dick Baxter, Richard Dailey, Gerri Geiler, Janet Lawry, Dick McGaw, Janet Terry, and JoAnn High.

In Mr. Storey's English 2 period 4 class high grades over a recent spelling test were scored by Tamara Beatty, Lynn Busche, Curtis Holley, and Steve Tharp.

Those students in Algebra 1 period 2 who received high grades over a test given by Mr. Petty are Cindy Christman, Elizabeth Ellis, Sandra Hoakansen, Karin Rahden, Joy Walling, and Richard Waterfield. The same test was given to the period 4 class and Jacquelyn Berry, Michele Coleman, Elaine Edwards, Mary Frederick, Richard Klaehn, Frank Lewis, Richard Vaughn, and Douglas Woodside scored high.

In Mr. Petty's Algebra 1 period 3 high grades on a recent test were received by Sally Bash, Jerry Blessing, Janet Christman, Sally Franklin, Ann Harclerode, Martha Lanning, James Phillips, DeWayne Trim, and William Wilder.

John Chenoweth, Lee Jackson, Ward Miller, and Art Wilson scored high over a recent Geometry 2 test given by Mr. Petty to the period II class.

Dave Cunningham of Mr. Arnold's United States History 2 period 7 class made a map of "The Venezuelan Boundary Dispute of 1897." Richard Hutchinson of the period 4 class depicted by map an illustration showing the Indian affairs between 1790 and 1795, in the Northwest Territory.

Debby Brooke and Susan Haas received A's on a literature test given by Mrs. Emshwiller in English 1 period 7 class.

Outstanding themes written in Mrs. Emshwiller's English 1 period 7 class were handed in by the following: Mary Keegan, Susan Haas, and Sarah Finch. Linda Chaney handed in the best theme in the English 1 period 2 class and Nadine Hobbs and Larry Myers wrote the best themes in English 1 period 7. In the English 1 period 4 class the best themes handed in were by Judy Blombach, Bill Branstrator, and Barbara Cleary.

On a recent test over the use of the library, the following students in Miss Schaeffer's Citizenship 1 and II classes scored high: Judy Arnold, Karen Swygart, and Richard Vaughan, period 6 Citizenship 1; Tamara Beatty, Don Nobles, and Sandra Thorn, period 1 Citizenship 2; Elaine Baxter and Richard Koch, Citizenship 2 period 3; and Gary Gibson, Sharon Wickliffe, and Susan Zollars, Citizenship 2 period 7.

with a good chimney and fireplace, and all were to be conveniently arranged in streets. The commanding general himself occupied a log cabin during the winter, as he had publicly promised the troops that he would "himself share in the hardships, and partake of every inconvenience."

BUT THEN CAME the starving time! The country around about was supporting two armies, in addition to its ordinary population, and the States were backward in sending supplies. At one time a part of the army went without meat of any kind for a week; those who were most favored were without it for three or four days, and the whole army was so short of clothing that large numbers of the men had not enough covering for decency, to say nothing of comfort.

There was a time in January, 1778, when the surgeons reported three thousand and nineteen men on the sick list, out of a total nominal force of eleven thousand. The British at Philadelphia, twenty miles away, were living in luxury.

Washington never exhibited his eminent qualities in a more striking light than he did during the winter at Valley Forge. He was then wholly the great man. The patient endurance of the men was due in great part to his presence, to his manifest sympathy with them and his known activity on their behalf. The measures which ended the famine, and brought in abundant supplies of clothing and food, were directly due to his foresight and energy.

Later in the winter when the men had recovered their health and spirits he sent for Mrs. Washington, and then for the first time he allowed himself the luxury of an extra cabin for his dining-room. Mrs. Washington herself reports that the cabin in which they slept was very small and that things were greatly mended when the new room was added.

AT LAST, the great and glorious news announcing that the infant republic had found a powerful friend in Europe reached the camp, reached Congress, and filled the whole land with joy. General Washington received the news about the second of May, and on the sixth he published the following proclamation:

"It having pleased the Almighty Ruler of the Universe to defend the cause of the United American States, and finally to raise us up a powerful friend among the princes of the earth, to establish our liberty and independency upon a lasting foundation, it becomes us to set apart a day for gratefully acknowledging the Divine Goodness, and celebrating the important event which we owe to his Divine Interposition.

"The several brigades are to be assembled for this purpose at nine o'clock tomorrow morning, when their chaplains will communicate the intelligence contained in the postscript of the Pennsylvania Gazette of the second instant, and offer up Thanksgiving, and deliver a discourse suitable to the occasion.

"At half-past ten o'clock a cannon will be fired, which is to be a signal for the men to be under arms; the brigade inspectors will then inspect their dress and arms, and form the battalions according to the instructions given them, and announce to the commanding officers of the brigade that the battalions are formed.

"THE COMMANDERS of brigades will then appoint field officers to the battalions, after which each battalion will be ordered to hold and ground their arms. At half-past eleven a second cannon will be fired as a signal for the march, upon which the several brigades will begin march by wheeling to the right of platoons, and proceed by the nearest way to the left of their ground by the new position; this will be pointed out by the brigade inspectors.

"A third signal will then be given, on which there will be a discharge of thirteen cannon, after which a running fire of the infantry will begin on the right of Woodford's, and will continue throughout the front line; it will then be taken up on the left of the second line, and continue to the right. Upon a signal given, the whole army will huzza:

" 'Long live the King of France!'

"The artillery then begins, and fires thirteen rounds; this will be succeeded by a second general discharge of the musketry in a running fire, and huzza:

" 'Long live the friendly European Powers!'

"This last discharge of thirteen pieces of artillery will be given, followed by a general running fire, and huzza:

" 'The American States!' "

THIS PROGRAM was executed with precision, and the effect was brilliant and picturesque in the extreme. A bright May sun was shining overhead, new colors were flying and many of the soldiers were attired in new uniforms. Lafayette and other French officers were present. Lord Stirling and General Green, with their staff officers, took part in the celebration, and ladies surrounded Mrs. Washington, and viewed the spectacle.

In the afternoon General Washington invited the officers and guests to a banquet, which was greatly celebrated at the time. An eye witness reports to a newspaper that the officers marched to the amphitheater thirteen abreast, and arm in arm.

Mrs. Washington, Mrs. Green, Lady Stirling and her daughter, with many ladies of the neighborhood, graced the scene. Lafayette was in the highest spirits, and triumphant joy shone in every countenance.

All over the land, as the news traveled from State to State and town to town, similar scenes of Thanksgiving and festivity were repeated.—From the Youth's Companion

Pegeen Horth, Bobbi Jo Crosby, Babette Jones To Appear With Fort Wayne Ballet Company

Three South Siders, Pegeen Horth, Bobbi Jo Crosby, and Babette Jones have become so accomplished in the art o fballet that they will appear in the premier performance of the Fort Wayne Ballet Company November 22 at the Civic Theater.

In this production of the '58-'59 season, Bobbi Jo Crosby will be a soloist in two of the four ballets, "Les Sylphides" and "Exploration." Pegeen Horth will perform in "Les Sylphides" and "Ancient Airs and Tunes." Babette will be featured in "Opus O" where she will present a hula hoop ballet.

The Fort Wayne Ballet Company, the organization that presents the ballet productions, is the youngest member of the Fine Arts Foundation. The company is a non-profit organization; one of its main aims is to stimulate interest in the art of ballet and other forms of the dance.

John Neff, a gifted and experienced performer, is the director of the company.

In addition to the opening production November 22, a second and third production will be presented January 31 and April 4 respectively. The Jean-Leon Destine Haitian Folklorique Dance Group will be presented in the second, and the Fort Wayne Ballet Company will perform in the last.

IN BALLET SATURDAY—Appearing this Saturday evening at the Civic Playhouse, Archer members of the Fort Wayne Ballet Company are left to right, Pegeen Horth, Bobbe Jo Crosby, and Babette Jones. The four ballets in which they will be appearing are Exploration, Les Sylphides, Ancient Airs and Tunes, and Opus O.

Junior Red Cross To Have Potluck

Instead of the regular meeting of Junior Red Cross, December 3, a potluck will be held in the Greeley Room at 5:30 p.m. Members may either bring a dish of food or pay 25 cents. They may sign up for various dishes in Room 12.

The entertainment for this potluck will be carried out by the new members. Elections will be held, the voting being by secret ballot.

Selim Dere To Speak At Meterite Meeting

Meterites' December 2 meeting will be highlighted by a talk from Selim Dere of Mardin, Turkey. He will speak on his experiences while living in Turkey, after which there will be a short question and answer period.

"Icicle Ball" is the outlying theme for the first after-game dance sponsored by Meterites on December 5 following the New Haven basketball game.

The decorations are being taken care of by Sharron Carrol, chairman, and Evilou North. Assisting Marie Rohn, chairman of the ticket committee, are Jody Reiff, Diane Irmscher, and Elaine Edwards. Peggy Floyd is in charge of programs, Sandy Thorn is in charge of the Hi-Fi, and Sandy Miller is in charge of the chaperones. Assisting Ann Erickson, chairman of the cloakroom detail, are Sue Horth, Susan Philips, Linda Silverman, Sharon Carrol, and Mimi Hinman.

Wranglers To Have Speech Meet Monday

"An inexperienced speech meet will be the program of the meeting of Wranglers next Monday at 3:30 p.m. in the Greeley Room," announced Patti Arnold, president.

The contest will have four divisions: humorous declamation, dramatic declamation, poetry, and radio. The Wranglers who enter the radio division read ads, news, and commentaries. It is primarily to accustom the new members to giving speeches in front of a group.

Designer's Associated To Work On Projects

The November 26 meeting of Designers' Associated will consist of a short business discussion. Some members of the club will discuss their projects with the officers; the rest will work on their drawings during this time.

A report will be given by one of the officers on the results of the trip made by the club to Baer Field. All members of the club participated in this tour. Tom Cooper, secretary-treasurer, remarked, "The officers are very pleased with the club as a whole, and we were also very happy to see so many join this club."

Vesta Club Plans Orphanage Party

At the meeting of the Vesta Club next Wednesday at 3:30 p.m. in Room 75, the program will consist of a short business meeting and the doll drive for the Fort Wayne Orphanage. Every two members of the club will be responsible for one doll and between them they will have to make a dress for this doll. When the members distribute the dolls at the Fort Wayne Orphanage, they will have a party for the children.

Members of the club enjoyed the demonstration of charm given by Bobbi Ray of the Bobbi Ray Charm School on November 5.

Vesta now has 80 new members which brings the total membership to 117.

Service Men Talk To Hi-Y Members

Members from the Air Force, the Army, and the Navy spoke on their service at the Hi-Y meeting Monday night. Each spoke about the advantages, requirements, and plans of their particular branch.

The final splash and dance party plans were reported. It was decided that this event will be scheduled later this year.

2 Archers To Appear On TV Elektra Club

Crissie Ferguson and Sharon Ruhl will appear on the Elektra Club next Sunday night. The program will be on WANE-TV at 5:30 p.m.

Sharon Ruhl will be a member of the panel and Crissie will represent South Side as reporter.

"Is TV too commercialized and can the medium be used for more educational purposes?" will be the discussion question.

Language Courses In Archerland Simulate Tour Around World; French, Spanish, Latin, English Teachers Outline Goals Of Study

By Janet Terry

"All aboard for Paris, France; Madrid, Spain; and Rome, Italy; returning to New York City, United States," we hear the conductor call, echoing our hopes and dreams of a once-in-a-lifetime trip.

Though many of us will never have the opportunity to take such a trip, we may reap many of the advantages of one through studying the languages of the people. The South Side language department offers us such an opportunity.

The first stop on our imaginary trip is Paris, France, in reality the French department of South Side. Miss Olive Perkins, French teacher, outlines the goals of the study of French as follows:

1. To acquire skill in reading, writing and understanding French when it is heard.
2. To acquire a moderate ability to converse in French.
3. To acquire a pronunciation that is good enough not to shock a Frenchman.
4. To acquire an understanding and appreciation of the French people and their culture.

Two years of French are offered at South Side, during which time the French teachers try to give the students "an understanding of the French people, an appreciation of France's contribution to world culture, and an awareness of the close relationship of the French and English languages."

On to colorful Madrid, Spain, better known as South Side's Spanish department. A student is required to study two years of Spanish, if he chooses to take the course. Mrs. Myrtle Grimshaw, Spanish teacher, states that "a thorough knowledge of grammar is insisted upon as a means of getting the student beyond kindergarten level in both speech and reading."

Mrs. Grimshow remarks that the goals of the department are:

1. To give the student a living language (listening, speaking, writing) of simple but gramatical Spanish.
2. To give him a reading ability far beyond his elementary speech level.
3. To give him a thorough knowledge of grammar, which will permit further study and promote further fluency.
4. To give him an understanding of problems and heritage of Spanish speaking peoples.
5. To teach him the value of precision in all fields of work.

The train of our dreams next takes us to Rome, Italy, or a Latin classroom, where we view the ancient splendors of the old Roman civilization. South Side is one of 26 schools in Indiana to offer a four-year Latin course. Two years are required to receive any credit, which, as Mr. Earl Sterner, Latin teacher, says, "assures us that the student knows the basic facts of the language before getting credit."

Miss Mary Reiff, Latin teacher, believes that one of the goals of the Latin department is to teach Latin as an individual language and not as a by-product. Mr. Sterner also states that other goals of this department are to help the students apply what they learn not only for the present but all their lives, and "to make them better citizens as a result of this study."

All three of these languages offer basic values to the student's personal life, to the student as a citizen of his country, and to him in the study of other subjects.

The teachers in each language remarked that the student gains personally from learning new vocabulary, since many of our English words are borrowed from other languages; the study of languages widens his interests, aids in analysis of people, and gives the student the satisfaction of a job well done.

The study of languages teaches a person to be an alert thinker, which will aid him as a citizen of America. As we study what made other civilizations rise and fall, we can better our own.

The language teachers also stated that by taking other languages students are helped in other subjects because they learn to organize, be accurate, and they experience mental discipline.

The most important advantage of studying a foreign language, however, is that it helps us understand people of other lands. Students learn why other people believe and act as they do.

But, alas, our trip abroad is over, and we return to New York City with all its array of lights and people. This, of course, is the English department at South Side.

Our own language, however, also requires extensive study, and through this study we obtain many benefits.

Everyone at South Side is required to take three years of English, and those on the college course take four. The department attempts to provide a balanced program of literature, composition, and grammar. To pass an English course one must receive a passing grade on the minimum essentials test in grammar at the end of each semester. "This testing program is not designed to fail students but rather to help them succeed in future English classes at South Side and in college or business, where a thorough knowledge of English is required," states Mr. Charles Billiard, head of the English department.

When asked what he believes are the values of the study of English to a student's life, Mr. Billiard stated, "Although many of the values of the study of English are postponed values to be drawn upon as from an inexhaustable savings account all the rest of a person's life, there are some values from which the student can draw immediate dividends. Perhaps one of the primary concerns of a teenager is the wish to be regarded as a mature person, capable of making grown-up decisions and assuming important responsibilities.

"The thoughtful study of literature can be of great help to the student in understanding his personal problems; clarifying his relations with his fellow students, parents, and teachers; and comprehending the adult world. Furthermore, the study of literature can help him set worthwhile goals for his present high school life. In short, the study of literature can help a student become a more mature person.

"To be specific, one mark of maturity is the ability to use one's leisure time in a profitable and judicious way. One of the most profitable investments of leisure time is the reading of good books, which may open up career opportunities, give insight into personal problems, and inspire the worthwhile use of one's life.

"As to the value of English to his future life, the student, by reading some of the best thoughts of the best minds of all times, and by writing about these ideas, should become a better human being. In addition to the human value, one's vocational competence will be determined in a great measure by his command of English. The farther up the ladder of success he climbs the greater will he find the need for speaking and writing effectively."

Closely connected with English is speech. Through speech one acquires poise, confidence, and the ability to express himself fluently. A full year of speech is offered at South Side.

The train trip is over. However, as each student glances back upon it, he is conscious of the fact that he has gained a better understanding of people in other lands. We hear one student remark as he leaves the train, "Our hope for future peace can only be gained through more trips like this one!"

Karen Brumm Play Presented By Philo

"Thank You Sally," a Thanksgiving skit written by Karen Brumm, was the program for the Philo meeting Monday. It was the story of an average girl who wished to be a member of the group of rich girls, but who learns that the girls of a poorer group are truer friends.

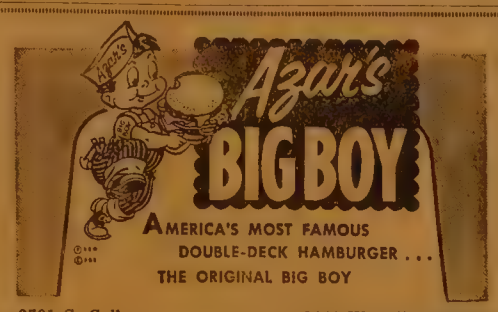
Sally Scott was played by Lonnie Kimble, her sister Elaine by Linda Wightman. The maid, Jane, was portrayed by Sara Lou Miller.

The roles of Claudia, Roberta, and Joan Williams were played by Cheryl Habecker, Judy Riping, and Carol Oxenrider. Diane Decker enacted the role of Diane Mead.

"Something Wonderful" was sung by Judy Rumple as the talent for the meeting. She was accompanied by Sharon Schlamersdorf.

Leisure Electric Home Offers Film To Girls

"Careers in Home Economics" is the title of the film which will be shown to junior and senior girls who wish to attend Monday, December 1, at 7 p.m. at the Leisure Electric Home, 122 East Wayne Street.



Junior and senior girls wanting to attend must contact Miss Rehorst, Miss Leif, Mrs. Gernand or Miss Mellen before November 25.

Archers To Start Season Against Bluffton

Kellys Favored To Win Game Friday Night

Tilt At Tigers' Gym; Starters Undecided, Forward Slots Contested

The state champion South Side Archers will open their defense of the championship crown tomorrow night, facing Bluffton's Tigers, victors in their opener over Hartford City, 63-51, last Friday. The game will be held in Bluffton's gym, and is scheduled to begin at 8 p.m. with the reserve game starting at 6:30 p.m.

South Side enters the game heavily favored to win their season's opener. With Tom Bolyard, the only starter returning, still holding a cast on his broken left hand, the Archers are at a disadvantage. Coach Don Reichert is still undecided as to his starting lineup upon which Bolyard at center is the only sure member.

z z z

THE STARTING forward slots are being highly contested. Nick Demetre, a six-foot junior, may be used at either a forward or a guard post. Reichert also has Hoy McConnell, Ken Howe, and some other promising juniors available for duty.

The guard posts seem wide open. Mike Simmons and Ted Lebrecht, both senior returnees from last year's tournament 12, are first in line. But they are hounded closely by Jerry George, Gary Gardner, and newcomer Jim Saylor. Coach Reichert is going to have quite a time picking two starters from this group.

z z z

BLUFFTON IS definitely in a rebuilding year as they lost seven seniors via graduation. Coach Virg Kirkpatrick returns from a fine year during which he guided the Tigers to a 20-7 record.

Mike Milholland, a sophomore sensation last year, returns as the leading prospect. Milholland is a 6-5 junior forward. Returning are Ted Collins, a junior guard, and Bob Stuck, a senior center. Kirkpatrick plans to rebuild with a promising group of sophomores and juniors, and hopes they will develop as the season progresses.

Basketball's Coming

Center Of State May Produce Champ Team

Indianapolis Area Offers Many Top Contenders On Hardwood Courts

(Editor's Note: This is the second in a series of articles looking ahead to the upcoming basketball season in Indiana. The series, is it hoped, will canvass the state and give a bird's eye view of what to expect in '58-'59.)

By Jim Carter

Watch the Indianapolis area! This semi sector might well produce State championship basketball squad. This is not unusual, for this section of the state has produced many of the top teams in Indiana hardwood history.

The area's last member of the fearsome foursome, Muncie Central, is the top pre-favorite. The Bearcats, always a threat in Indiana cage circles, surprised many observers by forging their way to the 1957 State Finals. In Butler Fieldhouse, a very familiar spot to Muncie fans, they were eventually stopped by Crawfordsville. The Bearcats are estimated to be extremely tough again this year, bringing back most of last year's team, including one of the state's most promising centers, 6-5 Ron Bonham, and Dave Hofheinz.

In the Capital City itself, Arsenal Technical High School has drown widespread attention. The Big Green of Tech features several returning lettermen, including 6-7 center Indulis Buchmanns. The overall squad height is also good, with Jim Spaulding at 6-5, John Miller at 6-3, and several other boys over the six-foot mark. William Sams and Mel Garland are top guard prospects.

Scecina and the perennial state power, Crispus Attucks, are also anticipating stellar squads. Both have several returnees from the 1957 teams. The Flying Tigers of Attucks, last year's Sectional champs, will feature the younger brothers of several former stars, bearing such familiar names as Benson and Robertson.

z z z

THE BLUE DEVILS of Shortridge, who bowed to the Archers in defeat last year by a mere seven points, are also contenders to watch. Rated one of the top fives in the state last year, they should be back again in 1958.

Howe, under new coach Jim Stutz, has seven lettermen returning, and hopes to improve on last year's showing. Dave Konold, a senior who is playing his first year of varsity competition for the Hornets, is the only particularly tall man on the squad, standing 6-5. However, all seven returnees average around six feet, including guards. Several standouts in 1957 were Max Woodbury, John Wimmer, and Dave Miller.

The 1958 edition of the Broad Ripple Rockets is largely an "if" team. There is an abundance of underclass talent to back up center Donn Baird in the persons of Jack Keller, Bob Moon, and John Hedberg. There are many doubtful factors this season, the greatest being a lack of experience and proven ballplayers.

Indianapolis Cathedral is rebuilding this year, featuring a completely new team. There are two forwards returning from last year's squad, which compiled a 13-4 record. They are Dave Armstrong and Lew Queisser. The responsibility at the center position is resting on the shoulders of a 6-4 sophomore, Walt Sahn.

z z z

THE WOODCHUCKS of Wood High School lost all of their regulars last year, but they still have the services of five substitutes from that season. There will be a notable lack of height, since Robert Pate is the tallest returnee, at 6-2.

Another "out-of-town" team which really appears to be loaded is Southport. The Cardinals feature no less than nine veterans with varsity experience. Three is a surplus of height and talent this season, as Blackie Braden's boys are deep at every position. Leland Richards, the varsity center, stands 6-4, and he is backed up by underclassmen Dave Easley, 6-6, and Dick Brown, 6-5. Kenny Miller, a forward, is 6-3, and two other front liners, Morris Epler and Bill Hunter, are 6-2.

z z z

THE BULLDOGS of Columbus lost most of last season's team, and they must depend on several young boys. Veterans Gordin Blancett and Keith Hacker will be valuable returnees, however.

Anderson's Indians will offer their usual fine squad this year, with seven returning senior lettermen. Although this year's team is small in stature, former standouts John Teague, Richard Patterson, and May Benson will be counted on quite heavily by Coach Jack Osborne.

Indianapolis Ben Davis, who surprised many basketball enthusiasts by recording 22 wins in 25 tries last season, will floor another team that could cause trouble in the Naptown area. Three starters, all towering over six feet, are back, along with four other lettermen. Their tallest boy only stands 6-3½, but he is joined by three other 6-3 lads. Coach Marion E. Fine expects great things for his new, but experienced, squad.

Dee Compton's Golden Bears from Shelbyville will have one of the shortest squads that this small school has presented in several years. He has some experience with six returnees and could develop into a darkhorse.

Madison's Cubs, a perennial spoiler in the Indianapolis area, should be back to their old tricks again. Five lads are returning; one is 6-4 forward Harold "Buster" Briley. The team averages slightly over the six-foot mark. Among new prospects will be a 6-4 junior, Tony Bright, who will share pivot tasks with 6-4 Nate Perry.

Dads' Club Gives Banquet To Archer Grid Team

Showing their interest and appreciation of the Archers' football team, the Dads' Club of South Side held a splendid banquet for the football squad at Hall's Guest House Restaurant on November 11.

It was certainly an enjoyable and memorable occasion for all those who attended. Two-inch thick strip steaks were served along with a huge baked potato, two salads, and a generous piece of apple crisp.

If such a thing was possible, the guest speakers were even better than the food. Ora Davis, Wayne Scott, Bob Gernand, and Ray Smith gave short talks on various topics concerning football. Dr. Gerald Somers was the very capable master of ceremonies, and he had the pleasure of introducing the featured guest speaker, Dike Eddleman.

z z z

MR. EDDLEMAN played professional football for the Chicago Bears, professional basketball for the Fort Wayne Pistons, and he was a high jumper on the United States Olympic team. In his years at Illinois, he became the only man to earn 11 varsity letters.

Mr. Eddleman, who now works for Central Soya, related parts of his various experiences as an athlete before the group of 110 men and boys. Many of the points he made dealt with the spirit and determination that an athlete should possess.

The dining room was attractively decorated with green and white goal posts on each table and a huge set of goal posts at the entrance.

Mrs. Gerald Somers and Mrs. Edward Johnson were in charge of decorations. Mr. Edward Johnson was in charge of the banquet arrangements.

Reserves To Play 18 Basketball Teams

South Side's reserve basketball team has a schedule of 18 games for the 1958-59 season. They will play immediately before every varsity game except the Muncie Tourney. The schedule is as follows:

Date	Opponent	Place
Nov. 21	Bluffton	there
26	Southport	there
29	Concordia	here
Dec. 3	New Haven	here
6	Huntington	here

Staff Acknowledges Mistakes In Articles

Sports writers are only human, so it was called to the attention of the South Side Times sports staff that in the information about one of the frosh football stars we continually used a wrong first name.

Football articles handed Ken Leakey a wrong first name three times. They included Fred, Ted, and Ron, but we of the staff would like to correct the mistake by reminding you that it is Ken Leakey, who plays on the frosh squad.

Last week a resume of the 1958 cross country season informed the readers that the squad split even in 10 games. For your benefit, the team was 5-4 for the season not 5-5. The writer made an error in summarizing the season and this correction is being acknowledged.

Cards Have 9 Veterans, Plus Height

In their second game of the new season, South Side's State Champion Archers will engage the Cardinals of Southport. The contest will be held Wednesday night at Southport, which is located just south of Indianapolis.

Southport is a new addition to the Green and White's schedule this year, but their basketball reputation is well known throughout state cage circles. Coach "Blackie" Braden, who turns out consistently fine hardwood squads year after year, has a wealth of talent with which to work this season. There are nine veterans with varsity experience returning from a successful 1957 campaign. Height is no problem for the Cardinals this year, since the whole squad averages over six feet.

THE VARSITY CENTER, with three years' experience, is Leland Richards, who stands 6-4. He is backed up by two other giants, Dave Easley and Dick Brown. Dave is a senior, but this is his first year of varsity competition. He is 6-6 tall. Dick, at 6-5, is only a sophomore.

There is depth at every position, and forward is no exception. A returning senior with three years of competition behind him is Morris Epler, 6-2. Other fourth year forwards are Kenny Miller, 6-3, and Bill Hunter, 6-2. Two other promising prospects are Dick Wayman, a junior, and Wayne Howard, a sophomore. Each is 6-1.

z z z

EVEN THE GUARDS are tall at Southport this year. The leading returnee, with three years of previous experience, is Joe Beal. A very promising junior who has seen considerable varsity action, Bob Rosebrock, is also being counted upon heavily. Both of these boys are six-footers. Another pair of good guard prospects, each standing 6-10, is Mickey Owen, a senior, and Jack Reese, a junior. Three other junior guards, who have no varsity experience, however, are John Bruhn, Dan Worener, and John Albright. One additional new prospect is Larry Keene, a promising sophomore.

The Cardinals have a very formidable array of talent this season, and they should prove a serious challenge to the 1958-59 edition of the South Side Archers.

Kelly Defense Of City Title Starts Nov. 28

New Concordia Squad With Coach Mader Boasts More Speed

Don Reichert and Company will open the defense of their city basketball crown against the Concordia Cadets on Friday, November 28.

When these two teams met for the first time last year, the Archers managed to come out of the contest with a very shaky 56-54 win.

z z z

BEFORE LAST year's game, it did not seem that the Cadets were a very strong team. However, as last year's score indicates, the Cadets are a highly-spirited team and never to be considered too lightly.

Practically everything is new on the Concordia team this year. Not only will there be a new starting five, but there is a new basketball coach named Johnny Mader.

z z z

CONCORDIA HAS two boys, Paul Heine and Rowle Rohlfing who are 6-2 in height. Therefore, the Archers should be able to control the boards against Concordia; but the Archers will have to watch for fast breaks, because the Cadets boast much more speed than they had last year.

The Concordia players on the varsity squad are:

Paul Heine	6-2	C
Denny Koehlinger	6-0	G
Carl Dahling	6-1	F
Steve Hibler	5-10	G
Clancy Roembke	5-10	F
Mike Wilson	5-9½	G
Steve Hartman	6-0	F
John Dickmeyer	5-10	F
Jerry Widenhofer	5-8½	G
Rowle Rohlfing	6-2	C
Gary Novak	5-9	F
Bob Stockamp	5-9½	G
Del Dreyer	6-0	F

Mural Men

By Stan Rupnow

In basketball the Sassywhoppers defeated the Sombimafus, 30-18. Jim Allendorph took scoring honors with 11 points, while his teammate, Terrill Giese chipped in six. Jerry Stout and Dick Waikel each scored six for the losers.

The Porks defeated the Joan's Boys, 54-10. Dennis Payne scored 14 for the winners, while Jim Dumas and Bill Spindler chipped in 10 points. Steve Rothberg scored six points for the losers, while Bob Ross scored four.

The Makeouts defeated the Rockin-Robins on a forfeit. In a fill-in game the Makeouts won, 30-19. Dave Morrell scored eight for the winners, while Perry Schlie scored 12 for the losers.

The Aces defeated the 12:30 Floor Bugs in an overtime game, 30-29. Larry Christman scored the winning bucket in the overtime session to give him a total of 11 points. Emit Bowen chipped in seven points to the winning cause. Jon Heavin led the losers desperate attempt with 13 points, while Phil Jones chipped in six points.

In Night League, the Net Burners swamped the Mountain Boys, 45-19. Bill Berning led the winners with 18 points, while Bob Foltz chipped in seven points. Ken McMahon scored 11 points for the losers, while Gerig chipped in five.

The Clads defeated the Dewey's Dribblers, 10-10. Ray Hegerfeld led the winners with seven points, while teammates Hay and Timer chipped in four points. Terry Dibert scored three for the losers, while three other boys scored two.

The Stars defeated the Cane Shiners, 40-17. Doug Smith scored 14 points to lead the winners, while Ed Stock scored 13. Steve Tracey led the losers with seven points, while Tom Graham scored four.

In the first few handball games, Steve Longenberger and Max Van Fossen defeated Dave Cormany and Terry Stout, 15-7, 15-7. Ellis Line and Dave Lontz defeated Jim Vanderford and Dave Morrill, 14-16, 15-11, 15-11.

I would like to take a few lines to comment about the basketball games. The games this year seem to be more interesting and harder fought. There have been many overtime games and a few have ended with a one-point difference in the scores. Also, since so many boys have fifth period classes, Night League is much larger. It is held on oMnday and Thursday. Keep up the good work, boys, you sure make the games interesting.

Things to Remember

Sign up now for the handball singles tournaments. They will be December 6, 13, and 20. Following after basketball will be volleyball. Start thinking of some good teams.

Movies To Be Shown

Monday the three movies, "Principle Dimensions and Principle Scale Drawing," "Perspective Drawing," and "Selection of Dimensions," will be shown to Mr. Thomas Polite's drawing classes.

Miss Lucy Mellen's home economics classes will view "Dr. Spook," Tuesday. The health students will be shown "Admirals in Making," "Whenever You Eat," and "Daily Milk," Wednesday.

'New Look' Archers Look Forward To Victorious Campaign

Early Progress To Be Retarded By Tom's Hand

Road Schedule Weak, Will Compensate Injuries In Early Part Of Season

After losing four out of his five starters, Head Coach Don Reichert was faced with the extremely difficult task of rebuilding another team that could be as good a representation of South Side as his 1958 aggregation.

But with Tom Bolyard to build around, a good reserve squad to draw from, and help from two transfer students, Reichert has put together a team that should live up to many of the Archer fans' expectations. The 1959 edition may not repeat as state champions but they will by no means be pushovers as many people speculated at the end of the 1958 campaign.

TOM BOLYARD, who was sensational last year, is anticipating another good year assuming that his hand, which he fractured in practice, will not give him any trouble. Along with Bolyard, senior Bill Meyer, who saw some action last year, will be causing the opposition a fair share of headaches. Although having small hands, Meyer can jump well, and will be helpful around the boards.

Two new enrollees, Dave Roderick and Jim Saylors, also expect to fit into the Archer picture. Roderick, coming to South from Lakewood, O., played first string varsity as a sophomore. He will add some needed height to the roster, standing six feet, three inches.

Saylors, a quick little guard, will be fighting for one of the starting berths after playing ball at Onsted, near Deerfield, Mich., last year.

WITH BOLYARD OUT of action all starting berths seem quite indefinite. Roderick seems to have an inside track on 6-4 junior Dave Barrett to fill the center slot in the season's opener against Bluffton. Mike Simmons, an experienced senior, seems headed for one of the corners along with Bill Meyer.

But if Meyer is missing, Ken Howe, Dave Hickman, and Dave Anderson should be ready to take over.

Hoy McConnell, a 6-0 senior, might also be used in the corners but from all performances is better suited for the back court.

Unless used as a forward Nick Demetre will undoubtedly lead the Kellys from the back court. Nick possesses a deadly jump shot, moves well and fast, and is rugged under the boards when needed. His companion at the other guard slot should be either Jim Saylors or Ted Lebrecht. Saylors, the new Kelly, is fast and has good deceptive movements that always precede his uncanny jump shot. Lebrecht, although only 5-8, also is fast and alert. Five-foot, seven-inch Gary Gardner, the little flash, could steal away the open job, but in turn must watch for crafty Jerry George.

THE TEAM AS a whole will be somewhat smaller than last year's, but with considerable more depth. They will not be exceptionally fast, although they will have that speed when it is needed. As of now all the starters are not yet definite and that will act as an added incentive for the boys to work even harder. But no matter what happens, the team will be fighting right down to the final gun and will be very worthy of all the support that they are given.

INTO THE SHOES OF CHAMPS—Members of the 1958-59 varsity basketball team face a tough job of trying to live up to the laurels of last year's State Championship team. Ready to take on the task of defending last year's city and state crowns are left to right, front row: Tim Ranes, Gary Gardner, Ted Lebrecht, Mike Simmons, Jim Saylor, and Jerry George; standing, Steve Meyers, Dave Barrett, Tom Bolyard, Dave Roderick, Bill Meyer, Dave Anderson, Nick DeMetre, and Hoy McConnell. Dave Hickman was absent when the picture was taken. The Archers' first game will be tomorrow at Bluffton. (Picture by Thompson)

S. O. S.

Schmitz On Sports

Tomorrow's the night! Yes, the '59 Archers unveil tomorrow evening although not too many Archer fans will get that first look at their favorites. But they will next Friday in the first City Series contest with Concordia.

Although dealt severe blows through injuries to Tom Bolyard and Bill Meyer, two court veterans, the new-look Kellys will still put on a great show in defense of their 1958 State Championship Crown.

# #

The Green-clads will be kept on their toes all night since Bluffton would love to snap the Green's winning skein of which two triumphs were recorded over them last season (the second defeat coming in the Semi-State last spring).

# #

Forming a first five by game time poses Archer Coach Don Reichert with a big task. Fourteen boys were named as finalists for positions last week, but a fifteenth, Dave Hickman, should be considered and is looking strong (especially off the boards) in practice.

# #

From all present indications and complications (injuries) and barring no further mishaps, the starting lineup tomorrow will probably look like this. Dave Roderick at center, with Ken Howe and Mike Simmons, or maybe Nick Demetre, manning the corners and Jim Saylor and Ted Lebrecht or Demetre in the guard slots. This is, of course, assuming that Bolyard and Meyer will miss action.

Although the season finale with annual final foe Central Catholic is a long way off, just for fun I'm going to look into the far-distant future. By that time the Archers should have concluded a highly successful season. Expectations for an 18-2 record during the regular season is not forecast but the record had better be well over the .500 mark with South's versatile material.

# #

Even though quite a task to accurately predict any team's season record at the campaign's start is quite a feat, I'm out to TRY! Here we go. Looking very optimistically ahead I see the Green and White outfit finishing out the regular season with a 16-4 mark. That's nothing to sneeze at, but it's a good goal to shoot for and I'm confident that behind Don Reichert, the Archers can do it.

# #

Next I'll explain how I arrived at this figure by predicting each game individually:

Winner	Loser	Place
South Side	Bluffton	T
Southport	South Side	T
South Side	Concordia	H
South Side	New Haven	H
South Side	Huntington	H
South Side	Auburn	T
Michigan City	South Side	H
South Side	T.H. Gerstmeyer	T
Holiday Tourney: Archers should win twice and capture title. (Tourney at Elkhart.)
South Side	North Side	T
South Side	Mishawaka	H
Central	South Side	H
South Side	Muncie Burris	T
South Side	Elmhurst	T
South Side	North Side	T
South Side	Shortridge	H
Gary Froebel	South Side	H
South Side	Central	T
South Side	Central Cath.	T

Watch that second entry! I picked little Southport to turn the tables on the Archers. The Southport crew has eight boys back and have good height to back up a strong attack. I hope that everyone has been keeping up with a series of forecasts throughout the state in basketball for the past three weeks. The final installment will appear today. Southport's team is discussed here and in the advance.

# #

I look for Michigan City to extend their win streak over South to two games and become the only team to defeat South twice in the last four years. South probably will drop the Gary Froebel contest late in the season to one of the top prospective powers in northwestern Indiana.

# #

Central should deal the Green their other defeat. If they can beat the Kellys (hope not) they would not only put the skids to the Archers long winning skein over city foes, but would put the Archers' title in dangerous peril. If the Tigers do take one of the two South-Central tilts, it will undoubtedly be the first on January 14.

But by that time Central will have lost Bill Boyd to their cause because the letterman will have completed four years of athletic competition. With Boyd gone troubles might start for the still flashy Tigers.

# #

According to this I place the City Series outcome entirely on the second South-Central battle, but I'm not counting C.C. out of the race. The Irish might well be the squad that chases South from its perch as the city basketball power. The Irish have a strong basketball grudge against the Archers (were defeated by South in Sectionals in disputed overtime victory) and would cherish spoiling the Archers' net dreams.

# #

However, I do look for South to repeat as City Titlist for the fourth straight time although this time not with a perfect slate. I'll pick Central and C.C. to follow close behind and North a comfortable third ahead of unvictorious Concordia.

# #

Picking a state champion before the season begins is really a task supreme. Don't expect me to say I'll try because I refuse to stick my neck out that far. Naturally South Side is my sentimental favorite, but instead of picking the Archers or any other team, I will just list my choice for the top ten based on pre-season information. Next spring I'll check on these squads and report to you and at that time I'll pick my choice for the '59 crown. Well, here is my preseason first fifteen:

1. Huntingburg
2. Muncie Central
3. Evansville Central
4. East Chicago Washington
5. Noblesville
6. Valparaiso
7. South Side
8. Kokomo
8. Indianapolis Ben Davis
9. South Bend Central
10. Gary Froebel
11. Indianapolis Tech
12. New Albany
13. Fort Wayne Central
14. Indianapolis Secina
15. Indianapolis Attucks

At this early stage these predictions can only be called hunches for it is very hard to determine the strength of a team on paper without any action. But this is the way I think the teams might stack up this year.

# #

Notice a small town team is heading the list. This is not nearby Huntington; it is located in southern Indiana. I placed no Indianapolis team in the top ten, and if this holds true, the feat would be unusual.

# #

By areas I look for Muncie Central, Noblesville, Huntingburg, and East Chicago Washington to pace their sections.

# #

Muncie Central should receive chief opposition from one of the following: Indianapolis Tech, Secina, Manual, Attucks, Ben Davis, and maybe Southport or Anderson. Noblesville should have the toughest opposition from South Side, Kokomo, South Bend Central, or Adams.

Huntingburg, looking real strong, probably will be given severe competition by Evansville Central and possibly Terre Haute Gerstmeyer and New Albany. Another Evansville squad, Lincoln, is worthy of a cautious note.

# #

Looking ahead has been fun and the future promises a spine-tingling season, especially around here. As I've said before, the team needs that support to record a good season, and who knows maybe by next spring we will be drawing lots to see who gets to go to the finals in Indianapolis.

Contracting Basketball Referees Is Formal, Complicated Business

Contracting an official for the South Side basketball games is a complicated and formal task.

Each Indiana high school has a list of basketball officials. For South's home games two lists are sent to opposing schools. The rival schools cross out on both lists the names of the referees they do not want to officiate. One sheet is returned to South Side. From the returned list of remaining officials Coach Don Reichert and Athletic Director Wayne Scott choose whom they want.

When the Archers are on the road, the opposing schools send them the names. After South crosses out the unwanted officials, the rivals have the privilege of selecting the remaining officials.

The referees are members of the Indiana State Officials Association. They must be approved by the Indiana High School Athletic Association. These whistle-tooters compete for officiating contracts by appealing directly to the Indiana coaches.

One official, "Zeke" Williams of Mellot, Indiana, has cards that read "Have Whistle, Will Travel," plus his address. He sends these cards to high schools all over Indiana in hope of refereeing games.

Hoop Opponents For Frosh Named

South Side's freshman basketball team will compete in 14 games plus the Frosh Tourney during the 1958-59 campaign. The schedule is as follows:

Kellys To Face Tough Teams For City Title

Team Has Good Chance To Turn '58-'59 Year Into Winning Season

As usual, the South Side Archers' basketball team will open the 1958-59 cage season November 21 in the Bluffton gym against the Bluffton Tigers. Although the Tigers have lost many players from last year's team they still seem good enough to give the Archers a rough time.

Southport, a newcomer to the schedule, is the Archers' next opponent of the season. With a veteran-loaded squad, the Cardinals will put the Archer winning streak to a severe test.

Playing at home for the first time of the season, the Archers will play the Concordia Cadets on November 29. Although the Cadets have lost almost everybody from last year's great team, they will not be a push-over for the Archers.

ONE OF THE top area teams, New Haven, will invade South's gym December 5. With several experienced players on the team, among them high-scoring Al Herman, the Bulldogs seem to be pretty tough and will give the Archers quite a battle.

Huntington's Vikings will be the Archers' next foe in the game played December 6 at South. The Vikings were beaten pretty badly by South last year and they do not seem to have much of a chance to avenge this loss.

Hitting the road again for the next game, South will face the Auburn Red Devils December 12. The Red Devils were a pushover last year and although they might come up with some surprises, it does not seem likely that they will beat the Archers.

Trying to avenge a 56-53 loss from last year, the Archers will face Michigan City at home December 20. The Imps were one of the two teams last year to beat the Archers, and it is expected that they will try it again. Whether they will or not is another question.

WITH FIVE SENIOR lettermen returning from last year's team, the Terre Haute Gerstmeyer Black Cats will try to get revenge for a 77-56 loss, which was handed to them by the Archers last year. The Black Cats seem to be one of the top teams in the Evansville Semi-State area and it seems that the Archers will have to be pretty hot to win this one.

Instead of the usual Holiday Tournament at Muncie, the Archers will travel to Elkhart to take part in the tournament there.

Don Bruick's North Side Redskins will be the second city opponent of South Side. The Redskins have had losing seasons for the last two years, but it seems that they will have quite a good year and they might surprise the Archers.

WITH REVENGE thoughts in their heads, the Mishawaka Cavemen will invade the South gym January 10. It will be remembered that only by a great scoring performance by Tom Bolyard in the last quarter, were the Archers able to score a victory last year. It will be difficult to do it again.

January 14 will be the date of the annual clash between South and Central. The Tigers have lost Jumpin' Johnny Kelso and brilliant Ben Hawkins from last year's team, but they still have good material for the team left. This game promises to be one of the top games of the season.

Muncie Burris will be South's opponent January 23 .The Owls never have had too good a team in recent years and this year, too, they seem to be not much better than last year.

ANOTHER newcomer to South's schedule is the Elmhurst Trojans' team. There is a lot of rebuilding to be done in their team and it seems that the Archers should not have any trouble winning this one.

For a game in the City Series, the Archers will face the North Side Redskins for the second time of the season.

The Indainapolis Blue Devils from Shortridge will invade the South gym January 31. The Archers had a lot of trouble beating the Devils last year and it is doubtful whether they can do it again.

In the last home game of the season the Archers will play the Gary Froebel Blue Devils. The Devils almost scored an upset victory over the Archers last year. It took a last-minute rally to win this one for South. With four of the five starting players returning and with good height on the team, the Devils appear to be pretty tough and it will take a good Archer team to score a victory in this one.

FOR THE SECOND time the Archers will face the Central Tigers February 13 at the Coliseum.

In the last game of the season the Archers will clash with Central Catholic's Irish. Although the Irish have lost the best men from last year's squad, they have very good material left, and seem to be the team to beat in the city. The Archers will not have an easy time winning this one.

All in all, it seems that the Archers, although they do not have the good team they had last year, have a good chance to turn the 1958-59 basketball season into a winning one.

Bill Meyer, Dick Tipton Chosen For 1958 All-City Football Team

7 Other Kellys ReceiveMention For Grid Work

Scoring Champ Meyer Makes First Team; Tipton, Second Squad

By Jim Carter

For their stellar grid performances this season, Bill Meyer and Dick Tipton were named to the 1958 All-City Football Squad. The players who comprise this honor squad are selected by an All-City Board. This board is composed of a player representative, the coach of each of the schools which participates in the City Series, and a member of the sports staff of each city newspaper.

Other Archers who received honorable mention were Joe Roth at end, Jim Olinske and Jim Dawson, tackles, Ken Howe and Dan Tritch, guards, Lawson White at center, and Steve Smith, quarterback. Many of these boys will be returning for another try next year.

BILL MEYER, the city scoring champion with 57 points, was chosen one of the halfbacks on the first team. Bill, who is a senior, received honorable mention last year. Although he was an easy victor over all competition in the scoring race, he failed to score in the first four games. He overwhelmed Mississinewa with a 31-point blast and continued to roll up points toward his huge total.

Dick Tipton, South Side's senior fullback, was named to the second team. Although he was hampered in early games by a foot injury, Dick scored 13 points. This was second for the Green and White, and tenth for the entire city.

BOTH BOYS were hard workers whom Coach Bob Gernand could always count on when the going got rough. It was largely their spark that instigated the fight determination, and spirit of an improved Archer squad. Bill was chosen South Side's Player of the Week for his outstand ing play three times, and Dick received that honor twice.

Central Catholic placed eight boys on the All-City squad, five of them holding down first team berths. The first-stringers were quarterback Tim Walsh, halfback Frank Lombardo, and linemen Jack Smith, Mike Goodman, and Mike Broderick.

City Champion North Side was represented by seven boys. Ends Jerry Leeth and Mike Dafforn, along with fullback Warren Bullard, made the first team.

Five Central Tigers made the squad, with linemen Percy Moore and Pete Hogan on the first unit.

Concordia was not represented because that school no longer participates in the City Series.

The squad is as follows:

First Team

Player	School	Position
Jerry Leeth, N.S.		E
Percy Moore, C.		T
Jack Smith, C.C.		G
Mike Goodman, C.C.		C
Pete Hogan, C.		G
Mike Broderick, C.C.		T
Mike Dafforn, N.S.		E
Tim Walsh, C.C.		QB
Frank Lombardo, C.C.		HB
Bill Meyer, S.S.		HB
Warren Bullard, N.S.		FB

Second Team

Player	School	Position
George Roth, C.C.		E
Jim Worley, N.S.		T

Dick Tipton, S.S.		FB

CHOSEN ALL-CITY—Elected to the all-city football teams were two outstanding Kellys. Dick Tipton, left, and Bill Meyer, right, were chosen by the sports staffs of the News-Sentinel and the Journal-Gazette to represent Fort Wayne on each of the two teams. Bill was nominated as halfback of the first team, and Dick Tipton was elected to fullback on the second team. (Picture by Thompson)

500 Kellys Obtain Spare-Time Jobs Through Mr. Davis

About 500 Archers have obtained various jobs through Mr. Ora Davis, guidance director.

At the beginning of the school year those students wishing jobs fill out applications that are sent to all homerooms. Employers from various places contact Mr. Davis when they are in need of employment, and Mr. Davis assigns these jobs to qualified students.

Carhops, baby-sitters, box boys, and typists, plus many other forms of employment are provided through the guidance office.

Students who have fourth and fifth periods off for lunch often find noon-hour jobs. Also, students who have seventh period as a study period receive jobs at this time.

Of course, there are many disadvantages involved in holding down a job. Often, a job interferes with the students' homework; in this case, homework should be the first consideration.

One advantage of having a job, though, is the convenience of extra spending money. This comes in handy to girls who enjoy buying new clothes, and to fellows who have to pay the expenses of a car.

Elmhurst Match Now On Monday

Since Elmhurst High School's rifle team was unable to compete wtih South Side's team yesterday as planned, the match has been postponed until 3:45 p.m. Monday on South's range.

Representing South are Karl Bosselmann, Gene Crum, Jim Edwards, Dale Smith, and Dave Welch, with Dave Briggs as the reserve rifler.

High scores in the prone position were received Monday by the following members of the Boys' Rifle Club at their meeting at 3:30 p.m. on the range: Dave Welch, 96; Robert Stout, 94; Jim Edwards, 92; Tom Ables, 92; Karl Bosselmann, 92; Dale Smith, 92; Sam Sinabery, 91; Dave Briggs, 90; Kenton King, 88; and William Scott, 86.

Senior Pantomimes At 36 Workshop, 3:30

The program for the regular meeting of 36 Workshop will be the senior pantomimes today at 3:30 p.m. in Room 114.

Janis Mitchell, Kathy Dunigan, Ruth Dill, Sara Hindman, Janet Hicks, Sue Brenn, and Carol Lockwood will present the first pantomime.

Bob Mann, Hoy McConnell, Bob Keegan, Mike Simmons, John Meyerholz, and Dave Dunstone will present the last skit.

So-Si-Y To Bring Cans Of Food For Needy

So-Si-Y program chairman Virginia Tsuleff announced that a Thanksgiving program will highlight the next meeting, Tuesday at 3:30 p.m. in the Greeley Room. Each member is asked to bring a can of food which will be given to a needy family for Thanksgiving.

This semester's officers are: president, Barb Richey; vice-president, Virginia Tsuleff; secretary, Pat Seibert; and treasurer, Judy Hawk.

Portrait Photographer To Talk To Cameramen

"Mr. Paul Watters, portrait photographer, will speak to the Camera Club at their next meeting November 26 at 3:30 p.m. in the Greeley Room," announced Mr. Ernest Walker, sponsor.

This meeting will be of greatest interest to all photographers who are interested in taking portraits.

5 Pupils Leave School, Two Enter South Side

South Side has lost five students and gained two in the last two weeks.

Allen Smith now attends North Side, while Sharon Rice attends a school in Ohio. Darlene Houser lives and attends a school in Indianapolis. Mike Frash has withdrawn.

Two new sophomores are Nancy Denton and Paul Fulgham from Huntington and Elmhurst high schools.

Philatelic Society Postpones Meetings

"The Stamp Society will not have a meeting until further notice," says Mr. Stanley Post, adviser.

This is because on Wednesday when the club met, the seniors who make up a majority of the members, find it necessary to go to the chemistry lab, this being the only night when the lab is open.

Nov. 26 Is Deadline For Senior Cards

Seniors wishing to order senior name cards must do so by November 26 in order to be included with the first order of cards. The second order will be sent by December 17.

Miss Olive Perkins is the teacher in charge of the senior homeroom representatives who are taking orders. Girls taking orders for the cards are:

Room 4	Barbara Ronan
Room 6	Sara Stettler
Room 22	Nancy Bailey
Room 26	Mary Kay Hall
Room 32	Beverly Engleman
Room 36	Janet Gareiss
Room 54	Kay Krause
Room 74	Judy Ormsby
Room 76	Judy Hawk
Room 140	Judy Bly
Room 174	Pat Watson
Room 176	Judy Pfeiffer
Room 186	Marylyn Sexton
Room 190	Diane Mertens

Any senior wishing to buy senior name cards should contact one of these agents.

200 Lockers Added To South Side Halls

Coats, books, The Times, mirrors, and lunches caused quite a problem to 1,917 Archers at South Side last semester. This year approximately 200 more have been added to help relieve some of the tribulations of crowded lockers. The new lockers have been placed in various places in the halls.

Many of the Archers share lockers with a fellow student. One such student is Marijo Edwards. Marijo says, "I like sharing lockers in the spring and fall, but in the winter it gets too crowded."

Each year at the beginning of the new school semester the lockers are cleaned inside and out. They are washed and polished. Every month the lockers are dusted off. The lockers on the whole are kept up nicely by the students, says one of the janitors.

Lettermen Protect Lawn, Shrubbery

The lettermen of South Side High School have been following up their vows to protect the property they provided for the school.

The lawn and shrubbery at the southeast corner of the school has been partially destroyed or ruined through the ignorance of some of the students. The lettermen request that students try to have a little more respect for the school's property in the future. They believe that everyone appreciates the beautiful surroundings of the school and would like to keep them that way.

Jack Powell Tells About "Dance Date," Teenage TV Show

What does it take to put on a one-hour dance show for teenagers five days a week? What kind of man does it take to do this? A talk with Jack Powell, M.C. of "Dance Date," on Monday through Friday at 5 p.m. over WANE-TV, may bring the answer to both these questions.

Jack is married and has four children, three girls and one boy. They all love to dance, even Jack's 21-months-old son! From the time in 1946 when Jack first saw television he has wanted to be in on it. First he was in radio and in 1954 he went on WINT, which is now WANE, as "Cactus Jack" on the "Bar 15" cowboy show. Besides "Dance Date," which is on WANE, Jack also has a half-hour cartoon show on Saturdays and he does commercials on the "Million Dollar Movie."

Recording companies send Jack records, 150 a week, which he stores in his basement. He usually spends four hours a week listening to records and trying to pick hits. Jack had "Topsy Part II" in his basement for three months before it became a hit. Jack comes to the studio at 2 p.m. to set up things for the show and get the records in order.

The policy of "Dance Date" is to get as many kids as possible on the show. As everyone knows to get on "Dance Date" you send in a request and receive a postcard which will get two people on the show. Unfortunately some people erase the two and type a six in its place. Until now the kids could get away with this but they are not going to allow this anymore.

"Dance Date" is entirely unrehearsed. Jack believes that impromptu talks with the kids are much better than planned ones, even if the kids know nothing about TV or radio and are scared stiff. Even the commercials are impromptu.

When asked whether more "Rock 'n Roll" or slow music is requested, Jack said that although he tries to make it about 50-50, usually more "Rock 'n Roll" is requested. However, everyone dances to both kinds.

Music Students' Chances Good, States Conductor Igor Buketoff

Igor Buketoff grew up close to a Russian Orthodox Church in New York City, where music played an important part in the church services. It was here he conducted his first choir, at the age of 15.

Later he studied and taught at the Juliard School of Music, in New York, where he majored in piano. One of his requirements for graduation, that of teaching children, has been of great help to him in conducting his Young People's Concerts.

In 1942, competing with other conductors, he won the Alice M. Ditson Award, while representing the Juliard School of Music.

Mr. Buketoff received a call from Carlo Menotti asking him to go on tour conducting his compositions, "The Medium" and "The Telephone," which eventually took him as far as London and Paris.

At the same time, Mr. Hans Schwieger, conductor of the Philharmonic in Fort Wayne at that time, while visiting in New York City, invited Mr. Buketoff to come to Fort Wayne to hear the Philharmonic when his tour reached Chicago. Mr. Buketoff accepted the invitation.

IN 1948 WHEN Mr. Schwieger was transferred to Kansas City, Mr. Buketoff was asked to conduct the Fort Wayne Philharmonic Orchestra. Simultaneously, he was asked to be musical director of a children's concert in New York. For five years he went from New York to Fort Wayne conducting concerts of this sort.

As this grew more difficult, he decided that his mission was greater here. Mr. Buketoff now personally supervises all organizations and their musical activities. He plans concerts, programs, creates ideas, chooses the musicians, and has also spoken at Rotary meetings, PTA, and child-study groups.

Mr. Buketoff says that students at South Side are unbelievably fortunate to have such musical opportunities; such opportunities as these, he stated, were not available when he grew up. In New York City, the same concerts that are available here are very expensive and many youngsters cannot afford to attend.

Only a few out of hundreds of thousands can play with the New York Philharmonic, but students of Fort Wayne have a much greater chance of playing with the orchestra. However, he feels that a student's first duty should be to his school because opportunities are based on the student's scholastic ability and his being able to carry the whole load. Students should not curtail activities to play with the Philharmonic, he says.

MR. BUKETOFF was especially enthusiastic about South Side's superior musical programs and also feels the summer Festival Theater offers fine opportunities to students, since it does not interfere with their school activities. The series of musical programs at Plymouth Church, directed by Mr. Vince Slater and Mr. R. T. Drummond, is also an excellent outlet.

His latest project and the one closest to his heart, is the forming of teenage concerts. He says there have always been children's concerts and adult concerts, but little for the teenager. Consequently, they are usually offered nothing better than rock-and-roll.

Movies Will Be Shown

Two classes are scheduled to see movies this week. Miss Lucy Mellen's classes will view "Marriage Today" and the physical geography students will see "Work of Rivers."

Science Film to be Shown, 'What Will Happen to Earth?' 'How Big Is Space?'

"The Heaven's Declare," a beautiful color-sound Motion Picture, will be shown at the Village Wood School Gymnasium at the end of East Pettit Street at 7 p.m. this Sunday evening. This is an interesting and thought-provoking film asking the questions "What Will Happen to Earth," and "How Big Is Space." Everybody is welcome. Be sure and see it!

There was PLENTY for ALL

...only when men were Free to work for Themselves!

DID YOU KNOW that the Pilgrims nearly starved to death? That they suffered hunger for two long years, with never enough food in the Colony's storehouse?

Have you heard how the Governor and his councilors had complete control of the land and what people produced? How they tried to rouse the Colonists to raise more grain; and how they found a way that worked?

During their first year, food was scarce. Even after the 1621 harvest was gathered, the daily ration was only about a quarter of a pound of bread for each person.

In the spring of 1622, the Colonists complained they were too weak to work raising food. Although they were, on the whole, deeply religious, some were so hungry that they stole food from their starving fellow-workers.

Young men complained because they had to work hard to feed other men and their wives and children. Strong men who were heads of families griped. They said that even though they put in long hours and raised good crops, they and their children received no more food or clothes than men who were unable or unwilling to put in more than a few hours' work a day.

Women rebelled when ordered to cook for men not their husbands, or when requested to wash their clothes. And what about the husbands of women who had been set at these jobs? Their wives, they growled, were little better than slaves, and many men declared they wouldn't permit their women-folk to do that kind of work.

After months of bitter complaints, the Governor and chief men of the Colony came to the conclusion that they were making a bad mistake. As Governor Bradford said, they had thought they were "wiser than God."

And so, in 1623, they turned away from government dictation and gave each family a parcel of land for its own use.

Then what a change took place! Even the women went into the fields willingly, taking their children along with them. All — men, women and children — planted as much corn as they felt they could possibly work.

People who had formerly complained that they were too weak to dig or hoe, declaring that it was tyranny to make them undertake field work, gladly undertook to plant and cultivate for themselves.

And when the harvest was gathered, instead of famine they had plenty. And so they all gave thanks to God. And what a Thanksgiving they celebrated!

No wonder they gave up for all time their sharing of poverty . . . their belief that it was good for all to suffer scarcity together. They found that it is better for each man to work for himself so produce plenty, because that benefits everyone.

Janet Hicks To Fill Position Of Times General Manager; Judy Novitsky Student Adviser

Sue Sappenfield, Junior, Barb Steiner, Sophomore, News, Editorial Editors

"Janet Hicks, previous news editor, has been named general manager of the Times," announced Miss Rowena Harvey, adviser. She will hold this position from December 4 to February 25.

Other changes are Sue Sappenfield, editorial editor, who has stepped to the position of news editor and Barbara Steiner, reporter and columnist who is now editorial editor. Judy Novitsky has been appointed student adviser.

The remaining major and minor staff positions remain the same: John Richardson, managing editor; Joan Stanton, feature editor; Bob Schmitz, boys' sports editor; Rita Hessert, girls' sports editor.

# # #

"DON'T CONGRATULATE me until I have completed my job," said

Janet Hicks

Janet of her new position. "I hope that I will be as deserving of it as Judy," she added.

Janet, a Senior B, has worked on the Times all of her high school career. Upperclassmen interested her in the Times and as a freshman she wrote all types of stories. Her junior B year found her as feature editor.

Her senior B semester has been the busiest for Janet. She was news solicitor and correspondent with the Journal-Gazette for Archer news. She is an office manager for the Totem. She has earned the gold pin worth 5,000 points and hopes to get the gold jeweled pin before she graduates.

Janet placed fifth in her editing class of 90 at Indiana University last summer. She took a course in advanced news writing to prepare her for news editing position.

Janet was co-chairman of 36 Workshop's Thanksgiving assembly last Wednesday and is a program chairman of the club. She has been a cheerleader for three years and has earned her letter and megaphone.

# # #

"I HOPE THAT I will be able to adjust to the change of being news editor," remarked Sue. "It is quite a bit different than being editorial editor, but I feel that I am going to enjoy it," she added.

Barb Steiner, editorial editor, said, "I am very happy to accept this position and will try to live up to the reputation set by former editorial editors."

Thanks Expressed By Chili Chairmen

The Chili Supper chairmen, Mrs. Gathings Stewart, Mrs. Allen Sheldon, and Mrs. Stephen Capps wish to thank the many mothers who helped make the supper a success. This includes the homeroom mothers who spent hours on the telephone; those who contributed baked goods; those who worked the day of the supper; and those who made money donations.

Approximately 600 persons were served and the PTA should realize close to $500 from combined efforts. Baked goods that were not sold were distributed by Mr. and Mrs. Walter Parrott to the Rescue Mission, Allen County Children's Home, and Fort Wayne State School.

The chairmen will welcome comments about the supper, favorable or otherwise. You may call Mrs. Capps, K-9400. Thanks again!

Alumnus Gives Talk To Philo On College

"College will be what you make it," stated Miss Susie Noble to the members of Philo at the meeting Monday. Susie, who was graduated from South Side in 1954 and from Northwestern last year, said that choosing the right college is very important.

In college, she pointed out, there is much more studying, many different extra-curricular activities, and there are fraternities and sororities. Time must be budgeted, and social activities are many and varied. After Susie concluded her talk, there was a short question and answer period.

Judy Thompson gave a dramatic declamation, "Bobby Unwelcomed," as the talent for the meeting. Taffy apples were served.

Tonight 36 To Hear Mahmoud Abouzeid

At the regular meeting of 36 Workshop, Mahmoud Abouzeid, Jr., will speak about Egypt, tonight at 3:30 p.m. in Room 114.

"I wish to invite all members of 36 Workshop to come to this meeting. I will be most happy to answer all questions concerning Egypt. I know everyone will be interested in knowing the facts of Egypt's government, education, and customs, said Mahmoud.

Incorrect Patriotism Discussed By Class

Patriotism, incorrectly expressed, was the topic discussed in Mr. Wilburn Wilson's second period Government 1 class following the Thanksgiving assembly.

It is the feeling on the part of some students that there was confusion in the minds of the faculty and student body concerning the correct procedure of showing respect to the American flag as it was raised during the program.

The constructive criticism which the class had to offer was the suggestion that the entire student body and faculty should have stood at attention and saluted the flag by placing their hands over their hearts.

The cooperation of the student body to salute the flag in a uniform manner at the next assembly, game, or public activity when "The Star Spangled Banner" is played, or the flag is raised is the suggestion of the class.

Choir To Sing For AAUW

To entertain the American Association of University Women, South's Madrigal Choir will present a Christmas program at the Women's Club Saturday at ▮ p.m.

Twenty vocalists compose Madrigal Choir including: sopranos, Judy Bastian, Joyce Brittenham, Carol Kenner, Kay Kruse, and Judy Rumple; altos, Nancy Hickman, Ann Kerns, Margo Martindale, Barb Miser, and Alice Weddle; tenors, Judy Boyers, Mary Kay Hall, John Hendricksen, Martha Milnor, and Mary Sue Robertson; bases, Dave Dunstone, Chuck Jellison, Don Kern, Dave Roderick, and Dick Rothberg.

Archers Enjoy First Of Series Of Teenage Music Concerts

South Side was well represented in attendance at the first of the series of Teenage Concerts presented by the Philharmonic Sinfonietta.

The concerts which are given in the auditorium of the Concordia Senior College are informal; and this feature seems to be appreciated by those who attend.

Carol Purdy, a junior, said she felt so close to those performing that it seemed like she was right in their living room.

# # #

THE FIRST TWO numbers, a Concerto Grosso by Vivaldi and one by Bloch, made up the most classical part of the program.

Harriet Parrish and Jach Ruhl were the piano soloists in the "Carnival of Animals" by Saint Saens. This selection featured several other instruments including a rarely heard string bass solo which represented the elephant.

After a short intermission, the orchestra returned for an actual rehearsal of a contemporary work which they had not seen before. It was a sight-reading session complete with a stool for Mr. Buektoff. Sharon Possell and Shelby Smith especially liked this part of the program because it gave an insight into the orchestra and its manner of rehearsing.

# # #

A CASUAL QUESTION and answer period benefitted those with questions and these ranged from "How long do the orchestra members practice each day?" to "Why are there two violins in a string quartet?"

Aaron Copland's "Celebration Dance and Hoedown" from "Rodeo," and selections from the popular "South Pacific" were the final program numbers; and Leroy Anderson's "Waltzing Cat" and "Sleigh Ride" were presented as encores.

A social hour in the cafeteria followed the concert. Kate Rastetter, who liked the combination of both classical and semi-classical selections, sums up her enjoyment of the evening by saying, "If teenagers would go to just one of these concerts, I think they would be sure to go back."

KYC's To Conduct Christmas Party

"We will have a Christmas party and election of officers next Tuesday at Know Your City Club meeting," stated Ann Wilson, president.

Co-chairmen of the refreshment committee are Pat Brown and Bob Smith. Mahlon Bartlett and Bruce Chaney will be serving on the committee. Chairman of the program committee is Nancy Baltes. Jim Drummond, Pamela Stech, and Barbara More are on the program committee. The entertainment committee will consist of Nancy Lawson, Nancy Sheefel, Joyce Eads, Claudia Bradley, and Virginia Adkinson, chairman.

Seniors To Host Alumni December 19

Alumni of South Side will be entertaind by the seniors on Friday, December 19, in Room 114 and the cafeteria. Lonnie Kimble and Bob Mann are co-chairmen for the dance.

Janet Hicks is chairman of the Invitations Committee. Personal invitations are being sent to all members of the class of 1958 and many of those in the classes of 1957 and 1956.

Other chairmen include Barbara Ronan, decorations, and Hoy McConnell, tickets.

Designers Associated To View Auto Film

Tomorrow in the drawing room at 3:30 p.m. the Designers' Associated Club will show a film entitled "Firebird: Car of the Future." The film, obtained from the General Motors Company, will be discussed by the members.

A short business meeting will also be held and dues and program suggestions will be reviewed.

Camera Club Meeting To Feature Print Contest

"The next meeting of the Camera Club, December 10, will feature a print competition between club members in the Greeley Room at 3:30 p.m.," announced Clarence Sanders, president. All members entering the contest are asked to submit 8 x 10 inch prints. The club darkroom will be open to members for the making of their prints.

Seniors To Host Guests At Reception Tonight

Music, Refreshments, To Make Up Program; Committees Chosen

Music, refreshments, and chatter will comprise the program tonight for the Senior Reception from 8 to 9:30 p.m. in Room 114 and the cafeteria. Seniors and class advisers, Miss Mary Graham and Mr. Jake McClure, are the hosts of the affair entertaining their guests, parents of seniors, South Side teachers, and school officials. The guests include Mr. and Mrs. Aaron T. Lindley, Mr. and Mrs. R. Nelson Snider, Miss Pauline VanGorder, Mr. and Mrs. Ora Davis, and Mrs. J. H. McClure.

Chairmen for the Reception were chosen by the class officers, who include Bill Meyer, Carol Lockwood, Bob Mann, Hoy McConnell, Jerry George, and Tom Boiyard. Linda Wightman is chairman of the invitations committee, which mailed invitations to all parents and addressed and distributed invitations to the South Side faculty. Lonnie Kimble, Diane Decker, Marijo Edwards, and Phyllis Springer are serving with Linda.

# # #

THE NAMETAGS committee counted and packaged nametags for all seniors. They also lettered nametags for faculty members. Janice Mitchell is chairman of this committee, and Patti Arnold, Pamela Havlin, Barbara Ronan, Ruth Dill, and Sue Brenn are working with her. From ▮ to 8:30 p.m. Ruth Dill, Sue Brenn, and Kathy Dunigan will work at tables at the Reception for people whose nametags are lost, forgotten, or damaged. Janice Mitchell and Barb Ronan are to work from 8:30 to 9 p.m., and Pam Havlin and Linda Baughman from 9 to 9:30 p.m.

The decorations committee consists of Diane Reiff, chairman, Sue Rothert, Janet Gareiss, Janice Leist, Carol Bass, and Crissie Ferguson. These girls are in charge of planning and arranging the refreshment table. Sara Lou Miller is chairman of refreshments.

Mickey McClead is in charge of instrumental music and Barb Miser, the senior choir. Those performing in the instrumental section are Vickie Sheldon and Nancy Swain, first violin; Karen Good and Geri Geller, second violin; Cindy Miller, viola; Mike Church, cello; and Sharon Possell, piano.

Diane Reiff, Mary Sue Robertson, Sharon Ruhl, Judy Rumple, Janet Rupp, Judy Schaefer, Kathy Schwalm, Phyllis Springer, Marcia Stirn, Sheila Sutton, Alice Weddle, Judy Thompson, and Marylin Williams.

# # #

MARGO MARTINDALE is chairman of the serving committee, which consists of 21 girls working in half-hour shifts supplying refreshments at the table and serving guests. Girls on the final ballot for the senior class election have been asked to pour for the Reception. They include Mary Sue Robertson, Sharon Ruhl, Susie Starr, Carol Lytle, Janet Hicks, and Margo Martindale. Mrs. Evlyn Spray, former class adviser to the class of 1959, is also pouring.

Members of the serving committee include Phyllis Springer, Beverly Engleman, Priscilla Ratican, Ann Lasch, Carol Kenner, Susan Bowser, Judy Bastian, Barbara Ronan, Judy Tigges, Linda Benton, Joan Goshert, Sue Crawford, Jeanne Hessert, Barbara Lewandowski, Kathy Schwalm, Linda Tobey, Donna Zelt, Carol Bass, Cheri Henry, Beverly Stanton, and Janet Rupp.

Dave Dunstone, John Meyerholtz, and John Shannahan are in charge of a committee of 24 boys working in half-hour shifts removing used dishes, washing, drying, and returning dishes. Working with these three are Steve Komito, Larry Brown, John Hendricksen, Tom Graham, Don Denis, Dick Tipton, Marc Speelmon, Bob Simmons, Steve Tracey, Dick Boer-

Lettermen Set 8,340 Cans As Food Collection Goal

Eight thousand, three hundred forty cans of food is the goal which the Lettermen are setting for their annual food collection. To reach this goal, each student is asked to bring four cans of food of any kind: meats, juices, and vegetables. Soap will also be accepted.

The food which will be collected from the homerooms by the Lettermen will be turned over to the Christmas Bureau, which will in turn give it to the needy families of Allen County.

A member of the Christmas Bureau will talk to the students of South Side over the P.A. system to encourage each of them to do their share in helping unfortunate families have a Merry Christmas.

Last year 9,728 cans were collected, going over the previous quota by 2,000 cans. This was deeply appreciated by the Christmas Bureau, and a heart-warming letter was sent to South Side thanking us for our cooperation.

In order that an equal job might be done this year, competition among homerooms and classes will be conducted. A day by day record will be placed in center hall relating the amounts which each homeroom and class has collected.

Last year Mr. Jake McClure's homeroom, 190, won the race, stopping Mr. W. O. Gilbert's homeroom's winning streak of three years. The senior class has won the race by bringing in 2,589 cans with the freshman class close behind with 2,316 cans.

"No prizes will be given in this campaign." Each student should get his own reward from the satisfaction received from the knowledge that he had done an unselfish deed, showing the true meaning of Christmas through the joy of sharing," said Mr. Ora Davis, Lettermen's sponsor.

The canned food will be collected from the homerooms on December 17 and 18.

Homeroom 190 High Bankers

The total amount of banking receipts for this week was $384.22.

First place was given to Mr. Robert Storey's Room 190 with $32. Second place went to Miss Mary Crowe and her Homeroom 142 who had $17.95. Third place was tied by Room 79 and Miss Barbara Leif with $13.50 and by Room 184, Miss Nell Covalt's room with $13.50.

Tribute To Abe Lincoln To Be Next Tuesday

Dr. Gerald McMurtry To Be Guest Speaker At Special Assembly

To inaugurate the celebration of the sesquicentennial year of Abraham Lincoln's birth, a special assembly will be held on next Tuesday.

Dr. Gerald McMurtry, director of the Lincoln National Life Foundation, will be the featured speaker at the assembly.

Having been continuously engaged with Lincoln work for the past 25 years, Dr. McMurtry is well qualified to speak on the Lincoln saga.

As a boy, Dr. McMurtry lived in the area in Kentucky where Lincoln spent a part of his life.

After he graduated from college, Dr. McMurtry became the librarian of the Lincoln National Foundation.

The magazine, "Lincoln Herald," which is devoted to facts and figures about Lincoln, was written by Dr. McMurtry and is one of his greatest contributions to the material about Lincoln.

Music pertaining to Lincoln or the Lincoln era will be furnished by the music department.

Driver Training Car Is Studebaker Model

Zoom! There goes South Side's 1958 Studebaker Scotsman carrying off Mr. Glen Stebing and one of his Driver Training students.

Although students are taught how not to create accidents, all of the repairing is done at Gouty Service Center, 3500 Broadway. The purchasing of gasoline and car washes are also done there.

South Side bought the car from Richele Motors Inc., 3504 South Calhoun Street. It has the regular new car guarantee and is a 4-door standard shift.

The car is parked near the school, but when the new addition is completed there will be an area for it in the rear of the building.

6 Kellys To Go To Legislature

Six Archers have been chosen to attend the 16th Annual Student Legislative Assembly tomorrow and Saturday. These students will represent South Side during a two day stay at Purdue University.

Sharon Hubbell will represent South in the Senate, Kay Kreachbaum, in House A, and Carolyn Dinius, in House B. Dick McGaw, Joyce Brittenham, and Steve Tracey will compete for honors in the extemp competition.

Mr. R. N. Storey, head of the speech department, will take the six students to the Purdue campus.

Wranglers To Present "Christmas Stranger"

A one-act play, "Christmas Stranger," will be presented at the Wrangler's meeting next Monday, by Susie Hoard, Dick Rothberg, Barbara Eggemann, and Jo Ann High.

After the play, a party will be given for all the club members.

Mahmoud Abouzeid Wins Kelly 'Democracy' Speech

Mahmoud Abouzeid won the school "I Speak for Democracy" contest November 13 over nine other finalists chosen from ▮ participants. Second place went to Janet Terry; and Beth Golden, Marylyn Sexton, and Carolyn Dinius tied for third.

Mahmoud's speech, judged on originality and delivery as a radio presentation, was centered around the many things in America which outsiders envy. It told of the many lives lost to win and preserve a democracy such as America's, the men devoted to that democracy, and the privileges of Americans. Mahmoud believes that "life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness" is what democracy means, and what America stands for.

Members of speech classes were required to prepare a speech on the subject, but the contest was open to any student in school. Judges were Mr. Lowell Coats, Miss Virginia Ayers, and Mrs. Ruth Berkes.

Joyce Brittenham, Janet Lawry, Dick McGaw, JoAnn High, and Judy Clark also reached the finals.

After winning the school contest, Mahmoud entered the city contest on November 27, but failed to place.

"Icicle Ball" Theme For Meterite Dance

"Icicle Ball" is the theme chosen by the Meterite Club for the first after-game dance, tomorrow night.

Tickets, selling at 50 cents per person, may be purchased from Marie Rohn, Jody Reiff, Diane Irmscher, and Elaine Edwards.

Fine Arts In Miniature To Present Second Concert Of Series Sunday

"Hard work by a lot of people made the first Fine Arts in Miniature program a success. We are looking forward to the two guest organizations from Huntertown which will perform at the second program of the series this Sunday at Plymouth Congregational Church," commented Mr. Robert T. Drummond, director of the South Side orchestra.

Mr. Drummond went on to say that his only regret concerning the first concert is that the crowd attending the concert was so large that the members of the string quartet which played during the refreshment hour didn't get any punch. Provisions have been made so there will be refreshments for all after the next program.

The concert, sponsored by the South Side High School Music Department and Plymouth Congregational Church, will be at 3:30 p.m. in the church's youth center.

# # #

MRS. ESTHER COLLYER, supervisor of Music and Art in Allen County, will be the guest speaker. She will talk on fine arts and their connection with education.

As an added attraction, art work will be displayed by Arcola High School under the supervision of Helen Oettel and Lafayette Central High School under the guidance of Thelma Wellman.

The Huntertown Choral Reading Group and Madrigal Singers will be featured as the guest artists. The Choral Reading Group, under the direction of Hilda Studebaker, will begin by demonstrating a sample exercise. They will then continue to perform "When Icicles Hang by the Wall" by Shakespeare, "Kallyope Yell" by Vachel Lindsay, and Carl Sandburg's "Prayers of Steel."

TALENT'S UNLIMITED—Members of the South Side string quartet play at another recital. Left to right, Marilyn Sexton, Allen Steere, Ann Shorbondy, and Cindy Miller. The quartet has appeared on "Make Mine Music" and on countless other musical programs outside the school. (Picture by Musser)

THE SECOND GUEST organization will be the Huntertown Madrigal Singers, directed by Mrs. Grace Drummond. Their program will include "Sing We and Chant It" by Morley, "Lo How a Rose Ere Blooming," 16th Century anonymous, and a Spanish carol, "Fum, Fum, Fum."

The representation of the South Side Orchestra will be in the form of three string quartets, a cello trio, and the string orchestra with soloists. South Side Quartet number three will play "Finale from the Concerto Grosso Number Two in F" by Handel. "Finale from the Quartet Number Fifty, Opus Two" by Haydn will be played by the second string quartet. Beethoven's "Quartet Number Four in C Minor, Opus Eighteen, Scherzo" will be presented by the first string quartet.

The cello trio will play "Two Diversions for Three Cellos—Siesta and Court Gavotte." The string orchestra will play "Fantasia by Greensleaves" and Corelli's "Christmas Concerto"

"At Least She Has a Good Sense of Direction!"

Airborne Ann may be headed the right way, even though she was swept off her feet. But with a proper diet she could keep her feet on the ground. Physical and mental stability depend largely upon good nutrition, according to doctors and nutritionists. Skimping—or skipping—breakfast, lunch or dinner easily can result in dietary deficiencies and around-the-clock fatigue. An adequate daily diet should include meat, fish or poultry; milk, enriched bread and cereals; fresh vegetables and fruit. Other foods could and should be added as the appetite demands.

Kelly's Kalender

The Junior Ben Franklins of Miss Burr's English 4 classes have compiled a list of "words to the wise" for their classmates.

Freshmen:
The way is open, decide for yourself.
One freshman's experience is not another's.
Be not listless, for listlessness leads to disregard, disregard leads to disrespect, disrespect leads to disobedience, and disobedience leads to trouble.
You get out of school what you put into it.
Homework done today brushes away fears of tomorrow.

Sophomores:
Friendship comes to South as easily as water falls to the ground.
Work now, play tomorrow.
Archers, like arrows, should shoot straight and true.
A broad mind makes a broad circle of friends.

Juniors:
Don't be swayed by the false.
Good study habits every day will bring high grades your way.
Remember, while taking a test, the man on your left may not be as intelligent as the man on his right.
Use past experience for future success.

Seniors:
A clock-watcher is never credited with sixty seconds' work of distance run.
Meet the wide world with a wide heart.
To learn you need not be rich, but to be rich you need to learn.
He who practices sportsmanship need not be an athlete.

Rubbish

Lockers Unmasked Revealing Oddities

Sticks and stones and puppy dog tails seem to be the contents of some Archer lockers. South's lockers do boast a strange assortment of articles.

Why, whoever heard of having bicycle handle bars in a locker? This is no exaggeration, for we have one student in South Side who can honestly make this claim. Another inhabitant of South's lockers is a collection of old dirty clothes. These clothes are an accumulation of last month's gym suit and an old well-worn pair of tennis shoes—minus the laces.

Who knows but maybe some students might soon be trying to fit hula-hoops into their lockers? In spite of all the other objects residing in the lockers of these ivy-covered walls, most students find some room for their books.

For other ideas on what makes up the contents of Archer lockers, the students give some ideas.

Annette Plesniak: Snips and snails and puppy dog tails.

Mary Meily: Mine doesn't open.

Bonnie Brenn and Marie Rohn: Gum wrappers, apple cores, winter coats—many, and one time bomb-set.

Larry Levy: A transistor radio, a few books, and a box of taffy apples.

Stan Redding: Two pencils, a Hershey bar, one stick of Wrigley's Spearmint gum, a few books, and John Wilks' gym bag. That's all!

Linda Silverman: All of my family skeletons.

Bill Heathman: A shotgun shell and those handlebars that were mentioned before.

Mary Sue Robertson: I just let him out.

Gene Kraus: The absence of a lock.

Molly Dixon: Scissors, letters, two pairs of shoulder pads, and a football helmet.

Archer Couples Band Together To Curtail Planetary Invasion

The danger of Martian or Plutonian (men from Pluto) attacks on Archerland is becoming more and more possible every second of the year. To curtail or completely hault the invasion which is expected soon, a group of Archers, The Coupled Couples, have organized to forestall disaster.

The reason for this intriguing name is that, as Bill Meyer and Linda Wightman, co-presidents, expressed it, the kids are Archer couples who have united or coupled into a group for the worthy purpose of driving away the invaders.

The name may be a little corny, but the action these upstanding citizens have taken is not. Sue Brenn and Terry Berk, protection suit co-chairmen, have devised an inner space suit which is to be worn against the attacks. Working with Ruth Dill and Bob Duncan, they have manufactured a protective shield that will not let germs or decay enter. Chuck Jellison and Marcia Mosel are helping to test the shield by standing behind it while Dan Bill and Camille Luther pelt it with decay causing bacteria. So far the shield has stood up against all tests with flying colors. Good luck to this phase of the protective programs.

Bob King and Sue Sappenfield head the diplomacy department. They are busy writing speeches to present to the attackers when they invade. Marilyn Bugg and Tom Shoaff (N.S.) have been sending fliers, in the form of paper planes, out into space in hopes that the Martians will intercept them and be impressed with the overtures of peace. As of yet, Dick Rothberg and Carolyn Isch, whose job it is to trace these jet-propelled messages, have not been able to tell whether or not the messages are being received.

Chris Parrott, Larry Brown, Evilou North, and Molly Dixon are all very busy getting food and other supplies in case there is a seige. Thanks to their efforts, if the Martians and Plutonians try to starve us out, they will be defeated. Two overly active members of that committee are Mimi Hinman and Jim Spuller (Ball State), who have been out canvassing the Archer area and procuring provisions. Keep up the good work!

Another phase of Operation Demolish Anti-Archers is that of supplying and inventing weapons. While hoping to use the method of passive resistance, co-chairmen Gus Wade and Sharon Probst feel that we might have to take up arms in defense. Karen Rhoem and Terry Suave (New Haven) are working on a new type of weapon that is so ultra-secret that no information at all could be given out. They just want everyone to know that they and Mary Collins and Steve Smith are working hard on this new device.

Sharon Ruhl is in charge of serving the workers refreshments, but she seems to be paying more attention to Bob Oechsle than anyone else. Now, is that fair? There she goes. Oops! She's stopped again, this time to chat with Sue Hoard and Harry Trosin who seem to be very busy with the radar equipment. Oh, well, moral support is just as important to working folks as food and water.

Bob Mann and Nikie Demetre are offering to be of service to Mary Sue Robertson and Marty Clark. The girls are trying to build a billboard to inform the enemy of the french fries business which they plan on going into. Steve Komito and Lynn Goldman are busy supervising the project.

Carolyn DeVore and Mike Collins are painting Archer arrows to guide the people to the under-shield shelter when the attack does come. Boy! They sure are covered with paint. Here comes Judie Welty and Randy Stucky (Berne-French) to save the day and some skin with a can of turpentine. Margo Dixon and John Cooper (N.S.) have installed a set of Purple People Eaters to warn everyone of the coming attack. Sharon Collins and John Shannahan hope that the People Eaters will turn out to be Plutonian Eaters and scare the attackers away.

With this fine group of ambitious Archers to back the attack, all will be safe from the enemy. So thanks, Coupled Couples, for your co-operation against the combined crowd of Corny Combatants.

Ten Commandments To Aid Archers

Stop and think before you drink.

Don't let your parents down; they brought you up.

Be humble enough to obey. You will be giving orders yourself, someday.

At the first moment turn away from unclean thinking.

Don't show off at driving. If you want to race, go to Indianapolis.

Choose a good date who would make make a good mate.

Go to church faithfully. The Creator gives you the week; give him back an hour.

Choose your companions carefully. You are what they are.

Avoid following the crowd. Be an engine not a caboose.

Or even better still, keep the original Ten Commandments.

Teeny Times

The gentleman posing for his picture on this bright and sunny day,
Has two studies, first and seventh, and both are in cafe!

He studies U.S. History 1, fifth period in 142,
And takes Latin 4 next period in 140, too.

English 5, second period, is in Room 54,
And Physics 1, third period is last, there is no more.

For added information, his homeroom is 172,
And now if you don't know him, the ads will answer who.

Oh, For Chivalry

Would you like to return to the days of chivalry; go back to the time of the medieval system of knighthood?

Here is what some of our modern knights and fair maidens have to say.

Bob Shine—No, that armor reminds me too much of football equipment.

Sally Dill—You bet, it would be great to be fought over!

Dave Schwalm—Let's face it. I'm just not the gallant type!

Mike Albersmeyer—Sir Alby likes to joust!

Charlie Lampel—Yes, then I could be a knight.

Marc Speelmon—Not especially, my socks have holes in them!

Ron Bogan—I like to kill women and rescue dragons!

Alfred E. Neuman—What? Me worry!

Al Rainbolt—I couldn't live without my hula-hoop!

Nancy Vanderford—Yes, then my knight in shining armor wouldn't be so shy!

Chuck Weinraub—Chivalry sure isn't my game pardner!

Harvey Trees—Once a king, always a king. Once a knight is enough!

Milton Trobesher—I expect!

Well, let's all have the knightly qualities of courage, nobility, fairness, courtesy, respect for women and good school work.

Flag Symbol Of U. S.; Requires Due Respect

Our flag represents a great country — the United States of America. Thus, the flag as a symbol of this country should receive due respect. When the flag is presented, the customary salutation is to place one's hand over his heart; however, some persons feel that one can salute the flag without any outward show of emotion, and instead have a feeling of respect in their hearts.

This is fine for the person himself. He knows what his undemonstrative action is representing, but will the one sitting next to him? More often than not, one will automatically salute the flag, being so trained in the lower grades; but if in doing so he notices that no one around him is doing the same, he will, suddenly feeling conspicuous, put his hand down.

As can be surmised, in any public gathering such as an assembly or a game where the flag is presented and the manner of saluting is not uniform, such an incident tends to detract from the real meaning of the ceremony.

When questioned concerning their views on the subject, the majority of South Side students answered that they felt the flag should be saluted by an outward sign and given full respect.

There is the old saying, "The majority rules," so let's all, as representatives and makers of a great nation, salute our flag properly at every public gathering from now on, thus showing the patriotic love of country which should be preeminent in our hearts and lives.

Kindness, Happiness Needed In True Friend

"Why does he have so many friends?" This question runs through everyone's mind at one time or another when seeing someone who has more friends than he can possibly handle. This person must have something, but what?

Does he have some sort of magnetism or is he just a plain good friend? What does this person do to make people proudly say, "He's a friend of mine!" It could be that this person thinks first of his friends and then of himself, or maybe he's willing to stick by his friends through fair and foul weather.

Giving kindness and happiness is probably uppermost in this popular guy's mind. Loyalty and honesty just might be two of this person's strongest qualities, making him the friend of all.

A cheery smile always adorns this bright fellow's face, and there is never a frown in sight. He seems to radiate happiness and joy to those around him. Maybe that's why he has so many friends. This guy would never be caught snubbing one of his acquaintances; he has a friendly "hi" for all. He goes out of his way to be kind to everyone, this being why he's called a "nice guy" or a "good friend" so often. Friendliness is his password.

Talking behind a person's back is not one of his downfalls, for his rule is, "Once a friend, always a friend." He looks for the good in people and their strong points, not their weaknesses, and he never makes fun of anyone. No two-faced lad is he, but always honest and straightforward.

His close companions aren't the only ones who realize what a wonderful guy he is, perfect strangers can tell in his courteous and helpful manner.

If it can be said of anyone, it can be said of him, he's the "greatest", but everyone can't be super-human like this guy. Trying to maintain his standards and being friendly and happy as much as possible will give anyone an abundance of friends.

LEVYty

By Larry Levy

George H. Washington

I'll bet you don't know what the H. in our first President's name stands for. Well, don't feel lonely because it seems that there are quite a few others in Miss Mary Crowe's U.S. History 1 who couldn't tell you.

During a study of the contrasts between the American and English speaking procedures in government, Miss Crowe was explaining about how some Englishmen "heckle" their fellow members in Parliament. This simply means they bother the speech of someone in order to stop legislation. In order to make sure all her students understood the term "heckling," she wrote the word on the blackboard.

Somewhat later in the period Miss Crowe gave a quiz on George Washington and she wrote his name on the blackboard, being very careful to put "George" on one line and "Washington" directly below this.

When Miss Crowe graded the papers, she was very surprised to find the heading on about half the papers: George Heckling Washington. I wonder what kind of grades those students got?

Crazy 'Crackers'

Maybe it's the heat, but there's something crazy about the names of animals in Florida. For instance, a turtle is called a gopher in Florida. A gopher is called a salamander, and a salamander is named a Conger Eel in the Cracker State.

True to Form

This year's Junior Banquet, "South's Pacific," was a huge success and the entertainment for the affair was really terrific. It consisted of a series of acts build around the songs from the movie "South Pacific." The first song was "There Is Nothing Like a Dame" sung by Barb Wallace, Sunny Kaade, and Julie Carr.

At the high point of this song Julie was singing, "Nothing walks like a dame" . . . THUMP! The next minute found Julie on the floor of the stage accidentally, but certainly true to the words of her song!

The following is a new feature of the LEVYty Column, want-ads which I hope you will patronize.

For sale—cheap: 2,000 Dot-pictures of famous people, CBS-TV; 10 slightly used hula skirts, Junior Banquet; 1 dented football helmet, Bill Meyer; 1,000,000 unsold Hula-Hoops, Art Linkletter; 500 'A' report cards, S.S. Faculty; 1 slightly read LEVYty column, Larry Levy!

More Mouths to Feed

A couple of junior boys brought along some distinguished guests to the Banquet, but unfortunately forgot to pay for their meals. The fellows, including Steve Bash, Bob Gifford, and Byron White among others, were sitting at a table awaiting their dessert.

It soon was served, and these boys really dug into the ice cream and cake. Up to this point they had been very rude to their guests for they hadn't gotten them a thing to eat yet. Finally though the Ties and the Shirts were graciously served by their hosts! Does anyone know whether ice cream stains?

Homeroom Highlights

Marijo Edwards, Editor

In Homeroom 150 reports on firearms were given during safety class by John Biteman, Bob Bolyard, Bill Burn, Gary Butts, Reynold Bly, and John Byer . . . Mike Callahan received the highest grade on the government test in the homeroom . . . Ron Buesking had such a good time talking to Bonnie Brenn during the homeroom period that Mr. Coats decided to move him to the other side of the room . . . Betsy Bowman would like to dance as she attempted one Wednesday night . . . Marlene Burgess has a red band because it seems that her sister shut the locker with her hand still in it . . . Reynold Bly also is having hand trouble. He was chasing somebody out the door and in his attempt to catch the door his hand went through a window . . . Linda Brubaker is searching for a hobby but hasn't found one yet . . . John Byer thinks it is more fun to laugh at the kids cheering than to participate himself although he manages a feeble cheer once in a while. —Sharon Bricker, reporter

# # #

Two people in Homeroom 82 received exceptionally high grades on their cards last week . . . Mike Pierson finally paid for his Times this week. Now we'll get our candy bars . . . Starting Friday we will give our talks on how to prevent accidents at home and at school.—Karin Rahden, reporter

# # #

There are 30 pupils in Homeroom S-3, 53 per cent of whom are on the College Preparatory course. Thirty per cent of the pupils are on the Business course, and 17 per cent of the pupils are on the General course . . . The pupils who are on the College course are Susan Horth, Paul Johns, David Katzenmaier, Kenton King, Sharon Krakower, Jane Ladig, David Lane, Susan Lee, Victor Lewandowski, Susan Lewis, Bud Lucas, Jenny Manth, Carolyn Martin, Sonda McKee, Lola McLaughlin, and Glenn Linsky . . . The pupils who are on the Business course are Curtis Holley, Dianne Hoppas, Matthew Jackson, Richard Koch, Sandra Kunkel, Michael Leamon, Jim Landlag, Marcia Marschand, and Gary Marvin . . . The pupils who are on the General course are Danny Mahan, Dick Johnson, Kenneth Kennedy, Kenneth Lowden, and Barry Koehl.

As suspected by most of our parents, the members of Homeroom 45 didn't loaf entirely this summer . . . Julie Dedman worked at the A&W Root Beer Stand on the Bluffton Road . . . Ed Crowell worked at jobs obtained through YES . . . Ken Gerke worked for his brother in the plumbing business . . . Keith Correll worked at Brouwer's . . . Steve Feustel worked at his father's grocery store . . . Lakegoers were Lynn Gall, Hamilton Lake (where she dated the lead singer of the Diamonds!); Carol Downhour, Tri-Lakes; Bob Gifford, Crooked Lake (where he reportedly swamped his boat!); Steve Feustel, Coldwater Lake; and Carole Fischer, Rome City . . . Carole Fischer, Julie and Janie Favorite went to Summer School . . . Bobbi Crosby danced in all three of Festival's shows . . . Pat Forehand had the most envious experience of all. She spent six weeks on an Air Force Base in Mobile, Ala. . . . Gene Guenther and Steve Feustel went to their church camp at Epworth Forest . . . Gene Cox built up a custom car, traded it in on another custom car, then wrecked that one . . . Carol Doelling went to California . . . Barbara Hamilton went to all the fairs . . . Carole Fischer was on the McMillen swim team . . . Bob Foltz bought golf clubs instead of a car . . . Joan O'Bryant went to all the parks and just "goofed" around . . . I guess the boys in our homeroom are always broke because only Barbara Hamilton, Julie Favorite, Lynn Gall, Julie Dedman, Pat Forehand, and Carole Fischer went to the Bluffton Street Fair.—Carole Fischer, reporter

Two members of the Rotten-Rotten-Rotten Club reside in Homeroom 74. They are Bill Meyers and Tom Lerch . . . Carol Lytle is disgusted because she bought some shoes and they are falling apart . . . Last Saturday was a very depressing day for Lonnie Kimble; she burned a batch of cookies, ruined a pie, and ripped a dress. She is going to start over? . . . Ron Marker is busy every morning in homeroom getting his hour long book report ready to give next week . . . Dennis Payne finally has a job working at Azar's.—Linda LeVay, reporter

Congratulations to Sharon Ruhl of Homeroom 76 for winning this year's DAR best citizen award . . . Sharon Guy attended a hockey game this past week end. It was the first hockey game she has ever seen . . . The Fort Wayne Ballet, which is under the direction of John Neff presented its first ballet of the season November 22. It consisted of four different works danced by the members of the company. Dianne Reiff and Cheryl Habecker ushered at the ballet along with several other girls from South Side. Tickets were on sale at the Civic Theater or the Ballet School.—Cheryl Habecker, reporter

# # #

It's the hunting season and many of the boys in Homeroom 110 have been taking advantage of it . . . We girls feel sorry for all those poor, innocent, little birds and animals . . . Mr. Weicker struck it lucky when he was hunting the other day. He shot a cock pheasant after only 10 minutes walking in the woods . . . To go along with all this use of dangerous weapons, we had a discussion on the rules for the correct use of guns as a safety lesson . . . Sondra Kaade was elected treasurer of her Junior Achievement Company. Congratulations, Sunny! . . . Kathy Lee is selling J-Aider's First Aid Kits for Junior Achievement . . . Kathy got her beginner's driver's license and the keys to the car, so WATCH OUT!—Janet Lawry, reporter

# # #

Betsy Bowman of Homeroom 150 has won third prize in a limerick contest. She obtained the information during a safety lesson that was given in homeroom . . . Mr. Coats may be getting a new name soon. "Squeaky." It seems that when he walks his shoes squeak . . . Does John Biteman have a leaky pen or did Bob Bolyard have something to do with ink getting on John's desk? . . . Nancy Bailey taught the government lessons for 150.—Sharon Bricker, reporter

# # #

Homeroom 152 has set a new goal for the rest of the semester. We are trying to have 100 per cent banking every week for the rest of the school year . . . We have two prospective basketball stars. They are Dave Roderick and Jim Saylors—Good luck, boys! . . . Juinor Achievers are Rodka Shady, Howard Romanowski, Steve Sappenfield, and Joyce Rondot . . . Phil Schultz is busily fixing his tape recorder every day in homeroom.—Marsha Rolf, reporter

# # #

Homeroom 190 has several industrious students who gave a few hours of their time each day during the summer months to attend summer school. Among them are Bob Bickel, Linda Benton, Peggy McAllister, and ClaraAnn Beyer . . . Last week Bob Mann explained the details of the senior reception to our homeroom. . . . During Teachers' Convention Sarah Lou Miller and Nancy Bailey went to Indiana University. The girls had a terrific time, but it seems they had a little trouble getting a bus from Indianapolis to Fort Wayne . . . Martha Milnor had a good time this summer sailing her boat. She entered boat races at Lake George and won first in three races. Congratulations, Martha!—Linda Benton, reporter

Math Department Provides Four Years Of Study; Space Age Of Today Challenges These Courses

By Janet Terry

Satellites! Bombs! Rockets! Missiles! All have mingled to form the Space Age of today, which is spreading through the world. However, man's desire for adventure and curiosity in space has led him into competition among countries, each with the desire to be the first to perform new space miracles.

Consequently, pressure has been placed on the schools to provide more mathematics courses. This is the challenge facing the mathematics department of South Side High School.

When asked what he believed the values of mathematics to be to the student's personal life, Mr. Sidell said, "I think rigid discipline of thought and expression are primary present values to the student."

Mr. David Cramer, mathematics teachers, remarked that we "can't live a normal life without math." Mr. Cramer listed salary, taxes, transportation fares, and purchases as examples of this point. He also said he believes that math gives one the "ability to assimilate and list his thoughts logically."

# # #

MATHEMATICS is of value to a person as a citizen of this country because, as Mr. Cramer stated, "We will have more people better informed mathematically to understand new inventions."

The math teachers agree that math is indispensable in the study of other subjects such as physics, chemistry, economics, and bookkeeping.

The math courses taught at South Side lead into one another and relate to each other. As Mr. Sidell commented, "Algebra is a prerequisite to geometry, and both are necessary to trigonometry and analytics."

Each student at South Side will lead his life down a different path. Each will study a different amount of math. Everyone, however, must study one year of math, and those on the college course two years. Some will study three and four years of math. However, all graduates will have a basic knowledge of the subject and be able to stand firmly when the current of the Space Age tries to sweep them up.

Sylvia Hanson's Family Tree Claims Talent In Noble Arts

"To be or not to be, that is the question." However, this memorable quotation does not apply to Sylvia Hanson, 10A. It's an unquestionable fact that through the years her dramatic family tree has sprouted branches reaching generously in every field of the noble arts. The buds on these far-reaching limbs represent Sylvia's talented and ambitious relatives.

Her mother is a member of a very well-known theatrical family of Oslo, Norway. Her grandparents were singers and did a great deal of work in opera.

Still higher in the family tree, branches are swaying in a musical breeze for Aunt Randi Heidi Steen, who is a successful opera and concert singer. In 1956, while Mr. Igor Buketoff, conductor of the Fort Wayne Philharmonic Orchestra, was conducting in Oslo, Randi was soloist with his orchestra.

# # #

STILL ANOTHER phase of the wide field of entertainment is covered by another aunt, Kari Diesen, a comedienne working frequently in musical comedies. She and her husband often work together as a team. Sylvia has seen her perform many times and thoroughly enjoyed each performance.

Harold Steen, an uncle, is one of Norway's best known actors on stage, radio, and in films. During their trip in 1954, Sylvia saw him appear in several dramatic roles including Shakespearean plays.

Most of Mrs. Hanson's relatives are active either in the music field or on the stage. For further proof of this, one uncle conducted the Berlin Philharmonic Orchestra for 30 years. Other uncles have played cello, piano, and violin, while aunts tended to become accomplished actresses.

IN ADDITION to aunts and uncles, cousins have taken their share. Three have done work on the stage and are very gifted. However, they are now studying for academic careers.

The youngest of the group, son of Karl Diesen, is a movie star, and following in his mother and father's footsteps, is a comedian also.

With this interesting string of entertainers, it is no wonder that the Hansons again went to Norway and are fervently hoping to see their theatrical family perform.

Joan Mueller Visits Philadelphia, Appears On American Bandstand

What were you doing the afternoon of August 19, 1958?

Joan Mueller, 10B, was having the time of her life in Philadelphia, Pa., on American Bandstand. This trip was Joan's fifteenth birthday present.

Joan, her mother, and girl friend, Georgeanna Johnson, went by train to Philadelphia where they spent one day. "We packed a lot into one day," said Joan. "We saw Independence Hall, the Liberty Bell, and, of course, were on American Bandstand.

Joan had written earlier to Dick Clark, M.C. of the program, and asked if they could get on. The station replied immediately; they told Joan to bring the letter to the office and she could get inside.

# # #

"TERRIFIC," WAS the word Joan used to describe the program. "However, I was nervous at the thought of being on nation-wide television."

"The kids were all very friendly and did everything to make us welcome," stated Joan. Dancing styles were very different in Philadelphia," she commented, "but clothing styles and fads were about the same."

Have you been wondering why many of the same kids are on the show every day? "The staff of the station chooses 30 regulars at the beginning of every season," stated Joan. "These regulars help make the visitors welcome and add color and interest to the program. I danced with many of the regulars and took a picture of Kenny Ross and Arlene Sullivan, two of the most popular.

Like everything, American Bandstand has certain rules and regulations There can be no gum chewing or flash pictures taken during the show; and "One of the most important," stated Joan, "is being quiet during the commercials. Also, the boys have to wear coats and ties, no blue-jeans."

# # #

"ONE DISAPPOINTING thing was that we didn't get to see or talk to Dick Clark," said Joan. "He was on vacation and a disc jockey from Texas was taking his place."

After the program all the kids, including Joan, went to "Pop's," a small drug store by the studio. Here Joan met and talked with all the people. "This was as much fun as anything," she said, "and I only hope I have the chance to go again next year."

4,000 Boxes Of Candy Sold By Musicians

Having each sold 120 boxes of De-Met's Turtles, Dave Disher and Steve Kunkle are leading in the South Side Music Department candy sale.

Four thousands boxes of turtles have been sold, and the Music Department hopes to sell its goal of 6,000 boxes before Thanksgiving.

Money should be turned in to either Mr. Lester Hostetler, vocal director, or Mr. Robert Drummond, instrumental director.

Mr. Robert Storey Does Much Work With Speech, Radio

Teaching speech at South Side, directing plays at Central Catholic, working at WANE-TV, sponsoring Wranglers, and being a family man are a few of the daily tasks of Mr. Robert Storey, speech teacher.

Mr. Storey can often be heard doing stand-by announcements on WANE-TV on Saturdays and Sundays. His radio experience started in 1943 at a radio station in St. Paul, Minn.

In 1944 Mr. Storey came to Fort Wayne and worked at WOWO for nine months. Milwaukee, Wis., was the next place to claim Mr. Storey's services. He worked at WTMJ in Minneapolis, Minn., and he worked at WGL until August, 1956, when he resigned to become a teacher at South Side.

Mr. Storey has directed plays at Central Catholic for two years. His talent in this line results from the fact that he majored in theater while attending the University of Minnesota and appeared in summer stock following his graduation.

Mr. Storey has appeared in 16 Civic Theater plays, the last of which was "Darkness at Noon" in 1952.

Obeying Rules Of Guestmanship Is Key To Weekend Popularity

When that long-awaited week-end invitation falls through the mail box, you will want to follow the best rules of "guestmanship"—the key to weekend popularity.

Your first responsibility as a popular guest is the acceptance letter. Send it right away, giving exact time and place of arrival. (On a week-end visit to a boys' college, the fare is the girls' responsibility; meals and hotel bills, the boys.')

When visiting in a friend's home, a gift for her mother will help warm your welcome. Fit into the family routine easily and add even more points to guest rating. This means getting up with the others, making your bed, tidying your room, and arriving promptly at meals no matter how different from your usual schedule.

# # #

A POPULAR GUEST will follow the tips offered by "Seventeen" Magazine for week-end popularity. "Seventeen" suggests that you help with serving meals, and clearing dishes and make your path invisible by folding bath towels neatly, leaving books and papers as you found them, and keeping your own things out of sight.

Remember, too, says "Seventeen," you owe it to your host or hostess to act as if you are enjoying yourself—whether you are or not. Don't settle back with an "Okay, amuse me" attitude. If your friends have chores to do, be prepared to occupy yourself for awhile. If given a choice of activities don't be coy about stating which you prefer.

When you depart take everything with you and leave your room as you found it.

The finishing touch on polished week-end manners is the bread-and-butter note. Don't wait till more than a day or two to write it.

# # #

IF YOUR WEEK-END trip features a visit on a college campus, your biggest concern will most likely be the proper clothes, suitable to the college customs of the school you're visiting.

Information about the type of school you're visiting can help plan your wardrobe. Styles will vary according to the location and size of the college. Your host or hostess will probably tell you about the big events on campus that you will attend during your visit. So make your plans accordingly.

# # #

FOR TRAVELING, select from your wardrobe, something wrinkle-proof. It is not necessary to feel that "you won't have a single thing to wear unless you take a day on the town for shopping." A skirt and sweater or suit would be fine. Plan to carry your coat, and if possible, plan your color scheme so that one coat will be sufficient.

Friday night movie date or campus tours requires comfortable walking shoes. Many college campuses have strict car privileges, so be prepared to walk like you've never walked before.

Your host or hostess should fill you in on dress for the Saturday evening affair. If it should be a dance with a big name band, you will want to dress according to your host or hostess' taste. Semi-formal after-five dresses would be as dressy as you'd need, unless the dance is strictly formal.

# # #

A WOOL DRESS would compliment a Saturday movie date and TV at the fraternity house. This same dress would be ideal for church and dinner at the sorority house Sunday noon.

A pair of slacks, housecoat, your own wash cloth and towel, and a small gift of appreciation for your host or hostess are accessories suggested for your week-end popularity.

Once you've packed your suitcase and arrived at your destination, don't fret about the clothes you didn't bring. However, make certain before you leave that you have included all the necessities for the week end. Forget about the clothes angle, wear what you took, and enjoy the company of your host or hostess and his friends.

Vesta To Hold Party For Children's Home

The home economics club, Vesta, will hold a Christmas party at the Allen County Children's Home on Thursday, December 18. The members of the club who have made outfits for a doll will participate in the program. The program will consist of games, Santa Claus, passing out gifts, and some Christmas caroling.

A short business meeting was held on November 26 in Room 75. Plans for the Christmas party were made and chairmen of the different committees were chosen.

Thanksgiving Assembly Based On American Life

The annual Thanksgiving Assembly, which was presented November 26 in the gymnasium by 3B Workshop, was based on the theme, "Our American Dream." The assembly was divided into various sections, each demonstrating the significance of the past on the present American way of life.

Elizabeth Ellen Evans' declamation, "I Speak for Democracy," was read by Patti Arnold, and Melvin Smith read the Negro's interpretation of "The Creation."

Other speakers in the assembly were Beth Golden, Karen Brumm, Nancy Bailey, Steve Tracey, Hoy McConnell, and Mike Simmons.

The sponsors who worked on the assembly are Miss Lucy Osborne, Mr. William Applegate, Mr. Marvin Knigge, and Mr. Jack Morey.

# # #

JUDY THOMPSON was general chairman of the event, and Janet Hicks and Sylvia Ehrman were co-chairmen of presentation. Lois Levine and Tom Ogles were co-chairmen of stagecraft, and Katie Rastetter was chairman of the planning division.

Mrs. Grace Welty aided Barb Frederick and Carol Miller in costuming the Romans in the assembly. They were portrayed by Bessie Ferguson, Carol Miller, Katie Rastetter, Dave Redmond, Steve Meyers, Dick McGaw, and Bob Smith.

The Canterbury Pilgrims were Kathy Bricker, Rodka Shady, Karen Simmons, Dotti Ertel, and Tom Felger; and the crusaders were Chris Parrott, Phil Spray, Tom Ogles, and Dave Welch.

Miss Helen Pohlmeyer's Advanced Modern Dance Group, consisting of Susie Ehrman, Ann Cupp, Kay Augspurger, and Bethany Bond, portrayed symbols of the Renaissance.

# # #

THE AMERICAN Pilgrims were Penny Hunt, Judy Riping, Sharon Probst, Sharon Hubbell, Win Moses, Stan Redding, Gus Wade, Steve Holmes, and Stan Hoover.

Dennis McBroom, John Meyerholz, John Wilks, and Jim Carter were pictured as signers of the Declaration of Indpendence; and Eddie Hartman portrayed John Paul Jones.

Other single parts in the assembly were Diane Frederick as Betsy Ross, John Richardson as the printer, Terry Berk as the judge, Larry Lee as the newsboy, Jeannie Carroll as the Catholic girl, Bob King as the Jewish boy, and Mel Smith as the Protestant minister. Bruce Berlin and Steve Bash were the Boy Scouts who raised the American flag.

The voters clustered around the soaphox were Kathy Dunigan, Sharon Eitman, Sandy Miller, David Dill, Mike Gilsdorf, and Bob Shine; and Bob Mann was the speaker.

# # #

THE CLIMAX of the assembly was the entrance of the foreign students bearing their respective native flags and the raising of the American flag.

These flag bearers were Georgia Gomez, Eva Schmitt, Lydia Robles, Mary Gomez, Sylvia Robles, Fran Whitbread, Phyllis Cozmas, Loraine Stone, Arnold Merin, Larry Schrader, Anna Mae Chen, Gregory Avdakov, Karl Biewald, Mahmond Abouzeid, Evert Moi, Iila Stelmashenko, Freda Gersos, Dieter Hilderbrand, Selim Dere, George Gilmour, Sam Fillipou, George Masdaris, Gahe Grissler, Nat Norment, Linda Wightman, Bill Skimos, Sylvia Hanson, Dave Schwalm, and Judy Novitsky.

Archers Trounce Concordia Cadets 68-46

Kellys Capture Second Victory In Three Games

Tom Bolyard Scores 25; Barrett Gets 19 Rebounds, 13 Points, Howe Hits 7

The South Side Archers, behind the consistent scoring and great rebounding of Tom Bolyard and Dave Barrett, made good their first defense of the city championship by trouncing an inferior Concordia Cadet aggregation, 68-46, on the South Side hardwood last Saturday night.

The victory, although very decisive, was far from satisfying as this game is not indicative of the competition the Archers are to face in coming contests.

Aside from a 2-2 tie, the Green was ahead all the way, even in the first quarter showing signs of a runaway. With their passing sharp and superior rebounding power the Archers held a commanding position from the outset. The Reichert quintet opened things up by working the ball around the pivot to set up Tom Bolyard, who took individual scoring honors with 25 points.

Concordia, meanwhile having their troubles, worked a constant weave trying to find a break in South's shifting man-to-man defense, sometimes turning into a zone.

z z z

THE SECOND QUARTER saw the Cadets continuing the weave to a limited degree of success. The Archers, however, were faring quite well from one particular maneuver, having the guards screen and cut in toward the basket and then drift into the corners, setting up Bolyard for a drive across the foul lane and ridding themselves of their defensive assignments for corner shots. In the third stanza the pace picked up with the Archer crew working for quick baskets and getting numerous rebound shots.

In the final period of play Concordia suddenly perked up and started to close the gap. But Coach Reichert quickly put out the Cadet fire by returning Bolyard to the lineup, who had been removed previously on a technical foul. With the annexation of Bolyard the Archers proceeded to halt the Concordia cheer and pull away.

Toward the end of the contest the South Side quintet appeared to tire considerably. Their scoring attack bogged down and play became a bit ragged with Concordia players going down all over the place. The final buzzer sounded with the Archers chalking up their second win in three attempts.

z z z

TOM BOLYARD continued his domination of the South scoring, getting 25 big points to post his second high for the season. Junior center Dave Barrett played the best game of his career, putting down 13 markers. Outside of those two, the scoring was well distributed.

Barrett, who played a commendable game, led in the rebounding department by picking off 19 for a great performance. Tom Bolyard was next, playing his usual brilliant game off the boards, getting a total of 18 rebounds. Ken Howe, playing a fine game, was third with 10; Nick Demetre followed, sweeping off eight.

South was fair from the floor, making 27 out of 81 for one-third of their shots. Their foul shooting left something to be desired as they hit on only 14 out of 26 attempts.

About the only distinguishing unpleasant aspect from the Archer camp was that the Green relied entirely too much on Bolyard. If the Archers expect to stay on top they will have to acquire more team balance and be able to play a good brand of basketball without the use of a single star.

Archers Lose To Southport, End 21 Game Win Streak; South's Kellys Down Bluffton 67-55 In Cage Opener

The inevitable finally came as ex-Archer Blackie Braden's Southport Cardinals found South Side's throttle, cut off their steam, and thus brought a screeching halt to the Archers' 21-game winning skien with a 47-42 victory over the defending State Champs at Southport a week ago Wednesday.

Close to 5,000 Southport sympathizers, along with many from very nearby Indianapolis, came to witness the mighty Cardinals be first to topple the champs. And they didn't go away from Southport's recently inaugurated gymnasium disappointed for the home boys cast all their marbles on lanky, 6-7 Leland Richards and weren't a bit sorry upon the sounding of the final buzzer.

Strong and ardent rooters throughout the gym watched the big boy swish the nets 12 times, 10 times from the field, as he paced Southport to their second conquest in three tries with 22 points. Tom Bolyard, the Archers' stand-by, couldn't seem to find the range in the first half, "only cashing in nine points," but let an Archer rally in the last period and finished in a blaze of fire for 20 points.

Braden's hometown charges led all the way but never felt comfortable even with a 15-point lead early in the final stanza. South's tightly knitted defense bothered the Cardinals all evening, but on several occasions were able to find a hole and cashed in, not missing many opportunities.

z z z

SOUTH SEEMED helpless against Richard's uncanny turn around pivot jump shot. First of all Kenny Howe, who stayed on Richards a majority of the contest, had a "slight" height disadvantage, but there was no one from the Archer bench that could contain the big Southport center.

Evidently Blackie Braden has truly great respect for Tom Bolyard. He had his front court converging on Bolyard every time the slick-moving corner man made a break towards the hoop. Epler also did a splendid job in holding Tom back in the corners away from the basket so Bolyard had to settle for the long ones.

For the first half it seemed like a one-man show with Epler and Richards scoring 23 of the Cardinals' 24 points. Bolyard had nine of South's 21 points.

Both teams emphasized defense for the first half and didn't begin the offensive barrage until the third and fourth periods when each team took a turn. Southport hit their hot streak in the third quarter outscoring the Kellys, 16-5, and then South changed the tide by outhitting the Southport five, 16-7, in the last stanza.

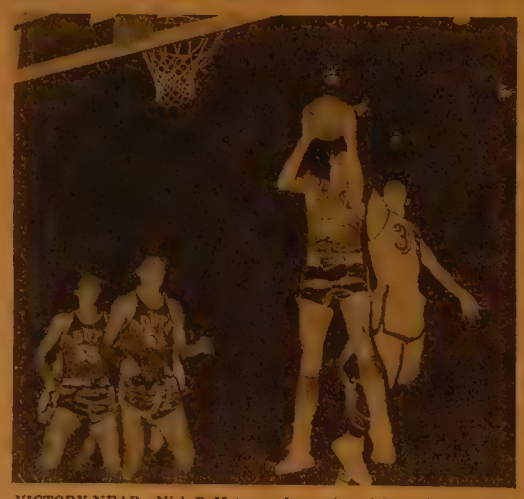
z z z

SOUTHPORT gradually pulled away in the third with Richards setting the pace as Epler rode the bench with four fouls for about half the period. By three quarters they had built up a 14-point cushion. They extended the lead one more to 15 and then Reichert put in his "big" team of Bolyard, Barrett, Roderick, Simmons, and Demetre.

Bolyard hit a bucket and then Mike Simmons was on the receiving end of a quick out-of-bounds pass after a traveling violation on Southport. Simmons had no trouble in cutting the margin to just 11. Bolyard sustained the rally by chipping in another two goals. Braden called time out, Epler went back in to match Bolyard and Southport was once again breathing easy for a moment. Another Kelly rally shaved the margin to six points at 44-38 with just 2:49 remaining.

Southport then decided to hold the ball taking no chances. The Archers recovered a short shot with just seconds to go and hit a last goal to make it 47-42. The Cardinals held on a few more seconds and the screaming crowd heralded the downfall of the State Champs. Marion County's champs finally brought the Archers back to earth.

z z z



ALTHOUGH the Green and White went down at the hands of Southport there should be no dismay for the Cardinals were in Marion County's pre-season "big three."

Height definitely played a big difference throughout the game as Southport had control of the offensive boards and racked up most of their points on the second tries. They held the Kellys back on the defensive boards.

The Kellys, with the exception of Bolyard didn't warm up. Dave Hickman and Kenny Howe had their troubles. They could find the basket but neither boy was able to make it stay in last Wednesday. Although the defense looked fairly smooth, the offense was slow and hesitant. The Archers seemed afraid to move that ball in close and were gambling on the long shots.

Following is South's box score:

Name	FG	FT	TP
Bolyard	9	2	20
Demetre	3	0	6
Barrett	1	1	3
Lebrecht	2	0	4
Simmons	2	0	4

VICTORY NEAR—Nick DeMetre grabs a rebound from the opposition as South Side's Archers struggle for another hard-earned victory. Tom Bolyard (51) and Ken Howe (55) seen in the background are poised for the rebound. With a 2-1 record South can add two more games in the win column this weekend by defeating New Haven and Huntington. (Picture by Gilsdorf)

After Friday, November 21, it certainly appeared that Bluffton had been stricken by a severe T.B. epidemis!

Although this wasn't the usual kind of disease which we associate with these letters, it was bad enough to hand Bluffton its first loss of the season and give Don Reichert and Company their opening game victory. The T.B. epidemic which took its toll in Bluffton was Tom Bolyard, who led South to a 67-55 victory.

Playing with a light cast on his hand, Bolyard grabbed off 14 of South's 40 rebounds and scored 28 points to lead the Archers in both departments.

z z z

ALONG WITH Bolyard, Nick Demetre showed the large crowd in Bluffton's gym that South was not just a one-man team. Nick scored 23 points and picked off numerous rebounds to help lead the Green and White to their 21st straight victory.

But aside from Nick and Tom, no member of the squad scored more than one fielder. Ken Howe and Dave Barrett did a fine job off the boards before they fouled out in the rather ragged play which constituted most of the game.

The Archers were never behind in the ball game. Nick Demetre chalked up the first point of the game and season on a foul shot and the Archers were ahead to stay. At one stage of the game, the Archers led by 15 points, but their lead dwindled to one point in the third period when the scoreboard read 35-34.

South hit 24 of 58 shots for a fine .414 mark. At the charity stripe, the Bowmen hit 19 of 33 for a .576 average.

Besides Demetre and Bolyard, Dave Barrett, Mike Simmons, and Ted Lebrecht comprised the starting five.

z z z

COACH REICHERT deserves a word of praise for readying his squad for the first game. Reichert had only Bolyard back from last year's starting five. However, it was apparent that if Reichert does not develop the rest of the squad, South Side is liable to have a one or two man team on its hands.

Reichert is wise enough to know that such a team cannot go far in Indiana basketball. We all remember what happened to Kokomo's team in the tourney last year when Jim Rayl failed to click when he met a good team.

Despite the fact South's victory appeared impressive, the game showed a very serious weakness in the Archer machine. It was the failure of good if any outside shooting. There were practically no points scored from outside. Someone will get wise and jam up the front court where the Archers scored 99 per cent of the points.

It seemed that Ken Howe really gave the team the spark when they needed it with his timely rebounds and foul shots.

Scoring

Player	Points	Fouls
Bolyard	28	3
Saylors	0	1
Demetre	23	3
Roderick	3	3
Barrett	3	5
Howe	7	5
Simmons	2	2
Gardner	1	0
Lebrecht	0	5

Schmitz On Sports

After 23 straight over city foes it seems simply routine in capturing City Series games. Concordia proved about as much opposition as expected. Boasting of a good shooting team the Cadets proved it on several occasions with some deadly long shots but the final tabulations prove that the shooting is not any better than the Kellys, who took far more shots.

z z z

In fact, each team hit at a .333 clip, but the Kellys' defense enabled the big Green to take 20 more shots. South hit 27 of 81 and Concordia hit 17 of 51.

* * *

From present indications, even above the feelings of popular sentiment, I look for the Archers to extend that win skein in Fort Wayne still further. North Side doesn't look like it has the stuff to stop South now and by that time Bill Meyer will be back.

z z z

Coach Reichert took advantage of the Archers' first breeze of the season by giving the second string some needed experience. Hoy McConnell, who had been riding the bench for the first two contests impressed me with some sparkling defensive play and control on the boards.

z z z

Although the Kellys still are having trouble from outside, it appeared that with a little work the Green and White will develop the deadly outside shooters. Nick Demetre stamped himself as a great distance shooter against Bluffton, but against Southport and Concordia did little shooting.

z z z

Dave Barrett is rapidly developing and showing a little more fight and is well on his way to blossoming into an Archer stalwart. Teddy Lebrecht is also coming along fine from both the offensive and defensive aspects.

z z z

As for the loss to Southport, the Archers were just not on that night. They relied too much on Tom Bloyard, who couldn't hit enough to overcome Southport's high-scoring center, Leland Richards.

z z z

Most of the boys passed up recent shots to whip the ball into Bolyard, who was fortunate to ever get the ball between the grabbing arms of Southport's front court when they dropped in on Bolyard.

z z z

However, South should not take the loss too hard for Southport is one of Marion County's top fives. I didn't think that they had the class of Muncie Central or as far as that goes, Fort Wayne Central, but they could have been having an off night due to the nervousness of trying to beat the champs. Saturday night they proved their power by tripping Indianapolis Tech, 48-46.

z z z

If we in Fort Wayne think we're basketball crazy, we ought to examine the enthusiasm of a "county school" by the name of Southport. Although many fans are misled by the conception that Southport is a mere little country school, the school is rapidly approaching the 2,000 mark in population; and although they are a county school, they reach into the populous Indianapolis suburbs.

z z z

I heard that Southport had just opened its new 6,000-seat gym this fall, but that seemed nothing unusual, for there are many new arenas mushrooming up across the state.

z z z

We arrived a little late but were amazed to find a spacious black-top parking lot overflowing, with cars (of which ours was one) forced to park in the accompanying field. The gym is quite a sight to see both inside and out. The front is accented by a massive glass wall arching the doorway. You enter into a big gym with all the brilliance of a new building. The gym was filled with at least 4,000 people, of which a great majority were parents. In fact, I can never remember seeing that many adults at a home game.

z z z

Of course, the interest that the State Champs bring along contributes to a large turnout but the fans were truly loyal. The students showed more spirit than any I have seen in Fort Wayne. On one side of the gym a girls' cheering block numbering in the 200's, never ceased drowing out the few Archer fans present. One end was filled with a large boys' block that gave their team staunch support.

z z z

One other interesting feature was the scoreboard. I've never seen one comparable. It was a large board on both ends of the gym listing each player, his number, and all fouls committed, and, of course, the score of the contest.

z z z

Many fans up here in Fort Wayne are always saying, "How does Muncie Central, Terre Haute Gerstmeyer, and Lafayette Jefferson always manage to come up with the top teams. It's actually very simple. A good solid grade school system for a backbone and the players, but above all the interest of the fans and their optimism in refusing to admit defeat until it happens.

z z z

In fact, at Muncie there hasn't been a game since 1947 that wasn't sold out! See, they are true basketball fans, not just the conformist type that comes to see his team when it's winning. Now that South Side is back on the state basketball map, let's continue to follow the team with the same attendance and enthusiasm that was shown last year when the team went all the way.

z z z

Since a team thrives on hometown support (Muncie seldom loses in Muncie), back the team

Volleyball Rules Announced By Girls' Gym Instructors

The girls' volleyball rules for this semester have been announced. Mrs. Alice Keegan and Miss Helen Pohlmeyer, girls' gym instructors and GAA advisers, ask the girls to read them carefully. The student leaders are reminded to turn in their rules.

1. Service

(a) A service is the putting of the ball in play by the player in the right back position by bating it over the net into the opponents' court in any direction with one or both hands (open or closed), or with a forearm, and while in a position with both feet wholly behind the serving line within the designated section.

(b) A "let" service is one in which the ball after striking the net goes over the net within bounds into the opponents' court. It must be re-served.

(c) Rotation. The shifting of all players in position for service shall be called rotations. This shall be done in a clock-wise circle.

(d) Point. Point shall be called when a team receiving fails to return the ball legally to the opponents' court.

(e) Dead Ball. The ball is dead after point, side out, after any other decision temporarily suspending play, or when the timekeeper's whistle blows announcing the end of a half. The ball is dead when it strikes any object or surface within the boundary lines, the floor or the ceiling, or a player on the court, except a legal play on the ball. NOTE: If the ball is in air at the time the whistle is blown, a point, if made, shall not be counted.

(f) Out of Bounds. The ball is out of bounds when it touches any surface or object, or the ground outside the court, except a player in the act of playing the ball. A ball touching the boundary line is good. The ball is not dead until it hits outside the court or declared dead by the referee.

(g) Catching or Holding the Ball. When the ball momentarily comes to rest in the hands of a player, she shall be considered as catching or holding the ball. The ball must be clearly batted. Scooping, lifting, or holding the ball shall be considered holding .

2. Courts and Service

(a) Ball put in play. At the opening of the game, the ball shall be put in play by the player in the right back position. At the beginning of the second half, the ball shall be put in play in the same way by the team that did not have service at the beginning of the game.

(b) Term of Service. Each server shall continue to serve until the referee calls side out. Side out is the only ending of a player's term of service.

NOTE: If the server's term of service is unfinished at the end of the first half, and the opposing team is to serve first in the second half, that same server shall continue her serve when he team regains the ball for service in the second half. The team does not rotate. If during the intermission a player is substituted for that server, the team shall not rotate and the player substituted for the server shall serve.

(c) Change Courts. Players shall change courts at the end of the half. In case the wind, sun, or other circumstances favor one court, teams shall change courts in the middle of the half.

NOTE: Time out shall be taken for this change of courts. The position of the players shall not be changed.

3. Playing the Ball.

(a) Batting the ball. The ball may be volleyed in any direction with one or both hands, the hands being either opened or closed, or with the forearm. The ball is dead if it touches any part of the player's body except the hands and forearm.

(b) Played by three. The ball may be volleyed by three players before being batted over the net.

(c) A ball, except a service, striking the net and going over is still in play.

(d) Recovery from net. A ball, other than service may be recovered from the net, provided the player avoids touching the net.

4. The Game.

(a) Scoring. Failure of the receiving team to return the ball legally over the net into the opponents' court shall score one point for the team serving.

NOTE: The receiving team never scores. When the serving side fails, it is side out.

(b) A game shall be decided by the winning of the most points during playing time.

Archers To Face New Haven, Huntington Over Weekend

After capturing two of their three opening games the South Side Archers will settle down for a week-end home stand against New Haven, tomorrow night and Huntington, Saturday evening. New Haven has already stamped themselves as an area threat and Huntington is expected to afford rugged competition.

Led by high-scoring Al Herman, the New Haven Bulldogs will try to avenge last year's loss to the Archers when they invade the South gym tomorrow night.

The Bulldogs placed second in the ACAC tournament last season, and under the new mentorship of Norm Ellenberger, they seem to be even better than last year. The Archers trounced them, 67-50, last year and the Bulldogs will be out to score a victory in this one.

As South Side, New Haven has had quite a few injuries among its players. Lani Norton, who was sure to be one of the regulars this season, was operated on for a ruptured disc and he is expected to be out all season. Al Herman, their leading scorer last year, has an injured knee, but he will be expected to play in the game.

With Norton not able to play, Ellenberger is likely going to use 6-3 Roger Wisley on the pivot spot. The other two forward spots will probably be taken by returning lettermen Bill Fritcha and Dave Dumford. Both stand at 6-2 and have plenty of experience.

Al Herman is a sure bet for one of the guards, and he will try to top his 371 points of last year. Gary Kummer, who scored 28 points in last year's Sectional game with Harlan, will try to fill one of the spots left by Dale Buhr, who was lost by graduation.

Besides having a good starting five, the Bulldogs also have plenty of bench strength. Six-foot, seven-inch Jim Ellis and 6-4 Marshall Snyder will be pushing hard for any of the forwards spots this season. Gordon Wood, a 6-2 senior is also expected to play some ball on the forward spot this season.

As for the guards, Ellenberger has plenty of material with Lee Nickerson, 5-7, and Denny Rennier and Neal Wissman, both 5-7.

The Bulldogs dropped their opening game to Garrett last week by the score of 61-54, and they will take on Central Catholic and Butler before they face the Archers tomorrow.

South Side has been severely handicapped by injuries and ineligibility. Tom Bolyard, the only returning player from last year's starting five, broke his left hand during practice. Nick Demetre has a pulled muscle.

But with Tom Bolyard scoring 28 points the Archers managed to win the first game of the season against the Bluffton Tigers.

With Bolyard, whose broken hand will probably be healed by this time, and with Demetre in top shape, and an otherwise healthy team, the Archers should not have too much trouble winning this one for the Green and White.

Huntington's Vikings will invade the South Side gym Saturday night, hoping to avenge a football "loss" from earlier in the season.

The "loss" came after the undefeated Vikings managed only to tie South's fired-up football team after a previously undefeated season. So, Huntington's basketball forces, composed mainly of football stars, will be gunning for the state champion Archers at 8 p.m.

# # #

HUNTINGTON has three lettermen returning from last year's starting five. Phil Wasmuth, a speedy, quick, 5-9 guard, returns as Coach Ivan Wilhelm's first choice at the starting right guard position. Mike Thomas, also a letterman, is the other starting guard at six feet and carrying 190 pounds.

Mike Reeves will start at center and, although only six feet tall, can be expected to be might tough off the boards as he proved in gaining over 1,000 yards in football last season.

Both forwards of the starting quintet are newcomers to the varsity. John Owens, who stands at 6-2, will start in the right forward slot along with Ken Tewel, a 55-11 junior, at the other post.

Huntington's first two games were Viking victories as the Red and Black defeated Columbia City by a 57-45 score and Warsaw by a 77-68 tally.

# # #

THE ARCHERS, WHO entertain New Haven Friday, have a full week end of basketball. Coach Don Reichert will undoubtedly start senior Tom Bolyard, who, returning from the state championship starting five, has scored well, although hampered by a lightweight cast on his broken left hand.

Kenny Howe, 6-2 junior returning from the championship tourney 12, looks like the man at the center's job. The other forward will probably be Nick Demetre, six-foot junior who netted 23 points in South's opener at Bluffton. Mike Simmons and Ted Lebrecht, both seniors, seem the likely starters at the guard spots. South opened their season with an easy 67-55 victory over Bluffton's Tigers.

Six scorers help the Juniors defeat the Sophomore 1 team in upperclass GAA basketball last Monday in the gym by a score of 36-24. The Sophomore II team defeated the Seniors by a high score of 47-34.

High scorers for the Junior team, captained by Jane Glass, are Peggy Markin, 12 points; Sandy Grodrian, 10 points; and Judy Garrison, 6 points. The high scorer for the Sophomore I team was Sharon Duff with 14 points.

Betty Byrne, scoring 15 points and Jeanette Lynn, 10 points, were the high scorers for the Seniors. Sandy Dolson made 26 of the 47 points for the Sophomore 2 team.

Ellen Dudasky and Sue Rousseau refereed the Junior-Sophomore 1 game, while Joyce Cossairt kept score. The referees for the Senior-Sophomore 2 game were Jan Spuller and Bella Dyson. Martha Bonnell kept the score.

Jesse Owens, Track Star Of Modern History, Says 'Education Is Prime Purpose Of Schools'

By Bob Schmitz

An ex-Ohio State track standout once said about a renowned teammate, "He is so supercharged with good will that he is inexhaustible." A compliment could not be more commendable and a man could not more deserve such a tribute than the greatest track star in modern history, Jesse Owens.

After achieving the loftiest of success as a track star, Jesse Owens did not cease attaining brilliant goals.

Athletic achievement merely preceded and aided his social achievements. His retirement from athletics inaugurated his induction into work with youngsters in which he has surpassed nearly all his counterparts.

TABLE TOPICS—Bob Schmitz talks to Jesse Owens after the Father-Son banquet at the Wayne Street Methodist Church. The ex-Ohio State track standout is presently a member of the Illinois Youth Commission of Chicago. (Picture by Thompson)

# # #

PRESENTLY MR. OWENS is in charge of controlling juvenile delinquency in Chicago as a member of the Illinois Youth Commission which studies reason for delinquency among youngsters and then strives to correst this deficiency of society.

I had the extreme pleasure of attending a father-son banquet at the Wayne Street Methodist Church at which Owens was guest speaker. Some 250 fathers and sons of the church, along with several guests, turned out to honor Owens, a truly great American.

For a week prior to Owens' visit to Fort Wayne a week ago Tuesday, local communications facilities interviewed the track star, whose astounding performance in the '36 Olympic Games humiliated German dictator Adolf Hitler.

Jesse attended elementary school in Cleveland, O., and while in junior high in 1928 the already fleet sprinter established world junior high records for the high jump at six feet and the running broad jump at 22-11¾!

# # #

HIS ALMOST superhuman track abilities followed him through his high school years as his name was entered in the official world record books. By running the 100-yard dash in 9.4 seconds and the 220 in 20.7 he was credited with two world high school records. Then he leaped 24 feet, 11¾ inches a week later to shatter the world's high school broad jump mark.

But success continued "to plague" Owens during his collegiate days at Ohio State University in Columbus, O. In one afternoon while preparing for the Olympic Games, Owens accomplished the feat that was termed as impossible as cracking the four-minute mile barrier at that time. Moreover, Owens cracked three world records and tied a fourth in a single afternoon's competition. This feat has never been approached and undoubtedly will never be accomplished again.

He set marks in the 100, 220, high and broad jump. The following year Jesse "walked" from Berlin with four Gold Medals from the '36 Olympic Games.

Sportsminded Germans gaped when the huskily-built speedster accepted first-place honors for the 100 and 200 meters as well as for the broad jump and the relay.

# # #

SINCE HIS RETIREMENT from active participation from running, all but one of Owens' records have been reset. Only his record of 26 feet, eight and one-quarter inches in the broad jump still exists. His 100-yard dash mark existed until just two and a half years ago when Bobby Morrow from Texas Christian and Dave Sime of Drake lowered the standard.

His report of the actions of German sports fans toward United States' entrants was surprising. Owens said that the fans cheered the American boys showing that they truly were peace-loving people but had been influenced by their tyrannical leaders. His greatest thrill, reported Owens, was winning the 100 meters in the Olympics. "The winner of the 100 meters is recognized as the fastest runner. Tremendous crowds and competition were thrills of being at Olympics," reported Owens in a recent interview over the air.

Jesse still ardently follows the track scene throughout the world and has worked hand in hand with young fellows who are and have tried to break his many records. In fact, during the last Olympic Games held in Melbourne, Jesse administered advice and tips to Indiana University broad jumper Greg Bell.

Owens almost succeeded in helping the youthful Bell crack his only existing world record. This example is a demonstration of true sportsmanship. Jesse even went one step further. Bell missed the mark by just one and one-quarter inches prior to the Games but twisted his foot and was hampered.

Owens was very grieved upon Bell's misfortune and told the short strong jumper that he was mos tdespondent that the Hoosier trackster didn't set a new world mark.

# # #

TEN YEARS AGO Jesse went to Chicago and became active in boys' club activities. He helped young boys who were unfortunate to come from poorer families. The local officials acknowledged Jesse's progressive work among youth. They offered him a post on the Illinois Youth Commission as Juvenile Director for Chicago's delinquent South Side regions.

Prior to accepting this post, Owens was leader of the South Side Boys Club, whose membership soared from 500 to 1,500 while Owens was director. This was only half the story, for not one major delinquency was reported among this once-wild group of boys.

Intrigued, captivated, and engrossed was the church group during Jesse's delivery following the banquet. Owens highlighted his speech by singling out the fact that only the wrongs of youth are publicized. Jesse told the group that only three per cent of the nation's youth are the delinquents and of that group parental influence has caused their misbehaviors in many cases.

# # #

UNITY BETWEEN father and son is the answer to this big problem facing us in the United States, he believes. Directing his "sermon" to the fathers, Jesse said, "These are the young people that will take the helm of responsibilities in the future. By playing and talking with your sons, a tighter bond will be drawn."

He warned that if the fathers fail, the sons will look elsewhere for affection. "Don't set bad examples for him; take him to church, to the ball park and play ball with him. If you don't play baseball, learn to play. Son will do as dad will do."

Owens dynamically conveyed that too much emphasis is placed upon scaling the top. He downgraded the significance of the championship trophy. He said that a metallic trophy merely gathers dust and tarnishes and is or no material value to those individuals who earned it. But extracting true sportsmanship and decent character from participation in athletics and being able to apply these lessons of fairness to life is the primary accomplishment that an athlete can derive from his activities, he pointed out.

# # #

OVER-EMPHASIS on athletics in the schools is one fault that Owens would like to see altered in our educational systems. Owens emphatically stressed that education is the prime and sole reason for youngsters attending educational facilities. He placed sports as a part of education, a necessary part, although not a predominating portion. He feels that if any boy fails to absorb his lessons, sports should be set aside.

By using the example of the typical athletic collegian he perfectly illustrated what he was attempting "to drive home." A young high school lad receives an athletic scholarship and is literally carried through by the college. He passes his four years looking through those "rose colored" glasses. He pointed out that after graduation there is no longer that helping hand.

# # #

JESSE ADMITTED, "Without athletics, I wouldn't be standing here tonight." However, he went on to say that many college athletes get their start because of their eminence. But after a short time, lack of ability creeps up and overcomes them. It is then that these boys look back and wish that they had not substituted athletics for studies.

When I talked to him later, he told me that a career in sports is only a portion of a man's life but his livelihood constitutes his entire existence. He referred to an individual of this type as an "athletic bum."

Through the relating of actual experiences while attempting to rid a certain area on Chicago's South Side of juvenile troubles, Owens implied that the use of psychology tends to accelerate and reaps more fruitful dividends in the reparation of juvenile delinquency.

# # #

THREE YEARS AGO Jesse was appointed by President Eisenhower to tour the Far East as a good will ambassador. He was so well accepted abroad that the Bombay Indian News said this about him, "Jesse Owens is a more winning ambassador than any professional diplomat."

On his trip, an Indian lad asked him how he could talk so favorably about his native people when his own race was being so wrongly persecuted. He answered the boy telling him, "All countries have their faults, but we (United States) do try to erradicate them."

He used Tuskeegee Institute of Technology, Booker T. Washington, George Washington Carver, and present day Ralph Bunch, Jackie Robinson, and Joe Louis as examples of how the Negro has advanced to great accomplishments in this country despite racial discrimination. Although he didn't present his stand on segregation in his speech, he has in the past said that force is no way to solve this or for that matter any problem.

# # #

IN MY PERSONAL interview after being informed of a recent problem confronted by the Lettermen's Club over preventing students from trampling grass, Jesse said the only solution he could think of was to follow the word of the principal or guidance directors.

He told me that any boy capable should indulge in sports because of its power to develop character. "It's a shame that any boy passes up these many opportunities but on the other hand one should not participate at the expense of education." As to training rules for high school athletes, Owens said that desire is the chief ingredient to success if basic ability is present. He pointed out that winning depends on not only the top performances of the best boys, but also the entire team.

He said, "Get plenty of sleep, eat the right foods, and above all, listen to what the coach tells you; if you fail here, it is time for your retirement from active sports."

It is always a tremendous thrill to talk with a famous celebrity, but talking with Jesse Owens is even more exciting. I not only talked to an ex-Olympic star, but I talked with a true American.

In basketball, the Rib Robbers defeated the Cubs, 41-21. Ken Leakey led the victors with 18 points, while his teammate, Lee McClymonds, chipped in 14 points. Allen Sheldon scored five for the losers, while Nidlinger, Schlie, and Bloombach scored four.

The Hot Shots defeated the Rock-in-Robins, 44-24. Tom Schwartz led the Shots with 14 points, while Don Stalter chipped in 11 points. Perry Schlie led the losers with 10 points while Koehlinger chipped in seven points.

The E-Bee-Gee-B's defeated the Dork-a-Gators in a low scoring game, 15-10. Wayne Arnett scored five for the winners while Chickocki scored four. Ken Robinson led the losers with six points, and Bill Lentz scored three.

The Buzzards defeated the Jolly Whoppers, 25-12. Gary Butz was high point man for the game and his team with 13 points. Joe Harper chipped in six toward the winning cause. Tom Wible put on a great attempt to stop the victors by scoring 10 points.

The Dorks defeated the Dribblers, 54-6. Bill Spindler and Bob Haag took scoring honors with 14 points apiece. Chuck Lampel also added 10 points to the winners' total. Freehill scored all but one point for the losers.

The Aces defeated the Porky's Pigs, 60-6. Rick Bush was high point man with 20 points. Larry Christman and Ron Moring chipped in 18 and 10 points, respectively. Turpchinoff scored three and Adams two for the losers.

In Night League, the Blue Ribbon Boys defeated the Wreckers in a double-overtime game, 42-40. Tom Hertel scored the winning bucket. He and Frank Lude led the winners with 11 points each, while Chris Parrott scored seven. Bob Lee and Mike David made a great attempt to stop the Boys by scoring 14 and 13 points each.

The Basketeers defeated the Russian Ball Pounders, 51-24. Stan Rupnow led the winners with 10 points, while Don Pollock and Bob Mann chipped in eight points each. Joe Roth led the losers with nine points, and Doug Geller chipped in six points to the losing cause.

all the way so we can make South Side another Muncie Central or Lafayette Jeff!

Scouting Around — Last issue my critics wasted little time in picking apart my prognostications piece by piece. Well, I explained that my pick of the top teams was based merely on the basis of veterans returnees and paper information. Of course, as far as I'm concerned, that is not too thorough a scanning of top prospects.

Someone asked how I dared go out on the limb and say which games we would win, but so far, I've been 100 per cent correct. I predicted victories over Bluffton and Concordia with a loss to Southport, regarded by many as one of Marion County's (this takes in all Indianapolis schools) best.

* * *

Early season developments have almost made me regret my choices on several games, but being a true prognosticator, I'll leave them alone and hope I can say, "I told you so," later in the campaign.

* * *

The first Central game and the second one as a matter of fact, I foresaw as real close, typical South-Central tussles. I gave Central the nod the first time, but after seeing the way they depend too much on Bill Boyd who will be leaving them come January (two days before the South-Central game), I decided that getting readjusted without the reliable jump shooter might prove too great a handicap.

* * *

However, anyone who underestimates the power of the Tigers, even without Boyd, better brace themselves for a glum time in the shower room afterwards. Another thing, unless you have a team that runs like a squad in seven league boots, don't try to run with the Tigers. I saw Richmond try it and Central won 91-53 after trailing 16-9 at the first stop.

* * *

And the Tigers didn't start rolling until the latter part of the second stanza when the Banet press gripped Richmond's Red Devils and started the Devils' mentor wishing he had confined his 10 to Richmond for the night. Head Coach Herb Banet's smile extended just that much further when his "newcomer," Willie Curry, displayed that he has eyes for a starting berth. And from my seat I saw no reason why Willie does much bench sitting. He is big, fast, a hawk on defense, and a stalwart from the field.

* * *

When the Tigers sacrifice height by taking out slow Don Linton, the downtown lads could run the best aground with their great fast break and uncanny shooting, especially that of Boyd, T. C. Williams, Willie Rozier, and Curry. But as expected this early in the season, the Tigers are very weak with the ball handling. Of course, in a fast game one can expect more errors, but Central was guilty of an extraordinarily high number.

* * *

Despite a tremendous offense improvement, North Side looks like they're off to another stellar year. Yep, that's the wrong word; it should be cellar. Of course, I doubt if the Redskins can swipe the City Series basement "laurels" from Concordia this year, but I likewise doubt if the Redskins can manage to come up with a highly successful season, especially against Fort Wayne teams. If the 'Skins break even it should be a good tribute to the coaching staff.

* * *

C.C., rated by many in the area as a possible threat to South and Central, has already faltered and proved that they are a publicity team again. Dropping contests to New Haven and Garret was not too disgraceful, but, in addition, they just nudged Kendallville.

* * *

As for that list of 15 teams, boy, did I overlook a couple of prospective powers. All apologies to Jeffersonville, rated number three last season and regaining the services of almost the entire team, North Judson, northwestern Indiana's '58 Cinderellas, and Evansville Bosse.

* * *

I said I would not go out on a limb and pick a state champ for '59, but I did pick Huntingburg for the top of the list. I don't say that I didn't think of them as a darkhorse, but I selected them for the top on the basis that they play only a few big teams and have less chance to be upended, but along came a small county school and stunned the southern school and the entire state with a close triumph over Huntingburg; and then powerful Evansville Bosse turned the table on Huntingburg a second time.

* * *

My misery didn't last long, however; I was joined a week later by the 11 state sportswriters who picked South Bend Central as the State Champs. South Bend, resting on past performances of Sylvester Coalmon, were dumped by Fort Wayne Central, 63-57.

* * *

Other interesting developments of powers throughout the state caused mouths to hang agape. Indianapolis Secina, rated by many to walk off with Naptown honors, found the old perennials just as tough as ever and unwilling to relinquish their dominance. Secina ran up against an overlooked Shortridge five and fell; then two days later, last Friday, Tech blasted them, 85-70. Shortridge's convincing win earned them serious consideration. And now with this win in mind, I'm not so sure that my prediction of a win over Shortridge will materialize.

* * *

Elkhart, our northern foe, may upset the Archers' band wagon and my prognostication when the Green and White meet the squad that solidly upset East Chicago Washington. The only out-of-town team that we may play twice, Terre Haute Gerstmeyer, felt the Attuck height in bowing, 67-42.

Coach "Porky" Holt's Frosh Squad Has Potential For Fine Campaign

South Side's freshman basketball team is looking forward to a successful season in 1958-59. Under the direction of Coach Charles "Porky" Holt the frosh squad has molded into a fairly strong outfit.

Missing are any unusually tall boys, the tallest man standing six feet, two inches. However, the average weight of the team is quite heavy, averaging 144½ pounds per man. This will help under the boards. The team's speed is better than average. Lacking is a court general who can lead the team and give it that extra spark.

Coach Holt believes that the freshman squad has the potential to have a really fine season. He adds, "How well the team does depends upon how well the boys buckle down as the season rolls on."

MR. HOLT IS IN his first year as an Archer coach. Before coming to South he coached at Monmouth High School; as head basketball coach there he led the Eagles through many successful campaigns. He came to Fort Wayne four straight years from 1953 to 1956 for the Regionals. In 1955 and 1956 with big Norb Witte, Monmouth was barely beaten for the Regional crown, being beaten by North Side and South Side. Mr. Holt has proven in the past that he gets the most from the material with which he works.

Some boys have done very impressive work in practice. Two of these boys are Ken Leakey and Dave Meek from Harrison Hill Junior High. Leakey stands five feet, 11 inches tall and can play either guard or forward. He has a good set and one-hand jump shot. Meek is a six-foot center and is a good rebounder. He will be used mainly in the pivot on offense. Both of these boys played first string on Harrison Hill's team.

KEN ROBINSON, Abbett's number one man last year, will see a lot of action this year for South. This all-around athlete plays forward or center. He carries his five-foot, 11-inch frame around quite well. Robinson will cause the opposition plenty of trouble under the boards.

Other boys who have looked impressive in practice include Nate Norment, a transfer from Tolleston High School of Gary. At six feet, two inches this slim center-forward is the tallest boy on the squad.

Tom McMahan and Larry Gerig have also done fine work for the Archers. McMahan is a five-foot, 11-inch forward. Gerig is five feet, seven and one-half inches tall and will play from a guard position. Both boys played for Harrison Hill as did Lee McClymonds. The bespectacled McClymonds is a five-foot, 10-inch forward, who has also done well in practice.

MIKE DUNN will see plenty of action in the coming campaign from his guard position. Dunn stands five feet, nine inches tall and played his junior high ball at Abbett.

South's freshman squad includes two boys from Smart's 1957 and 1958 City Junior High basketball championship team. One is Bob Acker, a five-foot, seven and one-half inch guard who has looked very good in practice. Acker will be fighting for a starting five role. The other is Don Sievert, a five-foot, 11½-inch forward. Sievert was hindered by a bad back earlier during practice.

Rounding out the team are guards Steve Cook and Earl Irwin. Fighting for a forward position is Bob Ramage. Coach Holt is grooming six-foot, two-inch Can McCroskey for a center position. The lanky McCroskey is a bit inexperienced, but he is learning fast.

THE TEAM HOPES to make Mr. Holt's first year as an Archer coach a successful one. Dave Meek states, "We have a good team but also a tough schedule. We can have a great season if everyone gets down to business."

Ken Leakey feels that the team is progressing well. He says, "I am sure we will give our opponents a rough time. The coach is working us hard but it will turn out better in the end."

Stocky Ken Robinson adds, "We have a really great team. Our toughest games are at the first of the season. If we get by all right in those games we can have a fine season."

South's freshman team opens the season tomorrow against a tough Central Catholic outfit. Tip-off time is 4:30 p.m. The following is a roster of the freshman team:

Name	Ht.	Wt.	Pos.
Bob Acker	5-7½	120	G
Steve Cook	5-7½	125	G

Nine Kelly Students Don't Mind Having Parent Teacher At South

Imagine what it would be like to be a "T-K" (Teacher's Kid)! What would it be like to have your own mother or father as a teacher?

Nine students at South Side are "T-K's." These Archers are Rebecca and Elizabeth Hostetler, daughters of Mr. Lester Hostetler, choir director; Becky Davis, daughter of guidance director, Mr. Ora M. Davis; Judy Cramer, daughter of Mr. David Cramer, mathematics; Ramona Stuart, daughter of Mrs. Roy L. Stuart, study hall teacher; Marjorie Havens, daughter of Mr. Everett J. Havens, business teacher; Ann Wilson, daughter of social studies teacher, Mr. Wilburn Wilson; Phillip Spray, son of Mrs. Evlyn Spray, English teacher; and Joan Scott, daughter of Mr. Wayne Scott, athletic director.

THROUGH A POLL given to these students, it was revealed that as far as homework was concerned, their parents weren't any harder on them than the average parents.

Three of the students have had their fathers or mothers as their class teachers. One student said that her father didn't pay much attention to her in class while the other two said that their parents always expected them to answer many questions, but weren't ever "picked on."

One student said, "I often find that my mother, as a teacher, is sometimes a little bit harder on me than on some of the other students in my class."

When asked if it made any difference to their fellow classmates that they were the son or daughter of a teacher at school, most of them replied that, to most kids, it made no difference at all.

"Some kids are a little leary of you because of this, but only a few are," replied one student. Many classmates don't even know that their parents are teachers at South Side.

ONE ADVANTAGE of having your father or mother teach at school is that you are always assured a convenient ride to and from school. Also, if you get stuck on a hard problem, you always have a teacher handy!

Many amusing experiences occur to these students, but one girl was asked by someone whether this certain teacher was her grandfather or her father! Also, a few times, someone would be talking about a teacher, little realizing that his or her daughter or son was in the group.

Surprisingly enough, however, all nine "T-K's" expressed no desire to become future teachers, and teaching didn't "run" in the family of any of them.

Lutheran Choral Society To Present 'Messiah'

The "Messiah" by George Frederick Handel will be presented by the Fort Wayne Lutheran Choral Society this Sunday, December 7, at the Scottish Rite Cathedral beginning at 2:30 p.m. Reserved seat tickets are priced at $2 and $1.50, with special student tickets at $1, and are available from Choral Society members or Fred Meyers Piano Company, 301 West Jefferson Street.

Archers Conquer Highest Peak In Grand Teton, Describe Adventure As 'Great,' 'Inspirational'

Would you be able to live on chocolate, rye-crisp, and raisins for two days? Well, that's just what seven Archer lads did this summer.

Jack Lehman, Jack Harms, Dave Bennett, Jeff Roth, Allan Mitchell, Jim Tomson, and Steve Komito had the experince of a lifetime last August. With Mr. Weber, their leader, the boys set forth July 27; destination—Grand Teton National Park, Wyoming.

Their ultimate goal was the highest peak in the park measuring 13,766 feet. Park regulations require climbers who want guides to accompany them to attend climbing school, so the boys spent on day at the school learning the two fundamentals—ropework and rock climbing.

ALONG WITH their three guides, the nine boys and their two counselors began the ascent. They started at Jackson Hole, their campground, and climbed to 11,500 feet and had beautiful weather all the way.

Luck wasn't with them the second day, for they climbed entirely in clouds. When they reached the summit, the clouds partially cleared, so that they were able to se the surrounding mountains. The group reached the Saddle at 3:30 p.m. where they spent the night. The first party reached the summit at 7:12 a.m., while the others arrived an hour later.

To tabulate how many climbers actually reach the peak, park officials have secured a metal sylinder with paper and pencil inside it for those people to sign their names. The paper is changed every year, and when the boys signed it, ther were already 180 names on it.

The boys flew a flag which read "Pioneers, YMCA, Fort Wayne, Indiana," and then Jim Tomson piled up stones to make the peak even higher.

During another climb, Jeff Roth and Wilfred Doetsch (C.C.) had the opportunity to climb a glacier. They only got about 500 feet when they had to turn back because of time.

Along with all the pleasant things on the trip, there must be some of the opposite. For this, the boys voted in first place the morning the clock gained and the alarm went off at 2:30 a.m. instead of 3 a.m.

* * *

MAN FEELS RATHER small when he attempts a climb such as this, but at one point the boys felt like "big men." This happened as they were climbing a mountain path and a plane flew below them. The boys described it as an "exhilerating feeling."

They may not have made the trip in a limousine, but they had the next best thing. Going in a truck similar to one of the Army type provided room for reading books and wrestling in the rear.

In the number one spot for the event to be most remembered, the group votd unanimously on the 120-foot rappel. For the uninformed, and who isn't, a rappel is a French term which means "going down the mountain side via rope." Imagine how it would feel to be dangling from a hope with hundreds of feet of absolutely nothing but air beneath you!

It wasn't all work for there were more than enough humorous incidents. This may bring out a peculiar trait in people, but not one of the boys, with the exception of Steve Komito, told any stories about themselves—just their friends!

Since Steve had enough honesty to tell on himself, it's only fair to relate his experience first. Crossing a mountain stream on rocks is a fairly easy task in itself—for everyone with the exception of Steve, that is. He had to fall in!

"Friends" reported that Jack Harms "gracefully" stepped on four dozen eggs. Wonder what the reason was? The same "friends" also told stories of how many female acquaintances Jack Lehman acquired.

I don't know if this indicates anyone is a fathead, but the story is told that Dave Barrett borrowed Mr. Weber's climbing hat. The hat was so big that he had to stuff part of his T-shirt in it.

THIS WOULD BE a sure cure for persistent talkers. The same "friends" told of the time that Allan Mitchel's talking ability diminished as the climb gained altitude.

To this incident, as yet, no one has owned up to, but the story is told of the time eggs broke all over the packs. Even if they were hard-boiled, it was still describd as a "gooky mess."

The most ironical point in the whole trip happened when collge-man Don Koehler got a ticket for driving the truck without tail lights. This happened 40 miles from "home" (Camp Potawatomi), when they had already driven nearly 5,000 miles without being stopped.

To prove that there is also some sentimentalism in males, the boys brought souvenirs home. The "top three" included snap hook for rappel rings, nylon rope, and pitons.

Mr. Weber states that another story in itself is the experiences that happened at the base camp in the Grand Ttons, at Yellowstone, and at the Badlands, South Dakota.

To describe a trip such as this would be almost impossible, but our boys come up with such remarks as "interesting," "great," "fantabulous," "I'd do it again, if I had the chance," "quite an experience," "exciting," "satisfying," and "inspirational."

Tom Bolyard Looks Forward To Successful Basketball Season

Although he was slightly handicapped by a broken hand, senior forward Tom Bolyard sparked the Archers to an opening victory over Bluffton last Friday night with his 26-point barrage. A bone in his left hand was broken in a pre-season scrimmage, but it did not seem to slow the 6-4 flash, even though he played with it in a light cast. Tom ranged the length of the floor, sinking buckets, sweeping the boards, and batting down shots against the hapless Tigers. He received quite a workout, playing the entire 32 minutes.

TOM'S ASTUTE performance came as no surprise to veteran Archer fans, who have watched him turn in sterling performances time after time in his three years of varsity competition. The only returnee among the starting five of the 1958 state champions, he has been a major force in the Green and White's court triumphs during past seasons.

Entering South Side from James Smart Grade School in 1955, Tom participated in freshman basketball. In his sophomore year, he took over a varsity forward position, which he has held ever since.

His basketball talent came to the fore at an early age, possibly inherited from an uncle, Bob Bolyard, who played on another Archer state championship squad in 1938.

* * *

TOM IS LOOKING forward to another successful hardwood campaign in 1958-59. He thinks the Archers will capture city honors, although Central is expected to provide stiff competition, and, with luck, he is hoping for another trip to Butler Fieldhouse in March. Nick Demetre, Ted Lebrecht, and Mike Simmons are rated as particularly outstanding members of the squad by Tom.

Tom Bolyard

Tom is also anxious to participate in basketball during his college days, but he has not yet decided upon what college will receive the benefits of his great talents and fine spirit.

Class Rings Have Interesting Uses; Symbol Of Youth

When we Archers grow old and become grandmas and grandpas, we are going to have to prove to our grandchildren that we were once young and in high school.

If they are very skeptical, and our wild tales of winning state in '58 don't convince them, all we have to do is pull out the old class ring. The date, which is always on the ring, is enough to convince anyone, even grandchildren.

Of course, class rings have uses other than enlightening doubting grandchildren. During the owner's high school years, the ring is usually dangling from the chain of his steady. To him it is a symbol of fun and romance. During this time it is also handled by admiring friends and slipped on and off enjoying fingers. By the way, grandparents, if the ring looks worn it is even more convincing to your grandchildren.

ANOTHER USE of the ring is to wrap angora around the band. This, too, happens to rings of steadies. Usually pink or white angora is used.

Of course, the angora ends up covering everything the wearer owns, but that is a risk she has to take. (It is a very rare case when a boy wraps his steady's ring in angora so it won't fall off his finger).

The best part of being a class ring is that it is often given as a present. Just think how much fun it would be to be unwrapped on Christmas morning amid oo's and ah's of delight.

As you can see, during the first few years of its life, the ring leads an active and exciting life.

* * *

DURING ITS LATER years, it not only serves to remind grandchildren, but also grandparents, that they were once young. The more grandparents are reminded of their youth, the easier they are on their erring grandchildren.

The moral of this story is: If you want your grandchildren to love you, buy a class ring now.

Nine Pupils Leave School; Three Enter South Side

South Side has lost nine students and gained three in the past two weeks.

Richard Hoff was forced to withdraw from school because of illness, and Ed Ashkenazie has decided to go to work. Nancy Walker has moved to Missouri, while Kay MacDanel now resides in Iowa. Hoagland High School now claims Nadine Hobbs. Barbara Dollarhite, Pat Harding, Alvin Davis, and Sadie Griffin have withdrawn.

Two new freshmen are Jerome Berry from Leo and Joe Doerflein from North Side. Edward McKowen, a sophomore, transferred to South Side from Concordia.

Jeanne Hammons, Dinah Goodin, and Lois Meyer scored perfect grades on spelling lesson No. 10 in Mr. Furst's Clerical Practice 1 period 5 class. Jeanne Hessert was the only student to score a perfect grade over the same test in the period 2 class. The other high grades were made by Sheila Sutton and Sandy Houser.

Dick Baxter and Ron Kolkman scored A+ grades on a recent pronoun test given to Mr. Furst's Clerical Practice 1 period 5 class. Joan Motley and Jeanne Hessert scored the highest grades over the same test in the period 2 class. The test consisted of the various uses of the personal pronouns which the classes have been studying.

Jeanne Hessert and Ron Kolkman scored grades of 85 on a recent test covering spelling lessons No. 1-10 in Mr. Furst's Clerical Practice 1 classes. The review test consisted of 100 words from approximately 1,000 words that the students have learned to spell so far this semester.

Hoosier Boys' State Clinic Teaches Indiana Government

"Boys' State is a great and worthwhile institution! I learned much about Indiana's government, and I also met many guys and made new friends."

These are the impressions of Melvin Smith, Senior B, who spent one week this summer at a very educational and beneficial clinic—Hoosier Boys' State.

"Last summer at Boys' State was a wonderful experience for me," are the words of Richard Tipton, Senior B, who also attended the school, which convened at Indiana University, Bloomington, from July 14 to 22.

When asked about his most outstanding memory of Boys' State, Mel answered, "It's really hard to say, but I believe that I will always remember the fellows electing me Precinct Committeeman, City Chairman, County Chairman, and County Councilman. I really didn't expect such honors."

"ALL WHO HAVE mediated in the art of governing mankind have been convinced that fate empires depend on the education of youth." Because the importance of educating teenagers in self government has been realized by civic leaders in Indiana, Hoosier Boys' State, a governmental and citizenship clinic, is held annually.

The primary purpose of Boys' State is to teach high school boys throughout the state the principles and functions of their Indiana government.

Qualifications to be a representative to Boys' State are based on citizenship, leadership, interest in government, and personality. The delegates are sponsored by civic organizations such as American Legion Post 148 and South Side Kiwanis Club, which sponsored Melvin and Dick, respectively.

Arising at 6 a.m. and marching in formation to flag raising ceremonies was the beginning of each day. After these ceremonies, breakfast was served in the dining room of the Men's Quad, home of the 900 boys during their stay.

Both Mel and Dick readily agree that the highlight of the week-long session was the address of Governor Harold Handley at a meeting of the General Assembly.

In the afternoons, special schools were attended by the boys. Mel attended the Police School while Dick studied law. Both boys received the highest possible grades on final tests in their respective divisions.

# #

SWIMMING IN THE spacious university pool was enjoyed by the boys. Other free time was spent running track and playing basketball.

The one complaint of Melvin and Dick was the fact that all "Boys' Staters" had to march in formation at all times. However, as they look back on the marching, they agree that it really wasn't "too" bad.

After guard drill, flag lowering, and dinner, another general assembly was held; and then—bed.

In addition to being outstanding citizens, these Archers are both outstanding in athletics. Dick is a member of the football team, and Melvin is active on South's track squad. Both are members of Homeroom 140 and are on the college preparatory course. Mel's plans for the future include college and a career in pharmacy. Dick is undecided about his college major at this time.

Movies Will Be Shown

Today the health classes will see two movies entitled "Moving X-Ray" and "Your Teeth." The physical geography students will view "Clouds" and "Water Cycle" next Tuesday.

The class of 1959 and the senior class advisers, Miss Mary Graham and Mr. Jake McClure, will host South Side alumni, school officials, South Side faculty, and parents of the senior officers at a dance Friday, December 19, from 8:30 p.m. to 11:30 p.m. in Room 114 and the cafeteria.

Tickets will be sold for 50 cents. Those attending will dance to Hi-Fi music.

Lonnie Kimble and Bob Mann are co-chairmen of the dance in charge of all arrangements. Janet Hicks is chairman of the invitations committee, and Sara Hindman and Susan M. Holmes are working with her.

The decorations committee is headed by Barbara Ronan with Marijo Edwards assisting. Other chairmen are Hoy McConnell, tickets; Kathy Schwalm, invitations to guests and chaperones; Janet Gareiss, register and tags; Tom Graham, refreshments; Jeff Clark, checkroom; and Bob Keegan, cleanup.

Lonnie Kimble and Bob Mann are in charge of the P.A. announcement. Homeroom speakers are Bill Meyer, Tom Bolyard, Jerry George, Sharon Ruhl, John Hendricksen, Kay Augspurger, Dave Dunstone, Janet Hicks, Janis Mitchell, Mary Sue Robertson, Judy Thompson, Steve Tracey, Hoy McConnell, and Kay Kreachbaum.

New Organ To Provide Music For Events In Many Places

A NEW ADDITION—Mr. Lester Hostetler, director of the vocal music department, sits at the new Lowrey organ which was recently purchased by South Side. Standing at the organ is Mr. R. Nelson Snider, principal. Many new uses are being planned for the new organ.

"A complete showpiece with all the modern effects," stated Mr. Lester Hostetler, vocal director, referring to the Lowrey portable electronic organ, which arrived at South Side November 24.

With limed oak finish, this Lincolnwood model is the third size up, the size used by many churches. Two auxiliary speaker units complete the organ for use in the gym.

Each manual, or layer of the keyboard, contains 20 to 30 stops and the organ produces all instrumental effects available on other standard organs and plays all types of music from popular to hymns.

* * *

VERY VERSATILE, this portable model, now on wheels for easier transportation, will be used in general programs at South and can be wheeled to the gym, up ramps or to the new section which is being added to the school. A station wagon provides ample room for hauling the portable to concerts outside school.

Finances for the organ's purchase were acquired from the Choir Robe Fund through outside concerts over a period of years.

IN TUESDAY'S Abe Lincoln Assembly, the organ was first used for a public entertainment.

"Anyone with musical ability who would like to play the organ is eligible," replied Mr. Hostetler. "Sharon Probst, junior, and Dennis Crill, freshman, are two interested possibilities, and other organists, even novices, will be welcomed," he added.

Tomorrow is the last day to make final Totem payments if those who subscribed during the October campaign want their names embossed on the cover.

Totem representatives went to the various grade schools and sold Totems to the students who will be coming to South Side in January.

Alice Weddle, Totem editor, said that she is "very pleased with both the Totem sales and production progress."

Faculty Party To Be Dec. 17

The annual faculty Christmas party will be held in the Greeley Room next Wednesday at 3:30 p.m.

Miss Pauline Van Gorder, dean of girls, announced that, this year the women would be entertaining the men. Besides the faculty, other guests will include retired teachers, custodians, office help, printers, and the ladies in the kitchen.

Miss Lucy Mellen, assisted by Miss Lucy Osborne is chairman of the food committee. The menu for the party will consist of eggnog, fruit cake, cookies, nuts, mints, and coffee.

Mrs. Grace Welty, chairman of the decorations will be assisted by her committee consisting of Miss Lutie Young, Miss Mary Crowe, Mrs. Ruth Berkes, Mrs. Jean Gernand, Miss Rowena Harvey, and Miss Pearl Rehorst.

In charge of the invitations are Miss Willodeen Price, chairman, Miss Nell Covalt, and Mrs. Alice Keegan.

The program committee, headed by Miss Olive Perkins, consists of Miss Barbara Leif, Mrs. Florence Emshwiller, Miss Helen Burr, Miss Edith Crowe, and Miss Anita Schaeffer.

With Miss Pauline Van Gorder as chairman, the table committee consists of Miss Mary Reiff, Miss Mary Graham, and Mrs. Roy Stuart.

Assisting Mrs. Myrtle Grimshaw in the serving will be Miss Ann Arber, Miss Virginia Ayers, and Mrs. Mildred Luse.

The financial matters of the party will be taken care of by Miss Mabel Fortney, chairman, and Mrs. Donna Jean Darby.

Miss Helen Pohlmeyer, chairman, Miss Lucy Mellen, Mrs. Anne Redmond, Miss Susen Peck, Mrs. Evlyn Spray, and Mrs. Ruth Fleck will serve as hostesses at the party.

The clean-up committee will consist of all the chairmen of the other committees: Miss Pauline Van Gorder, Mrs. Grace Welty, Miss Olive Perkins, Miss Willodeen Price, Miss Lucy Mellen, Mrs. Myrtle Grimshaw, Miss Mabel Fortney, and Miss Helen Pohlmeyer.

Philo Christmas Play To Be Given Monday

"Christmas in Her Eyes," a short Christmas play, will be presented at the Philo meeting Monday at 3:30 p.m. in the Greeley Room. Grandma Willard will be portrayed by Judy Ripping; Judy Willard by Lonnie Kimble. Diane Decker will play the part of Freda Dell.

Judy Thompson will take the part of Ellen Scott, and Carol Oxenrider will play Claire Pendleton. Kate Miller will be portrayed by Linda Wightman; Gloria Ross by Cheryl Habecker. Sara Lou Miller is the director; Karen Brumm is the assistant director.

Refreshments will be served after the meeting.

Fire Alarm Is Ready For Drills

Was your third period class interrupted last week by Principal R. Nelson Snider's announcement concerning the intermittent rings of the fire-alarm bell?

The reason for this was that during the remodeling of the boiler room this summer, the main electric connection on the fire box had been disconnected and the electricians were now busy reconnecting the fire alarm.

As for our fire drills since that disastrous Chicago fire, they will remain unchanged. "Our building can be emptied in less than two minutes with everyone's help in case of fire," stated Mr. Snider.

With this protection, nothing of this type should happen to any Fort Wayne city school.

Art Club To Hear Miss Blanche Hutto

The annual Christmas party of the Art Club will be next Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Cleon Fleck, 4640 Lafayette Esplanade. The party will last from 6 to 8:30 p.m.

Miss Blanche Hutto, Central High School art teacher, will give a demonstration on decorating Christmas packages.

Candy, nuts, cookies, and punch will be served.

Meterites Will Give Poetry, Short Stories

Christmas poetry and short stories will be featured at the meeting of Meterites next Tuesday. The winner of the contest will receive 25 points, second place 20 points, and third place 15 points.

Christmas Program Set For Dec. 19

The annual Christmas Assembly will be presented in the gymnasium on Friday, December 19, at 8:20 a.m. by 36 Workshop. The theme of the assembly is "Winter Wonderland." Mr. Lester Hostetler will help support this theme with the Madrigal Choir.

Miss Lucy Osborne, Mr. Marvin Knigge, Mr. Jack Morey, and Mr. William Applegate are the sponsors who have been working on the event.

The chairmen of the various parts of the assembly have been working with the sponsors in adapting parts of a Christmas story to the presentation of the event.

Mary Sue Robertson, Jan Derheimer, and John Meyerholz are the general chairmen of the assembly. Molly Dixon and Beth Golden are in charge of presentation, and Stan Hoover and Mike Gilsdorf will preside over the stagecraft meetings.

Several committees have been chosen under the presentation division of the assembly. Bessie Ferguson and Penny Hunt are co-chipmunk-chairmen, Janet Lawry and Bobbi Jo Crosby are in charge of the skaters, and Margo Martindale and Julie Carr will aid Mr. Hostetler in instructing the Madrigal Choir.

Kellys Leaving Early Will Be Unexcused

No student may be excused to leave early or come back late during Christmas vacation, Mr. R. Nelson Snider, principal, announced. Absences other than sickness or death in the family will be counted as unexcused absences. However, if anyone is planning to be absent, they are to notify Mr. Snider ahead of time; and he should notify the student's teachers.

It is the sole responsibility of the student to make up any work missed.

Rules Stated For Kelly Hops

The after-game dance season is here once again, and the rules to be observed are given for the benefit of the new freshmen.

Tickets are not sold at the door, but may be purchased ahead of time from the members of the organization sponsoring the dance.

No one is permitted to leave the dance before 11:15 p.m. Students and guests are expected to arrive on time and stay until the end. Anyone who has to leave early must have the approval of the dean.

Students are not permitted to enter the room where the dance is being held wearing their top coats and wraps.

Loud or boisterous conduct is discourteous to others and should be checked immediately.

Cokes and other drinks sold may not be taken into the dance room.

Smoking in the building is contrary to the rules of the school.

Guests at the social events are never permitted to take the decorations as favors.

Although the school has had very little difficulty about this, they insist that anyone who has been drinking must leave immediately.

Pass-outs are never given at the school's functions. This regulation doesn't apply to chaperones or members of the orchestra.

After-game dances are informal functions. Sports clothing for both boys and girls is considered proper. Girls are not permitted to come wearing slacks, jeans, or band uniforms. Boys are not to wear jeans.

Any visitors, whether adults or students from other schools, are expected to observe the same regulations as those required of South Side students at social functions.

It is not necessary to have a date in order to attend any of the school's social functions. The policy of the school is to encourage students to come to the social functions with or without a date.

Workshop To Discuss Christmas Play Plan

At an officer and sponsor meeting of 36 Workshop, plans for its Christmas party will be discussed tonight at 3:30 p.m. in Room 30.

At the last regular meeting, Mahmoud Abouzeid, Jr., spoke to the members about Egypt. He explained to them about the government of Egypt. He also explained the difference in education between America and Egypt. The fact that boys and girls do not mix at all proved to be most interesting to the members.

Four Pupils Leave School; Two Enter South Side

In the past week South Side has lost four pupils and gained two.

Sue Hensley, a junior, came from St. Joe, Ind., while Susie Bumgardner, a freshman, transferred to South Side from a school in Tennessee.

Jerry Anderson and Lawson White have moved to Illinois and Ohio. Linden Sherry Jackson now resides in Indianapolis and Jerry Arnett has withdrawn.

Letterman Food Drive Slated December 17, 18

Each Student Asked To Bring Four Items To Meet School Quota

PLAN FOR POOR—Helping Tom Bolyard to determine the food collection quotas for the various homerooms are left to right, lettermen Joe Roth, Bill Sutter, and Bill Meyer. December 17 and 18 are the dates for the annual food collection drive by the Lettermen's Club. The food collected will be turned over to the Christmas Bureau to help families of Allen County have a merrier Christmas.

December 17 and 18 have been set as the dates for the annual food collection sponsored by the Lettermen. The food will be collected in the homerooms; then the Lettermen will turn it over to the Christmas Bureau, who will in turn give it to needy families of Allen County.

In order that this year's goal of 9,396 items be reached, each student is asked to bring at least four items of food. Canned meats, juices, and vegetables are desirable. Also, dry milk, hot cereals, and instant coffee are needed. Soap will also be accepted.

A member of the Christmas Bureau will come to South Side and speak over the P.A. system to encourage students to do their part in helping those who are less fortunate. Lettermen have been assigned homerooms to talk in to arouse enthusiasm towards this project, and explain its purpose.

EACH YEAR the school has received heart-warming letters from people who have benefited from the school's help. Last year the total collection was 9,396. The senior class won the race by bringing in 2,516 items of food. The juniors were close behind with 2,396. Mr. Jake McClure's and Mr. Ward Gilbert's homerooms had a contest against each other; Mr. McClure's winning with 872 items.

This year again there will be competition between homerooms and classes. A record of each day's progress will be posted in center hall.

There will be no prizes given in this campaign. Each student should get his own reward from experiencing the thrill of being able to contribute to someone's happiness during the holiday season.

Student may go from door to door in their neighborhood asking for contributions.

Quotas for all the homerooms have been set: Room 2, 124; Room 4, 104; Room 6, 104; Room 8, 108; Room 10, 104; Room 12, 108; Room 14, 116; Room 22, 124; Room 24, 120; Room 26, 124; Room 28, 104; Room 30, 112; Room 32, 1008; Room 34, 120; Room 36, 100; Room 38, 116; Room 44, 108; Room 46, 84; Room 50, 112; Room 52, 124; Room 54, 116; Room 56, 116; and Room 58, 108.

OTHER QUOTAS SET include: Room 60, 108; Room 61, 120; Room 62, 148; Room 64, 112; Room 66, 112; Room 68, 112; Room 70, 96; Room 72, 116; Room 74, 112; Room 75, 112; Room 76, 92; Room 77, 112; Room 79, 128; Room 80, 104; Room 82, 104; Room 90, 112; Room 91, 100; Room 92, 116; Room 94, 132; Room 96, 104; Room 98, 132; Room 108, 120; Room 110, 116; Room 114, 124; Room 138, 128; Room 140, 108; and Room 142, 112.

The last homeroom quotas are: Room 144, 132, Room 146, 120; Room 150, 128; Room 152, 116; Room 154, 108; Room 156, 128; Room 172, 104; Room 174, 108; Room 176, 108; Room 178, 88; Room 182, 112; Room 184, 132; Room 186, 112; Room 188, 124; Room 190, 120; Room 113, 124; Room 83, 116; S-1, 132; S-2, 112; S-3, 120; S-4, 120; S-5, 136.

Designers Associated To View Auto Film

Next Wednesday in the drawing room at 3:30 p.m. the Designers Associated Club will show a film entitled "Firebird: Car of the Future." The film, obtained from General Motors Company, will be discussed by the members.

A short business meeting will be held and dues and program suggestions will be reviewed.

Speech Meet Names Winners

A regular speech contest in miniature was held after school on Monday. The inexperienced contest was separated into four divisions: dramatic declamations, humorous declamations, poetry, and radio. Each division was held in a separate room with three judges each.

An award session was held after the contest. Two ribbons were awarded in the poetry contest, and three were awarded to the other divisions.

Those receiving awards in the dramatics declamation contest were Susie Starr, Janet Terry, and Sue Blaising. Winners of the dramatic declamation contest were Joyce Brittenham, Ruth Dill, and Sara Miller, and those in the radio contest were Chuck Jellison, Dick McGaw, and Joyce Rondot. The two winners of the poetry contest were Barb Eggeman and Diane Mertens.

Those who were judges are experienced club members and Wranglers officers.

Seniors May Now Make Payments

Seniors may make payments anytime now for their invitations containing the announcements of graduation in May.

These invitations were ordered by each senior this October for the price of eight cents each. Seniors not coming back next semester are asked to pay for the number of invitations they ordered before they leave. The rental price for each senior's cap and gown is $2.50.

Civil Defense Day Observed Sunday

"Peace Through Preparedness" was the theme of National Civil Defense Day, observed last Sunday.

Exercises, rallies, exhibits, and nation-wide television and radio programs were among the activities carried out. These are to impress citizens with learning survival.

For each citizen to do his part, he must learn warning signals, how to apply radio-active fallout protection rules, to take proper shelter and to use first aid.

Grade Period Closes

Help! The grade period ends tomorrow. U and S grades will be issued next Tuesday.

Red Cross To Have Christmas Party; Elects Officers

A Yuletide party is slated for the December 17 meeting of Junior Red Cross.

The members of the club will go Christmas caroling before going to Diane Kimble's house for a party and installation of the next semester's officers. The club plans to go to the Old Ladies Home and some of the various hospitals for their caroling.

At the December 3 meeting elections were held. Beth Golden, Junior B, was elected president. Carol Jekel, Junior B, was elected to the office of vice-president. Susie Getty, Sophomore A, was elected secretary, and Marilyn Budd, Sophomore A, was elected treasurer. Susie Merchant and Brenda Harper were elected to the offices of program-publicity chairman, and sergeant-at-arms respectively.

Others running for office were Susie Crawford, Sue Stafford, Tamara Zeaty, Marilyn Miner, Julie Dedman, Barb Nahrwold, Trudy Estep, Barb Eggeman, Jo Ann High, and Linda Vollmer.

The coming meeting is the last one of the semester. Next semester's meeting has not been arranged as of yet. This semester's officers have been Susie Hoard, president; Diane Kimble, vice-president; Judy Cramer, secretary; Barb Wallace, treasurer, and Susie Carto, sergeant-at-arms.

The statement was made by these officers that they were proud of the work that the club had done this semester, and that their only wish was that the club maintain its high standards next semester.

Vesta To Give Party At Children's Home

A Christmas party at the Allen County Children's home is Vesta's program for the Thursday, December 18, meeting. The members of the club who have made outfits for a doll will participate in the program. The program will consist of games, Santa Claus passing out gifts, and Christmas caroling.

A short business meeting was held on November 26 in Room 75. Plans for the Christmas party were made and chairmen of the different committees were chosen.

Movies To Be Shown

Today three movies will be shown to Mr. Thomas Polite's classes. They are "Body Bountiful," "Mileage Begins," and "Magic in the Air." Monday the metal students will view "Spinning," and "Aluminum on the Skyline."

Social Science Department Explains Purposes Of Studying History, Government, Economics

By Janet Terry

Why? Where? How?

These three words express the most common questions on all matters of any words in our language. These questions occur when a mother tells her daughter to go on an errand, when a teacher gives a student an assignment, or when a person is alone pondering the happenings of the present or the past. Contemplation of these actions of the past may range from thoughts of the signing of the Declaration of Independence in 1776 to the assignment the teacher gave yesterday.

As Mr. Wilburn Wilson, head of the social science department, remarked, "Whether people are aware of history or not, they cannot escape it. No individual, no nation or people can live outside it. Any attempt to do so would in itself be 'history.' I sometimes say to my students who are critical of the debt they owe to history, 'Let us sit quietly for five minutes and think seriously about something of which we have never heard, in a language not yet invented.' To my knowledge no student has yet made any significant contribution to human knowledge under these circumstances."

ONE MAY DEAL with these three questions when discussing the history department of South Side. First of all, why study history? What are the values of the study of history to a student's personal life now and later? Mr. Marion Feasel, history teacher, answered this question in the following manner, "Teachers in this department believe the term, Social Science, implies the science of social relationships. One of our main objectives, therefore, should be to teach people how to gt along with their fellow man. This objective becomes increasingly important in a scientific age. We must use the products of science for the benefit of mankind and not for his destruction."

Mr. F. Roland Smith, history teacher, listed these values:

1. That a student gain and cherish an appreciation of the heritage that the struggle of mankind has left for him,
2. That he may use man's past experiences as a guide for a fuller and happier life,
3. That he become better informed, enlightened, and able to interpret things to come,
4. That he realize that things which happen have their roots in the preceding civilizations.

"The study of history gives a student an understanding of the ever-present necessity for evaluating human conduct. Through this habit of evaluation he can develop a philosophy of life through which he can meet the problems of today and prepare for those of tomorrow," stated Mr. John Arnold, history teacher.

* * *

MR. WILSON CONVEYED his thoughts on the values to one's life as follows, "History is the record of humanity. It is the story of man's achievements in every field of endeavor—education, politics, art, economy, literature, mathematics, science, philosophy, and religion. Written history is man's memory. Like the memory of the individual, it is often erroneous, frequently biased, and always incomplete. But it is, after all, the best or only common memory we have. Therefore, 'To be ignorant of history is to remain always a child.'

"Each generation stands on the

What If?

Boys wore girls' gym suits.
South was an all girls' school.
Theme paper was purple.
Everyone had a pedagogue (Latin).
Patsy, Miss Harvey's dog, had pups.
We had revolving halls.
Girls wore rings on their noses.
There were clocks in the rooms.
We didn't have traveling teachers.
We could dance in Miller's.
There weren't fifth period intramurals.
Perfume was added to chemical experiments.

Be careful that your opinion of others is not the same as their opinion of you.

Remember—a quitter never wins and a winner never quits.

People wrapped up in themselves make very small packages.

All play and no work makes Jack a dull jerk.

Worry can cast a big shadow behind a small thing.

One should never be ashamed to own he has been wrong, which is but saying in other words, that he is wiser today than he was yesterday.

Some minds are like concrete—all mixed up and permanently set.

A guy is really a success when flattery gives him a big headache instead of a big head.

A tongue twister is a group of words that gets your tang all tonguled up.

Some people have two ideas about a secret. It's either not worth keeping or it's too good to keep.

The Yule Shoppers' Cry

Christmas time is here again
With all its black and blue marks,
And I shall soon have fear again
Of parking where the crowd parks;

Of shopping where the crush is bad,
Of squirming through the crowd gone mad,
Of shoving, pushing with numb legs,
And coming out like scrambled eggs.

I try not to lose my temper short,
And flip my lid right there and then,
But with incourteous shoppers I must resort
To cackling like a cranky hen.

My plea, my wish, my Christmas desire
Is not for presents all for me.
Just one small wish is my desire
That courteous Yule shoppers all would be.

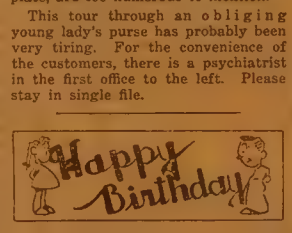
Girls' Purses Reveal Surprising Objects

Open Sesame! As Ali Baba gazed into the cavern filled with golden riches, he thought, "Nothing can hold so much to be desired;" but, he was wrong. Because, as every boy knows, nothing can hold as much as a girl's purse.

The shape of the purse has a lot to do with its capacity. Some, shaped like monkeys or rabbits hold more than suitcases, because things get jammed into the ears, toes and nose of the animal. Of course, if what gets jammed ever gets unjammed, it may come out as something entirely different than what was jammed in the first place.

Now for the exciting part, the actual content of the purse. Let's attack this scientifically by starting at the top and working down. One begins by cautiously unclasping, snapping, or buckling it, carefully averting the face. Then one picks up what flies out and put it on top of everything else. It will be necessary to squash something to get the purse closed again.



On top is an empty glass-case with "Made in Japan, New Jersey" on the back of it. Reposing on that is a cookie-cutter in the shape of a star. It is a very attractive blue and green plastic. Imbedded in the cookie-cutter is an eyelash curler. (For those who are uneducated, an eyelash curler is a device with which to curl the eyelashes.)

"My! My! What have we here. It seems to be a little black book. Weren't you always under the impression that boys were the ones that kept "little black books?" Well, you learn something new every day. Under the book is a wad of pictures. These are contained on a wallet which has absolutely nothing but money in it! The grand total is about 50 cents. Oh, there are the remains of Totem receipts in the hidden compartment.

We begin the next layer with a blotted Kleenex and five tubes of lipstick: Screaming Red, Hollow Orange, Twilight Blue, Peony Purple, and Garden Green. What a varied assortment of beautiful shades! There is also a compact with Zorro written on it in India Ink. The comb, which is toothless, is lying on what looks like a dishtowel . . . only I wouldn't stake my life on it.

Miscellaneous articles, like three letters that never made it to the mailbox, the remains of a history assignment, and someone's mother's charge plate, are too numerous to mention.

This tour through an obliging young lady's purse has probably been very tiring. For the convenience of the customers, there is a psychiatrist in the first office to the left. Please stay in single file.

Teeny Times

This bright-eyed baby girl
Is grown, but still quite small;
She's 11B, in 172, this fall.

She has two service periods
In library and cafe,
And fourth period is the only one
That she has free each day.

Spanish 1 comes first on her schedule,
Her teacher, Mrs. Grimshaw, in 92;
And she does U. S. history work for
Mr. Smith too.

Now she has fifth period English,
And it in Room 154;
Last botany third period is what
She gathers plants for.

I've told you lots about her,
She isn't called by her first name;
And if you haven't guessed her,
Look in the ads for her name.

Seniors Say Pictures Much Too Expensive

Swapping pictures seems to be the fad among the seniors these days. When asked what they thought about the pictures, the majority replied that the pictures are nice to have; but they are expensive. Here are some of the replies:

Sue McMurtry: They're all right as long as you don't have to look at them.

Anne Sherbondy: They cost too much.

Barb Lewandowski: They're neat.

John Shanahan: They're better than the others, but they are too expensive to put in the Totem.

Kay MacDanel: They are the best pictures that have ever been taken of most of us.

Joan Motley: Most of them are good. I especially like the colored ones.

Mike Gilsdorf: About half of the ones I've seen are decent.

Judy Bastian: They're neat, they're sharp, they're tops. They are the latest.

Jeannette Lynn: They look too much like the seniors.

Peggy McCoy: They glamorize you a lot.

Diane Mertens: They're really terrific.

Crissie Ferguson: They are nice to have, but they are expensive.

Roger Kerr: They're all right for seniors, but I wouldn't advise them for juniors.

Sharon Hubbell: They flatter some people, and others they don't.

Chuck Putt: I'm going to buy up all the proofs and burn them.

Cinderella Kelly Goes To Ball; Is Noticed By Prince Archer

Once upon a time there lived on the south side of the kingdom, a lovely lass named Cinderella Kelly. Poor Cinderella, who was compelled to serve a demanding step-mother and two homely step-sisters, never had any time for herself. That is, until two weeks before Christmas.

After Cinderella Kelly had helped her step-mother and step-sisters dress for the Pre-Christmas Ball, she sat down to rest. Suddenly all her animal friends presented her with a lovely green and white gown and everything else necessary to attend the ball. Cinderella was ready in a flash and arrived at the palace just as the dancing began.

Greeted by Ruth Dill, Bob Duncan, Sally Dill, and Dick Johnson, Cinderella entered the magnificent ballroom. Glancing around she saw Terry Berk, Sue Brenn, Judy Cramer, Dave Hickman, Sharon Probst, Gus Wade, Judy Robinson, Dave Bosselmann, Steve Meyers, and Sue Phillips madly grabbing food at the buffet table.

Near the orchestra Marcia Mosel and Chuck Jellison were demonstrating a catchy waltz step. Watching them with undivided attention were Susie Hoard and Harry Trosin, Linda Lutton (N.S.) and Dave Roderick, Sunny Kaade and Bob Miller (C.C.), and Sharon Collins and John Shannahan.

On the opposite side of the room, Barb Ronan and Terry Miller ('56), Linda Tobey and Gary Anderson ('57), Jackie Yaney (C.C.) and Ron King, Martha Milnor and Joe Rodgers (Purdue), and Janis Mitchell and Rusty McKay (Lake Forest) were dancing a minuet.

Then it happened! Cinderella was noticed by Prince Archer, who immediately proceeded in her direction. He accidentally bumped into Kathy Bricker and Tom Woodka and walked between Jan Derheimer and Mike Schiebel ('54), Diane Decker and Tom White, Sue Pifer and Stan Rupnow, and Barb Brown and Bill Murray (Elmhurst '57), who were in deep conversation. The prince approached whom he thought was Cinderella, but a closer look revealed the blond was Marsha Rolf, accompanied by Ken Hyman, who was none too pleased by the prince's mistake.

Excusing himself, the prince passed Diane Kimble and Ron Johnson, Joyce Lockwood and Stan Redding, Sue Harrod and H. H. Persons, Sally Bash and Tom Wright, Becky Baughman and Dave Meek, and Diane Hall and Dan Decker, and finally reached Cinderella.

After proper introductions, he offered to escort her around the premises. On the terrace they saw Sue Sappenfield and Bob King, Chris Parrott and Evilou North, and Susan Hines and Lee Crowell.

As they strolled into the garden, the prince asked Cinderella to be his wife. Naturally she accepted promptly, without bothering to lose a slipper in a midnight escape. Why follow a silly fairy tale when the happy ending is reached more quickly this way?

P.S. from PENNY

South Side High School

Hi!

I take back everything that I said about my mother's driving. I got my first ticket last week. It was really very innocent and accidental, of course, but how was I supposed to see that red light? (They really don't make them bright enough.)

My father thinks I need my eyes examined, and he might be right! I know I was guilty and according to justice should be punished, but who else but I could run a red light, and have the luck to have a police car just around the corner?

Speaking of driving, now that snow and ice are here, the Fractured Fender Fraternity has four new members. Bill Lentz, Kenny Howe, Bob Duncan, and Nicky Arnold find ice rather troublesome! Let's hope the weather doesn't cause more accidents.

Did you hear the radio announcer declare that the weather is going to be cartly ploudly? I can't figure out what to expect.

SANDTRAPS are a hazard to sledders as well as golfers; just ask Margo Dixon, Kate Rastetter, and Marian McCallister. While out enjoying our first snow sledding on a golf course, the girls spied what they thought was the perfect place to zoom down a hill. Little did they know that a beautiful sandtrap awaited them at the bottom. They were quite surprised when the runners of their sled dug "practically a foot" into the sand! I'll bet that was a sight!

A familiar face to most physics students has been gone for some time. Mr. Louie Hull has been ill for quite a while. Let's hope he gets well real quick!

A boy who prefers to remain anonymous—hint, he's the junior class president with the initials D. R.—seems to have trouble with oranges. Right, Dick Rothberg? Unacquainted with the system for disposing of garbage in the cafeteria, he tossed his orange into the pan for liquid garbage rather than the one for solids. The result? One cafeteria worker slightly splattered with garbage. And I also hear that flying orange missiles were winging their way in the direction of our dearest D. R.!

I HAVE HAD many questions concerning the large pit in center hall that I mentioned in my last letter, and I even noticed a few bewildered students madly searching the hall for said hole. Don't get alarmed. Contrary to many beliefs, South Side is not falling apart. While writing that letter I found myself completely out of ideas—as I am right now—and so decided to wake everyone up with that comment. It was just a joke. Ha!

Do you realize that in about 312 hours Santa Claus will be squeezing down the chimney? I haven't even started my Christmas shopping yet. How about you? What do you want for Christmas? Personally, and keep this a secret, I would love having less homework and shorter hours in school, wouldn't you? Of course this is "Just a Dream."

Well, enough of this idle chatter. I really must run! Bye!!

Do Seniors Deserve More Recognition Than Undergrads?

Seniors! Respect! Authority!

Do you automatically link these words together? In the opinions of some Archers, especially seniors, the seniors do deserve more respect and should have more authority than underclassmen. Some feel that the freshmen should make "Respect your elders" their motto and cater to the whims of the seniors. However, many Archers disagree with this point of view and state their reasons for doing so.

Mary Meily: I don't think a senior should be respected just because he's a senior. A person should gain respect through his actions. No one has the authority to make someone respect him.

Dick Taylor: I think it depends on a person's attitude toward life. They should enforce it if they have to.

Evilou North: I thing you should respect everyone. I don't feel it's right to enforce it (especially on the poor freshmen).

Martha Milnor: By the time a person is a senior, he should have gained the respect of others through his actions. If he is not respected, he probably does not deserve respect and shouldn't try to enforce it.

Chris Parrott: I believe seniors, juniors, sophomores, and freshmen all deserve respect. I also feel that being a senior brings much authority, but not the authority to enforce others to respect them.

Margie Havens: A minority of seniors do deserve respect. I don't think seniors should try to enforce it, but many do.

Allen Steere: A person should be respected if he deserves it. I think it's missing the boat to say that anyone should enforce respect. If he is the type of person that deserves respect, he shouldn't have to make people look up to him.

Diane Irmscher: By the time a person is a senior, he should have proved to others that he deserves some respect. No one has the right to expect or enforce respect if he doesn't give respect back to everyone else.

John Shannahan: I think seniors do deserve respect. They are four years older than the freshmen, and I think they deserve a little more consideration than the underclassmen. I don't think they should make a big issue out of it though, because I don't think it's that important.

Posy's Pointers

By Posy Weilemann

Dear Posy,

I have a very common problem, and I'm sure that other girls would appreciate seeing it in the paper. I have a boy friend that I like very much in every way except one. That is, he doesn't always brush his teeth, and they look terrible! I am stumped as to how I can let him know about it. I have hinted around, but that didn't seem to soak in.

"Taking No Hint"

Dear "Taking No Hint,"

I agree that you really have a problem. Why not ask him sometime if he ever reads this column? Then tell him about some of the unusual problems you've seen lately. Be sure and emphasize the one about the boy that doesn't brush his teeth before dates. If that doesn't do it, give up trying to drop hints and buy him a toothbrush.

Dear Posy,

I dated a boy during the summer from another school. After school started he stopped dating me and started going with a girl from his school. Now I have found out that he isn't dating her anymore, and I want to know if it would be opening an old wound if I asked him to a dance that is sponsored by girls.

Helpless

Dear Helpless,

I don't think it would be opening an old wound if you ask him to your dance. You must have enjoyed dating each other before, so I don't see why you couldn't do it again. You certainly don't have anything to lose.

Dear Posy,

I have a problem that probably sounds silly to most people, but it bothers me very much. I've been dating a boy from North Side all year and like him very much. Lately a boy from South has asked me out and I'm beginning to like him, too. The boy from North said if I don't stop dating this other guy he'll never take me out again. What can I do?

Caught Between

Dear Caugh Between,

You are the only one that can decide which one of the boys you like best. If the boy at North means enough to you to give up other dates, then do what he asks. Personally, I think we have some pretty swell guys here at South, too.

Dear Posy,

I've been trying to get a date with a very popular girl all year. I have a new car and would take her any place she'd like to go. I'm also not too bad looking. The problem is that she'd rather date some guy that drives a broken down heap and can't afford to take her to nice places. What is the matter with her? She must be nuts.

The King

Dear King,

Who ever told you that money could buy everything? They sure were confused! It just might be that she likes the other boy for what he is, not what he has. Don't waste your time worrying—it's bad for your health.

Dear Posy,

I think I'm the luckiest girl in the world. I don't have any problems. The guy I'm going with is just wonderful, and we always get along fine. I wouldn't trade him for all the tea in China.

Satisfied

Dear Satisfied,

What's his name?

Dear Posy,

I do not approve of boys smoking in high school and will not be seen with a boy that is. My girl friend thinks I'm being too fussy, but it's just the way I feel. Also, I don't approve of cussing, and it makes my stomach turn to hear boys acting so dirty! My brother is eight and is just starting to pick up some bad words at school. Every time I hear him say something bad I slap him. Am I being to finiky over these two matters. Of course, I don't approve of drinking either, but it isn't a common problem now.

Wondering

Dear Wondering,

I agree with you about boys smoking and cussing, and I think if you don't believe in it you shouldn't put up with it. Most girls don't like to hear a boy cuss, and I don't think a boy who would cuss in front of his date has much respect for her. If the boy you are with starts to take out a cigaret, tell him nicely you don't approve. If he has to smoke he should wait till he gets out with the boys. As for your brother, I think you are being a little too hard. Most kids go through a stage when they think it's smart and big stuff. I think it would do a lot more good if you would sit down and talk to him about it. Don't ever give in to something you feel is wrong. Maybe your friends will kid you about it, but they'll respect you in the end.

Posy

Dear Posy,

I liked a certain boy last year and he liked me. I didn't see him during the summer, but now I see him all the time. He isn't stuck up, but he just smiles and says, "Hi." I don't know whether he still likes me or not. In the only class we have together he talks to me quite freely. You may think I'm a crazy, mixed-up freshman, but to me this problem is serious. Do you think he likes me? How can I find out for sure?

Truely Mixed Up

Dear Mixed Up,

I can't tell you if he likes you or not, but I can tell you some things that will keep him from not liking you. First be friendly, but don't overdo it. If you force yourself on him you'll spoil everything. Personally, I'd rather have him be a good friend and speak to me than lose him for good which often happens.

Allen Steere, Kelly Sophomore, Displays Unusual Musical Talent

VIOLINIST SUPREME—The violin is one instrument which has unlimited abilities in the capable hands of Allen Steere. The talented sophomore has won many awards for the excellence of his music. Allen is a member of the orchestra and the string quartet, which plays many concerts outside the school.

Allen Steere, sophomore, was one of three chosen to perform at the Indiana Music Educators' Association convention. On November 21 he appeared in the Boulevard Room of the Antlers Hotel at Indianapolis in a recital demonstrating "Music Education and the Gifted Child."

For the demonstration this outstanding violinist presented Mozart's Violin Concerto in A Major No. 6 which is approximately 50 pages long. Allen spent a year of hard practice on it but says he enjoyed it thoroughly. Participating along with Allen were Russell Smith, cellist, and Victor Rosenbaum, pianist.

Allen became interested in the violin when he was in eighth grade and played on a family heirloom that was given to him. In a very short time, before he had even taken a lesson, he had the position of second chair violinist in the Harrison Hill Orchestra. Now he plays on a violin which was made by Calcanius in Genoa, Italy, in 1732 during the Renaissance, a fact which gives him great pride.

# # #

ALLEN HAS BEEN taking violin lessons for almost two years and recently started at Indiana University in Bloomington with Professor Zathureczky, a famous Hungarian violinist. Allen usually practices for two hours each day and more on week ends if possible.

Also an accomplished pianist, he has been studying with Monica Agnew for five years. This versatile musician sang with the Philharmonic Chorus and William Warfield in 1956 in "The Elijah."

Allen is on the college course taking English, geometry, Latin, history, and gym. He plays in the orchestra and the string quartet and also appears in many other programs presented in Fort Wayne. His next coming appearance will be with the string quartet on January 10 with the Fort Wayne Philharmonic Orchestra.

Outside of his practice and lessons, Allen finds time to be a member of DeMolay, the Pilgrim Fellowship of his church, and several music clubs. His ambition for next summer is to attend Interlochen, a music school in Michigan, for eight weeks.

Homeroom 152 High Bankers

Homeroom 152 has done it again!

Once again their room has gotten 100 per cent in participation in banking, although they didn't get enough receipts to be in first place.

Miss Lutie Young's Room 156 got it with $21.25. In second place was Miss Mary Crowe's Room 142, with $15.35 in receipts. Third place was won by Mr. Robert Petty's Homeroom 74 with $15.

The total amount of banking receipts received this week was $202.45.

2 Archers To Appear On TV Elektra Club

Hoy McConnell and Margo Dixon will appear on the Elektra Club next Sunday at 5:30 p.m. on WANE-TV. Hoy will be a panel member and Margo will be a reporter.

"What Are Your Responsibilities As Citizens?"

This will be the question discussed by the panel.

Add Intimate Touch; Make Original Gifts

As Christmas approaches and you find yourself totally lacking funds, why not collect your wits and ideas and present those friends and relatives with some really original gifts? It might not only turn out to be loads of fun but also much less expensive.

Novelty pillows formed in odd shapes and decorated with pieces of brightly colored felt and shiny buttons would be a perky, thoughtful gift to remember any friend.

For Mother and Grandmother there are always spare minutes to use in sewing pretty cotton aprons or weaving potholders just to match her kitchen.

As for those who like to spend their spare time fiddling with wood, metal, or other workshop materials, there are innumerable useful articles to be made which would make very pleasing Christmas gifts. For Dad a fancy tie-rack can be created. Or then there's that footstool and those knick-knack shelves Sis has always wanted. Sheet metal may be formed into an attractive tray for Mother to serve the holiday guests Christmas cookies.

What better time could be found to turn those scraps of yarn into a fitting sweater or handsome argyle socks for brother or beau, than your lunch period, amid all the confusion at Miller's?

By threading painted wooden spools on a piece of strong yarn or making colorful stuffed toys you can come up with a very pleasing present for that little nephew.

With your best ingenuity and imagination you can create some really beautiful and different cards

Adding that little personal touch to your gifts this Christmas can make your giving even more pleasant, which means ■ happier Christmas time for all.

Dance Lessons To Start For Senior High Pupils

Senior high class lessons in dancing for both beginners and advanced students will begin Tuesday at the YMCA.

The classes will last for 10 weeks and are under the direction of Maxine Hobbs of the Cabana Dance Studio. The Youth Assembly Hall of the YMCA will be the meeting place of the classes. For more detailed information call the YMCA Youth Department, E-2202 or A-3144.

Betty Byrne Wins Table Tennis Title

Betty Byrne smashed her way to the table tennis championship last Wednesday night in GAA. After a tough battle, she overcame Barbara Nahrwold, 21-9, 21-11.

She will receive 50 points toward her pin for winning. Barbara will receive 25 points as runner-up.

Twenty-seven girls participated in the tournamnet. Each received ten points for entering. They are Pat Igney, Connie Denis, Diana Meyer, Valerie Callahan, Shelba Cox, Ann Walton, Rita Hessert, Shirley Stahlhut, Sue Kuroski, Carol Hofer, Annette Plezniak, Nancy Byers, Donna Zelt, Marjorie Bloom, Peggy Markin, Janice Nahrwold, Jane Glass, Sandy Dolson, Mary Jane Hake, Judy Garrison, Marilyn Dauscher, Jeannette Lynn, Michele Flaig, Jan Kessler, and Luanne Uhl.

USA Will Have Christmas Party

The USA Club will have a Christmas party this afternoon in the Greeley Room at 3:30 p.m. for the members.

Ellen McCarron, president, will read a Christmas story and the members will sing carols. Cocoa and cookies will be served.

Each member will bring a toy to the meeting. They will gift wrap the toys and give them to needy children for Christmas. Old toys are preferred, but new ones will be accepted.

Social Science Department Explains Purposes

shoulders of all the preceding generations of man. What the human race has and is today is the result of slow accumulation during all the ages of history; and not the product of a single, present generation, however brilliant it may be, or however much it may add to the total accumulation of knowledge.

"Man without memory would be like the Banderlogs in Rudyard Kipling's "Jungle Book Tales" who, assembled in large groups, chattered loudly in the treetops, made great speculations, planned grand designs, but could never remember from one day to the next what they had resolved upon or planned. Consequently they never made any progress, and remained chattering monkeys in the treetops. Humanity, devoid of any sense of history would be merely a mass of chattering simians.

"A knowledge of history should make life much more varied, more interesting, more purposeful, and more stable. The great questions which hav absorbed mankind for all his existence are, 'From whence do we come? Why and how do we live? Whither do we go?'

"A person who can look back over 6,000 years of history, noting the answers given by the various civilizations which have flourished briefly and perished, ought to have better and saner, though not necessarily more personally satisfying answers, to some of these questions than does the person who lives only in his day and generation."

# # #

WHEN CONFRONTED with the question "What are the values of history to a student as a citizen of this country?," Mr. Smith replied, "The values are that through discussion and the many techniques of classroom procedures the student can formulate an open-mindedness and a correct attitude concerning his country."

"To be successful, Democracy requires among other things, well informed people. Through basic subject matter, the social studies department attempts to give the student a better understanding of the world in which he lives. Through Current Events, an effort is made to broaden the interest and arouse the curiosity of each student. Properly done, this interest will continue and grow in adult life," stated Mr. Feasel in relaying his ideas on the question.

Mr. Wilson believes, "A study of history ought to produce a more understanding and responsible citizen. The best lamp to light the pathway for the current generation is the experience of the past.

"General or World History ought to give us this experience vicariously; and a study of our own national history, by making us familiar with our political, social, economic, and religious institutions, should stimulate our pride in them, our appreciation of them, and a sense of personal responsibility for maintaining and improving them. In a democracy, where every man is king, this is especially important."

History is also valuable to a student in his other courses, for as Mr. Feasel explains, "The various subjects in social studies cover about every important event or activity since the beginning of man. This study should help to give each student a basic philosophy and a sense of direction which should be helpful in his other subjects."

Mr. Arnold concludes by stating "All knowledge is interrelated. To be a good student of history requires a searching study of many other areas of learning."

THE SECOND question under consideration is "Where?" Since we are dealing with the history department of South Side, Mr. Wilson presented the following answer to the question, "What are the strong and unique points of South Side's curriculum?"

"First, the full curriculum requires four years for its completion. Second, it is, we think, logically organized, with each of the subjects coming in the proper sequence. For example, the first year is devoted to (a) familiarizing the freshmen with their high school environment—the physical plant, student body, courses offered, extra-curricular activities available, etc.; (b) helping the student to understand himself, his abilities and his limitations, if any; (c) teaching him proper methods of reading, studying, listening, contributing, research, etc.; (d) introducing him to his opportunities and responsibilities as a member of the community.

"Third, General or World History is offered to sophomores as background for the study of our own national history in the junior year. Fourth, the senior year is devoted to the study of our political, social, and economical institutions and practices, and to international relations.

"The freshman course in citizenship has recently been changed from a one-semester to a two-semester course. The department has for three years provided special classes in biographical history for those U.S. history students who find themselves more interested in personalities than in historical movements, or who are better able to understand history presented in this way. Most of the classes in the department are homogeneously grouped so that students may work as fast and as much as they are able.

"The course in senior sociology is designed primarily for those students who have demonstrated less mastery of the social studies and for those who do not expect to continue their formal education beyond high school. The principles and practices of economics and international relations are offered for those seniors with special ability or extra energy and who expect to continue their formal education.

"South Side until very recently was unique among high schools in offering these courses. Few, if any, other high schools in Indiana had such courses."

# # #

WHEN ASKED THE goals of the history department, Mr. Arnold stated, "The history department tries to help students to become aware of their personal responsibility for their own conduct and of the great progress man has made in his struggle to acquire true civilization."

Mr. Feasel adds, "Study in the social sciences should give the student a better understanding of our present society and how it is likely to develop in the future. Through study, students should also obtain a greater appreciation of the cultural contributions of peoples throughout the world."

# # #

FINNALLY, WE ARE faced with the question, "How?" How can the study of history help us in solving today's problems?

Mr. Smith lists the following points,

1. By becoming an informed voter and selecting the right candidate,
2. By training ourselves to become upright citizens, thereby avoiding the pitfalls of delinquency mentioned daily in the newspaper,
3. By avoiding the pitfalls in political office and everyday living,
4. By avoiding that which is unethical and injurious to others,
5. By being able to foresee and predict the future by a study of past events,
6. By adequate preparation of ourselves to cope with world affairs.

"A diplomat may save the world from wars and grave destruction; history students can be challenged to no greater service to mankind than this kind of contribution."

Mr. Feasel remarked, "The people of our country still have a long way to go in finding adequate solutions to many of our political, economic, social, and racial problems. It appears that the solution to many of these problems will not be found by the present adult population. Teachers in the social science department make every effort to develop within each student a sense of critical and unbiased judgment which will help them to make wise decisions during their adult life."

"The problems of today are the errors of yesterday," stated Mr. Wilson. "It would be an unwise physician who expected to treat his patients without knowing something about the history of both the disease and the patient. Certainly we are not likely to deal intelligently with today's problems without knowing something of their origin and nature and of previous attempts at solving similar problems."

# # #

IN CONCLUSION, Mr. Arnold put it this way, "History is the story of man's efforts to be worthy of his God-given heritage. As we gain an understanding of our past achievements and failures, we can learn the techniques for successfully meeting our current problems."

Thus the three questions, Why? Where? and How? have been answered in South Side's history department. History is continually being made everywhere; continually leading into the present. The survival of our present age depends upon the answers we receive from questioning the past.

Archers Down Huntington 72-55; Kellys Win 63-51 Over New Haven

Bolyard Sets School Record, Gets 40 Points

Superior Rebounding Accuracy, Defenses, Largely Decide Game

With tremendous Tom Bolyard pacing the way with a record 40 points, the South Side Archers thoroughly trounced Huntington's Vikings, 72-55, in the second game of their victorious week-end home stand.

Bolyard's 40 points eclipsed the previous school record of 29, which he himself had set the previous evening. It was also a local high for the season and one of the top performances in the state thus far. His 40-point output came within a mere two points of the all-time city record of 42, set by John Flowers of Central in 1955. There were still over three minutes remaining in the fourth quarter when Bolyard was removed amid a standing ovation.

The sensational Archer star scored 26 of his counters in the first half, as the Vikings gave him more freedom to move in the foul lane than he had been accustomed to receiving recently. He only missed a dozen shots from the field an dhit a perfect eight for eight from the charity stripe. Still wearing a light cast on his injured hand, Bolyard also turned in an overwhelming performance off the boards and on defense, but the Green and White's success there was not as one-sided as his one-man team scoring exhibition.

z z z

THE BOWMEN jumped to an early lead, and they led Huntington, 21-8, at the end of the first eight minutes. Thirteen of the Archer points were contributed by Bolyard. The hapless Vikings were threatened with being shut out without a field goal in the first stanza, but they finally hit with only 1:12 remaining.

The South Siders continued to roll easily along throughout the remainder of the contest, with the exception of a ragged third period which netted only 12 points. Coach Don Reichert's charges had little trouble with the Viking defense, and the absence of good outside shooting was not as evident as in the past few games. The Archers were not hurried to a great extent in their long shots, and a few of these finally began to find the range. However, most of the scoring was still done from inside.

The Green's shifting man-to-man defense did a very commendable job in retaining the previously unbeaten Viking's attack. Ken Howe, Dave Barrett, and Mike Simmons, along with Bolyard, consistently foiled scoring efforts from their defensive positions. They also managed to hold down the number of personal fouls to 13, as compared with a previous high of 25.

z z z

IT WAS LARGELY this difference in defenses and accuracy from the field, coupled with superior rebounding, which decided the game. Huntington hit 20 of 54 shots from the field for a meager .370 percentage, while the Archers hit 30 field goals out of 70 attempted for .429. Over half of this total, 16 to be exact, were contributed by the uncontainable Mr. Bolyard, who had a .571 percentage himself.

South Side had 19 errors charged against it as compared with 17 miscues for the Vikes. The Kellys dropped 12 out of 19 from the charity stripe for .631, while Huntington had a .789 percentage. Each team committed 13 fouls.

THE BIG T—Tom Bolyard made the big difference in Friday night's basketball game with New Haven. Tom breaks away from New Haven's Al Herman (34) to shoot another basket as the Bulldogs go down to defeat 63-51. South's Ken Howe (54) and New Haven's Dave Dumford (35) ready themselves for the rebound. Bolyard led the scoring in Friday night's game by collecting a total of 29 points.

S. O. S.

Schmitz On Sports

You can have your Lucas's and Todd's, just let me have Tom Bolyard! I contended this last year when the Archers went all the way and now my sentiments are being joined by any and everybody that proudly boasts affiliation with South Side High School.

z z z

Last year Tom Bolyard was my choice as the most valuable Archer, even though he didn't lead the club that won state in scoring, or attract all the publicity, it was Bolyard who came through when South needed help.

z z z

I'll never forget how Bolyard played the key roles in three victories over Central and in the biggest morale win of the season over Terre Haute Gerstmeyer. In the first game with Central Tom sparked a comeback win; in the second his rebounding kept the Archers from blowing a big lead; and in the Sectionals his tip-in shot sounded Central's death knell from the State Tourney.

z z z

Now, this season Tom has wasted little time in continuing his valuability to the Kelly team keeping the family tradition of Bolyard's roaring with power to imprint the memory of this two-generation sports dynasty in South Side athletics.

z z z

His 40-point production against Huntington utilized all the descriptive adjectives in the dictionary to relate his fabulous performance against the previously-undefeated Vikings.

z z z

After this astounding demonstration little doubt remains that all existing school and city records will have to be set aside for the new ones recorded by Bolyard. He cracked the school individual record for one game against Bluffton and then re-established the mark in Saturday's game with 40 points, 12 markers better than record-holder Terry Miller established in his senior year. Johnny Flowers' city record for one game would have fallen had Bolyard played until the final buzzer. He was removed with over three minutes remaining with a grand total of 40 points, just three away from a new local mark.

z z z

Bolyard's great play both offensively and defensively has enlightened the Archer coach, team, and fans. But after witnessing an SRO crowd watch Bolyard, I am beginning to wonder if Archer fans really appreciate the play of Bolyard and the coaching of Reichert. Mr. Reichert is South's Coach but it seems that too many Kellys have already forgotten this despite their great tribute to him after his guiding the Green and White to the State Title.

z z z

As long as I've been following the big Green (about six years) I can only remember Mr. Reichert's name as the Archers' coach. I think he has done a tremendous job, not just last campaign, but for all those other five seasons. For three years his charges won over all city foes and captured the Sectional and Regional titles as often. Of course, last year's performance goes without saying.

z z z

If by now you haven't caught on to what I'm hinting at, I'd better inform you. The Kelly crowd enjoyed Tom's performance, but they went too far. I feel that it is direct disrespect for Mr. Reichert and Tom when the fans begin chanting, "Pass to Bolyard." If Mr. Reichert wishes the ball to be fed to Bolyard, he will tell his players and doesn't need any help from the fans. Booing at the officials when they call a foul on Bolyard is also ridiculous. They know what they are doing and Tom is not so superhuman that he can't make a mistake and commit a personal foul.

z z z

And let's not overlook the rest of the squad, they contribute to Bolyard's greatness. Timely passing from Nick Demetre, Teddy Lebrecht, Ken Howe, and Dave Barrett surely aided Bolyard's 40-point production Saturday. Just imagine Bolyard on Concordia's team.

z z z

Well, Bill Meyer returns tomorrow evening and the Archers will be that much stronger. Had Meyer been eligible earlier I'm sure the big Green would be undefeated. From here out they should develop into a real threat to keep the title home.

z z z

Whoever thought that South Side's 1958 net squad lacked outside shooters and would not have much to afford in competition against the better teams had better take another inventory of the Kellys and draw a new conclusion.

z z z

After witnessing the Kelly five in action in two rugged week-end contests at the South Side Gym, I am already beginning to dream about another trip to the Butler Fieldhouse. Don't laugh. Although at the season's start I'd dismissed the idea, I now see no reason why not after early season developments.

z z z

Ken Howe and Teddy Lebrecht have erased fears that South would have to rely on Bolyard and Barrett for power underneath. They still need more experience to join Nick Demetre as South's proficient long range artists.

z z z

Last week, I commented on Muncie Central's unbelievable attendance records. South Side fans are quickly taking a step to accomplish the same feat of keeping all the gym's seat occupied. The New Haven crowd was by far the largest of the season and the Huntington turnout marked the third time in three home appearances that South has attracted an SRO throng.

z z z

Scouting Around — South's predicted dethroners, Kokomo and South Bend Central, have already verified that they might very well stumble before the Kellys and leave the door wide open for South to return to Indianapolis.

Contest Has Good Individual Performances

Bolyard Gets 29 Points, 23 Rebounds; Barrett Turns In Fine Game

The South Side gym last Friday was the scene of quite a basketball game as the State Champ South Side Archers rolled over a rugged New Haven five, 63-51, in a game that was marked with some great individual performances.

Tom Bolyard, ball player par excellence, headed the list of Archer heroes as he personally accounted for 29 points, his second high for the season, and swept the boards for 23 rebounds, treating the Archer fans to a brand of basketball that was responsible for the Green gaining the state crown.

Dave Barrett contributed no less to the Archer triumph as he aided the splitting of the meshes for 11 points and grabbed off 20 big rebounds, his personal high for the season. Al Herman did quite a job in attempting to overshadow the Kelly standouts by ripping the nets with nifty one-handed jumpers that totaled for 16, despite early foul trouble.

The game was a tight, hard-fought affair with at times the scrappy New Haven quintet becoming a bit overzealous and forcing ragged, rough play.

z z z

THE FIRST QUARTER saw the Green employing an effective man-to-man defense holding the Bulldogs down. This bit of playing was important in that the Kellys were cold from the floor and could not seem to pry the lid off the hoop.

In the second quarter, however, Don Reichert's crew roared right back to walk off at halftime with a 28-27 edge. The officials in the second period, as in the whole game, were calling the plays close and halted many offensive drives for both teams. It was just a case of referees going by the book instead of permitting play to keep moving at the cost of missing a minor infraction.

With Al Herman, Bill Fritcha, Roger Wisely, and Gary Kummer in desperate foul trouble, the Archers continued to widen the gap in the third quarter with Bolyard garnering in points from all over the floor. Moving into the final eight minutes of play the Green was on top by a 47-39 count.

z z z

THE FOURTH AND final period started off to be a nightmare for the Archers as New Haven behind Al Herman and Gary Kummer, who scored 16 and 14 points, respectively, sliced the South Side lead to 47-45 with six and a half minutes remaining. Then Bolyard and Demetre flew off the bench and the South Side five, rising to the task, put forst a scoring spurt in which Bolyard got four field goals, Teddy Lebrecht "sacked" two, and Hoy McConnel and Mike Simmons each contributed one to put the Green on easy street.

z z z

ALONG WITH Bolyard and Barrett, Ken Howe and Nick Demetre each gathered six rebounds and five and four points separately. Ted Lebrecht, sparkplug guard, got seven timely points putting them down when they were most needed.

From the floor the Archers made 34 per cent of their attempts, scoring on 22 out of 66, while at the free throw stripe they converted 19 of 38, cashing in on just half of their chances.

All in all it was an easy, sweet victory for the Archers, showing themselves as well as the student body that they can tally those baskets under pressure, and when the chips are down they are not the ones to be left in the dust.

Scoring:

Player	FG	FT	T
Bolyard	8	13	29
Demetre	2	1	5
Barrett	4	3	11
Howe	2	0	4
Gardner	0	0	0
McConnell	1	1	3
Simmons	2	0	4
Lebrecht	3	1	7

Mural Men

By Stan Rupnow

Attention all you free throw artists!

Here is your chance to show your skill. The Intramural Free Throw Tournament is coming fast; in fact, right after the start of the second semester. It will be held fifth period in the gym. Also there is some good news for boys with fifth period classes. They will be able to shoot three rounds on a Friday at 3:30 p.m. The reason for this is that by the second semester the girls will have moved into their own gym and the boys will be free to use the main gym when the basketball team isn't practicing. Remember to start shooting those foul shots to get in shape.

I'd like to remind all the Night League team captains to be sure to get your refree for your Night League games. Each captain must get one referee. I would like to thank the boys who volunteered their fifth period to referee one day a week. These boys are Jerry George and Bob Bickel on Mondays, Dave Anderson and Gary Gardner on Tuesdays, Dick Tipton and Bob Bickel on Wednesdays, Nick Demetre and Ted Lebrecht on Thursdays, and on Fridays, Wendell Rose and Phil Gallmier. Thanks a lot, referees, from the players, Mr. Motz, and the spectators.

All of you know that one of the most important things in Intramural is winning a letter. These letters are awarded on the basis of points which are awarded to the top finishers in different sports. Up to date this semester, five boys have won letters. Wendell Rose, an intramural manager, has won his second letter. Dave Timma, Jerry Moring, Roy Hieber, and Larry Levy have won their first letters. Just to prove that the Intramural system pays off, Tom Baumgartner and Leroy Sholund, former Archer Intramural men, are now studying to be physical education teachers at Ball State. Bill Clark, an ex-Archer and Intramural standout, is now studying medicine at Indiana University. These are only a very few of the boys who are products of South Side's Intramural system.

In basketball, the Mighty Mites topped the Dewey's Dribbles in a thriller, 29-28. Evert Mol scored 12 points, and Ron Davier nine, for the winners. Rodacker and Symonds were high point men for the losers with 10 and eight points respectively.

Jack Rogers scored eight points to lead the Hord Covet Magicians to a 28-12 victory over the B-Ball Blasters. Bryant, Bynum, and Mike Robinson tallied six points each to add to the winners' total. Bennett scored nine for the losers.

The Sassywhoppers went down in defeat to the Aces, 36-28. Dave Reece and Rick Busch showed their heels by making 12 and 10 points each. Miller and Allen topped the losers with nine and eight points.

The Clods handed the Mighty Mites a loss by the score of 25-19. Tyner and Chen scored 10 and seven points respectively for the victors. Evert Mol made nine for the losers.

Joan's Boys were handed a setback by the Woof-e-Do's, 34-13. Tom Doty led the winners with 10 points, while Chuck Putt chipped in six points. Frank Thomas scored seven for the losers.

The 12:30 Floor Boys emerged victorious in their meeting with the Sombimufus II, 40-24. High scorer of the game was Steve Longenberger of the winners, who tallied 18 points. Jon Heavin added 11 to the victors' total. Sherbondy scored 12 for the losers.

Dewey's Dribbles racked up a win over the Buzzards, 30-23. Gary Butz of the losers was high point man with 11 points. Dick Symonds tallied 10 points for the victors, and Terry Dibert scored six.

The Lazy L's squeaked out a victory over the Hot Shots, 23-22. Emit Bowen of the victors and Tom O'Hara of the losers were high point men for the game. Bill Zehender also chipped in six points for the winners.

The Sombimufus II emerged victorious from a meeting with the Cubs by the score of 20-16. Ron Stout and Dave Cormany were high point men for the winners with 10 and six points respectively. Bloombach made six for the losers.

The Mighty Mites led all the way to beat the B-Ball Blasters, 20-16. Ron Davies put on a brilliant scoring exhibition by scoring 16 points, all but four of the victors' total! Jon Bill scored four and Jerry Isch three for the losers.

The Intramural managers played a game among themselves over Thanksgiving vacation. A team of Wendell Rose, John Hendricksen, Bill Houk, To mWible, and Steve Longenberger defeated a team of Dave Morell, Ron Carlo, Max Van Fossen, Motz, and Tom Schwartz, 44-36. Steve Longenberger was the star of the day as he compiled a total of 22 points. Morell, Carlo, and Motz scored 10 points each for the losers.

Kelly Reserves Beat Vikings By 31-25 Score

Steve Burton Scores 15 Points; Bob Bolyard Leads In Rebounding

Led by the scoring of Steve Burton and the rebounding of Bob Bolyard, the South Side Archer reserve basketball team downed the Huntington Vikings by the score of 31-25 in the game played December 6 in the South gym.

The Archers, with Burton doing most of the shooting, hit 12 out of 39 shots for a .307 percentage, while they made a .388 mark from the foul line.

A free-throw by Steve Matthias put the Archers in the lead, 1-0, which they were to hold onto for most of the game.

z z z

BUT THE VIKINGS fought back, and with 2:25 to go in the first quarter, they were ahead by the score of 7-6. But two field goals by Burton and Matthias gave the lead again to South. The score at the first stop was South 10, Huntington nine.

Then, in the second quarter, Huntington made a bid to win. With three minutes gone in the quarter, they took an 11-10 lead and with 2:30 to go they were still ahead by the score of 13-10.

But a jump-shot by Steve Burton and a lay-up by Bolyard again forged the Archers into the lead, which they were to keep for the rest of the game.

z z z

IN THE THIRD quarter, the Vikings started another rally, which failed, for they scored only five points in the quarter, the same as the Archers. Then, in the final quarter, South outscored Huntington, 8-6, which made the final score, South 31, Huntington 25.

Steve Burton paced the Archers with 15 points, while Bolyard, who did a fine job on the boards, was second with six. Steve Matthias was next with five. Steve Banet, who collected only one point, did a remarkable job of rebounding.

The Kelly reserves, who have won five games now, will try to make it six when they take on Auburn next Friday.

South Side To Invade Auburn Red Devils

Kellys Go After Fifth Victory Friday Night

Coach To Have Chance To Give All Players Good, Tough Workout

South Side will be out to prove that they are not superstitious as they go after their fifth win of the season against the Auburn Red Devils at Alumni Gym in Auburn Friday evening.

However, it will probably be the Auburnites who will be the superstitious ones as they wonder what they will have to do to stop the red-hot Archers.

* * *

ON PAPER THE Auburn squad doesn't seem to pose much of a problem. They lost two of their three opening games, their only win coming against Concordia, whom the Archers recently defeated. Auburn's win over Concordia was by a slim two-point margin.

It looks as if Coach Reichert might be able to start Gary Gardner at a forward spot up at Auburn, for the Red Devils have only one man over six feet in height; and he is only 6-2.

* * *

COACH DON REICHERT will have ample opportunity to give almost all his players a good workout. The game should also provide Reichert with a good chance to see who he can depend on to be a dependable outside shooter, since the Green and White has been pitifully weak in this department.

Auburn's Squad

Archer Frosh Beat C.C. 39-24

Ken Robinson Gets Scoring Honors, Hits 10

With a fine defense and excellent ball-handling, the South Side freshman basketball team trounced Central Catholic by the score of 39-24.

The contest was played at the Archer gym on December 4. It was the Green and White's opener for the 1958-59 season.

South's man-to-man defense bothered the Irish for most of the game. The Purple and Gold could score no more than nine points in any one period. Many of their lay-ups were deflected or blocked by the taller Archers.

Ball-handling played a major part in the game, too. The Green and White committed a minimum of errors in their curtain-lifter. Central Catholic, who had beaten Auburn, 53-44, two nights previous, made numerous mistakes which hurt them considerably.

Scoring honors for South were taken by Ken Robinson with 10 points. The starting forward also did a fine job under the boards. Guard Ken Leakey potted nine points for the winning cause, hitting well from the outside.

THE INITIAL QUARTER was a low-scoring affair. Both teams played cautiously. Guard Bob Acker broke the scoring ice with 5:20 remaining to give South a lead it never relinquished. Central Catholic had trouble starting. They were bothered by the Archers' sticky defense and could muster only one point. South Side netted six before the quarter ended.

In the second period both teams opened up; South earlier than the Irish. Coach "Porky" Holt's Archers jumped to a 12-3 lead with 4:36 remaining. Bob Acker cleverly stole the ball from an Irish player at 2:24 and dribbled the length of the court to make it 20-5 for the Green.

William Hicks' crew got the next five points. Guard Tom Badders sank two field goals and center John Dullaghan hit on a free throw. This narrowed South's lead to 20-10 when the first half ended.

* * *

FIRED UP AFTER the half-time rest the Irish played better ball in the third quarter. They netted only six points but managed to hold their hosts to the same number. Forward Morrie Bubb led the Purple and Gold, pumping five of his team's points.

South Side worked the ball around in the third period, looking for the good shot. However, when the opening was found the Archers could not connect.

Play perked up in the final period after the slow-moving preceding one. South Side gradually moved away from the outplayed Irish. The quarter was filled with substitutions from both teams.

Ken Leakey led the Archers in this period. Subs Mike and Lee McClymond got into the scoring act, too. Dunn swished a 20-foot one-handed set shot and finished the game with four tallies.

BOB BAINES came off the bench for the Irish and netted four points. Tom Badders scored four points, too. These two boys accounted for all of Central Catholic's points in the final period.

Scoring balance was one thing that the Irish lacked. The Purple and Gold received fine performances from Morrie Bubb and Tom Badders. These boys connected for 10 and eight points, respectively, and accounted for three-fourths of their team's total. Two other players divided the remaining six points. Surprisingly, two of Central Catholic's starting five went scoreless for the game.

On the other hand, South Side had fine team balance. Starting center Dave Meek and guard Bob Acker pitched in eight and four points, respectively. Tom McMahon, the other starter, netted two points before being removed because of foul trouble.

Fouling was not too prevalent during the contest. South committeed 11 fouls; Central Catholic committed 10. Neither team was accurate on their foul shots.

AFTER THE GAME South's Coach "Porky" Holt commented, "I am proud of the whole team. They did a fine job in ball-handling, especially since this was their first game. We have a game on Monday against Concordia and the squad is looking forward to that." He added that there is a lot of room for improvement in the team.

Much credit must be given to Coach Holt. This is his first year at South Side. For the first game the frosh squad did a fine job. Much of this was due to Mr. Holt's fine coaching. He has molded the boys into a real team. This was proven by exceptionally fine ball-handling and the more-than-adequate defense displayed by South. It looks like a successful season for the freshman basketball team and Coach "Porky" Holt from all present indications.

Student Managers Aid Coaches, Are Unsung Heroes Of Team

Through continuing their valuable services as basketball managers, Ron Carlo, Jim Vanderford, and Dave Schwalm, the unsung heroes, are aiding Coach Don Reichert in molding a group of inexperienced boys into the smooth, efficient machine that fans see on the floor.

THIS IS DAVE'S second year as a basketball manager. He thinks this year's team is not in the same league with last year's state champs but feels that if the team keeps working as they have they will be very tough to deal with near the end of the season.

Dave contends, "The big problem this year is lack of organization; there is not yet a five-man team. The squad seems to be depending too much on one man, Tom Bolyard."

However, Dave believes that as the season progresses the situation will be remedied.

Dave also thinks the talent from other schools and from last year's reserves have strengthened the bench considerably. The topnotch team spirit is a contributing factor to expected success, Dave thinks.

Dave's jobs include supplying the teams with towels and rosin. During practice Dave may be seen officiating or supplying the team with tape for those boys with weak ankles.

JIM VANDERFORD is starting his second year as basketball manager.

"This year's team has good prospects, but they will have to work very hard in order to meet with the season's competition," states Vanderford.

He hopes that the team spirit this year will remain high. Jim adds that the team needs all the support from the fans that they can get.

Cleaning the basketballs and refereeing during practice constitutes his jobs.

ROUNDING OFF the manager staff is junior Ron Carlo, the head manager, who is now on his third year as net aide.

Ron thinks that South has a fair team compared to last year's fabulous team. "Since we were state champs last year, every team will be out gunning for us, and it will be rough on this year's squad. But by the end of the season we will give everyone a run for the money."

Ron is in charge of caring for the team's needs and running the game sheet, which is a record of shots attempted and made, fouls, and rebounds.

Winners Told In Gym Classes

Team One in all gym classes except period 4 were the winners announced by Mrs. Alice Keegan and Miss Helen Pohlmeyer. Team Three claimed the championship.

Period 1, Barb Keller and Bonnie Bender led their team to victory. Their teammates were Donna Arnett, Judy Arnold, Sandy Baumgartner, Judy Blombach, Sharon Carrel, Pat Hickman, Mary Keegan, Charlene Laubscher, Pat Millraney, Sue Phillips, Karen Porter, Melodie Potts, and Donna Preston.

Mary Gomez, May Jones, and June Garvin did a fine job of leadership during period 2. Their team consisted of Martha Bonnell, Elaine Biddle, Ernestine Eldridge, Joan Erck, Karen Guy, Barb Harding, Sandy Heidbrink, Helen Heintzelman, Margaret Koontz, Marcia Marschand, Sharon McDonald, Rosalind Miser, Judy Schroeder, Delores Shadowens, Joyce Stocks, and Carolyn West.

PERIOD 3, CONNIE DENIS, Carol Hofer, Martha Price, and Shirley Stahlhut captained Team One. Their supporters were Marjorie Bloom, Jo Ellen Bobay, Mary Croghan, Marcia Disler, Ann Golden, Kay Huffman, Louise Jackson, Jane Ladig, Carolyn Martin, Dixie Purcy, Logan Smith, Sharon Terry, Sharon Todd, Sandy Thorn, Pat Tyler, and Edee White.

Team Three was led to victory, period 4, by Sue Lewis, Lois Jones, Darlene Ramey, and Marijane Tobey. Their teammates were Louise Bryant, Cheryl Hart, Pam Himes, Susie Hines, Jean Simpson, Barb Spiers, Gloria Underwood, Mattie Woods, Mimi Hinman, and Carol Rice.

SHARON DEBAILLIE and Dayna Harader captained Team One during period 6. They were backed up by Tamara Beaty, Marsha Bechtold, Jan Curtis, Ann Erickson, Mary Jane Fawley, Sarah Finch, Lane Grile, Brenda Harper, Mary Ellen Hite, Martha Jacobs, Joyce Lockwood, Lola McLaughlin, Vicki Miller, Sandy Norman, Pam Orchard, Carolyn Pio, and Karen Rowley.

The leaders of Team One, period 7, were Cindy Hart, Anita Baron, Marilyn Baysinger, Barb Heilman, and Carol Hildebrand. Their teams consisted of Ellen Beaty, Joyce Beckley, Susan Bond, Betty Ensley, Mary Hemmelgarn, Nadine Hobbs, Sandy Hookanson, Pat Ickes, Sue Kelley, Laurie Lopez, Ellen Lowe, Sharon Mowery, Connie Reed, and Linda Winkelmann.

Freshmen Down Cadets 39-23

Good Team Balance Enables Archers To Stay Ahead From Start

Led by Ken Robinson, the South Side freshman basketball team battered the Concordia Cadets by the score of 39-23 at Zion Parish Hall, Monday. It was the Archers' second victory in as many starts.

From his starting forward position, Robinson dumped in eight field goals and connected on his only free throw attempt. This gave the Archer stalwart 17 points and scoring honors for both teams. Robinson also did a fine job on defense and under the boards.

Concordia's Al Colvin kept the game from being an Archer runaway. He netted 11 points and scored very well from outside the foul line.

* * *

COACH "PORKY" HOLT was not thoroughly satisfied with South's showing. He figures that the team should be doing better offensively. Mr. Holt will be keeping his mind on the Central game, December 11, in which South is the underdog.

The game will be played at Central. Tip-off time is 4:30 p.m.

The reserves jumped to a 10-2 lead at the end of the initial period. South successfully blocked up the middle. Concordia was forced to take long or hurried shots. Robinson supplied the offensive punch for the Green and White with six points.

The picture of the contest did not change much in the second period. The Cadets could not gain on the Archers and the Green and White walked off the floor at half-time with a comfortable 21-8 lead.

In the third quarter Art Schwab's crew came to life and stopped the Archer onslaught. South's shooting was not accurate and Al Colvin began to score from the outside. Concordia outscored the Green and White, 11-8. The lead was narrowed to 10 points, 29-19, at the end of the period.

However, everything the Cadets gained in the third quarter was lost in the final one. The Purple and White cooled off and their many substitutes could not score at all. Mike Dunn came off the bench for South. With Robinson he brought the game far out of reach from his hosts. The scoreboard showed 39-23 in favor of South Side when the game ended.

FOUL-SHOOTING played a part in the Archer victory. Concordia hit only five of 17 from the charity stripe for a miserable .294 percentage. South Side's field goal percentage of .353 was higher than that of the Cadet free throws. The Archers connected on 18 of their 51 shots from the field and three of six from the foul line.

South had good team balance. Besides Robinson, Tom McMahan came through with eight points. Dave Meek and Mike Dunn chipped in six points apiece for the winning cause. Meek at center and Ken Robinson controlled the boards.

Markey, Hitzeman, and Springer scored five, four, and three points, respectively. With Colvin's 11 points, this accounted for Concordia's scoring.

Reserves Pulverize New Haven

Coach Bill Geyer's reserves, steadily improving with each game, defeated the New Haven Bulldog reserves, 46-39, in a very closely contested battle at South Side's gym last Friday night.

Led by the timely shooting of sophomore Steve Burton and the consistency of Dave Anderson, junior captain of the squad, the Archer reserves came from behind to overtake a four-point deficit in the fourth quarter.

The Archers led throughout the first half and were never behind after Steve Matthias canned a free throw to put the Green ahead 1-0. Both teams employed their centers in high post slots as the Kellys steadily pulled ahead.

ANDERSON was really "hot" in this quarter as he hit for eight of South's 12 points in the first period. New Haven trailed 12-6 at the conclusion of the six-minute quarter. The second period was hard fought as the Archers cooled off and coasted to a 20-15 half-time lead. Burton hit two fielders, while Bob Bolyard connected for three points and John Somers for one.

But when the Archers returned for the second half, they found a fired-up, hungry New Haven ball club ready for action. The Bulldogs, led by junior center Jerry Jacquay, collected nine points in the third quarter to forge ahead, 30-26. Burton was the only Archer who could find the range as he collected three fielders, but the Archers were sorely outscored 15-6 by the steaming Suburbans.

The Archers started to roll again. They tied the score at 34 with 4:45 remaining; and when Steve Banet hit for two with less than three minutes to go, the Green was ahead for keeps. Burton fouled out at 1:57, but the Kellys continued scoring. Anderson collected eight more in the fourth period, although working on a badly sprained ankle.

THE GAME ITSELF was exciting from start to finish as both teams played nip-and-tuck. Both had quite a few ball-handling errors which tended to even things up.

The Bulldogs were slightly above the .500 mark from the charity stripe; while the Archers were exactly .500 from it. The Green was guilty of 17 fouls, whereas the Bulldogs had only 10. Anderson led the winners with 16 points (all fielders) and Doty was high point man for the Purple with 10.

MERRY CHRISTMAS

Kindness Is Part Of Christmas

By Susie Hoard

"Behold, a virgin shall bring forth a son, and call his name Emanuel, which being interpreted is, God with us." Isiah vii. 14 R.V.

"Therefore also the holy thing which shall be born of thee shall be called the Son of God." Luke: 35.

Jesus Christ was born into this world, not from it. He did not evolve out of history; He came into history from the outside. Jesus Christ is not the best human being, He is a being who can not be compared or accounted for by the human race at all, He is not a man becoming God, but God Incarnate, God coming into human flesh, coming into it from the outside. His like is the highest and the holiest entering in at the lowliest door. Our Lord's birth was an event, an event indeed, called Christmas. "He that regardeth the day, regardeth it unto the Lord." Romans XIV:6.

# # #

IT IS A GOOD thing to observe Christmas Day. The mere marking of times and seasons, when men agree to stop work and make merry together, is a wise and wholesome custom. It helps one to feel the supremacy of the common life over the individual life. It reminds a man to set his own little watch, now and then, by the great clock of humanity which runs on sun time.

But there is a better thing than the observance of Christmas Day, and that is keeping Christmas.

Are you willing to forget what you have done for other people, and to remember what other people have done for you, to ignore what the world owes you, to think what you owe the world, to put your rights in the background and your duties in the foreground, to see that your fellow-men are just as real as you are, and try to look behind their faces to their hearts, hungry for joy, to own that probably only good reason for your existence is not what you are going to get out of life, but what you are going to give life, to close your book of complaints against the management of the universe, and look around you for a place where you can sow a few seeds of happiness . . . are you willing to do these things even for a day? Then you can keep Christmas.

Are you willing to stoop down and consider the needs and the de-

Christmas Kindness

This Christmas let us ponder
As we go along our way,
And pause a while to wonder
Why we little heed do pay
At this very joyous season
Of all our privileges and wealth
And everything we have to share
With others than our self.
By wealth we mean not money,
But health and talents too;
And other little kindnesses
We can for others do.

Of course this could be done
At any time you find,
To those who are less fortunate
And have steep hills to climb.
But at this season most of all
We've had examples set,
And if we do a kindness
A joy we'll seem to get.

Sue-Sappenfield

'Tis Christmas

The hustle-bustle feeling prevails throughout the earth,
Ringling, tingling bells peal out good-will and mirth,
Worldly hate and discontent are vanished for awhile;
The bitter frowns, the hopeless tears are traded for the smile,
Hope is reborn again, within man's struggling mind,
Help for the poor and ailing is provided by the kind;
The wide-eyed child, with innocence believes,
The white and glistening snow, a wonderland conceives.
What creates this wonderment; this paradise on Earth?
Why, 'tis Christmas—the rejoicing of Jesus' birth.

Joan Stanton

A Christmas Prayer

Christmas is for giving,
A time of love and cheer,
But often people disregard
And some begin to fear.

Of peace, and war and
Other things that trouble peoples' minds,
And how to combat fears like these
In this world's tide of times.

So let us now combat this fear
With prayers and carols sweet,
That in this season we may live
Undaunted by war and defeat.

Barbara Steiner

sires of little children; to remember the weakness and the loneliness of people who are growing old; to stop asking how much your friends love you, and ask yourself whether you love them enough; to bear in mind the things that other people have to bear on their hearts, to try to understand what those who live in the same house with you really want, without waiting for them to tell you, to make a grave for your ugly thoughts, and a garden for your feelings, with the gate open . . . are you willing to keep these things for even a day? Then you can keep Christmas.

# # #

AND IF YOU CAN keep Christmas for a day, why not always? But you can not keep it alone, it must be shared for if you keep Christmas in this manner you will be sharing. You will be doing more than sharing, you will be giving all you've got to give to someone else.

This year, 1958, Christmas will be kept all over the world. From San Francisco's highest hills to New York's sky high towers . . . from windy Chicago and the Twin Cities to balmy Miami and New Orleans . . . in cities, in towns and in villages all over the USA . . . everywhere it's Christmas.

"Merry Christmas!" These welcome, swift, magic words smooth away little cares, the petty irritations that seemed so great yesterday are now trivial, and of little importance. Nothing lifts the heart higher to hear these words, and to see a gaily decorated tree, which is the very spirit of Christmas . . . clean and fragrant . . . gaiety and cheer in its lights and ornaments . . . loving gifts heaped beneath it. Where it stands . . . there is your own little corner of happiness in a troubled world. What it stands for . . . makes you deeply thankful that you are an American with a right to express freely your belief in a way of life that seeks peace and goodwill for all mankind.

# # #

CHRISTMAS IS SO MUCH to keep. It is the glorious celebration of the birth of our Lord. It is a merry time, a joyful time, one of songs and praises. It is a thankful time, a time of prayer and gratitude. It is a giving time, a time of sharing and loving. It is all this rolled up in one big package and even more; it is a blessed time, a Holy time, a time of great manifestation, it is God's time and ours.

You and I are a part of Christmas. Our part is to keep Christmas alive. Christmas will die if we let the spirit die. The spirit must be in your heart and shine throughout your face, and it must be wholly unselfish, sacrificing. Forget what you are going to get this Christmas. What are you going to give?

Traditional Christmas Spirit Gains Control Of Entire School

Teachers, Departments, Clubs Taking Part In Many Festivities

By Linda Silverman

South has been invaded . . . but don't panic. It's not by a flu bug or men from the moon. The culprit is the Christmas spirit, which has won control of the entire school.

Sady Santa had control of the faculty's Christmas, as the women of the teaching staff entertained the gentlemen at the annual Faculty Christmas Party, yesterday in the Greeley Room. Printers, custodians, and cafeteria workers were among the guests.

The class of '59, the seniors, and class advisers, Miss Mary Graham and Mr. Jake McClure, are planning to entertain South's alumnus, faculty, school officials, and parents of class officers at the annual Alumni Dance, tomorrow in Room 114 and the cafeteria.

# # #

THE TRADITIONAL Christmas tree is also playing a large part in giving South a "Christmasy" look. Mr. R. N. Snider, principal, decorated the tree perched on the roof of the Darrow Street entrance of the new building. Last Saturday, after janitors had hoisted the tree to the roof, Mr. Snider trimmed the tree with ornaments bought especially for the occasion. It is hoped that this year's decoration will start a tradition. The janitors also erected the Santa over the Calhoun Street door. This is Santa's third year at the post.

One tree has a two-decade ancestry. This marks the 21st year that a tree has been decorated in the Greeley Room. Susan McMurtry and Alberta Bonnell, gym office service workers first period, and Miss Helen Pohlmeyer's second period dance class trimmed the tree this year.

Miss Frances Stobaugh, secretary, has decorated not only a tree, but constructed a village in miniature in the general office. The tree and village, which has a train running through the center of it in a figure eight are mounted on a table covered with a white sheet. The entire operation took Miss Stobaugh four hours.

Four dozen small trees will be used in 36 Workshop's "Winter Wonderland" Christmas assembly. These have been financed by the school's general fund. The gym office boasts two trees, trimmed by service workers, and a majority of the homerooms are brightened by small firs.

The string section of the orchestra plus Merle Baldwin and Kay Kiefer, are appearing on the Elektra Club Sunday. Merle and Kay will play flute solos to "Greensleeves," by R. Vaughn Williams, and the string section, consisting of 23 pupils, will play "Fantasia."

MANY ARCHERS look forward to the time when the Madrigal choir goes caroling through the halls. This year, the tour begins tomorrow, about third period. During this time, the small group will pass through the halls, singing the age-old carols. During fifth period, the new organ will be put in back center hall, where it can be heard all over the school.

The vocal department is running on a very busy schedule. Today, Madrigal Choir will serenade at the Lincoln Bank on Berry Street. Tomorrow, they will sing at the Christmas assembly. The outgoing choir will return to the Lincoln Bank tomorrow at 1:45 p.m. The Mizpah Temple was the scene of the Madrigal Choir's singing last Monday. Also last Monday, outgoing choir sang for the Rotary Club at the Chamber of Commerce. Sunday, December 14, outgoing choir sang at the West Creighton Church. Vocalists attended the Winter Concert, December 13, in the school gym. The trio and Madrigal Choir were active Tuesday, December 9, at the First Methodist Church and the Chamber of Commerce, respectively.

CHRISTMAS SPIRIT—A beautiful Christmas tree adorns the roof of the entrance to the new addition. The tree adds to the Yuletide spirit and serves as a reminder of the two-week Christmas vacation Archers will get beginning tomorrow afternoon. (Picture by Thompson)

The Latin department is presenting a program to all Latin students tomorrow in the Greeley Room. The program consists of a poem, "Pompey's Christmas," to be read by pupils picked from each class. The Christmas Story, according to the Gospel of Luke, will also be read. "Cur Tinnatiula Sonant" or "Why the Bells Ring," a short play, will be given by students chosen from each class, and Christmas carols will be sung in Latin by all students.

Teachers in charge of the various periods are Miss Mary Edith Reiff, first period; Mr. Earl Sterner, third period; Mr. Freddy Hellman, fourth period; Mrs. Gracie Welty, sixth period; and Mrs. Anne Redmond, seventh period.

Singing French Christmas carols and playing music in class are the activities of the French department.

# # #

THE CLUBS ARE getting into the "swing of things" as a round of good deeds and parties begins. For the fifth consecutive year, Lettermen are sponsoring a food drive. The cans of food donated are turned over to the Christmas Bureau to help make an Allen County family happier. The goal is 9,396 cans, but why not make it more. USA collected and wrapped Christmas toys for the Christmas Bureau and celebrated with a party last Thursday. Vesta is to have a party at the Allen County Children's Home today. There will be Santa, gifts, and caroling.

Wranglers presented a play, "The Christmas Stranger," during its Christmas party, December 8. "Christmas in Her Eyes" was presented last Monday at Philo's Christmas party. The play and refreshments made up the program. Meterites had a Christmas short story and poetry contest last Tuesday. Four reports of Christmas in other lands highlighted So-Si-Y's Christmas program. Christmas caroling at various hospitals and at the Old Ladies' Home preceded Red Cross' party at Diane Kimble's house yesterday.

An evening get-together at Mrs. Ruth Fleck's home last Tuesday was the Art Club's celebration. Know-Your-City Club had a party at its regular meeting December 9.

New East Addition To Be Ready For Use In January, 1959

Oil-Burning Boilers, New Shop Wing, Gym For Girls Constructed

By Geri Geller

Along with the 1959 new year comes the opening of the new east wing addition of South Side High School. This construction was started last spring, and every day, South Siders have watched it grow and develop into the beautiful and attractive building that is soon to be dedicated.

W. W. Spurling Construction Company, Shambaugh and Son Plumbing and Heating Company, and Central Electric Contracting Company have been industriously working on the new addition since the spring of last year; and they expect the wing to be finished and ready for use by the first school week of 1959.

"THE CONSTRUCTION started with the removal of the old boilers and the installation of oil-burning boilers," stated Mr. R. Nelson Snider, principal. "Also, since there was never enough hot water for the shower facilities, a new hot water system was installed."

The old shop wing was also completely remodeled. Previously, a narrow corridor separated three small, and poorly-arranged shops. Now, with the corridor omitted, three large shops have replaced the small and inadequate shops.

Mr. Snider pointed out that, since the School Board was able to pay only for the construction of the shops up to the new corridor this year, the contractors offered to finish the construction and pay for it themselves. Then, in 1959, the School Board will pay the contractors for their previous work. Without this added help from the contractors, the new wing would not be ready for use until next fall of 1959.

IN THE BASEMENT, the old athletic showers and equipment and locker rooms, which were poorly ventilated and always wet and damp, have been revamped and replaced by new lockers and showers for athletes.

Upon entering the corridor of the new wing, one is greeted by the restful green-colored walls and the attractive green and tan block tile. On the left is the spacious metal shop which includes new metal equipment. The shop is graced with large north windows and an excellent lighting system.

A little farther on, a small incline leads to the second floor of the wing. The halls are lined with attractive tan lockers and specially-treated wood paneled walls. Also repeated are green concrete blocks. At the end of the corridor, a trophy case is available.

CONTINUING DOWN the hall toward the girls' gym, the mechanical drawing room is located to the left. All classrooms are equipped with green blackboards. All rooms, except the shop, and the athletic and girls' locker rooms, are designed with attractive acoustical ceiling. Sound waves, instead of bouncing back off the ceiling, are absorbed by these specially-treated ceilings. This process reduces the amount of noise in a room.

Large double doors across the center of the hall separate the girls' gym and the locker rooms from the rest of the building.

To the right is a spacious and well-equipped dance and exercise room. The unusual and attractive parquet floor is very eye-catching, along with the wall-length mirrors. A dance bar, extending around the room, and exercise ladders for correct posture, are some of the dance equipment available in this room.

TO THE LEFT of the hall is found a first-aid room, equipment rooms, and the girls' gym office.

The girls' shower and locker room provides ample space and is graced by a "powder bar" with a long mirror. All girls will be assigned baskets to keep their gym clothes in, and they will keep their street clothes in lockers while in gym classes.

The girls' gym, with its highly arched ceiling, is about equivalent in floor space to the present gymnasium. There are no provisions for spectators, and the heat is furnished by two large unit heaters placed at the north and south ends of the gym.

A BACK STAIRCASE leads from the gym down to the girls' athletic field. This stairway also serves as a fire escape.

Miss Helen Pohlmeyer, girls' gym and dance instructor, stated, "Without reservation, I can truthfully say that the new dance room is the nicest to be found. The new gym will also provide for the badly-needed equipment storage room."

Down on the first floor, the halls are also graced with green cement walls and tan lockers. The main hall has large red doors at each end.

The boys' athletic locker rooms and showers are decorated attractively with tan walls. At the present time, this room is being used by the basketball team. This room will also be used by track players this spring and by football players next fall. A special door, which leads out to the football field, will be used by the football players.

WHEN ENTERING the new cafeteria, one is overwhelmed by its spaciousness and brightness. Ten huge windows line the north and south sides of the room.

Since the School Board cannot furnish the money to purchase curtains for these windows, South Side High School plans to purchase bamboo draw drapes for the windows.

Along with the unusually designed cement block walls, floor-to-ceiling columns, covered with a plastic coating, are part of the decor of the cafeteria.

At the east end of the cafeteria, a double serving line makes the serving process twice as fast. Two cold water coolers will be available to student, and an automatic dishwasher will take care of the students' dirty dishes.

THIS CAFETERIA holds 600 students in comparison to the 250-student capacity of the old cafeteria.

Folding doors at the east end of the cafeteria can shut of fthe kitchen and serving lines from the rest of the room. This will provide an excellent place for after-game dances and school banquets.

"The old cafeteria will probably be converted to a library and the present library will be made into classrooms," stated Mr. Snider.

The kitchen, with its green floors and cheery yellow walls, will be furnished with new equipment and much of the present kitchen utensils.

THE YELLOW cement block walls, decorated with brown and white spots, make the room most attractive. These walls are sprayed seven times with a special glaze that makes them very easy to wash and keep clean. "The expense of this type of wall finish runs at about 30 cents a square foot," estimated Mr. Snider.

A large walk-in freezer, the director's office, and the store room connect onto the kitchen.

Off the cafeteria in the southeast corner is the faculty dining room. This room will be used by teachers only.

According to some of the South Side students and faculty, the new addition will certainly offer a pleasant change in the building.

ONE STUDENT pointed out, "I think the new addition will certainly furnish the badly needed room for the gym and the cafeteria. It might also help to relieve the crowded halls, which would be quite a help."

Other comments made were, "The new dance room is terrific! There's so much room;" "It's sharp—so light and airy;" and "It's really swell. It's only too bad that the rest of the building couldn't be that nice and new."

The progress of our generation and the progress of our civilization depend upon the civic progress of our community. South Side will contribute to our civic development with this new addition to our building. South Side's "new look" will be admired and appreciated not only by the faculty and student body, but by the alumni and by the citizens of our community. The year 1959 will promise many new experiences, and among these will certainly be the opening of the new addition.

New Addition Tour To Be Taken Jan. 5

In order to acquaint the faculty and student body with the new east wing addition, tours will be taken during an extended first period, which will run to 9:55 a.m., on January 5.

The schedule for the morning is as follows:

H.R. 8:05- 8:20
1st 8:25- 9:55
2nd 10:00-10:40
3rd 10:45-11:20

On taking the tour, students are requested to be quiet, particularly when someone is talking to them. In order to keep the tour moving, students are to be at the appointed place at the appointed time. Care is to be taken while walking, for there may be obstructions.

Teachers are requested to keep their students intact and are to check the attendance upon returning to the classroom.

The school has been divided into three groups, and each group into two sub-groups as follows:

Group 1, Section B: Gym, Drivers Ed., Journalism, Room 4, Room 6, Room 8, Room 10, Room 12, Room 14, Room 22, Room 24, Room 26;

Group 1, Section A; Room 28, Room 30, Room 32, Room 34, Room 36, Room 38, Room 45, Room 46, Room 52, Room 54, Room 56, Room 58;

Group 2, Section B: Room 150, Room 152, Room 154, Room 156, Room 172, Room 176, Room 178, Room 182, Room 184, Room 186, Room 188, Room 190;

Group 2, Sectional A: Cafeteria, study, library;

Group 3, Section A: Room 60, Room 61, Room 62, Room 64, Room 66, Room 68, Room 70, Room 72, Room 75, Room 76, Room 79, Room 80;

Group 3, Section B: Room 82, Room 91, Room 92, Room 94, Room 96, Room 108, Room 110, Room 138, Room 140, Room 142, Room 144, Room 146, and all others.

All "A" groups will go down steps across from the bicycle court. From there they will proceed through the narrow hall to the athletic rooms, through these rooms to the cafeteria.

Continuing upstairs, the group will pass through the girls' gym, shoprooms, and finish at the old shop area.

All "B" groups will start at the northeast entrance and proceed through the new building to the girls' gym, then back through the old shop area.

Continuing the tour on the lower floor, the group will pass through the narrow hall and the athletic rooms to the cafeteria.

To end their tour, they will pass through the kitchens, cafeteria, and shop rooms (in the new building), finishing at the northeast entrance.

Archers Remember Christmas Favorites; Presents, Mistletoe

To some, seeing the whole family together at Christmas brings back old memories. Some like the midnight service at the church of their choice. Others remember the presents. Archers gave the following answers when they were asked, "What do you like the most about Christmas?"

Lynn Gall: Mistletoe, because then I'd have an excuse for kissing a boy.

Joan Novitsky: Vacation—so I can go to convention and catch up on my sleep.

Carole Fischer: Mistletoe, Children's Christmas Eve service at church, presents, ice skating, and getting more sleep than usual.

Lynne Goldman: All of the dances and parties because I can really let myself go and I don't have to hurry home to do my homework or get up for school the next morning.

Marian McCallister: I like the good times and the chance to catch up on my sleep and homework.

Nancy Woolner: I like the good times and the good sun tan I hope to get.

Emily Traylor: Parties, presents, good times, and sleep.

Sheila Sutton: Vacation from school, presents, and everyone with Christmas-sy dispositions.

Marcia Noll: Presents, no school for two weeks, and all of the good things like that.

Mickey McClain: Two weeks of vacation and all the miny, miny presents.

Rog Kerr: Two weeks of grand vacation, parties, dances, presents, and mistletoe.

Ken Heyman: So I can get some sleep.

Phyllis Springer: Sleep, sleep, sleep—eat, drink, and be merry.

Cheri Henry: I like the presents, dances, and being able to sleep.

Judy Bastian: I agree with Phyllis. Also being able to let myself go. Not being obligated to anyone or anything. I love vacation time.

Linda Tomson: Presents and no school—also the dances.

Marianne Pinkham: Not having to get up in the mornings and all the presents.

Barb Steiner: Christmas Eve, the snow when it's there, and just plain messing around.

Suzy Stauffer: Church on Christmas Eve, Christmas cookies, food, food, food, and sleep, sleep, sleep.

Nancy Swaim: Vacation, food, sleep, and all the other stuff everyone else likes. Ahem! Ahem!

Evilou North: Christmas Eve, sleep, snow (?).

Marilyn Taylor: Christmas morning. . . . Also SLEEP.

Judy Dunlap: Singing carols on Christmas Eve, remembering the meaning of Christmas, and going to the New Year's service with the family.

Shopping Manners Can Be Very Useful, Should Be Observed

Now that the Yuletide season has finally arrived, the annual job of Christmas shopping faces almost everyone. This task usually presents a problem to most teenagers and is put off as long as possible.

Shopping manners, at this time of year, can be very useful and certainly should be observed. Most stores have hired extra clerks and workers to help take care of the many Christmas shoppers. When teenagers buy their Christmas gifts, there are certain rules of etiquette that they should follow.

Respect for others is the most important rule to remember when shopping. With everyone hurrying and rushing to buy their gifts, they sometimes, in their haste, forget their manners.

Respect for the sales personnel is also a considerate thought. Remember, they have been standing all day and are tired too.

SHOPPERS SHOULD have in mind what they wish to buy and the salesgirl should be able to help them faster and more efficiently. When one is not sure what to buy, the salesgirl, after knowing the predicament, can show the shopper the most popular and suitable selections in stock.

If the stores are crowded and there is no help in sight, shoppers should be patient and courteous. They will probably want to look around, and nobody minds this—as long as they are careful to handle the merchandise as carefully as they would treat someone else's clothing. One wouldn't like to have to buy a dress that was wrinkled or soiled.

Shoppers shouldn't go into a fitting room until they've received permission. They also should be considerate and not take half of the store's stock with them. This will only double the work for the busy salesgirls.

STORE EXECUTIVES and workers complain of the rude and thoughtless manner that some people have when trying on clothes. Lipstick smears on new clothes, jammed zippers, and torn seams are a result of a discourteous shopper. Girls should either completely remove their lipstick and shield their lips with a piece of tissue when trying on clothes. Shoppers should also try on their correct size instead of squeezing into too-small clothes.

In order for rushing Christmas shoppers to expect efficient and friendly service, they must be aware that courteous shopping manners are essential.

Holiday Festivities Inspire Creations

There is no doubt about it. Holiday festivities and their high spirits do bring that desire for that special outfit. Maybe it is a formal dance, a Christmas buffet, or a Yuletide gathering of friends; but no matter what, your appearance can add or detract from this gay scene.

The word "party dress" automatically produces visions of something soft, silky, floaty, and fragile. The traditional holiday attires are newly conceived in pure silk, organza, fabulous in fabric, design, and color. Some new colors are dove gray, petal pink, wintergreen mint, candlelight yellow, and of course, angel white. Naturally holly red and garland green are still stunning and appropriate!

To make you feel more spectacular, you can "reign the occasion" in an empire styled creation. You can swing to the stars and brush the snow off the highest evergreen in your trapeze outfit. And if you think you're an angel, one you may simply be by wearing angel white.

Many of the above mentioned require a few greenbacks, and although the spirits are high during the Yuletide season the pocketbooks are low. A solution for the "penniless gal" is for her to hike herself to her nearest box of tree ornaments, pick out a bright and delicate decoration, and she'll be surprised when she realizes what she can do with this plus a small evergreen bough and a red bow!

Another inexpensive article is crystals. Whether it be earrings, a necklace, or bracelet, anyone of these will add the final touch to your holiday costume by reflecting all the gay Christmas colors around you.

If none of this seems to help you or contribute to the solution, remember: Wear your natural smile. Be happy. Follow these two rules and a glow uncomparable to your outfit, will come from your face! This is the most important aspect of our attire. Remember this and have a Merry Christmas!

Peace On Earth Included In Spirit Of Christmas

". . . peace on earth, good will toward men . . ." The song of the carolers fades away, but leaves each one that hears it with a feeling of good will and a hoping for the peace on earth so often prayed for during the Christmas season.

This feeling will last, perhaps, until after the new year; then the good intentions and resolutions are pushed to the back of the mind and petty dislikes take their place. Of course, everyone wishes for world peace, but seldom realize that peace has its roots in the heart of the individual. As each individual becomes more self-centered, world peace becomes harder to obtain.

The "Christmas feeling" is a strong link in the chain leading to lasting peace. If the spirit of good will can be kept throughout the year instead of just until the season is ended, each person will be happier and more satisfied with the life he has led and world peace will be that much closer to our doorstep.

GENERAL MANAGER.....Janet Hicks

The Archer Reindeer

Kelly, the Archer reindeer,
Had a nose as green as Frosh,
She hated to be cheery
When her nose she had to wash.

She used to stand in the stream and scrub
When her friends were having fun.
She scoured her nose; she rubbed and rubbed
But off that green wouldn't come.

One day another reindeer,
Who had a nose red as could be,
(It was Rudolph the Red Nosed Reindeer)
Said "Why don't you team up with me?"

Kelly looked at him and smiled,
Her nose winked on and off.
Rudolph grinned and his nose went wild.
For the North Pole they took off.

You'll see on Christmas evening,
When Santa and his sleigh come 'round.
With Kelly and Rudolph leading,
By planes the sleigh can not be downed.

His nose, her nose blinks in time
To the reindeers pounding hoofs
They lead them through the starry brine,
And land them safely on your roofs.

The moral of this poem (?) is clear,
If your nose is red or green,
Join up with Santa's reindeer,
And only on Christmas be seen.

Kellys Want Sox Filled With Presents

There are all kinds of stockings: argyle, plaid, striped; red, blue, olive green; knee length, danskins, and anklets. But everyone knows that the best kind is Christmas stockings. No one realizes this better than Archers, who really want their stocking packed full of everything worth mentioning and somethings—well, see for yourself.

Carolyn Sievers: Tommy Sands, all wrapped in a blanket of $100 bills.
Merle Baldwin: Two more weeks of Christmas vacation.
Mahmoud Abouzeid: A long hot summer and a diploma.
Barb Eggeman: A real cute trumpet player in 5th period band.
Dick Baxter: My steady, of course.
Mike Gilsdorf: The best stocking filler, of course, legs!
Joan Rothchild: A foot as big as mine.
Bob Schmitz: Another stocking?
Margie Havens: Toes.
Nancy Rose: He wouldn't fit.
Bob Sheray: An A in geometry.
Barb Steiner: Man, I'm all thunk out.
Joan Stanton: A six-foot handsome male.
Larry Levy: A pair of six-foot skiis.
Mary Meily: Well, I've been a naughty girl and Santa isn't gonna visit me.
Sylvia Hanson: A hole in the toe.
Allen Steere: Some toothpaste.
Susie Stauffer: Elvis, straight from Germany, C.O.D.
Dan Bill: A yo-yo string.
Pam Brown: Santa's beard.
Steve Holmes: A pair of danskins.

Assembly Will Feature "Winter Wonderland"

New Organ To Be Used; Choir To Sing; Nativity To Be Portrayed

The annual Christmas Assembly will be presented tomorrow in the gymnasium at 8:20 a.m. by 36 Workshop. Alumni and parents of South Side students who wish to attend may do so.

The theme of the assembly is "Winter Wonderland;" and the choir, under the direction of Mr. Lester Hostetler, will help support this theme. The music department's new organ will also be used.

Miss Lucy Osborne, Mr. Marvin Knigge, Mr. William Applegate, and Mrs. Jack Morey, the 36 Workshop sponsors, have been working with Mary Sue Robertson, Jan Derheimer, and John Meyerholz, the general chairman of the event, in planning the assembly.

Mike Gilsdorf and Stan Hoover, the stagecraft chairmen, have been helping Beth Golden and Molly Dixon, the presentation chairmen, in preparing the assembly for presentation.

SOME OF THE people on the floor adding to the atmosphere of the assembly will be Judy Rumple, Janet Hicks, Crissie Ferguson, Susie Vesey, Tom Cooper, Fred Schoen, Christ Parrott, Bob Keegan, Tom Ogles, Stan Hoover, Bob Mann, Eddie Hartman, Mike Gilsdorf, Charlie Hall, and David Dunstone.

Margo Martindale, Barb Miser, Ann Keirns, and Nancy Hickman will sing "Sleighride;" and Mary Sue Robertson, Mary Kay Hall, and Judy Boyer will sing "White Christmas."

The couples that will polka to the "Christmas Polka" are Susie Starr and Tom Graham, Nancy Bailey and John Meyerholz, Judy Thompson, and Dick McGaw, Ruth Dill and Larry Brown, Marijo Edwards and Bill Lentz, Kay Augspurger and Jerry George, Janet Rupp and Marc Speelmon, and Barb Wallace and Bill Spindler.

* * *

FROSTY THE SNOWMAN will be portrayed by Jack Winder, and Bobbie Jo Crosby will be Susie Snowflake. Judy Riping will be dressed as a skunk and Sharon Zelt will be Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer.

Acting as chipmunks, Posy Weilemann, Franny Hoffman, and John McNett will sing "The Chipmunk Song" under the direction of Dennis McBroom.

Janet Lawry, Margo Dixon, Molly Dixon, Susan Zollars, Pegeen Horth, and Babette Jones will dance to the "Skater's Waltz."

Exerpts from the play "Amahl and the Night Visitors" will add a serious note to the assembly. Phil Spray will be Amahl, and Ron Ehrman will sing "There's a Song in the Air." Joan Littlejohn will portray Amahl's mother, and the three wisemen will be Chuck Jellison, Jim Jackson, and Jim Roth.

* * *

A PORTRAYAL of the Nativity wil lalso be shown in the assembly. Sara Hindman will act as the mother Mary, and Stan Rupnow will be Joseph. The two shepherdesses will be Anna Mae Chen and Marian McCallister, and Richard Daly will speak the part of the shepherd.

The assembly will end with a chorus of "We Wish You a Merry Christmas."

ARE YOU A LATIN?—Making final preparations for the Latin department's special Christmas program are sitting, left to right: Mrs. Grace Welty, Mrs. Anne Redmond, and Miss Edith Reiff; standing, Mr. Fred Hellman and Mr. Earl Sterner. The program will be presented tomorrow afternoon. (Picture by DeHaven)

Archer String Quartet To Play In Youth Concert

The South Side High School string quartet and Victor Rosenbaum, an Indianapolis high school pianist, will entertain Fort Wayne and area teenagers at the second Youth Concert Series January 10, at the Concordia Senior College Auditorium.

Marilyn Sexton, Allen Steere, Anne Sherbondy, and Cindy Miller compose the string quartet which will be featured at the concert, which begins at 7:30 p.m. They will perform one movement of a Beethoven Quartet.

* * *

VICTOR ROSENBAUM was scheduled to appear at the first concert of the series, but was unable to come because of his winning the State Music Contest and performing as soloist with the Indianapolis Symphony Orchestra the same night as the concert. He will perform the Weber "Concert Piece" with the Fort Wayne Philharmonic Sinfonietta.

Besides the guest performers, the other regular features of the concert will be presented: a rehearsal of a work never seen before by the orchestra, selections by the Sinfonietta, and "Music for Fun."

* * *

AFTER THE CONCERT, refreshments will be served in the college cafeteria. At this time, those attending the concert will have a chance to meet the guest artists and members of the orchestra.

At 4 p.m. on Saturday afternoon, January 10, WKJG-TV will present a television program with Igor Buketoff, conductor of the Philharmonic Orchestra in Fort Wayne, and the performers for the concert, Victor Rosenbaum and the South Side String Quartet.

Single admission tickets cost $1 and may be obtained at any time from Merle Baldwin, South Side committee member of the Student Planning Board of the Fort Wayne Philharmonic Student Concert Series.

Namecard Deadline For Seniors Friday!

The deadline for senior namecards is tomorrow. Seniors wishing to purchase cards must order them before this date. The cards may be ordered from the agent in the homeroom. The prices of the cards range from $1.25 to $5, and come in lots of one hundred or two hundred.

Seniors who bought their cards before the Thanksgiving deadline will receive them when they return to school from Christmas vacation. The seniors who order their cards tomorrow will receive them in about a month. The cards are used mainly for graduation invitations but also have many other uses.

South Side Alumni To Be Entertained By Class Of 1959

Committees Chosen For Dance Scheduled Tomorrow Evening

Dancing to Hi-Fi music will be the program for the Alumni Dance tomorrow evening from 8:30 p.m. to 11:30 p.m. in Room 114 and the cafeteria. Seniors and senior class advisers, Miss Mary Graham and Mr. Jake McClure, will host South Side alumni.

Members of the class of 1958, and many in the classes of 1957 and 1956 have received personal invitations.

Lonnie Kimble and Bob Mann are in charge of the dance preparations. Tickets are being sold for 50 cents by Hoy McConnell, ticket chairman, and Janet McClain, Diane Decker, Janet Rupp, Phyllis Springer, Dick Boergert, Joan Goshert, Ruth Ann Farlow, Don Kern, Susan Kuroski, Priscilla Ratican, Robert Simmons, Marvin Todd, Steve Tracey, and senior officers.

Janet Hicks is chairman of the invitations committee which addressed about 500 invitations to the alumni of 1958, 1957, and 1956. Working with her are Sara Hindman and Susan M. Holmes.

BARBARA RONAN is chairman of the decorations committee with Marijo Edwards assisting. Janis Mitchell, Mary Sue Robertson, Sara Lou Miller, Kay Augspurger, Susie Starr, and Margo Martindale are also working on the decorations.

The alumni will be asked to sign a register and will be given tags showing the years of their graduation by Janet Gareiss, chairman of the register and tags committee, Susie Starr, Janet McClain, Linda LeVay, Janet Rupp, Dinah Goodin, Vallory Eckrote, Janice Leist, Marijo Edwards, Margo Martindale, Diane Reiff, Kay Augspurger, and Jan Derheimer.

Kathy Schwalm is chairman of the committee in charge of sending invitations to guests and chaperones. Patti Arnold and Ruth Ann Farlow are working with her.

Arrangements for refreshments are being made by Tom Graham, chairman, Ed Hartman, Marc Speelmon, Stan Rupnow, Bob Bickel, Craig Bradley, and Don Pollock.

THE CLEAN-UP committee is headed by Bob Keegan with Stan Hoover, Tom Graham, Gene Kraus, Bob LeFever, Don Kern, Susie Starr, Barbara Miser, Barbara Ronan, Nancy Hickman, and Ann Keirns assisting.

Bob Mann gave the P.A. announcement. Jeff Clark is supervising the checkroom.

Guests and chaperones for the dance include Mr. and Mrs. R. Nelson Snider, Miss Pauline VanGorder, Mr. and Mrs. Ora M. Davis, Mrs. J. H. McClure, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Meyer, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mann, Mr. and Mrs. Dean Lockwood, Mr. and Mrs. Hoy McConnell, Mr. and Mrs. Christ George, and Mr. and Mrs. Dale Bolyard.

Wilson, Miss Mabel Fortney, Miss Lucy Osborne, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Billiard, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Sterner, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Sidell, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gernand, Mr. and Mrs. George Collyer, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Heine, Mr. J. H. McClure, and Miss Mary Graham.

Abe Lincoln Celebration Starts With Assembly

Dr. Gerald McMurtry Speaks To Student Body On Gettysburg Address

Dr. Gerald McMurtry spoke to the South Side student body Tuesday, December 9, on Abraham Lincoln's Gettysburg Address.

The purpose of the assembly was to kick off the Lincoln Sesquicentennial celebration which is next year. Three South Side teachers, Mr. Robert Gernand, Mr. Don Weaver, and Mr. Fred Hellman, dressed in their reserve uniforms, taught the student body the correct procedure to use when the flag is being shown; and then led the students in the Pledge of Allegiance, and the Star Spangled Banner.

Mr. R. Nelson Snider, principal, introduced Susan McMurtry, who in turn introduced her father, Dr. McMurtry, an authority on Lincoln.

Dr. McMurtry spoke on Lincoln's Address. He explained what the occasion was when he gave the address and told how he wrote it. At the conclusion of the assembly the concert choir sang the Battle Hymn of the Republic.

Before and after the assembly Mr. Jack Loos played the school's new organ.

Philo To Sponsor After-Game Dance

"Contemporary Capers, Philo's January 10 after-game dance, will emphasize simple, effective decorations in black and white," stated Judy Cramer, chairman of the decorations committee. Large pictures of various oddly shaped characters from contemporary cards will adorn one wall, illuminated by spotlights.

Single admission tickets at 50 cents may be purchased from any Philo member.

Aided by Mrs. Evlyn Spray, sponsor, the following committee chairmen have begun preparation: Judy Cramer and Phyllis Springer, decorations; Diane Reiff, programs; Penny Hunt, publicity; Anna Mae Chen, tickets; Ginger Doyle, Hi-Fi and records; Martha Milnor, chaperones; Barb Frederick, cloakroom; and Marcia Swathwood, refreshments.

European Christmas Traditions Differ From American Customs

"What No reindeer or sleigh?" question Kelly and Archie. In the Netherlands, Sinter Klaas, the Dutch gift-giver, rides over the rooftops on a magnificent white horse, and drops toys, trinkets, and sweets through the chimneys.

Assisting Sinter Klaas is a young Moor, Swarte Piet, who carries a bag filled with peppermint cookies for good children and an empty bag to kidnap the bad ones. The poor Moor keeps sliding backward on the horse since the Kellys, who don't dig horseback riding, are clutching Sinter's belt.

In front of fireplaces Dutch children set klompen (wooden shoes) filled with hay for Sinter's horses. Presents are opened with good old American enthusiasm, and Christmas is celebrated as a quiet holiday devoted to religious observances and family gatherings.

"PLEASE PASS the Lutfisk." Lutfisk, as the two puzzled Kellys discover, is part of a luscious smorgasbord prepared by Swedish mothers for the Christmas meal, which is climaxed with rice porridge, and almond cookies filled with whipped cream and strawberry jam. From the ceiling above the table, a huge potato with straws inserted (to insure a good harvest) twirls with the slightest draft.

Enticing packages sealed with vax are placed around the evergreen, which is heaped with trimmings. Aside from the gaiety, Christmas Eve is a time for religious services. Although Christmas Day is December 25, the Christmas season begins December 13 on Lucia Day, celebrating the end of an 18-hour night.

Early in the morning Lucia maidens serenade those still in bed and serve refreshments. Children celebrate at school; laborers, and factory and office workers take long, joyful coffee breaks. In the evening, Swedes flock to bazaars and balls.

* * *

IN ITALY THE Kellys pause to peek into a shop window and gaze at the presepio (nativity scene). Every Roman home and church has a presepio, which was originally introduced by St. Francis of Assisi. Carved from wood and painted, or molded from clay or wax, the nativity characters are cherished by families from year to year. As old carvings become worn from use, new ones are purchased.

Befana, a white-haired old woman attired in multi-colored shawl, long skirt, valance and apron, rides her broomstick on Epiphany, January 6, distributing gifts. She is certainly no witch, for she sees that every Roman child has a new toy.

Similar religious customs are followed in France and Spain, where Saint Nicholas presents gifts on New Year's Day. In Normandy, children go out on Epiphany Eve to meet the three kings on the highway.

* * *

THE YULE LOG, symbol of Christmas in England, is lighted and kept burning throughout the Christmas season. Traditional plum pudding, roast goose, family reunions, gifts, decorations, carols, and parties are included in the day which is devoted to church ceremonies as well as home festivities.

"A Christmas Carol" by Dickens, familiar to our Kellys, illustrates the true English Christmas spirit. The holiday is completed by a pantomime for the children, whose day it is. They are visited by Father Christmas, our own Santa Claus with an English accent.

The German home festival centers around the Christmas tree with presents piled under it. Their distribution is preceded by singing of carols, including "O Tannenbaum" and "Stille Nacht." Church services are attended for real Christmas spirit.

"BACK HOME Again in Indiana," the Kellys view a "Winter Wonderland." "Frosty, the Snow Man," winks merrily, another reminder of the joyous holidays. Remembering "Santa Claus Is Coming to Town," the Kellys visualize gift-laden stockings, Grandma's peppermint canes, vacation, cheerful atmosphere, and radiant faces humbly worshipping in candlelight services.

Although the birth of the Christmas Babe is remembered with many and various traditions by the Dutch, Swedish, Italian, French, English, German, and American, its true purpose is singular, "Peace on earth, good will toward men."

Philalethians Give Christmas Drama

"Christmas in Her Eyes," a short one-act Christmas play was the program for the Philo meeting Monday. Grandma Willard was portrayed by Judy Riping; Judy Willard by Lonnie Kimble. Gloria Ross was played by Cheryl Habecker.

Judy Thompson took the part of Ellen Scott, and Carol Oxenrider played Claire Pendleton. Diane Decker portrayed Freda Dell, while Kate Miller was played by Linda Wightman. Sara Lou Miller was the director; Karen Brumm was her assistant.

The Girls' Trio, Mary Sue Robertson, Mary Kay Hall, and Judy Boyer, sang "Come to the Manger." Cokes and cookies were served.

36 Workshop To Elect New Officers Tonight

Election of officers will highlight the 36 Workshop meeting tonight at 3:30 p.m. in the Greeley Room.

This will be the last meeting of the semester.

Dress rehearsal for the Christmas Assembly will be at 4 p.m.

Designers Associated Will Work On Projects

The January 7 meeting of the Designers' Associated Club will be devoted mainly to working on various individual projects.

Richard Hoff, sophomore, has designed an airplane engine which he was busily drawing to scale at this meeting.

A club project will be discussed at a short business meeting which will follow the program.

KYC's To Elect Officers January 6

"Election of officers will be the program for the January 6 meeting of Know Your City," stated Ann Wilson, president.

Those nominated for the office of president are Ann Wilson, James Drummond, and Joyce Eads.

The vice-president nominees are Nancy Lawson, Nancy Baltes, Richard Dailey, and Gary Leips.

Nominated for secretary are Pat Brown, Lee Jackson, and Bob Smith.

Those nominated for treasurer are Jackie Gilles, Carol Lehman, and Steve Wolf.

Dick Spencer Becomes High Candy Salesman

SELLABLE SALESMAN — Junior Dick Spencer is surrounded by 160 boxes of DeMet's Turtles which he sold during the candy sale. This total made Dick the highest salesman of the campaign. The sale was sponsored by the music department, and each member of the band, orchestra, chorus, and majorettes was responsible for selling at least twelve boxes. (Picture by DeHaven)

Richard Spencer, a junior, sold 160 boxes of DeMet's Turtles to become high salesman in the South Side candy sale, a money-making project sponsored by the music department.

Archers in the instrumental and vocal sections of the music department, and majorettes were each responsible for one carton containing 12 boxes of candy.

Selling 144 boxes, Steve Kunkle ranked second, Dave Disher, who sold 103 boxes, was third, and Mary Collins placed fourth with 100 boxes.

Other top salesmen with their total number of boxes distributed are: Sandy McCombs, 72; Ann Erickson, 48; and Ellen Rudasky, 45.

South To Face Top-Ranked Michigan City, Gerstmeyer

Michigan City Ranked Eighth On State Poll

Tall Red Devil Players May Prove Rugged To Kelly Challengers

Saturday evening's contest with formidable Michigan City is not merely an ordinary game on South's still infant campaign.

If South can trip up the red-hot Red Devils, they will have proved that they are not just a meager city team that can push over the easy, small city teams that they play.

Thus far the Archers have beaten Bluffton, New Haven, Huntington, Auburn, and Concordia. These schools are all comparatively small; and except for Concordia, they represent small towns. Southport, the only school of merit on the schedule thus far, suffered a "blame it on the long bus ride" setback.

* * *

EIGHTH-RANKED Michigan City is certainly no push-over. They have beaten East Chicago Roosevelt, Valparaiso, and South Bend Central. One can certainly expect Michigan City to jam-up the front court in an effort to stop Tom Bolyard; and by observing the ragged play of our low-scoring guards, the Red Devils may get away with such a plan.

Another worry that Coach Reichert will have is a height disadvantage, something that has not confronted the Archers in quite a while.

Even though the Michigan City team, coached by Doug Adams, lost four of their starting five players, they have still come on extremely strong this season and the Archers will certainly impress many if they can stop the Red Devils' winning streak this season.

South To Face Elkhart Blue Blazers In Holiday Tourney December 26

The state champion South Side Archers take on two familiar rivals and a newcomer as they enter a brand new holiday tourney.

Indianapolis Secina's Crusaders are the Green's only new foe in the newly-formed Elkhart Holiday Tourney to be held December 26-27 at North Side Gym in Elkhart. Also battling for championship honors will be Terre Haute Gerstmeyer and host Elkhart.

The tourney, which is to be held on two evenings instead of the normal one, has already had its draw. The pairings send Secina against Gerstmeyer at 7:30 p.m. and South against Elkhart at 9 p.m., both Friday evening. The consolation game the next evening is slated for 7:30 p.m.; while the championship game is to be played at 9 p.m.

* * *

ELKHART LOOKS like the team to beat in this tourney. The Blue Blazers have dropped only two games in five stars, having defeated a strong LaPorte squad, who dumped Gerstmeyer's Black Cats by 20 points last week.

Coach Max Bell will probably start Dale Fonner and Steve Reim, both six footers, at the forward positions. Wally Summers, a 6-1 center, will get the nod in middle position. Two 5-9 guards, Dick Talbert and Jack Merrit, lead the back court prospects for starting positions.

TERRE HAUTE Gerstmeyer, perennial state powerhouse, appears to have a weaker-than-normal squad back in defense of their Sectional crown. The Black Cats, coached by Howard Sharpe, have been state finalists in four of the Cats' six years. Coach Sharpe states, "The squad has good potentialities but will need to improve tremendously." The Cats are playing at a .500 pace, having split even in six starts. Surprisingly, Gerstmeyer's enrollment is slightly over 950 students.

Dick Lawson and Frank Jozsa, 6-1 seniors, are Coach Sharpe's likely choices for the starting forwards. Steve Newton and John Roshel are senior starters in the guard slots; the former measures 6-1 while the latter is only 5-10. Gary Hester, a fine all-around athlete, will start at the center position. His 6-3 frame will be valuable on the boards.

INDIANAPOLIS Secina, possibly the weakest team in the tourney, will average the tallest starting line-up at 6-1. The Crusaders have dropped three of their first five outings, their worst defeat at the hands of city rival Shortridge by an 85-55 score. Coach Joe Sexson, who has coached at Secina for only a year, hopes the team will progress rapidly as the season develops.

He (Sexson) has four lettermen back from a fine 17-6 season. Heading the list is 6-4 team captain Dick Cooks, senior center who averaged 18 points per game last season. Tom Moran and Joe Moorman, 6-0 returnees, are the probable starters at the forward posts. Ray Johns is the other letterman at 6-0 and will start alongside Jerry Ray, 5-9 senior, in the guard slots.

HE'S OUR BOY! One down, three to go! Yes, amazing Tom Bolyard has already shattered one city basketball individual scoring record with three major marks dangling within Bolyard's reach, as he makes a frantic rush to plant his name all over the local record books.

Of course, by now it is well known that Tom has set a city record as well as a school mark by scoring 43 points in one game, that coming last Friday against Auburn on the Red Devils' home floor.

* * *

His tremendous point production eclipsed two school records that he himself had set last week when South trampled previously-unbeaten Huntington, 72-55. Bolyard now holds the all-time South Side record for the most total points scored in one game by one player, 43. He also established a new single game field goal mark at 17. The former is now the school and city record; the latter setting a school mark, but falling one short of the city mark.

Tom Bolyard

* * *

Besides having one city and two school records broken in just six games, Big Tom is threatening to ink his name to several more records. For your observance throughout the current season, listed below are the records and Bolyard's possibilities, assuming he continues his present torrid pace and South plays the minimum of one tourney contest, although one game seems unlikely.

Most Points One Game—City mark, Bolyard 43; old record, Flowers 42; school mark, Bolyard 43; old record, Miller 29.

Most Field Goals One Game—City mark, Flowers, Central, 18.

Most Points One Season (excluding tourney—City mark, Flowers, Central, 435; school mark, Terry Miller, 304; possibility 610.

Most Points Four Years (excluding tourney)—City mark, Kelso, Central, 1,025; school mark, unknown; possibility, 1,071.

Most Points Four Years (including tourney)—City mark, Kelso, Central, 1,139; school mark, unknown; possibility, 1,285.

Should the Green and White be fortunate enough to advance to the final of the Fort Wayne Semi-State, and Bolyard continue averaging 30.5 points per game, he would become the first Fort Wayne lad to score over 1,500 points in his career.

* * *

Speaking of records it's well to see how close the Green came to setting a school record for the most points in one game. They missed the record of 84 set against Hoagland in an 84-36 win in the 1955 Sectionals.

* * *

SIDELINE NOTES—Teddy Lebrecht amazed everyone at the Auburn game Friday when in the first quarter he outjumped Auburn's center, who extended close to six inches over the flashy guard.

* * *

Auburn's bleacher-like seats gave the fans a laugh or two, when in the third stanza a loose ball squirted between several spectators and fell below the seats. A little boy came to the rescue by fetching the ball.

* * *

Don Reichert couldn't be blamed for jumping off the bench when he did in the second period. The officials awarded the ball to South but hended it to Auburn after a brief time out. After Don reminded the referees, he returned to the bench with a wide grin.

* * *

Before the game I joked with Tom Bolyard, asking him if he would hit nine points. He walked to the dressing room after expressing that he would be lucky to net that many!

* * *

Last week the United Press sports-writer for Indiana commented that even though South Side doesn't have the best team in the state this year, they still have a best as he rated our Tom Bolyard way ahead of Muncie's Ron Bonham or Kokomo's Jim Rayl.

* * *

Just prior to his statement the lithe Kokomo star was contained to four points and afterwards on last Saturday Muncie's Bonham was held scoreless from the field by an inexperienced team that had trouble containing much shorter Bill Boyd of Central when Fort Wayne's downtown boys humbled the Richmond five, 91-53.

* * *

His A.P. counterpart continued to neglect South Side in his frequent column despite the Archers' fine showings in six games. When Tom scored his 43 points, the A.P. writer, who naturally favors the hometown Indianapolis schools, merely dismissed Tom's performance by mentioning a 48-point individual production downstate. Not a word was mentioned of South's overwhelming victory, their fourth such triumph in a row.

* * *

I must admit that South Side had their share of publicity last campaign but I know any coach or fan had better think twice before selling this version of the Archers short. Huntington, for one, has found out that the Archers might not be the team they were last year, but still are able to beat the toughest of foes.

* * *

I'm hoping that Michigan City will find out that the "new look" Archers are really tough tomorrow evening. It would sure be a tribute to last year's team if the Kelly's could stop the highly-touted and favored Imps as they topped the Kellys last year in an overtime thriller at Michigan City.

* * *

Many veteran observers have contended that the Kellys are toughest at home. They proved it last year against Terre Haute Gerstmeyer. If we can fill the gym with South Siders from ceiling to floor the possibility of an upset looms even higher. This can be possible because Michigan City fans aren't expected to make the long trek to the Summit City.

* * *

This Christmas should prove no vacation for the hardwood lads. Tuesday night they Travel to Terre Haute for the first time in the second in the second of a home and home annual series with Gerstmeyer. Then back up north with the same squad (Gerstmeyer) to tangle with Elkhart's host Blue Blazers in the night-cap of a double-header opening a two-day holiday tourney matching Gerstmeyer and Indianapolis Secina in the opener. For full details see story in sports section.

* * *

SCOUTING AROUND—North Side sure surprised everyone in Fort Wayne with their performance in a losing cause to Central, 58-54, in an overtime. Central Catholic continued to show progress over the week end by swamping Decatur, 79-60, and upsetting highly-regarded South Bend Washington, 60-56.

* * *

Kokomo finally received their first setback, 68-63, at the hands of fired-up Marion, proving what I have been contending all season—Kokomo just isn't the power in Northeastern Indiana. Since South Bend Central has also stumbled badly this year that leaves Marion the logical claimer of the spoils. But I still say watch South Side, Noblesville, South Bend Washington, and Central Catholic.

* * *

Broad Ripple finally upended the Attucks, 39-38, while Muncie Central and East Chicago Washington's Senators protected their perfect slates to guarantee one-two ratings in this week's A.P. poll.

* * *

Don't be surprised if South Side makes a big climb in the ratings this week, although I think they will be overlooked until the Michigan City contest.

Kellys To Invade Black Cats Next Tuesday

Green Beat Terre Haute Last Campaign, 74-55; Tough Game Expected

By Jim Carter

Improving with each game, South Side's Archers will face a difficult test Tuesday, December 23, against the Black Cats of Terre Haute Gerstmeyer. The game will be played in Terre Haute at the Gerstmeyer Memorial Gym at 7:30 p.m., CST.

The Kelly's foes for their eighth contest are also improving, and they appear to be in the top echelon of Terre Haute hardwood circles again this year. Although not too impressive in their early games, the Wabash Valley boys are coming along steadily toward fielding a very powerful unit. Last year the Green and White defeated the Cats by a score of 74-55, and South also owns a 2-1 edge over Gerstmeyer in the three games between the two schools.

THE MAIN COG of last year's team, which was defeated in the semi-finals of the IHSAA tournament, was 6-6 center Charlie Hall. Hall is now starring for the freshman team at Indiana University, and Coach Howard Sharpe is rebuilding this year. The 1958 edition of the Black Cats is below the perennial Vigo County power's usual standards because of a lack of experience, speed, defense, and rebounding.

One senior returnee from the 1957 starting lineup is Gary Hester, now playing center. He is 6-3 and one of the tallest regulars on the squad.

Other experienced front court performers for Terre Haute are Frank Joza, a 6-3 senior, and Richard Lawson, 6-1. Both boys are veterans of past campaigns.

* * *

A PARTICULARLY bright spot in Coach Sharpe's plans is Larry Motz, who transferred to Gerstmeyer from Pimento High School. Larry is a 6-1 junior and a very talented prospect.

The regular back court is composed of Steve Newton, 6-1, and John Roshel, 5-10. Both players are seniors.

Outside of the starting players, the Black Cats have quite a few underclassmen on the squad. There are four juniors and two sophomores.

Two of the better juniors are guards Bill Reece and Jim Shaw; and a sophomore center, Steve Manwaring, stands 6-6.

AS OF LAST WEEK the Black Cats' record stood at 2-2, with losses coming at the hands of two state powers. After thumping local Honey Creek, 77-47, in their opener, second-rated Indianapolis Attucks set them spinning to a 67-52 defeat. Then they dropped a good Manual team only to lose again to powerful South Bend Adams, 67-48. By game time the Black Cats will have faced third-seeded East Chicago Washington.

Because of the tremendous school spirit at the Terre Haute school, Gerstmeyer will be hard to beat on their home floor. However, Tom Bolyard and company will attempt to do just that next Tuesday night, and it should be quite a battle.

Complete Gerstmeyer roster with probable starters listed first:

Archer Frosh Lose To Tigers

First Defeat Of Season Met By 40-14 Score

By Larry Lee

South Side's freshman basketball team met defeat for the first time in the current campaign at the hands of Central by a score of 40-14 in last Thursday's game at the Tiger gym. The Archers had previously chalked up two victories, beating Central Catholic and Concordia.

A combination of an Archer off-night and a Tiger all-court press spelled defeat for the Green and White.

* * *

NONE OF Coach "Porky" Holt's boys could score with any consistency. Dave Meek copped South's scoring honors, but with only seven points. He might have scored more, but he committed four fouls in the initial period and sat out much of the contest. The Blue and White managed to hold Ken Robinson, South's leading scorer, to a mere four points.

What bothered the Green and White was Central's defense. The Archers could not score during the entire second and third periods.

The Kellys had a little trouble getting the ball past the 10-second line through the Tiger all-court press.

More trouble came later, however. Numerous Archer shots were squarely blocked by their hosts; too many passes went astray into a blue-clad player's hand. This often resulted in a Central score, since a Tiger would dribble the length of the court with the intercepted ball and make an easy lay-up.

Rebounding also meant a difference in the outcome of the game. Coach Robert Dille's taller players out-rebounded South by almost two to one; without the ball, South could not score.

In the first quarter Central jumped to a 4-0 lead and was never behind. South Side narrowed it to 8-6 with 2:30 remaining, but the lads from downtown widened the gap to 13-6 in the first quarter.

The second and third quarters meant famine for the Green-clads. The Archers could muster not one point, while the Blue and White gained 21 tallies.

* * *

SOUTH OUTSCORED Central in the final period; Dave Meek netted four points to pace the Green. The period was filled with substitutions from both teams: Bob Ramage, Larry Gerig, and Don Sievert came off the Archer bench to see action in the few remaining minutes.

Central had fine team balance in scoring. Craig, Beachem, Davis, and Goodson tallied 10, nine, eight, and seven points.

The frosh squad hopes to get back on the victory trail when they face Elmhurst in the Trojans' gym at 4:30 p.m. this evening.

South Side fans are welcome to all Archer freshman games. There is no charge. Archers should take advantage of this year's fine team and loyally support it; the team practices hard and at late hours and certainly deserves the student body's backing. So let's see some South Side rooters in the stands at future games!

Frosh To Play In City Tourney

South Side's Freshman five will take part in the annual City Freshman Basketball Tourney being held at the North Side Gym Saturday.

North Side, South Side, Central, and Central Catholic will compete in the three-session, six-game affair.

There will be two games in the morning with tip-off time 10:30 a.m. and two more in the afternoon starting at 1:30 p.m. with the winners competing with each other for the title and the losers competing for the consolation victory.

A drawing will be held this week to decide the pairings. Central's Tigers loom as top-seeded tourney favorites.

Tom Bolyard Sets City Record As Archers Whip Auburn 80-48; Kellys Win Fourth Straight Game

17 Goals, 9 Foul Shots Totaling 43 Points Smashes '55 Record

Improving steadily, the South Side Archers' "team" came closest to capturing his first game of the season. The big "T," Tom (The Bomb) Bolyard netted 43 points for a new school and city record. His record-smashing total was a mere six points shy of eclipsing the opponents' total of 48 points in South's 80-48 rout of the scrappy Auburn Red Devils five last Friday at the Latter's gym.

Bolyard's 43 points on 17 fielders and nine charity conversions was only half the Bolyard story in South Side's second half routine triumph over the once northeastern Indiana kings. Bolyard helped his mates with timely passing, consistent rebounding, and lightning fast breaks to their fourth straight triumph and fifth in six tries for 1958-59.

OF ABOUT three-fourths of the shots that Bolyard didn't score himself (that's about nine) Tom set up with passe sthrough the arms of two or three Auburn defenders into wide open Kellys for easy scores.

Bolyard, who had been erasing school records for the past two weeks, finally "warmed up" to establish a new city record. Against Central Catholic on January 22, 1955, Johnny Flowers of Central netted 42 points to set a record for individual scoring among city players. Last Saturday Bolyard netted 40, not realizing how close he was to the record.

* * *

BUT FLOWERS' standard only received a six-day extension of duration. Bolyard's new mark seems likely to be reset by him as the infant season grinds on towards tournament time.

Even more amazing than his record total was Bolyard's awesome proficiency from the field both from long range and close under the offensive boards. His 17 goals in 26 tries was good for a .654 percentage. Of the few shots he missed a majority were difficult tip-in shots. From the gift stripe Tom connected nine times in 13 tries for a .692 clip.

As a team the Kellys were astounding against a smaller Auburn team, which offered one of the weaker defenses the big Green has faced in the current campaign. South hit at a .441 rate sinking 30 of 68 from out and 20 of 29 from the foul line, one miss being a free throw of Bolyard's that was disallowed when a Kelly rebounder stepped into the foul lane.

COACH REICHERT had his charges prepared for an expected Auburn stall that never showed signs of materializing. For this reason Bolyard had no hopes of grabbing the record he had so near approached the game before.

After the first quarter, although Tom had surpossed his per quarter average of seven points (after Friday's game it is now 7.6), with eight tallies, the city record seemed out of reach. With South having its troubles with the pesky, determined Red Devils Bolyard's scoring was the least concerning factor of the rugged contest. Then in the third period Bolyard ran his total to 27, still a long distance from the ultimate goal. But 18 points in period number four turned the trick.

Although South never trailed in the contest, the victory required the return of a pepped up squad at the outset of the second half. With the first 16 minutes history, the Kellys left Auburn fans dreaming when seeing their underdog team a scant seven markers behind at 33-26.

BOLYARD SENT the Green and White ahead, 2-0, with a 15-foot jumper. Auburn struck back with a foul shot and a fielder sandwiching a jump shot by Mike Simmons on a pass from Bolyard. Then the Kellys pulled away to a 13-5 lead with 3:14 remaining in the initial stanza. But Davidson and Rieke rallied to the home boys' cause to cut the first-quarter margin to three at 17-14.

Auburn stayed close being outscored by only four points in the second period. With 1:52 gone in the quarter, Auburn cut the gap to 20-19 on a free throw by Short. Then the Green opened up with Bolyard leading the way with his great shooting and quick passes.

SOUTH EXPANDED to a 10-point lead on a tip-in by Bill Meyer at the 2:42 mark at 39-37. By the three-quarters mark the Archers were comfortably on their way to win number five with a 56-35 lead. The Archers continued the relentless attack with a staunch defense and a fast, loose offense paced by Bolyard.

He jumped off to a torrid start at the outset of the last stanza hitting five quick points. When it seemed apparent that Bolyard was on his way to the record his mates began feeding him the ball and Tom came closer. With 3:04 to go he had set a new school record (the third time he has done that this season as he has twice cracked his own record) with 41 points. Then with less than a minute to go he pumped in the record smasher.

* * *

WITH THE RETURN of Bill Meyer, Coach Reichert's problem of finding the best starting team is once again clouded, although Meyer proved he was out of shape being a little slow on defense and experiencing ball-handling problems. He also proved that he is not worthy of unseating Dave Barrett as first-string center, but with more action it seems certain that Bill should have a slot in the corner or in the back court.

Dave Barrett showed continued improvement by scoring 11 while Nick Demetre still shows the shooting willies that have plagued him this year. Demetre passed up several good shots as he did at Southport to pass off to teammates.

Auburn's long-range shooters were the home-town fans' sole consolation. South's potent shot-blocking defense of Bolyard, Barrett, Howe, and Meyer forced the Red Devils to rely on Steve Davidson.

Following are South's individual statistics:

Kelly Reserves Defeat Auburn

Geyer's Archers Record 5th Win By 45-34 Score

Strengthened by the addition of two varsity members, Dave Hickman and Jim Saylors, who are seeking more experience, Bill Geyer's Archer reserves fought hard for two periods but erupted in the second half to post a 45-34 triumph over Auburn's second team for win number five of the season.

Saylors took two periods to warm up before ripping the nets with deadly 20-foot one-handers that iced the game. Saylors, now playing both reserve and limited varsity ball, teamed up with Dave Hickman in the third stanza to send the big Green soaring to a 31-23 lead after holding a slim 15-11 margin at half-time. Steve Burton utilized his uncanny corner jump shot to send the Kellys into the early lead with four fielders in the opening period. Burton then cooled off being held scoreless the rest of the trail, partially because of limited action the rest of the way.

Coach Geyer showed once again his dilemma of having an over-balanced squad that is so great in numbers that Auburn's bench couldn't hold the big squad that should have at least one more cut before Christmas.

Bob Bolyard was slowed down on offense netting only four points, but on defense, Bolyard continued to show signs of following his renowned big brother. Another young brother, Steve Matthias (ex-Archer Dave's brother), also produced a smile from the coaching staff with his fine ball-handling, deadly long shooting, and quick movements.

Dave Hickman and Dave Anderson displayed accurate shooting but were still weak on defense. Saylors' fine outside shooting good for 13 points, all in the last two stanzas, was enlightening, but his wild shooting when closely guarded proved that he still has a long way to come before planting himself firmly on the varsity roster.

Auburn took a brier lead in the second period after officials consumed about three minutes setting the clock for the tip-off. Then Saylors and Hickman started a fast-breaking, quick-shooting attack that lofted the Kellys into the permanent lead. By three quarters they had a 31-23 lead, and eased to a 45-34 win.

Following is the reserves' statistics:

Name	FG	FT	T
Bolyard	0	4	4
Burton	4	0	8
Anderson	3	1	7
Saylors	6	1	13

Riflers Announce Nine Top Shooters

Nine of the ten postal matches sent from Washington, D.C., were shot at Boys' Rifle Club at last Monday's meeting on the range at 3:30 p.m.

The remaining target was shot Monday by the rifler who proved to be the highest scorer during practice.

Nine most accurate riflers in the prone position are: Karl Bosselman, 95; Dave Welch and Bill Batchelder, 93; William Scott, 92; Kenton King and Dale Smith, 91; Dave Briggs, 88; Jim Edwards, 85, and Mike Burnell, 82.

Girl Riflers Shoot Match Targets

Girl's Rifle Club met Tuesday at 3:30 p.m. on the range to shoot National Postal Match targets, which are mailed from Washington, D. C.

Targets are sent to South once a month and mailed back to Washington, D.C., for computation of scores. These results are returned to the rifle club in approximately two weeks.

Participating in the postal matches are Diane Aubrey, Sue Blaising, Carol Dehnert, Mary Ann Gilles, Heidi Hess, Carol Hofer, and Joyce Reynolds.

Because he has a hard schedule, Mr. Thomas Compton has been compelled to withdraw as a sponsor of Girls' Rifle Club. Mrs. Mildred Luse and Mr. Alfred Hemmer will continue as the club's co-sponsors.

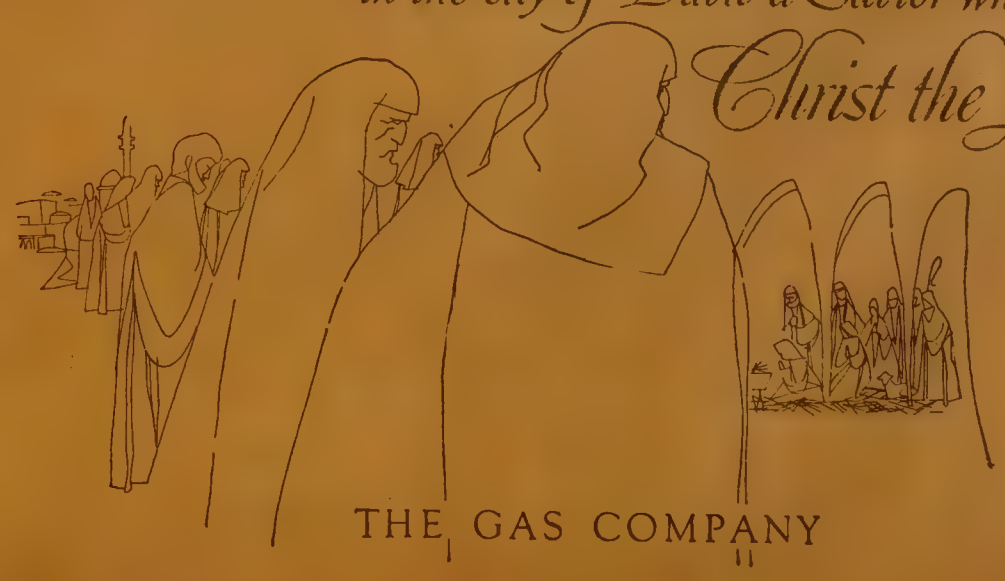
The "Honest Abe" Nickname

We invite you to see this painting "Abraham Lincoln, The Honest Clerk" by Frederick Mizen, in our Lincoln Museum.



IN THE PAINTING ABOVE, Lincoln is shown as a clerk in a grocery store at New Salem, Illinois. The scene is based on the earliest known incident which gave rise to the nickname "Honest Abe". Lincoln had waited on a customer late in the evening and upon opening the store the next morning noticed that he had placed the wrong weight on the balance scales the day before. He is said to have shut up shop immediately and proceeded to deliver a few ounces of goods due the purchaser.

The Crazy Eight sends you bundles of cheer for a Merry, Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

Linda begins with a chanukah blast . . . Which by Christmas will be a thing of the past . . . Gretch is busy; knitting a sweater of blue . . . It's Fred's Christmas gift, if she ever gets through . . . Jolly Mickey has just reformed from a fling . . . The reason she is so happy is . . . She's just been with Bing . . . Suzie and Bob are happy as heck . . . They say, "Merry Christmas," and hope all is well . . . Sal and Dick are having a blast . . . They sure do wish the holiday would last.

Jeannie, our blonde, with her many tricks . . . Shouts greetings to all, just for kicks . . . Little Mieras, herself a bundle of cheer . . . She faces the New Year without any fear . . . Nancy ties up the crowd, cheering away . . . "Everyone enjoy themselves, have a wonderful day."

The Crazy Eight brings their greetings to you—For a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

Madrigal To Sing At Lincoln Bank

Madrigal Choir of South Side will entertain at the Lincoln Bank tonight at 7:30 p.m.

To add variety to the programs, Mr. Lester Hostetler, vocal director, has selected soloists Joyce Brittenham and Judy Rumple, and a trio composed of Judy Boyer, Mary Kay Hall, and Mary Sue Robertson to perform special Christmas arrangements. Pianists are Sally Capps and Sharon Ruhl.
